Dear Colleen,
We are pleased to know that Mennonite Church USA has received a grant to digitize the print files of Gospel Herald and The Mennonite.

You have our full permission to digitize all issues of The Mennonite and make them available for free, with full-text access.

Best wishes in this important endeavor.

Sincerely,

Good Will In Practice

From one end of the world to the other the message of the angels, "Good Will toward Men" has just reverberated, and the joy of a Savior come on earth has been coupled with expressions of good will in the form of countless presents to loved ones and many needy. But is it not strange that the time of good will seems to come to a stand-still among so many with the passing of Christmastide? And yet the extension of good will to others is one of the chief sources, if not the chief source, of happiness. It is the heart of a consecrated Christian life. It is doing exactly what Christ did who constantly "went about doing good," practicing good will in relieving people of their physical ailments and troubles, bringing the water of life and the bread of life to the thirsty and hungry, working a change of heart and salvation in the lives of many. The peculiar feature about exercising good will is, that the more we extend it to others the more we have it for ourselves, the more it comes back to us. What a revolution would take place in the world in this new year of 1941 if all true Christians were to practice good will on all whom they contact. That is the significance of the angelic song that all true followers of Christ should be the disseminators of good will in the home, the community, the nation, and the world. That would be obeying the great commandment, "love our neighbors as ourselves," and that would be doing no more than our Master did. It seems as though this ought to be one of the first, if not the first, and most sacred resolutions, we Christian people should make for the new year and then, with God's help, try to carry it out every day. The present world, in its suffering, bleeding condition, gives innumerable opportunities for the exercise of good will. —T.

THE CONSCRIPTION ACT is the first step in the program of militarizing our beloved country. We have advised all our young men to comply with it inasmuch as provision is made in the act for the exemption of conscientious objectors to war. There are some, however, who refused to register, notably eight theological students in New York. We are not of those who criticise them for the stand they have taken or cast aspersions upon their sincerity or find fault with their consciences. They were willing to go to prison and that settles, for us, the question of their sincerity. There are young people who court publicity but not at that price. These young men are graduates of our best colleges and were fine and honored students in the Seminary. They are convinced that a thorough-going pacifist view will not permit their taking part, even in the first step of the military program. They believe they could not be true to their Christian conviction and comply with the registration for selective service. In our view they are going to extremes, but who of us who really believe in liberty of conscience and who claim the right to differ from the majority, can say that they have not the right to their convictions, or that their consciences are perverted? We have nothing but admiration for young men who have strong Christian convictions and are willing to suffer for them. They are of the salt of the earth. —Lester Hostetler

EMERGENCY RELIEF

The Emergency Relief Board wants to thank all contributors that made it possible in 1940 to make all our monthly payments and especially that we could help in feeding and clothing many in war-stricken areas in Poland, France, and England. The relief will not be less, but more in this winter time. May we ask you again to please send all your contributions for relief to our treasurer, Rev. P. H. Unruh, Goessel, Kansas. He will gladly forward the same as per your wish. May God bless our Work among the poor war-stricken people, especially the children. With New Year Greetings,

The Emergency Relief Board,
John Lichti, Chairman,
Dec. 27, 1940 Deer Creek, Okla.

You can throw yourselves away and merely become a warning. You can lose your souls. O what a loss that is! The degradation of every high and immortal power for an eternity. Will you be lost when One has come from heaven, traveling in the greatness of His strength, and with garments dyed in blood, to guide you home to a Father's house—to an eternal home? —Mark Hopkins

MENNONITES AND THE CIVILIAN SERVICE PROGRAM

By H. A. Fast, Newton, Kansas, January 1, 1941

The "Peace Churches" of America are facing today practically the same situation which confronted the Mennonites in Russia in the seventies of the last century when that country adopted universal compulsory military training. They had the choice, 1) of acepting the provisions of the military organization and advising their young men to enlist in the army and perform noncombatant service ("Sanitaetsdienst"), or 2) they could arrange for government approved "work of national importance" under their own direction and at their own expense, or 3) they could have refused all cooperation with the government and take the consequences.

They chose the second alternative and for 50 years, up to the Russian revolution, carried on a program of forestry service almost entirely at their own expense. Cooperating together for the good of their young men, the Mennonites in their various groups without counting the cost taxed themselves in order that they might arrange for this civilian service to their country and remain true to their conviction on this matter of military training and war. And this group of Mennonites, willing to pay the price for their loyalty to their Master, was able to keep alive their Christian testimony and to preserve through the years a significant Mennonitism. Our history as a people apparently demonstrates that where Mennonite groups started to compromise on the question of participation in military training and war they lost their Christian witness and all but their identity, because this compromise inevitably led them into many other compromises.

The question before American Mennonitism now is how they will answer the challenge of their present choice. Their answer will not only test the reality and depth of their loyalty to Christ and their faith in His way of love but, in the light of Mennonite history, will also determine very largely the whole future of Mennonitism in this country. The choice before them is not entirely an easy one especially since it involves important financial considerations, but we pray that we may be possessed of such high faith and courage and such a measure of spiritual depth and maturity that loyalty to Christ rather than financial considerations shall determine our choice.

According to a plan approved by the President on December 19th, 1940, conscientious objectors judged sincere by local draft boards are to perform "work of national importance" under the direction of the Brethren, Quakers, and the Mennonites. The whole work will be coordinated under the National Service Board for Religious Objectors (headquarters in Washington), an office orginally set up by service committees of Brethren, Quakers, and Mennonites but in which other groups like the Fellowship of Reconciliation, Methodist World Peace Commission, Disciples and others have since become cooperating members.

In accordance with this plan, worked out by Dr. Dykstra, Director of Selective Service, and other members of his staff in consultation with Paul Comly French, Executive Secretary of the above National Service Board, the first four groups mentioned have agreed to administer and finance within the limits of their ability this civilian service program in conjunction with various governmental agencies such as Soil Conservation, Forestry, Land Reclamation, and the like. It is understood that the government will furnish camps (probably abandoned CCC camps) in livable condition with possibly some basic equipment, and furnish also the technical staff to plan and supervise the "work of national importance" together with the necessary machinery and tools. The church groups would have to provide the administrative staff, food, clothing, water, light, heat, medical care, various administrative costs, and all other expenses incident to a well-managed and meaningful camp life. The young men would serve without pay as an expression of the seriousness of their Christian concern and conviction.

In the selection of camp sites those groups are guided by considerations like the following: 1) Where the government would like to undertake "work of national importance." 2) Where camps are available. 3) The distance of travel required for the bulk of our men to reach camp. 4) Possible preferences of our constituent groups.

The cost of maintaining several hundred men in camp for a year at a time is, of course, considerable even when the camp is operated with the strictest efficiency and economy. But when the cost is spread out as widely and as evenly as possible among the membership of the constituency it is surprising how easily it can be taken care of. That is, of course, the way this problem should be handled, because this is after all the concern of the whole church. The stand of our boys on the issues confronting them simply represents the Christian spirit and conviction of the church. How vital this conviction is to us as followers of Jesus will become very evident by the way we will back this work with our support, financially, morally, spiritually. Will we hold just as faithfully to our Christian conviction against participation in military training and war and to our faith in Jesus' way of love even when it touches our pocketbook? God forbid that it should ever be said of Mennonites that they are conscientiously opposed to participation in military training only until it costs them a little money.

It is estimated that if the churches of our denomination would contribute at the rate of fifty (50) cents per member we would have ample funds to finance adequately the expense of carrying on this work for the first six months. Just how the individual congregations proceed to raise their contribution is, of course, their own business. Undoubtedly those who are more able to contribute will, as an expression of their Christian concern, want to make up the lack of those less able so that there be none who will suffer needlessly. But even so, a widespread Christian sharing of the cost of bringing this expression of our loyalty to Jesus' way of life will spiritually be much more wholesome for the life of our churches than a drive for funds.

It is the hope of those charged with administrating camps under Mennonite auspices that the year of service asked of the young men may be made so enriching to their Christian life and character, so enlarging to their insight and experience, and so fruitful in learning the basic lessons together that they will always remember it as one of the most significant experiences of their life. And it is also hoped that the kind and quality of service they render may be of such a high order that there never will be any doubt about it being in fact "work of national importance," nor any doubt about the reality and sincerity of their Christian concern for the good of their country. It is further hoped that the spirit and life of the camp will be of such high quality that it will be an eloquent and convincing witness to the Christian faith we profess and that the very surroundings of the camp, its orderliness, cleanliness, good taste, touches of beauty, and the like will reflect the presence of a spirit ennobled and vitalized from above and thus ennobling everything it touches.

If the people in our churches can catch a vision of the wonderful opportunity God, through this arrangement of the government, has placed at their disposal to work out together with their young men a type of camp life that will protect their health physically, morally and spiritually, provide for growth of character and skill in living, and arrange for a program of service to their fellowmen and their country which they can heartily approve and which gives opportunity to express positively their Christian concern, they will thank God for the opportunity and undertake it with the determination to make the most of it. Paul believed that all things work together for good to them that love the Lord. It is true because those that love the Lord by the power of His love transform every situation into an opportunity. It is our hope that our people because of their love for their Lord, His Kingdom, and their fellowman will transform this situation created by the conscription bill which they did not desire into an opportunity for Christian service.

Outsiders In Our Churches

by Ed. G. Kaufman

During the time of stress in which we live, many outsiders are already beginning to come into Mennonite communities to solicit funds for various causes. Some of these causes may be good. At the same time, Mennonites owe their allegiance and support to their own institutions, missions, and other undertakings. What is more, some of these outsiders misrepresent their causes and come into our communities merely to shear innocent sheep.

Below are some quotations, taken from conference minutes and constitutions, illustrating how our conference has tried to warn and protect our people against that sort of thing by urging our ministers and churches not to allow outsiders to come in without proper credentials from our conference officers. We have divided the quotations into two parts, those applying to the General Conference and those applying to the Western District Conference. No doubt other district conferences also have similar resolutions.

I. General Conference

Resolution 32. Resolved, that we recommend to the churches, that when collections are taken for endeavors which do not proceed from a conference, that such collections be delivered to the respective treasury through the Emergency Relief Commission.

Resolution 33. Resolved, that we recommend to the churches, that they permit no solicitor to collect in the churches, except he have permission to do so from the officers of the respective conferences.

(Translated from Verhandlungen und Berichte der 21. Allgemeinen Konferenz der Mennoniten von Nord Amerika, held from August 31 to September 7, 1917, in the First Mennonite Church at Reedley, California, page 20.)

Resolution 32. Resolved, that we extend Resolution No. 33 of the General Conference at Bluffton, Ohio (the 19th General Conference), to include also ministers who are not known to us and who want to preach in our churches.

II. Western District Conference

By-Law 8, to the Constitution of the Western District Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America:

As to solicitors and ministers who are strangers in our churches be it observed: To safeguard themselves against having their praiseworthy sense of benevolence and gratifying generosity improperly exploited, which would be detrimental to our conference endeavors, conference churches should insist that ministers who are strangers, or other solicitors, produce written credentials signed by the president and the secretary of our Conference before permitting them to preach or solicit funds.

Resolution 6. Resolved, to adopt Recommendation 3 of the Home Mission Committee, as changed by the Conference. This reads as follows: "When outside ministers are invited or when they offer to hold extended meetings, that the churches should see to it that such visitors respect the fundamental tenets of our Church, so that no teachings or views be brought into the churches through which disagreement or even disruptions might be caused."

NO HOPE OF PEACE IN EUROPE? Hopes of a possible peace in Europe were beginning to flicker some days ago, when some of our senators and other peace-minded men suggested to our government that efforts be made to ascertain from the warring nations of Europe on what terms they might be willing to entertain thoughts of a reasonably just peace. This hope has apparently been blasted by the President in his radio address on Sunday evening, Dec. 29, with statements such as "America must become the great arsenal of democracy," "the United States has no right or reason to encourage talk of peace," and that there must be no let-up in furnishing Britain all aid short of war, and until the defeat of the axis powers is accomplished. Now, if England wins or Germany wins the result will be a peace far worse than that dictated by the Treaty of Versailles. It will be a peace without any justice whatever, while a peace negotiated now when it is still uncertain which side will win might at least have some semblance of justice. It is to be regretted that the President's mind and reason are so deaf to any suggestion of peace until one of the foes is totally vanquished, and that the war with its murder and devastation must go on. Unfortunately, too, the President's recent address contained no reference whatever to divine guidance, for which he so fervently prayed on the eve of the election. Since he did not do that is it not the duty of all honest Christians to pray that God may guide the destiny of our land and that He may soon lead us to peace? It also seems that the time has come when we should all write to our representatives in Congress to do all in their power to keep us out of the war. —T.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

HOW CAN OUR CANADIAN AND U. S. CHURCHES GET CLOSER TOGETHER?

After very extensive travels in our Canadian and U. S. churches one cannot help but feel a very definite gulf apparently fixed between our churches in these two countries. We have too little in common, hence are too strange toward each other. U. S. church papers are not read in Canada and Canadian papers are not read in the U. S. The Bundesbote is found in relatively few homes in Canada, and the Mennonite in very few. The one U. S. paper read fairly extensively in Canada is the Newton Herold.

There is no missionary on the field from Canada (Miss Helen Nickel of Waldheim, Sask., being the only exception, yet she, too, is far more at home in the States than in Canada.) So that connecting link does not exist.

The few Canadian students who have been in our U. S. colleges do not yet find a place of service in our Canadian churches. I find a very fair amount of good will and love toward our U. S. colleges in Canada—more than in some areas in our U. S. churches. But our Canadian churches cannot yet use such educated people, largely for reasons of language and finance. So the student and ex-student contact does not exist, which does so much in our U. S. churches to cement ministers and churches together. Itinerary ministers are U. S. ministers for U. S. churches and Canadian ministers for Canadian churches, so that link, too, does not function.

The language problem is somewhat of a cause of the gulf, though we have still a good many churches in the U. S. who continue to use the German language, and a good many of our Canadian churches are and will be forced into using English, because their children from the first grade up think in English, almost without exception. Hence the language will automatically follow and is already frequently in use. So that is not a severe cause of separation.

The occasional missionary visit is one element helping to cement the churches of the two countries together. But missionary visits are too occasional and cannot be systematically followed up.

But I have found one real element of unification and cementing together with mutual understanding. And that is the field secretary. Everywhere I came in Canada, Dr. H. A. Fast is talked of and appreciated. "When will Fast come again?" is asked time and again. All love Fast. Dr. Fast has done a wonderful thing in bringing the churches of these two countries together. But only a beginning has been made—made well, to be sure. But actual visits should now be followed up with proper literature—articles in both U. S. and Canadian papers. Very few of our Canadian co-Mennonites receive all-Mennonite literature. Our total mission program, educational program, publication, relief, etc. is scarcely known.

Would to God that the General Conference, meeting in Pennsylvania next year, will bestir itself to put Dr. Fast or a similar man back in the field!

Impressions of the Mennonite Hymnary

We give here one of the many and most thorough going comments of the new hymnary. It is by a layman: "Feeling elated and thrilled on examining a copy of The Mennonite Hymnary, I sought out those of our church whom we consider our best critics on such matters, and all agree that this is a splendid book with superior qualities and it should become a cherished possession of our people.

"Here are my own reactions after a careful study of the book:

"1. I like its dignified appearance. There isn't the slightest taint of the gaudy about it. Some may consider it a trifle sombre, but I lean toward the conservative.

"2. The binding seems to be very good. The book is flexible yet firm. The covers lie flat and snug and so far show none of the curl caused by drying found in the popular-priced hymn books on the market.

"3. On opening the book one is struck with the clear-cut appearance of the general setup and the clean white paper.

"4. This is a very good piece of presswork; the ink is uniform throughout the book.

"5. I like the uniformity of plates and type faces. The titles are very clear yet not too bold. The general appearance could have been improved by the use of one size smaller type for the page numbers. With but few exceptions the top and bottom margins are uniform and give a well-balanced effect. The plates being new give a very good clear print. If the original plates are being spared and not put on the press at all, I think we are assured of the same clear-cut print in subsequent editions.

"6. There is so very much that pleases and appeals to me about the type of songs, the general arrangement of the book, the Aids to Worship, Responsive Readings, etc. One needs to be a musician to describe adequately the wealth contained in this Hymnary. But I am a printer not a hymn book critic.

"7. Because of the great amount of good material contained in this collection, and the above-mentioned points, we can honestly say without boasting, that in this Hymnary we have what our churches need and need badly. We need not hesitate to place this book into competition with the best or the cheapest books on the market. At the price it is offered, this book has no competitor, and our churches need not now be asked to buy and use this book for the sake of loyalty to our own conference literary and publishing efforts. If they will learn to know it, they will want it."

Why the Church Related College in 1941

By Edward V. Stanford,

President, Villanova College

The thoughtful citizen, who has the feel of the pulse of current opinion, is aware that far-seeing men in every walk of life, facing the danger of disruptive forces at work in our religious, social, economic and political life, are more and more focusing their attention in the necessity of religious and moral education. Today, the fallacy of thinking that religious and moral education can be carried on independently of general education is clearly recognized. The separation of religion from education has, in actual practice, resulted in definite harm to both. This harm is so apparent today that few have the hardihood to deny it. Today, also, it is clearly pointed out that our American form of government was founded upon Christian principles and that it must lean for its security and support upon the adherence to these principles by the general body of our citizens.

The radio address of President Roosevelt some months ago, on the occasion of the White House Conference on "Children in a Democracy" outlined this problem very well in the following quotation:

"Religion, especially, helps children to appreciate life in its wholeness and to develop a deep sense of the sacredness of human personality. In view of the estimate that perhaps one-half of the children in this country are having no regular religious instruction, it is important to consider how provisions can best be made for religious training. In this, we must keep in mind both the wisdom of maintaining the separation of church and state and the great importance of religion in personal and social living."

In the realm of higher education, there has never been complete separation of religion from education that has been effected below the college level, by reason of the widespread system of publicly supported education. In this country, there are more than seven hundred institutions (four-year and two-year) of higher education related to Christian Churches, where the effort is made to inform education with Christian thought and Christian living.

These Church-related colleges can fill a very definite need in the year 1941. The renewed recognition of the importance of religion in education should find an immediately practical response on the campuses of the church-related colleges. The set-up is there. They have faculties with a Christian background and with a broad cultural training. Their several campuses are conveniently placed, with millions of dollars invested in buildings and equipment. Many of these institutions have long and honorable histories, with their roots firmly grounded in the history and traditions of the country, with thousands and thousands of alumni on their rosters who have contributed and are contributing in magnificent fashion to the welfare and progress of our country. No one will deny that in the present emergency, among the faculty and students of these institutions, there is the possibility of arousing a greater awareness of the necessity of a more vital Christian education. In the mind of the public at large, there is need to stimulate greater consciousness of the responsible position which these church colleges hold. A more general awareness of their existence and of their importance, a more general rallying to their support, a more generous supplying to them, through private benefactions, of the resources which are necessary for their continuance and development, would seem to be the part of wisdom in 1941.

Christ's Valuation of Personality

Jesus Heals a Man on the Sabbath Day vs 1-6

Jesus went to eat in the house of a leader among the Pharisees (v1). Those present were unsympathetic and sought occasion to criticize Him. He was always regarded with coldness and suspicion by these (Luke 7:39, 44-46). A helpless man was there, (v2), probably merely an on-looker, who aroused Jesus' sympathy. Jesus raised the old sabbath controversy (Matt. 12:10-13). He puts the question (v3) to the Pharisees before they can criticize Him. They refused to answer and Jesus answers his own question by healing the man. The welfare of a man deserved much more consideration than that of an ox or an ass (v5).

The Pharisees had no pity for the poor man with the dropsy. They were exceedingly religious, but withered in heart. They had not learned that a man is much more valuable than an ass. The teachings and deeds of Jesus have been the greatest force in all history in teaching the world the inherent worth of man, of personality. Jesus did not estimate a person's worth by his outward condition, but by the fact that he has an immortal soul capable of happiness or of misery forever. The capacity of the soul for fellowship with God separates him by an impasable gulf from all lower forms of life. No person was too low in the social scale to receive the attention of Jesus. The supreme evidence of Jesus' high estimate of man is shown in His humbling himself and coming to earth as a man, and His willingness to die on the cross as Savior and Redeemer.

The Path to Honor vs 7-11

We are to look for some deeper meaning than that which appears on the surface. Jesus saw the ill-mannered scramble for the best seats, by those invited to the Pharisee's house. He marked their conduct. He always marks ours. He spoke these words to them. The striving for places of honor was characteristic of those times (Luke 11:43; 20:46) and it surely is not unknown in modern "Christianized" society. Jesus advised them to show a humble spirit (v10) which would merit its due reward of honor.

Jesus' advice has a wide range of application for us in all our relations to our fellowmen. We should seek for ourselves the lowly position rather than the lofty one. Humility goes before honor (Prov. 15:33). Jesus gives a profound and far-reaching application to His parable (v11). Christianity is a great leveling agency, exalting the brother of low degree and reminding the mighty and rich that they too shall pass away.

Jesus' Valuation of the Poor vs 12-14

In these last verses Jesus speaks directly to his host. He tells him, when he makes a feast to invite the poor, the maimed, the blind (v13). He shall not recompense by inviting those who can repay him (v12). These poor are human beings, and though under-privileged, they should be shown consideration because of their inherent worth. Jesus is teaching hospitality on an unselfish plane and pleasing to God. Jesus teaches us that our hospitality should have room for the poor and the lowly. He invites us to experience the joy of unreturned hospitality and the greater joy of the eternal recompense.

What is there about man that makes him worth so much in Jesus' sight?

In how far are personality and character identical?

Why were Jesus' labors primarily in behalf of the common people?

Smith, editor of Peloubet's Select Notes, noted Bible teacher. In his opening address the speaker made ready for the two-week series by preaching repentence and the audience of 2000 people were convinced that he was a man sent from God.—On Dec. 26, the aged Peter Burkhalter, father of the missionaries Lavina Burkhalter (recently deceased) and Martha Burkhalter, India, was buried. —Berne Witness

SERMON SKETCH

by P. J. Wiens, 312 East Fifth, Newton, Kansas

Luke 7:19 "Art thou he that should come, or look we for another?"

The above question may not be out of place at present to assure the believer in the accepted truth and to stimulate the doubtful and unbelieving to a further search for the truth till he also be convinced of the love of God for all men, including himself too.

There was much disputing about the person of Jesus in his lifetime as to the identity of the promised Messiah and the identity of the person of Jesus of Nazareth that walked among them and spoke as no man ever spoke, and performed many miracles as it never had been done before, and still many persons were not convinced because their own ideas about the whole matter differed from the reality unravelling before their eyes. There still is, even at the present time, much questioning as to whether Jesus is the Savior of the World. If all such persons would take their difficulties to Jesus as John the Baptist did, there would be more joy and less unbelief in this world.

The question "Art thou he that should come?" implies that the people at that time were expecting the Messiah's coming but did not recognize Him when He walked among them. Their ground of expectancy dated back to the early morning of history when the first promise was given and reaffirmed later by Moses and all the prophets that followed. But, when God's time had arrived and the Savior was born in Bethlehem, there was no room for him in a home or inn, and the manger in a stable had to serve as his bed. Is there room for him today in the hearts of men, so filled with the doings of this world? Is he welcome with us? Do we accept him as our Lord and Savior, or do we wait for another?

The answer to John's question was given by Jesus directly but not with a "Yes" or "No;" but directing the attention of the inquirers to the happenings there and then at the place, and having seen it, Jesus said unto them, Go your way and tell John what things ye have seen and heard. John would recognize in those deeds the Messiah that should come. He will anew have exclaimed "Behold the Lamb of God."

Although John was satisfied and needed no further proof, nevertheless the Pharisees and Scribes wanted more proof for his claim to the sonship of God, and even Christ's own disciples, one of them said to Jesus, "Lord, show us the Father, and it sufficeth us." Unbelief blinds people and does not please God.

The past Christmas should have proved to us anew that Jesus who was born over 1900 years ago in Bethlehem is the promised Messiah, the redeemer and savior of all men. Therefore shall our hearts be open to him not as a guest but as the owner of our lives. There is room for him in me; is he welcome in your heart too? Yes, he is the one that should come and we look for no other one, but we look for his coming again as his disciples saw him ascending from the Mount of Olives after the completion of his work on earth. Come and bring thy kingdom of peace to earth! Amen.

Mennonite Central Committee Relief Notes

December, 1940

Mrs. Alfred E. Backhouse, London, England: "As an American who has lived many hours in England, I should like to convey to the Mennnoite Society my appreciation of the Relief work which they have been doing on this side of the Atlantic for the afflicted people of Europe. "I feel sure that the vast amount of clothing and generous contributions of money has meant sacrifice to many contributors and I should like them to know that their efforts and kindness have brought relief to many poor people in urgent need."

Ted E. Claassen, London, England, November 11th., letter: "John Barwick who has been working for the Y.M.C.A. in the British prison camps presented to us a request from the British prisoners of war in Germany for Bibles, Testaments and Hymn books. We felt that the Committee would want us to grant this urgent request as surely no nobler work could be done than in supplying the Word of God to those men and supplying them with the means of maintaining and developing their spiritual life, especially as the request came to the Y.M.C.A. from these men themselves. With our consent the Y.M.C.A. has been securing 1600 Bibles and approximately 900 Testaments at a cost of 143 pounds, 6 shillings and 8 pence and a quantity of hymn books at a cost of 35 pounds making a total outlay of 178 pounds, 6 shilling and 8 pence. Investigation was made from a number of firms before a commitment for purchase was made. The Bibles and Testaments will have an imprint on the covers that they are a donation by the Mennonite Central Committee of the U.S.A. and Canada.

"The Hutterian Brethren have again been forced to postpone their sailing owing to uncertainty of present shipping arrangements. They have recently been informed of the possibility of sailing shortly after the middle of November by another line for which the rates would be three times the cost of their previous arrangements. In this case they plan to send only a third as many of their group as previously planned for the first sailing, the rest to follow just as soon as the way opens.

Telegram dated December 2 received from American Consul at Lyon: "Free distribution milk begun today by American Mennonites among infants two to six years in Lyon Communal nursery schools in my presence ten tons to be distributed December to April."

Ernest Bennett, Lyon, France, November 14th., letter: "Yesterday we had a very enjoyable time here when we assisted to move the first shipment of four tons of milk from the customs at Lyon. We were able to get it through without much difficulty as we were assisted by Dr. Lapin, who is the president of the Secours National, and is advising us as to the best means of making the distribution in Lyon. We are finding a very favorable reception to our work here, and I feel we shall have extensive assistance by the authorities . . . We will no doubt adopt the policy of assisting only the most needy cases for the present, and in a sense conserve the bulk of our milk for middle winter when milk supplies will undoubtedly stop. With the milk ration which was lately adopted here in regard to children, there is a little better distribution, and those people with money and milk cards can buy milk.

"For the people had a mind to work."—Neh. 4:6.

What can be accomplished when the people have a mind to work was demonstrated again at the Ephrata Clothing Depot during the months of September to December. From one pound packages to boxes weighing 200 pounds, soap, shoes and clothing (new and used) came pouring into the office from all directions—Ephrata freight and post offices, Akron freight and post office, big transfer trucks passing through, personal trucks, car loads, arms full of loose clothing etc.—besides checks, money orders and straight cash. General Conference Mennonites, Central Conference Mennonites, Brethren in Christ, Church of God in Christ, Mennonites, and others gave liberally and cheerfully for Relief in Europe.

These packages came from California to Delaware, and from South Dakota and Minnesota to Virginia, Tennessee, and Oklahoma. The result of all this effort is as follows:

Sept. 25, 1940, 2373 pounds, valued at $3,201.42.
Nov. 13, 1940, 3860 pounds, valued at $4,707.95.
Dec. 5, 1940, 16,117 pounds, valued at $11,699.90.
Total, 22,350 pounds, valued at $19,609.27.

These figures do not include the baling done at the Mellingers Church, December 4th which was 9,874 pounds valued at $9,245.30. Neither do they include the love, sacrifice, sympathy, work, and money wrapped up in these garments. This willingness to work was carried out to the closing of the last bale, for the people of the Mellinger and Ephrata communities were ever ready to give their services wherever they could help.

Such a spirit will be felt by those who receive your gifts and such a working in His Name will receive a kind Heavenly Father's reward.

Attention is being given all clothing that reached this Depot after December 5th. The M. C. C. again wishes to thank all for this splendid response.—Mrs. M. C. Lehman.

CORRESPONDENCE

MENNONITE CHURCH, BUTTERFIELD, MINN.

Three months have passed since my last report. On Nov. 25 our congregation had its annual meeting. We are glad to report that it has made progress both spiritually and financially. Every organization of the church reported satisfactory results. Rev. Albert Schultz, our pastor, in a brief talk, stressed the fact that we as a church must win souls to Christ. This requires first of all our loyal attendance at every service, much prayer, courage in inviting people to church who do not attend elsewhere. Mr. Albert Linscheid was reelected S. S. superintendent and Erwin Linscheid assistant. We have a senior choir with Rev. Schultz as director, and a junior choir with Mrs. B. J. Rempel as leader. One choir sings every Sunday. On Dec. 24 in the evening we had our children's program. We have had much cold weather, but during the holidays it turned milder. We have already taken a short step into the new year, and we know not what it will bring. But we can trust the Lord who has taken care of us in the past, and look to him for guidance in the future.—Mrs. Ted Linscheid, Corr.

BETHESDA CHURCH, MARION, S. DAK.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elias Tieszen, nee Ruth Marie Trowbridge, were held in our church, Dec. 13. Mrs. Tieszen died at the early age of 24 years and was the mother of two girls and another infant daughter who preceded her in death by a few hours. She was baptized and became a member of a church in Yankton, S. D., when she was twelve years old. Mr. and Mrs. Tieszen attended our church since their marriage.

Members of our choir have brought words and songs of cheer to several homes of the sick. They visited at Dr. and Mrs. Henry P. Tieszens who have recovered from injuries of an automobile accident in October. The choir also visited at the homes of Helena Koehn and Jacob Tiahrt, who suffer with cancer. Another home visited was the Rev. Jacob Schartner home, before he was called home on Dec. 21. His funeral services were held in our church on Christmas Day with a large crowd attending.—Correspondent

POSTER IDEA

Louise Richert, Y. P. representative of the Pacific District, writes, "Enclosed you will find a form which I sent to each member of our Dist. Y. P. Committee, and thus to each church of our Pacific Conference. The idea was that someone in each of the churches make a poster (using the suggestions on this form) to be posted along with the other youth announcements in the church. Of course, the idea was not compulsory, and the only response I have had was from Alice Lehman of Aberdeen Idaho, who writes that their poster is up already."

(The following is the form of suggestions for the poster.)

A UNITED MENNONITE YOUTH IN CHRIST

Why not—

1. Join fellow Christians in these projects:
   Return missionaries to their fields.
   Help Ernst Harder of South America to obtain a Christian education.
   Help support the California Migratory Mission Work.
2. Subscribe to The Mennonite and read "Our Youth Says".
3. Make active us of our Fellowship Prayer Calendars, and Pray!

(The above idea by Miss Richert is excellent, for it can be effectively utilized in acquainting our young people with and reminding them of our Y. P. projects.—R.W.)

What Our Young People Are Doing

Eastern District Project for 1941

In response to several suggestions from our Conference Boards our Y. P. Union has pledged to undertake the following projects for the coming year:

One hundred twenty-five dollars for the support of a Spanish war orphan in France, to assist the work of our Mennonite Central Committee. Long and often shamefully neglected, this type of activity is both timely and a good testimony to our Principles of Non-resistance.

Since the Foreign Mission Board has decided to return to the Foreign Field in China, Rev. and Mrs. P. J. Boehr, well beloved workers and deeply respected by our home folks, the Mission project this year will be $100 for this purpose. These workers are experienced and have a message for those across the waters in the Orient.

We are glad for the opportunity afforded us to assist Ernest Harder, from the Mennonite group in Paraguay, S. A. to complete his education in our Mennonite colleges in the U. S. A. He is preparing himself to minister to our brethern in the Southern Hemisphere, and for this cause we have pledged $75.00.

For the past few years we have included a small sum in the projects to be used in the development of Camp Mennolan. This year we hope to realize the sum of $100 for this purpose in our funds, meanwhile enlisting all volunteers to contribute both time and money so that this worthwhile undertaking may be carried on and the Retreat grounds put in shape for use in the near future. All funds for our project should be mailed promptly to the Treasurer, John Moser, Bechtlesville, Penna.

In addition, our societies have decided to present during the year, one or more copies of the Bible or Testament, to some one in need of the Scriptures, or to workers on the Mission Field, in the native language. (At the Fall C. E. Rally on October 13, there was a hearty response to this project. See O. Y. S. of Nov. 19.)—John Fretz.

Peace Rally: A Peace Rally will be held in the Hoffnungsau Church, Inman, Kansas, on Jan. 19, 1941.

FRIESENS TELL OF WORK WITH INDIANS

Canton, Okla., Dec. 9

"On December 5th we received a check from Mr. J. E. Regier in which was included a gift of $13.80 from the Young People's Committee of the General Conference. Mrs. Friesen and I gratefully acknowledge receipt of the same, and we do thank you. We will use the money in the purchase of literature to be used in the work with the Indians.

"At present we are busy preparing for Christmas. We will have a Christmas program in each of our four churches on different afternoons. The response of the children will not be as well trained as they are in most churches but we are looking forward to our first Christmas with the Indians and feel that they will enter into the real spirit of Christmas."

Yours in His service,
Viola and Arthur Friesen.

Young People's Retreat at Bannock Peak, Idaho

Our Aberdeen Young People, about 45 in number, and their leaders, enjoyed a very fine Retreat last July, 1940. The program that was followed under the theme "Follow Me" was very instructive and helpful.

Our Bible study was in charge of Henry D. Becker and Rev. P. A. Wedel. Miss Emma Ruth of Reedley, Calif. was our visiting speaker and added a great deal to the spiritual part of our Retreat with her message dealing largely with "Youth's challenge to a greater service in God's Kingdom." These messages caused us all to wonder what service the Lord wants of us. We also had on Open Forum which gave opportunity for every one to ask vital questions of our leaders concerning our life problems.

Our program was interchangeably spiced with group singing, quartet numbers, readings and testimonies of individuals. We also had hours of recreation which consisted largely of climbing Bannock Peak, a tall mountain peak, whose top can be reached only after climbing about three miles. To make a round trip of that distance required a lot of energy and courage. Some of us could not climb that distance while others climbed it a number of times during the Retreat. Also in climbing mountains one must know the art of climbing and must be able to persevere. If I remember correctly Bannock Peak is 6,800 feet high. Other recreational features were the playing of games.

And one should not forget the fine meals we ate together. Miss Alice Lehman so ably directed that part of our program. "Let us eat," was the welcome wail of our hostess who so kindly, with the help of others, arranged for our physical needs. Every one had a good appetite after such strenuous exercise as climbing mountain peaks and playing games.

Before retiring at night a quartet sang the beautiful song "Day Is Dying in the West." Our quarters for sleeping for most of us were very primitive. Beds were made in the out-of-doors under the tall pines, pine tree leaves serving as mattresses. Others slept in tents either on their cot or on the ground. But we all rested well. This Young People's Retreat was the first one that I ever attended, but I will never forget it because of the many blessings received. The Retreat's duration was only two days, but they were days well spent.

Our Retreat leaders were: Henry D. Becker, Rev. P. A. Wedel, Miss Emma Ruth, Miss Alice Lehman, Malcolm and Arthur Wenger. —Ellen Mae Wedel

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

HOW CAN GOD BECOME REAL TO ME?

John 4:23, 24; I Cor. 2:9, 10; John 14:7-10

Program for Jan. 19, 1941

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "O Worship the King," "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," "O God, Our Help in Ages Past."
2. Reading of main topic and prayer
3. Male quartet or octet
4. Offering for Peace work

II. Leader's Introduction

The early years of childhood, and the happy years of youth, when life is still free from the many and varied temptations of later years, when days are not yet so filled with worry and responsibility—are especially the time to feel that God is real and close. This is the time when the heart is wide open to His voice as it comes through the song of the birds, the beauty of the green fields, the loving teaching of parents, the Bible stories in Sunday School, the reverent atmosphere of the church services, the influence of song, and the hush of the twilight hour, God is felt to be near and dear, a loving, an ever present guide, one who is almighty and dependable. It is most valuable for later life to learn to realize the presence of God in early life, to have it become part of one's very life from day to day. It will make days more joyous and more meaningful now and in later life.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. God everywhere. Ps. 139.7, 12
2. God real to Enoch
3. Reality of God in trouble. Ps. 46:1-3
4. God real to Job. Job. 42:1-6.
5. God revealed in Christ. Heb. 1:1-3

IV. For Discussion

1. In what ways can we "draw nigh unto God?"
2. How do we know when God is real to someone else?
3. Does fellowship with others in church services and C. E. groups help to make God real to us?

V. Facts for Study

At all times the outstanding thing about men and women of God has been the fact that God has been very real to them. Moses talked to God as friend to friend. The prophets were very sure of God's word to them. They said most emphatically time and again, "Thus saith the Lord." David reveals an intimate life with God in the "Shepherd Psalm." But most clearly we see a life close to God revealed through our Lord Jesus Christ. To Him God was His Father. He took time in his busy life of helpfulness to others to spend alone with God. He taught His disciples "to come apart." And He was conscious of God's presence in the midst of His work. He could look up when surrounded by people and talk to God, and say, "I thank Thee God that Thou hast? ? ? ??

We, too, must learn as Muriel Lester says "to practice the presence of God. This will take time and consecration. But it will pay big dividends. Let us learn from our Master, and follow in His footsteps in this respect, and we will be better able to follow him "all the way."

VI. Illustration

A man who was known to his students for his intimate prayer life, close with God, was secretly watched one night by his students. They wished to hear him commune with God. He read late, closed his book, bowed his head, and said only: "Dear God, things stay between us as they are."

VII. Food for Thought

"I met God in the morning
When my day was at its best
And His presence came like sunrise
Like a glory in my breast.

All day long His presence lingered
All day long He stayed with me,
And we sailed in perfect calmness
O'er a very troubled sea.

Other ships were blown and battered,
Other ships were sore distressed;
But the winds which seemed to drive them
Brought to us sweet peace and rest.

Then I thought of other mornings
With a keen remorse of mind
When I too had left the moorings
With the presence left behind.

And I think I know the secret
Learned from many a troubled way—
You must seek Him in the morning
If you want Him through the day."

MY COMMUNITY'S CHURCHES

January 19, 1941

For Daily Reading:

Jan. 13. The church divided into parts. I Cor. 12:12-27
Jan. 14. One church helps another, 2 Cor. 8:1-4
Jan. 15. Church supports the gospel. 1 Cor. 16:-1-4
Jan. 16. Church is supreme. Eph. 1:20-23
Jan. 17. Church helps its members. Jas. 5:14-16
Jan. 18. Churches not always perfect. 2 Peter 2:1-3
Jan. 19. Topic. Rom. 12:2-10

(If possible, arrange with the other young people's societies in your community for a joint service. This would provide a splendid opportunity to reason together on a vital problem facing youth today. Consult the pastors first and have them present also if they will. If you have access to a mimeograph machine, set up written and attractive announcements of the meeting. A well sketched church would make a good front.)

Not I

Not I, but Christ
Be honored, loved, exalted;
Not I, but Christ
Be seen, be known, be heard;
Not I, but Christ
In every look and action;
Not I, but Christ
In every thought and word.

Scripture Reading. Rom. 12:2-10

Prayer by visiting young person or pastor.

Song, "O Worship the King."

Reading of Daily Reference. (We believe it would be wise to read these references and later discuss the extent to which young people feel their churches are fulfilling their tasks.)

Song, "My Faith Looks Up to Thee."

Discussion—(Be sure someone from each church has a definite part of the discussion assigned to him and then give opportunity for one open discussion.)

1. Why should a young person join a church?
2. What must a person do in addition to joining a church in order to be saved?
3. What effect does our belonging to a church have upon others?
4. Why are some people reluctant to join a church?
5. What is the mission of the churches in any community?
6. What can young people do to help the church to reach these objectives?
7. Enumerate some ways in which the young people have helped or hindered the work of the churches in your community.
8. Discuss together some things that young people could do to upbuild the churches.

Song, "I Would Be True."

Story

"One day Jesus told his friends, the disciples, that soon He was going back to be with the Heavenly Father. For three years these men had tried to be like Jesus, and do the things He said were right. Now that Jesus was going away from them, He wanted to leave them something that would help them to go on doing the same good works. But Jesus knew that the same people who were unfriendly to Him would try to harm the disciples. Because of this, the disciples would need some help in being brave.

"So Jesus said to His friends, 'When I am no longer with you, stay in Jerusalem for a while. I shall pray to the Father to send you another Helper to stay with you forever.' After Jesus had been taken up into heaven the disciples remembered to stay in Jerusalem, although they did not know just exactly how the Helper was to come to them.

"They were soon to find out. One morning when the men were all together, there came from the sky a sound as of a strong wind, filling the house. There appeared flames of what looked like fire, with one pointing over the head of each disciple. This was the sign that the Guide which Jesus had promised them had come; the Holy Spirit who from that time on helped them to know the will of God. That day by the help of the Holy Spirit the disciples led three thousand people to believe on the Lord Jesus and be baptized.

"We call that the beginning of the Christian Church. The Holy Spirit still helps people to know what things they should do, that are pleasing to God. When we feel there are certain good things we should do to help the Church we are being guided by the Spirit. Many people who belong to the Christian Church say each Sunday in the church service, 'I believe in God the Father; I believe in Jesus Christ His Son; I believe in the Holy Spirit.' "

"SHIPS TO SAIL IN THE NEW YEAR"

Program for January 19, 1941

STEWARDSHIP

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude - "Something for Thee," M.H.B., 242.
2. Call to Worship - "In thy presence is fulness of Joy; at the right hand there are pleasures evermore." (Psalm 16:11b.)
3. Worship in Song - "Something for Thee" M.H.B., 242.
4. Worship in Scripture - "The Story of the Pounds," Luke 19:12-26.
5. Worship in Prayer - Leader's Opening Prayer.
6. Special Music - "Take My Life and Let It Be," M.H.B., 251 - by four Juniors.

II. Study Period

Aim - To lead our Juniors toward a fuller realization that all we have belongs to God and we must give an account to Him for what we do.

Introduction: (Connect this lesson with the two preceding lessons.) A true disciple of Jesus must also be a good steward. By good stewardship we mean making the best use of something for someone else to whom it belongs. All that we have belongs to God and God wants us to use it for Him. All of us have the same amount of time, but some are better stewards of God's time than others. Some waste God's time. To some God has given money to be used for Him, but many of them waste God's money. To all of us God has entrusted talents, to some more than to others. Are we good stewards of our talents? Let us learn tonight how to become better stewards of God's gifts.

1. Story - "A Widow Who Was a Good Steward of Money," Luke 21:1-4 - by a Junior girl.

2. Story - "Good and Poor Stewards of Talents," Matt. 25:14-30 - by a Junior boy.

3. Poem by a Junior boy:

> "I looked upon a sea and lo! 'twas dead,
> Although by Hermon's snows and Jordan fed.
> "How come a fate so dire? The tale's soon told.
> All that it got it kept, and fast did it hold.
> "All tributary streams found here their grave,
> Because that sea received, but never gave.
> "O sea that's dead! teach me to know and feel
> That selfish grasp and greed, my doom will seal.
> "And help me, Lord, my best, myself to give,
> That I may others bless, and like Thee live."
> —From Kerr, Hugh T., Children's Missionary Story-Sermons.

4. Story - "The Apostle Paul Was a Good Steward of Time" - by a Junior girl. (Include his work making tents even when busy preaching and traveling, writing letters and preaching when in prison, etc.)

5. Leader's Heart Talk.

III. Mission Minutes

1. Today you will leave India and head homeward by way of Africa. Our General Conference has no mission field in Africa, but since most of our churches, no doubt, know some of the missionaries there, it would be well to stop in for a little visit with them and learn to know more about the work that is being done there.
2. Discuss some of the customs, the problems, etc. connected with the work in Africa.
3. Pray for the missionaries in the various foreign fields.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat the verse of the month.
2. Sing the song of the month.
3. Pray the Prayer of the month, following it with the chorus, "Oh, Come to My Heart, Lord Jesus."

It is unfortunate that superior talent and superior men are so seldom united. —Eschenbach

IN MEMORIAM

REV. JACOB F. SCHARTNER of Marion, S. Dak., was born at Karlswalde, near the city of Astrog, Vohlynia, Russia, on June 12, 1866. When he was eight years old, his parents joined a group of Mennonites who migrated to North America. His mother died shortly before the family embarked on the long journey. His childhood knew the hard work, lack of educational facilities and the sufferings of the early pioneer families.

On Feb. 1 7, 1887 he married Helena Unruh and they settled on a farm that remained their home to the end of his life. During the year 1908 he was called to the ministry of the Mennonite church that bore his name, Schartner church, which has no conference affiliation, and which he served without interruption for 32 years. His sermons were practical and plain, and he quoted much poetry from memory. He collapsed Sept. 27, while delivering his regular Sunday morning sermon. A medical examination disclosed that he was suffering from a cancerous infection of the stomach. From then on he failed fast and after weeks of intensive suffering, death came to his merciful relief on Saturday evening, Dec. 21. Funeral services were held on Christmas Day at the Bethesda Church, with the Rev. A. P. Waltner, J. A. Tieszen, and J. A. Schrag officiating. He is survived by his wife and ten children.

JOHN B. BECKER, son of Benjamin and Susie Becker, was born in Southern Russia, Feb. 22, 1871. In 1874, when he was 3 years of age, he imigrated with his parents to America, where they made their home on a farm near Marion, S. Dak. On July 10, 1889, he was baptized by Elder P. P. Becker and joined the local church. On Aug. 26, 1891, he was married to Anna Ewert. They established their home south of Avon, where they lived together over 49 years.

In 1893 he was not satisfied with his spiritual condition and entered a deeper life with the Savior and received peace in his soul. He had been Supt. of the local Sunday School for many years and was active in such work to his end.

His health had failed him for many years and the cause of his death was "diabetes." He died at 12:30 a. m. Dec. 13, 1940. He reached the age of 69 years, 9 months and 22 days.

He leaves to mourn: his beloved wife, his 2 sons, Henry and Ben, 4 grandchildren; seven brothers; Jacob, Andrew, Isaac, Abraham, Jonas, Tobias, and Frank, all of Marion, S. Dak., except Andrew who resides at Vona, Colo., three sisters, Lena, Mrs. Henry Bolt, and Susie, Mrs. Frank Schroeder, both of Marion, S. Dak., Adina, Mrs. George Fast of Mt. Lake, Minn., and a host of other friends.

CORRESPONDENCE

EDEN CHURCH, MOUNDRIDGE, KANSAS

As the Christmas bells have been slowly fading into silence, we come to the realization of the end of another year. We as congregations should feel very thankful that we could celebrate the birth of our blessed Savior and that we may enter the New Year in peace. What a blessing in this war torn world!

On Nov. 12 we had our annual church meeting and on Dec. 1 our Sunday School business meeting. Our Young People's Bible Study was resumed Dec. 4. A study of the Apostle Peter was taken up. We have had two weddings since our last report. One on Nov. 16, which took place at the Buhler M. B. Church and one at our church, on Nov. 28.

Since the beginning of November our pastor has used some interesting questions of the Bible as texts for his sermon. Some of them were, "Where hast thou gleaned today?" "Adam, where art thou?" "If God be for us, who can be against us?" "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" and "Why stand ye here all the day idle?"

On Dec. 23 the various choirs presented a Christmas program and on Christmas Eve the Junior Sunday School department presented a program. On Dec. 26 the Senior C. E. was in charge of the services. A Christmas program was presented.—On the last Sunday of the year we were pleasantly surprised by having one of our own group, who is at present attending Hartford Seminary, fill the pulpit. Brother Peter W. Goering used Psalm 2:1 as his text. He brought to our attention the horrors of modern wars. May the Lord find many more who are willing to give themselves for His service.—Richard Schrag, Corresp.

MENNONITE CHURCH, LANGDON, N. DAK.

Greetings to all the readers:

Here we are again at the end of another year. To many it has been a year of success and happiness, to others of dissappointment and sorrow. Dec. 22 was a day of grief and sorrow for Mr. and Mrs. Abe Toews and family in that their infant son was burned seriously by spilling kerosene over his little body, which caught fire, and he died nine hours later in a hospital. A very sad funeral was held on Dec. 26, in the Bethel Mennonite church, where Rev. P. Toews, of their home church, Rev. Mastry of Park River, and Rev. Penner of Manitoba, Canada, spoke words of comfort to the grief-striken family. They know their little darling is resting safely in the arms of Jesus, waiting for them. Grandma, Mrs. Martin Penner, was sick for several weeks with heart trouble, but was again able to attend the Christmas program given Dec. 23 in our church. The weather has been very mild so far, except for a few days the first part of December. We have very little snow, which makes it easier all around. Since this is my last report as correspondent to The Mennonite, I'm wishing you and all the readers a very happy New Year and may it bring peace to the warring nations is my wish and prayer.—Mrs. I. Veer, Corr.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—From Rev. Henry Funk, Calumet, Oklahoma,— Dear Brother Editor—Please publish this announcement: I have resigned as Pastor of the Bethel Hydro Church, Hydro, Okla. Please send all correspondence to John A. Entz, Weatherford, Okla., church leader for 1941. —Yours in His service, Henry Funk.

—Emmanuel Menn. Church, Pratum, Ore.—We are indeed happy to report that our new pastor, Bro. Daniel J. Unruh and family, arrived on Dec. 4th. Definite steps are being taken for effective work in the coming year.—The usual Christmas services were a real blessing to all who were able to attend. An epidemic of flu hindered many from coming, and it was also necessary to make last minute changes in the programs. The annual business meeting of the congregation was held on New Year's evening.

—Mrs. J. L. Merryman

—EICHER EMMANUEL CHURCH, NOBLE, IO. —Last spring a dime project was presented to our church school. Each member had the privilege of taking 2 dimes to start some project, the proceeds of which were to be returned this fall. On Nov. 24 the results were brought in. A short program was given in connection with the giving of the gifts. The total offering amounted to $61.88.

Dec. 1-8. The Rev. Earl Salzman of Topeka, Ind., was our guest speaker for the week. He gave us very inspiring evangelistic messages every evening. The results of such messages cannot be counted in dollars and cents but we know that each one who came with an open mind and heart received a blessing from their Heavenly Father.

—Jesus lived in a day when leading Israelites either forgot or so twisted the meaning of the tithe that it no longer expressed the intent of God. In the light of this the following simple answer by a man of experience to a group of sincere Christians is heartening: "If those who have complained of the finances of a Church had given according to ability and in the spirit of those who have not complained, there would seldom be found financial difficulties in Churches. It would mostly be a matter of distributing the money in the wisest and most Christlike way." If we keep our definitions straight the leadings of Good will become clear.

—West Zion Church at Moundridge, Kans., has the honor of being the first congregation to order and receive "The Mennonite Hymnary." They handed the treasurer of the Board of Publication a check for $300 some months ago, thus showing real faith in the venture of the new book before they had a chance to see it. The Eden Mennonite Church near Moundridge and a couple of other churches and individuals did the same laudable thing.

—One of our young ministers thinks that the obituaries are taking up too much space in The Mennonite, saying: "Why not publish the name and address of the deceased and let any one who is interested in knowing more inquire of relatives or others through letter.—Why not have more biographies of the living?—It is true, some of the obituaries are unnecessarily long. But wounded hearts are soothed by these write-ups. The General Conference has passed a resolution to the effect that obituaries of persons who have done worth while service in our conferences may be published rather full, those of individuals little known should be correspondingly shortened by the editor. But what is he to do when he does not know the deceased. The problem could be solved if the minister would write the article. —Ed.

GONE, BUT LOVINGLY REMEMBERED

Miss Minnie Schmidt, valued member of the Bethel College staff, took suddenly and seriously sick on Christmas day and was rushed to the Bethel Hospital, where in the course of time two operations were performed to save her life. But this was not to be, for she passed away on the morning of January 2. Miss Schmidt served the college as manager of the Book store and assistant postmistress and was loved and respected for her cheerful disposition, her conscientious, courteous service. She will be greatly missed and will be hard to replace. Funeral services were held Saturday at the college chapel just as this paper was going to press.

—Mountain Lake, Minn. Community.—There are 11 Silver and Golden Wedding possibilities during the coming year: Mr. and Mrs. Jacob A. Wiebe, March 16; Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Ratzlaff, March 23; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Toews, July 12; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Willems, Oct. 8; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ratzlaff, Oct. 12; Mr. and Mrs. John S. Friesen, Oct. 18; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. P. Harder, Nov. 26; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hooge, Delft, Dec. 20.—The Menn. S. Schools held a meeting on New Year's Day afternoon and evening. The themes of the afternoon talks were on "Faithfulness." In the evening Miss Anna Quiring, missionary to Africa, and Rev. Peter Reimer, missionary candidate to S. America gave addresses.

—Mt. Lake Observer

Assurance of hope is more than life. It is health, strength, power, vigor, energy, manliness. —Riley

—Bethany Church, Freeman, S. D. announces in its Bulletin that from now on all membership dues are to be reported as they stand at the time when the treasurer closes his books, with unpaid dues appearing as arrears. This seems a good idea, for it is the general experience of churches that some members are slow, too slow, to pay their dues for blessings received at the hands of the church.

—First Church, Allentown, Pa.—The White Gift Christmas service was well attended. Besides a lot of groceries received for the Quakertown Children's Home and the Mennonite Home at Fredricksburg, the amount of money received was $185.37, allotted as follows: Children's Home, $63.50; Mennonite Home, $121.87.—The Intermediate C. E. Society went out carolling on Christmas evening. They made fourteen calls and received Christmas cookies and $8.50 in cash.

—The Bethel College Church held its annual meeting as usual on New Year's Day, with Dr. E. L. Harshbarger as chairman. The families meet in the College dining hall for a common meal and social hour. Then they proceed to the Chapel for devotion, followed by the business meeting. Everything passed off smoothly as it behooves a body of Christians. Enough money was already on hand to buy 212 Mennonite Hymnaries and enough more was voted to buy 300 copies. This brought the annual budget to $3120.00.

Feed the Hungry

Feed the hungry, clothe the naked, visit the sick and the imprisoned are injunctions that Christ left with his followers to heed as the second great commandment, intended especially for them. Today the world is full of the most horrible suffering. In Europe there are millions of victims and millions more in China. Jesus ended his discourse about the Christians' duty to their fellowmen with these words, "Inasmuch as you did do these things to one of these my brethren, even unto the least, you did them unto me." And to those failing to do these things he said, "Inasmuch as you did not do it unto one of these least, you did it not unto me," and their punishment was promised. Should not the Christians of America begin to realize that Christ has a challenge for them in the terrible suffering of millions, especially of children. With a membership of 55,000,000, many huge armies, does it not seem that, unitedly, they might find a way to do this Samaritan work in spite of politics and war propaganda? Perhaps what the good Quaker Herbert Hoover could not do, now, as he did in the World War, a united Christianity of America could do. The present war is apparently getting to be another war to save democracy. And yet the democracies that are still free are willing to see their fellow compatriots in the occupied territories die of want, for fear that succoring them would aid the enemy. That is a question, for a trial has not been made through American agencies. The contention of this editorial is that the American churches are not doing their duty in this crisis, and God can hardly forgive them if they do not rise and exert their power of Christian love, by taking this feeding problem into their hands, in the spirit of Christ, and approach the belligerents with a plan to feed the starving portions of Europe. If all were united, or at least a majority, it should not be an impossibility to load a score of ships with food, clothing, medicines and send them across the Atlantic as good Samaritans under the protection of flags of peace and truce. Would England dare to hinder the work? Would Germany? —T.

A London Editorial in "Peace News"

It is strange and ominous how successful the Government and the press have been in creating confusion in men's minds on the subject of the food-blockade of Europe. We talk—the Government talks—as though the fact of the matter were that we were regretfully compelled to prevent food supplies entering the occupied territories because Germany would use them for her own purposes. Granted the legitimacy of blockade as a war-method, the decision sounds almost reasonable. In order to maintain this appearance of reasonableness, the essential points of Mr. Hoover's proposal have been carefully concealed. To our knowledge, only The Times and The Manchester Guardian have divulged them to their readers. . . .

That we should encourage such a scheme as Mr. Hoover's is the acid test of the sincerity of our contention that we are reluctantly compelled to deprive the occupied territories of their supplies of imported food-stuffs. The smothering of the Hoover proposals indicates very plainly that the food-blockade of the neutrals and our former friends is an integral part of our food-blockade of Germany. We intend, if we can, to produce a condition of famine in the occupied countries in order that Germany shall be compelled to feed them from her own food supplies.

For what does this policy of enforcing a food-blockade on the occupied territories amount to? What does it mean in fact? It means that we are reckoning on Germany being less blackguardly than ourselves. . . .

The moral degradation of that is unspeakable. Unless we have the serious intention of being more coldly brutal than the Nazis, there is no sense in the policy at all. Its "success' depends upon this. Starvation of your enemies is bad enough; but this starvation of your friends in order that your enemy may starve himself by feeding them is worse by a whole dimension of infamy. It touches a nadir of inhumanity. . . .

But it is not merely inhuman; it is a political blunder of the first magnitude. A mortal enemy of Britain could conceive no more effective way of consoldating Europe in destestation of this country and of fostering the determination that sea-power shall be taken from a nation unworthy to exercise it. The idea that the starving neutrals will rise in revolt against Germany is a sinister fantasy. If it comes to starvation, the neutrals will simply hate us with a righteous hatred. And Herr Hitler will not fail to improve the occasion. He will appear as the champion of Europe against our cold and brutal selfishness. . . .

—Rev. G. A. Linscheid, retired missionary, Newton, Kansas, finds a good many occasions for service. For some months he has been preaching for the Emmanuel church near Canton, Kansas, and reports: Are having very good meetings here. At the church meeting various matters were acted upon and the positions filled with officers. There is a general spirit of wanting to be up and doing. A group of young people have expressed their desire to be prepared for admission to church membership.

Budgets of Conference Boards and Committies

For the year 1941

1. Board of Foreign Missions ______ $75,000,000
2. Board of Home Missions ________ $22,000,000
3. Board of Publication

If each church will kindly and conscientiously follow the conference resolution, to take up at least one offering each year for the work of publication, and make it a liberal offering this year, this Board will be sincerely grateful.

4. Board of Education _______________ $2,500
5. Peace Committee

Travelling Expenses _______	$ 250.00
Central Mennonite Com. ___	1500.00

Our Peace Work

Dear Editor:

The MENNONITE of December 31, 1940, carries a timely and well-written article entitled, "National Service Board for Religious Objectors." As treasurer of the General Conference Peace Committee, upon whom there is placed the obligation of implementing this program as far as our own group of Mennonites is concerned, may I add a postscript to the effect that "work of national importance" by conscientious objectors under civilian direction will, and already has, greatly increased the financial burden of the Peace Committee. Every congregation ought to feel itself under obligation to provide funds as it is able. It may also be well to point out that the Selective Service Act will be in effect for five years. Congregations and individuals should therefore make the matter of contributing to the Peace Committee a more or less permanent policy. In conclusion I wish to express the deep gratitude of the Peace Committee to all the donors, churches large and small, whose response has enabled us to meet all financial obligations promptly.

Sincerely yours, L. J. Horsch, Treas.
General Conf. Peace Committee

P. S. After January 20 my address will be Ontario, California.

BIBLE SCHOOL
KAI CHOW EDUCATIONAL WORK
KAI CHOW EVANGELISTIC WORK

July 20, 1940

Brethren of the Mission Board: In general, conditions remain about the same through this section of the field, especially is this true as far as the country is concerned. As to the city the Japanese occupation in June has made some difference. The number of people in the city is less and schools were suspended when most of the people left with their children. Now they are gradually coming back but it will doubtless be some time before conditions will approach normal. As far as peace and order is concerned there is no trouble now.

In June Mrs. Pannabecker and I made a trip to Peking; partly to be present at the commencement exercises of our eldest son, Richard, who graduated from High School, and partly to take care of business. After attending to these matters, Mrs. Pannabecker went on the Peitaiho with the children for the summer and I returned for work here. I hope to go out and be with them in August. As to the business end of the trip, I handled about $8000 worth of business for mission, and individuals. Such matters are much more involved than formerly because we can buy practically nothing in the interior and have to get goods in from the city ourselves. Transportation over land and in this case becomes quite a problem. This time we had six tons of stuff hauled 100 miles over land by cart and wheelbarrow.

BIBLE SCHOOL — Attendance the highest in history for this year, graduates from regular course (HS grade) 5, and from elementary course 7. Work program results were successful in the main. We are making improvements as time goes on in this. Two of the teachers, Mr. Chang and Mr. Wang were ordained during the year. They are both good dependable men and are finding opportunities for service throughout the field. During the first part of July they each had charge of retreats at difficult places throughout the field.

The budget is running a deficit largely because I estimated the coal and kerosene expenses for the year too low. Put in coal supply in the spring for next winter but will need much more kerosene.

EDUCATIONAL WORK — As noted above the city school closed early, a couple of weeks before examination time. The graduating students have returned for special review and examinations but the rest will be accepted next fall on the basis of the class and monthly examination grades. We expect the enrollment will be less next fall but are planning on continuing on the best basis we can.

Hua Mei school closed the year without interruption. The first year of Senior Middle School was carried through and plans are on foot looking toward adding the second year next fall. The principal reports 364 primary students, 213 Middle school students, total 577. Of these one-half were from Christian homes and a few over 70 baptized.

EVANGELISTIC WORK — Both city and East Suburb work has continued without interruption. A Retreat for Chinese workers was held the first part of July and seemed to show good results for all. Rev. Wu of the Free Methodist Mission in Kaifeng was the leader with local help. Hordes of refugees crowded the compounds during June when the turn-over took place. In spite of the disadvantages of this occupation it gave opportunity for preaching which we used to the best advantage.

Sincerely, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Pannabecker

PEACE BE UNTO YOU!

Every battle of the warrior is with confused noise, and garments rolled in blood; but this shall even be for burning and fuel of fire. For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given: and the government shall be upon His shoulder: and His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The Mighty God, The Everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace (Isaiah 9: 5 & 6). He maketh wars to cease unto the end of the earth; He breaketh the bow and cutteth the spear in sunder; He burneth the chariot in the fire (Psalms 26:9). They shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruninghooks: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more (Micah 4:3).

May Christmas, full of joy and cheer,—
New Year's prosperity—carry toward our home so dear
us,—to eternity.
He, who was born in a stall,
on Calvary's cross once died, direct us, wayward people, all to morning through the night.
As blissful children, faithful men,
True unto victory,
Lead us, lead us, O Lord! Amen!
Homeward we follow Thee.

Being unable to thank all the kind people individually who have added to our Christmas cheer by their fine Christmas cards, we wish to send them our greetings, and to thank them in this way for the encouragement which they have given us. At first, we tried faithfully to send cards to all our friends whose love has been such a great blessing to us, but we soon found out that it was impossible for us and that we must remain your debtors. May the Lord repay you for what you have done to us.

We hope you have had a merry Christmas, rich by God's blessings, and wish you a New Year in which the right hand of the Almighty may guide you day after day until we meet again, if not here then on yon shore where we will meet, never to part again.

Yours in the Lord, Eliese and Jacob H. Jantzen,

EARLY SESSION OF W. D. MINISTER'S CONFERENCE

Dear Brother Pastor:

Due to important recent developments in connection with the operation of the Civilian Work Camp it has been suggested to have the Spring Minister's Conference meet earlier than usual. It is very necessary to get the latest information to our churches. For that reason all pastors and church officers are especially requested to be present.

The Ministers' Conference will be held Tuesday, January 28, 1941, at the Zion Mennonite Church, Elbing, Kansas.

—H. N. Harder, Chm., H. E. Miller Sec.

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

Explanation: For four years The Mennonite has featured weekly sermon sketches. While some appreciated them, we have been wondering if the average reader evaluated them for their real worth. For this reason and in the belief that there is truth in the old saying, "Variety is the spice of life," we thought we would try, as a substitute, a brief devotional message for each day. We have asked each of twelve brethren to furnish the messages for one month. Since the January appointee has found it impossible to serve, we shall bring, for the last two weeks of the month meditations by Frank E. Gaebelein, Litt. D., Stony Brook School for Boys, in "The Presbytrian."

January 17. "That in all things he might have the preeminence" (Col. 1:18).

Let this be our motto for the month which lies before us. While the words relate, according to the context, to the primacy of position which God has given His Son, surely Christians are warranted in applying them in a personal sense. If God has not hesitated to create all things by Christ, to set Him before all things, and to give Him the headship of the Church, then can we, who are His own sheep, fail to give Him the pre-eminence in our little lives? One of the newer translations puts the clause this way: "That He Himself may in all things occupy the first place. What lives we may live for Him this month if, through His gracious Spirit, we give Him "the first place in all things—in business and pleasure, in mind and will, in love and affection, in joy and in sorrow!"

January 18. "If indeed you are still firmly holding to faith as your foundation without ever shifting from your hope that rests on the Gospel that you have heard" (Col. 1:23, Weymouth).

This is the latter part of a long sentence. In the two preceding verses the thought is that God has now in Christ's human body reconciled His erstwhile enemies to Himself. And our verse for today gives us the condition of this reconciliation. How faith is emphasized here! It is presented as something firmly to be held as a foundation, something to be seized "without ever shifting." And the basis of it is hope, a hope that rests on the Gospel. Ah, there is a true anchor of men's souls. We hear much these days of catch words, such as "a changing age" and a "changing social order." Well, all things human may indeed change, but our hope remains firm so long as it rests on the Gospel which we have heard from God out of His Book.

January 19. "A minister, according to the dispensation of God which is given to me for you, to fulfill the word of God" (Col. 1:25).

Paul is speaking of himself. By "the dispensation of God" he means the position of responsibility which God has entrusted to him, not for his own benefit, but for that of the Christians at Colosse and elsewhere. The great apostle had a keen sense of responsibility. He knew the obligation of his office. Do you, my friend? You are not in the place of a Paul but wherever you are, God has given you some special responsibility! Perhaps you are a parent. If so, what an exhaulted place is yours! Or you may be engaged in that most vital work of teaching ministering to Christ's little ones. Or you may be a physician of men's bodies, or a physician to their souls, or an administrator of God's money. The main thing is how you are using "the dispensation of God" which is given to you not for yourself but for others. Are you really using it for others?

January 20. "Our dear and trusty brother, Onesimus" (Col. 4:9, Weymouth).

Here is an example of what the Gospel can do. The Onesimus mentioned in this verse is the former runaway slave in whose behalf Paul wrote his marvelously tactful letter to Philemon. What great things Christ had done for Onesimus! The fugitive's crime had consisted of theft. But in Christ he was not only forgiven but so transformed that the dishonest and untrustworthy servant became the "dear and trusty brother, Onesimus." Yes, the Lord Jesus knows our every weakness, and is able to change our defeats into victories, so that the very places of failure in our lives become our strength in Him.

January 21. "Demas hath forsaken me, having loved this present world" (II Tim. 4:10). ....

A tragic epitaph upon a Christian life! Demas was privileged as few men; he had the signal honor of being in personal fellowship with the great apostle to the Gentiles. By the simple virtue of faithfulness he might have had all the renown of a Timothy or a Luke. But he sold the undying praise of God for a few hours of idolatrous occupation with the world. He exchanged the company of the prisoner of the Lord for the tinsel and trinkets of sin. There is a lesson in Demas's failure. For one thing, it shows us that fellowship with even the greatest saint is not enough to keep the erring heart from compromise with the world. Sitting under a great Bible teacher, belonging to a church where a true man of God is pastor, these are privileges, but nothing more. We do not go to heaven through another's faith, nor do we hold our testimony undefiled through the sanctity of others. Only a heart-occupation with the Lord Jesus can deliver us from the Demas-tragedy. God forbid that we should today, even in a single minor issue, love the world more than Him.

January 22. "Rejoice because your names are written" (Luke 10:20).

Significant are the things that give us pleasure. Announce to a man that he has inherited a million dollars and he will be overwhelmed with joy. Why? Simply because he knows what money is and has some appreciation of its value. But how sad is the contrast when one announces the glad tidings of salvation. Salvation, the certainty of heaven, the blessedness of eternity with Christ and the saints in glory—these things are preached day after day into the ears of congregations. And there the listeners sit—solemn-faced and apathetic. Can it be that these who profess the Name of Christ lack appreciation of the value of the salvation the Lord Jesus bought with His own blood? "Your name is written in heaven." Christian, your Lord says that to you.

January 23. "Do not I hate them, O Lord, that hate thee?" (Psalm 139:21).

Do you want to make a searching test of your scale of morality? Then ask yourself this one brief question. "Do I hate what God hates?" It is right here, as in other places, that the world gets God's standards backwards. God hates sin. That is the moral foundation of the universe. Man loves sin. That is the reason why the world is lost. God loves the sinner. That is why Christ died a ransom for many. Man despises the sinner and looks down upon his degradation. And in that he once more reverses God's perfect moral scale. Oh, how we Christians need the divine abhorrence of sin—sin in any form, whether loathsome or attractive! May we who name the Name of Christ be more uncompromising in our hatred of sin and more tender in our treatment of the poor lost sheep. May the Lord help us to hate the things He hates!

January 24. "God is faithful" (I Cor. 1:9).

In those three words are concentrated the spiritual resources on which our hopes for time and eternity are based. "God is faithful." What a promise that is! Because He is faithful, He will not let go a single soul who has come to Him through faith in Christ. Because He is faithful, He will keep everyone of the precious promises with which His word abounds. Because He is faithful. He will ultimately put down evil and enthrone righteousness. Because He is faithful, He will take care of His children perfectly. Yes, God is faithful! May we write these words large upon our hearts, and so find deliverance from the fear and worry that so easily beset us.

—Ebenezer Mennonite Church, Bluffton, Ohio.— Our yearly church busines meeting was held on New Year's Day. During the progress of the meeting it was with deep regret that the resignation of our pastor Rev. P. A. Kliewer was considered and accepted. This will take effect on Easter Sunday of this year. In his closing report he used I Cor. 2:1-6 as the basis for his work of eleven years of ministry with us. "Our loss is somebody else's gain." —Corr.

THE SLIGHTED INVITATION

Despising God's Invitation vs 15-21

One of those who heard Jesus' words at the Phasisees' feast became quite enthusiastic and also appears to speak in self-congratulation (v15). The rabbis taught that the Messianic age would be ushered in by a great feast and that ALL ISRAEL would be there, while the Gentiles would be altogether excluded. The guest's words gave Jesus an opportunity to state some important truths in parable form. He showed that many of the Jews who were congratulating themselves on their privileges, were in reality rejecting the kingdom invitation. On the other hand, many Gentiles would gladly accept the invitation.

In our lesson and in Matt. 22:1-14, Christ likens the gospel blessings to a great supper or feast for which an abundance of provisions has been prepared. In the spiritual feast which God has provided, every need of the soul is met. We need not suffer from low spiritual vitality because of faulty nutrition. We may eat our fill at our Father's table and of the best things He has provided.

The invitation (v16) is God's prophetic announcement of the Messiah and His kingdom and the invitation to the Jews. The invitation of (v 17) is Christ's own announcement that the gospel blessings are ready, and Israel is invited to receive them. All the bidden guests needed to do was to "come; for all things are now ready." Instead they made excuses—not reasons—for not coming. That is what the vast majority of people do with the gospel invitation. The excuses revealed the failure to appreciate the supper and the invitation. The Jewish leaders did not appreciate Christ and His invitation. Many today fail to appreciate the gospel invitation. The first one's excuse was his property (v 18). He represents a large class today. The excuse of the second was a matter of business (v 19), not pressing in importance. The last one's excuse was domestic demands, not a valid reason. These men did not want to come to the supper, so they made excuses. They placed something else ahead of the feast. People usually find time for doing the things they most like to do. Excuses reported to God who feels a righteous anger (v 21) toward us, and the blessings intended for us, will be given to others.

The feast is ready, the invitation is now given most earnestly and urgently to those of the lower classes (v 21), the morally poor, maimed, blind and halt. They came and yet there was room (v 22).

Heaven is a large place, room for all. The gospel privileges are open to all who will come. The invitation was sent to the Gentiles also (v 23), to everybody. There is no snobbery connected with God's feast. The men who refused to come were the losers. They made their decision and is was final (v 24). They excluded themselves. The feast was not hindered by their absence. Those who reject the gospel invitation can not injure the Lord's work. They only close the door against themselves. They deny to themselves the best that God has provided for man.

What is my choice:—Spiritual bankruptcy or the infinite riches of grace?

Whom do flimsy excuses fool? and how?

What evidences are there that many people do not appreciate the gospel?

A Letter to the Unknown Soldier

by David C. Wedel

(used as a Memorial Day Sermon)

Dear Unknown Soldier:

The idea of writing this letter to you occurred to me one day after I knew that I was to address the people of our churches in Halstead, on Memorial Day. You never knew any of us and yet it may be that you associated with some Halstead buddies. You never heard of me because I was too young to be called to service.

First of all I want to congratulate you that you could die in that war. You fought and died for ideals which you believed would bring a better world. You thought your life would help bring more democracy and more decency to the world. For these ideals you gave your life. I am glad that you never learned, or do you know that the war in which you gave your life did not bring us more democracy but more autocracy, the thing you tried to stamp out. I am glad you never found out that the war let loose moral degeneracy of which you had never dreamed.

I am glad you died. To see our present world and how it has repudiated all for which you stood would break your heart. I know it was a terrible moment when on that morning in midsummer of 1918 the official cable from the war department brought the message that you were missing. Everywhere they looked for your name, in the column of the wounded, among the exchange prisoners, in every boat which brought wounded or unidentified, in hospitals of the wounded, scanning the faces of the sufferers or if the faces were beyond recognition or partly shot away, they looked at the name on the bed hoping that your name might not be found there, but eagerly searching lest they overlooked your name. I have wondered whether you were not also sought among the white crosses in Flanders. I know they looked through field glasses as the crippled and maimed came down the street on stretchers or wheel chairs carried by their sons and mothers. You were "missing." That was the only report about you. Days dragged by and then came the word that you had been placed in the marble tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

I am glad you died.—You will forgive me for making that statement I hope. I believe your parents will too. For not long ago one of your buddies said to me, "The hell of it is that we cannot all die." I know you loved life, you had ambitions, a sweetheart—I hope she too will forgive me for saying I am glad you are in your marble tomb. I believe even she would rather see you there than to have you among those with half their faces blown away, gassed, still holding on to life despite the inevitable end, the shell-shocked with mad fears in their eye. I believe even she is glad to have you in your marble tomb where all is peaceful, quiet, rather than to have you among the living dead. ,

I am not a soldier or militarist. As a matter of fact I do not believe in war. You would have called me a slacker, or yellowback or a dozen other names I can't now recall. You may still call me a slacker for not believing in war—but here is what Major General Smedley D. Butler has to say about war. "War is a racket; possibly the oldest, easily the most profitable, surely the most vicious. It is the only one international in scope. A racket is best described, I believe as something that is not what it seems to the majority of the people. Only a small 'inside' group know what it is about. It is conducted for the benefit of the very few at the expense of the masses.—For long years I have known that war is a racket but I never faced it until I saw the clouds gathering again, as they are today. They are choosing sides now, yes, they are getting ready for another war. War, like any other racket pays high dividends to the very few. But what does it profit the masses?" I guess you are surprised to hear such a statement from Major General Smedley D. Butler. I have been informed that a few greedy speculators coined millions out of the blood and sorow of their fellowmen in Flanders. For every millionaire made in the world there are 660 men, women and children slaughtered for his money.

I am afraid you will not receive this letter. The soldiers who guard your tomb will never permit this letter to reach you. It would disturb your peaceful slumber. But I am going to mention even more to you.

They told you this was a "war to end war"—A war against militarism in Europe. We have seen that evil cannot be overcome with evil. Today we have a greater harvest of military threats and war than we have ever had. They told you it was a war to make the world safe for democracy. Democracy is warred upon by dictators in every way they can. They told you that it was a war in defense of the weak nations. We have learned since that economic interests were primary. They told you it was a war against the war lords. We know now that the Du Ponts and others were safe in their offices while the common people were mowed down by machine guns and gas bombs.

They told you this was a war in defence of national honor. We have learned since that it was an opportunity for a few to coin millions. If you had not gone through a period of training which was intended to harden you and make you able to face anything, I would not tell you that it has become evident that there is no victor in modern warfare. All the woes that came on Germany who was declared the loser in this last war came upon all the other nations who were proclaimed the winners—those who sold bombs to both sides. And now I have come to the most tragic paragraph of this letter. Appearantely we have learned nothing from our experience in the World War. You have not only died in vain—but we will once again plunge into the same kind of wholesale massacre and mass murder that we went through in the last war. If I have the correct opinion of you—you would not have left your home, loved ones, given up all that you had hoped to be if you had known that it was all in vain. You had too much faith in man. Now they have deceived you. They have brought you to your early grave. You thought you you died bravely and heroically but we know that they cheated you into your grave, I have sometimes wondered whether you did not know much of this before you died.

Brother, may I have a heroism as high and ideals as unimpeachable as yours which will allow me to die in the ranks of Christ as you died in the ranks of war. May I hold firmly to my belief that the way of Christ and the way of war are not reconcilable. And though you honestly believed that you were committed to the Christ way, may your spirit aid me to see that His way is the way of love and brotherhood though they may cost a cross. May the cross of Christ so permeate my spirit that I in my undertaking may be as brave, as true, as unswearving—as you and your buddies.

BRO. C. F. CLAASSEN GONE HOME

C. F. Claassen, church, financial and business leader in Newton, Kansas, and well known for his interest in our conference work, passed away last Thursday morning, January 9, at the (Hertzler) Hospital, Halstead, Kansas. Bro. Claassen, suffering from a rectal growth, submitted to an operation in the hope of saving his life. He appeared to rally well, but then his blood pressure started to sink dangerously. Blood transfusion was resorted to but failed to check his sinking condition, and he sank peacefully into his final sleep, with the family at his bedside.—Funeral services will be conducted at the First Mennonite Church, in Newton, at 3 p. m. Monday, January 13.

Keep the Unity of the Christian Spirit

by Carl Landis, Rural Secretary, F. O. R.

In his letter to the Galatians, Paul writes, "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus." That is a statement of the basic UNITY OF THE CHRISTIAN SPIRIT; a unity which no difference of race, color, opinion can undermine. That spirit is being tried sorely in these periods of crises. As members of the Fellowship of Christ, we must fulfill the Spirit of Christ: for in Him there is "neither pacifist nor non-pacifist, neither registrant nor non-registrant, neither Democrat, Republican nor Socialist, neither English, German, Italian nor American: in Christ we are one."

I. Pacifist vs. Non-Pacifist

Let me say frankly, "I am a pacifist." I proclaim that Faith wherever I go: in the church, before the American Legion, to the 6th Corp Area Commander, when he invites me to atend a Chaplain's School. But there are those who are not pacifists, but are genuine Christians. Pacifists ought not judge them; they ought not judge the pacifists. The pacifists cannot participate in war; they can. The pacifist believes that Love, Forgiveness, Justice are the ultimate defense (the only defense); they hold that in the end, only guns and bombs will defend. The pacifist believes it is not Christlike to participate in war; they behold that they are carrying out the spirit of the Cross.

When one sums up one total Christian character against another, it is not a question of who is the better "Christian;" but rather we should recognize that one soul senses the Spirit of Christ in one area of life, and completely misses it in another. Both may be "Christian;" but neither is "Wholly Christian." "We see through a glass darkly . . ." even in pacifism. But rising above any conflict, above any differences of conviction, is the UNITY OF THE SPIRIT, calling us ever higher and higher, ever nearer the Cross of the Christ. So whether Christian pacifism or Christian non-pacifism: let us remain UNITED IN CHRIST, and rise above our differences of convictions.

II. Registrants and Non-Registrants

October 16th millions of American Youth registered for conscription, some 50 did not, I should say, could not. A genuine Christian cannot violate his conscience. Only the coward can do that. Had I been 10 months younger, I would have registered October 16th; I counselled others, whose consciences permitted them to do so. One person follows his conscience, and registers. If that is his conscientious conviction, he ought to register. His neighbor follows his conscience, and cannot register. If that is his conscientious conviction, he ought to reserve his highest loy-

Speaking of Poise

Are you among those whose letters begin, "I am very timid . . ." or "I suffer from lack of social training . . ." or "I get so embarrassed I can think of nothing to say . . .?"

If you feel handicapped socially, don't worry about it. Forget it. Develop self-possession and poise along some other line, almost any other line. Eventually your new-found confidence will help you out socially, too.

The vogue for sophistication has stampeded many a young man or woman unnecessarily. If a girl has no "line" or if a man is not quick with a wisecrack—what of it? Sophisticated, the dictionary tells us, means world-wise, deprived of natural simplicity. Poise, on the other hand, is defined as equanimity, repose, dignity, balance. Which is worth striving for?

Examples are legion of men and girls who have developed into well-rounded personalities out of an awkward childhood or youth. One tongue-tied lad "found himself" during a summer of work at a local drugstore. His employer had said, "Our aim is to please our customers. We stress courtesy and a personal interest in each customer's needs." That goal was enough to make one boy forget himself in serving others. Returning to school in the fall, he found himself able to cope with any group into which he was thrown.

One inarticulate girl who was always short on dates was taken on as assistant to a playground director for the summer. She built sand castles for the babies. She helped pudgy small boys negotiate the "slippy" slide. She told stories occasionally at the story hours. To her surprise one of the college fellows in charge of the older children's playground challenged her to a game of tennis one day. It was the beginning of a charming, congenial romance.

The social graces are not learned exclusively at parties. Poise is stressed that may be attained in office or classroom, in a host of outside activities and extracurricular interests. Many have found in their search for poise that God is the final source of limitless assistance and peace "which passeth all understanding."—Ruth Herrick Myers.

GLEANINGS

Swift Current Project is Finished

The Swift Current Bible School project has been completed informed Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander in a letter of Dec. 2. "I am happy to announce that good progress has been made, and that the building is completed." In a letter dated August 6, 1940, Rev. David Toews says: "The debt at Swift Current, as far as we are concerned, is paid, so there is no more money going to Swift Current for the building any more."

The Pacific, Eastern and Western districts each pledged $100. The Pacific district exceeded its quota; the Eastern came within five dollars of meeting it; while the Western district sent in $67 of its share.

Duties of C. E. Treasurer

1. Keep a record of receipts, expenses, and balance.
2. Prepare C. E. budget of probable receipts and expenses.
3. Make collection of dues or assessments.
4. Report amount of collections accurately at next meeting.
5. Devise ways of making money for mission projects.
6. Keep contact with district Y. P. treasurer; place receipt cards on file.
7. Give report at business meetings.

Duties of Program Chairman

1. Prepare term programs by working with committee and pastor-counselor.
2. Observe instructions of "Program of Standards for a Mennonite C. E. Society." (For copies write to John E. Fretz, 3722 N. 16th St., Philadelphia, Penna., or your district Y. P. representative).
3. Secure reading of programs in advance.
4. Provide vice-president with publicity material.
5. Notify members on program second time before meeting.

(A complete list of duties for all officers may be secured by writing to W. E. Juhnke, McPherson, Kansas). —Western District Tidings

Retreats Being Planned

The Washington Retreat Committee consisting of Rev. Harley King, chairman, Rev. Edmund Miller, Mrs. Henry Hiebert, Harry Albrecht, Edmund Waltner and Rev. Wiens, met on Monday Nov. 18, in Spokane and made definite plans to have their Retreat on July 4, 5, and 6 at Clear Lake near Yakima.

The Calif. Retreat Committee met in connection with the Executive meeting in Los Angeles on November 10 and 11 to plan for next year's Retreat at Lake Sequoia, Aug. 11-18.

The Colfax (Wash.) society is beginning a four lesson course on the "Origin and Source of the Bible," which will be a part of the weekly prayer meeting at Christian Endeavor. The course is being conducted by Vera Buckly. —Worker's Exchange

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

Program for January 26, 1941

MY DENOMINATION

Eph. 2:19-22; I Tim. 4:12-14

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "How Firm a Foundation," "My Hope is Built on Nothing Less," "Faith of Our Fathers," and "Blest be the Tide that Binds."
2. Reading of main topic and Prayer.
3. Talk by pastor, or outside speaker, on "The Doctrines of Our Church and Their Influence."
4. Offering for peace work.

II. Leader's Introduction.

Christ knew that fellowship would be essential to His followers. We need the church. In the course of time the various denominations have come to be. Each one has its especially strong points and therefore its special mission. Our own denomination has put emphasis in these latter years on its peace doctrine. It is learning that this doctrine should lay stress not only on staying out of war, not participating in it, but also on peace making and finding constructive ways of living a life of love and service and helpfulness. This doctrine presents the way of living not only for days when there is war, but also for days when there is peace. It offers its challenge to every church member, the old and the young as well as those of draft age.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks.

Christ, the Foundation	Matt. 16:15-18
Diversified Responsibilities	I. Cor. 12:27-31
Christ, the Corner Stone	Ps. 118:22,23
Holiness Becometh the Church	Eph. 5:25-27
An Ideal Social Order	Acts 2:42-47
Christ, The Head	Col. 1:16-18

IV. For Discussion

1. When and where did our denomination have its beginning?
2. What historical situations called forth the formation of our denomination?
3. Who have been some of the great leaders of our church?
4. What particular contribution does our denomination make to the cause of Christianity today?
5. What are some of the doctrines in which our denomination most firmly believes?

V. Facts for Study

The doctrine of baptism on confession of faith, each one to confess Christ as his Savior because of personal conviction and experience has had its influence in making our church members true members of the body of Christ, the unseen church.

Our insistence that we will not swear, but that our "yes" and our "no" are as dependable as an oath would be have given value to our everyday yes and no. We are known as a people whose word can be depended upon.

Our adherence to the "simple life" living plainly and unostentatiously, practicing thrift and industry, has won the respect of our neighbors. It is in line with Jesus teaching and living. May we guard this heritage along with the other fine qualities of our denomination.

The right of each member to read and interpret his own Bible seems so self-evident to us that it is well we remind ourselves that our early Mennonite leaders suffered and worked for it. A study of the earnestness and the sincerity of our church in its early days should help us to a new appreciation for the need of that same earnestness and sincerity in our own day.

VI. Illustration

"We possess something," says Dr. Harold Phillips, "which belongs to everybody. Christ was brought to us by another race, and we must pass him on. We need to remind ourselves that the motive which sent those pioneer missionaries to distant parts, to endure unthinkable hardships, was not that they might enrich the world's culture, but rather that they might change the world's life. They went to preach the gospel of One whom they thoroughly believed was the Light of the world. Without that belief the missionary cause must lag."

VII. Food for Thought

For our denomination we would learn to pray:

Great Master, touch us with thy skillful hand,
Let not the music that is in us die!
Great Sculptor, hew and polish us; nor let,
Hidden and lost, thy form within us lie!
Spare not the stroke. Do with us as thou wilt,
Let there be naught unfinished, broken, marred.
Complete thy purpose that we may become
Thy perfect image, thou our God and Lord. Amen

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORER'S SIXTIETH BIRTHDAY

February 2, 1941

For Daily Reading:

Jan. 27. A society of praise. Col. 3:16

Feb. 1. A universal society. Rom. 10:8-17
Feb. 2. Topic. Phil. 1:21; 3:12-14

Opening Hymn - "Serve the Lord in the Days of Youth"
Prayer by Superintendent
Scripture Reading - Phil. 1:21; 3:12-14
Song - "Stepping in the Light"
Reading of daily references (Let us pause to see whether our societies are really societies having these characteristics).

Discussion:

I. What does it mean to Endeavor?
  A. Dictionary definition
  B. Are we measuring up to this definition?
II. The birth and growth of Christian Endeavor.
  A. Father Endeavor and Mother Clark
    1. Francis E. Clark was a young pastor of a Congregational Church in Portland, Maine.
    2. The young people of his church helped him form the first C. E. Society.
  B. Today the roll call of C. E. is answered by over four million members.
III. History of your own society.
  A. When was it organized?
  B. Growth of membership
  C. Testimony as to the value of C. E. (Have one of the older members of your church testify and the youngest member of your society.)
  D. Voluntary testimony.

Prayer Hymn - "O Jesus, I Have Promised"
Offering (Wouldn't it be a fine idea to give this offering to the General Conference Young People's Committee?)
Mizpah Benediction

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

"SHIPS TO SAIL IN THE NEW YEAR"

FRIENDSHIP

Setting: Place a large copy of a painting picturing Ruth, Naomi, and Orpah, for a worship center in the front of the room. Throw a light on this center.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude - "I Would Be True" - M.H.B., 246

2. Call to Worship - "Search me, O God, and know my heart: try me, and know my thoughts: And see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting." (Psalm 139:23, 24)

3. Worship in Song - "I Would Be true" - M.H.B., 246.

4. Worship in Scripture - Responsive Readings, Selection 15b, M.H.B., read responsively by the group.

5. Worship in Prayer - Leader's Opening Prayer.

6. Special Music - "My Task" by E. L. Ashford by one of the older Juniors who sings well.

II. Study Period

Aim - To lead the Juniors toward a deeper realization that friendship is a reciprocal proposition; to cause them to see the sacredness of it, to see their resonsibility in regard to their influence, and to come to a fuller knowledge of the fact that their best friend is in heaven, their Heavenly Father.

1. Leader's Introduction. (This should connect this lesson with the previous lessons, as well as embody some of the points listed under our aim.)

2. Story - "A Beautiful Friendship—Ruth and Naomi," by a Junior girl.

3. Story - "A Beautiful Friendship—David and Jonathan," I Samuel 18:1-4; 20:4-42 - by a Junior boy.

4. Poem on Friendship by a Junior girl.

5. Talk - "How a Friend Should Act," Proverbs 17:17; 18:24; 27:10a; John 15:13 - by a Junior girl.

6. Talk - "Jesus—Our Best Friend" - by a Junior boy.

7. Song in unison - "The Best of Friends I Have in Heaven" - M.H.B., 364.

8. Leader's Heart Talk (If possible this should take the form of a story.)

III. Mission Minutes

1. Today you will complete your visit to the missionaries. Use this period to review the various fields and the workers on these fields.

2. Devote some of your time to our Home Mission Work, again discuss the difference between this work and the Foreign Mission Work. Stop in at the homes of the Home Missionaries along the route from the harbor to your home.

3. Pray for both the home and foreign missionaries.

4. Bring the missionary offering.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat the verse of the month.

2. Sing the song of the month.

3. Have short sentence prayers by a number of Juniors, ending with the prayer of the month in unison.

alty to God. The history of the Christian Faith is the history of sensitive spirits who have followed the Voice of Conscience—no matter what others said, whether parents, brothers, sisters, ministers. "He that loveth father or mother more than me, is not worthy of me." In the Christian Church, in a Democracy, individuals should not only be permitted to follow their Christian conscience; they should be encouraged to do so. That is the way truth comes to light. Let us not judge those who registered, nor those who could not. Let us thank God that there are still those who have the courage of their convictions, regardless of the cost. From them, let us take courage to follow our conscience, though it may lead us into another area of the Kingdom.

No matter what area of life is examined, this same principle should hold: THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTIAN UNITY must supercede our differences of opinion, and of conscience. Let's never forget that, even when we disagree on questions as vital as pacifism vs. militarism, or registration vs. non-registration. As we face these difficult days ahead, let us strive truly to keep that UNITY OF THE SPIRIT OF CHRIST, no matter what the cost.

CORRESPONDENCE

SECOND MENN. CHURCH, BEATRICE, NEBR.

Encouraging results have been obtained during the past year according to reports at the recent annual church meeting. Eight new members through baptism, 2 with-drawals, 2 deaths, 2 babies, and a total church membership of 177, briefly constitutes the statistical report. Instruction in church history for high school students, and a special course on peace principles is being offered to the young men of our congregation. A vote of thanks and appreciation for the rendered services was tendered to Rev. Weinbrenner and his wife.

Bro. E. G. Wiebe on the Vacation Bible School board and the present correspondent for our church papers were re-elected for another year. The Senior C. E. Society report disclosed that this organization has been active for a period of 39 years and is continuing to serve its intended purpose. Only 3 of the 25 charter members are still taking an active part; the present membership totals 61. There are 175 S. S. members, 30 Young People's C. E. members, 22 Intermediate and 19 Junior members.

Encouraging reports were also made by the Tabitha Sundri Bai, a young ladies society organized a number of years ago by the daughters of Rev. and Mrs. Horsch for the support of a native mission worker in India. Arrangements have also been made for the purchase of additional Mennonite Hymnaries to replace the badly worn song books now in use.

MENNONITE BIBLE MISSION, CHICAGO, ILL.

We of the Mennonite Bible Mission in Chicago greet you again. After a month of practice and rehearsal we were able to render the "Story of Christmas" a pageant given by the C. E. groups of the church. Beginning with the prophecy in Bethlehem, the pageant portrayed to us the wonderful story of the birth of Christ. Throughout the scenes we were reminded of peace on earth goodwill to men. Songs of praise were sung by the Girl's Choir and also by members of the cast. The listeners went home feeling richly blessed.

The young people were together again at 10:00 p. m. ready to go caroling. There were about fifty willing to proclaim the wonderful story of love to the neighbors in our community. With hearts rejoicing we started out. As we came to each home we were graciously received. A member of our church was told by neighbors, that they should not move away because they waited each year for our group to come and sing. In another case someone told our pastor they had just seen a group of young people being arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Then when our group came to their home they noted the contrast between the two groups. One serving Satan and seeking pleasures of the world and the other praising the Lord. We give thanks to Him for this testimony.

On Christmas morning we had a program given by the beginner and primary children. Poems and music expressed their praise to God. We had a message from God's word given by Reverend Dick of Lima, Ohio, after the children's program. Prayer meeting was held at the home of our pastor on New Year's night. God gave us a blessing and with renewed faith and hope in Him we started our New Year right. —Grace Bant, Corr.

MENNO MENN. CHURCH, LIND, WASH.

On January 5, a baptismal service was held for eight young folks. Seven of these have had forty-five Sundays of catechetical instructions under the direction of Reverend Edmund Miller. One was baptized upon his confession of faith. The subject of the most impressive service was "God's Plan for My Life" which was taken from the 17th Chapter of John, the 4th verse. The congregation heartily welcomed these eight people: Alvin L. Dyck, Florence Jantz, Adelia Marie Jantz, Walter Peters, Viola Franz, Sylvia Franz, Clara Franz, and Earl Franz into the church. The congregation also welcomed Mrs. Joe Gering as a new member into the church. We are happy for these new members and we pray for God's comfort and guidance over these people who have chosen the Christian way, which is not easy, but peaceful and has the assurance of eternal life with Christ Jesus. We pray that they will not turn aside later in life, but will cling steadfast to their and our Savior.

May God bless them and keep His wing over them in their life's journey. —E. J., Corr.

WEST SWAMP MENN. CH., QUAKERTOWN, PA.

Greetings: One of the outstanding meetings of the year was the program given by the Mason Bell Ringers, of Los Angeles, Calif. Among the various instruments they played were the Swiss Bells, the World's Largest set of Triple Octave Chimes, vibraharp, and musical glasses. It is a program which will long be remembered by everyone present. Another interesting meeting was when Rev. W. C. Voth was in our midst and gave a fine message and showed pictures of the work done in China.—The Christian Endeavor 50th Anniversary was observed on November 24. A short resume of the first year's meetings and a list of the original members was read. Rev. Russel Mast, of the Deep Run Church, gave a fine message. On Thanksgiving evening, November 28, the Ladies Aid and Missionary Society and the Young Women's Missionary Society Anniversary program was given. A short playlet called "Asleep in Zion" was presented, and Mrs. Erland Waltner, of the 2nd Church, Philadelphia, gave an inspiring message. These meetings were well attended and all richly blessed.—On Sunday evening, December 8, the Choir joined with the Zion Hill Choir and presented a fine program of songs. Two Christmas programs were rendered. The Intermediate and Young People's Department presented a Pageant "The Greatest Gift" on December 15. The Junior Department had a fine program on December 22, and the White Gift offering was presented. Rich blessings were received by everyone who attended these meetings. At ten o'clock on Christmas Eve a group of over sixty young people went carol singing to the homes of the sick and aged. Here, too, everyone who heard them and those who sang received a blessing. On New Year's Eve our C. E. Society and the Bethany Society enjoyed a social hour followed by a program from 11 p. m. to midnight. —Anna Bauman, Corr.

WOODLAND MENN. CH., WARROAD, MINN.

Another year has ended; a year during which much has happened. What the new year will bring to us, we do not know, but we do know that if Jesus is our pilot, all will be well, no matter what trials may come.—Revival meetings were conducted in our church, the first part of November, 1940, by Rev. Henry P. Fast of Steinbach, Man. The meetings brought spriritual inspiration to those who attended.—December 13, 1940, the sewing club met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Heppner, at which time a report of the year's expenditures was given by the secretary, Mrs. Cornie Krahn, and preparations were begun for the annual sale next summer. While the ladies had their sewing meeting, the menfolks held the church election of trustees, treasurer, etc.—December 24th, a Christmas program was rendered in the church. A very large crowd had gathered to enjoy the recitations and singing.

The Christmas season was filled with sorrow, when our beloved brother-in-law, George Krahn, passed away. Yet we are glad that there is a birthday of the Christ child. If there were no Christmas, what hope would we have of seeing our loved ones in glory, where we shall part no more.

Wishing all a blessed new year, I remain,

Sincerely, Jake G. Quiring, Corr.

WAYLAND MENN. CHURCH, WAYLAND, IO.

1940 has rolled into the past, another year has begun. May we resolve to go forth with renewed courage for more faithful service to our Master, Who is worthy of our best efforts. During the Thanksgiving season our Jr. C. E. presented the playlet "Stephen Becomes a Pilgrim." Dec. 2nd Rev. Penner attended the funeral of his brother, H. K. Penner, at Beatrice, Nebr. Our S. S. gave the Christmas pageant, "Come into My Heart, Lord Jesus," written by Mrs. Helen Mueller, sister of Mrs. Wm. Penner. Dec. 29th Dr. J. C. Meyer, instructor of economics at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, Ohio, spoke upon the topic, "The Sacred Rights of the Minority." Jan. 4th, we held our annual business meeting. Installation service for our newly elected deacon, D. F. Meyer, will be observed Jan. 12. The pastors of our town and community are making preparations to hold meetings during the Week of Prayer. —C. K. S., Corr.

NEW HOPEDALE MENN. CH., MENO, OKLA.

Our Sunday School presented its annual Christmas program to a large audience on Christmas eve. It fills our hearts with joy to see how eager the small children are to render their parts and to sing songs of praise. We are thankful that we still have the the privilege of gathering in such manner, and our prayer is that these privileges may continue. After the program a group from the Choir went out caroling. The Sunday School of the Northwest Church presented its program the same evening. Rev. H. U. Schmidt brought the message on Christmas morning. Watch Night services were held at the O. B. A. School Auditorium on New Year's Eve. Quite a number attended and fellowshipped together. Services were held at the Church New Year's morning, the speakers were Rev. J. R. Barkman, Rev. August Schmidt, and the Pastor, H. U. Schmidt. Although the weather was cold, and quite a bit of sickness in the community, the attendance in Sunday School was fair on the first Sunday of the New Year. So we look forward to a good attendance this year. —Corr.

IN MEMORIAM

MARIE BOESE, daughter of Abram H. Boese, was born February 20, 1895 in McPherson county, Kansas. After attending district and preparatory school, she went to Bethel College one year and to a business school two years, to complete a business course. Then she was employed at the Midland Mutual Insurance office in Newton for 14 years.—For three years after the passing of her mother, she faithfully kept house for her father and was active in the church, C. E. Society and Sewing Society. As a S. S. teacher she devoted much time to her pupils.—Monday morning, Dec. 9, she with three other girl friends left for a vacation trip to the Carlsbad caverns in New Mexico. They traveled in a happy mood, but within 143 miles of their destination, they ran into a stalled truck left standing on the highway for needed repairs. Our Marie and Katie Andres were fatally injured and had passed away before the truck driver arrived a few minutes after the accident. The other two girls were taken to St. Mary's hospital in Roswell, N. M.—Though her passing came very suddenly, it did not find her unprepared. The Bible was her companion even on this trip. Her whole life showed her readiness to meet the Lord, wher we expect to meet her again. In a quiet way she let her light shine and kept her lamp burning as a wise virgin.—On June 11, 1916, she joined the Alexanderwohl Church through baptism and later the Goessel Church.—She leaves to mourn her passing: her father, three brothers, Peter, Henry and Jacob; one sister, Mrs. Helen Nachtigal; one sister-in-law, Mrs. Jacob A. Boese, and many relatives and friends. She attained the age of 45 years, 9 months and 20 days.—The funeral services were held on Sunday, Dec. 15, at the Goessel Church. The Reverends P. P. Buller, P. Buller, and P. H. Unruh spoke words of comfort, and two men's quartets sang very appropriate songs.

—The Family

LYDIA STEINER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Neuenschwander, was born on the Neuenschwander farm, Miamisburg, Ohio. Following her marriage to Job Steiner, they lived for many years on the Santschi farm south of Bluffton on the Dixie highway, where she became mother of six sons. Her husband died in 1909. Some time later she moved to the home of her son, Isaac Steiner. Here her health began failing the past several months, and Tuesday morning, at the age of 90, she peacefully passed away. Funeral services were held at Miamisburg Wednesday evening, and then later the casket was transferred to the home of her son, Ed. Steiner, at Bluffton, where services were held Thursday at the First Mennonite Church, with the Rev. H. T. Unruh officiating. The body was laid in the Ebenezer cemetery.

She leaves to mourn her departure six sons, Ephraim, Dayton; Philip and Ed, Bluffton; E. O. and Clarence, Lima, and Isaac, Miamisburg, Ohio, two brothers and a sister, eleven grandchildren, and two greatgranchildren.

HENRY J. VOTH was born in Reno County, Kansas, May 24, 1885. He was baptized on July 23, 1905 by Elder Abraham Ratzlaff and was received into the Hoffnungsau Mennonite Church. On November 20, 1908, he was united in marriage with Mary Janzen. After a few years in western Kansas he again took up residence near Buhler, becoming a member of the Buhler Mennonite Church when it was organized on Dec. 27, 1920. Since 1938 he was suffering from a weak heart and a weakened nervous condition. On Christmas Day a stroke rendered him unconscious, and he died on December 27, at the age of 55 years, 7 months and 3 days. He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, six sons, Herman, Arnold, Edward, Leonard, Wilmer, and Eldon; five daughters, Rosella, Leona, Helen, Anna Mae and Florence; one daughter-in-law, Ruth, six brothers, two sisters, and many relatives and friends. He was laid to rest in the Hoffnungsau cemetery December 30, his pastor John F. Schmidt officiating, assisted by Rev. P. R. Voth and Rev. A. J. Dyck.

ANOTHER CHRISTIAN GONE HOME!

Last Thursday morning we received a card from Rev. W. F. Unruh, Pulaski, Iowa, saying, "This (Tuesday) morning at 11:30 a. m. our dear Rev. W. W. Miller went to be with the Lord. Funeral services will be held in the Pulaski Mennonite Church on Thursday afternoon, January 9, 1941.

"I MAKE ALL THINGS NEW" (Rev. 21:5)

Watching I turn my eyes
Unto the east, God's great sunrise;
A grand new era dawns, I see
The thousand years of Jubilee:
Spread is the feast!

Behold, earth's shadows flee,
No bitter wail comes to me;
Instead, a blooming Paradise
O'er all the earth does now arise:
To Thee all hail!

The Lord has come to reign:
His glory shines, earth's sorrows wane;
So long as sun and moon endure,
His rule of righteousness is sure,
Love intertwines!

—Grace Mennonite Church, Pandora, Ohio—At the annual business meeting held New Year's Day, our Pastor, Rev. P. E. Whitmer, who served our congregation twelve years, tendered his resignation to be effective April 30th. Rev. Whitmer is retiring from the active ministry, and will make his home in Bluffton, Ohio.—Our church choir of 60 voices presented "The Messiah" at Christmas, under the direction of Mr. Loren McNeal, supervisor of music in the public schools, with Mrs. Pearl Mann of Bluffton College at the piano and Miss Eulalia Steiner at the organ. Soloists: Mr. Marvin Hilty, tenor of Cleveland, Mr. Wilson Jones, bass, Lima, O., Mrs. Bertha Callahan, soprano, and Mrs. Clyde Welty, alto.

—Rev. Phil. A. Wedel, pastor of First Menn. Church, Aberdeen, Idaho, as conference secretary sends in an exhibit of conference board budgets for publication and writes: "The Year is on its way again and we hope that the Divine God will be merciful unto us and stay the judgment that our nation deserves. May the cry of the War monger and those in authority who want war be in vain. I feel, however, that God's children should not fear even in times like this: Has He not said, "Be of Good Cheer: It is I, be not afraid."

—Rev. A. S. Bechtel, Hanston, Kansas, writes:—"Most remarkable weather we have. This 31st of December is about the warmest I can recall having ever experienced, 61 this afternoon on our west porch. Well, that much less fuel oil to burn and incidentally less expenses, which is not at all undesirable.—I can report that the new "Hymnary" has been ordered for our little congregation out here. I hope to read of good reaction for the book in "The Mennnite" from time to time. Give the book a good boost. It's worth it."

—Zion Mennonite Church, Souredton, Pa., reports a remarkable white Christmas Service. "A most splendid spirit of giving by the Sunday School. Class 1 gave $147.32, Class 2 $83.00, Class 3 $300.00, Class 4 $100.00, Class 5 $125.00, Class 6 $10.00, Class 7 $60.00, Class 9 $7.00, Class 10 $74.00, Class 11 $21.00, Class 12 $16.50, Class 13 $4.27, Class 14 $23.00, Class 15 $42.00, Class 16 $55.00, Class 17 $14.00, Class 18 $127.00, Class 19 27.00, Class 20 $14.00, Class 21 $50.00, Individual Contributions $10.00. Class 18 had previously given $225.00. The offering from the audience was $33.39. Total cash donation at the service was, $1343.48. Of this $978.09 went to the Building Fund, 197.00 for Peace and European Relief, $20.00 for Retreat Grounds, and miscellaoneous $115.00.

—Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—Bulletin reports that Philadelphia is to have its National Preaching Mission, Jan. 12-19, with local meetings, mass meetings, minister's conferences and lay group meetings. The two mass meetings are to be addressed by E. Stanley Jones and Bishop Arthur James Monroe.—In urging the church members to attend the coming annual meeting the pastor says, "Each member has the privilege of expressing what he believes to be God's will in the issues which arise."—The financial condition of the church at close of the year is remarkably unique: Total receipts, $3108.77; total payments, $3108.77; balance none.

—Germantown, First and Second Churches in Philadelphia held New Year Watchnight Service jointly in Second Church. One notice says, "Come and enjoy the service and help close the old year in fellowship with God." Another, "Bring your favorite Bible verses and begin the New Year in church. The ladies will serve refreshments."

God Given Opportunities

We Mennonites are "a peculiar people." We hold to the doctrine of non-resistance, oppositoin to the oath. baptism on the confession of faith in Christ as only Savior, and the simple life, as we find these principles recorded in God's Word, our true guide of conduct.

For holding on to these tenets we have been misunderstood, we have tasted the sting of intolerance, we have been persecuted and a good many even executed. Consequently, we sought havens of refuge in other lands which many of our faith found in these United States, the country of religious and civil liberty. However, even here we were embarrassed in times of war, with the possibility of being drafted into military service that meant hatred and the killing of potential enemies, whereas we were convinced that human life is sacred and that we should love our enemies.

Now our beloved United States has, under the guidance of our kind heavenly Father seen the need of a law whereby we, with others, in true loyalty anl love of country are given the privilege of doing service of real benefit to our land, entirely under civilian control. For bringing this to pass we owe, first, sincerest gratitude to God Almighty, next to our understanding government, and certainly also to the brethren who have nobly championed the C. O. cause at Washington. But, privileges carry with them opportunities and responsibilities. In this instance they come, first of all, to the men of our faith in the draft age. Some of our young people have smarted under the apparent inactivity of the older folks. Here now is an opportunity for action, to show the world what we mean with our peace doctrine. Here we can prove the sincerity of our convictions and glorify God with living examples, and testimonies from His Word, as brother Rutschman has nobly done. How unfortunate that there should be any Mennonite who would choose or allow himself to be drafted into any other kind of service, even non-combatant, for a possible material gain. We need to convince the government that we can do kinds of service for it that will merit popular approval, and that we are not slackers. But the opportunities of the churches and their members are equally challenging and serious. It would be a calamity if we should fail in the proper financing of the training camps. Fifty cents per member for six months to start with, is a small item when one thinks of the great cause involved. The churches should vie with each other in oversubscribing their quota. May God give us the zeal and willingness to honor Him and the cause of Christ in gladly and severally taking hold of the opportunities before us as it behoves true Mennonite Christians —T

A GENUINE MENNONITE

Recently James Daniel Rutschman, twenty-one years old and a member of the Swiss Mennonite Church near Whitewater, Kansas, had his examination before a draft board in Wichita, Kansas. He stated that he was a conscientious objector and, with his Bible in hand, quoted Matt. 5:39, "But I say unto you, that ye resist not evil; but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also," and thus he became the first C. O. registrant in the county. Convinced by quotations like this that he had real objections to war, the board placed him in Class 1AO, eligible for non-combatent service under military supervision. Believing that such service would conflict with his religious views and prove detrimental to his religious life, he announced his intention to appeal for service under civilian direction in some line of useful national service, a privilege granted to C. O's. by the new conscription law.

For the rest of the interesting interview we shall quote mostly the Wichita Eagle. "Mr. Rutschman gave as his deep-seated belief that by following the injunction of Christ, 'love thy neighbor as thyself,' the United States could live at peace in the world with Hitler and Mussolini. His Biblical proof for this was that three times the children of Israel were protected by God when their enemies menaced them. This young Mennonite who farms with his father quoted the Scriptures volubly and no doubt lingered in the minds of the draft officials that he held his convictions very strongly. 'Is God,' he asked the draft board, 'any different now from what He was in Biblical times? Did not Jesus Christ ask us to forgive our enemies.' In a serious tone of voice he stated that the day never passes that he doesn't read the Bible. In it he found ample evidence that war and killing are wrong. 'If I should meet an enemy on the battlefield,' he said, 'Would he not be my neighbor, and should I not love him as myself?' "—May God bless the brother and make him a blessing.

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. NEUENSCHWANDER, Secretary

Altoona, Pa., Jan. 2, 1941

Greetings in His blessed Name.—Once more we have entered into a new year, not knowing what the year may bring, but we know our Lord and Master is going before us and we can simply put our hands in His, as He leads us on.

The Lord has been very precious to us this past year. We have been drawn nearer to Him and He has become more and more real to us. The work has been going steadily on. The year closed with an average attendance in S. S. of eighty. The average church attendance is somewhat lower, about 30. It is quite a problem in the city to keep the young people, where so many other things lure them away from God's house. However, if one really has the love of Christ in his heart, all the pleasures of the world will not satify, but he will seek the pleasures at the right hand of God forevermore.

The boys and girls are showing real interest in the Bible Club held every Sunday night, which takes the place of the Junior C. E. The attendance has been increasing. They memorize Bible verses, learn new choruses, and for our Bible study we have the gospel of John, using the Flannel-graft, Scripture chart, and also object lessons. Our Friday night service for boys and girls, held during the winter months, is being continued. We have one hour of Bible study and one hour of handwork. The attendance so far has been more than last year, the highest being 39.

Sometime ago a Lutheran woman asked Rev. Slotterback to visit a sick neighbor of hers who was in the hospital—a girl of thirteen years. Besides the girl there were three other children in the family, ages fifteen, eleven and nine. The children had never gone to any S. S. before. Since their home has been visited the three have been attending S. S. and Friday night service regularly. The mother of the girls reports how the sick one has been crying to come too. How we need to pray for these young hearts as well as all others that they might really find Christ.

Cookies were again distributed both at Thanksgiving and Christmas time. These were donated by the Girls' Mission Bands of the Ebenezer and St. John churches in Ohio, as well as a box from the home folks.—The children gave a very good Christmas program. A nice crowd was present. A Night Watch Service was held on New Year's Eve, with a program of special music, prayer and praise, and a brief message based on Phil. 3:13.

We wish to thank all the friends for their interest in the Altoons Mission and also for the greetings received from the various mission societies.

—Mrs. E. F. Slotterback

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

Kaichow Hospital

To the Members of the Mission Board:

Dear Brethren: The service of the Kaichow Hospital continues to extend. The popularity of it is shown by the clinic visits which this quarter total as follows: Men, 5342; Women, 1911; Children, 1873. Total 9126.

This number of visits for the three month period means an average of 100 patients seen in the clinic per day. These patients come from varying distances many of them from 50 to 70 "li" of Chinese "miles" which would be equivalent to 13 to 23 miles, they come by foot or wheelbarrow or are carried on beds or home made stretchers. Many of them cannot return the day they come as it is too far. Some come from up to 150 "li" or 50 miles.

We have admitted 337 patients for hospital care, making a total of 573 for the first half of this year, and we have performed 179 operations during the quarter, under local anesthesia 102, general anesthesia 22, spinal anesthesia 46, intravenous anesthesia 2, and without anesthesia 7.

Each quarter seems busier than the one before and this again has more patients than ever before. During the quarter I made two trips to Peking to see my family and the last one at the end of May I brought them back to Kaichow where we are all living now and hope to spend a peaceful year at work.

The hospital building progresses and we have the outside work finished, but there is much to finish off inside.

I am writing this during the summer when I am especially busy as our Chinese Dr. Hu has gone to Peking for a postgraduate course and the other doctor, Dr. Balazs, who was to be back developed dysentery on the way and has been laid up in a mission hospital. I expect him any day but have no definite word and in the meantime I am the only doctor for a hospital with 80 inpatients and a daily clinic of 100 patients.

I should also report that Mrs. Albert Janzten gave birth to a baby boy, August 5th, and that both mother and baby are well.

Respectfully, C. L. Pannabecker, M. D.

ANNOUNCEMENT

We are officially requested to announce the postponement of the Western District Ministers' Conference from January 28 to February 4, 1941. Our men may bring important reports from the Central Peace Committee meeting to be held in Chicago January 28.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A. S. Rosenberger

A Mennonite Seminary

by Ed. G. Kaufman

There are those who believe that Mennonites have gone to extremes in the training of their ministers in the past. On the one hand, some have insisted that no training whatsoever was necessary. On the other hand, some have insisted they must have high school, college, and theological training. Then there are those who have begun to wonder if either of these groups render the best service in a Mennonite community.

Ministers with no training whatsoever, although thoroughly consecrated to the Lord, will do much good, but fall far short of what they might do if they had some training of the right kind. Ministers with full college and theological seminary training are often too intellectual and too far removed from their people in their thinking in order to really be of the most help to them.

In recent years some have come to believe that Mennonite ministerial training should be somewhere between the two above-mentioned extremes and be of a different type than can so far be gotten in any established institution. The old type of seminary education had its outlook largely toward the big city, and, when ministers trained in that fashion came back to the rural churches, they found themselves at a loss.

Besides a sound Biblical and intellectual training, Mennonite ministers need training that will give them a rural vision and an outlook towards the country, so as to understand and appreciate the religious aspects of the rural way of life. This should be of a practical nature so that he can sympathetically and actually enter into the daily work and problems of his people. Below is a letter which illustrates what is meant:

Having learned from Mr. ———— of the work of Rev. ————, I gathered the following information by correspondence: The church has a roll of 183, with 135 active members. Average attendance at Sunday School is 129. The church owns a parsonage with a farm of 20 acres, of which two acres are in apple trees, two acres in peaches, while the remainder of the land is used for pasture and general farming. "The men of the church do the plowing, planting, and harvesting of the main crops."

"The church pays $600 per year salary, and the pastor receives the proceeds of the farm up to $400. Receipts above that go into the church budget."

Rev. ———— keeps 100 laying hens, two or three cows, and has "an average country garden." He calls himself "pastor and manager of the farm. He sent me a mimeographed report showing that the receipts from the farm were $943 and the expenses $381.79. After paying $400 toward the salary, there was a surplus of $136.22. There is a list of the labor donated by men in the community to help in the church farm work. Twenty-nine different men donated from forty-five to three hours apiece—most of them eight or ten hours. There is a list of fourteen others who loaned their teams, tractors, or helped in other ways. Fourteen others contributed half a day in husking corn, which is reported to have been real fun. There is a cooperative store in the community.

The pastor adds: "It is a very good plan. It puts you right with your people. A minister must be rural-minded if he makes a success of his work."

PUBLICATION

COMMENTS ON THE MENNONITE HYMNARY

A minister who knows music says: "I am more than pleased with the book. The binding, the material and workmanship are excellent, and the appearance is dignified and beautiful. Of the scores of hymnbooks in my library, this one seems to me to be the "tops" in every way."

An educated, intelligent Sister: "I am happily surprised that the Mennonites are capable of producing such an excellent hymn book."

A layman, greatly interested in church music: "A couple of years ago I gave you some suggestions about my ideas of a church hymn book. I have gone through a copy of the new hymnal from cover to cover, and am very much pleased with the book. I congratulate your committee for the noble and painstaking work you have done for the Church. The arrangement of the book is ideal for all occasions, and it will serve its purpose for a long time. I regret the fact that the new book has not appeared at the time of the Mennonite Hymn Book."

A musician, for thirty years music instructor in a well-known eastern college; for fifty-five years church organist, now eighty years old, but still playing his $50,000 organ and directing the church choir; expresses genuine appreciation of the book, then comments on its simple, dignified appearance, good binding and ease of opening it, the clear, attractive type, the fine arrangement and set-up of the book. He wishes that their book might have some of the chorales which he enjoys especially.

A high school instructor and church choir director: "The new Mennonite Hymnary is a fine collection of usable hymns. It ought to find a place in every Mennonite church and in every home. Mechanically the book is a masterpiece: good print, excellent paper, and bound as a fine book rich in content ought to be."

An educator, ardent lover of church music and congregational singing: "The brethren who have compiled and prepared the book and have seen it through to completion in its splendid make-up deserve our sincere gratitude. It is said that they went about their task in prayer and devotion. And can one not really sense the mind and spirit of God as one examines the contents and arrangement of the book? May we not assume that He intended the Mennonites to have a hymn book suited to their spiritual needs and their faith? Can churches who hesitate to make early use of this book afford to go on missing the blessings He has helped to make available to them through its use?"

SALE OF THE HYMNARY

At the MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, Newton, Kansas, orders totaling close to 2000 copies have been placed, partly filled or reported, coming from such churches as: Eden, 400 copies; Bethel College, 308; West Zion, 254; Hillsboro, 150; Gnadenberg, 150; Hebron, 145; Johannestal, 115; Hanston, 75, all in Kansas; Bethel Church, Mt. Lake, Minn., 300.

No definite report is in from our book store at Berne, Ind.; but we know of several orders that have gone or are going there. The manufacturers of the book, the Methodist Book Concern, Dobbs Ferry, New York have been notified to get the remaining 2000 copies of the 5000 edition ready.

Now I am for the Churches

By Roger William Riis

EDITOR'S NOTE: In the October number of READER'S DIGEST there appeared an article entitled "Why I Do Not Go to Church" by Channing Pollock. Within a month 15,000 replies from many parts of the world reached the "Reader's Digest" office with vast outpourings in defense of the church. Out of an unusually large number of truly enlightening and practical articles the best was chosen for the January number of the "Digest." Its editor sent us a reprint about December 18 that we might publish it in The Mennonite ahead of the "Digest," but we just couldn't manage to bring it before the close of the year. We bring it now for the benefit of the many readers who have not yet read it and we hope that those who have will pardon us.

NOTE WELL: The management of "Reader's Digest" offers to send fifty copies of the reprint of this article to any clergyman who requests them.

Six months ago I scoffed at the churches. Then one day, on a sudden whim, I attended a service. Since then I have been going steadily, first out of curiosity to see what the much-attacked churches are up to, lately out of rising excitment. I have not "got religion;" I always had that. But I have found out that churches today are dispensing something I need, and that church and religion go together.

One Sunday last May the newspaper offered me this: "Rotterdam is ablaze. Shooting is heard in every street." That was the morning I happened into a church, for the first time in 22 years. And what did the church offer me? A simple, reverent service, featured by a sermon on "Peter, The Rock," on the permanence and beauty of the church.

I found that I was acutely interested in hearing about anything that had permanence, beauty and unselfish endeavor. It fell on my spirit like water on a desert, and I went out stirred and grateful.

A week later I took my curiosity to another church and heard the minister, in a singularly lovely building, talk simply and beautifully on "The Ascending Life." Without a trace of sanctimonious heroics, he conversed informally about the insistent demand of life to rise, to grow, to improve itself. It was adult, it was spiritual; and to me, personally, it was helpful.

Since then, business and vacation travel took me about the country, I have made it a point to attend and study churches — all kinds. I have tried to discover what makes the leading churches vital in their communities.

And I state with assurance that the critics of the churches today don't know what they are talking about. True, a minority of churches still offer a dull, repellent form of salvation, some in ugly buildings, some with painful music, some with humdrum ministers. But you don't have to go to those churches, nor need you condemn all churches because some fail.

It is obvious that the assailants of churches do not go to church. They don't know what the churches are doing these days. I suspect the critics rationalize what is really laziness into a superior intellectual attitude. At any rate, that is what I used to do.

Now I am for the churches because they have something for me, and something for civilization. Dr. Ernest Fremont Tittle, of Evanston, Ill., one of the clearest voices I have heard, says, "Let God be thanked there is on earth an institution that has a high opinion of man, declaring that he is in some sense a son of God who has within himself divine possibilities; an institution that transcends race, nation and class; an institution which is loyally undertaking to embody the spirit of Christ, and in his name to relieve human suffering, promote human welfare and carry on a ministry of reconciliation among men."

I find myself unable any longer to answer that kind of platform with "I'd rather go into the woods and worship alone. Many of the clergy are dull men, concerned over trivial taboos. Anyway, Sunday is my day for loafing."

Time and again, I have found in church something which lifted my spirit. That, I now believe, was what I unconsciously sought. The churches' varied social activities mean nothing to me. But if countless others find social outlets in churches, so much the better. They get what they seek; so do I.

New York's beautiful Church of the Ascension has great wooden doors which open outward, but they are carved on the inside because they are never closed. Every year over 30,000 persons slip in at odd hours for a moment of quiet meditation. They get what they seek.

The remote hamlet of Jonesville, Va., has been holding an annual four-day prayer meeting for over a century. The day I was there 2000 people were in attendance. Men, women, children, earnest and devout. Revival stuff? No. Simple, direct Christianity. Love-thy-neighbor stuff. Good stuff. These people come from hundreds of miles around; they get what they seek.

When you go to church you should actively seek something. You must not go like an empty bucket, waiting passively to be filled. When you go to a movie, you take at least a sympathetic, hopeful attitude. That's the least you should bring to a church. Sunday after Sunday, I have seen congregations of 1000 and 1500 people, apparently getting whatever values they sought. Church attendance, by the way, is bigger than skeptics think, and is showing marked increases.

Why is one church a power in its community, while others are not? The clergy themselves say the personality of the clergyman is the most important reason. Naturally, many churches do not rise above the level of their communities. Churches are human institutions, clergymen are human beings; they are not all great spiritual leaders. But when they are—and they are often—they manage to make your relation with God an astonishingly practical, useful, alluring thing.

While church architecture, furnishings, and the quality of church music attract or repel worshipers, the clergyman stands out as the most influential factor. Most sermons are surprisingly good—and useful. Channing Pollock recently said that no one can deliver a "vital address" as often as a cleric must. True, but why miss the many vital addresses he does deliver? Mr. Pollock said that sermons are remote from world affairs. Yet half those I have heard interpreted world affairs from the Christian viewpoint. A third of them were concerned exclusively with Gospel teachings.

Successful churches are those whose clergymen set forth uncompromising Christianity, sticking closest to Christ's difficult but challenging teaching. That is the great asset of the church. The more vigorously a church proclaims it, the more people respect and follow that church.

What I like most about going to church is that it turns one's attention, willy-nilly, to higher things for at least a little while each week. Man does not live by bread alone; he requires some cultivation of the spirit. Even when I wandered into a church where the minister was dull, the music bad, the interior ugly, I have been compelled by my very presence there to think about things loftier than my daily affairs. That, I know, has been good for me.

In a world haunted by violence, churches do their human best to represent the spirit. I am warmly grateful for that when I am in church. Significantly, the two nations which are officially anti-church are the nations of Communism and Nazism; the nations where the churches flourish are the democracies, where the spirit of man is free.

It may be that the democratic way will not overcome the totalitarian way until and unless the democracies somehow crusade under the banner of the church. How can we defeat the destructive dynamics of Nazism and Communism unless we employ the constructive dynamics of the spirit?

William Penn said, "Men must be governed by God or they will be ruled by tyrants." The world today is his witness.

"To love God," says one minister, "is to believe, despite every appearance to the contrary, that slavery, war and crippling poverty can be banished from the earth, and that conditions favorable to the highest development of the human spirit can be created."

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

By Frank E. Gaebelin, Litt. D., Headmaster, Stony Brook School for Boys. From "THE PRESBYTERIAN," temporary for part of January.

JANUARY 25.—God is love. (I John 4:8).

If there is such a thing as a foundamental of the fundamentals, a single primary doctrine more basic than the other great doctrines, it is here in these words, "God is love." There, in seed, you have expressed the whole of Christianity. There is the initial motive for redemption and also for retribution. For a really loving Father must chastise as well as reward. Certainly those three words are the biggest phrase not only in Scripture but also in all the literature of the world. Yet, wonder of wonders, that phrase, tremendous though its meaning is, may be written in the human heart, whether of a child or an adult. "God is love." Are those words written in your heart, and do they find expression through your life?

JANUARY 26—This poor widow hath cast in more than they all. (Luke 21:3)

It is significant that nowhere in the Gospels does the Lord Jesus hold up as an example great benefactors. There must have been philanthropists in those early days who gave large sums to the synagogues. But Christ's supreme example of giving is that of a woman who contributed one-half cent! In the heavenly record of contributions to the Lord's work her name stands among the first, far above those who have built cathedrals, endowed churches and educational institutions, and given princely fortunes to charity. Why? Because she "cast in all the living that she had." Regardless of wealth and circumstances, hers is an example all can follow. May we learn the blessedness of placing everything we have—home, talents, business, money, our life itself—at God's disposal! When we come to the place of casting in all that we have, God will show us how He wants us to use that "all" for Him.

JANUARY 27—Let us draw near (Heb. 10:22).

The context speaks of the "new and living way" of access to God through the blood of Jesus. And then there are the blessed words of invitation: "Let us draw near." Yes, let us draw near to God. He wants us close to Him. In order that we might be near Him He has rent the veil, even the flesh of His own Son. Why, then, should it be that we are far from Him? Oh Christian friends, let us daily draw near to God through prayer and meditation upon the Word. And having drawn near, let us abide in His Presence all the day.

JANUARY 28—The valley of Achor for a door of hope (Hosea 2:15).

The valley of Achor had a dreadful history. It was the place where the iniquitous Achan was stoned to death in the days of Joshua. The word means "trouble," and the very sound of its syllables is dolorous. But here in this phrophecy that so scathingly denounces the unfaithfulness of Israel as spiritual adultry, Jehovah promises that for erring Israel He will turn the dark valley of Achor into a "door of hope." And that is exactly what our God is always doing for His children. The darkest place in our lives may become, in His overruling providence, the door of hope. The very depths of sin finally bring the prodigal to his senses and God turns them into the door of salvation. Let us not forget that our great God knows how to sanctify to us our deepest distress.

JANUARY 29—I hate, I despise your feast days, and I will not smell in your solemn assemblies (Amos 5:21).

Thus does Jehovah voice His enduring hatred of worship that is but a sham. Israel had wandered away from Him; in her heart and in her practice she had rendered homage to Moloch and Chiun. What value then had her ceremonial worship of the true God? Indeed is was turned into an offense before Him, because is was but an outward practice. It is well for us of a latter day to remember that God still demands the full allegiance of the believer's heart. One does not have to offer incense or bow before idols to worship strange gods. The dedication of time and thought and money to objects and pursuits allied to the god of this age, even Satan, constitutes the sort of idolatry that, when consistently practiced, vitiates the formal worship of the one true God. Dear friends, let us give time and prayer, and Bible reading, and attendance at church, but let us never forget that even the most pious words and religious practices may become intolerable to God when they are tainted with unreality.

JANUARY 30—But we will give ourselves continually to prayer and the ministry of the Word. (Acts 6:4).

The twelve have sought out deacons, so that they might be more free for the most vital spiritual practices. And so they declare their intention of giving themselves to prayer and the ministry of the Word. The apostles had power. When they spoke, men and women were converted. Why? Well, our verse gives the secret: First, prayer; then, the ministry of the Word. To these two things and in this identical order the twelve gave themselves. If we Christian teachers and preachers would first and always give ourselves to prayer and then preach and teach, there would be new miracles of grace throughout the church. It's a simple recipe, but there's power in it—first prayer, then ministry.

JANUARY 31—He knoweth our frame; he remembereth that we are dust. (Psalm 103:14).

Let us link this blessed verse with one of the most heartening sentences our Lord Jesus Christ ever spoke: "Lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world." (Matt. 28:20). Here is a marvelous thing! The Lord Jesus knowing our weaknesses through and through, remembering perfectly that we are but dust, still promises to be with us always, yes "even unto the end of the age." Thank God, this assurance is not conditional upon our perfection. It is freely given by the Lord Jesus to poor sinners in the full knowledge of their helplessness. Oh, the grace of Christ in promising His abiding Presence to us who are redeemed by His precious blood.

CHRIST'S CONCERN FOR THE LOST

Luke 15:1-10 Read Chap. 15

Topic - Our Part in Reaching the Unreached

Introduction

The parables of our lesson portray God's interest in people's welfare. His intense concern in His creatures seems unreasonable to many. Our lesson parables and the Golden Text show that He is so greatly concerned that He sent His Son to seek and save the lost. Man's salvation causes rejoicing in heaven. We should realize that God's estimate of man is true and our concern for a lost soul should be great.

The Murmuring Theologians vs 1, 2

The parables of Luke 15 are the direct answer of Christ to the criticism of the Pharisees and scribes (v2). Jesus attracted the outcasts, the despised classes (v1). They came to hear Him. Jesus was glad to see them come and welcomed them most cordially (Matt. 9:10-13). The Pharisees murmured, criticised Jesus (v2) for doing so. They shunned those whom they called "sinners," separated themselves from them. Their slur (v2) intimated that Jesus desired the company of these "sinners," whereas His purpose was to help, to save them. The Pharisees idea of goodness consisted in separating themselves from sinners. Jesus' idea consisted in saving, helping them by coming close to them and among them. The Pharisaic idea still survives among only too many professing Christians.

The Lost Sheep vs 4-7

This parable and the following one show God's divine love seeking the sinner. The shepherd of this parable, in his concern for the one lost sheep represents God and His concern for His lost sheep. The loss of one sheep out of a hundred mattered very much to the shepherd. He could not feel content until the lost one was found (v4). Infinitely more is God concerned about one lost soul, and each wayward one whom we may help to recovery, is a challenge to us. The lost sheep represents one who really belongs to the fold but has wandered from it. A sinner is like a sheep gone astray. God follows the straying sheep until He finds it.

The joy in recovering the lost sheep is as great as was the anxiety over its loss. Our joy over the salvation of a lost soul is only as great as is our appreciation of the worth of a soul. God in heaven rejoices even more than the sinner himself. He takes more delight in a truly repentent sinner than in those who in their own estimation do not need repentance.

The Lost Coin vs 8-10

The lost coin possibly was one of the ten in the woman's marriage necklace and its loss meant very much to her. She could not rest until the lost was found. She searched most diligently until she found it. So God, the Holy Spirit seeks the lost. So the Church should seek. So we should be concerned. The woman's joy in the recovery was as great as her sense of loss in the losing. Does the Church of today rejoice over the finding of the lost one as God and Christ do, as heaven rejoices?

God expects us as Christians, to have a share in restoring, in finding those who are lost. He expects us to care and will hold us responsible. God sent His Son to seek and save the lost because of His great love for them and we should have love for all whom God loves. He expects us to be co-workers with Him in reaching the straying, the lost. The Church is God's representative among men.

Why does the Pharisaic idea of shunning sinners still prevail today?

Why are evangelistic meetings not as effective in reaching the unreached as they once were?

How far do we fall short in having Christ's concern for the lost?

CORRESPONDENCE

IMMANUEL MENN. CH., LOS ANGELES, CAL.

The old year has closed and a new year has begun. How our hearts are filled with praise and thanksgiving to God for His loving kindness and tender mercies to us all during the past year! We have lived in peace and have been protected from all that would harm. As a church we have been greatly blessed and prospered. Throughout the year our various services have been conducted without interruption and with good attendance. Important improvements have been made in the house of worship. Our pastor has faithfully preached the Word to us, and made plain the way of salvation, and ministered comfort and exhortation. Thirty-one persons have been added to the membership, sixteen by baptism and the rest by letter or reaffirmation of faith. Two have entered their Eternal Home and are in the presence of their Lord—Mr. Wilfrid Anderson, one of our deacons, was taken early in the year, and Mrs. Van Nattan, one of our shut-in sisters, was called just two days before Christmas. Of her we can say, how graciously has the Lord released her from her pain and physical handicaps which she had endured for years, always with a sweet testimony of hope and trust in her Lord.

Since our last correspondence, the outstanding events were, on Nov. 10,the ordination of Mr. Chris. Ummel to the ministry in the morning service, and the Woman's Missionary Society annual program in the evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Ummel showed stereoptican pictures of the Migrant work in which they are engaged, near Shafer, Calif., and described the conditions and great physical and spiritual need of those unfortunate people. On Nov. 24 the Sunday School had Desicion Day. One little girl who came forward to accept Christ that day, was run over at a street crossing two weeks later, and killed. How thankful we are to know that she had a sure entrance into heaven. Since early fall the church has sponsored eight or ten Neighborhood Bible Classes which meet weekly in convenient homes, under the supervision of Mrs. H. C. Kersting. About eighty boys and girls of grade-school age attend the classes. This is a most worthwhile project and should bear much fruit for eternity. — During the Christmas week, a beautiful cantata, "The Heavenly Child," was given by the Choir on Sunday evening, the 22nd. On Christmas morning the church gathered for a worship service, thus emphasizing the true meaning of

Our confidence for the new year is "Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and today, and forever." Heb. 13:8.

HEREFORD MENN. CHURCH, BALLY, PA.

Greetings to all:

After the rush and hurry of the holiday season has passed, the well-wishing of the New Year extended to all friends everywhere, we pause to catch our breath and perform the duties or routines of our workaday world. Our congregation enjoyed a wonderful joint service with the Schwenkfelder Congregation at Palm on Thanksgiving evening. Dr. Elmer E. S. Johnson, our pastor, brought the message appropriate for the season. The Primary Department rendered their Christmas program on Sunday morning, December 22. A wonderful program was presented to the enjoyment of all present. The Intermediate and Senior Departments rendered the Pageant, "At the Manger," on Christmas evening to a filled house. This was an appropriate pageant for the present day and conditions of the world. All organizations have held their annual business meetings and planned the activities of the next term of office. All gave encouraging reports.

During the past summer our congregation was merged with the Menno Simmons Church at Boyertown, giving us a gain of 12 members; whereas we report the following deaths, Edwin Moser, John C. Bechtel, Harry Bieler, Samuel Rosenberger, Mrs. M. A. Bechtel, Mrs. Edwin Huber, and Thomas Warner. Some of these held responsible positions in our church at various times which leaves a challenge for the best in all of us to fill the places left vacant. With the help of God we shall strive for greater activity and usefulness in the months to come.

BUHLER MENN. CHURCH, BUHLER KAN.

On January 1 our church had its annual business meeting where everything needful was arranged for the year. From our pastor's report we noted that the year just passed had been very rich in blessings for our church.

On January 4 our church celebrated the 20th anniversary of its organization, which took place December 27, 1920. Rev. Schmidt gave a short history of the church, followed by some statistics of the 20 years by J. G. Unruh. He related that 156 charter members constituted the organization, and that 124 of them are still living; but of these only 84 are members of the church at the present time. The others having moved away and consequently affiliated with other churches. The present membership stands at 317. Rev. A. J. Dyck of the Hoffnungsau church brought the message in which he reviewed all the blessings that the Lord had bestowed on us.

This week we will observe the week of prayer on three different nights. Tuesday, January 14, Rev. Walter Gering of the Eden church will bring the message. Wednesday evening Rev. T. A. von der Smissen of Hebron will be with us, and on Friday evening Rev. J. E. Kaufman of Inman will serve. We anticipate blessed times. Next Sunday, January 19, we will have a consecration service for all the newly elected officers of the church. Rev. Schmidt has again organized a catechism class with sixteen enrolled. We do not know what the new year will bring us; but let us take the bitter with the sweet and not loose faith in God nor in our fellowmen; for our God is still the same, yesterday, today, and forever.

So may we not grow weary in well doing, for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.

The mission of the Church to seek and save them that are lost.—Aughey

IN MEMORIAM

CHRISTIAN LOWENBERG, son of Valentine and Katherine Lowenberg, was born January 28, 1877, near Donnellson, Iowa, and departed this life on Nov. 21, 1940, at Memorial Hospital, Mount Pleasant, Iowa, at the age of 63 years. All of his life was spent in the Donnellson community. In his earlier years he was engaged in farming, later he successfully carried on a lumber business in town. At the age of thirteen he was baptized upon his confession of faith by Rev. Chr. Schowalter, and became a member of the Zion Mennonite Church, in which he was active until his death. For many years he was superintendent of the Sunday School and teacher of the young men's class, as well as a member of the choir and male quartet. He also held executive offices in the church and was its historian. Funeral services were held in the Zion church, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 22, Rev. A. Friesen, pastor of the church, spoke words of comfort from Isaiah 54:10.

MARY L. KREHBIEL, daughter of the late Valentine and Katherine Lowenberg, was born December 22, 1868, near Donnellson, Iowa, and resided in this neighborhood all her life. She was baptized Sept. 24, 1882, by Rev. Christian Schowalter in the Zion Mennonite Church of which she remained a faithful member to the time of her death. She was united in marriage to Rudolph R. Krehbiel May 15, 1892, who preceded her in death. Mrs. Krehbiel passed away at her home Sunday morning, Dec. 22, 1940, at the age of exactly 72 years. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 24, in the Mennonite church by Rev. A. Friesen. Interment was in the Mennonite cemetery.

GEORGE KRAHN, son of Isaac and Katherine Klassen Krahn, was born December 17, 1898, at Windom, Minnesota, and died December 23, 1940, at the age of 42 years and 6 days. He was baptized while a youth upon his faith in Jesus Christ as his personal Savior, and became a mmber of the First Mennonite church of Lostwood, North Dakota, which he served faithfully until the family moved to Warroad, Minn. He was a sincere Christian and took active part in all activities of the church, serving as member of the board of trustees, and Sunday School teacher. He was faithful to his end. He was united in holy wedlock with Anna Heppner Dec. 10, 1922, and shared joys and griefs of their wedded life with her, 18 years and 13 days. Three sons and one daughter were born to this union. One son, Alvin, died in infancy and one daughter, Rosella, in childhood, went before to welcome the father.

His health not having been very good the last year, he occasionally sought medical aid and on Dec. 17, he entered the Warroad hospital where he was operated on on the 19th for appendicitis. On the 22nd his condition grew worse and pneumonia set in, which caused his early death at the age of 42 years and 6 days. He submitted himself into God's will and bore all suffering patiently, although the pain was very severe at times. Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord. He is mourned by his grief-stricken wife, two sons, Walter and Willard, his parents, 4 brothers and three sisters, and a host of relatives and friends who mourn his early death, but not as those who have no hope.

Funeral services were held Thursday the 26th of December at 2:00 p. m., at the Woodland Mennonite church of which he was a member. Rev. A. F. Ortman, pastor, officiated. Burial was made in the Warroad cemetery.

ELIZABETH K. (nee SHELLY) SHELLY, daughter of Edwin and Cecelia (nee Kaufman) Shelly, was born in Richland Twp., Bucks County, Pa., on Aug. 16, 1881.

On Oct. 21, 1899, upon her confession of faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, she was baptized and received into the East Swamp Mennonite Church. During the past 40 years she has shown a constant interest in the work of the church. Being especially active in the Ladies' Aid Society for the past 13 years, and serving as Treasurer of that Society for 8 years.

The date of the funeral was set for Jan. 2, 1941. A short service was conducted at the home, after which the regular service was held in the East Swamp Mennonite Church. Interment was made in the Union Cemetery, Quaktertown, Pa. The Rev. Harold Burkholder, pastor at East Swamp, had charge of the service, using as his text, Eccl. 9:5 and Heb. 9:27.

NOW I AM FOR THE CHURCHES

That is extraordinarily practical Christianity. In fact, I cannot distinguish it from the democratic ideal in action. Believing that, I can no longer say that I would rather do my worshiping alone and that Sunday is my day for loafing.

It is an exciting spiritual adventure, this going to church. Try it. Pay no attention to denomination. Just out of the curiosity you owe your spiritual health, explore a little. You will almost surely find, in every community, one church that will give you what you want, even if you can't put that into words.

Whether or not we realize it, each of us has a personal spiritual quest. It is only ourselves we cheat if we ignore it. In this, of all ages, it is time we were about that quest. I find the churches a good place to pursue it. If they offered nothing but that, they should now be upheld by all men of intelligence and good will.

THE LATCHSTRING

From The Children's Story Garden, collected by a Committee of the Philadelphia Yearly Meeting of Friends, Anna Pettit Broommell, Chairman; copyrighted 1920 by J. P. Lippincott Company; used by permission. All of the important events are true. Names of characters are fictitious.

"Well, perhaps we ought at least to bar the door, for the sake of the children." Mary Tyler spoke reluctantly,and there was a note of uncertainty in her voice.

"Perhaps so," replied James Tyler. "It seems to me every man within five miles has upbraided me for not protecting my children."

Mary glanced with troubled eyes at the face of her husband, as they sat before the fire in their little cabin. She knew that he, too, was living over the uncertain days since the outbreak of the war. Time and again there had been reports that the British soldiers had incited the Indians to burn the cabins of the settlers and massacre whole families. Despite these reports, the Tylers had lived, as before, on friendly terms with their neighbors, both Indians and white men. When massacres had occurred in nearby settlements, they had still continued to leave out the latchstring, that leather thong which enabled a person outside the door to lift the latch and enter.

The Tylers had trusted entirely to the protection of their Heavenly Father, and had refused to arm themselves, or even to lock the door. Now they had reliable assurance that the Indians were coming to destroy their settlement. Neighbors urged that they had no right to imperil the lives of their children by such foolhardiness—that they should protect themselves.

"But is it really protection" Mary queried, as now they sat alone in their cabin.

"At least," responded James, "we shall be doing what most people consider safest."

For what seemed a long time, they sat gazing at the fire.

The silence was broken only by the moaning of the wind in the pine trees and the crackling of the logs on the hearth. For the first time in all the dark days, Mary felt afraid. She stirred uneasily and cast a furtive glance around the shadowy room. James rose and lighted a candle. He crossed the room and stood for a moment uncertainly beside the outside door. Then, with a deep sigh, he pulled in the leather thong, fastened the latch securely, and prepared for bed.

All night James tossed restlessly. Every time one of the children stirred, or a branch scraped the roof, he would start violently, and fall back unnerved. He tried to calm himself by repeating verses from the Bible, but instead of the usual comfort, the words only brought a challenge to his excited brain. "Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith?" "Take the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked."

"Mary," he whispered at last, "art thou awake?"

"Yes, James," she replied, 'for I have not slept. I have tried to pray, and always the answer has been, 'Behold the Lord's hand is not shortened that it can not save.' "

"Thou art right, Mary, the Lord's hand is not shortened and we did wrong to pull in the latchstring. Shall we put our trust entirely in Him."

"Aye, James, I should feel much safer so," she replied.

Quickly James stepped to the door and pulled the leather thong through to the outside. Then he lay down again and both enjoyed such a sense of peace and security as they had not felt for hours. Suddenly, just as they were about to drop off to sleep, they heard a blood-curdling war-whoop.

NOTICE

Looking forward to the coming Sessions of our General Conference this summer (D.V.), the Young People of the Eastern District have organized a committee to prepare for a Conference EXHIBIT, of Young People's work.

The purpose of such an exhibit room is mainly to supplement the Y. P. Sessions with helpful suggestions on the work and activities of our Mennonite youth, and to illustrate in a small measure, what has been done in the past throughout our General Conference.

An invitation is hereby extended to the Young People of our congregations everywhere, to contribute or loan such suitable material prior to the Conference Sessions.

Assigned definite duties on the committee are the following: Clarence Kooker, Flatland; Theo. Moyer, Deep Run; John Moser, Bally; Stanley Fretz, Lansdale; Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Weidner, Allentown; Wilbur Lauer, Phila.; Anna Weiss, Milford Square, Pa. is the chairlady.

Look for additional information in an early issue.

SIXTY YEARS SERVICE

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR'S SIXTIETH BIRTHDAY

Romans 12:1-5

I. Worship Service

1. "Love divine, all love excelling," "Christ for the world we sing," "We've a story to tell to the nations."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer.
3. Bibliography of Francis E. Clarke, the founder of the Christian Endeavor Society.
4. Offering for Christian Endeavor project.

II. Leader's Introduction

The Christian Endeavor Society was born on the evening of February 2, 1881, in a meeting of young people in the home of Francis E. Clark, minister of the Williston Congregational Church, Portland, Maine. Within two or three decades of its founding, the Christian Endeavor Society was the most extensive organization movement in Christendom with cooperating groups in hundreds of thousands of churches in all parts of the world. From the standpoint of membership, Christian Endeavor is truly interdenominational, international, and interracial.

Let this birthday of Christian Endeavor be a day of inspiring memories, but a day of renewed dedication as well. The call of Christ is to tasks ahead, if the Kingdom is to be a reality.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Praise God for blessings Ps. 117
2. Reward for faithful service Mt. 25:34-36
3. A service motive I Cor. 15:58
4. Open door of the future Rev. 3:7-8

IV. For Discussion

1. In what ways has the Christian Endeavor Movement been a hand maiden to the church?
2. What aims should the Christian Endeavor have?
3. What local projects should it support?

V. Facts for Study

Our Christianity, if it is to grow, needs expression in word and deed. The opportunity to speak of their convictions and of their asperations offered to young people in C. E. meetings. They get help through the discussions in clarifying their thoughts, and grow in knowledge of the Bible and the Christian way of living. They gain enthusiasm and inspiration through their fellowship. The tie that binds them together in Christian love for service to others is strengthened and deepened. It also gives opportunity to use and develop their talents for singing, for speaking, for giving. It offers opportunity to meet socially those who have similar interests and ideals. It teaches young people how to work together in the cause of the Kingdom of Christ.

Can Christian Endeavorer's "Six Bricks" also produce such results?

A minister who went to preach in a Northern village asked on his arrival to be driven to Ebenezer Chapel. The driver said, "Ebenezer? Oh, you mean little Charlie's Chapel, don't you?" "No, I mean Ebenezer." The cabman then said, "You see, sir, we always call it little Charlie's Chapel. Charlie laid the foundation stone." He went on with the story.

The people in the village wanted a new chapel, but they were poor and materials were costly, so they gave up the idea. A few days later a little boy came up to the minister's home, pushing a toy wheelbarrow, containing six bricks. He rang the bell, and the minister himself came to the door. The lad said, "I heard that you had given up the idea of a new chapel, so I brought you these six bricks that a builder gave me, to start with." The minister called a meeting of the people and related the incident. It had such a powerful effect upon them that hope took the place of despondency, and now there stands a fine chapel—the result of Charlie's example.

Call to Worship

"The slave's chain and the master's alike are broken
The one curse of the race held both in tether;
They are rising, all are rising,
The black and white together."

Booker T. Washington

Spiritual: "We are Climbing Jacob's Ladder"
Scripture Lesson: Gen. 28:10-19; Acts 26:19
Spiritual: "Lord, I Want to be a Christian"
Prayer: (in unison)

"O Lord, help us to love Thee with all our heart, with all our mind, and all our soul, and our neighbor for Thy sake; that the grace of charity and brotherly love may dwell in us, and all envy, harshness, and ill-will may die in us. Fill our hearts with feelings of love, kindness, and compassion, toward men of every race, so that, by constantly rejoicing in the happiness and good success of others, by sympathizing with them in their sorrows, and putting away all harsh judgments and envious thoughts, we may follow Thee, who art the true and perfect love; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

Leader's Introduction:

"Slow moves the pageant of a climbing race" said Paul Lawrence Dunbar, one of the greatest of our negro poets. When we think of the progress of the descendants of Africa in an alien land and civilization, let us recall that it took about 200 years for our northern European ancestors to become Christians even in name. In our study today we shall try to trace, in an attitude of sympathy and understanding, the progress of the American negro in his struggle upward.

"When more than 4,000,000 Negroes were suddenly set free, nearly all of them were illiterate, without training in self-direction or self-support and without property. Imagine their helplessness and confusion! After the war with incredible facility, former slaves and slaveholders adjusted themselves to new conditions. General John B. Gordon, a great Confederate leader, when asked how the negroes conducted themselves after the war replied: 'They have behaved so well that the remark is not uncommon in Georgia, that no race on earth, relieved from servitude under such circumstances as they would have conducted themselves in such a worthy manner.'"

Telling Facts about the struggle upward in education:

1. In 1930, according to the Federal Census, 16% of negroes are illiterate, as against 95% to 97% in 1865.
2. Fifteen southern states now have a total investment of $85,000,000 in Negro public schools.
3. In 1930, there were only 2,289,389 Negro children in the common schools in the south, 68% of those of school age.
4. The average expenditure for white children in the south was $44.31; the expenditure for Negro children, $12.57.
5. Nearly all the private Negro colleges are supported by white Home Mission Boards.

Negroes in Industry:

Increasingly, Negroes are entering the skilled trades, such as masonry, iron work, carpentry, brick laying and plastering. They are being forced to fight every step of their way, however, as racial discrimination meets them at every turn.

Hymn: "More like the Master"
Silent Prayer
Piano Postlude: "We are Climbing Jacob's Ladder"

(Permission for the use of the material in this and next week's topic was given by the Education Division, Women's Miss. Soc. of the United Lutheran Church.)

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

Outline for February, 1941

"CHRIST OUR GREAT EXAMPLE"

Feb. 2—In Youth
Feb. 9—In Time of Temptation
Feb. 16—In Serving
Feb. 23—In Prayer and Worship

Verse for the Month — John 13:15, "For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you."

Song for the Month — "Stepping in the Light," S. H. 309.

Prayer for the Month — "Teach me thy way, O Lord; I will walk in thy truth." Ps. 86:11(a).

"CHRIST OUR GREAT EXAMPLE IN YOUTH"

Program for February 2, 1941

Setting: For a worship center place a large copy of the noted painting portraying "Christ in the Temple or The Carpenter's Son."

I Worship Period

1. Prelude - "Where He Leads I'll Follow" S. H. 217
2. Call to Worship - Praise ye the Lord. Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord, that delighteth greatly in His commandments." Ps. 112:1.
3. Worship in Song - "Where He Leads I'll Follow" S. H. 217
4. Worship in Scripture - Luke 2:41-52
5. Worship in Prayer - Leader's Opening Prayer
6. Leader's Introduction - During this month we are going to look unto Jesus in a special way as our great Example of Pattern. Christ is not only an example for older folks to follow, but He is also a pattern for each one of us to look unto to learn from Him, for He, too, was a child like we are and He had many of the same temptations, opportunities and joys that we have. God said of Jesus, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." We, too, want to please God, therefore, let us see how Jesus lived during his childhood and learn of Him.

II. Study Period:

1. Short talks by several Juniors on the following topics:
    a. Christ's development during youth, Luke 2:40, 52.
    b. An important event in Christ's youth, Luke 2:41-49.
    c. Christ's obedience to His earthly parents, Luke 2:5(a).
2. Song - "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee," S. H. 380.
3. Leader's Heart Talk

III. Mission Minutes:

A short discussion about our first missionaries to India. Base the discussion on the picture found in the Missionary News and Notes, Jan. 1941.

IV. Closing Moments:

1. Memorize the verse for the month
2. Memorize the first verse of the song for the month and sing the song.
3. Pray the prayer for the month

IN MEMORIAM

AGNES SCHROEDER, nee Warkentine, the daughter of Henry and Margrete Warkentine, was born March 24, 1875, in South Russia. In 1876 she with her parents came to America. She was baptized in 1894 and joined the M. B. Church. On Jan. 2, 1895, she was united in marriage with Jacob Schroeder. To this union 7 children were born. One daughter preceeded her in death. She joined the Hoffnungsau church in 1895. In 1920 she became one of the charter members of the Buhler Mennonite Church.

After suffering for 3 months she passed away on Dec. 26, 1940. Funeral services were held Sunday, Dec. 29, with Rev. Schmidt in charge.

WEDDINGS

DICK—KLAASSEN.—On December 27, 1940, at 7:00 p. m. in First Mennonite Church, Mt. Lake, Minn., Marcella Marie, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. I. J. Dick, to Nick A. son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Klaassen, Windom, Minn. The ceremony was read by the father of the bride. The couple is at home in Morgan, Minn., where the groom is instructor in industrial arts and music in the high school. The bride was a member of the local hospital staff. Both are members of First Church, Mt. Lake.

More churches are sending in their weekly Bulletins which occasionally contain items for the Jottings column. Among the latest are: First Church Newton, Kansas; Lorraine Avenue Menn. Church, Wichita, Kansas; Roaring Spring Church, Penna. We appreciate these contributions.

—Rev. and Mrs. J. B. Epp are now located at 2419 E. First Street, Los Angeles, Calif. They are staying with their adopted Hopi daughter and her Philippino husband and their three children. Mrs. Epp has been there since October. They have had a standing invitation to make their home there at least temporarily, and feel that their stay will be helpful also in a spiritual way.

—Oklahoma Bible Academy has this correction of a statement they made concerning their Bible Conference: Room for five weeks, $2.50, not two weeks.

—Freeman Junior College.—With a small collection of articles donated by Mr. Charles Kauffman the College has started a MUSEUM. They are anxious to have friends add to this collection. The Bulletin says, "There is probably no home without at least one article of historic significance. A thorough search through the attic and the tool shed might result in important discoveries. Such articles will be a valuable contribution to the museum."

—Second Menn. Church, Beatrice, Nebr.—In the correspondence of last week the linotypist omitted part. It should have been: "Bro. E. G. Wiebe was elected on the church board, Mrs. E. G. Wiebe on the vacation Bible school board," and "Encouraging reports were also made by the Tabitha and Mary-Matha sewing circles as well as by the Sundrai Bai," etc.

—First Church, Newton, Kansas.—Few churches are making larger use of their church building than this one. With full programs on Sunday forenoon and evening, weekday evenings are also used; thus in one week: Monday evening, Meeting of the Ever Ready S. S. class; Tuesday, Mission Study Circle; Wednesday, S. S. Teachers' meeting and Adult Bible class led by Rev. G. A. Linscheid; Senior choir rehearsal; Fellowship and Study Hour for Y. P. above college age, and Y. P. choir rehearsal; Saturday, Junior choir rehearsal.

—Bluffton College.—The remodelled College chapel will be dedicated Sunday afternoon, January 9. Rev. Wilmer Shelly of Wadsworth, Ohio, will deliver the main address.—A committee consisting of President Ramseyer, Professors Lantz and Bauman has been named to advise drafted students concerning their problems as conscientious objectors.—At the faculty club meeting, Monday, January 6, Prof. Lantz gave an interesting sketch of the history of the opera, using as illustrations recorded selections from Wagner's Tannhauser.

—The Lorraine Mennonite Church, Wichita, Kans., brings this WELCOME in its bulletin: "To all who mourn and need comfort; to all who are tired and need rest; to all who are friendless and want friendship; to all who are homeless and want sheltering love; to all who pray and to all who do not, but ought; to all who sin and need a Savior; and to whomsoever will, this Church opens wide its doors and in the name of Jesus Christ the Lord, says: WELCOME."

—Menno Menn. Church, Lind, Washington.—Before us is an interesting and practical report given by the pastor of this church, Rev. E. J. Miller, at the annual meeting. It shows increased activity and progress of the group. The total of all receipts for congregational and other purposes was $3,642 in 1940 as against $1569 in 1939. The parsonage was enlarged and remodeled, nine new members were received, the pastor preached 94 sermons.

—Rev. P. A. Kliewer of the Ebenezer Church, near Bluffton, Ohio, writes: The Mennonite has recently reported that I am planning to relinquish the work as pastor at Ebenezer church. I do not want it to be understood that I am retiring from the ministry, only resigned as pastor of this church. I handed in my resignation in October, but it was not accepted until the yearly meeting, 1941. We are here until April 13, 1941. I shall continue to preach "The Word" until the Lord comes or takes me home."

—East Swamp Church, Pa., Bulletin, Rev. Harold Burkholder, pastor, reports: Sermons preached at W. Swamp, 59; outside engagements, 43; pastoral calls, 433; accessions, 23, 11 by baptism, 4 by letter, 8 on confession of faith; members lost, 3 by letter and 3 by death; active membership, 159, net gain, 17.

Aid to Conscientions Objectors

Necessary For Filling Out Form 47

Everyone who is a conscientious objector, whether he has other grounds for deferment or not, should ask for and fill out the "Special Form for Conscientious Objectors," Form 47, when he receives his questionnaire, for the following reasons: Classification is not permanent and therefore if those, now deferred on grounds other than conscience, are ever called into military service, a conscientious objector who has not made his claim at the beginning may be deemed to have waived his right to exemption as a conscientious objector. It should be remembered that those who object to all types of service except "work of national importance under civilian control" should check both boxes in the "Questionnaire" (Form 40—Section X).

What Classification Should be Requested

Conscientious objectors with dependents, physical limitations, etc., have wondered what classification they should request in the last question of the "Questionnaire" (Form 40) on page 7. The Selective Service Regulations in Volume III on Classification, paragraph 363, page 23, provide expressly:

"In the case of any registrant who claims to be a conscientious objector, the local board shall proceed in the ordinary course to classify him upon all other grounds of deferment and shall investigate and pass upon his claim as a conscientious objector only if, after physical examination, but for such claim,he would have been placed in Class I-A, Class I-B, Class I-D or Class I-E."

When conscientious objectors are placed in Class IV-E, that means they are physically fit and are liable for one year of "work of national importance under civilian direction" as soon as their number is called. There is no classification for conscientious objectors who are not liable to this year of civilian service. Therefore, if men should be deferred because of dependents (ClassIII), physical handicaps (Class IV-F), or work in some essential occupation (Class II), they should ask for such classification rather than IV-E.

To make clear that one is not waiving his rights as a conscientious objector, it is suggested that one state in the three or four lines provided, that under the Regulation, paragraph 363, he believes he should be deferred, but that he is a conscientious objector and must be placed in IV-E, if the class in which he is placed should be called up for military service later. This course has the advantage of calling paragraph 363 to the attention of the draft board and securing the normal deferrents for the individual while at the same time making it clear that his ultimate claim is that of a conscientious objector.

Appeal

Should there be any objections to the classification by the local board, it is important to file a written request to appear before the local board in person (without counsel) within five days of notice of classification; and if the local board does not grant the request, within another five days a written request for an appeal should be sent to the National Appeal Board.

European Relief Plans Still a Live Issue

The food problem in the occupied countries of Europe and in Spain and unoccupied France grows more acute as the winter wears on. Some months ago Mr.Hoover predicted that it would not be very serious until after the first of the year. The time of real hunger has now come. Soon it will be the time of starvation and epidemics. British opposition to lifting the blockade on foodstuffs shows no sign of weakening. Mr. Hoover has not, however, abandoned his plan, which involved (1) the purchase of food for these countries with their own money and its transportation in their own ships, (2) British permission for these shipments to pass through the blockade, (3) German guanantees that the food would be allowed to go to those for whom it was intended, and (4) neutral oversight of the distribution so that shipments could be stopped if the guarantees were not fulfilled. An alternative White House plan is said to be in preparation for submission to Congress. As reported, this contemplates using funds appropriated last year for the Red Cross to buy and store food in readiness to ship to the German-occupied countries as soon as German occupancy is withdrawn from them. This makes the feeding of the starving conditional upon a turn of the fortunes of war which, however much to be desired, is not likely to come soon enough to meet the need. Meanwhile British permission has been granted for a limited shipment to unoccupied France and Spain, and a Red Cross vessel will be dispatched within a few days. This is well enough so far as it goes; it is about the equivalent to giving a medicine dropper of milk to one child in a hungry kindergarten. The crucial point in any general plan of relief is whether it is possible to get food to, say the Belgians without having the Germans take it away from them or take an equivalent quantity of what they already have. If the British believed that could be done, one can scarcely doubt but that they would permit it. Mr. Hoover, who did that very thing during the First World War, believes is can be done again. But it was done then against Mr. Churchill's protest, and Mr. Churchill is in a more potent position now than he was then.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A. S. Rosenberger

by Ed. G. Kaufman

The quotations below are taken from an address delivered by one of the best authorities on rural life in America today in connection with the dedication of a new building at an educational institution which trains rural workers. We are purposely withholding the names of the institution and the speaker to avoid prejudices that might otherwise be aroused.

As you read over these articles of faith very carefully, you will notice how much they apply to our own Mennonite colleges, and especially to any proposed seminary. Besides these points pertaining to rural life there would, of course, also have to be articles pertaining to the Christian faith.

To quote the articles in full would require too much space. We are therefore limiting ourselves to those parts that seem especially pertinent to the total Mennonite picture as we understand it. How sad it is that others recognize the natural genius of the Mennonites and the lines along which we could make our greatest contribution, while so often we ourselves are so close to it that we cannot see it and, hence, in our shortsightedness try to imitate others by undertaking tasks for which we as a people are not at all qualified and which do not meet our peculiar needs.

I can give you today only very briefly the articles in our faith which sustain the staff and Board of Directors in our efforts to carry forward:

1. We believe there was a place for an institution which would conserve for our country and our religion the native values of rural life. . . . Every morning and evening you can see the Divine Painter illuminating the sky with colors no artist can equal. Rural life has its contribution to make to the great total of religious mysticism.

2. We believed there is a place for an institution which will vitalize and socialize the religious culture of a region. Some religions fight culture, some religions are the victims of culture, and some religions meet other legitimate cultural efforts and co-operate with them. . . .

3. We believe there is a place for an institutional adventure which places intelligence and inspiration at the disposal of people who intend to live in rural neighborhoods rather than at the disposal of people who intend to climb out of them. In general I think the church has spent millions of dollars on institutions which have become ladders by which people have climbed out of rural communities.

4. We believe there is a place for a program which works for a distributed rather than a centralized America. . . . Rural life has suffered because the city people have tried to do all the talking. For a whole generation the social creed of the churches proclaimed the rights and privileges of city workers without once recognizing that this might result in the poverty of rural workers. There is a place for a moral and thought center for rural causes.

5. There is a place for a rural institution which will immerse itself in the stream of rural life and be an observation, a listening and a service post as American rural life goes through that great industrial change brought on by our ability to manufacture and use machinery. . . . A new kind of immersion I believe in, and that is the kind which immerses itself in the stream of rural life even as Graham Taylor immersed himself in the river wards of Chicago and a half century later Chicago voted him the first citizen of its city.

6. There is a place for an institutional program which will try to keep alive the principle of self-help in a democracy. I spent part of last summer among the Mennonites in ——————. I was impressed with the solid nature of their culture and their inevitably great future. The key to their greatness lies in their widespread adoption of the principles of self-help. I noted the sizeof their rural churches, membership of 750 and 675 at Sunday School. Co-operative buying and selling and marketing, mutual aid insurance companies, old folk' homes and hospitals, colleges and other institutions. . . .

TAMING WOMEN'S WORK

Dear Brethren of the Mission Board:

This quarter has been a most interesting one for me, because there have been so many things that I have done for the first time. Even more than in other quarters do I feel that is has been mine to do the work and leave the results with God. In thinking over what has been done, comes the longing to be able to report in numbers, because they are definite and concrete, but God does not so lead at this time.

The clinic work has been somewhat varied. More than 400 vaccinations have been given, a number of them to workers on the relief work that Mr. Brown directed on the south suburb compound. Whether the vaccine was more powerful than in other years, or whether it was because people's immunity had run out, there were more 'takes' this year than ever. Smallpox and virulent measles both were very common in our area.

A Bible woman and I went to Shuang Ching, stayed for a week, and visited all the Christians connected with that church, emphasizing particularly family worship, and the responsibility of Christians for the overwhelmingly large groups of non-Christians in each village. We came home and shortly afterward started out for Kaotaun, where we spent two weeks, then a week at Tsingfeng, and later three days at Lung Wang Miao. The adventures of living completely Chinese, of riding every day over sandy or dusty roads, of sharing in devotions in homes, of encouraging those who had to meet bitter persecution because of their faith, of meeting people in isolated places who welcomed us as though we were angels, the heavy-heartedness that came as a result of seeing the coldness of some, have no place in a quarterly report, but they did much to round out my experience of country work. It was a great source of encouragement, too.

Strengthening the faith of these isolated Christians is important, as is the deepening of their spiritual life, in preparation for the testing time which is sure to come. However, many of them live very close to the Scriptures, and draw on them for judgment and knowledge as to how to meet what comes to them.

In each place occasional clinics were held, vaccinations given, and this frequently gave us contacts with those whom we would not otherwise reach. This clinic work, small as it is, has been definitely blessed.

As always, comes the longing that you at home will uphold these Chinese Christians and us in your prayers, that we may be faithful in spreading the good news, because truly NOW is the accepted time.

Respectfully submitted,
Wilhelmina Kuyf (August Ewert, Ev. Com. Chm.)

SMITH CORNER, PA., January 20, 1941

Another year has rolled into the past. Our prayer is that God may give us grace and strength to live closer to Him in 1941 than in 1940. Our pastor, Rev. J. S. Raugh, told us in his New Year's message that the Christian's life must show growth in grace and the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. II Peter 3:18. That if we were not better Christians now than we were a year ago, there must be something wrong in our lives.—During the last week of October, the week of evangelistic services, we took donations for the Eastern District Home for the Aged at Frederick. We shipped one barrel full and another about two-thirds full. This consisted mostly of canned fruits and vegetables, jellies, and potatoes.—On Sunday, Dec. 15, we held our annual business meeting in both the Sunday School and the Church. In connection with this the new officers for the year 1941 were elected. The other organizations all held theirs before, so that on Dec. 29 we could hold our installation service. In all 18 new and re-elected officers were installed.—During the year we gained twelve new members, bringing our membership to 71. Our S. S. is also growing. A new class had to be added at the beginning of this year, making a total of six, whereas we had only four five years ago.—Our church has just closed the best financial year that it has ever had. We are growing and we are also slowly learning to give for the cause of Christ. During the year we raised almost $450.00 in S. S. and Church, of which $104.00 was for the cost of the new roof. This does not include what the Y. P. Society, the Busy Bees S. S. class, the Ladies' Aid, and the Men's Brotherhood raised. This may not look like a large amount to some of our large churches, but to us who a few years back thought it a large amount if we raised $75-$100, this shows improvement. In all we give God thanks for it.

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by G. A. Linscheid

FEBRUARY 1.—"The evening and the morning, a day." Gen. 1:5b.

When daylight appears man arises and goes to his work, and when he has finished his day's work darkness comes again. Alas, how true that is of the use man makes of the blessings which God has vouchsaved him! No matter how great these blessings, man will sooner or later use them for the works of darkness, of destruction, of death—sooner or later he insists on turning the plowshares into swords and the pruning hooks into spears. In war man turns every device, every possible invention into a means of destruction and death. God works the other way. When He is through there is light. "And darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. And God said let there be light and there was light—evening and morning—a day." Are we the children of light? Does our life—our walk bear out our profession?

FEBRUARY 2.—"So God created man in his own image." Gen. 1:27.

God is spirit, therefore our bodily form cannot constitute the likeness of God. The likeness must be in the spiritual realm. God created man upright, not only as concerns the outer form, but according to the inner man also. This uprightness man lost, when he failed to be upright towards his Creator. The image of God is also inherent in man throughout this earthly life, in the right of self-determination of his attitude towards his Creator. This is man's God given prerogative—a likeness of God. That is why man can and does wander so far away from God—even becomes blasphemous towards his Creator. God is longsuffering and patient for "He will have all men to be saved, and come unto the knowledge of the truth." 1 Tim. 2:4. But there are many who make excuses and will not accept the invitation.

FEBRUARY 3.—"Be sure your sin will find you out." Num. 32:23.

Moses spoke these words at the time the Children of Israel were about to enter upon the conquest of the promised land. In a miraculous way the walled city of Jericho had fallen before them, but they suffered defeat before a small place called Ai, and lost 36 lives in the attempt. One man, Achan, because of his covetousness had brought this sorrow, suffering and disgrace upon his people, and dishonor to God. He tried to cover his sin, but to his own grief, and that of his whole family, he found that sin cannot be covered in that way. There is but one way for putting away sin so it will be remembered no more, and that is by the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world. It is a delusion of the evil one, to have the sinner think, that in course of time his sins will be forgotten. God says: "Be sure your sin will find you out."

FEBRUARY 4.—"Then shall ye return, and discern between the righteous and the wicked, between him that serveth God and him that serveth him not." Mal. 3:16-18.

We call going to the house of God to worship a service, and so it is, if we appear before God in spirit and in truth. It is one way in which we all can—unless physically impossible—bear witness to the fact that we fear the Lord, that we have faith in Him and want to serve Him. It was the custom of the Lord Jesus to go into the Synagogue on the Sabbathday, to hear what the Pharisees had to say, to warn the people not to do according to them. To the Pharisees themselves He said: "Ye are of your father, the devil." (John 8:44) "Then they that feared the Lord spake often one to another: and the Lord hearkened and heard it, and a book of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought upon his name."

FEBRUARY 5.—"Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will show thee." Gen. 12:1.

Even though we may not, like Abraham, have to leave our home community, nevertheless there are times and circumstances in life when we, too, like Abraham, are thrown into new avenues of life. It may be by financial reverses, by sickness or possibly the death of such whom we considered indispensible to our welfare—it may even be a combination of these conditions—that a divine dispensation permits to come to us. "Get thee out . . . unto a land that I will show thee." Abraham, by his indomitable faith, became the "Father of the faithful." "Behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat: but I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren."

FEBRUARY 6.—"I will not let thee go, except thou bless me." Gen. 32:26.

That the almighty One should be concerned and permit Himself to be importuned by sinful and rebellious creatures, is one of the mysteries with which we are confronted in His Word and in the experience of life. Israel, supplanting Jacob, is permitted to wrestle with the almighty One and, what is more astonishing, to prevail. 'Tis true, he leaves the place of engagement limping, but he is a new man—he is blessed. This mystery can have but one explanation: the loving kindness of the almighty One. But why did not Esau obtain an equal blessing? He was, humanly speaking, more righteous than his brother

Jacob. However, that is merely a matter of comparison, for there is none righteous only as the Lord becomes our Righteousness (Jer. 23:6). Jacob felt the need of this righteousness, Esau did not.

FEBRUARY 7.—"Let them make me a sanctuary; that I may dwell among them." Exod. 25:8.

Paul in writing to Timothy says: "Without controversy great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh." It is incomprehensible to the human mind how the almighty One can manifest Himself in the frame of a human body; but even greater is the mystery fo the indwelling of Christ in the frail form of a redeemed sinner. "Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?" What a challenge, to make our lives sancturaries—habitations—for the almighty One! When asked by one of His disciples, how that is possible, Jesus answered and said unto him, If any man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him. The keeping of His words is the making of a sanctuary in which the Almighty deigns to dwell.

The Individual's Responsibility Regarding Beverage Alcohol

Hab. 2:15; Gen. 4:9-12; Mk. 9:42-48; 1 Thess. 5:22

Topic: The Christian's Personal Duty Regarding Beverage Alcohol

Introduction

People often try to excuse themselves from personal responsibility for using beverage alcohol on the ground that social custom approves of it or that the law sanctions the manufacture, sale and use of it or even that some, perhaps many church members practice it. None of these are sufficient justification. The fundamental question is, Does God approve of it? Does it agree with the teachings of His Word? Is using beverage alcohol consistent with a supreme love for God and a sincere desire for the welfare of my neighbor? Popular approval is by no means a safe guide. The repeal of the 18th Amendment is no proof that drinking is harmless nor that we are NOT under obligation to abstain from it. Our attitude toward alcoholic drink must be settled between our soul and God.

We Are Our Brother's Keeper vs 15, 9-12

God has a righteous indignation toward those who put temptations into others' paths. Many, unable to resist, are led to fall. It is sinful and cruel to tempt another with drink (v15) and still worse to urge it strongly upon another. They who manufacture and they who sell alcoholic drink will surely be held accountable in the judgment day. The social character of the drink evil is one of its worst features.

Cain thought he could cover up his sin, but he could not hide it from God. His conscience asked the question which could not be ignored (v9). Many millions are asking it today. Many think they may make or use alcoholic drink themselves and that what they do is nobody else's business. They feel responsible to and for no one but themselves. God does not think so. He tells us plainly that we are our brother's keeper (vs 10-12) and that He will hold us responsible. The true Christian recognizes this FACT and lets strong drink—either home-made or purchased—severely alone. He is ever mindful of his influence with those with whom he associates.

Self-Denial is God's Law Mk. 9:42-48, 1 Thess. 5:22

Jesus makes clear in this passage, our social responsibility. It is a terrible thing to set an evil example before children. It is an exceedingly serious SIN to lead a soul astray or into the drink habit (v42). It were better to meet a violent death. Jesus gives a powerful warning regarding the eternal consequences of impenitent living. Great self-denial is needed. If anything as valuable and as dear to us as the hand, the foot or the eye, leads us astray or may cause us to fall, it is needful that we separate ourselves from it. No self-denial is ever too great when it enables us to be of real service to others. The Christian is to abstain even "from all appearance of evil." Using strong drink is recognized as a modern evil. Our young people, both sexes, are much exposed to it—and sadly, sadly true—some of them in the professedly Christian homes of their parents.

Words can scarcely express more pointedly our duty regarding our personal life than our Golden Text puts it. We are to be very particular in all things in life. There must not be any moral blind-spot which will sanction the use of strong drink. In our day there ought not to be any drinking Christians. We owe it to ourselves not to drink. The risks are too great. We owe it to others for our personal habits will influence others. We owe it to God.

What are some ways in which one may cause others to stumble?

How is it possible for a sincere Christian to be a user of beverage alcohol?

What can our homes do to help our young people see their Christian duty regarding alcoholic drinks?

Learn to teach the children to look at this world as a beautiful symbol of Jesus; every thing Jesus, Christ all in all. So shall you educate the imagination of children to receive, and their memories to retain and to use, that Christian truth, and you yourself shall be lifted up, as on angel's wings, to see with John things which are unspeakable.

Mennonite Ministers and Special Privilege

by Winfield Fretz

A very important ethical and religious problem confronts all Protestant ministers today but it is of special importance to Mennonite ministers. The problem demands thoughtful and prayerful attention from all serious minded men. The situation is created by the present conscription law. This law automatically places ministers and ministerial students in a deferred class. This is done without regard to their individual attitudes and convictions toward war, toward government or toward the conscription law. In other words, ministers are exempt as a class; they receive a blanket exemption from the draft. It does not matter whether they are enthusiastic militarists and strongly in favor of our participation in this war or whether they are ardent pacifists and opposed to all wars and against the use of violence at any time and under all circumstances.

The whole ministerial profession has thus been granted a special and privileged status not granted to any other civil or professional group. In all other groups such as government employees, business men, industralists, and physicians exemptions are made on the basis of individual merit. Ministers alone receive this special privilege of complete and unquestioned exemption.

How did this provision come to be written into the conscription bill? It was not through any effort on the part of Protestant ministers. We learn from authoritative sources that it was the pressure of the Roman Catholic forces that insisted on this exemption. The lawmakers would of course not wish to make religious discriminations and for this reason included all ministers in the exempt category, whether Catholic, Protestant or Jewish. Many ministers and lay people as well, may on first thought consider this a generous gesture on the part of the government to the clergy. Many ministers are accepting the privileged position without a murmur or a protest and are even thankful they are free from the possibility of being drafted and thus certain to be excused from a year of compulsory training and possibly actual military service. There are others however who refuse to accept this privilege and look upon the situation with grave concern.

Why is this an important ethical and religious question for ministers in some of the Protestant churches, and more particularly, for ministers in the Mennonite Church? It is because of the way the Mennonite Church has traditionally looked upon the office and function of the ministry. Mennonites from the very beginning of their history have looked upon the minister as a brother of his people; as one who is on a common level with laymen. He shares not only the joys and sorrows of their lives but in most cases enjoys no superior economic or educational status. The church itself is a fellowship of believers in which everyone within the fellowship is equal with everyone else before the eyes of God and the law. This idea of the ministry did not just happen. It was the result of a conscious protest against the dual ethical standards of the Catholic Church. Catholics have always upheld, and still do today, one standard of ethics for the lay people and another standard for the clergy. The intense pressure brought about by Catholics to secure special status for the clergy in the present conscription bill is therefore not unrelated to this double standard of ethics held by the Catholic Church. It cannot conceive of its priests submitting to the same demands, legal, political, moral that the lay members must submit to. If it is wrong for the minister to engage in military service, it is wrong for his people as well. If it is right for the layman to claim the status of conscientious objector and perform a year of alternative service for the public welfare, it is right for the minister to do so also. Unless the minister waives exemption and insists on registering as all other citizens must do when their numbers are called, he has no opportunity to put himself on an equality with his people.

Ministers who wish to renounce any special privileges granted to them and register in the same way all other people must, can do so by making proper mention of that wish on the official questionnaire in the "Registrant's Statement Regarding Classification" section on the middle of page seven. The draft board officials will respect this notation and enable the minister to appear before the law as all other citizens do. It is hoped that many Mennonite ministers will think seriously about taking this courageous step.

Mennonite Central Committee Relief Notes

Madrid, Spain, October 5, 1940—Letter to Lester T. Hershey, Mennonite Relief Committee, Scottdale, Penna. "You will understand that our schools cannot function, nor hospitals, nor orphanages, nor old peoples' homes, etc., and if anything is being done it is because our love for Christ constrains us, and because of the prayers and sacrifices of His children in other lands.

I have only a few moments to write these few lines, but I want you all and all the brethren there to know that your co-operation, 'in the Lord is not in vain,' for due to your help we can continue aiding the three orphans in El Porvenir (Mr. Fliedner's school) and four others eat from our table, as well as many others that are in prisons anl living in old shacks are receiving aid due to your generous donation which has been reduced now to 3,800 pesetas, not counting a few which should be paid back before the end of the year. I shall send you a detailed account of the uses of your donation on some other occasion." I Thess. 3:1-3; II Cor. 9:6,7.

20 Gordon Square WC1, London, England, Nov. 25, 1940, from Claassen and Coffman letter: "With regard to the Bibles which we reported to have supplied to the British prisoners of war in Germany, Mr. Barwick told us that the number had been changed to a total of 3,000 by using more Testaments and fewer Bibles, as an additional request had come for similar books for the internees in Gt. Britain. No additional funds are thus required.

In connection with the Nursery School which the Save the Children Fund have established at Long Barn in Kent, Mr. Claassen noted that the children were having to sleep on mattresses on the floor, because the nursery beds promised by the Br. Ministery of Health had not yet been received, and the children seemed to be subjected to unwholesome draughts on this account. Accoringly we purchased 28 camp beds of very simple make and loaned them to the matron for use until the others arrive. They can be used later in opening up new nursery schools which are projected, until the government beds are supplied in each case. The beds are made with a steel frame. We were very fortunate in finding some available and purchased them at quite a favorable price, paying a little over L25 for the lot delivered.

Health continues good, thanks to Divine Providence. Nights have been considerably quieter lately. We urge you to continue in prayer in our behalf, that our testimony might be used for the promotion of His Kingdom. It is interesting to notice in the sermons which we hear, a note of confession and real call to the people of the land for repentance and return to righteousness."

Fernheim, Chaco, Puraguay, December 17, 1940, Abram Loewen, Mennonite Central Comm.:— "Dear Brethren: The main purpose of this letter is to advise you of the present serious illness of our dear Bro. Jacob Wilhelm Siemens your agent and representative in Colony Fernheim. . . . Oberschulz Legiehn also referred to Bro. Siemen's illness. . . . On January 2, the Committee received cable from Puerto Casado in Spanish which was translated as follows: "Your representative Siemens has died."

Bro. M. C. Lehman, who has served the Committee from Britain in connection with its relief services in Poland since December 1939, returned to New York from Europe on December 23, 1940. Bro. Lehman plans to remain in the United States until about mid-February and then to again return to his field of service. He is at peresent engaged in a two-and-one half weeks tour of Mennonite centers in the middle west and is planning to contact a group of congregations in Ontario before his return. Ernest Bennett, Cumberland, Maryland, who has served in Spain and France for the past two years returned to New York January 14th. It is planned to have Bro. Bennett give full time service to the work of the Committee in the home land. Bro. Henry P. Buller, 426 East "I" Street, Ontario, California, who had been appointed to serve us in England is instead arranging to proceed to unoccupied France and to assist Bro. Wiens at that service. His sailing to Lisbon, Portugal, is arranged for February 1st.

Concerning the Committee's Civilian Service program under the Selectice Service Act: (1) In connection with the plans for seven initial work camps to provide for the early C. O assignees two of these will be set up and administered by this committee, the one being located near Grottoes, Virginia, and will initially provide for Mennonite assignees east of the Mississippi, the second near Colorado Springs, Colo., and which will provide for our western constituencies. The personnel organization necessary for opening these two camps is practically complete. M. C. C. Camp No. 3 will probably be located in Indiana and plans for its opening will be made just as soon as the volume of assignments to the other two camps will make a third one seem necessary.

(2) To date approximately 150 notices of IV-E classification among our Mennonite constituent groups have been received by the Akron office. From a study of this list it seems clear that over 200 such classifications have been made. The National Service Board secretary advises that local boards throughout the country will by January 25th or thereabouts receive the detailed regulations for assignment of Conscientious Objectors to the work camps in process of being set up, and that under present plans those certified by local boards should be receiving their assignments in early February.

(3) It is encouraging to note that to date all but three of the M. C. C. constituent groups have officially endorsed the provisions worked out by the committee through the Washington National Service Board with Selective Service headquarters for the service of our own C. O. draftees and have accepted the budget allocation made to these groups for financing the program to July 1, 1941. Present indications are that all of the groups will support this program as it is outlined and being planned.

—Compiled by A. Warkentin and O. O. Miller

—Rev. Adolph Friesen, who has served the Zion Mennonite Church at Donnellson, Iowa, as pastor the past five years, has resigned his pastorate, becoming effective June 1.

Yours truly, Mrs. Verda Loges, Corr.

The Mountain Lake Bible School

Prior to 1936 it became evident that the Mountain Lake Preparatory School would have to undergo drastic changes. At the meeting of the Board held in spring of that year the resolution was passed to change the course of study of the preparatory school to that of a Bible school. Mr. Cornelius Wall, then connected with the Bible School at Henderson, Nebraska, was invited to head the institution and work out a two year Bible and Sunday school teacher training course. It was agreed upon to open the Bible department for young people above the age of sixteen, and to retain the parochial school for children in the grades. Two more instructors were engaged, Miss Marie Epp, Henderson, Nebraska, to be mainly in charge of the secular work in the grades, and Miss Anna Regier, Steinbach, Manitoba, to assist in both divisions and teach the kindergarten.

In the Bible department the term was reduced to five months and all high school subject eliminated with the exception of English and German. The course not only satisfies the demands of the Evangelical Teacher Training Association, but is extended in number of hours demanded and subjects required. The enrollment in the first year was only nineteen students to whom to present the course. But the students soon realized what opportunities there were in attending this Bible school and their testimony did much to create interest in the school. The following year the enrollment rose to twenty-four. The students were more mature and presented a larger number of churches. The school became a member of the Evangelical Teacher Training Association, Chicago, and its name was changed to "The Mountain Lake Bible School." Rev. John Bartel was asked to participate in the work by teaching one hour daily. Great blessings resulted and the enthusiasm of the students brought the school to the attention of many.

Fifty-two students enrolled for the year 1938-39. More courses were added and Miss Tina Quiring was added to the faculty. Both teachers and students enjoyed the five months of intensive study of God's Word. Of special significance for future development was the school annual, "Golden Memories," started that year, and financed and published by students and faculty. Copies were distributed among the young people in churches and the local high school. This effort gave rise to increased attention. For 1939-40 new adjustments had to be made. The two year course proved too advanced for the younger students, so a preliminary course was introduced. Upon Rev. Bartel's resignation, Rev. Victor Sawatzsky was engaged for full time teaching. Enrollment in fall surprised many pleasantly, for it reached the seventy-nine mark, a large percentage being high school graduates. The spirit of the school was very good throughout the year. An atmosphere of devotion, consecration, fellowship, and close cooperation prevailed. It became evident, however, that a new adjustment would have to be made for the coming year. Students requested studies in music. Arrangements were made to meet the need by adding the music department with Mr. Otto Richert as instructor. The Bible Music course requires three years for completion. Just what the present school year has in store the near future will reveal. Another room has been fitted for classes in music. Great things are expected of the Lord. He again will answer the prayers of His children in behalf of the school.

An important part of the Bible school is the parochial department which ministers to the needs of the children. Youngsters of Kindergarten age to grade six inclusive are admitted. The Bible work is now done almost exclusively in English because of changes that have taken place in churches and homes. However, instruction in German reading and writing is still given to children whose parents desire it. In spring of 1939 the kindergarten was opened, and since then it seems to have become an established factor with the Mountain Lake Bible School. It is in session in fall the first two months of the school year, and the last two in spring.

The purpose of the school is:

a. To acquaint the student thoroughly with the Word of God—

b. To lead the student to the knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ as his personal Saviour—

c. To create in the student a longing for more intimate fellowship with the Lord—

d. To train the young people attending for active participation in the work of the Sunday school—

e. To cultivate appreciation for the church and respect for Christian principles. While the school aims to be distinctly interdenominational, Mennonite principles receive careful attention—

f. To return the student to his home church, a better Christian and a more efficient worker.

The school is very fortunate in being placed into the hands of a Board of brethren who are deeply interested in its development and are keenly aware of their responsibility to the community and the cause of the Lord as a whole.

LETTER FROM ERNST HARDER

"Wem Gott will rechte Gunst erweisen Den schickt er in die weite Welt..."

Ernst Harder

That is the way I feel when I look back upon my life during the last two years. I made many attempts to get out of the Chaco to continue my studies. My first aim was Asuncion, the capitol of Paraguay. There I secured a position as cashier in a German store where I worked during the day, while I took lessons in Spanish in the evening. That worked pretty well for one year, and I wanted to enter the German school. But because I could not find a half-day job, which would enable me to support myself, I had to turn around and go home.

Now my ambition was to go back to Germany or to the United States, but it seemed as though both were impossible. All at once I got an invitation to come to Argentina, where the Old Mennonites have a Bible school. Again I packed my suitcase, and again I made the trip to our capital. This time I said good-by for a stay of three years, but it was at least one month until my passport would be ready so that I could enter the country. Then I decided to wait in the nearby Friesland rather than in the city. Friesland is the new Mennonite colony which was founded by one-third of the Fernheim Mennonites, who because of the dry years and the grasshoppers became discouraged and left Fernheim, hoping to find a better place where now Friesland is located. I found a friendly welcome there and enjoyed the oranges which grow wild in the woods there. as well as the work which I took up. I waited one month, six weeks, two months, but no passport arrived. That was real South American sloth.

During this time I received a letter from home to say good-by to me before I left for the United States. It seemed unbelievable that the opportunity had come. And yet had I not prayed to God to lead me His way. This was the answer. Here I was waiting before a closed door; there He opened the way almost without my doing anything about it.

Then Dr. H. A. Fast came to visit our colony as a sign of fellowship between the Mennonites of North and South America. He told us about the work that is being done by the Mennonites of North America in building the Kingdom of God within that country as well as outside of it. Our people were thankful for the contact which could be made through this visit and for the union which joins all children of God through Jesus Christ.

This, our visitor, was also the man whom I was to follow away from home, alone into the world. After we had arranged our affairs in Asuncion, an airplane of the Pan American Air Line took us away from Paraguay and brought us in three hours to Curitiba in Brazil. This was my first airplane ride, and I enjoyed the experience, as well as the trip on the steamship from Rio de Janeiro, the sunny Brazilian capital, to New York. A nice stream-lined train brought us from New York City to Newton, Kansas.

But Bethel College seemed to say, "No, Chaco kid, before you can enter my halls you must be classified as a graduate from an American high school." So I went to Freeman Junior College to earn that ranking. That was not easy in the beginning. I couldn't even understand the Freshmen with whom I started to study English. But when they discovered that I spoke German, our conversation began in Swiss, which I had learned to know in the Pfalz in Germany. Their first question was, "We gleichst du Hitler?" But by and by I caught on to their English conversation too, and through my studies I am now able to write this to you.

During the summer vacation I worked in the Sheet Metal Works of Mr. A. J. Penner in Mt. Lake, Minnesota. That work was totally new to me, but through the course of the summer I learned to like it.

When this school year is over, and when I shall have worked one more summer in Mt. Lake, then I shall be ready for Bethel College. But then it still will take four years until I am ready to go back—back to serve my people with that which God has given me. When I imagine the Chaco without our people, there seems to be nothing that could attract me, but human beings make the dryest and ugliest place interesting. They can make it seem like home. But until that time comes, the three words which stood on the working table of the deceased President General Feldmarschall von Hindenburg of Germany apply to me too: "ora et labora,"—"pray and work."

THE LATCHSTERING

(Concluded from last issue)

A few seconds later the moccasined footsteps of several men passed the window and stopped in front of the door. The latch clicked and the door swung open. By the dim light from the embers on the hearth, James could see seven Indians in full war paint. They motioned and talked to each other and then silently pulled the door to and disappeared into the night.

In the morning, when James and Mary looked out of their door, they saw only the smoking ruins of their neighbors' cabins.

Years later, when the war was over, the government of the United States appointed James Tyler as a representative to an Indian conference. One day he told this story to all those assembled. In reply, an Indian arose and said: "I was one of those Indians. We crept up in night. We meant to burn and kill. We found the latchstring out. We said, 'No burn this house. No kill these people. They do us no harm. They trust Great Spirit.' "

SENIOR DEPARTMENT

TOLERANCE IN THE BIBLE

Luke 9:49, 50; Gal. 3:26-29

Program for February 9, 1941

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Come every soul by sin oppressed," "Hark! 'tis the shepherds' voice I hear," "O Zion, haste! thy mission high fulfilling."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Biography of Booker T. Washington, a leader of the negro race
4. Offering for peace work

II. Leader's Introduction

There is a word which every one likes to hear. That word is "Welcome!" It is written all over the gospel stories which tell us of Jesus' dealings with needy and friendless people. The attitude of friendliness still attracts and wins those who need to be befriended in our day—the negroes, the Japanese, the Chinese, the migrants, the poor whites, the poor mining people, the jobless. (With Christ there was no haughtiness, no "I am better than Thou" air—he was a friend and a helper.) The Roman centurion, the Samaritan woman, the Syrophenician, none of them belonged to the chosen Jewish race—all were "dogs" to other Jews—but not to Jesus. (Follow with A.)

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

Christ and the Syrophenician. Mark 7:24-30.
A Roman friend of the Jews. Luke 7:1-5.
Christ and Samaritan woman. John 4:7-10.
One body, one Spirit. I Cor. 12:12-14.
Christ "all and in all." Col. 3:10, 11.

IV. For Discussion

1. What does it mean to be tolerant?
2. Are we intolerant with any of the people in our neighborhood?
3. Can we do something to bring about more tolerance toward negroes, Japanese, Chinese in our country?

V. Facts for Study

It is a sad story to read from year to year that there are still lynchings in our country. These are almost exclusively negroes. There were 5 in 1940, all but one a negro. In 22 cases during the past year it was necessary for officers of the law to take steps to save prisoners from death at the hands of lynching mobs. All this is only an indication of the racial hatred, and the ill will toward the negro race. Much less money is spent by our government for many of the schools where negroes attend, and often the teachers of these schools are not the best.

The migrants offer another problem. They move from place to place to gather beets, pick fruit and cotton and have no stable home. No community wants these people except for the labor they give. They get no welcome into community life, or even church life as a rule. Even in school the children of such families are not desired. It is worth noting that the Pacific District Young People are beginning to take an interest ni them.

The attitude toward Japanese and Chinese could also be improved much. A study of these people and their backgrounds would help us understand them.

VI. Illustrations

"In His Name"

A London waif, cold and hungry, was inivted one night by a city missionary to a refuge for little wanderers. He was told simply to ring the bell, and when asked who he was, to say the three words, "In His Name." He ventured up the steps, and true to the promise of the worker received a royal welcome. With a good supper and a warm bed he dreamed that he was in heaven. A few days afterward he was hurt in the street by a car. The card of the rescue home was found in his pocket, and he was taken to the hospital, and word was sent to the mission. He was tenderly nursed during the few lingering days of his life and taught of that other portal which is also entered "in His name," and often in his last hours would he repeat over and over again, "'In His name,' that's what lets you in."

VII. Food for Thought

Tolerance does not ask: what is there about him that I do not like. It ponders: what is there within him that is fie and noble which I do no see.

INTERMEDIATE DEPARTMENT

NEGRO YOUTH IN AMERICA

February 16, 1941

(This topic is very closely related to the topic of last week and possibly some of each could be used for either discussion. Plan these two meetings at the same time.)

"There is so much more to know than I am accustomed to knowing;
There is so much more to love than I am accustomed to loving."

Juliette Derricotte

Spiritual: "Christian, Do You Love My Jesus?"

Scripture Lesson: Mal. 2:10a; Acts 17:24-28

Prayer: (In unison)

"We thank Thee, O God, for the endless renewing of love. Thou who art never weary of setting us free from the bonds wherewith we have bound ourselves, make us walk without fear of any kind of bondage. Clear, O Lord, our inner vision, that we may receive new light; open our ears to hear the voices that are calling us to make the world new by the creative power of love. Fit us for the task that is ours, and endue us with the spirit of that heavenly kingdom that is to come upon the earth where we all shall be brothers and people of God."

Discussion:

1. What are the points of friction between the white race and the black race?

2. Why should it be our concern if we find negroes suffering because of race prejudice?

3. What is America's responsibility to the negro race?

4. What is the status of negro young people in your own community?

5. Is there anything that you as an Endeavorer can do to raise their status?

Hymn: "More Like the Master"

Leader: The reason underlying all others for our study is this: As Christians, we believe that it is our duty to put into practice that cardinal principle of Christ: "Thou shalt love Thy neighbor as Thyself."

Read: John 15:12, 13, 14, 17; Luke 10:25-27.

Our love for Him is tested by our love and attitude toward our fellowmen.

Read: 1 John 4:20, 21.

Spiritual: "Lord, I Want to be More Christian in my Heart"

Debate: Resolved, that racial prejudice is acquired, not inherited.

Offering

Benediction: (in unison)

May the love of God unite us,
May the joy of God inspire us,
May the peace of God enfold us,
May the long-suffering of God sustain us,
And may the blessing of God,
Father, Son and Holy Spirit
Rest upon us and remain with us.
Amen

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

Program for February 9, 1941

CHRIST OUR GREAT EXAMPLE IN TEMPTATION

Setting: On the blackboard make a drawing of an open book with the verse, "I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee." Heb. 13:5b, printed on the open pages.

I Worship Period

1. Prelude - "Take the Name of Jesus With You" S. H. 73.

2. Call to Worship - "I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of the world." John 8:12.

3. Worship in Song. "Take the Name of Jesus With You." S. H. 73.

4. Worship in Scripture - Matt. 1: 9-13

5. Worship in Prayer - Leader's Opening Prayer.

6. Leader's Introduction - The Holy Scriptures tell us that Jesus was tempted as we are, but that He never sinned. We have all sinned, but we are anxious to become more like our Master. Therefore, we want to learn of Him how He met temptation when it came to Him.

II. Study Period:

Aim - To help our Juniors to resist temptation, to overcome sin, and live a sinless life in sinful flesh.

1. Short discussion of the following passages:
   a. To what extent was Christ tempted? Heb. 4:15.
   b. Temptation of Christ, Luke 4: 1-4; Luke 4: 5-8; Luke 4: 9:13.
   c. By whose power did Christ live the perfect life? John 14: 10b.
   d. Christ our helper in temptation, Heb. 2: 18.
   e. Christ's command to us regarding temptation, Luke 22: 40b.

2. Song - "Yield Not to Temptation," M. H. B. 257.

3. Leader's Heart Talk

III. Mission Minutes:

The word missions comes from a Latin word meaning "to send," a missionary therefore is someone who is sent out. The senders are God and His helpers, you and I. Since we are God's helpers, we are co-workers with Him. Our work is to help. Now how can we help the missionaries out on the field? None of us can go out to the mission field yet, but most of us can give and all of us can pray.

A short talk might be given in which the importance of intercessory prayer is brought to each Junior and also the importance of his material gifts.

IV. Closing Moments:

1. Repeat the verse for the month.
2. Memorize second verse of the song for the month and sing the song.
3. Pray the Prayer for the month

Program for February 16, 1941

CHRIST OUR GREAT EXAMPLE IN SERVING

Setting: Any picture which depicts Christ as rendering service to humanity such as "Christ Washing the Feet of His Disciples."

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude: "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee" M. H. B. 287
2. Call to Worship: "Serve the Lord with gladness, come before his presence with singing" Ps. 100:2.
3. Worship in Song: "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee" M. H. B. No. 287
4. Worship in Scripture: Matt. 4:23-25
5. Worship in Prayer: Leader's Opening Prayer

II. Study Period

I. Introduction:

Of Christ it is said, "He went about doing good." What a beautiful tribute! We too, are anxious to serve Jesus and to go about doing kind deeds. How can we serve? We have the beautiful life of Christ on earth as an example for each one of us to learn from. We will now hear from some of our Juniors as to what they have found in the Scriptures concerning Christ's life of service on earth.

2. Topics by Juniors
   (a) Who can serve the Lord? Ps. 101:6.
   (b) Serving Christ by being kind to others. Matt. 25:31-40.
   (c) What did Peter say about Christ's walk on earth? Acts 10:38.
   (d) Christ as an example as to what to do before going forth to do our work. Luke 9:28b; Luke 6:12.
   (e) Christ our example in rendering humble service. John 13:4-5.
3. Song: "Something for Jesus" M. H. B. 242
4. Leader's Heart Talk

III. Mission Minutes

Last time we spent some time on how to be God's helpers in aiding our missionaries out on the mission field. This time we want to see how we can help another group of missionaries—those who are retired as old people, having given the best days of their lives, applied all their strength—physical, mental and spiritual—and used up all the salaries ever paid them to help elliviate suffering, allay distress, dispel hunger, ignorance, poverty and its consequences, etc. What do we owe Him?

How many retired missionaries can you name, who are dwelling in our midst now and whose presence is a rich blessing to all of us who come in contact with them? I am sure we are anxious to do our part in rendering service to those faithful servants.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat verse of the month
2. Memorize the third verse of the song of the month and sing the song
3. Pray the prayer of the month, followed with
4. "Into My Heart" sung in unison

THE MENNONITE YEAR BOOK

Hundreds of prepaid subscribers of The Mennonite are looking for and a good many inquiring about the YEAR BOOK, which should be ready to pass out the first of the year at the latest. But, here we are nearly through January and it is still not finished. Where is the trouble? The editor handed the big bulk of the manuscript to the printers the forepart of November, the remainder also in seasonable time. He was then told the book should be finished in December. One hindrance is the fact that our Mennonite printers are glad to take conference printing. But, once they have it in hand, they let other "jobs" take precedence and the conference work is relegated, for it doesnot run away. Then, too, the holiday season brings them extra "jobs" and these again have the right of way. True, the statistical tables that go in the Y. B. take time to set, but what of it. We have done all the pushing we think we should do. We certainly are not to blame for the extraordinary delay. In another year this matter will have to be remedied. —Editor

IN MEMORIAM

WALKER WILSON MILLER, the son of Malangthan Miller and Priscilla Lutz Miller, was born October 19, 1858, in Shenandoah Valley, Virginia, and passed away at his daughter's home at Pulaski, Iowa, January 7, 1941, aged 82 years, 2 months and 18 days. He was reared in a Christian home and as a young man was baptized on confession of faith in the Mennonite church, havig first been baptized in infancy in the Lutheran church. After the Civil War the family moved to Elkhart county, Ind., and there, at the age of eighteen, he began a teaching career of twenty-one years. In the year 1881 he was united in marriage with Mary Cordelia Nusbaum. To this union were born three daughters, now Mrs. Elsie Augspurger of Pulaski, Mrs. Edith Chester of Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. Arthur Massey who died 11 years ago at Marseilles, Ill. His first wife having passed away in July 1933, Bro. Miller married Lavina Baughman and with this loving helpmate he was able to establish and maintain his own home through his declining years. In 1897, the Pulaski Mennonite Church, upon the retirement of its pioneer minister, Father Philip Roulet, sent a call to W. W. Miller which was accepted by the young school superintendent, and with no formal preparation for the ministry, he came and began to serve. It was soon evident that God whom he loved, trusted and obeyed wonderfully blessed his work. After laboring in this field for 17 years, Bro. Miller agreed to take charge of the Mennonite Mission in Chicago, which the General Conference was starting there. The outcome of this has been a present successful and growing church. This work becoming too strenuous for his age, after serving seven years, he took charge of his home church at Goshen, Ind., for two years, when the Pulaski church called him again and he continued to serve it actively until his retirement in 1939. Thus he preached for forty-two years, thirty-three of which were given to the Pulaski church. Thus Father Miller shepherded this congregation nearly a generation, preaching to the parents, giving his blessings to their children, preparing them for fellowship with the church, later helping them establish Christian homes, speaking words of comfort at more than 200 funerals and officiating at as many weddings. Thus he used his holy office to spread Christian culture, to spiritualize the homes, to preach truth and virtue, and by example lead in holy living. For him Christianity was not a theory but life, not a philosophy but a process. Thus he leaves to his congregation, his children, nine grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren the heritage of an exemplary life, the influence of which will go on.—Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon, Jan. 9, Rev. W. F. Unruh, his successor preached the funeral sermon, the other ministers of the Iowa Mennonite churches, the Reverends Wm. Penner, Delbert Welty, and A. Friesen, as well as other neighboring ministers having some part.

MINNIE M. SCHIDMT, daughter of Mary Kliewer Schmidt and the late Jacob J. Schmidt, was born September 27, 1895, in Harvey county, Kansas. She had her schooling in the rural schools and Bethel College Academy. After teaching a number of years she returned to Bethel College and received her A. B. degree in 1926. She then taught in secondary schools and a few years ago became manager of the Bethel College bookstore and assistant at the North Newton, Kansas, postoffice. In 1912 she became a member of the Gnadenberg Menn. Church through baptism and confession of faith. But on the removal of the family to Newton she joined the Bethel College Mennonite Church, remaining a faithful member until her end. Here her work in various church activities such as Sunday school teacher, sponsor of C. E. groups, member of the Women's Mission Society, and church clerk, as well as a member of the College Women's Association, gave her much joy and proved her to be very efficient. On Christmas day she became suddenly critically ill and underwent an emergency operation at the Bethel Hospital. But all the skill of the physicians and the care of the sisters proved of no avail. On the morning of January 2, 1941, she was released of her suffering.—To know Minnie Schmidt was to appreciate and admire her for her sterling qualities. Through her radiant spirit, her diligence and her ever helpful attitude she was a favorite with everybody.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her mother and three sisters: Selma at home, Ruth, Mrs. Arthur Schmidt of Newton, and Lillian, Mrs. Roy Dreier of Hesston, Kansas. Also two brothers-in-law, two nieces and two nephews and inumerable friends.—Funeral services were conducted from the Bethel College chapel Saturday, January 4, in charge of Rev. J. N. Smucker and Dr. E. G. Kaufman. Her pallbearers were men from the college faculty. She was laid to rest in the family lot in Greenwood cemetery.

Cornelius F. Claassen

CORNELIUS F. CLAASSEN, son of Peter and Anna Claassen, was born near Marienburg, Germany, November 25, 1859, where in due time he was baptized upon confession of his faith and became a member of the Mennonite church. He came to Kansas in 1878. In 1888 he entered the real estate and loan business and four years later, in partnership with Bernhard Warkentin, the man who introduced Tur key wheat into Kansas, and others, he organized the Kansas State Bank in Newton, and in due time became its president, continuing as such until the end, although lately more in an honorary way. Through his efficient management the bank made steady progress until today it is one of the leading financial institutions in the community.

In 1884 Brother Claassen returned to Germany and brought back his bride, Marie Entz, with whom he celebrated the 56th wedding anniversary last December. Aside from his business interests he devoted much time to church and charitable work. He was one of the founders and an active supporter of the First Mennonite church. From 1920 to 1933 he served as treasurer of the Emergency Relief Board. During the famine in Russia he devoted himself wholeheartedly to the task of relieving suffering, and it was due to this experience that he and his wife permitted their son Ted to proceed to England to help relieve distress, under the auspices of the M. C. C. He was also Gen. Conf. treasurer for some years and treasurer of the Bethel Deaconess Hospital for twenty years.

Mr. Claassen was a congenial soul. He had a good word or smile for everybody and exerted a wholesome influence in all his contacts. His death followed an operation to which he submitted a few days before. He was 85 years old last Nov. 25. Surviving are his wife and the children, Cornelius, vice-president of the bank; Mrs. Karl A. Richert, Theodore, now in London, John and Anna; two daughters-in-law, one son-in-law, and eleven grandchildren; also a brother and a sister.

Funeral service was held at the First Mennonite Church, with the Reverends J. E. Entz, A. Warkentin and James Rayburn in charge. The large audience was a fine testimony of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST MENN. CHURCH., SUMMERFIELD, ILL.

Dear Editor and Readers:—I hope I am not too late to wish a very happy New Year. I trust it may be a year in which we may advance in the knowledge and grace of God. It is well to keep in mind that it will take more than wishing to make the year happy and successful. We must be determined to make use of the means of grace which God has so amply provided and be willing to be used as instruments in His hands for the advancement of His glorious Kingdom. Our greatest happiness will be found in doing His will and helping our fellowmen who are in need of our help in these dark and trying days.

In retrospect we might mention that on Sunday, Dec. 8, our church had the privilege of a visit from Missionary W. C. Voth who gave us a first hand report of our mission work in China, at the morning service, and in the evening he gave an illustrated lecture of the Chinese field. In spite of the many difficulties caused by the war, the work seems to be making progress. It is an evidence that our work in the Lord is not in vain. Our annual meeting was held on Dec. 15. The necessary officers were chosen and the reports of the various treasurers were given. We were glad to note that the church had finally succeeded in liquidating its debt on the parsonage. On Sunday, Dec. 22, Bro. Daniel Hirstein was installed as deacon of our church. It was also decided to hold a series of special meetings sometime next fall. The pastor is organizing a catechetical class which will meet at the parsonage. The Week of Prayer was observed in union services with the Evangelical-Reformed church with our pastor in charge of the services. The meetings were well attended and were very helpful and inspiring. Different members were assigned to the various topics and about two persons gave talks each evening. Our church has been invited by the Church Federation of St. Louis to take part in the National Preaching Mission which is to be held in St. Louis from February 9-16. It will be a fine opportunity to get better acquainted with some of the great church leaders of our day.

At present there seems to be an epidemic of influenza raging in our county. It is reported that there are more than 5000 cases in St. Louis alone. We hope the epidemic may soon be checked. We have been having mild and rainy weather all week.

BETHANY CHURCH, FREEMAN, SOUTH DAK.

I was appointed correspondent of our church paper, The Mennonite, this year. Only the interesting things are supposed to be reported. To the worldly minded people high prices, good wages, big business, bonds and stock exchanges, world markets, and all kinds of gossip and sensational news are of greatest intrerest. To us Christians the moral and spiritual growth of individual persons, churches, conferences and the spreading of the Kingdom of God among all men all over the world should be of more importance. The Christian life and spirit in the homes, churches and schools and the success in our mission fields should not be of less concern to us than a rightous state government and honesty in trade and business. In the Kingdom of God every individual counts. He is more than a mere zero, dash or number. We hear so much these days of totalitarian states. Why not have a totalitarian church?

Our Pastor has recently reported to our Church that only one member died last year, nine persons were baptised and four joined the Church through letter. Rev. Harold Gross has been elected as our S. S. Supt., Miss Marie Waldner, who is one of our instructors in Freeman Junior College, supervised the S. S. for five years. In the S. S., C. E. Soc., Mission Soc., sick rooms and other places our Christian women find good opportunity to use their God given talents We have more women Christian workers in our church and auxiliaries than men, which is a credit to them and a reflection upon us men.

THE APOSTOLIC MENNONITE CHURCH, TRENTON, OHIO

Sunday morning, December 22, 1940, the children of our S. S. gave their Christmas Program as a part of the morning service, and on Sunday evening, the Choir, Young People's Society and members of the Sunday School, rendered a beautiful pageant, "When the Star Shone," under the direction of Mrs. A. W. Howe. A large and appreciative audience attended.

Sunday, January 12, 1941, we held our annual meeting. The morning service opened by singing the hymn, "Glorious Things of Thee are Spoken," followed by a very helpful sermon by Rev. J. E. Amstutz on the Church: (1) The value of the Church and its regular attendance; (2) the purpose of the Church, our only hope, (3) The opportunity of the Church in this day and age, and (4) the Church is the only organization which has endured over nineteen hundred years.

As has been our custom for many years, a covered dish dinner was served and a social period followed. At 2:00 o'clock the business session opened by singing hymn No. 236, Scripture reading by Rev. Amstutz, and prayer by Mrs. C. Coulthard. All organizations gave satisfactory reports, and election of officers for the ensuing year followed. Rev. Amstutz gave a resume of the year's work, followed by a beautiful Memorial Service in memory of departed members and friends of the church.

May the year before us be one of the most blessed in the history of the church. Let us by a fuller consecration, a deeper piety, a more devoted service, seek to remedy all her failings. Each and every member can help to make it such.

"Speak a shade more kindly, than the year before;
Pray a little oftener; love a little more;
Cling a little closer to a Savior's love;

BETHEL MENN. CH., MT. LAKE, MINN., 1-16-41

We are launching out into 1941 with new courage and undertaking. At a special business meeting on Jan. 13th the congregation decided to take definite steps towards the building of a new church. The rapidly increasing enrollment in our Sunday School urges us to take this step. We solicit the prayers of God's children for this very important underatking. May we through our efforts "take away the stone" John 11, 39. That He through His own power may call many from spiritual death into spiritual life.

At the same meeting it was decided to get a supply of the new Mennonite Hymnaries for our congregational singing.

Our pastor, Rev. P. R. Schroeder, is taking a full load of work. We praise God for his recovery.

MENNONITE CHURCH, HANSTON, KANS.

Greetings: Another year has just closed, and we feel we have much to be thankful for. On the evening of December 24 we rendered our S. S. Christmas exercises. Each class was made responsible for one number. Special music numbers and several beautiful pageants were very well given. Dec. 29 we observed Holy Communion service in the morning, and in the evening the Ladies' Mission Society gave a special Christmas program. Due to much illness among our group, this program had been postponed from the evening of Dec. 15. Services were held Christmas and New Year mornings at 10 A. M. Our annual congregational meeting was held Jan. 5, in the afternoon. Reports of the different organizations, as well as the Minister's report were read, and the usual business transacted. It was decided that the men be made responsible for the making of book-racks to be placed on the back of the pews for the hymn books. We have purchased five dozen copies of "The Mennonite Hymnary," and we rejoice that we did not see fit to get new books before this. We wonder how the Committees and the Board of Publication could give us such a fine all-around book at such a reasonable price. We owe great thanks to all those who put so much of their precious time and effort into making the book what it is.

—PANDORA, OHIO, January 20, 1941. "Dear Editor: In the Dec. 31, 1940, issue of The Mennonite and also before, there was a statement that Rev. Willard Claassen has accepted a pastorate call to the St. John's Church of Pandora, Ohio. Well this is an error and we wish that a correction be made. This information must have been given by some unreliable source, for we as a congregation have not given a call to any pastor.

Thanks, yours truly, M. Haas"

We published this news based on what we thought was a reliable source. We even saw it in print. We are sorry for the error. —Editor —First Church, Bluffton, Ohio.— A member of the church has just reported that Rev. H. T. Unruh has been reelected for another three years as pastor of the church.

—Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa.—Items from their Bulletin.—The pastor was reelected for another year, according to the constitution. A committee is to be appointed to solicit funds for the purchase of 125 Mennonite Hymnaries. It was decided to continue the Leadership Training Course, the Vacation Bible School, and the Evangelistic services begun last year.—Decided to study plans for contacting all members of the church to remind them of their church financial responsibilities.

—Hoffnungsau Church, Inman, Kansas.—The Western District Peace Committe gave a program at this church Sunday evening, Jan. 19. Dr. Harshbarger brought valuable information on the work camps. Irvin Krehbiel told about the Bethel and Wichita work projects; Menno Martens of the local church related his experience in receiving proper recognition at draft registration, the Inman and Hebron churches and the McPherson county Gospel Quartet rendered musical numbers. —Corr.

—York, Nebraska, Jan. 6, 1941.—Dear Brothren: "We are enclosing a check for three new subscriptions to The Mennonite to be sent to members of the family. We receive so much inspiration from reading The Mennonite that we want them to enjoy it, too.—Sincerely yours, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Ratzlaff."

Heartiest thanks for the new subscriptions. The compliment is also appreciated. This order and remittance was mailed to Mennonite Publ. Office, Newton, Kansas as is proper—Editor —Bergfelder Church, Delft, Minn., Jan 17, 1941 New Year's Eve the young people of our church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abram P. Baerg for watch night. Rev. John Bartel led a very impressive candlelight consecration service at midnight. The Carson M. B. church and our church met jointly for service Sunday, Jan. 12, for the purpose of honoring the young men who left Jan. 16 for the military training camp in California. Rev. B. J. Brown of Carson based his thoughts on John 17:17. "Thy Word is Truth," and Rev. Bartel on Psalm 91 and 55. Rev. Bartel has been holding services at the Bethesda church in S. Dak.—Mrs. Abram Baerg, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church of Wadsworth, Ohio.—On Dec. 22 a Christmas program was presented in the morning as one continuous service, the children presenting their program first, followed by the sermon by the pastor and the presentation of Christmas treats to the children. In the evening the choir presented a Christmas cantata to a fine audience, and the pastor was presented an electric roaster as a Christmas gift from the congregation.— Our regular Communion service was observed Jan. 5th and the annual business meeting the evening of Jan. 6th, at which time a new deacon and new trustee were elected and the congregation was informed that all indebtedness of the church had been paid. A social time and light lunch followed the business meeting. Orlo O. Sprunger, Corr.

—Mountain Lake, Minn.—Bro. D. H. Hiebert, after serving forty-four years as banker, and prominent in civic and church life has retired as cashier of the Farmers' State Bank January 1. Mr. Hiebert has been an active and valued worker in the Bethel Mennonite Church and, being a musician of note, has been chorister of the church.

—Bethel College Church.—Sunday Jan. 19, the Men's Chorus, Bro. Paul Baumgartner, director, gave a fine demonstration of the use of a choral, of which The Mennonite Hymnary contains a large and varied number, as a special number of music. Some of these chorals and other hymns in the book are so rich and dignified that they can readily take the place of anthems. The chorus sang, "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name," opening with the first stanza as a solo in German, "Grosser Gott wir laben Dich," following with other stanzas in English. It was rich.

—Mennonite Church, Buhler, Kansas. is the latest to send in their worship bulletin. It is a fine specimen. The front cover page has a beautiful design of a church front drawn by the instructor of the high school commercial department, and the paper is attractive.—At the annual meeting Mr. Alvin Schmidt, brother of the Reverends Rudolf and August Schmidt was chosen deacon.

—Bethel College.—The A Capella Choir, the largest in the history of the college, composed of about eighty members, under the direction of Prof. W. Hohmann, will present a concert Sunday afternoon, January 26, in the chapel. The programs will be of a varied nature. Of special interest will be two numbers arranged by Prof. Hohmann, Gerresh's, "Still, With Thee" and Prokoff's, "Christmas Cradle Song."—Work on Memorial Hall is steadily progressing. Efforts to complete the roof are made as the weather permits. The plumbing is almost finished. The pouring of a concrete base for the basement has been going on with student help. Bids are being received on fixtures and accoustical wood for the ceilings to make the auditorium sound proof.

—Salem Church, Freeman, South Dak.—According to reports, Rev. Harold Gross, who studied at Hartford Seminary, and Rev. J. B. Toews, instructor in Bible at Freeman Jr. College, will during the next several months supply the pulpit in this church, Rev. Gross preaching in English the first and third Sundays and Rev. Toews in German the second and fourth Sundays. On months of five Sundays they will alternate. Dr. P. R. Schroeder, now pastor of Bethel Church, Mt. Lake, was the former pastor of the congregation.

—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in his hearing before the Home Foreign Affairs Committee in Washington on the war in Europe, advocated a negotiated peace between the European belligerents, as this paper has done. "I prefer to see neither side win. I prefer a negotiated peace. A victory on either side would result in prostration of Europe of a type we've never seen. It would be one of the worst things that could happen."

HOW WOULD YOU ANSWER THIS BOY?

(An actual letter from a Methodist boy to his Methodist father)

Dear Dad:

It was good to hear from you again. There is always too long a time between your letters. Somehow, off here on my own, I seem to depend upon your advice more than I did while I was at home. Perhaps, as I get older, the wisdom of it is a little more apparent. At any rate, I am grateful to you for some of the things you said about the war situation, but they still leave a lot of unanswered questions in my mind.

I hope you will be patient with me, Dad, but I am having a hard time of it, trying to get the whole mess straightened out in my thinking. I do not doubt your sincerity, and I do not think you doubt mine, but I just can't see some of these things the way I think you want me to see them. You've had a lot of experience, and I am only a few months out of college. But tell me, Dad, what do you expect me to believe?

You took me to Sunday school when I was a little kid, and I naturally believed what they taught me there, for you took me. I remember the teacher taught us that killing was wrong. Maybe I am not as loyal to everything else she taught me, but that lesson did stick.

Then you paid for several trips to Summer Institutes and camps, and they taught me there that war was the worst sin of the ages and I learned a good deal about some of the things that happened during the last war. I remember, for instance, the way they exploded those old "atrocity tales." Out of it all I seemed to get just one idea—we must not be taken in again.

Then I went away to a Methodist college, and in the history classroom I saw the propagandists debunked. We were taught that all the popular slogans of the last war were just ballyhoo of one kind or another. I came to believe that you couldn't trust anything that came out of Europe.

Now, as though it were dropped down out of the sky, I find the whole thing repeating itself before my eyes. I think you can understand the predicament I find myself in. To spend eighteen years in school, learning much about the causes of war, the economic pressures involved, the contests for markets, and the political skullduggery of the big nations, and then within a few short months after you are out of school to be asked to junk the very fundamentals of what I learned—well, it's pretty hard on me.

The most disheartening aspect of the whole experience is finding that your teachers—those who led you through those eighteen years—are among those who are now doubling back on their own teachings and asking us to "right about, face!"

How can this present situation be so different from the one that characterized the first World War? A few new instruments and some new technique have been added. But aside from the fact that America does not feel as secure as she did twenty years ago, what is the real difference? What is the "holy aspect" of this situation that makes it different from the thing I have been taught all my life to hate?

The net result of this whole business is that I am beginning to suspect that my "teachers" are going under for the second time. Now, is that true, or isn't it?

For a good many years I listened to the preachers call upon us, as young people, to "take a stand even though it takes you to a cross," and now some of them, even, are calling us names because we are taking stands on this war business with which they do not argee.

You must not think that I am critical of the Church, for I am not. I am there every Sunday, and I will be there right along. My religion means too much to me to let this upset me, but honestly, Dad, how do you figure it all out? I wish you would help me get my thinking straightened out. Write me soon, and tell me what you think.

With all my love,

B———

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A MENNONITE SEMINARY

by Ed. G. Kaufman

We have been talking about a Mennonite Seminary and our need for rural vision and an appreciation of the rural way of life. Other denominations, too, are beginning to realize how outmoded the old type of seminary is for this need of which the church at large is just beginning to become conscious. Some of our larger seminaries, too, are becoming aware of this need. Before me lies a report, consisting of fifty-eight pages, of the proceedings of a Rural Life Conference attended by representatives of eleven seminaries, held in 1940, and dealing withe the problems of the rural church and what seminaries can do about it. Here is an area where Mennonites can make a real contribution, not only for their own church leadership, but also for that of the American church at large. In the January 1, 1941, issue of a magazine of national importance we find the following quotation:

"Agricultural colleges train farmers and theological seminaries train ministers. Why could not these two types of instititutions cooperate to meet the need for a better rural ministry? The deans of agricultural colleges and seminaries think they can. After sounding out the sentiment on both sides, a joint committee held a conference at Purdue University from which issued a tentative plan for such cooperation. It is still rather a sketchy program, and there is no intention of anything very formal or formidable, but it is a workable plan by which agricultural colleges may offer a "pre-theological major" for students looking toward the ministry, and the seminaries may admit students who have taken their bachelor's degree with such a coure. A considerable number of agricultural colleges and seminaries have signified their willingness to carry out such a program. The pre-theological major, as outlined, involves nothing radical from either point of view. It is a well-balanced college course but with more work in agricultural economics and rural sociology than would normally be expected. There is no attempt to inveigle state schools into giving courses in religion which would involve them in difficulties. (Still, religion is a field of human interest to which not even a state school need be wholly oblivious.) Perhaps the main merit of the plan is that it tends to dignify the rural ministry, to bring its opportunities before the minds of students who have not yet made their vocational choices, and to promote cooperation between institutions which, from different points of view, are interested in agriculture as a way of life."

Christians Need to Read the Bible More

One of the sad weaknesses brought about by this age of speed, or hurry and bustle, and worldly enlightenment, is, that so many Christians do not read and know the Bible as they should. Many of us older ones remember how our parents grew in grace and faith and under Christian virtues, because they consistently communed with God through His Word. They were concinced of the truth of the verse, John 5:39, "Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me." Ignorance of God's Word was also a charge that Christ had against the Jews that didn't understand Him. "Ye do err, in not knowing the scriptures, nor the power of God." Mt. 22:29. The pitty of it all is that God's Word "dwells so richly among us," i. e., it costs a mere trifle to own a Bible, and yet it isn't read and used as it should be. Our soul which is from God must have divine or spiritual food. It can get nourishment from prayer and meditation. that is true; but prayer and meditation must have a headspring or storehouse for replenishment, if they are not to become exhausted. And the Bible furnishes this wonderful storehouse. All the knowledge and wisdom of the world cannot be compared with it. For, after that has passed away, the Bible will stand as the truth and the only way to Life everlasting. No matter through what experiences a person passes, he finds in the Bible their echoes and the means to supply his needs. In sorrows and distress, he can there find comfort and uplift; in sickness and suffering of body and soul, healing through the great Physician, for what he did while on earth he still does. "He went about —healing all manner of sickness, etc." Matt. 4:23. In darkness and gloom, he can get light to illuminate his path; when beset by troubles and assults of the adversary, courage to stand up and power to win delivery, "for He will thrust out the enemy before thee;" when feeling forlorn and yearning for sympathy and encouragement, the companionship of Him who is the disseminator of love and good will unspeakable; when suffering the pinch of poverty and want, the assurance that "His is the silver and gold" and that He has enough to supply all wants. When a person is bereft of faith and hope, the Word points to "the hope before us as an Anchor of the Soul;" when lost to sin and corruption, the same Word offers us a Savior "in whom we have redemption and forgiveness of sin." Ps. 98:4. Yes, the Bible can supply each and every need of the soul. It is inexhaustible. Luther gives this homely illustration: The Bible is like a large, tall apple tree, full of luscious apples. When ripe they are picked and gathered. But here and there, hidden by the foliage, some remain. The branches being shaken, some will fall, but though shaken again and again some will still remain attached. So it is with the Bible, it yields new treasures with every perusal. Of this treasure Book the English philosopher Locke says, "It has God for its author, salvation for its end, and truth without any mixture of error for its matter; it is all pure, all sincere, nothing too much, nothing wanting." The evangelist, Moody, states, "I never saw a useful Christian who was not a student of the Bible. If a man neglects the Bible, he may pray and ask God to use him in His work; but God cannot make much use of him, for there is not much for the Holy Ghost to work upon." —T.

THEN AND NOW

Marie J. Regier

I am having a similar experience to what Mother had when she first came to America. She expected everything to be so different from what it was in Germany that she was surprised when she found anything that was the same. I have expected to find so many changes that I am surprised to find the old China still very much intact.

In Peking I was thrilled to see the big, heavy Chienmen gate, the old Hattamen street with its dust and its traffic of wheelbarrows, bicycles, cars, pedestrians, noisy street cars, whining beggars in one grand conglomeration as they always were. Of course, there are now traffic lights which do to some extent guide the traffic. None of the old beauty spots have been destroyed. In fact, the Japanese are repairing buildings in the forbidden city, and at the Eastern Market you can buy pictures and cards, views of the Summer Palace, the dragon screen, the Great Wall and caravans of camels, all printed by the Japanese press.

At the boat and at the railroad station red caps met us and there was more order than I remembered. We were not overwhelmed by coolies when we got off the boat as we used to be in the past, but there were still too many people looking for work and we had to pay tips to a different shift of men every time we turned around.

After I left Peking and came interior, about the only differences I noted was forts, barbed wire, and ditches ever so often. Also instead of one bus running from Hantan to Taming there was now a whole caravan of busses and trucks all manned by the Japanese military department.

Former progress and later destruction have neutralized each other so that now, since things have quieted down, the situation is much as it used to be, at least on the surface. I do realize, however, that there are subtle changes which I have not yet noticed and that there are forces at work which may bring about much change in the future.

At Taming I was ushered into my old abode which Miss Fast and Miss Kuyf had fixed up so nicely that I was quite unaware of all the changes it had undergone during my absence. It seems good to be not only in my own home but to be a member of a larger home with Miss Fast and Miss Kuyf.

It seems so extremely natural to be back in China that it is difficult to describe my feelings. I am not what you would call extremely thrilled, but I am so utterly content. I am where I feel that I ought to be. There are rumors of evacuation again, but it just seems to me that God so definitely led me back here and took so much time to get me ready, I can't believe that He would want me to go home right away.

I have taken a few initial trips into the country with Miss Kuyf and met some of my old friends, but a good many familiar faces are gone. I remember particularly the old lady at Shuang Ching who after hearing the first part of Pilgrim's Progress lay awake at night trying to think of a Bible verse that would fit the man with the burden. I should have loved to see her again but she had gone to see her Savior face to face.

At present I am at Kai Chow for the annual conference. It is pleasant to enjoy the fellowship, but I am eager to get back into the work. Later I hope to have more to tell.

PRAY FOR:

—Dr. J. H. Langenwalter, pastor of First Church, Reedley, Calif. publishes some timely and thought provoking articles in their chuch bulletin, and we wish that we had the space to bring some of them. The titles of recent ones are: "The Spirit of Communion," "The Purposeful Use of Silence in Worship," "We and Europe's Mind," "We the People," "You " and the last one, "What Our Denomination has Stood for." This is so rich and pertinent that we shall bring it in the next Mennonite.

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by G. A. Linscheid

FEBRUARY 8.—"Ye shall henceforth return no more than way." Deut. 17:16.

Time passes whether we make progress on our way or not. Time once past is irredeemable. Time is very elusive; the future is not ours, neither is the past, only the very present moment is ours, not to keep it, but merely to use is as it passes by. Time used in such a way that it redounds to the furtherance of the Master's cause and to His glory is time redeemed—for it was used for that which abides. So Paul admonishes the Ephesians by saying: "See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time, because the days are evil. As we pass along life's journey we should be constantly reminded of the fact that: "Ye shall henceforth return no more that way."

FEBRUARY 9.—"They made their lives bitter with hard bondage. Exod. 1:14.

It is one of the tragedies of life, that apparent good may in course of time become bad. Such was the experience of the Children of Israel. The land of Egypt had been the land of refuge for them, but now it had turned into the land of bondage. Was it their fault that such a change had come about? Possibly they did have something to do with it. But whatever their actions, and their failure to act, may have had to do with it, there hovered over them a destiny of promise—a better home.—Life here has much that is attractive—it is good to be alive, but this is not our permanent home, although we are prone to act and live as though it were. Bitter experiences in life, the bondage of human frailty these too, have a purpose.

FEBRUARY 10.—"This is the finger of God, and Pharaoh's heart was hardened." Exod. 8:19.

The same sunshine will harden the clay while it will soften the sandy loam. The latter becomes fit for production, the former excludes any production. Pharaoh was told by his own men that his opposition was to the finger (power) of God, but instead of changing his attitude and repenting of his wilful way, his heart was hardened. The ultimate result was his destruction. One hears the Gospel message, drinks it in, his whole life is changed, it becomes truly fruitful for good. The other hears, hardens and opposes it, in spite of an innermost conviction of its truth.—The time comes when God changes His attitude—for His Spirit will not always strive with man—then the inevitable wages of sin is death.

FEBRUARY 11.—"As thy days, so shall thy strength be." Deut. 33:25.

Moses spoke these words at the close of his career. He was about to be relieved of the great responsibility that had been his. No doubt, he took occasion to look back over his whole life, and especially over the 40 years of great trials and wonderful deliverances. Now looking back, he was convinced of one thing and that was, that no matter how difficult certain situations had been, God had always given the needed strength for the time and its need. So now when he bade farewell to the Children of Israel, he could assure them, that no matter what may come, the Lord would give the needed strength to carry on. God had a definite purpose in leading the Israelites through the desert in the way He did: it was, that they should learn to trust and obey Him.

FEBRUARY 12.—"The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms." Deut. 33:27.

Israel had come to look to Moses for refuge in every danger. Nothing was more natural after all the experiences they had made. However, he was now about to leave them. It is true Joshua, a valiant man, would continue with them and lead them on; but in view of the fact, that the land promised to them had to be wrested from fierce and strong enemies, created forebodings in their hearts. Moses assures them that it is the eternal God who is their refuge, and that underneath are the everlasting arms. How much we need this assurance. "Let not your heart be troubled; ye believe in God, believe also in me." John 14:1.

FEBRUARY 13.—"Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him." Job 13:15.

Satan had accused Job of serving the Lord, because the Lord has been prospering him. There was but one way to prove that accusation to be false. Having been given leave to do so, Satan goes the limit in bringing one calamity after another upon that man. Not only did he suffer the loss of his property, servants, and children, but his wife tells him to curse God and die and his "friends" accuse him of being a lowdown hypocrite. Satan had gone the limit only to hear Job say: "Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him." That was, indeed, a remarkable faith and trust in God. No wonder God later blessed Job in a singular way, and would accept the intercession of none other in behalf of the "friends." Just how far does our faith and trust in the Lord go?

FEBRUARY 14.—"Some trust in chariots, and some in horses: but we will remember the name of our God." Ps. 20:7.

In a time when the whole nation is stirred by defense talk and by defense spending, and factories are strained to the limit in defense production, it is well to be reminded of the fact that: "Except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain." A nation must be morally and spiritually strong—it must remember the name of the Lord, otherwise its defense will crumble before the enemy. There is no more subversive element in the defense of a country than that element which forgets God and trusts in the arm of flesh. "The name of the Lord is a strong tower; the righteous runneth into it, and is safe." Prov. 18:10. Great nations have fallen prey to the enemy from within rather than from without.

INVITATION

The Bethel Deaconess Home and Hospital Society of Newton, Kansas, will hold its 37th Annual Meeting on Tuesday, February 11, 1941 beginning at 10 A. M. at the First Mennonite Church, Newton.

All members of the Society and friends of the Bethel institutions are invited to attend.

Help Offered in an Important Cause

The hearts and minds of our non-resistant people are grievously burdened as they notice our country slipping dangerously near the verge of war, and many are anxious to do all they can to prevent that catastrophy from coming to pass. Among the ways to do this, prayer for divine intervention is foremost, but strong influence may also be exerted through letters to our senators and representatives in Congress. To do the latter in an effective way Prof. B. Bargen of Bethel College offers a plan that is worthy of consideration. It follows:

"Many people would like to write to senators and representatives on the vital issues of the day. Just now it is the Lease-Lend Bill. But somehow they don't get around to it, as it is quite a difficult thing to write a hundred or more post cards. A simple way to do this is to write a brief message, send it to the Secretarial Bureau, North Newton. They will prepare these post cards and address them and mail one card to each senator and each representative in those states where there is a strong Mennonite constituency, properly signed by the person sending the message, for only $1.75. This covers the cost of the postage, post cards, addressing, and mailing.

"Some families are taking this chance to express themselves. Each one can write his own individual message and know that every congressman will know his stand. This exceptionally low price is possible only because the names of all the senators are kept on metal plates which make it possible to do the addressing very rapidly. A sample card is returned to the person ordering the service."

—Very sincerely yours, B. Bargen

MORE COMMENTS ON THE MENNONITE HYMNARY

Some time ago Bethel College had to choose a hymn book for our chapel service, and in doing that we had samples of many hymnals put out by different denominations. Now that our own hymn book is out, one naturally makes comparisons. In my judgment this MENNONITE HYMNARY is the best of them all. It is well printed and well arranged. Its contents are varied and should meet a variety of needs. It contains the best of the standard church hymns, as well as those of more recent origin. The trashy, cheap, superficial type of religious songs has not been incorporated. Dividing the contents into seven different books will meet a real need of our people.

This hymnal should be adopted widely, not only by our people, but by other denominations as well. Mennonite people will be grateful for this Mennonite Hymnary.

Ed. G. Kaufman,
President of Bethel College

I am the happy possessor of a copy of THE MENNONITE HYMNARY, and I must confess that this possession has stirred up somewhat dubious feelings in me. It may be sinful, but I feel proud of it. Its neat, dignified appearance, its clear print, its carefully selected material, its distinct arrangement can hardly be surpassed. I find in this Hymnary so many old friends and all that is strange to me is well worth while to get acquainted with. I firmly believe that our English speaking and singing churches will soon use the Hymnary in their church services.

Our fathers used to have their Hymnary (Gesangbuch) right beside their Bible and used it along with it. "Bible und Gesangbuch" were the authorities to direct our lives on the path of salvation and righteousness. Later many song books were issued which lacked the dignity for the place alongside of the Bible. Now we again have a song book which can be put on the same shelf with the Good Book and be used together with it. Now again people will want to bring their Hymnary back home from church and have it on hand for any occasion when the soul desires an uplifting from the weariness and dreariness of life. Or a still better plan would be for families to buy and own copies in their homes. Yes, may God forgive me, but I am proud of "THE MENNONITE HYMNARY," and I feel sorry for them who will be unable to appreciate it.

As for the editors of the book, I wish to congratulate them on the splendid work they have done. Don't become proud now! With the one of them who lives in the sunny and warm California, I still have a bone to pick about the choral, "Wer nun den lieben Gott lässt walten," and my solo in Reedley, Calif., which made him dislike the original tune for that choral that he chose another one for the Hymnary can be blamed but on my poor rendition for which the editor is responsible. Why would he in his insistence make me sing that solo?

But wait till I once again get at him!

The Christian's Attitude Toward Possessions

Luke 16:10-15, 19-23

Topic: The Christian Use of Possessions

Introducution

Jesus spoke repeatedly about possessions and what He said needs careful consideration and interpretation. There is too much loose and rather radical thinking which considers having riches as a sin. Jesus saw well the perils of riches, but He never said that a rich person could not enter heaven. He condemned the Rich Man in our lesson story, not because he was rich, but because he had no compassion for the suffering poor man whom he could so well have helped. Jesus did emphasize the fact that we are stewards and have our responsibility to God for the use we make of the things given into our possession.

Faithful Stewardship vs 10-15

Jesus is speaking of money and possessions (cf vs 1-9). Our right attitude toward these is very important, whether they be larger or smaller. As straws tell which way the wind blows, so our attitude concerning minor responsibilities indicates whether we may be trusted with larger ones (v10). He who uses the nickels wisely, will also use the dollars honorably and well. They who are unfaithful in handling money—"unrighteous mammon"—(v11) disqualify themselves for receiving the spiritual riches—"the true riches"—from God. The use a man makes of his possessions is a real test of his character. Our earthly possessions are God's gifts to us—are "another man's" (v12). We are stewards and if we are faithful in our stewardship, God will give us spiritual gifts, possessions to be our very own. God and the world make conflicting demands and we must choose between the two (v13).

The Rich Man and a Beggar vs 19-23

Jesus relates this story to warn the Pharisees against covetousness. This rich man used his wealth for personal display and self-indulgence. He sought his highest good in the things of this life (v19). God is offended when persons so squander that which He has intrusted to them. Yet many today spend their money in self-indulgence, or lay it up in earthly treasures, while very worthy persons and causes are pleading for help—our schools and Missions.

The picture of Lazarus is the very extreme opposite of the rich man. Lazarus had only a hovel, rags, hunger and many sores. He desired the crumbs from the table. He was ignored by the Rich Man. The street dogs paid more attention to him. Wealth often hardens the heart of its possessor. It easily affects the head. The story shows very vividly the sinful use of wealth. Jesus does not condemn the possession of wealth, but the selfish, heartless use of it. He expects us to pass on to others some of the benefits of the good we have received.

In the life after death, the contrast is the exact reverse (vs 22, 23) of the present life. The end of life brought an end to the very poverty and of Lazarus. Mark this sentence, "the rich man also died and was buried." Death brought to him the end of all he loved and of all his hopes.

It is proper and right that the Christian use such part of his possesions for himself as he truly believes God can approve of. The Christian steward masters his possesions by making them minister to his own needs and those of others. Faithful stewardship.

Of what is faithfulness in small duties a sign?

How is our use of our possessions and of our money a true test of our character?

Why are we so inclined to think of our possessions as being our own to use as we please?

OUR HISTORICAL LIBRARY

Soon after New Year the library compiled all complete issues of the periodicals which come in regularly. We have about 60 volumes which must be bound. The work will be done reasonably and nicely at the Herold Publishing Company, but it nevertheless means an extraordinary expense for our small budget.

The gathering of complete issues of our periodicals is invaluable to the historical collection. Over 80 different Mennonite periodicals come to the Library regularly. Much valuable material of the past which we could use so well today, has been lost. Therefore the Library endeavors to preserve well what has been made available. The Committee is so grateful for the friends who are willing to support this work morally and financially. Send your contribution to the Gen. Conf. Treasurer, K. A. Richert, Newton, Kansas, with the remark "for Historical Library" and come and browse around in the Library; you will find much interesting information.

CHURCHMEN ADVOCATE PEACE WITHOUT VICTORY

More than five hundred leading churchmen in all parts of the country, including deans of universities and presidents of theological seminaries, have already sent in their signatures, according to Rev. D. Allen Knight Chalmers, minister of the Broadway Tabernacle of New York and Convenor of the Covenant of Peace Group, to a statement "calling for peace without victory" and contending that the hope of achieving noble aims "by the use of war is illusory."

Their statement of facts contains the following: "We as American churchmen, conscious of membership in the Universal Church, wish to summon the President, the Congress, and all other Christians in the United States of America to the need for a consideration of all real threats to the things that we as a people hold to be sacred and supreme.

"The attempt is being made to commit us to an all-inclusive military program, leading to the ever-increasing involvement in the present war. We are unwilling to be so committed, because we believe that these actions will result in complete participation in the conflict, and in the slow erosion of the moral and spiritual values which motivate our faith. We of course do not believe that we should seek "appeasment" at the expense of others, but we do believe that God desires that we should seek the way of repentance and sacrificial reconciliation for the good of all.

"We believe that people in all belligerant countries are appalled by the wholesale tragedy of war which men are called upon to intensify. In fact, we note with sorrow that even many Christian people asquiesce in a system of competitive starvation of populations in the belief that every starving child contributes to a democratic and righteous peace."

"We believe that the asserted moral and religious objectives which our nation, with others, is claiming to defend and propagate are high and noble; but we believe that the hope of achieving these aims by the use of war is illusory.

"We believe that the present tragic plight of the world, in large measure, is a direct outcome of a war which was to end war.

"We believe that the Second World War will not accomplish what we failed to achieve in the first World War.

"We believe that much in present trends seems to presume that God is dependent on the mechanized output of the recourses of the world to achieve His aims and that essential spiritual forces cannot be trusted.

"We call upon he Churches, their Officials and the Business Men of the nation, to state clearly to the world that, while recognizing the difference between an Imperialism administered wtih a measure of decency and consideration, and one based on ruthlessness, we believe that the time has come, in fact is long overdue in the history of mankind, when all imperialism must be relinquished, for liberty must not be compromised.

"We call upon the Church to reaffirm, and the State to recognize, that mankind is held together as one family under God, and that whatever process invalidates faith in the Universal God, and in the Oneness of mankind, should not be supported."

Woodland Mennonite Church

PRESENTS A MATERIAL NEED FOR A SPIRITUAL PURPOSE

In the year 1934, having again received no crop and little rough feed for our stock, a search for a quantity of feed was started which finally brought us to Warroad, in northern Minnesota. It was with hesitation, much thinking and prayer of leaving dear ones, friends and neighbors, that five families decided to leave their cropless farms at Lostwood, North Dakota, for a future home of more promise in northern Minnesota.

The population of Warroad is 1340. The country is settled at an average of four farms to a section, figuring six members to a family, living at a distance of three miles from the church, making a total of 864 people of which only 15% are attending church of any denomination. The balance enjoy themselves at various amusements or work on Sunday.

The people here make their living by raising grass seeds, such as alfalfa, sweet clover, timothy, alsike, and potatoes for seed. Small farmers depend mostly on dairying. Fishing has become quite an industry. As more land is opened up, grain raising is increasing, wheat, flax, barley, and oats. Thus five families of sturdy pioneer stock put their shoulders to the wheel of hard work to make a new start and living for their families. Not known here, Credit was scarce, and money limited, yet with the promise of God and His blessing, it has been possible to get a fairly good start.

Realizing that all efforts without God's blessing are in vain, and hungry for fellowship with God's children, they attended the first three Sundays at the Union Church. Feeling the need and leading of God, a Sunday school was organized which met in the different homes. The next two years, four more families came to make their future homes here. Thus our group kept growing and in 1937, work was started on a Sunday school building 20x30. Later an entrance hall was built to it. The building is unfinished from the inside.

In the fall of 1937, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Ortman visited us and held some services, which brought us closer together. Joys and sorrows, griefs, and disappointments, failures and blessings came more or less to each home. Many and varied were the experiences. A 55 gallon gas barrel converted into a stove serves as our heating plant, wood for fuel, and gas lamps for the light. Thus we gather in a simply constructed building and in an humble way receive the blessings of God. To serve our dear Lord and Savior as best we can is our purpose.

Still more families have moved here, so that we now have a total of 17 Mennonite families. In June, 1938, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Ortman again visited us, and served us with several meetings. It was decided to secure a pastor. And a call was given Bro. Ortman who accepted it and moved here in the fall of 1938 with his wife and family to take up the work as Student pastor. The following year we incorporated as a church, the dedication of our meeting place to the services of God was held July 2, 1939, and Bro. Arthur Ortman ordained as minister of the Gospel the same day. The Lord has richly blessed our group. Sunday school enrollment is about 120 with 41 baptized members. A Ladies Aid has 17 members, thus our little meeting place is hardly large enough for an average Sunday attendance and for C. E. programs, and for special occasions far too small. Warroad and community presents a real mission challenge to our Northern District conference and anyone interested in doing home evangelization work.

At our yearly meeting a building was started with Peter Unruh as treasurer. With donated labor and some free will gifts by friends and those interested in the work of the Lord, a new church would be possible this summer or fall. We make a kindly appeal to all Christian friends for a special gift for our building fund. May the Lord bless both gift and giver. The church feels grateful for your interest, your prayers and donations. He who giveth to the Lord's work shall in no wice lose his reward. All donations and offerings should be sent to: Peter Unruh, Treas., or Arthur F. Ortman, pastor, Warroad, Minnesota. —Jake G. Quiring, Corr.

Greetings in Jesus Name:

The Lord has been a wonderful Savior and Friend throughout the old year, and He is the same, yesterday and today and forever. Heb. 13:8. We have received many blessings in various ways and we are thankful for them. Without Jesus we can do nothing.— Two of our church members, Mr. D. P. Rempel and Mrs. J. Toews, are on the sick list. But the joy about it is that both trust in the Lord and seem to be quite consoled in their suffering. May our constant prayers go with them in loving sympathy.— We enjoy reading The Mennonite very much. It unites our hearts in fellowship, even if we cannot see each other face to face.— Very inspiring are the Foreign Mission News, and how glad we are that so many are willing to trust God fully and, in spite of obstacles, not only wish to go, but simply "GO," to preach the gospel to the gentiles, bringing them to the Light of the world, JESUS.— We are located about 360 miles north of the U. S. A. boundry. Missionary Wiens, on furlough from India, was with us two years ago, and was the first foreign missionary to visit us, encouraging us with the words of Jesus, "Occupy till I come."— Last spring we had the joy of having Dr. Fast with us for a few days. Being a good speaker, his addresses were very clear and interesting. He certainly impressed us with the gigantic work of the whole Conference, also telling us that only by the constraining love of Christ can the work be carried on in a Leper Home.— Almost two months ago we had a real surprise one day, when Missionary Thiessen arrived here one week sooner than we had expected. What a hustle and bustle to get the news around to as many people as possible. Telephones we have none, cars a few, and our moccasin telegraph top-speed is not very fast. However, before his lantern slide service started, the little log church was crowded. Bro. Thiessen made it very clear that Jesus is the only hope and remedy for India's millions. He also stressed the fact that this work belonged to the whole Conference, each individual member having a part in it. It is "OUR WORK."— In the name of the church I express a hearty "Thank You" for the visit of these dear brethren who, with their inspiring messages, helped much to create more interest among our young people for mission work.— Our Y. P. C. E. has pledged to support one native Evangelist on our China field. We have forwarded the money for two terms, and we would be very glad to see one of China's missionaries visit here.— Our Ladies' Aid workers have been quite busy for a number of years. Though discouraged at times by temptations and hardships, they have, with the Lord's help, continued the work. So on the whole they know it is a blessing to work and pray and struggle and carry on, because it is God's work. The S. S. work is still going on, and I have enjoyed working in harmony with the teachers. They spend much time in the effort to teach the children the real meaning of Christmas. The School has done very significant work under the circumstances.

Looking Forward

by Homer Leisy

We are living in momentous days; confronted with complex circumstances; but GOD'S PROGRAM is still our BEST plan to follow, as suggested in Acts 1:8, "But ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you, (He has come—He is here indwelling every believer) and ye shall be WITNESSES (not judges) unto ME, both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."

It begins at HOME. First, we need to know the TRANSFORMING POWER of God in our own lives—let the SPIRIT of GOD "COME IN" (John 3:5-8) in REGENERATION. Second, SPRING-UP (John 4:14) in PERMEATION—fill in our lives; Third, FLOW-OUT (John 7:37-39) in IRRIGATION, to those in dire need about us.

FLOW IN (Salvation)—FLOW THROUGH (Sanctification)— FLOW OUT (Service). Since our bodies are the temple of the Holy Spirit. He desires to continue the ministry of our Lord through us. He is seeking HUMAN OUTLETS, empty vessels for SPIRITUAL TRANSMISSION (Romans 12:1, 2). He wishes to REVEAL the GLORY of GOD through us. "Each thought and each motive beneath his control." Can it be said of us that we seek to RETAIN it all receptacle fashion? If water is not flowing it soon becomes stagnant.

I trust, we still seek to transmit to others what we have received through the Grace of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. May we all be. . . .

"Channels only, blessed Master,
But with all Thy wondrous power
Flowing through us, Thou canst use us
Every day and every hour."

Peace Rallies

BEATRICE, NEBRASKA

On the evening of January 12th, Carl J. Landes spoke to the young people of the Beatrice First and Second Mennonite Churches. Mr. Landes, who served the First Church, Philadelphia, for six years, is now rural secretary for The Fellowship of Reconciliation. As such he traverses the mid-western states in the interest of building Fellowship groups. At this meeting an offering was taken for our Civilian Service program.

On Monday evening he explained the organization and function of a Fellowship group. Such a group is active in the Beatrice area, and it is hoped that soon there will be such a group in each of the two Mennonite churches and in the nearby Brethren Church. The plan is to then have a combined meeting of the three groups about once a month.

Brother Landes gladly accepts invitations to bring the message of peace to various groups in the middle-west area.

HOFFNUNGSAU CHURCH, KANSAS

A large number of young people participated in a peace rally held in the Hoffnungsau Church on January 19th. Erwin Krehbiel of the Eden (Moundridge) C. E. gave a favorable report on his work camp experience in the first Bethel College Work Camp. He expressed himself as having been much benefited by the study of Mennonite History, Bible study, contact with other boys in camp and with the camp leaders.

Menno Martens from the Hoffnungsau Church spoke about his experience in getting C. O. recognition. Facing the three-member board alone in a closed room, he was questioned by them for two hours. Questions asked were: What would you do if your family were endangered? Don't you feel you owe something to your country? What would you do if Germany came over? By doing civilian work may you not be doing something so that Germany will have better soil when she conquers America? What would you do if martial law were declared? Menno made the significant comment that your answers must be your own convictions, that they must be your own religious belief. He was first placed in I-A, but was later changed to IV-E.

Dr. Harshbarger then spoke and at the conclusion of his talk conducted a question and answer period. An offering was taken for the Mennonite Civilian Service program.

NON-MILITARY NON-COMBATANT SERVICE

My government defines "non-combatant" service (I-AO) as service in the armed forces which does not involve actual fighting. In mechanized warfare the need for "non-combatants" is by far the greatest. One man at the front needs a thorough cooperation of seven "non-combatants" behind the lines. The first link in this chain is as important as the eighth. My testimony against the business of killing ends when I promise to serve "honestly and faithfully against all enemies whomsoever." My government also recognizes a conscience against military authority. Civilian (non-military non-combatant) service is my opportunity now for a positive and uncompromising expression of Christ-like love and interest in the permament well-being of all mankind. —Walter H. Dyck

"What worth has the 'simple life' for young people today?"

My answer is:

1. It offers fewer temptations in a complex world.
2. It is easier on the pocketbook.
3. It allows more time for fellowship with men.
4. It makes our peace testimony more sincere and effective.
5. It allows God's will to take hold of our lives.

BROTHERHOOD IN THE BIBLE

Gen. 4:9; Acts 17:24-28

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "What a fellowship, what a love divine," "Where cross the crowded ways of life," "Somebody did a golden deed."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Fellowship expressed through a "Community Sing"
4. Offering for Missions

II. Leader's Introduction

Jesus taught us to say: "Our Father." He thereby made us all members of one family. The brotherhood of man means that we belong together as a family group does. It means that we have common interests, that we are dependent one on the other, that what is of special concern to one is also to be the concern of the others. The relationship of a family is a living illustration of the proverb, "Joys shared are doubled, sorrows divided are halved." To be understood, to be loved, to mean something to the life of others, all this belongs to the brotherhood of man.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. An excellent rule to follow. Luke 6:31.
2. Brothers of one common Master. Matt. 23:8-11.
3. Love for all. Matt. 5:43-48.
4. A parable on brotherliness. Luke 10:30-37.
5. Christ's prayer for brotherhood. John 17:18-23.
6. Brotherliness toward all. James 2:1-4.

IV. For Discussion

1. What do we have a right to expect of a brother?

2. What did Cain mean when he said, "Shall I be my brother's keeper?"

3. In what ways was the home of Mary, Martha and Lazarus ideal?

V. Facts for Study

The world today sorely needs the lesson of Christian brotherhood. The very needs of the world cry out for the love and uplifting that only a brother can and will give another. There is the need for food and clothing and shelter, for care in time of sickness and trouble which is so urgent in the lives of many. It will not be met unless those who have things they can share have the heart and mind of a brother toward those less fortunate.

There is the need for love and understanding and sympathy which is just as urgent between individuals often as it is between the warring nations. How will the seemingly insurmountable problems of enmity and hatred and jealousy ever be solved? Jesus knew the way out: "Love your enemies, pray for them that persecute you, that ye may be sons of your Father which is in heaven."

It will take sincere consecration to follow this path in the world as it is today. But it is the only way which offers hope; it is the way of the cross but also the way of victory and glory.

WHAT CAN THE LOVE OF A BROTHER ACCOMPLISH?

Sixty years ago the natives of the Garo hills of Assam were wild, dangerous head-hunters. The British government at one time considered seriously sending an army into those hills to destroy that tribe. Missionaries asked if they might have the opportunity to go into those hills and try love. Now, it is said, it is safer to walk the Garo hills than New York City streets. The missionaries did not go into those hills to change the environment or their neighbors. They went into the hills to change the hearts of the Garo tribesmen, and when that had been accomplished with Christ's help, the environment and the neighbors were also changed.

VII. Food for Thought

"As man by his inventions has made the whole world into one neighborhood, grant that he may, by his cooperations, make the whole world into one brotherhood."

Feb. 19	Jesus had no racial scruplcs. John 4:9, 10
Feb. 20	Oppression of Jews is ancient. Acts 18:1-4
Feb. 21	Paul was a Jew. Acts 22:1-4

Feb. 22 It is the heart that counts. 1 Sam. 16:1-7
Feb. 23 Topic Luke 19:1-10

Opening Song: "My Soul, Be On Thy Guard"

Prayer by leader

Scripture Reading: Luke 19:1-10

Quotations:

"The Jew is the pilgrim of commerce, trading with every nation and blending with none." Conybeare.

"Talk what you will of the Jews, that they are cursed: they thrive wherever they come; they are able to oblige the prince of their country by lending him money; none of them beg; they keep together; and as for their being hated, why Christians hate one another as much." Selden.

Prayer Hymn "A Charge to Keep"

Reading and discussion of daily references

Question: Why have the Jews always been the butt of the world's antagonism?

"God chose them because He loved them, but men have always hated what God loved; hence their hatred of the Jew. God has highly honored them by calling them out to be His own chosen nation; for this cause and for no other, have they been despised by all. Of course, God has given them great ability, which has caused the envy and jealousy of the nations."

Song: "There's a Wideness"

Question for informal discussion:

Can a Christian hate Jews?

Song: "Love Divine, All Love Excelling"

Program for February 23, 1941

CHRIST OUR GREAT EXAMPLE IN WORSHIP AND PRAYER

Setting: A large copy of the "Angelus" or an open Bible on a stand with lighted candles at either side of the Bible.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude - Sweet Hour of Prayer S. H. 283
2. Call to Worship - Hab. 2:20. "The Lord is in his holy temple: let all the earth keep silence before him."
3. Worship in Song - Sweet Hour of Prayer -283
4. Worship in Scripture - Psalm 95:1-6
5. Leader's Opening Prayer

II. Study Period

Prayer is the opening of the heart to God as a friend. Prayer does not change God; but it does change us and our relation to God. It places us in the channel of blessing, and in that frame of mind in which God can consistently and safely grant our requests. Christ while on earth taught us much about prayer and worship by his life both in word and deed.

Short topics by Juniors on the following:

1. Christ as an example in prayer life. Mark 1:35; Matt. 14:23
2. What did Christ say concerning secret prayer? Matt. 6:6
3. To whom did Christ teach us to pray? Matt. 5:44(b)
4. In whose name did Christ teach us to pray? John 14:13
5. When praying what must we do in order to be forgiven? Matt. 11:25
6. Song - Take Time to Be Holy S. H. 248
7. God's willingness to hear and answer prayer. Matt. 7:11
8. That we may not be overcome. Matt. 26:41
9. Worshiping Christ in small groups. Matt. 18:20
10. Christ manifesting his regard for the sanctity of God's house. Matt. 11:15-17
11. Where was Jesus on the sabbath day? Luke 4:16
12. Leader's Heart Talk

III. Mission Minutes

Have the Juniors read the letter by Vernelle and Orlando Waltner in the Missionary News and Notes for January, 1941. It is a very interesting letter. We really learn a great deal about India and our Mission Stations there by reading this one letter. Notice the climate, scenery, animals, services, missionaries, buildings, etc. The leader may ask questions about the letter or ask certain Juniors to tell about what they found most interesting.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat the verse for the month
2. Finish memorizing the song for the month and sing it.
3. Repeat the prayer for the month.

Church Dues and Obituaries

by S. P. Preheim

There are two items in our MENNONITE of Jan. 7 to which I wish to refer. In an item on page fifteen, the Editor quotes from our Church Bulletin: "Bethany Church, Freeman, S. Dak., announces in its Bulletin that from now on all membership dues are to be reported as they stand at the time when the treasurer closes his books, with unpaid dues appearing as arrears." To this the Editor adds: "This seems a good idea, for it is the general experience of churches that some members are slow, too slow, to pay their dues for blessings received at the hands of the church."

Our Church has been printing a list of its members for a number of years, reporting those who have paid their fees up to date and those who have not. I have always opposed this practice as a wrong motive and method, but it passed over my vote. The method is wrong, because it classifies the members as some in good standing with the Church and others not, basing such classification upon one condition or test of faithfulness only. It is further wrong, because it does not have the desired results. And it is also wrong because the motive is wrong. The motive for printing and distributing a list of those church members who are in arrears with their payment is to openly rebuke and shame them; in other words, discipline them. Why should a church take such action against those who may be unable to meet their financial obligations to their church or even those who are slow or careless in regard to paying, when the church tolerates other sins and wrongs, committed by their members, such as joining oath bound secret organizations, swearing of oaths, joining the army or navy, the use of tobacco, the playing of flinch cards, cursing and swearing, lying and others. Why not also make a list of those who sin in other ways and publish such a list?

We have at present just one kind of essessment of our church-members and that is the membership fees. We make no levy on property and none on income. We have members in our church who draw $1000.00-$2000.00 salaries and a few have considerable properties while many of our younger people are much of the time without work and with little income. The Bible teaches us that we should contribute towards God's work in proportion to what we have. It says nothing about membership fees, and it does not teach that we should put all those who are back with their financial church obligations on a black-list for publication while those who sin in other ways should be spared rebuke and correction. Let us at least be honest with ourselves and in our work and conduct in the Kingdom of God.

The other item is found on page fourteen, where the Editor states: "One of our young ministers thinks that the obituaries are taking up too much space in The Mennonite, saying "Why not publish the name and address of the deceased and let any one who is interested in knowing more inquire of the relatives or others through letter.—Why not have more biographies of the living?" As to the above suggestion I feel altogether different. First, the Mennonite people are a comparatively small group and belong mostly to the same tribe. They are like one big family with a common background. They are, therefore, interested in each other's lives and family histories. Secondly, we Mennonite people are very slow in making each other compliments while we live, and when one dies, that person is worthy of the little good that can at least for once be said about him. Is not a Christian obituary, under God, partly the result and the product of our common Christian work—why not report it? Thirdly, some Mennonite families are better and wider known than others, but that does not say that such should constitute a distinguished class among us; and that their obituaries alone should find recognition in our church papers. Fourthly, there is to me no history so interesting as that of a human life. The more details are given about it the more interesting it is. Fifthly, it is true that some family's name is not much further known than their immediate community, but after 25 years a son or daughter may become known far and wide, and immediately the people will begin to search for information about their families, father, mother, brothers, sisters, grandfathers, uncles, nationality, language, birthplace, even old door steps and writing desks and other things on which they leave their fingerprints, are becoming famous overnight.

Let us rather add four more pages to our church papers and urge all of our Mennonite people to send in the obituaries of their departed dead and let us, as the brother suggests also print the life story of some of those who are yet living.

IN MEMORIAM

DAVID KRAEMER, son of John and Katherine Kraemer, was born on a farm near Trenton, Illinois, on September 25, 1874. It was here that he grew to manhood and later occupied the farm. At the age of 16, he made a public confession of his faith, was baptized by the Rev. J. E. Krehbiel and received into the membership of the First Mennonite Church at Summerfield. On August 31, 1915, he was united in marriage with Katie Haury who preceded him to the Great Beyond on July 8, 1939. About three years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Kraemer left the farm and moved to Trenton. Several weeks ago, Mr. Kraemer contracted an infection on one of his feet. He was taken to the St. Joseph Hospital at Highland where later the foot was amputated but to no avail. He passed away last Monday, January 13, 1941, at the age of 66 years, 3 months, and 18 days. He leaves to mourn his departure, one sister-in-law and one brother-in-law, several nephews and nieces, besides other relatives and friends. He was the last of the family to survive, his parents, three brothers, and one sister, all proceded him in death. Funeral services were held at the First Mennonite Church at Summerfield on Thursday afternoon, Januray 16. The services were in charge of the pastor who spoke on II Cor. 5:1-4. Interment was made in the Summerfield Cemetery.

EMMA JANE SWARTZ nee Steely was born in Bedminister township, Bucks Co., Pa. Jan. 4, 1855. Widow of M. F. Swartz, Pipersville, Pa. Died Dec. 3, 1940, aged 85 years, 10 months, 29 days. Interment on the 7th at Keller's church. Officiating clergymen, Rev. F. Furman and A. M. Fretz.

BROTHER ANDREW H. SCHAG, son of John and Fanny Schrag, was born at Moundridge, Kansas, June 22, 1884. Later his parents moved to Pretty Prairie. On the 8th of April 1900 he was baptized on the confession of his faith by Elder J. J. Flickinger and received into the Mennonite church at Pretty Prairie, Kans. On November 12, 1904, he was joined in wedlock to sister Anna Kaufman. The Lord gave them two sons and two daughters. They were privileged to share the joys and sorrows of life for a little over 36 years. In the later years of their married life his wife was not well. He always stood at her side and nursed her faithfully until the Lord took him away.— Of late his health began to fail. The physician whom he consulted pronounced his ailment to be cancer. On the 9th of January he was operated on at Halstead, and on the 16th the Lord took him home. He attained the age of 56 years, 6 months and 23 days. He leaves his sorrowing wife; two sons, John and Edward; two daughters, Mrs. Martin Graber and Helen; one son-in-law, Martin Graber; one daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Schrag; three grandchildren, Charles Le Roy and Alvin Dale Schrag, and Virgie Marie Graber; six brothers, Joseph, Jacob, Peter, Benjamin, Tobias, and Christ; and two sisters, Mrs. Jonathan Krehbiel and Katie, besides other relatives and friends to mourn his departure.

CORRESPONDENCE

LORRAINE AVE. MENN. CH., WICHITA, KAN.

Sunday, January 26, 1941

Tonight the Lord has permitted us to have a mountain top experience. Before retiring I should like to write my experience, so as to share it with you. At the evening service I preached on the subject, "Christianity and the Moving Pictures." Closing the sermon I made an appeal to youth for a closer walk with God and a purer life. Young people have let down the bars of morality and my plea was that God needs young people to take a definite stand for Him. The closing hymn was announced and we were singing, "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow." Feeling an inner drive urging me to extend a call for youth to dedicate their lives to Christ, I asked those who desired to consecrate to do so—to come forward and take their place at the altar, while we were singing the third stanza. On August 4 a young couple came to our church and joined. Later she was elected teacher of the Young People's class and he was elected president of the Young People's C. E. When the appeal was made, these two came forward. As I saw the young people rising and coming forward I could not sing, I was choked up, the sight was too much. There were twenty-two standing at the altar in consecration and dedication of their lives to His service. One deacon was present and he also came and joined the rest at the altar.

I wish each one reading this could have shared that experience with us. What a beautiful sight to see these youny people's leaders and the deacon with a large group of youth coming in consecration to God. My wife and I were touched deeply since our daughter was in the group.

The church has voted to become self-supporting. We have 134 members at present. At our first meeting of catechism class there were seven present and several more plan to attend. The church is crowded each Sunday and chairs have to be carried. All efforts are being made to build a new church building. Committees are at work making plans. —Edward D. Schmidt, Pastor

BETHANY BIBLE SCHOOL, MUNICH, N. DAK.

Greeting with our school motto: "Holding forth the Word of Life!" Phil. 2:16.

We, as students, were very busy just before Christmas with examinations, so after Christmas it was like starting anew again. One new pupil started with the new year and one stopped, so there are still 35 enrolled.— The nineteenth of December a program was given in Alsen by all the students. December 22 we gave a half hour radio program over station KDLR, Devil's Lake. After that the boys and Mr. John Hoage as their leader went to one hospital to sing and give out tracts, and the girls and the Reverend Walter went to the other hospital. We enjoyed singing for them very much, and they seemed to enjoy listening. Later we gave a program in the Old People's Home. These people enjoy to see the young people's interest in them. We had a blessed time here and gave out tracts on the street. It is pitiful that in this so-called Christian nation some didn't even know what a gospel trast was. May we pray that God will bless this work. In the evening a program was given in the Evangelical Free Church. — December 24 we went caroling, singing at the windows of different homes. At about 3 o'clock in the morning it started to rain so we decided to go home. Probably many heard these songs that didn't hear them in church, as we went to quite a number of places. The boys, as well as the two groups of girls, sing in the different homes in Munich, after school, usually on Tuesday.— We have had about twelve or more visitors. Among them were Rev. Edward Duerksen of Alsen, who gave a brief talk and Rev. John Bartel of Delft, Minnesota. He gave us a very good talk about his experiences in going to school and also in teaching Bible School in the various places. We were greatly impressed by this short talk. Albert Fadenrecht, a Northwestern graduate, spoke words of encouragement to us, also Arthur Fadenrecht, a freshman in Northwestern, spoke briefly.— So far the weather has always permitted our music teacher to come every Friday afternoon. When we gave the radio program he had entire charge of the songs. If weather is favorable another program is planned for the 26th of January.— The eleven seniors are having meetings to decide different things concerning graduation, like making out a year book.— May the Lord use them in His vineyard is our wish for these students.

Wishing you all God' blessing in the year 1941.

BERGTAL MENN. CHURCH, CORN, OKLA.

January 10, 1941

There has been a good deal of sickness here. Among those who are ailing are Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Bergen and Mrs. P. L. Heidebrecht. Mrs. Elizabeth Janzen and Mr. Gust Janzen have been flu victims. Elder John Flaming who suffered from a fell some time ago is able to attend church again.

Baptismal services were held in the church Sunday, January 5, Miss Ella Hinz and Mill Thelma Janzen receiving the holy ritual. Under the trying conditions of the times we feel that at least the Church began the new year with a special blessing. Also for the past year we are grateful; not only have our earthly needs been taken care of, but we as a congregation feel that the Lord has blessed us most graciously; twenty members were added by baptism and six by the extending of the hand. We lost one member in the death of sister Mrs. J. H. Friesen. Under the able leadership of our pastor, Rev. Henry Hege, we pray for further help and guidance.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Huenergard of Reedley, California, who have been visiting in the community during the holidays, left Wednesday for their home in California. They were accompanied by Miss Ella Hinz and Thelma and Hilda Janzen. A farewell party was held at the C. L. Janzen home Tuesday. Also Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Peters, who have been visiting here, left last week for their home in California.— The Ladies' Sewing Circle began their active work for the new year last Thursday, but on account of bad roads the attendance was not so glad. Also on account of unfavorable weather and roads we were able to have only two nights of the scheduled week's prayer meetings.

We have had an abundance of moisture this fall and winter and with the accompaning mild weather the crop prospects are favorable. —J. A. Unger, Corr.

GRACE MENNONITE CHURCH, ALBANY, ORE.

Greetings! We have been privileged to enjoy a year of blessings, both materially and spiritually, for which all praise and honor go to our heavenly Father, "the giver of all good and perfect gifts."

Rev. J. M. Franz took up his work at this place on June 1st. We are indeed thankful that God saw fit to send this servant of His into our midst. We have been enjoying the rich spiritual food he has been giving us. Interest as well as attendance have been growing. Eleven new members, six transferring their membership from other churches, four by reaffirmation, and one by baptism have been added to our number. The last Sunday evening of every month is given over to a song service, which is brought to a close with a short inspirational message by the pastor.— We celebrated two silver wedding anniversaries at the church the past year. In March Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Widmer had the privilege, and in November, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Funk.— In November Rev. Homer Leisy of Dallas, Oregon, held special services here. His very interesting and timely messages were well attended.

We had our annual business meeting on the evening on Dec. 9th. We believe the Lord led as was His will, and we trust that He will lead on to enable us to do more for His Kingdom in the new year than we have in the past year.—The Sunday School presented its Christmas Program on Sunday, Dec. 22nd. The flu hindered many from attending, but we are glad to report that most of them are well again, and Sunday School attendance, which had dropped considerably for several Sundays is almost back to normal again.—The Church observed its annual Fellowship Banquet on the evening of January 1st. A goodly number attended. A short program was rendered after the meal. Encouraging talks were given by several members, behooving us all for a closer walk with Him and more cooperation than in the past. A short inspirational message by the pastor brought the evening to a close. He used Eph. 6:11-18 as an encouragement for the New Year, showing the importance of the "Christian's Defense Program"—putting on the "whole armor of God." In the Christian's Armor no protection is provided for the back, therefore we must press forward to face the enemy.

This church extends a hearty Christian Welcome to all visitors as well as to those who are seeking a church home. —Mrs. Elmer Widmer, Corr.

FIRST MENNONITE CHURCH, RANSOM, KS.

On Sunday, December 22nd, the children of our Sunday School gave their well rendered Christmas program to an appreciative audience. On Monday evening, December 23rd, the Christmas pageant, "The Holy Nativity," was given by the adults of our church. A choir of 22 voices directed by Professor Garten, music instructor of our high school, rendered the music, while the speaking parts and the tableaus were under the direction of one of our S. S. teachers. Both directors did well, and much credit is due them.

On January 2nd, 1941, we held our annual business meeting at which the necessary elections were held and the affairs of the church regulated and planned for the coming year. We trust in God's guidance also for the coming year.—Our county has just completed a county teacher's training school to which all churches of the county are eligible. Four courses were offered and most of them were quite well patronized. Our church was also represented in the attendance of courses as well as on the teaching staff.—We have had much moisture during fall and winter, and we hope for a fair crop.

—A. A.

EMMANUEL MENN. CHURCH, PRATUM, ORE.

The year 1940 was very interesting as well as a busy one for us. Much time and labor as well as considerable means were spent in enlarging the church and renovating the parsonage. We were very conscious of the blessing of the Lord upon the efforts we put forth in His name, but we also realize that our responsibility to serve the Lord is increased.

The annual business meeting was held on New Year's eve. The congregation was well represented and a fine spirit prevailed. After the business session we met in the basement where we enjoyed a social hour. Promptly at 11 o'clock we gathered in the auditorium for a watch night service. It was a service long to be remembered because of the presence of the Spirit of God. We were all encouraged to go forth into the new year with faith and confidence, because the same God who cared for His children in the years gone by is still on the throne and, regardless of what conditions or circumstances may arise we have an open way to the throne of grace in the name of the Lord Jesus and the assurance that whatsoever we ask in His name, according to the will of God, He will do for us. Mrs. Jno. L. Merryman, Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, LEHIGH, KANSAS

January, 23, 1941

Our Church held its annual business meeting on New Year's Day. A basket lunch was enjoyed by all at noon. The following offiecers were elected: S. S. Supt., George E. Boothe; Asst. Supt., Ralph Buller; Secretary, Jake F. Banman; Treasurer, P. D. Buller; Deacon, R. Weinbrenner, reelected, but declined since his dear wife is in poor health; Choir Director, Gerhard F. Friesen; Asst. Director, Willian Hiebert; Members of Church Board, Ed. G. Warkentin, D. D. Janzen, F. G. Unruh.

The Christmas program was a blessing to all present. The children from three to eight years old gave a short program. This was followed by a Pageant, "When the Light Shone," which was given by all the other pupils. As there was hardly any sickness around here at Christmas time, the program was well attended.— The Catechetical instruction class under the direction of the Rev. B. H. Janzen is well attended again this year. Our prayer is that every one of these young souls may learn to love the Savior loyally, whom we owe our best efforts in service.— Arrangements have been made to buy new Mennonite Hymnaries.

—Mrs. F. G. Unruh, Corr.

—Another Hint to Our Young Brethren: As conscientious objector to military service and war remember to ask for Form 47 at the time you receive your questionnaire, regardless of your probable classification. If you fail to do this you will forfeit the privilege of doing alternative service in case the deferred classes are later called into active service.

—Missionary John Thiessen writes from Bluffton, Ohio, "We will be in Kansas from Feb. 8 to 25. Our address: Mrs. J. W. Wiens, Inman, Kansas, and after that: In care of Thomas Cook and Son, 318 Stockton St., San Francisco, Calif. Packages can be sent to this address, letters to Rev. John Thiessen, c|o *S. S. AUTO TRAGEDY BEFALLS MENNONITE FAMILY. Mrs. J. C. Regier of Buhler, Kansas, dies from injuries received in an auto accident in a Florida hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Regier accompanied by nephew Mildred Buhler were driving south on a vacation, when near Tallahassee, Florida, they collided with a pick-up truck and Mrs. Regier received a fractured skull. She was taken to a hospital and a specialist called, but she passed away Tuesday, Jan. 28. The two men returned partly by plane and partly by train, the casket by train. The funeral was held Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Regier are the parents of Mrs. Ruth Regier Ratzlaff who with her husband, Rev. Harold Ratzlaff, left for India as missionaries of the General Conference a few months ago.—Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to tse bereaved family, including son Harold and his wife, sons Herbert and Lewis.

—Rev. Albert M. Gaeddert, whose home is at Buhler, Kansas, has kindly acceded to the wishes of the Mennonite Central Peace Committee to interrupt his studies at the Garrett Biblical Institute in Chicago, to enable him, with Mrs. Gaeddert, to serve as leaders of the Civilian Service Camps at Colorado Springs, Colo. Bro. Gaeddert left on January 25 for Baltimore, Md., to receive instruction in the management of such camps. It was first thought that possibly a camp might be established somewhere in Kansas. But since there is a vacant C. C. C. camp at Colorado Springs, the C. O's of this zone will be accommodated at this camp. Mr. Gaeddert plans to attend the session of the M. C. P. C. in Chicago on February 1, and then be present at the West. District Minister's Conference in the Zion Church, Elbing, Kansas, on February 4, where the results of the meeting in Chicago will be reported and discussed.

—Mrs. J. H. Tschantz, 117 Kibler St., Bluffton, Ohio, reports that her daughter Sylvia, Mrs. S. T. Pannabecker, writes from the mission field in China: "I am glad you do not worry about us and are content to have us stay here in spite of dangers and difficulies. We are happy in His will and do not care to be any other place. We just hope and pray that we can stay."—The mother adds: "They are in God's strong hands."

—First Menn. Church, Bluffton, Ohio.—The Bulletin says: The Missionary Thiessens leave this community Saturday, Feb. 1. The furniture which families of this church so willingly loaned them to furnish their home during their stay in Bluffton should call for theirs. Larger pieces will be delivered.—The next college vesper address will be given by Dr. Jacob C. Meyer, Prof. of History at Western Reserve U. His subject will be, "The Call for a Faith to Frame a New World." Dr. Meyer is a Mennonite.

Weddings

—Martens—Wiebe.—On Dec. 31, 1940, Martha Martens was united in marriage to Harry Wiebe by Rev. P. H. Unruh in the Buhler Menn. Church. At home at 415 E. 6th, Newton, Kansas.

—Friesen—Martens.—On January 12, 1941, Katie Friesen of Inman became the bride of A. B. Martens in the Buhler Menn. Church, Rev. John F. Schmidt officiating. At home on a farm southeast of Buhler.
—Mrs. F. F. Matthies

—Vacancies that have occured in General Conference Boards have been filled by the Conference officers as follows: Church Unity Committee, to succeed Dr. S. K. Mosiman, Rev. W. F. Unruh, Pulaski, Iowa; Emergency Relief Board, Prof. Irvin W. Bauman, Bluffton, Ohio, to take the place of Maxwell Kratz, deceased; and Rev. D. C. Wedel of Halstead, Kansas, to release Dr. A. Warkentin.

—Johannestal Church, Hillsboro, Kansas—Our annual business meeting was held Dec. 27, 1940. Bro. Edwin Unruh was elected deacon. The work of prayer was also observed. We took two topics on each of three meetings, and the topics for Sunday were used as text by the minister. One hundred "Mennonite Hymnaries" have been purchased for our church. —Mrs. J. F. G., Corr.

—Bro. P. P. Sprunger, 6753 Laflin St., Chicago, Ill., renews his subscription and writes: "We enjoy The Mennonite for its inspirational articles and the news from the Mission fields and various churches. May the Lord richly bless the paper, and may it ever increase spiritually."—The renewal and kind words are much appreciated.—Editor.

—Bethany Church, Freeman, S. Dak. will have a series of Evangelistic Meetings, beginning Sunday, March 9, with Rev. J. B. Toews, Director of the Bible Department of the College as speaker.—Later in February thd Educational Committee will again contact the membership of this church for their annual gifts to Freeman Jr. College.

—Mennonite Church, Pulaski, Iowa.—At the annual meeting the following persons were chosen to fill the elective offices of the church: Chairman, Victor Swartzendruwer; Vice-Chairman, Oscar Dieffenbach; secretaries, S. AMERICA AT A CROSSROAD

The Lease-Lend Bill now before Congress gives the President power to turn the United States into the world's arsenal, to make, use, lease or lend any article of defense, and also places at his disposal the use of the country's material and physical resources, as he may deem necessary to help save democracy or, to use the old phrase, "to make the world safe for democracy." Thus we are again trying to do what we did in the World War, where our efforts have proved to be in vain. We have little doubt that the President and his aids drafted this measure with honest intentions, as they view the situation in which we and Europe find ourselves. But the history of the bill thus far shows that other leading men of the country have different conceptions. Twenty-three years ago our government, with President Wilson as its head, entered the World War with good intentions and apparently noble aims: To put an end to German militarism, to make democracy sure, and to bring about a just peace, a peace without victory, in accord with the President's famous "fourteen points." But Messrs. Clemenceau, Lloyd George and Orlando shrewdly twisted the aims and managed to declare the democracies victors and Germany the vanquished in the Treaty of Versailles, which unfortunately contained the seeds of the present war. Thus the result turned out to be quite the opposite of what America thought it was fighting for. What wonder that some of our far-sighted men in Congress and other patriots want to be sure that we are not going to make the same mistake in the present crisis, and are demanding that the European belligerants, particularly England, which is the recipient of our aid, be made to give us a clear-cut statement of their aims in the conflict, before we "sell out to them" as it were, before the Lease-Lend Bill can be considered. Having been sadly mislead, once, they say we ought to go sure this time. At the beginning of the present war Premier Chamberlin stated that the allied aim of the war was "to destroy Hitlerism" or, what is perhaps equivalent, the Nazi philosophy of totalitarianism. As late as last August Premier Churchill is known to have remarked, "No one will think that we are fighting this war merely to maintain the status quo." Germany's or rather Hitler's war aim is said to be "to drive England and her power from the main land of Europe and put an end to British world domination." Both of these aims are extremely selfish and forbode continued discord and trouble. And many honestly thinking people wonder, how the provisions of the pending bill which points to a dictatorship and totalitarianism can be made to harmonize with our determination to go to any sacrifice to help save democracy? Or, in other words, how we can really help preserve world democracy by possibly losing it at home? It would therefore seem to be rendering patriotic service to our beloved country, if all who see the dangers of the bill would write to our representatives and senators, and even the President, that we feel this bill should not be adopted and that there are other and safer ways to help England in this crisis. Last week we explained in The Mennonite a plan proposed by the Secretarial Bureau of Bethel College, whereby appeals can be addressed to the 96 Senators and a number of Representatives at the small sum of 1.75. The editor and a friend of his have taken advantage of the plan and have let the Bureau send the following appeal to the designees: "The people of our beloved United States stand today at the parting of the ways. The Lease-and-Lend Bill will lead us to a dictatorship and totalitarianism, while Congress, by retaining its prerogative as representatives of the people, has the power to retain Democracy for us by opposing the Bill with its possible entanglements. In this solemn hour we entreat you to do all you can to help defeat the Bill in its full form."— In taking such an attitude in this free, democratic country of ours, we hope we are acting in harmony with Paul's injunction, Rom. 13:1, "Let every soul be subject to the higher powers. For there is no power but of God," because we also believe and practice what the apostle urges, I Tim. 2:1-2, "First of all make supplications, prayers, intersessions and give thanks for all men; for kings, and for all that are in authority; that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all goodliness and honesty." —T.

Burried was the bloody hatchet;
Burried was the dreadful war-club;
Burried were all warlike weapons,
And the war cry was forgotten.—
Then there was peace among nations. —Longfellow

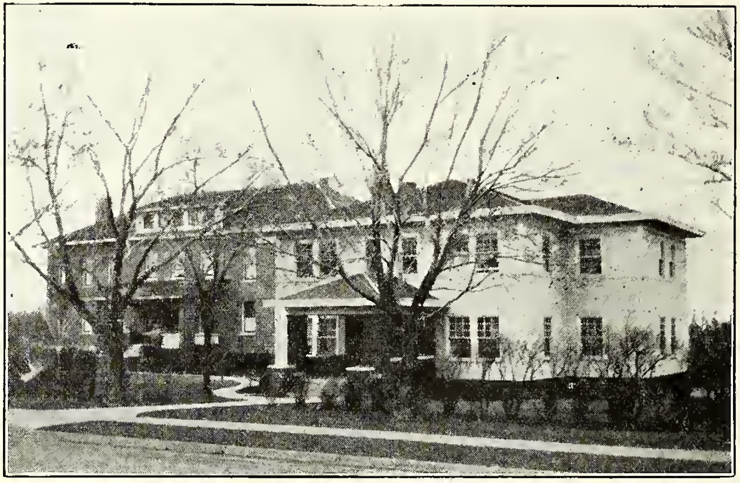
The Mennonite Deaconess Home and Hospital

Beatrice, Nebraska



This hospital is owned and maintained by the Non-Resistant Mennonite Church at Beatrice, Nebr. At a jubilee celebration held some years ago, to give thanks to God for His blessings and merciful guidance during twenty-five years of quiet life in this country of religious liberty, the thought of a real thank-offering was expressed and discussed. A home for the Aged or a Hospital received consideration. After a subscription list for both institutions had been circulated, it was found that the great majority was in favor of the Hospital, though not without fear of the size of the undertaking. But with the support of the Western Conference, which sanctioned the solicitation of funds among its churches, the project got under way. Under the direction of an energetic Board of Managers, it was not long until the sum of $20,516.25 was subscribed, augmented by the donation of an acre of ground by Brother and Sister Peter Jansen. Operations on the Hospital were brought under way and on July 16. 1911, the building could be dedicated, fully equipped, and the next day it was opened for the care of the sick. Sisters Marie Wedel and Katie A. Penner, with three probation sisters took charge, trusting God for His help and guidance. Later the erection of a Sisters' home was undertaken and on Thanksgiving Day in 1920 this building could be dedicated. The day was made further memorable in that the beloved Elder of the congregation, Rev. Gerhard Penner, here rendered his last public service.

The Hospital is arranged to accommodate thirty patients. It features the following departments: X-Ray, Medical, Obsterical, Dietetic, and School of Nursing, which aims to train young women in the care of the sick, under a decidedly Christian atmosphere. A three-year course of study is conducted for both deaconesses and Christian young women who desire to become nurses but have not felt a call to the Deaconess work.

In their annual report for 1940 the Sisters cite the following interpretation of the story of the Good Samaritan: Three types of people are represented in the story. The first group was the robbers whose philosophy of life was, "What's yours is mine and I'm going to get it." The second were the priest and Levite who believed that "What I have is mine and I'm going to keep it," while the third group is typified by the kind hearted Samaritan who believed that "what I have is ours, let's share it." As hospital people they cherish the last type and like to give thought to the many who remembered the institution with prayer, gifts of song, gifts in kind, gifts of the sewing groups, and the pastoral gifts.

That the institution is financially in a sound condition is proved by the fact that its assets in land, buildings, bonds and also other investments amount to $64,416.13, its liabilities, of which $9,000 is a trust fund for Sisters, only $11,890..49, leaving a net worth of $52,525.64. The total income for 1940 was $30,103.85.

The service that the Hospital renders to all classes of people irrespective of creed or belief is shown by the denominational diversity of people admitted last year, thus: Children 133, Methodist 119, Christian 109, Lutheran 82, None 81, Mennonite 39, Catholic 38, Presbyterian 33, Baptist 16, Episcopal 16, Evangelical 16, Nazarene 15, Brethren 9, United Brethren 8, others 32. The Hospital has a normal bed capacity of 30. Last year 746 patients were admitted, the total patient days numbered 8,090; 133 major, 122 minor and 128 tonsil operations were performed.

The following is the present staff of nurses: Sister Elizabeth Wiebe, anethetist; Sister Sarah Rempel, sister-in-charge; Sisters Marie Penner and Lizzie Graber, supervisors; Sister Lena Heer, surgical supervisor; Sister Alice E. Epp, laboratory technician; Sister Emilie Penner, housekeeper; Mrs. Ursula Frantz, superintendent of the Hospital.

The following constitute the Board of Directors: Henry Reimer, Pres.; A. P. Goosen, Sec.;Henry G. van Steen, Treas.; Dr. H. G. Penner, David Jantzen, H. C. Jantzen, John Thimn, John von Riesen, Frank Penner, Franz Albrecht, Corn. Penner, Walter Dyck, G. A. Penner.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A. S. Rosenberger

A MENNONITE SEMINARY

By Ed. G. Kaufman

Below is a copy of another letter which is very revealing as to the type of training needed by rural ministers.

My dear ——————

. . . I will try to make my letter brief and to the point. For some time, having been born and reared on the farm, I have been longing to get into a strictly rural work. In my thirteen years of pastoral work I have served a rural, an industrial, and a small town county seat in that order. I found that I I was happier and better adopted by inheritance, experience and inclination to a strictly rural church. After having been at a county seat church for three years, two other ministers —————— —————— and I took over a three-church charge. . . . formerly served by one minister. The churches were run down but had great possibilities. . . . We shared our salaries equally. . . . In order to supplement our income we rented a farm outside the three parishes . . . . We all three ran the farm.

. . . The second year of our experiment has been the best in every way concerned. We still get together as families for pot-luck suppers, fellowship, and plan our parish work, although we each run our own church pretty much independent of the others. We still share our combined salaries equally. . . . .

My church (membership of 150) rented for us a four and a half acre farm on the edge of our village of forty homes. . . . I keep three milk cows, a couple of pigs for our own use for meat, and a flock of fifty-five laying hens and twenty-five heavy breed chickens. . . . As a result our clear profit . . . was ——————, not counting the milk cream, eggs, and meat we consumed. Since the four and a half acres are used for gardens and pasture for our cows, I had no extra ground for raising feed. So I worked out among my farmers for hay, corn and oats. This was better all around than the large farm which we three ministers operated the year before. It is handier, took less time, less responsibility, and resulted in more clear profit, and besides, I became better acquainted with six or seven farmers on whose farms I worked and with whom I worked than I ever could by paying them a professional, pastoral visit. . . .

Our next step is purchasing a small parsonage-farm, say of 10 to 15 acres. We are looking for such a place where we can set out a small orchard, berry bushes, have a large garden, and a few acres for corn, oats, hay and pasture for 3 or 4 cows.

We three ministers are active in outside affairs, speaking at meetings, churches, clubs, on Consumer Education, Cooperatives, the Rural Church, etc. Two of us are scheduled for a few Farmer Institutes in the state. One is President of the County Ministerial Association, and another is President of the —————— Commission on Town and County Church. One is chairman of the Rural Department of —————— Council of Churches. We go to ——————to attend the American County Life Association in November. where one of us is on the program. Each of us belongs to, and is discussion leader in his local Farm Bureau Advisory Council.

Now I hope I have not sounded like I was boasting, but you told me to throw caution to the winds. May I close with a few convictions which I feel quite strongly.

(1) The success in the future of the rural church does not lie in charges of two or more churches where a man spreads himself out. . . . and where some of his churches do not have the privilege of his residence. Every rural church wants and needs a resident pastor, who identifies himself with them.

(2) I like a long-time pastorate, where a man can grow up with the community, baptizing the children, performing their marriage ceremonies and in turn baptizing their children.

(3) I think the best way a rural minister can identify himself with his people is to live as they live, making part of his living as they do, with hands as well as heart. (We all need proper balance of labor—physical and mental) . . . .

(4) No pastor can be a success in the country unless he is rural-minded. He must love the simplicity, the native characteristics and the ways of rural folk. He must see that the native values of rural life are inherent in and necessary to Christianity and Democracy. He must become a part of the whole rural tempo and atmosphere.

(5) A rural pastor must see success in work that satisfies. Let him forget about conference standing, salary, fame, popularity, and prestige. Let him be content to fill his . . . niche and give God the glory.

I love rural folk, their ways, their environment, and have abandoned all thoughts of leaving the country. I hope for a long pastorate here. I see in the country the only spot where the religion of Jesus finds "native air" . . . .

Thanking you for your interest, and hoping to have in these rambling pages imparted to you something of my philosophy of rural life.

Sincerely ——————

To the covetous man life is a nightmare, and God lets him wrestle with it as best he may.

JUST A LITTLE SPECK

Some dust had blown into the eyes of a farmer living about a mile from our station. This resulted in considerable pain which he suffered for some eight months before coming to the hospital. My first inspection revealed nothing, but when I used a special light (the gift of the Living Link's S. S. Class, Berne, Ind.) I could plainly see a little speck of foreign material on the eye ball. This was easily removed, but is took considerable treatment to stay the infection. Even after careful treatment it is quite evident that he cannot hope for normal vision in that eye.

Now if we were to sermonize we could say that this little speck is sin. It takes the special light of His glorious Gospel and the Holy Spirit to reveal these little specks of sin. And there are so many (should I say of us) living within easy reach of The Great Physician, who let these little specks cause such havoc in our lives.

The above is just one of many similar instances which I could relate. Three days ago a little girl was brought to the hospital. For a day and a half she had hardly been able to breathe because her heart was very weak. Her father is a teacher of high cast, who believes in Christ, does not worship idols, reads the Bible, and prays to Christ. He has led in public prayer here, would be willing to take communion, but he has not been willing to take baptism. When he brought his little girl to the hospital I thought she had some chance of recovery, but the pressure of her cast people was so great that they took the child home about two hours after entering the hospital. She died that evening. There are many like this master who need our prayers. I am positive that there have been many in the hospital, who aside from the fact that they have not taken baptism, could be called His followers.

PARAGRAPHS THAT BRING JOY

"At Sunday School Christmas Program our Church was well-filled and we praise God for the interest that was manifested. The prospects for the New Year are very encouraging and our Church people are aware of the changes that have taken place and are also taking a good interest in the work."

—Rev. J. M. Franz, Albany, Oregon

"Janary 13—If you could have been with us last night I am sure you would have said a hearty "Amen." The text was, 'Reflecting His Glory,' the Lord spoke to souls, and when I asked for hands, of those who wished to be remembered, that they too might make the text REAL AND PERSONAL, 6 or 7 hands went up. Continue to pray for us, brethren."

—Rev. Homer Leisy, Dallas, Oregon.

December 24.—"Christmas Eve. A good program by the Young People. At ten o'clock about forty of the Young folks go carolling. We visit about thirty-two homes. At some we sang inside, at others at the windows. One remark that was encouraging, came from a man who ordinarily does not attend church. He had just come home with his family. On the way home they had seen the Police squad load a bunch of drunken young people into the "paddy" wagon. When he came home and saw the carollers all in a happy mood, well dressed, singing and making merry, then he was quite impressed and told his wife so. (She is a member of our Church). May we pray that he may also surrender his life to Christ."

Conference Boards' Neetings

MEETING OF FOREIGN MISSION BOARD

This Year's Session of the F. M. Board is to be held Feb. 19th, at Bethel College, the Lord willing.

The questions before us are doubly difficult on account of the war situation, and all mission friends are herewith requested to remember the mission cause and the deliberations of the Board in their prayers.

We have closed the last year with a grateful heart. The doors even in China are still open, and the financial support has been sufficient for the needs. But for the coming year the outlook in China is not so good. May the Lord continue to bless and protect the work and the workers.

The sad news has just reached us that Mrs. J. C. Regier, Buhler, Kansas, the mother of Mrs. Harold Ratzlaff, India, our youngest missionaries, has died through a car accident. We extend our sympathy to the family. May the Lord comfort them, especially the children in India.

P. H. Richert, Sec.

ANNUAL MEETING OF HOME MISS. BOARD to be held at Bluffton College, March 12-11

The Home Mission Board will hold their next annual meeting in the Musselman Library at Bluffton, Ohio, March 12-13, the session to start at 10:00 a. m., the Lord willing.

Any problems that ought to come before the Board should be sent in as soon as possible.

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by G. A. Linscheid

1 Kings 19:9b.

FEBRUARY 15.—"What doest thou here?"

Elijah had fled for his life from the wrath of queen Jezebel. He had been very zealous for the Lord. The Lord had done great and wonderful things through and by him, but now he was discouraged and afraid. He sought rest under a juniper tree where the angel of the Lord found him and asked him: "What doest thou here, Elijah?" Somehow Elijah's action strikes a very familiar chord in our own lives and experiences. Peter, too, made that experience. Instead of being near the Lord he was warming himself at the coalfire of the enemies of the Lord, "What doest thou here, Peter?" The world has many coalfires going where half-hearted followers of the Lord try to keep warm, together with the enemies of the Lord. "What doest thou there?"

FEBRUARY 16.—"Enter in . . . some other way." John 10:1.

The Lord Jesus says: "I am the way, the truth and the life; no man cometh to the Father but by me." Satan has been busy all along suggesting other ways. To our first parents he suggested disobeying God in order to become like Him. To Cain he suggested bringing a bloodless offering unto the Lord. To Nadab and Abihu he suggested using strange fire. To the Lord Jesus he suggested three "other ways" by which He might become exalted and at the same time avoid humiliation, suffering and the death of the cross. In the beginnning of the Church he suggested to Ananias and Sapphira that hypocracy would serve their purpose very well. All his suggestions are lies. "For there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved." Acts 4:12.

FEBRUARY 17.—"Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings." Mal. 3:8.

No one is more easily robbed than God; but in no case is the resulting punishment more certain. It is so easy to rob God because He is so generous and so daring: generous, because He blesses unstintingly; daring, because He entrusts these blessings to our sole disposition for the time being, asking only a fair rate of interest. We misconstrue His generosity and liberality and ascribe our advantages to our ingenuity and render to Him accordingly, either but very little, or nothing at all; and cannot understand why we should be accused of robbing God. If therefore ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who will commit to your trust the true riches?" Luke 16:10-11.

FEBRUARY 18.—"But unto you that fear my name shall the sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings." Mal. 4:2.

From a sin cursed and saddened earth there arise groanings and questions to which no mortal can give an adequate answer. The haughty, the unjust, the selfish, the heartless—these leave countless sorely wounded victims in their wake. It seems as though an unconcerned fate heaps disaster after disaster upon many a hapless "Job," until all of life seems an inexplicable mystery. So it really is, to him who does not fear the name of the Lord. For the Lord only has the answer to all the questions of earth, and that answer He will give with abundant sufficiency in due time. "But unto you that fear my name shall the sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings." "Earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot heal."

FEBRUARY 19.—"Rise up and walk." Acts 3:6.

Peter and John going to the temple to pray, found a lame man at the gate of the temple, who was carried there for the purpose of receiving gifts. He had never been able to walk, so he made no attempt to try to help himself—apparently quite satisfied with that state of affairs. It took divine power to get him on his feet and to bring praise and glory to God out of his mouth. What a type he is of many who, like him, seem to have been born into the kingdom of God spiritually lame, and who have become so accustomed to have others carry them that the thought never seems to come to them, that by the power and grace of God they, too, might "rise and walk" and so bear witness to the glory of God.

FEBRUARY 20.—"I the Lord thy God am a jealous God." Exod. 20:5.

We usually think of jealousy as a weakness. True love cannot be otherwise than jealous for a return of affection, in as far as it has a rightful claim to such affection. It is with jealousy as it is with offense—hurting some ones kindly feeling towards us. We cannot offend a kindly feeling towards us if there is no such kindly feeling there. We can anger an enemy, but we cannot offend him; it is only a friend whom we can offend. There can be no jealousy where there is no love. True love, however, is not selfish—true love is willing to sacrifice self in order to make the other happy. God so loved that He gave His only Begotten that we might live. He is jealous and rightfully so.

FEBRUARY 21.—"First cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye." Matt. 7:5.

In a certain Christian Indian home a boy died. The father had been quite delinquent in his Christian life despite repeated admonitions. He was heartbroken because of this death. After the funeral he came to the missionary for consolation. The missionary felt that this was an opportune time to urge the needed reform. Cautiously and tenderly he suggested that the Lord must at times lead His own in ways of sorrow in order to bring them to a searching self-examination. He received a very enthusiastic reply to this effect: "That is just exactly what I told my wife this morning, and I asked her if she had not been doing some bad things and that that was the reason the Lord had to bring this sorrow upon us."—Evidently we are of the same blood even if our skin may be different.

A Personal Invitation

You are invited to attend the sessions of the General Conference which will convene in Souderton, Pennsylvania, this summer. Not only are you, personally, invited but it is hoped that you will accept the personal invitation, and attend if it is at all possible, whether you are a delegate or a guest.

The sessions will include subjects in which you will be interested and your knowledge of General Conference matters will be increased by attendance. Your spiritual life will be deepened through participation in the inspirational services and the fellowship with the brethren from other sections of the country, interested in the same things as you.

The entertaining conference is busy laying plans for your entertainment between the sessions. They are anxious to make your stay both restful and helpful, as well as one to be remembered as a source of strengthening your faith in God and inspire you for further effort in the spreading of the Gospel Message.

Would it be possible for you to include a visit to the General Conference in your plans for the summer season? You are cordially invited to be our guests this summer.

Walter H. Temple, Chairman
238 S. 14th Street, Allentown, Pa.

N. B. In a letter, Bro. Temple adds: Souderton is about midway between Philadelphia and Allentown. The date of the session cannot be announced, as we have not yet secured the approval of the Ex. Committee of the Gen. Conference nor the final approval of the controllers of the buildings we hope to use. Will let you know as soon as this is settled.

—Second Church, Philadelphia, Pa. reports in its bulletin: A "New Hymn Book Committee" has been appointed by the Annual Congregational Meeting for the purpose of collecting funds for purchasing 125 Mennonite Hymnaries. —Corr.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

A. S. BECHTEL

FEBRUARY 16, 1941

JESUS TEACHES FORGIVENESS AND GRATITUDE

Luke 17: 1-4, 11--19.

Topic: Practicing Forgiveness and Gratitude

Offences inevitable vs 1, 2.

In a sinful world it is morally certain that evils will be committed, that many will be tempted to stumble and fall. These offences of various kinds and character, are among the hinderances we must meet from day to day. The load of guilt upon those responsible for offences—occasions of stumbling—is very great. It is a most serious matter to mislead an immortal soul. Divine condemnation and punishment will be suffered by those who by example or by words entice and allure another into sin. It is godlike to exert a wholesome influence.

Forgiveness Without Limitation vs 3, 4

Our lesson deals with a fundamental of the Christian soul, that of forgiveness. Christ's teachings about this did not make this a duty. This duty is inherent in the very nature of things and Christ made it plain as it had never been made plain before. The Jews practiced an arithmetic kind of forgiveness—three times and let that be sufficient. Many today are scarcely that liberal in practice. Christ's forgiveness was different in kind and was based upon the fundamental of love and good will toward others. It was based on the fact that since God forgives us, then much more ought we to forgive others. Such forgiveness is unlimited in extent (vs4). We shall have that forgiving spirit which is active whenever occasion requires.

True forgiveness is godlike. It is from God and not a human trait. It needs to be a daily practice. When we come under the spell of Christ and get a vision of our sin and God's forgiveness, a new spirit pervades our life. When it may seem hard to forgive as we face actual and trying situations, we should consider what Christ has done for us. God's forgiveness of our sins required Jesus' sacrifice of himself. When we have the forgiving spirit we shall not find it hard to forgive others. Forgiveness is a spirit within the heart rather than merely an act of the will. We so easily concern too much over the debts of others to us, and not enough about our debts to others (I Tim. 4:16).

Gratitude Without Restraint vs 11-19

Jesus was on His last journey to Jerusalem, going along the borders of Galilee and Samaria, toward the Jordan. He took time to scatter some blessings along the way. Ten lepers, outcasts, forbidden to mingle with others, appealed to Him for help (v13).

Evidentally they had heard about Him and His mighty works and had faith to believe that He could heal them. They are a striking type of helpless sinners, polluted, defiled, unclean because of the leprosy of sin. Jesus alone could help these lepers, likewise the sinner.

The compassion of Jesus answered their prayer in a way that put their faith to a test (v14). As they went, obeying His command, the cleansing came to them. Obedient faith and God's blessing are inseparable. All had faith in Jesus' words and all were cleansed, but nine of the ten failed to show gratitude. One, a Samaritan, the one least expected to do so, could not restrain his gratitude and praise to God and Jesus (vs 15, 16). He poured out his thanks from the depths of his soul. The nine were glad for the gift of cleansing, but had no further thought for the Giver. Gratitude both felt and expressed, is a very beautiful Christian grace.

What do we personally mean when we pray, "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us?"

What is our first duty when a brother sins against us? When we sin against another?

How may we show our gratitude to God? Explain.

What Our Denomination Has Stood For

by J. H. Langenwalter

1. A WARM HEART. That means a sympathetic attitude. For them it meant such an attitude toward God and humanity. This made them willing to obey God and to help mankind.

This attitude led toward the establishment of Missions, Relief Work and the making of provisions for orphans and the aged.

2. A WILLING HEART. This made them willing to undertake what seemed right—to do the will of God. This made them a courageous minority. It also made them patient in both senses of the word as used by Jesus, namely to keep up one's courage greatly and for a long time and to keep a balanced mind. This explains the sacrificial attitude of these people.

3. A TRUE HEART. This explains their emphasis upon honesty and dependability. They depended on God and wanted God and man to be able to depend on them.

4. AN OPEN MIND. They believed in knowing what things meant. They believed in trained leaders. That is why there were so many of these from the beginning of the movement. They also believed in trained members. That is why they instructed prospective members so that these might live intelligently responsible lives.

5. AN INQUIRING MIND. They wanted to know what was in the book about which the priests talked. They insisted that everyone had a right to use this book. Many of the leaders did notable work in translating the Bible into the language of the common people. This fostered education in the Home, the Church and led to the establishment of Schools of various types, adapted to the immediate needs of the people.

6. A CLEAR CUT DECISION. They made I Corinthians 3:11 their motto. "For other foundation can no man lay than which is laid, Jesus Christ." For them this Foundation meant the basis on which to build lives. Another favorite statement was: "Give unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are God's." That laid the foundation for a separation of Church and State. It also led to many problems concerning their attitudes toward Governments, as they found them, especially in the matters of War and Peace.

7. AN ETHICAL LIFE. They believed in doing what ought to be done rather than in following traditions. Right meant more to them than might which was often protected by traditions.

8. AN OPEN LIFE. They believed in living above board, therefore, looked with disfavor upon secrecy for privilege. They saw its ill effects in the politics of Church and State and wanted none of it.

9. A USEFUL LIFE. They believed in giving service when and where needed and in rendering it in a practical way. The best was none too good both in what they did and in what they gave.

10. They believed thoroughly in, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself." Luke 10:27.

THE W. D. CONFERENCE LOAN LIBRARY

The new year has started excellently for our library. Seven churches and thirteen individuals have checked out 142 books during the month of January. The greatest demand was for fiction: 55 volumes. Religious books come second: 53. Some people like to read biographies and so they checked out 18 books in that field.

Most of the books went to churches and homes in Kansas, but some were sent as far as Iowa and Washington.

The Library is happy to serve our whole Conference and does not charge any fee for reading, but depends on collections of our churches. We urge therefore all the churches of the Western District to hold at least one collection annually for this purpose. Please investigate whether your church has sent in its contribution for the year 1940, and if not, do so soon, because our treasury is depleted.

Putting New Life Into Old Soil

By Dr. Henry A. Fast

The work of a cobbler ordinarily does not appear to us to be very romantic or exciting. Repairing old worn shoes of other people looks like a pretty hum-drum sort of business. But in a small town in one of our north central states there lives a cobbler to whom his occupation is anything but hum-drum. To him old worn shoes are not merely so much old leather. He can never separate them from the important human service they have rendered, the feet they have protected from hot sands, sharp stones, and lurking dangers, the jars they have absorbed, and the loads they have carried as people hurried about on important errands. Under the strain of this exacting service they have finally become worn and broken down. It is now his challenging and exciting task to put new life into old shoes and to restore them to their useful service to man.

This discovery of the real implication and meaning of his work ennobled his whole service and invested it with a spirituaol quality. Now that humble cobbler has become something of an institution in the town, one of the most respected places of business in the whole community.

The program of soil conservation within which our government has made provision for our drafted young men to render "work of national importance under civilian direction," to some of our people likewise does not appear to be very romantic or exciting. Some in a depreciating way have referred to is as "currying the soil." Others with the spiritual insight of the cobbler have thought of it as an attempt to put new life into the soil. I wonder which of these represents the truer insight? Let us look at this problem a moment.

When I came to the State of Kansas some twenty-five years ago, farm boys were telling me that their average yield of wheat was about thirty-six bushels to the acre. Today the farmers of this state think that fifteen bushels is a good average yield. That is but typical of the enormous depletion of the soil that has been going on all over the country for years.

What may be the reason for this large decrease in the productivity of the soil? Certainly not change in the climatic conditions although in some cases that has played a part.

One can talk here of the aging of the soil. The fields have become worn from the tremendous task of feeding the world and from bearing on its bosom millions and millions of bushels of wheat and corn year after year.

But I wonder whether the greatest reason may not be most aptly described as "sinning against the soil." Taking crop after crop from the soil without putting anything back, farming methods which take no adequate precaution to keep the wind from blowing their best soil away or to keep water from washing it away, failing to make provision for conserving moisture where needed, failure to provide periods of rest and change, lack of understanding of the soil or attempts to overwork it,—these are but samples of "sinning against the soil."

Such offending against the soil is especially prevalant under farm tenancy, but let us not forget that the increase in farm tenancy is partly due to this mistreatment of earth's productivity. When the soil no longer produces enough to sustain homes, then men are forced to accept tenancy.

Is that work of national importance which undertakes to help in the effort to stop this enormous "sinning against the soil." Is there anything challenging or exciting in putting "new life into old soil?" The purpose of the soil conservation program in the mind of those charged with the administration of the Civilian Public Service Camps for religious objectors is just that. In conserving the productivity of the soil we are ministering to one of the most elemental needs of man, an adequate supply of food. Sinning against the soil is sinning against mankind, because man lives from the soil. "Putting new life into old soil" is to add something vital to the life of man. It is helping to make possible self-respecting lives and happy homes and communities in rural areas. It is helping to stop the rapid disintegration of American rural life. It is helping to secure the future of the next generation. And it may easily have a much larger bearing on the problem of international peace and war than we dream. Wars have been fought over questions of food and living opportunity.

Viewed from the angle of its larger implications this year of civilian service under soil conservation ceases to be an unimportant "currying of the soil." It becomes now a vital service to mankind, a service with a spiritual quality. Carried on in this spirit our soil conservation camps may come to be a service of far-reaching significance, a signpost pointing the way to a more stable future.

—The "Workers' Exchange" of the Pacific (February number) is full of interesting things. Among them is an article about the work in the Migrant Camps directed by Rev. and Mrs. Chris Ummel. Much joy came to the migrants, and especially their children, through the many gifts that could be distributed at Christmas. Over 1000 people attended the program at the Federal camp, 250 at the county camp. In the former as many as 147 attend church service, in the latter fully one-third of the population. Our workers have traveled 2102 miles in their service in two months, 31 different decisions were had, 4000 lb. of clothing, bedding and rugs were distributed. Approximately 100 new people come in each week.

A Few Reasons Why I Am Opposed to Nomcombatant Service

Due to lack of space I cannot go into detail on the following points, but one objection to noncombatant service is that according to human law as well as the law of God, a person who is a partaker in doing evil is guilty as well as the person who is directly responsible for the evil deed, even though the partaker did not do anything that in itself was wrong. By doing noncombatant work we, without meaning to, give our sanction to the war machine—we are directly part of it.

The most important point for every Christian to consider is "WHAT WOULD JESUS DO?" Christ loved sinners, helped them, taught them, gave His life for them but He did not become one of them in order to do so. It is not necessary to join the Army to do good.

Christ would certainly not pass up a wounded soldier that needed His assistance, but neither would He become part of the Army and confine Himself to healing only soldiers and forget about the suffering willions of civilians. Soldiers have thousands of their comrades to turn to for assistance, but of civilians this is not true in the same sense. To those who had few or no friends Christ went, and helped the others as the occasion arose, but not at the expense of the helpless. —A. R.

Rethinking Some Current Reasoning

"As a man thinketh, so is he."

These remarks naturally will be limited because of space. First, let us consider the question, "Is it possible to have no creed?" Again and again I have heard speakers take a "pot shot" at creeds. True, it is better to have creeds written in the heart than on paper. But to say, "Away with creeds!" or "I have no creed" is a misstatement of fact. Even if one has no creed that becomes a creed, for after all a creed is what one believes.

Second, "Is it possible to divorce Christ from the Bible?" I have heard some speak as if this were possible. To seek to know Christ apart from the Bible is like taking astronomy without a telescope. True, we are to worship Christ and not the Bible. However, to try to claim Christ and reject the evidence the Holy Book gives is far from scientific. "Search the scriptures, these are they which bear witness of me."

Third, "Have we the right to limit the power of God to human reasonability?" Men have often said some Bible statements are impossible. Thus miracles and predictions have been ruled out. To proclaim God omnipotent and then question His ability to do what is recorded in His word is to insult the Almighty. Certainly we must use our intelligence but to disregard substantial historic events is not intelligent.

Fourth, "Does seeking truth warrent the construction of a man-made god?" It is man's business to adapt himself to God's way and not try to bend God to human patterns. Too often truth has been discarded because of human inability to recognize it as such. Truth will harmonize with truth even though we may not understand it. There is a tendency on the part of many truth-seekers to go so far a-field seeking gems of truth that the scripture treasury of spiritual truth which is close at hand and proven by personal experience is overlooked.

Fifth, "Is it permissible to set Jesus, the teacher and example, over against Jesus, the Christ and Savior?" Yet there are multiplied hundreds who do it. There has been too much vivisecting of Christ Jesus with various groups claiming various sections. We need to take Him as a whole. To talk of Him as example and teacher is foolishness if one has not accepted Him as savior and king, for it is like trying to grow a plant without roots. On the other hand to claim Him as Savior and king and reject His teaching and example, is like having a fruit tree without fruit. Examine your thoughts. What think ye of Christ? —Olin A. Krehbiel

PEACE TEAMS HOLD MINIATURE WORK CAMP ON BETHEL CAMPUS, JAN. 2, 3

Modeled after the American Friends Service camps, a miniature work camp was held on the campus during the holiday vacation by members of the local peace teams.

Approximately fifteen students who remained on the campus during the vacation participated in the two day project which was held on January 2 and 3.

The work project chosen was the cutting and sawing of dead trees on the campus. The wood was given to the Newton relief office for distribution to Newton families.

The daily schedule followed very closely that of a typical American Friends Camp. After an early breakfast and worship period, the day was spent in working on the project. Several men from Newton who were recipients of wood gave their services to help the students with the work.

Evening discussions with topics centering around the philosophy of work were led by Rev J. N. Smucker, Dr. R. C. Kauffman and Dr. H. A. Fast.

Students participating in the work camp were: Delmar Wedel, Orlando Wiebe, Wesley Ewert, Esko Loewen, Jake Goering, Roy Henry, Melvin Moyer, Rufus Baehr, Don Bumgartner, Louise Langenwalter, Ethel Richert, Alice Hostetler, Gene Jacobs, and Onieta Tiahrt.

JUSTICE IN THE BIBLE

Micah 6:8; Isa. 56:1, 2; Col. 4:1; Mt. 5:38-42

I. Worship Service

Including (1) Songs, (2) Reading of Main Topic, (3) Prayer, (4) Special Music and (5) The Offering.

II. Leader's Introductoin

Justice has been consistently emphasized through the Old and New Testaments. "Let justice roll down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream." That was the message to the children of Israel through the prophets. Their history proves that when they "sold the needy for a pair of shoes" (Amos 2:6), when they "stored up violence and robbery in their palaces" (Amos 3:10), all was not well with them. The history of the nations of later days also proves that "Righteousness exhaulteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people" (Pro. 14:34). Righteousness and fair dealing with one's own people and with those of other nations are fundamental for the welfare of any nation, even today. Our own country, and we as its citizens would do well to remember this principle of God's ways with men.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

Justice for Injustice. — I Sam. 24:9-12.
A Prophet's Justice — II Kings 6:18-23.
God's Impartial Justice. — Ps. 65:8-13.
Promise of a Just King. — Jer. 23:5, 6.
Injustice Condemned. — Matt. 23:13, 14.
Justice Sought for a Servant. — Philemon 10-17.

IV. For Discussion

(1) What was Israel's punishment when the rich treated the poor unjustly; in Solomon's day; during the time of Jeroboam II?

(2) Does it pay for a neighbor to deal fairly with his neighbors?

(3) Do our courts today stand up for justice and righteousness?

Making One's Own Dream

The eloquent Robert J. Burdette once gave this advice to a youth: "My dear boy, there's nothing on earth sweeter or bitterer than an old man's memories. The things you are doing and saying today will be your dreams when your hair is white. Make your dreams pure and kindly and sweet."

V. Food for Thought

"What does the Eternal ask of you
But to be just and kind
And live in quiet fellowship with God?"
—Micah 6:8 (Moffat's translation)

Leader's Talk

In the great World War, those boys who were under a kind, brave unselfish officer had every reason to be proud and happy. If they had been allowed to choose, they would have chosen that kind.

We need a leader to guide us through life. Since we are allowed to choose our leader, why not choose one who loves us and will lead us to that wonderful home above?

Indecision

A bit west of Mt. Zion there is a little, grassy terrace so level that the rain which falls upon it does not know which way to go. But part of it, perhaps by the breath of heaven, is carried over the west side. This part descends into the Valley of Roses and down to the beautiful plain of Sharon. There it spreads itself abroad. Beauty and flowers and fruit spring up all about the plain until it is all given out again to heaven from the fragrant lilies and roses of Sharon.

A large part of the rain finds its way to the other side of the terrace and descends down, down below Mt. Zion, through dark valleys to the Dead Sea. There it brings forth the poisonous apples of Sodom, and is lost forever in the bitter waters of the Sea of Death.

This terrace is the "Terrace of Indecision." Those who chose Christ as their leader are on the west side. Those who chose not Christ are bound for the Sea of Death. —Girlhood Days

Choose Ye This Day

Joshua said, "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve." He did not say, "Wait until tomorrow."

A legend is told of an old woman who was one day working in her home when some men passed by. They told her that they were following a great star on their way to seek Jesus.

"Come with us," they said. "We are going to find the Christ."

"Not now," she replied. "I must finish my housework now, but by and by I will follow on and find him with you."

When her work was done the Wise-men had gone, the star in the heavens which went before them had disappeared, and she never found her way to the Savior.

Song, "Who is On the Lord's Side?"

Questions

1. Is it necessary to follow Jesus?

REVERENCE FOR THE HOUSE OF GOD

Setting

On the blackboard have this printed: "Whosoever thou art that entereth this church; remember it is the house of God. Be reverent, be silent, be thoughtful. And leave it not without prayer to God, for thyself, for him who ministers, and for those who worship here."

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude—Soft music
2. Call to Worship—Hab. 2:20. "The Lord is in His holy temple; let all the earth keep silence before Him.
3. Worship in Song—Dear Lord and Father of Mankind. M. H. B. 65.
4. Worship in Scripture—Ps. 26:1-8.
5. Leaders Opening Prayer
6. Leader's Introductory Remarks regarding the topic for the evening.

II. Study Period

Topics for Discussion:

1. Why did God instruct His people to build a sanctuary? Ex. 25:8.
2. How did He tell us to regard this dwelling place of God? Lev. 19:30.
3. How did Christ manifest His regard for the sanctity of God's house? Mark 11:15-17.

Song—Abide with Me. M. H. B. 9.

Have eight Juniors each give one of the following Rules on Going to Church with a few remarks regarding each rule.

1. Go early to church. Not only be punctual, but be in your place before the hour announced for the service to begin.
2. Go in a reverent spirit. On the way remember whither you go. Avoid lightness of manner and conversation on worldly topics.
3. Before you enter and as you enter the church breathe a silent prayer of invocation for the influence of the Holy Spirit.
4. As you take your place, bow your head reverently in prayer for yourself and for all others who enter the sanctuary.
5. Resolve that you will foster no thought, fix your eyes on no object, utter no word, that will tend to divert your mind from the Holy purpose for which you have come into the place.
6. As the minister enters the pulpit, offer an earnest silent prayer in his behalf.
7. In all the service take on active part, as hearer, as worshiper.
8. At the close of the service, after a moment of prayerful silence, greet with cheerfulness and good will all whom you happen to meet, remembering that Christian fellowship is a part of Christian worship. —Bishop Vincent

Leaders Heart Talk

III. Mission Minutes

Review of the different trips that we took to our Mission Fields sometime ago. Each Junior might be asked to name a Mission Station and the missionary or missionaries stationed there, also any other information he would like to give regarding the station.

V. Closing Moments

1. Repeat verse for the month
2. Memorize one verse of the song for the month and sing the song.
3. Pray the prayer of the month.

ATTENTION, PLEASE!

The YEAR BOOK is now ready for distribution, and will be mailed to those who have paid or do pay for THE MENNONITE to January, 1942, or beyond, gratis. This is also true of the BUNDESBOTE KALENDER. Many have taken advantage of this offer, and if those who have not made use of it do not act soon, they may be too late, for the supply is rapidly diminishing.

Both periodicals are very valuable. They contain much that should be of vital interest to each and everyone of our Mennonite families. Will not the subscribers kindly examine the slip on the paper, with their address and expiration date and, if found to be in arrears, send check or money order to pay for the paper to the beginning of next year. We would greatly appreciate this help, for we need the money to pay the printer's bills, salaries, etc.—Any one wishing to buy one or both of the publications may get the KALENDER for 20 cents, the YEAR BOOK for 25 cents.

IN MEMORIAM

DANIEL P. LEHMAN was born in Dalton, Wayne County, Ohio, on July 29, 1849. He came to Missouri when 17 years of age. He married Rosa Graber. Two children, Mrs. Frank Lehman of Versailles and Robert, Lyons, Kansas, survive. After the death of his wife, he married Katherine Oesh in 1905. Four children of this union survive: Mr. Lehman was a member of the Bethel Mennonite church until 1916 when he moved to California, Missouri, where he attended and became a member of the Evangelical church. Quietly and peacefully with a spirit of willingness he passed away on Jan. 26, 1941. His age was 91 years, 5 months, and 27 days. Funeral services were held Jan. 28, at Bethel Church, with Rev. Bierbaum of California Evangelical Church in charge.

PETER C. STEINER, the sixth of a family of eleven children, was born December 7, 1868, on the Steiner homestead one mile east of Pandora, Ohio. He died at his home near Pandora January 8, 1941, at the age of 72 years, one month, and one day, after suffering from a heart ailment for some months. In early life he was baptized and received into the Swiss Mennonite Church by the Rev. John Moser. On November 16, 1893, he was married to Elizabeth Bixel with whom he lived a happy married life to the time of his death. He is survived by his wife and the following children: Sidney, of Charleston, W. Va., Hadyn and Selina of Toledo, O., Myron of Sterling, O., Irma of Pandora, O., Lillian of Wooster, O., and Stella of Creidersville, O. Two brothers and two sisters also survive—Samuel, Elias, Mary and Barbara. Funeral services were held at the Grace Church, Pandora, January 11, 1941, by his pastor, Rev. Paul E. Whitmer, assisted by Rev. A. C. Steiner, a nephew of the deceased. The services were largely attended.

MRS. ELIZABETH WEBER was born November 16, 1859, and died at Upland, California, January 31, 1941. Surviving her are four children: Dr. Arthur Weber, Upland; Arnold Weber, Cucamonga; Mrs. John Rahn, Cucamonga; and Mrs. John Dester, Long Beach. Her husband, August T. Weber passed away July 11, 1891, at Summerfield, Illinois. Since coming to Upland she was a faithful member of the First Mennonite Church. A memorial service was held at the church, Sunday, February 2 at 4 p. m. The pastor, Rev. Lester Hostetler, officiated and the former pastor, Rev. M. M. Horsch assisted. The body was sent to Summerfield, Ill., for interment by the side of her husband.

ALBERT DIRKS, the son of David Dirks and Eva Adrian Dirks, was born April 25, 1866, in Corzenicc near Thorn West Prussia, the third of eight children. He received his elementary education, through a private tutor in the home. At the age of 15 he was baptized by his father, elder David Dirks, and became a member of the Mennonite church. He came to America in 1903 and made his home with his sister, Mrs. Wm. J. Ewert. After a span of eight years he went to Aberdeen, Idaho, and there homesteaded together with his brother and family, Rev. Leonard Dirks. After the passing of his sister-in-law and brother in 1920 and 1921, he stayed with the orphans until the home was broken up, then again returned to his sister, Mrs. W. J. Ewert at Hillsboro. In Idaho he joined the Emmanuel church and here in Kansas he enjoyed the blessinge of the Brudertal church. He passed away on Dec. 26, 1940, at the age of 74 years, 8 months and 1 day. He leaves to mourn his passing one sister, Mrs. Wm. J. Ewert, one brother-in-law, two sisters-in-law, 23 nieces and nephews. Funeral services were held from the Brudertal church December 30, with Rev. A. E. Funk officiating.

* * * * *

HENRY D. EWERT, son of Gerhard and Anna Duerksen Ewert, was born November 24, 1866, at Rosenort, South Russia, and died at his home in Hillsboro, Kansas, on Wednesday, January 22, 1941, at the age of 74 years, one month and 28 days. In the year 1876 he accompanied his parents, brothers and sisters to America and found a home with them on a farm near Hillsboro, Kansas. On May 25, 1885, he was baptized by Rev Wilhelm Ewert, Sr., and received into the fellowship of the Brudertal church, remaining a member here the rest of his life.

On June 18, 1890 he married Helen Penner, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Jac. W. Penner. This union was blessed with five sons and four daughters of whom all are living and were present at the funeral. After a span of 42 years of wedded life, this union was broken, when mother passed to her heavenly reward on July 23, 1932. On September 2, 1933, father married again, this time the widow Katherina Funk Nickel. She, too, preceded him in death in 1940.

Father leaves to mourn his departure, 9 children, 5 sons, 4 daughters, 4 sons-in-law, 4 daughters-in-law, 15 grandchildren, one great-grand child, one brother and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held on January 25, at the Brudertal church, with Rev. Arnold E. Funk and Rev. J. D. Epp officiating.

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST MENNONITE CHURCH, NEWTON, KAN.

In this new year there are new problems to face, but there have been problems and struggles in the past. The Bible verse from Joshua, a part of which reads: "for the Lord thy God is with thee wheresoever thou goest" is certainly applicable in our many walks and ways. Among the blessing-filled sermons in the month of January, was one given by Dr. Ed. G. Kaufman, President of Bethel College. A recent event also was a meeting of the Mission Study Circle which had as its special guests the officers of the Women's Missionary Association of the General Conference. The president of the association, Mrs. J. E. Kaufman of Inman, Kansas, spoke on the work of the club. Other officers participating were Miss Elizabeth Voran, Mrs. R. A. Goerz, Mrs. A. E. Kreider and Mrs. G. B. Entz all of Newton and vicinity.

There has been one death in the still-new year, that of Brother C. F. Claassen, who was a charter member of our church. Aged though he was, he had been a very active and staunch member of the church, and will be sadly missed among the front pews of the church. Another recent death was that of Miss Mary Andres, which happened in an accident in New Mexico.— Ministers and other speakers from the outside visiting and inspiring us were: Missionary W. C. Voth, Dr. H. A. Fast, the Rev. G. N. Jackson, Missionary P. W. Penner. Dr. P. S. Goertz of Bethel College talked to the Senior Christian Endeavor and Dr. E. L. Harshbarger, also of the college, spoke to the young men's class on doctrine.— Among the marriages last year were the ones uniting the lives of Abbie Claassen and Waldo Harder; of Esther Regier and Paul Zerger; of Ericka Wiebe and Elmer Stucky; and of Susie Wiens and Harry L. Grochowsky. Silver weddings were observed by Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Klassen, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wiens, and this year, by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Regier.

The newly organized Junior Choir, under the direction of Miss Edith Entz, made its first appearance at the Thanksgiving Day services in the church. The Young People's Choir and the Senior Choir, both have presented programs in the past year. Their combined effort has done much toward creating a unity of musical feeling and culture.— The Evangelistic service, conducted by the Rev. A. E. Kreider of Bethel College in November was frought with great blessings. The subjects were truly ones to enlighten darkened souls or feebly struggling spirits. The meetings caused an uplift in the church. The Union Visitation Evangelism Campaign was another item of note. Dr. A. Earl Kernahan presented the project and workers who participated received a great blessing.— The Annual Convention of the Western District Christian Endeavor Societies took place in the Bethel College Chapel. The School- Opening service, with the Rev. A. Warkentin in charge, was the feature of one Sunday. In October the delegates of the Western District Conference met in Newton for a time of serious meditation and discussion.

Several new members have been added to the church. They are Dr. and Mrs. William S. Goertzen, Sister H. J. Wiebe, Sister Katherine Hoberecht, and Brother Harry Klassen.

RAVENWOOD MENN. CHURCH, CHICAGO, ILL.

January 24, 1941

So many friends have been making inquiry as to the work of a branch mission that I have been operating since last September. The primary purpose of this work is to take care of homeless children. I have a number of children that are dependent and I am endeavoring to help them all I possibly can. We are carrying this burden aided by the Lord Himself and thus far we have been able to keep our work going.

I have on my hands a family that I scarcely know what to do with. Five children have been placed in the hands of the court and the mother does not feel they should be placed out in independent homes. It is a serious problem indeed. Will you kindly remember this work in your prayers that we may be able to place children in Christian homes where they will grow up to be Christian men and women?

LORRAINE AVE. MENN. CH., WICHITA, KS.

Our church has just taken an important step forward. For a long time we have been paying all our local expenses and sent some contributions to the Home Mission Committee of the Western District Conference, who in turn paid our pastor's salary. Since Feb. 1, 1940, we have been sending half of the pastor's salary to the Mission Committee. On Jan. 19, at a congregational meeting, we decided that we would pay our pastor's entire salary beginning Jan. 1, 1941. We feel that we are now strong enough to be self-supporting. We are very grateful to the Mission Committee for the help they have given us in the past and expect to keep on contributing to them so that they may be able to help others who need assistance. We are confident that the Lord will give us the means and ability to carry out our decisions.

We are also facing a much bigger problem, that of getting a larger church building. Nearly every Sunday sees our present building filled to capacity. A number of Sunday School classes need to be divided, but there is no room to put them. Here, too, we are trusting in the Lord and praying that he will help us find the solution.

Our pastor has again started a catechism class. Seven members are participating. Because there is no other place they are meeting in the parsonage.

EBENEZER MENN. CHURCH, GOTEBO, OKLA.

The old year lies behind us. Our church is carrying on its services this year the same way as in the year just past. We are having regular Sunday School, also preaching is quite regular, although we are still without a regular preacher. Rev. Gerhard Friesen, who served us the past year twice a month, sent by the Conference, is continuing. On other Sundays we are calling in a young preacher from Corn, Okla., Daniel Friesen, to fill the pulpit We feel much blessed through the inspiring messages we get in that way. On January 5, he brought us a very inspiring message on Deut 11:11, comparing 1941 as the land of hills and valleys ahead of us. Just as the valleys need the hills to catch the moisture and thus bring to the valleys the much needed strength and nourishment, so in life we need the hills of difficulties to make the valleys fruitful.

Good as these preachers and their messages may be, they cannot be to us the shepherd we need. Our wish and our prayer is that a young consecrated man may be found to help us along the road to heaven. If there is a young preacher who seeks a church we would love to find him and hear him.

Due to the few members in our church and also in the M. B. church in Gotebo, we have seen fit to join the C. E. meetings this year. This arouses new interest and enthusiasm.

EMMAUS MENN. CHURCH, WHITEWATER, KS.

The annual Christian Endeavor business meeting was held on January 5, with the election of new officers in place of those whose terms had expired. Dr. Abraham Warkentin conducted evangelistic services from January 12-13. Sunday, January 19, our pastor, Rev. J. C. Kaufman, preached on the subject "What True Christianity Is," and in the message he revealed that it is not what we have done but what God has done for us. Because of the absence of our pastor on Sunday, January 25, Rev. Sam Goering preached on "The Present Condition of the Missions." On Sunday evening, February 2, our pastor left for Meno, Oklahoma, where he is to speak at the Bible Academy the coming week. —Corr.

AN EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION AND THANKS

So many friends, through the spoken or written word, through floral offerings, and in many other ways, have given evidence of their sincere sympathy with us in our deep sorrow, that we find it impossible to thank each one personally for this much appreciated help and service. So we use this means to let them know how much their words and other expressions of sympathy and their prayers have help-us. We cannot understand God's ways and plans but our prayer is that He may sustain us and enable us to place our absolute trust in Him.

—"The Vine Press," organ of the Middle District Y. P. Division now appears in neat printed form, four pages, size 7x10 inches. The January number is full of good items, among them a good article on "Noncombatant or Civilian Service?" The Follow-up Plan, The Poem, "Christ and War" by Edwin C. Graber.

—Mennonite Church, Buhler, Kansas.—"We were pleasantly surprised last Sunday to see the choir singing from the new Mennonite Hymnal. Two dozen books have been purchased by the choir. The music committee is working out a plan by which we could secure hymnals."

—Rev. John H. Epp who has been the faithful and efficient pastor of the Mennonite Church at Hillsboro, Kansas, for 27 years and formerly also for many years Principal of the Mennonite Academy in that place has resigned the pastorate. What his plans for the future are we have not learned, but we would think he should want to take a well deserved rest for a while. —Corr.

—General Conference Churches Needing Ministers.—At this time there are probably more churches in the General Conference in need of pastors than there have been for some time. In the Western District there are the following: Ebenezer Church near Gotebo, Okla.; Friedenstal Church, near Tampa, Kans.; Hoffnungsfeld Church near Moundridge, Kans.; Emmanuel Church near Canton, Kansas. Missionary G. A. Linscheid is shepherding this congregation at least temporarily. In the Northern District the Salem or South Church near Freeman, S. Dak. and Bethel Church, Wolff Point, N. Dak. are without regular ministers. In the Middle District Bethel Church near Fortuna, Mo.; Zion Church, Donnellson, Iowa; Grace Church, Pandora, Ohio; Ebenezer Church near Bluffton, Ohio; and St. John Church near Pandora, Ohio, are looking for new pastors. Missionary P. J. Boehr is serving St. John while he and his family are awaiting the time to return to the mission field in China. There may be other pastorless churches, but the above is the list of those of which we have information.—How we need a Mennonite seminary and Bible School!

—Church Reports or Year Books.—Some pastors are sending in copies of the church report given at the annual meeting or copies of Year Books. Three recently received are from First Church near Beatrice, Nebraska, East Swamp Church, Quakertown, Pa., and Eden Church, Schwenksville, Pa. We appreciate these reports, for they enable us to feel the pulsations of the churches. Only we regret that our space is so limited that we cannot pass on some of the interesting information. Rev. Walter Dyck of the Beatrice Church presents all their reports in neat mimeographed form, including interesting statistics about the Deaconess Hosp., Beatrice, which this church founded and sponsors, and which has made an enviable record. On another page the readers will find a write up of this institution.

—Freeman Jr. College this year has a full schedule of basketball games. Relative to this the "Bulletin" says: "An argument against interscholastic competition, is that emphasis is drawn to that and to those that participate. Few, and those need it least, receive the physical benefit. In place of the present interscholastic competition there should be a program in which all participate, in which the needs, both physical and mental, of the individual student are foremost."

—Bluffton College.—The Men's Gospel Team is making a trip through the Indiana churches, to serve the following: Eighth Street Church, Goshen; Warren Street Church, Middleburg; Topeka Menn. Church; Silver Street Church, at Goshen. Miss Dorrit Weil, an Austrian refugee and Bluffton student, will accompary the group to relate her experiences before coming to America.—The college is preparing a poster with scenes illustrative of college activities for distribution among the churches.—Two instructors are returning to their teaching posts. Prof. E. J. Hirschler who has gone through a siege of serious illness is sufficiently recovered to reassume his duties as professor of mathematics, and Miss Ramseyer, returned from relief work in Europe is back again.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio, reports that the ministers in the county (Allen) are staging a "Go to Church" program. Window cards or car stickers are used to help arouse interest. To go to church regularly is what counts.

—Rev. Freeman H. Swartz, Schwenksville, Pa. says in their Church Messenger: "A word about studies. Last February I enrolled for extra studies in Temple University. The work is all theological and voluntary on my part. It is my conviction that a minister as well as the physician should keep himself in fine preparation."

—Rev. John Bartel of Delft, Minn. conducted meetings for almost two weeks at the Bethesda Church, Marion, S. Dak. The meetings had good audiences when the weather permitted. Icy roads and very cold weather kept many from attending some evenings. The pastor, Rev. A. P. Waltner is now conducting a Bible Study Hour every week. —Corr.

—Bethel Church near Fortuna, Mo.—On January 26, farewell services were held in an all day meeting in honor of Rev. and Mrs. Jacob Unruh who left two days later for Kingman, Kansas, to serve the Mennonite Church there. The Women's Missionary Society met in the parsonage last week for a quilting. —Corr.

—Church Surveys.—It is getting to be rather customary for church communities to take an inventory as it were, or survey, to discover any who are not lined up with the Christian forces and, through judicious efforts, to induce them to do so. In Kansas the Newton and other communities have carried on such a survey, with good results. Our Reedley, Calif., Church reports that they are undertaking such a survey in that town "to be of use in the pre-Easter efforts on the part of the various churches."

—Rev. Jacob Unruh writes that their new address now is Kingman, Kansas, that he preached his first sermon there Sunday, Feb. 2, and for the evening the church arranged a reception program, with refreshments, and they were presented with a basket of groceries.

—Bethel College.—The Annual Fellowship supper will be held Monday evening, Feb. 10, at 7:30 p. m. Dr. W. J. Baumgartner, professor at Kansas University, a former Bethelite, will be the main speaker. This gathering is for pastors and Fellowship officers of all Mennonite churches that have an organized Fellowship. Rev. J. M. Regier of the Johannestal Church at Hillsboro is Fellowship director.—That Bethel is advanced pretty well in age is shown by the fact that 127 students, about one-third of the enrollment are the sons and daughters of alumni and alumnae. The twenty-four pairs of "moms" and "pops" of students in the above number, a faculty member states, are proof of Bethel's success as a match factory.

—Tabor Church, R. R. 2, Newton, Kansas, has again elected Bro. Daniel S. Thiesen as church secretary, and as such he is also correspondent to the church papers. Mr. Thiesen always does his duty and through his well composed correspondences keeps our conference constituency informed of the doings in his church.

A DEEPLY APPRECIATED LETTER FROM SISTER FRIEDA of the Bethel Deaconess Home and Hospital, Newton, Kansas

Dr. J. R. Thierstein
North Newton, Kansas

Dear Mr. Thierstein:

Last evening at our regular Bible study hour and prayer-meeting, we had a dedicatory service for our sixty new hymn books. We wish that we could describe to you and to all who labored so faithfully with you, what a joy is ours in the possession of this new song book. We truly feel as those who have found "great spoil."

What a blessed experience comes to a Christian when God puts a "new song into his mouth, even praise unto our God." In my life I have found that new unfolding of spiritual truths to my heart has often been set to the tune of a new song, songs which lift the soul like the wings of an eagle into the higher realms, yea even into the very presence of God. And I feel definitely that there will be new revelations of God to our group in the songs which you have gathered so carefully and placed into our hands.

Sister Frieda

The book in itself is dignified and attractive in appearance, and we like the way it opens up for use. We love the little cross printed on the cover; we like the general arrangement of the contents between the covers, and the selection finds a particularly happy response in our hearts.

We have used the Gesangbuch mit Noten for our morning worship for over 30 years, and the hearts of the older sisters were knit to the type of songs which it offered to us. Other song books were used for evening devotion and all other occasions of worship, but we clung tenaciously to the one daily song from the Gesangbuch, this in face of the fact that from the very start there were always some in the group who could not sing with us. During the late years this situation became more acute, for the number of those who are not familiar with the German increased steadily. Yet we held on to the Gesangbuch, because no other book could replace it. Not every song which is so precious to us will be in the Hymnary, that is impossible, but our needs have been definitely met. We thank you!

The Mennonite people of the General Conference have a background which is peculiarly their own in ancestry and also in hymnology. We are happy to find this so well expressed in the beauty and dignity of the selections made. There is much in the book with which we are familiar—much that we already treasure—but we are looking forward with happy anticipation to that which we do not yet know. We plan to learn at least one new song on Family Night every Friday evening, and then sing it again in prayer-meeting on Saturday.

We as a group of sisters wish to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks to all who have prayed, labored, and sacrificed to make the new Hymnary possible. It is truly a great gift to our denomination and to each individual member. We find your translation of the hymn, "Aus dem Himmel ferne," very sweet and precious and sang it last evening among the first selections at the dedicatory service. We chose one song from each section of the book for the occasion. God bless the book in its use in all our churches to His praise and the spiritual help and joy of His children.

Gratefully and sincerely,

February 9, 1941 Sister Frieda

Of all the arts beneath the heaven,
That man has found or God has given,
None draws the soul so sweet away,
As music's melting, mystic lay;
Slight emblem of the bliss above,
It soothes the spirit all to love. —Hogg.

Yea, music is the Prophet's art;
Among the gifts that God has sent,
One of the most magnificent. —Longfellow.

Who Is to Be Blamed?

Whenever individuals and particularly nations are in depths of distress, they make somebody the chief source or scapegoat of their troubles, and generally without reflecting that some guilt might also attach to themselves. What condemnations are usually heaped upon the supposedly guilty ones. We need only to think of the World War. Today it is the champions of nazism, fascism and, a few years ago, communism. And with deep regret we must admit that a good share of the guilt for the present calamity is chargeable to them. But are they alone to blame for the present upheavel? As we view history honestly, must we not confess that other nations of Europe with their leaders at the head, and possibly even our own beloved country, have contributed their share to the present calamitous state of affairs? Here again, as usual, the Bible hits upon the right spot. John the Baptist arose at a time when the Jews were in sore distress. But, did he ever utter a word of blame against the Roman ruler of his time? No, he cried to his people:" Repent," confess your sins; "bring forth fruit worthy of repentance." Jesus likewise gave the Jewish leaders to understand that they were reaping what they had sown. In fact, if we study the Old Testament history we find that, whenever the chosen people were in crises at the hands of their enemies, their God appointed leaders, particularly the prophets, plainly told them that their continued sinful lives were the cause. Isaiah tells them: "Your iniquities have separated you and your God . . . your hands are defiled with blood, and your fingers with iniquity; your lips have spoken lies, your tongue muttereth wickedness." Is. 59:2, 3. Cannot God justly make like charges against all belligerents in the present crisis, and would we want to claim that we do not share the guilt partly with them. O would to God that all might truly repent of their sins, then a righteous peace would be pretty sure to follow. "For we all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Rom. 3:23. —T

"I Feel Like Pontius Pilate" Says Philadelphia Judge to C. O.

"I feel like Pontius Pilate," said Federal Judge George A. Welsh of Philadelphia on January 10, as he sentenced 31-year-old Arie Brooks to a year and a day in prison for failing to register. "I have got to obey the law, and that law commands me, and I would obey it if it meant my life—never mind my feelings, but that is the law, and I have got to sentence you, as a Judge. But as a man, with sons of my own (who don't take your particular viewpoint, I will say that) but as a man who is interested in young men as I have been for thirty-odd years, I can't help but say that I admire the strength of character that causes you to take this choice when you believe it is the right view for you to take. . . you cannot, and ought not to argue with a brother man on a matter of conscience. That is your conscience, and it is your duty to obey it, even if it brings physical pain or death, when it comes to a real matter of conscience."

"America is not normal today," said the Judge, "and you must be charitable with the rest of us. Now, here is where you have got to exercise some charity. Those ideals that you have expressed are more deeprooted in our people than you think. I believe countless millions in the United States feel just as you feel. And I believe right in this court room with this mixed audience we are all of one mind. I think right in the very hearts of all of us here, we are in complete harmony with your objective. And I am not here to pay any compliments or throw any bouquets. I am going to sentence you; it is hard for me to do it, but it is my duty."

ATTENTION, CHURCHES!

The remaining 2000 of "The Mennonite Hymnary" have now been shipped to our distributing offices, MENNONITE BOOK CONCERN, BERNE, INDIANA, and MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS, from which the books may be ordered. Churches in need of new hymn books or which are anxious to avail themselves of the immediate blessings to be derived from this book, born under much prayer and serious devotion to a divine cause, should send in their orders at once, for the supply will not last long. Among the lot are 500 books in maroon binding to accommodate those who prefer it for family or individual use. —T

An Important Reminder and Petition

At the last session of the Northern District Conference, held at Henderson, Nebraska, a resolution was adopted to the effect that the last Sunday in February of each year be designated as a Prayer and Gift Day for Freeman Junior College. On that day in each of the Conference churches, and other Conferences are invited to join, prayers are to be offered for the Welfare of Freeman Junior College and a free will offering is to be taken for the work of the school. Pastors of Mennonite churches in the Northern District area would do well to call this to the attention of their congregations.—We hope that February 23 will be a day of real blessing for the College.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

From the Coast to Tamingfu

My fellow passengers had one very huge box they were not required to open at customs. I was hoping that my fortune might smile on me too, but when the customs officials became aware of the whole line of boxes, about fifteen in number, all belonging to one single "me" such luck was not mine. They had mercy on one box only. All the rest, no matter how well they were sealed, had to be inspected. That took time, especially since they had to be closed again. Still I paid only about three dollars duty in gold. Some boxes contained all new things and the officers shook their heads. I explained that friends in America were sending them to friends in China. Still they seemed doubtful, but eventually they chalked their O. K. on the boxes.

In spite of the delay we were to get the first train out that day, about noon. Five hours in a crowded train and then Peking. Before we could proceed we had to fill out a blank. This is quite the order of the day. I believe that all over China and Japan people know how old I am. The next day we went to the American consulate in order to register there. We were advised to see the Japanese Military department in order to get a pass for the interior. Before I could do that, however, I had to have my picture taken. That took a day. Then it would take three more before the pass could be ready.

Meanwhile we went down to the station in order to send my boxes which had come as excess baggage from the coast, on to Hantan, our nearest railroad station, by freight. If you should labor under the delusion that that was a very simple matter, let me disallusion you right here.

The freight depot and passenger depot are about two blocks apart. First we went to the passenger depot to see whether the baggage had come; then we went to the freight depot to get someone who would send a cart over for them, and then the fun began. The baggage had to be moved from the space in the baggage room to the counter. For that we had to give tips. From the counter a second shift moved the boxes to the cart. They had to be paid. Four small boxes were badly broken, so I wanted to take them home with me. It took another shift of four men to put these on a rickshaw. The other baggage the carter took to the freight depot where a fourth shift took the boxes from the cart and put them into the space where they were to wait for the freight train. After having paid everybody, we still hadn't spent a half dollar in gold.

Three days later we bought a ticket and checked a lot of baggage on that. This time there weren't so many shifts to tip but one of the men had made a mistake in counting the number of pieces of baggage. The mistake was not discovered until the check had been made out and the excess baggage paid. So it meant another fuss with the baggage officials, who at first refused to change the check unless we bought another ticket.

That afternoon we went back to get our passes. But now the officials had some more questions to ask us. Where had I been before I was in China? Who were the other missionaries at the station? etc. Then would I come back the next day. So we had to postpone our trip another day. I was afraid that I would have to do what some of the Shansi people had to do, wait for a permit from the interior before I could go in. However, the next day I received my pass. Had I been new, trying to go in for the first time, I would probably have been delayed indefinitely.

The rest of the trip was much more swift though, than I had expected. For some time no train had been going through all the way to Hantan, our nearest railroad station. The train did not run at night for fear of communist attacks, so the passengers had to stop for the night at Shih Chia Chuang. But for the first time again the train we boarded at Peking went straight through to Hantan. It arrived there early in the morning. Also early that morning a bus left for Tamingfu. Not only one bus but three or four accompanied by another four military trucks, so that the arrival in Tamingfu was quite impressive. We got there before noon.

Considering the present situation, we can only be thankful that everything went off as smoothly as it did. God prospered our journey and I pray that He might prevent any more wars. Which would hinder our work.

AND YET—

All things are God's! These lives of ours;
  All life by which we live.
How then be true to Him and not
  Our substance freely give?

Our subtance? Nay, we have no thing
  That is not gift divine.
How small must be in His dear sight
  A tithe of yours and mine!

And yet, for giving this mere mite
  Of things we do not own,
The windows of Heaven He opens wide;
  Pours blessings from the Throne!

Such is the Love that asks for tithes;
  For portions small returned
Of priceless gifts, seen and unseen,
  And every one unearned.

SACRIFICE

Lloyd L. Ramseyer, Pres. of Bluffton College

Mennonites in the past generations have been called upon to make enormous sacrifices for that which they believed. Persecutions, migrations, the giving up of worldly goods to move to locations more favorable to their beliefs, have been their lot. Are we, their descendents, also willing to sacrifice, or have we become soft and decadent, no longer sure of that which we believe?

Over the radio and through the press, Americans are being challenged to make sacrifices. Even from the lips of those who have seldom used the term sacrifice, we hear it repeatedly. For what purpose is this sacrifice? to build new roads? to educate more children? to eradicate slums? to erect new libraries? No but to give aid to a fellow democracy which many tell us is fighting our war; to build up a vast war machine for our own defence; to defeat another form of government, a dictator, and an ideology which we believe to be dangerous to our future welfare. Only one method of defence is being stressed, and we are asked for supreme sacrifices in order to facilitate this method. The method to be used is force, destruction, and death. The sacrifice asked is time, money, our accepted way of living, and if necessary life itself.

It is not my purpose to enter into a discussion of the need of sacrifice for such a purpose. Suffice it to say that we, as Mennonites, believe that there are other weapons more effective than force. We believe that force is contrary to the life and teachings of the One whom we recognize as our Lord and Savior. We believe that when Jesus said, "Love your enemies—do good to them that hate you", He meant what He said.

We are a part of a great nation. We could not, even if we would escape making some contribution to the tremendous preparations to outdo an enemy before he can get us. But while we are asked to sacrifice, willingly or otherwise, for the building up of a great war machine, we dare not let our sacrifice stop there. In fact, if our belief means anything, if it is anything more than a hollow profession, we must be willing to outdo those who disagree with us in the sacrifices which we stand ready and willing to make

As children of God and members of a church, we must continue to make positive sacrifices for the spread of the gospel of Christ. With increased taxes, with increased calls for funds, it will be increasingly difficult to maintain our missions and our churches. How much are we willing to sacrifice in order to continue the growth of Christ's Kingdom, even during this period of stress?

There will be increasing demands for money for relief for those who suffer, directly or indirectly, from the influence of war. It is not for us to question who is at fault, or why this period of darkness is upon us. Jesus, during His life on earth, went about serving those who were in distress. We, as His followers, must likewise serve. To render the service necessary at such a time as this will require real sacrifice. It is not enough to take a negative attitude toward war, if we want to bear a real testimony to our belief. We must make real sacrifices to alleviate the suffering which it produces.

The maintenance of Mennonite camps for conscientious objectors will require sacrifice. Some have said that this cannot be done, that the sacrifice required is too great. Our belief cannot be very deep rooted if we fail to take advantage of the opportunity given us by a kind government thus to substitute constructive service for army duty. This is a real test of our willingness to sacrifice for our principle of a free conscience, we dare not fail.

We must be willing to sacrifice for the building up of those ideals in this country which we believe to be for its ultimate good. As loyal Americans, we could not do less. We must be willing to give all, if necessary, for the preservation of what we believe to be the best in America.

One of the principles which we believe this country needs is increased love and brotherhood. There is grave danger that with new demands in taxation and with new sacrifices to be made by Mennonites as a result of war, we may shortsightedly neglect those institutions which are helping to teach the way of love and brotherhood to our future leaders. There is little hope for a better world in the future or for our own Mennonite ideals, unless this lesson of love and peace is allowed a chance to work in those who are to be our future leaders. The only reason for the continued existence of the Mennonite Church as a separate denomination is to include in its teaching the beliefs and practices which make it unique. Unless these beliefs are taught to our potential leaders, the principles of the Mennonite Church will disappear.

The Mennonite college is one of the organizations which not only tries to help young people to lead the Christian life, but tries to keep alive the special contribution which that church has made and should make to religious thought. If we allow our colleges to suffer, the future of the church is in peril.

Colleges face a serious situation, unless their supporters rally to their aid. Increased taxation and new calls for gifts are likely to divert funds from them into other channels. Maintenance of college enrollments will be difficult because of young men being called to military or substitute service and because of increased opportunities for employment.

Our colleges are not in a position to endure further curtailment of income. They have been existing merely on a subsistence level for many years. They must be even more adequately supported than in the past or they will cease to exist. Once gone, they can scarcely be revived. We do not fully realize now, but would know to our sorrow when too late, what they really mean to the maintenance of the principles of the church.

Not only do church colleges contribute to the church, but they have made a direct contribution to the stability of worthwhile ideas and standards in our nation as a whole. Look over the roster of teachers in any state university and see what a large proportion of the best members of their staffs received their undergraduate training in some small Christian college. Trace the training of outstanding upright men in other fields and the same discovery will be made. Remove these colleges, and the future of our ideals is in grave danger.

If we merely transfer our gifts from one cause to another we have made no sacrifice. In times like this, when millions are sacrificing for destruction which they believe to be justified, we have a chance to sacrifice for constructive enterprises. Let us help, as never before, to bind up the wounds of destruction and keep alive and in a healthy condition those institutions which help to lead individuals to an acceptance of the salvation of Jesus Christ and the way of life which we believe that He taught. To do these things in days such as these will require real sacrifice, but sacrifice which we dare not refuse. Others are being asked for sacrificies for building machines of destruction, what will we give for construction?

SHOULD I EXPECT MY CHILD TO GO TO CHURCH

In the December issue of the International Journal of Religious Education an excellent article was published with the above title, written by Mr. Frank A. Shults. In the article he shows how parents can make the preaching service helpful and interesting for the child. The article was of such interest that soon requests for reprints were sent in. In the January issue the announcement is now made that copies of this article may be obtained from the International Journal of Religious Education, 203 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill., at these low prices: 5 copies 10c, 25 copies 40c, 50—75c, 100—$1.40, 150—$2.10, 500—$6.40. Ministers should order enough copies to supply every family in the church.

TENTATIVE ITINERARY

FOR W. C. VOTH, MISSIONARY TO CHINA

This is for some Kansas and Oklahoma churches. Unless other arrangements are preferred, slide pictures of China will be presented at the evening meetings. The Board desires that he conduct two meetings at each church wherever possible. If there should be any conflict or desire to change the time of meeting from morning to afternoon, or two meetings are not possible, please report to Rev. W. C. Voth. The cooperation of the churches will be greatly appreciated.

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by G. A. Linscheid

FEBRUARY 22.— The way of the fool is right in his own eyes. Prov 12:15.

A certain man who was generally known to be indolent and to whom honest work seemed a real burden, tried to get the necessary wherewithal by helping himself to that which others had provided. The law interfered with his efforts, from time to time, and had even had the audacity to expect him to do some work inside of a penal institution! Yet he was so much better than any of the Christians! He happened to overhear a minister admonish a church member in regard to some failing. At once he added the weight of his authority in a very ostentatious way: "Yes, that is the way all Christians do, I am always advising them that they should not do such things. I am no Christian, but I never do anything like that." The way of the fool is apt to show up in us.

FEBRUARY 23.— What is that to thee? follow thou me. John 21:22b

Jesus had asked Peter three times: "Lovest thou me?" Peter had answered in the affirmative, in response the Lord said to Peter: "Follow me." Peter was concerned about John who was following, too, but not as closely, so he asked the Lord: "And what shall this man do?" Jesus answered very firmly: "If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? follow thou me." —There is grave danger in trying to follow the Lord from afar. As Christians it is our duty to be concerned about the walk of others but not in the spirit of: "Lord, see how this one or that one is doing." "If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? follow thou me." The mistakes and faults of others can in no wise improve our relation to the Lord.

FEBRUARY 24.—They went out FROM us. . . they were not all OF us." I John 2:19.

"They went out that it might be made manifest that they were not all OF us." John speaks of such as antichrists, for: "He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth." Deplorable as conditions may be in the Church, nevertheless it is the institution that the Lord Himself established and He is by no means indifferent to conditions and causes that tend to disrupt it, for disruption is work of the Antichrist." "If they had been OF us, they would no doubt have continued with us." "They went out FROM us but they were not all OF us."— There is but one way to be OF Him and that is to be born from above. The Lord was born in the flesh in order to become one OF us, so we must be born of the Spirit in order to become one OF Him.

FEBRUARY 25.— If any man will (willeth) .... he shall know." John 7:17.

"Master, we would see a sign from Thee" was a request the scribes put to the Lord, with the inference that then they would be convinced. But He answered them, an evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it, but the sign of the prophet Jonas. Jonas knew, but he did not care to do it. Had he been willing to do God's will, he would have been saved that harrowing experience.— There is much of the attitude of Jonas found among men. In every land where the Word of God is known generally, it is not so much a lack, on the part of the individual, of knowing the will of God as it is a lack of willingness to do it.

FEBRUARY 26.— If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded though one rose from the dead." Luke 16:31.

A drowning man will, as long as he is conscious of his danger, grasp at every available means that may afford his rescue, when once he is dead he is altogether indifferent to any attempts at rescuing him, even though some one may be jeopardizing his own life to do so. If the opportunities generally extant in a Christian community for knowing more about God, the life beyond the grave, and the necessary steps to prepare for the great beyond are disdained, then even the miraculous would be misinterpreted.— The words of Abraham to Dives are true: "If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded though one rose from the dead." Christ did rise from the dead and still there are many who are not persuaded.

FEBRUARY 27.— For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God.— Rom. 8:14.

This is a very searching passage. It matters not how much we may be doing, nor does it matter so much as to how much we are giving—although both are important—but it is very important to our spiritual welfare as to whether we are led by the Spirit of God. "For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." "Now if any have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his." "The Spirit itself bareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God: and if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together." Rom 8:14-17.

FEBRUARY 28.— For he hath made him to be sin for us, who knew no sin: that we might be made the righteousness of God in him." 2 Cor. 5:21.

"Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us." Gal. 3:13. These two passages are of the most profound contained in the Holy Scriptures. It shocks one's sensibility to speak or to think of Him, in whom dwelt the fulness of the Godhead, to have been made a curse, and that for "me, the chief of sinners!" He humbled Himself, became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross.—He, by whom all things were made. No wonder Paul explains: "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?" Heb. 2:3. "Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." Rev. 3:20.

Jesus Calls To Prayer

Luke 18:1-4. Read chap. 18

Topic: Prevailing Prayer

Introduction

Prayer is the soul of man in communication with God, the Father. Man may be fully assured that God hears sincere prayer. Prevailing prayer is of great importance at all times and especially so since skeptics deny the efficacy of prayer. Our lesson reveals the fact that Jesus firmly believed in prayer and He calls His followers to prayer. He calls on us to pray much and also teaches us how to pray for spiritual good in an acceptable manner.

Pray Frequently, Persistently vs 1-8

The central truth of this parable is, "men ought to always pray and not to faint" (v1). Jesus meant that they should pray again and again, and not lose heart and give up when prayer seems to be unanswered. Jesus teaches us this much needed lesson in parable form. Pray is the way to victory over our faint-heartedness. Christians readily accept Jesus' beliefs and teachings concerning prayer, but often fail to put them into practice in daily living. The prayer life which Jesus enjoyed requires a deep depth of consecration and spirituality. It implies an intimate communion with God, a delight in His presence, such as can be obtained only by submission to His will.

God is not as the unjust judge was, nor is He indifferent to our needs and to our sufferings. He does withhold His answer at times for reasons known only to Himself. Doubtless His delays are often for our spiritual good—to test our faith, to develop our persistence, to draw us closer to Him, to prepare us better spiritually to meet the conditions necessary to the answering of our prayers. Our duty is plain—pray persistently. How easily we give up praying. Jesus says, "Pray on, on, on: pray through."

Pray Penitently, Humbly vs 9-14

In this parable Jesus indicates the spirit in which we should pray. He shows clearly what is true prayer and what is not. The parable was spoken to those "which trusted in themselves that they were righteous and despised others" (v9). The Pharisee's prayer was full of conceit, extolling his own virtues (vs 11, 12). It had little real thought of God, but it was intended to impress others in the temple with his superior goodness. There was no confession of sin and no real thanksgiving for he prayed "with himself." He lacked humility and the essential spirit of goodness. Much of the personel and national thanksgiving of today is of the same character.

The despised publican revealed a very different spirit. He had nothing to boast of and he was not hypocritical. He was humble in heart, and thought of God's holiness and mercy and his own sin (v13). He humbled himself before God and confessed his sin. He stood away from the crowd with bowed head and heart. His attitude in prayer, as well as his prayer, showed an intense earnestness. His prayer was a cry of the heart, simple and pointed, pouring out his soul's need. Intensely earnest prayers may be expressed in very few words. God forgave and pardoned the publican. His prayer reached God's throne. Any one who takes his place before God as a sinner, will find pardon. Every prayer needs a repentent note. Jesus believed in prayer and He urges us to pray humbly, earnestly, persistently.

How far may one legitimately bear in mind the listeners when he prays?

It has been said that prayer is the most talked about and the least used force in the world. Why is this so?

What hinders persons in finding time and a place for private prayer?

Fellow S. S. teachers, there is no time in life so favorable to sound conversion as early childhood.

Report of the Third Quarterly Conference of the Eastern District, held at Bethany Church, Quakertown, Monday, January 27.

The meeting was opened with a song service under the leadership of the Rev. Harold D. Burkholder, the Conference Chorister. The Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, pastor of the host church had charge of the devotions. He read Psalm 84:1-12 and offered prayer. The Treasurer's report revealed that to date $1,668.28 had been received toward the Conference Budget. Four churches paid in full and five churches paid nothing. The General Conference Steering Committee presented their report and upon motion was accepted for later consideration.

The Rev. Erland Waltner reported for the Peace Committee and a motion carried that the Executive Committee draw up a letter to be sent to all Eastern Conference Churches, making a plea for an Emergency Fund of 50c per member for the Civilian Service Camps. Mr. Henry S. Detwiler, Treasurer of the Peace Committee reported that he had received around $1200.00 since Conference. Of this amount about 75% was for Relief and the rest toward Dr. Fast's support.

The Rev. Freeman H. Swartz then gave the message of the afternoon on "The Book of Romans." He said in part: "The preacher should have an adequate knowledge of Romans. I do not mean to be able to quote it, but to live it. As ministers, we are not familiar with the books of the Bible as we ought to be. I mean the content of the books. When you read Romans for the first time, read it as a letter. The first fifteen verses of the opening chapter contain the salutation and explanation. Beginning with verse sixteen, Paul starts his argument to 3:19. He argues this point, "Now we know that what things so ever the law saith, it saith to them who are under the law: that every mouth may be stopped and all the world may become guilty before God." In the first chapter, we have the Gentile, the heathen man. In the second chapter we have the moral man and in the third, the Jew. God's righteousness puts us into our place as to our own righteousness. The righteousness of God is revealed so that we can understand the righteousness imputed and imparted. Abraham was a righteous man, not because of what he did, but because of what God did for him.

"Chapters nine to eleven we see that we have forgiveness of sins through Christ. This is brought about by the individual's acceptance of Christ. In chapter 10 we see that if the Jew has failed, it is because of his unbelief and not God's fault. Chapter 11 we see that the Gentiles acceptance of salvation is a hinderance to the Jews.

"The 13th chapter deals with government. This chapter seems to disturb many people. We as Mennonites need to recognize that while we have conscience, other men have conscience too, though they may not agree with us. Chapter 14 we see conscience. "Let each man be fully persuaded in his own mind." (Because of the lateness of the hour, Brother Swartz could not touch on chapters 15 & 16.

Because Bethany Church is not equipped to serve meals, arrangements were made with a near-by restaurant where the group could eat together.

During the intermission the Steering Committee met with the ministers of the Conference to decide the General Conference meeting place for August. After a long discussion, carefully considering some angles and ignoring others, a motion was made as follows: "Resolved, that we accept the invitation from Souderton." Motion carried.

The evening session again opened with a song service led by Rev. Burkholder, and devotions by Mr. Ward Shelly, supply pastor of the Springfield Mennonite Church. He read Romans 8:24-39 and offered prayer. Rev. Krehbiel then announced to the Conference that Souderton had been selected for the General Conference meeting place. Rev. Bohn also announced that they would have dedication services for the new building at Souderton, on Sunday, February 16th.

After the singing of the hymn "Must Jesus bear the cross alone," Mr. Andrew Shelly spoke to us on the theme: "A Ministerial Student Looks At His Church." Dividing his talk into three parts: 1st, Missions, 2nd, Relief, and 3rd Education, he said in part: "As to principles of the Church, we need to remember that we are not the Church. We are a part of the Church which is the kingdom of God. We have a work to do in the kingdom. We are not competing forces but are at work with other churches. Our church has been closely associated with the Bible from the very beginning. The second principle I want to refer to is, The Simple Life. We need to reinterpret our principle of simple life in our day. Yes, the principles of simple life can be applied to our modern day. We are a church that believes in expressing the Gospel in a simple way, a way that is understandable. We believe in non-violent resistance. I think this expresses our way more than non-resistant. We do resist evil by substituting good. We resist in the way of Christ. We have independent, congregational church government. We have different interpretations, because we have different backgrounds and because we went to different schools, we have different view points.

"Our church has a vital Missionary activity. Sometimes we look over the fence and see what other denominations are doing, but we have a work that is entrusted to us. We may want to help others but then we would be neglecting our own responsibility." Then Mr. Shelly referred to our Mission work both Foreign and Home and spent much time in speaking of our mission work showing: "The mission work our Conference is engaged in is vital and we need to give it our whole hearted support."

Of the Relief work he said, "We are doing a large piece of work that is vital in a neutral way. This work needs to be supported. There is much that can be said, but the time is short. This work is kept before us constantly at the present time." (Then he referred to Mr. Buller who was in our midst and about to leave for France to do relief work).

"The last division is Education. We may think of our training at home and Sunday School, but I speak especially of our Bluffton College. Thinking of our college, there are several questions I want to raise. First, what is a Christian College? I shall try to answer this from the negative side first. Is it a perfect college? I must emphatically answer, No. Yet, you call it a Christian college. Is your church a perfect church? No. Yet, you call it a Christian church. In order for a college to be a Christian College, must it meet my approval in every way? No. We can not meet that standard in the Church. In order for a college to be a Christian College, must all the students be what they ought to be? No. Neither are all your members what they ought to be. In order for a college to be a Christian College, must the graduates be what they ought to be? No. Not all graduates will be what they ought to be, but would you vouch that a Christian moving into another community will always truly represent the Church?

"What should a college be in order to be a Christian College? In order to be a Christian College it must be foundationally Christian. Bluffton College stands upon the principles of our church that are Christian. I speak as one who attended Bluffton College, one who knew many of the professors intimately and I believe that Bluffton College is a Christian College. A Christian College must have a Christian atmosphere, and I can testify that there is a Christian atmosphere in our college at Bluffton.

"The hope of a Christian Church is the Christian College. The need of our day is Christian leadership. Now what of the future? We should humbly thank God for our heritages. We need to enthusiastically support our Christian colleges by sending students, then we must support them by prayer and finances."

The Rev. E. J. Bohn had charge of the closing meditation, reading John 15:1-8. The following responded during a short season of prayer, Nyce, Neuenschwander, Krehbiel, Burkholder, and Bohn. Rev. Russell Mast, pastor of the Deep Run Church, dismissed us with the benediction.

HERE I STAND

(Written by a young Mennonite in response to Question 1, Series II of Form 47)

Since war is contrary to the spirit, life and teachings of Jesus Christ, it will not be possible for me as a Christian to take part in the wholesale murder that it entails, nor to assist in it either as a combatant or noncombatant, nor to take part in the preparation or training for it.

It would be possible to write a large book in support of my position, but that is not practical here. The question is one which bothered me considerably for some time. During the last ten years I have read the Old Testament through from beginning to end about three times and the New Testament about five times and have not been able to find anything in the entire New Testament that will permit the Christian to kill human beings under any circumstances. On the other hand, there are many passages that show that war is wrong. A few of these are: "Overcome evil with good." Christ said, "Ye have heard that it hath been said, thou shalt love they neighbor and hate thine enemy. But I say unto you, love your enemies, bless them that curse you, etc." Also, "My kingdom is not of this world: if my Kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, etc." Christians also shall not be "of this world," as Christ said when praying for his disciples, "They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world." There are also many other passages which support my belief.

The question might be asked "What would happen if we let our enemies run over us and do not kill them?" That is impossible to answer—to Christ it meant death, to many Christians it has meant suffering, imprisonment, torture or death. The same thing might happen to us. God, however, is very well able to protect those that trust him, but if He has a purpose in not doing so, we shall still "obey God rather than man."

I cannot take part in noncombatant service since that is part of the machine that does the killing and assists in it. This does not mean at all that I don't love my country. It would not be against my conscience to do certain work such as reconstruction work, civilian relief work, civilian, medical or hospital work, forestry, reclamation work or similar work under the direction of the Mennonite Peace Committee, the Friend's Service Committee or other organizations of a similar religious or civilian nature not under military control or supervision.

Another Forward Look to General Conference Sessions This Summer

A part of the Exhibit of Y. P. work, as planned by the Committee, is to be about Retreats. Pictures, programs, and folders of past Retreats, are some of the suggested material that could be used.

The Eastern District Y. P. Union is planning to have a model of the new Retreat grounds as part of this exhibit.

Programs, folders, outstanding resolutions of past Y. P. Conventions will also be of help in the Exhibit.

Clarence Kooker, Richlandtown, Pa., has charge of Retreat and Convention material from the Eastern Dist. All material from other districts is to be sent to John E. Fretz, 300 Tennis Ave., North Hills, Pa. (New address).

Fellowship Banquet

The third annual Y. P. Fellowship Banquet was held in the newly renovated and very beautiful Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pa. A group of about two hundred young people of the Eastern District Conference gathered on Saturday evening, January 25, for a time of fellowship and inspiration. The Ladies' Aid of the Souderton Church served a delicious meal.

Among those who made the evening an enjoyable one were: Rev. Freeman Swartz, who was toastmaster, Mr. Bartholomew, who rendered several clarinet solos, and a trio of Souderton girls who gave several vocal selections. Rev. Burkholder, chairman of the 1941 Retreat Committee, announced tentative plans for the coming Retreat. Mennolan, our own Retreat grounds, is to be the site for the 1941 Retreat. The High School group will meet July 18-20, and the Senior group July 25-27.

Mr. Walter Nace, speaking about the development work at Mennolan, asked the young people to give their support not only with money but with labor. This as an investment, the returns of which will be in souls won for Christ and lives dedicated to His service. An offering which amounted to over $33 was taken to pay for a carpenter to be at Mennolan every Saturday to direct workers.

We had the unexpected pleasure of meeting Mr. Buller, a young man from California, who was to sail for France on February 5, to do relief work. He spoke briefly about the work being done and the need for continued effort.

The speaker of the evening was Mr. George Lewis of Flourtown, a member of the Anti-Saloon League. Mr. Lewis had an inspirational message and a challenge to all young people. He spoke of how our nation was founded through a search for free worship, and how it is forgetting the very basis of its existence. The need of a Christian home, Christ-centered and Christ-honoring, was the theme of his talk which was entitled, "The Place of Christian Youth in the Future of America."

An hour of entertainment followed in which Mr. LeRoy Weidner conducted a quiz program patterned after the "March of Games" radio program. This provided fun for all. The Fellowship Banquet closed with prayer, the singing of Blest Be the Tie that Binds, and the mizpah benediction. We thank God that we may gather together in such blessed times of fellowship in His Name. —Grace Moyer

THE LOVE OF GOD

I Jn. 4:7-11, 16

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Love divine, all love excelling," "O love, that wilt not let me go," "O, for a thousand tongues to tell," and "God is love; His mercy brightens."
2. Reading of Main topic, and prayer.
3. Pantomine of song, "My faith looks up to Thee."
4. Offering for Peace Work.

II. Leader's Introduction

The outstanding message of the Christian religion is that God is love. Even the O. T. Prophet, Hosea, portrayed the love of God as deep and compassionate, willing to forgive and redeem. Isaiah and Jonah bring the message that it also includes the Gentiles.

Jesus taught us to think of God as Father. John, who perhaps understood Jesus best, speaks much of love. The love of God to men is perhaps best expressed in the familiar Bible verse Jn. 3:16: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son."

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. A providing Father, Ps. 23
2. A merciful Father, Isa. 55:6, 7.
3. A prayer—answering Father, Mt. 6:5-8.
4. A forgiving Father, Luke 15; 17-24.
5. A comforting Father, II Cor. 1:3, 4.
6. An everlasting Father, Ps. 90: 1, 2.

IV For Discussion

(1) How have you experienced the love of God in your own life?

(2) How does the justice of God harmonize with the love of God?

V. Illustration

Passing on the Love of God

One day a man quite unknown called at the Salvation Army headquarters and said he wanted to give a donation of a thousand pounds. On being asked how he had become interested in the Army and its work, he replied: "Some time ago I was walking down Aldersgate Street, and I noticed on the other side of the road a costermonger loading sacks of scrap iron onto a barrow. One of the sacks was apparently too heavy for him to lift, and a tall man wearing a silk hat stopped and put up the sack for the old costermonger and said a word to him. I was so much interested that I asked a policeman who was near by to tell me who it was that had assisted the costermonger. "Oh, don't you know?" said the policeman. That's General Booth."

VI. Food for Thought

"For the love of God is broader
  Than the measure of man's mind;
And the heart of the Eternal
  Is most wonderfully kind."

EDUCATION

Of course, the real reason for our going to school is to get an education. It is a very sure thing that we can not get very far in the world today without an education. Those older than we, know how important it is that we should go to school, as they have passed a law that says we must go until we are of a certain age. In larger cities a great many children quit school on the day that they become of age. If they knew how much they need an education, and if they really cared, they could almost always find a way to get one.

TEACHERS

One of the good things about our school life is our teachers. Sometimes we think they are hard, cruel masters, but they really are not. They are doing only what they think best in helping us to learn. Some children will not try to learn. Some have never been taught to mind their parents, and they have to be taught to mind their teachers. Some children find it hard to learn. The teacher must teach all of these different kinds of children, and she does it in the best way possible.

FRIENDS

Some of the friendships that we make at school follow us all through life. At school we meet the good and the bad young folk. We learn to know what is good and what is bad, and should learn to keep away from the bad.

All young people attend school. If one should decide not to go, he would have a lonely time, as he would see very little of other folk of his own age.

PLAYING FAIR

One of the most valuable lessons we can learn at school is to "play fair." Look about you and notice the best-liked boys and girls. They are the ones that "play fair." They can laugh if they lose in the game, and can be sorry and tactfully helpful for the other fellow who loses.

It doesn't make you happy to win a game if you have had to cheat to do it. Cheating never pays. It is better to play the game fair and fail than to shine than to break the rules and seem to win. Play the game and play it fair.

Song "I'll Live For Him"

Questions

1. Why do we go to school?
2. How should we treat our teachers?
3. How should we treat our schoolmates?
4. Are there any unchristian practices in your school? If so, what should you, as a Christian, do about them?
5. Discuss this good daily motto—Prov. 3:5, 6.

II. Study Period

1. Poem by a Junior

A Sacrifice of Praise

"Praise the Lord, for the Lord is good." (Psa. 135:3)

Our God, what thanks to Thee we owe,
So much we see Thy hand bestow,
For all the mercies which we know,
We praise Thee.

For precious Blood for us was shed,
For firstfruits risen from the dead,
So slowly each must bow the head,
And praise Thee.

For what is wrought behind the veil,
For pleading which can never fail,
For love surpassing human scale,
We praise Thee.

As backward now our glance we cast,
In looking over all the past,
For love we see from first to last,
We praise Thee.

For light that broke when skies were gray,
Green places Thou hast made our stay,
And desert wells Thou didst display,
We praise Thee.

And still we think with much regret
What countless mercies we forget
For these we owe a mighty debt,
And praise Thee.

For what we darkly see revealed,
The day when sorrows shall be healed,
The Heaven where Home is now concealed,
We praise Thee.

—Edith E. Smyth

2. Topic - How often, and for how much should we render thanks? I Thess. 5:18; Eph. 5:20.
3. Song - "O Worship the King" S. H. 4
4. What element should enter into all our worship? Phil. 4:6; Col. 4:2.
5. Have each Junior mention something that he is thankful for.
6. The psalmist closes his songs of praise with the last Psalm. Have a Junior who reads well, read this Psalm beautifully and reverently.
7. Leader's Heart Talk

III. Mission Minutes

In the February number of the "Missionary News and Notes" under "Meet our Missionaries" we have the names of our most recent workers in America among the Indians. Who are they? Let us get acquainted with them. Where are they working and in what part of that state. Our little paper even gives us a picture of them.

After we are acquainted with them let us pray for them and all of our missionaries everywhere.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat the verse for the month.
2. Memorize one verse of the song for the month and sing it.
3. Pray the prayer for the month.

IN MEMORIAM

ANNA BUHLER REGIER, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Bernhard Buhler, was born July 24, 1883, on a farm two miles northeast of Buhler. On her confession of faith she was baptized by her father on August 13, 1899, and was received into the Hebron Church where she remained a member until she and her husband transferred their allegience to the Buhler Mennonite Church, October 9, 1921, of which she was a devout member until her death.— She and Jacob C. Regier were united in marriage on April 27, 1906, and were devoted companions for almost 35 years. Four children were born to them, Harold, Ruth, Herbert, and Louis.— After years interspersed with both great joys and great trials, she and her husband felt the need of a rest, so they left for Florida on January 21, for what they hoped to make their first real vacation. An unavoidable car accident near Chattahoochee, Fla., resulted in her death the following day, January 28, 1941, at the age of 57 years, 6 months and 4 days.

She leaves to mourn her passing her husband; four children, Harold of Buhler, Ruth of Champa, Central Province, India; Herbert of Denver, Col.; Louis at home; a daughter-in-law, Anna Marie; a son-in-law, Harold Ratzlaff; one grandchild, two sisters, Mrs. J. J. Wall of McPherson, Kansas; Mrs. P. W. Enns of Newton, Kansas, and many other relatives and friends.

As a practicing Christian through both heritage and belief, she gave without stint of her abilities to the home, the church, the schools and the community. Two of her children, Ruth and Herbert, were afflicted with asthma in their youth, and she suffered patiently with them. Yet, because of her hospitable nature she was always the leader of the home in welcoming friends and relatives within its doors.

She took a very active interest in the church and all its works. For over twenty years she was almost continually a Sunday School teacher and for many years a leader in church missionary and sewing circles. She took an active interest in the Community Y. M. C. A. and the betterment of the community at large. Through the long battle for Ruth's health a very close relationship was established between mother and daughter and they had a common feeling to serve God and prayed that if Ruth's health were restored, she would devote her life to Christian service. So when her only daughter left this fall to go to the mission field in India, she gave her consent ungrudgingly, because she felt that was a debt she owed God for giving Ruth health after her years of illness.

And so she has passed on leaving an irreparable void in the home, but also leaving with those who knew her the memory of a true and affectionate wife, a loving and loveable mother, and a zealous servant of the Lord.

PETER BURKHALTER, the son of Hans and Verena Habegger Burkhalter, was born Feb. 4, 1850 in Sonceboz, Canton Berne, Switzerland, and departed this life, Dec. 22, 1940, at his home in Berne, Ind., bringing his age to 90 years, 10 months and 18 days. He came to this country with his parents and a group of devout Mennonites in 1853, settling down in Adams County, Indiana. In his youth he was baptized upon confession of his faith, by the late Peter Lehman, and taken into the Mennonite Church of which he was a faithful member until his death. As long as he was able, he attended services regularly, but lately he listened in at his home by means of a loud-speaker. He was the only living member of the original personnel of the large Berne Mennonite S. S., being the first Assistant Superintendent, the late Rev. S. F. Sprunger serving as leader. Mr. Burkhalter enjoyed a long and useful life and until lately was in good health, really bedfast only a few days. His death was attributed to arterio sclerosis. Until recently he read considerably and kept in touch with the world and the church, especially with its missionary work. More than anything else, he read his Bible, which was very precious to him. He had a strong and unswerving faith in God and His Word. His example of a true conscientious Christian will continue to influence others. His one concern was that his children and their decendents should also serve the Lord, for which he prayed much.

His marriage to Maria Lugibihl was an event of Oct. 22, 1874. The couple celebrated both their 50th and 60th wedding anniversaries with semi-formal programs. Mrs. Burkhalter passed away on May 2, 1936. Mr. and Mrs. Burkhalter started housekeeping on a farm one mile north of Berne and lived there until 1921 when they moved to the town of Berne. Children born to this union and surviving are Amos, Menno, Rachel and Mrs. Herbert (Mary) Sprunger, all of Berne, Mrs. George (Lydia) Baumgartner and Mrs. Caroline Zook of Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Miss Martha of Janjgir, C. P., India. Preceeding besides his wife, were Sarah Ann, Susan, Levina, Noah and Helena. Noah died while serving as missionary in India and Levina while engaged in missionary work in Los Angeles, California.

Funeral services were held Dec. 26 at the Mennonite Church. Words of comfort were spoken by Rev. C. H. Suckau, based on the following texts: Luke 2:29 and 30 and Gen. 49:18. The words in Gen. 49:18 were often expressed in his family prayer during the last few months. "Herr, ich warte auf dein Heil."

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, ABERDEEN, IDAHO

Another year of activity has come to a close. The officers for the New Year are elected and appointed and we look forward to another good year.

Our membership increased to three hundred fifty nine (359), eight new members by the hand of fellowship and ten by baptism. We lost five members by transfer of letter. Grandmother Anna Funk and two small children were called Home. During the year our pastor performed five marriages which involved our membership. Twenty-eight of our members are students at higher institutions of learning. Six of our number are teaching away from home. Their return adds much to our summer fellowship and choir work.

Among friends and missionaries that served us were Mr. Kenneth Stratford, Rev. and Mrs. P. W. Penner, Rev. and Mrs. Peter Becker, Dr. Cutshall, Rev. Felix Schrag, Mr. Irwin Baumgartner, Mr. Arthus Wenger, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Friesen.

We enjoyed a memorable occasion on September 29, when Peter Becker, a member of our church, was ordained into the ministry by our pastor, Rev. Wedel. Mr. Becker and his wife, the former Gertrude Schroeder of Paso Robles, Calif., are now connected with the American Sunday School Union. The auxilaries of our church have shown growth as well as much interest and have contributed greatly to the church work in service and financially.

Now as we have entered this new year we trust and pray that each individual member may grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Savior, and that we might truly be a worthy influence for God in our community and in our conference.

MENNONITE CHURCH, BURRTON, KANSAS

Greetings in Jesus' Name: It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord, and to sing praises unto His name, the most High, for the Lord blesses His own abundantly. These and others were our closing thoughts of the past year.

We are being greatly blessed again through God's new open channel to us. Our pastor and his wife became active here last July for which we are grateful to God. Services were held every Sunday but two, one due to bad weather and the other to attendance at the ordination of our pastor. Membership is 147. A young man was received by baptism upon his personal confession of faith in Jesus Christ, Dec. 2. Soon several will join by letter. Also a catechism class is in progress. There were taken from us the past year, Gene Enns, Ed. F. Regier and Rev. H. P. Krehbiel. The church has purchased an American Flag and a Duplicater, the latter is a great help in putting out our Sunday bulletins. The young people continue to show interest in the activities of the Mennonite churches. They attended the Peace Rally and the Harvey County C. E. Rally which they now have joined. February 2 we were favored by having Bethel College Volunteers with us. They always bring new inspiration on missions and we benefit by their service. Rev. W. H. Dyck of Beatrice, Neb., was the guest at the young people's gathering Feb. 3. Forty-one were present and a united spirit of joy prevailed.

Let us remain in the Hollow of God's hand.—Corr.

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Rev. J. J. Plenert, First Church, Philadelphia, writes: We now have our 200 new Mennonite Hymnarys and we will present them to the church next Sunday at the morning service with a fitting dedicatory service. All these books have been made possible through memorial gifts by friends and members of our church during our Diamond Jubilee Anniversary last year. We ordered 25 of the Hymnarys for individuals, and it looks like we might have to order some more. I am so happy that the people take for these new books, and I am sure that as they use them we will sell more yet.

—REGARDING THE SUPPORT OF THE CIVILIAN SERVICE CAMPS a letter by the Secretary of the Eastern District makes these significant statements: To adequately finance the work in the camps for the next six months, it will cost the General Conference approximately $20,000. At the recent Quarterly Conference in Bethany Church, Quakertown, the following resolution was passed: Resolved, that the Ex. Committee of the Conference (Eastern) send out a letter to all churches making a plea for an Emergency Budget at 50c per member. The money is to be sent to Mr. Henry S. Detwiler, 228 E. Summit St., Souderton, Pa., and labeled "For Civilian Service."

—More Churches that Should have Pastors.—In giving a list of Gen. Conference churches in need of pastors, last week, we should also have mentioned the following: Meadows Menn. Church at Mingo (Colby) Kansas, and the group at Wisner, Nebraska.

—The Pacific "Workers' Exchange" reports the following "Events of Interest": California S. S. and C. E. Convention at Reedley, April 25-27.—Pacific Dist. Conference at Dallas, Oregon, May 15-18.—Washington Convention in June at Newport.—Washington Retreat, July 4-6, Clear Lake near Yakima.—International C. E. Convention, 60th Anniversary, July 8-13, at Atlantic City, New Jersey.—California Retreat, August 11-18, at Lake Sequoia, near Reedley, Calif.

—Lorraine Avenue Menn. Church, Wichita, Kans.— Last Sunday, Feb. 9, 1941, we had a record attendance. Our building has a seating capacity of about 125. In Sunday School, which has an enrollment of 166, we had 146 present. In the church service 163 were present. Was the building crowded? Or can you imagine a Sunday School class of 15 pupils working around a table made for eight and just enough space for the table? No more space is available! Do we need a new church building?

—Lent Season, the forerunner of Passion Week, begins Wednesday of next week, February 26, known as Ash Wednesday. During this season many of our churches follow the praiseworthy practice of holding series of special meetings in commemoration of the eventful closing days of the life of our Savior. Such meetings are of great importance in helping Christians get nearer to their God and Master, and need to be encouraged.

—Mennonite Church, Shafter, Calif.—The pastor, Rev. J. P. Glanzer writes: The weather here has been cold and wet the last few weeks. People are planting potatoes, grain is six inches high. Shafter is to get a $1,000.000 airport. Rev. J. B. Epp, now of Los Angeles, is here holding meetings in our church and in the M. B. church for a few evenings.

—"The Vine Press," Middle District C. E. organ, calls for suggestions by readers of the paper for some definite Project to which the group can give united financial support. Past projects have been raising money for the return of missionaries and for the building of the Swift Current Bible School. The editor suggests that the C. E.'s undertake the work of introducing The Mennonite Hymnary in the M. D. churches that have not already done so. That is a good piece of missionary work which will not or should not entail any expense.

—First Church, Bluffton, Ohio, announces: This evening, Sunday Feb. 9, the orchestra of Bowling Green State University, Manchester College, and Bluffton College are combining in a concert at the High School gymnasium. The directors of the visiting orchestras are Bluffton College alumni, Earl Smith and Dr. Samuel Flueckiger.

—"THE MENNONITE" TO NEWLY WEDS.— For more than a year The Mennonite has been sent to newly married Mennonite couples, whose address were made available to us, free of charge for six months, with the hope that they might become regular subscribers. Letters were addressed to them explaining the advantage and need of a church paper in the Christian home. It is rather discouraging to note that only about ten per cent of the recipients of this concession actually become subscribers. We are wondering if the ministers of our churches whose members these young folks are, might not do a little missionary work in bringing about a better showing.

—BERNE, INDIANA—The following MARRIAGES were consumated at the First Mennonite Church by Dr. C. H. Suckau, on Tuesday evening, Feb. 4: Charles Wulliman and Miss Lavon Lehman, Harry Wulliman and Miss Elmyra Lehman. The young men are brothers, the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Menasse Wulliman. Miss Lavon Lehman is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Lehman, and Miss Elmyra Lehman the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lehman.—Since Berne is continually growing, more space has been provided by adding another tract of land to the town site.—Another Mennonite Civilian Service Camp may be established at Bluffton, near Berne, Ind. —The Berne Witness

—Prof. A. C. Schultz, Bible Instructor in Bluffton College, has been called to the pastorate of the Ebenezer Mennonite Church, near Bluffton, Ohio. He succeeds Rev. P. A. Kliewer who has held the position for more than 11 years. —Menn. Weekly Rev.

—Golden Wedding by Mennonite Couple.—Rev. and Mrs. Jacob Stoesz of Mountain Lake, Minn., recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of their wedding at the Bergfelder church. A well arranged program in charge of the oldest son, John A. Stoesz, included: Talks by Miss Anna Stoesz, granddaughter of the couple, on the Heritage of the Children of God; on the family history by a son, Jacob A. Stoesz, and a short address by the Rev. Stoesz himself, on Psalm 126. Daughter Mrs. A. F. Loewen presented the couple with a gold wreath in the name of the family.

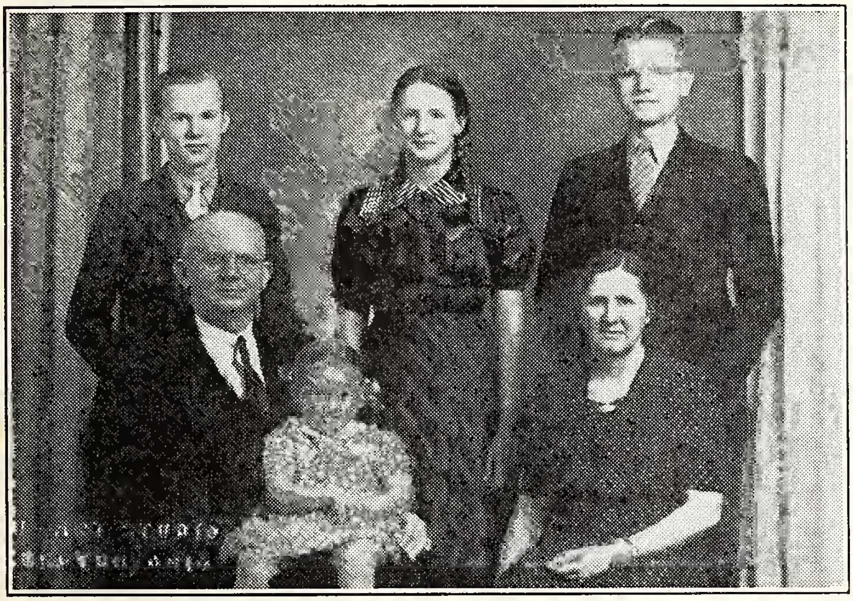
To Our Many Beloved Friends in the Home Churches



Missionary John Thiessen with Family

The time has come again for us to say good-bye to the land of our birth, to our relatives and to our many much appreciated friends. Farewells are never pleasant. It always means a depressed feeling. But for us there is a very special unpleasantness in connection with our present farewell. We have had to say good-bye to our two boys, Harold and Arthur, on February 1, in Bluffton, Ohio. We have taken leave from them for eight years, with the lurking feeling that we will never see them again. But our heavenly Father's care and keeping is with them as well as with us. We are content in Him.

By God's grace we have been able to visit 286 churches in the United States and Canada. We know that very many co-workers in God's kingdom in these churches stand behind us in the watering of the field; with sympathetic understanding, with willingness to write of encouragement, with intercession before the throne of grace, and with contributions. We promise you all again that we want to keep on planting. And we know that God will give the increase.

And now once more a grateful farewell to all. "You have refreshed our spirits," (II Cor. 7:13). We go into our third term of service with courage and hope, and love for our people in India.

—Rev. and Mrs. John Thiessen, Eleanor and Muriel.

P. S. Gifts from Canada for the General Conference Mission work in India and China should be sent, as long as the present war lasts, to Mr. D. W. Friesen, Altona, Manitoba. After the war they may again be sent to Mr. J. E. Regier, Newton, Kansas.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

LENT in its real sense is the putting forth of a man's hand to quiet his own passions and to push them aside, that the higher voices may speak to him and the higher touches fall upon him. It is the making of an emptiness about the soul, that the higher fullness may fill it. Perhaps some day the lower needs may themselves become, and dignify themselves by becoming, the meek interpreters and ministers of those very powers which they once shut out from the soul. There will be no fasting days, no Lent, in heaven. Not because we shall have no bodies there, but because our bodies there will be open to God, the helps and not the hindrances of spiritual communication to our souls.

TRUE PATRIOTS. At times like these, when the public mind is all confused and is losing its moorings, its balance, it is a godsend that there are men who can keep their heads straight, who can envision the future with some degree of certainty, who are not afraid to speak their mind and their convictions, as to the way we should go, the right way, God's way, though thoughtless people brand them as traitors. May God bless such men and give us more like them!

FAITH is the motive power by which we lift and love and live. Faith in Christ gives us power to resist temptations to bear our burdens, to discharge our varying duties, to brave the storms that we encounter. The man without faith curls up and quits, saying, "I can't;" the man of faith harnesses untried energies to the tasks before him and says, "I can." Faith is the key that unlocks the cabinet of God's treasurers; it is letting down our nets into the untried depths, at the Divine command, not knowing what we shall take.

THE COMMON TASK. "To do your daily work honestly and faithfully, whether you ever get thanked for it or not, is everyday heroism. Jesus worked with his hands nearly all his life. I am in good company if I have to work for a living. It is the common work of the human hand that keeps us all from starving to death. It has been a good day for anyone if, at its close, he can honestly sing, "One more Day's Work for Jesus." —Selected

DUTY. The moment you can make a very simple discovery, viz., that obligation to God is your privilege, and is not imposed as a burden, your experience will teach you many things: that duty is liberty, that repentance is a release from sorrow, that sacrifice is gain, that humility is dignity, that the truth from which you hide is a healing element that bathes your disordered life, and that even the penalities and terrors of God are the artillery only of protection to his realm. —Horace Bushnell

TRUTH. "Did God Almighty, holding in his right hand truth, and his left hand search after truth, deign to proffer me the one I might prefer, in all humility, but without hesitation, I should request search after truth, for truth is only for Him."

—Lessing

"The sum of thy word is truth." Psalm 119:160. "O Lord Jehovah, thou art God and thy words are truth." 2 Sam. 7:28.—"The law was given through Moses, grace and truth came through Jesus Christ." John 1:17.—"If ye abide in my word . . . ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." John 8:31, 32.—"When the spirit of truth is come, he shall guide you in all truth." John 16:13.

—The Bible

—PASTORAL MESSAGE: Our world is a sick world—so sick that some people doubt the possibility of recovery. With Jeremiah we ask, "Is there no balm in Gilead? Is there no physician there?" (Jer. 8:22). The New Testament proclaims the answer, "Yes, there is a balm and there is a physician." The physician is JESUS CHRIST (Mark 2:17) and the balm is His message of REDEEMING LOVE. Here is the cure for a sick world. Here is the cure for the sin-sick soul.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

Janjgir, C. P., India, Dec. 2, 1940

Dear Members of the Mission Board:

One year ago today we arrived in Janjgir. This last year brought us sights of a new land, contacts with strange and new people, and a new conception of the drakness of heathenism. Above all it gave us a new realization of God's mercy, grace, and love towards us all.

The welcome of the Janjgir church immediately upon our arrival in the evening of Dec. 2nd was a pleasant ending to the nine weeks' trip. The faces of these people are dark but their smiles and happy welcome indicated that in their lives was a light put there by Him who came to remove darkness from the lives of all men. The next day was Sunday. Thrilling, indeed, it was to see the big Janjgir church packed with Indian Christians. We were conscious of the efforts of the missionaries to win these people to Christ and of the work of God in and through these missionaries. How we wanted to begin work then, but the language—it was all so strange. We were eager to learn Hindi. So we soon had our first Hindi lesson, which meant many hours of tedious, difficult, at times discouraging, but at the same time interesting work. In between language study, we took a few days to visit the other stations. In all of our visits we were amazed and impressed at the work that the missionaries are doing. A search for evidences of fruitful labor is not necessary. It reveals itself.

From the 22nd of April to the 28th of August, we attended school at Landour, Mussoorie. Those were happy days of making new acquaintances, of receiving spiritual inspiration to Christian service, and of applying ourselves to the immediate task of acquiring the language of this land. But our time was not spent in language study only. We both helped with Junior Church services, teaching the missionary children who come there for their education. Mrs. Waltner together with a group of women went to the Landour Hospital every Wednesday afternoon to tell the Gospel to the Indian patients. A group of us men reserved Tuesday evenings for a period of fellowship and devotional meeting with the British soldiers. Just before we left Landour we took our Oral Examinations there and a few weeks later our Written Examinations here in Janjgir. We have since then learned that both of us have been passed in the first division.

Since our return to Janjgir we have begun our second year Hindi language work. We have two pandits meet with us for two classes a day. Besides language study, we have both been given some station work to do. Mrs. Waltner helps in supervising the primary school here and also assists Mrs. Moyer with the Junior Sunday School. In the afternoons of five week days she meets with Indian women, teaching them how to sew. At present I am teaching two classes a week in the Bible School of which Miss Burkhalter is principal. Friday afternoons I go with the Bible students to the different villages to preach and witness. Station repairs have to be done and so I help with whatever may arise in that line. So at present, as we are still studying the language we are getting invaluable personal contacts with the Indian through the various tasks that have been assigned to us.

The past year has inspired us to apply ourselves strenuously to the task of getting the language. It is almost a trite expression to say that there is much work to be done here, but that is the truth. We, therefore, feel that we must get into full time work before long. We are grateful to the many friends at home who have sustained us in their prayers and above all we bow before our Heavenly Father who gives us health, happiness, and great joy to be here. Truly He is with those whom He sends into His service.

Praying that God may use us all in greater services, we are

Sincerely yours, Orlando and Vernelle Waltner

HOME MISSIONS

AN OBSERVATION OF HOME MISSION WORK AS MAY BE SEEN IN PENNSYLVANIA

As one travels along state route No. 164 which leads through the central part of Pennsylvania, one comes into a country that is commonly known as the Allegheny Mountains. This is a hilly country and it is true that one unfamiliar with it would wonder how the farmers could farm the hills but they do.

Between these hills are valleys that are cool even in summer, and in every one there is a beautiful stream of clear water, and in its struggle to get down out of the mountains it tumbles over stones and rounds curves that it looks like a hard job for the stream. This makes a good picture of the farmers in these foot hills' trying to farm a living out of the ground, and one wonders why they stay here. The houses for the most part are made of logs, some have been whitewashed, some have even been weatherboarded. But why do these people stay on here trying to farm? THIS IS HOME and, like everyone, they love their homes. For the most part they are poor, few of them having any of the conveniences that folks in other parts enjoy. Generally they are people easy to get along with, willing but unable to do much, due to position and circumstance. It was in this country that the HOME MISSION BOARD of the General Conference took over the work that had already been started, by Mennonites.

Now let us get a mental picture of the work here in this place. It is Sunday, and as one tops the hill at a certain place, he sees ahead a short, level place in the road and to the left of the highway there is a small church building, a frame structure. It is painted in aluminum color, trimmed in white. There is a bell on the roof, the sound of which sends out an invitation to come and worship; there is a bulletin board announcing the services for the week and the preacher's name. Below the church in a little meadow is a stream of water and a pond because some of these people still prefer to be immersed.

A short distance from the church there is the home of the preacher. But within the church there is a service, just starting. The Superintendent has announced the opening hymn, one of the younger men takes his place at the front of the church to lead the singing. Yes, the one who plays the piano is here today. She must walk two miles and is at least sixty-five years old. The service is started by singing, "I need thee every hour, most Gracious Lord." After the usual opening the classes, of which there are six, take their places, the secretary's report says there are seventy-four on the roll, this morning there are fifty-five present, about the average, offering $2.45. After the closing prayer we enter right away into the church service. Something worth noticing here is that never more than four or five leave at this time. We hear the preacher's voice; "Let us open our service by singing hymn No. 160, "Ye servants of God, your Master proclaim," etc. Then within the room all is quiet until the voice of the preacher is heard reading from the Word from 1 Kings 8:54-66, "And it was so, that when Solomon had made an end of praying all this prayer and supplication unto the Lord," etc. The subject for the morning is, "The importance of prayer in the Christian's life." The text will be found in the sixth chapter of Ephesians and the eighteenth verse, notice the "alls" in this verse. After the service there is handshaking and good fellowship because most of these people only get to see each other at the church.

Throughout the afternoon the quaint little building stands in the quiet country as if in quiet expectation, waiting for the evening service. Now the time is come, the bell sends out the invitation and there is a Young People's meeting at seven, then preaching again at seven thirty. And we watch them go home, some in old model cars, some walking with lanterns to give light along the rough and often muddy roads. They have come for the services, some one mile, some two, some as far as eleven miles over the mountains.

Thanks be to God, and to the Home Mission Board, and to all the good people who give their support.

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by C. H. Suckau

MARCH 1.—"I will heal their land." II Chron. 7:14

"If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

Let us, who are God's people, heed the four admonitions here given during this time of crisis. Let us acknowledge our pride and humble ourselves. Let us watch and pray. Let us lose sight of all else beside and seek His face. Let us confess our wickedness and turn to God. After such vicarious confession and repentance we may expect God to hear from heaven and forgive our sins and heal our land.

MARCH 2.—"He (Satan) should deceive the nations no more." Rev. 20:3

"I saw an angel . . . and he laid hold on the dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil, and Satan, and bound him a thousand years, . . . that he should deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years should be fulfilled."

We see from God's word that it is Satan's business to deceive the nations. He gathers them to battle. Let us recognize this supernatural cause of war and the necessity of a corresponding divine cure. This cure is promised to us in the return of Jesus Christ as Prince of Peace. Therefore let us fervently pray, "Even so, come Lord Jesus."

MARCH 3.—"Casting all your care upon him." I Peter 5:7

What tender love is manifested in these words! God knows that we will have cares in this world of woe. He does not chide us for having cares. But how lovingly He bids us cast our cares upon Him.

Said the Robin to the Sparrow:
"I should really like to know
Why these anxious human beings
Rush about and worry so?"
Said the Sparrow to the Robin:
"Friend, I think that it must be
That they have no heavenly Father
Such as cares for you and me."
—Elizabeth Cheney

MARCH 4.—"I will come again." John 14:3

The teaching concerning the return of the Lord Jesus Christ is receiving more and more prominence in our day. The coming of the Lord is the blessed hope of the church. In this time of distress and fear in the world, it is indeed blessed to know that Jesus Himself has promised to come again.

Even so, come, Precious Lord Jesus;
Creation waits Redemption to see;
Caught up in clouds, Soon we shall meet Thee;
O blessed assurance, Forever with Thee!
—Mabel Johnson Camp

MARCH 5.—"As thy days so shall thy strength be." Deut. 33:25

This was one of the special blessings pronounced upon the Israelitish tribe of Asher. It is a comforting promise to God's people today, to know that we need not concern ourselves with the whole span of life collectively. No, God has divided our life into years, the years into months, the months into weeks, the weeks into days. He says to us, "As thy days, so shall thy strength be."

"Enjoy the blessings of the day if God sends them: and the evils bear patiently and sweetly; for this day only is ours: we are dead to yesterday, and not born to tomorrow." —Jeremy Taylor

MARCH 6.—"Ye believe in God, believe also in me." John 14:1

Jesus had just pointed out to the disciples the dreaded but common disease of heart-trouble. This heart-trouble cannot be cured by human aid. Therefore He says, "Believe in me." Beloved, do you have heart trouble? Heart trouble that no one else can know and no doctor can diagnose? Then come to the one who alone can speak peace to your heart and cure all its hidden and deep-seated troubles, even Jesus Christ who said, "Let not your heart be troubled, ye believe in God, believe also in me."

Peace, perfect peace, our future all unknown?
Jesus we know, and He is on the throne.
—Edward H. Bickersteth

MARCH 7.—"Not I but Christ." Gal. 2:20

How prone we are to reverse as it were the order of this statement and say, "Not Christ but I." How slow we are to make our crucifixion with Christ a blessed reality and say,

Not I but Christ
Be honored, loved, exalted;
Not I but Christ
Be seen, be known, be heard;
Not I, but Christ
In every look and action;
Not I, but Christ
In every thought and word.
—Anonymous

'Tis ever thus, when in life's storm
Hope's star to man grows dim,
An angel kneels in woman's form,
And breathes a prayer for him.

EVANGELISM

THE GOSPEL AS NEWS

The Gospel is news. Although it has been known for nineteen hundred years it is still news in a very real sense. The old Gospel becomes fresh and new with each fresh set of people to whom it is presented because of its application to their particular situation and need. The time and circumstances to which the news are related contribute to make it fresh and vital. Under certain circumstances the Gospel message will be just what people want to hear because it promises help. "Good news" they will call it. It is in this sense that the Gospel is preeminently good news. Some person, for instance, may have been brought into a distressing conflict of mind through the war news and propaganda. He loves peace and would give anything for it, but the war news make him feel that people are bleeding for the ideals which are his own. For him to hear somebody simply quote the sayings of Jesus on how to overcome evil and conquer the world for God will come to him as "good news," because it gives him the assurance that he is on the side of the Eternal Victor when he suffers for peace rather than fight for it.

Another person though well situated in life may be extremely unhappy because he finds no challenging purpose in life which urges him on to make the most of life. He finds life drab for lack of an impelling loyalty. To such a one it will come as "good news" indeed when he hears a Christian friend say with a ring of jubilant satisfaction that from the day that he gave his life to Christ, life has become one great venture which holds ever new experiences with God. Still another person may be struggling under the fear of eternal condemnation not knowing how he may obtain assurance of God's forgiveness. To such a person a friend's testimony that he found release and an abiding peace with God when he put his whole-hearted trust in Christ's Atonement for sin and surrendered himself to the Lord, will come as "good news" because it shows the way out. And thus the circumstances and needs of various people make the old Gospel fascinating and living "news."

OUTLINES OF HYMNOLOGY

With Emphasis on Mennonite Hymnology

edited by Prof. Walter H. Hohmann, M. M., and published by the Board of Publication of the General Conference has just come off the press. It is a paper bound book of 72 pages, and is to be given gratis to churches who order The Mennonite Hymnary, at the rate of one copy for every 25 Hymnaries bought. Its purpose is to assist song leaders, ministers and lovers of church music to make a more appreciative use of our Hymnary, to acquaint our people with our Mennonite heritage in hymnology, and to stimulate greater interest in church music and congregational singing.

Part I of the book traces the history of church hymns, beginning with what may be called the first Christian hymns found in the first two chapters of Luke's Gospel. Then it shows the development of Greek, Latin, German, English and Dutch Hymnody and Psalmody, Gospel Songs, etc.

Part II consists of a carefully compiled chronology of Mennonite Hymn Books, from the sixteenth century down to date. One has to see and examine the book to fully appreciate its very valuable contents.

—J. R. T.

The book may be had at the MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS, OR MENNONITE BOOK CONCERN, BERNE, INDIANA, at 25 cents a copy.

THE AUTHORITY OF CHRIST

Luke 19:41 to 20:8

Introduction

It is greatly important that we should grasp clearly the fact of Christ's authority and understand wherein it consists. Jesus would doubtless have answered the Pharisees' question (v2) had they been willing to accept it and not charge Him with blasphemy if He told them the truth. Christ's authority lies in the fact that He is the Son of God. Because He was divine He had a deeper perception of spiritual truth and could proclaim it with an authority such as none other ever had.

Christ Exercises His Authority vs 41-48

Christ and the throng of people were coming around the southern shoulder of the Mount of Olives and suddenly the magnificent beauty of the city of Jerusalem came into view. He exercised His authority as He predicted the awful fate of the city when it would be utterly destroyed (vs 43, 44). He knew that He could save His people if they would but accept that which was essential to their peace (v42). The city refused to receive Him, the Son of God. Their hardness of heart grieved Him and He wept in anguish of soul. Jesus did not speculate, He spoke with authority.

Christ exercised His authority in cleansing the temple (vs 45, 46). He cast out those who carried on traffic therein and defrauded those with whom they had dealings (cf Mk. 11:15, John 2:14-16). This was a dramatic event. We can see no evidence in the record that Christ used physical force on the persons whom He cast out of the temple. Christ exercised His authority in the house dedicated to prayer and worship (Is. 56:7). Being indignant at the wrongs done in the name of religion, He cleansed the temple. He only exercised His ownership rights. Our church houses are primarily houses of worship, not social centers.

Christ also taught the people with authority (vs 47, 48). Daily He taught in the temple, exercising an authority which the chief priests and scribes resented. He did not speculate, weigh evidence, advance theories, declare suppositions as being probably true. He spoke with the ring of authority and the people were greatly impressed and eager to hear Him.

Christ's Authority Questioned vs 1-8

The chief priests and scribes were moved to jealousy and malice against Christ. He had so totally ignored their authority in the temple when He cleansed it on His own authority. Then, too, He taught openly, not caring for priests and scribes. This angered them and they sent a delegation to interview Him (vs 1, 2). He skillfully evaded their question by asking a question concerning John and his baptism (v4). This question showed up their hypocritical spirit and they dared not answer it (v7). In His answer (v8) Christ clearly implied that He did have authority for what He was doing and teaching. He was Lord of the temple and had a right to cleanse it when those in charge of it neglected to do so.

The enemies of Christ have always denied that His Word has authority above all others. Do we accept and consent fully to the authority of Christ? To do so means to give His will and Word first place in life, making these the rule of our lives. Many believe that His teachings are true, but they do not follow them; even some who call themselves His followers.

How can we make Christ's lordship real in our lives?

What is our supreme reason for accepting Christ's authority?

God set the house of prayer, worship at the center of Israel's national life. What stands at the center of our American national life? At the center of my life?

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST MENNONITE CHURCH OF CHRISTIAN, MOUNDRIDGE, KANSAS

Since this church has not been heard from for a long time, this humble, newly-elected correspondent will mention just a few of the various events which occurred in our congregation during the past year.

We must say that it has been a very prosperous year in many respects for our church members. We are very thankful for the many material and spiritual blessings, which we have received. But we must also report that sickness and sorrows have not spared our congregation. During the past year, two of our members were called to their reward, namely, Mr. David Bechtel on August 25, age 79 years, and Mrs. Jacob Ewy on November 26, age 62 years.—The following officers served our C.E. Society: President, Paul Goering; Secretary, Ruby Schrag; Treasurer, Linda Kaufman. Mr. Ed Schrag directed the Ladies' Chorus, the Men's Chorus, and the Mixed Choir. As has been our custom, the Choir again presented an Easter Cantata on Easter Sunday evening. The sisters, who are members of the Sewing Society, have worked diligently in the field of Christian benevolence and much good was accomplished. The work of this Society was directed by Mrs. C. H. Goering, President; Mrs. Ed C. Schrag, Secretary; and Mrs. P. P. Wedel, Treasurer.— On Sunday, May 26, our pastor baptized and received into our church membership 18 young souls. After the baptismal services, we observed the Lord's Supper with these new converts. On Sunday, July 14, Mrs. Cecil Mae Stucky and her two sons, Richard and Robert, became members of our church through baptism.

The annual church meeting was held in October. Mr. Herbert Kaufman was elected as a new member on the Board of Trustees. Our church has 353 members. Twenty-three new members were admitted during the past year, 21 by baptism and 1 by letter. Six non-resident members joined other churches. In 1940 there were three marriages and two deaths. The congregation gave $1,605.01 for foreign missions, $752.23 for home missions, and $652.00 for relief. Our Church Building Fund has accumulated to the amount of $7,750.51. Dr. P. S. Goertz of Bethel College occupied the pulpit on Thanksgiving Day forenoon.— Last year the Sunday School enrollment was 252, with 18 classes. The School presented a fine Christmas program on Christmas Eve. On Christmas morning Rev. A. E. Kreider brought a very fitting message on "Glory to God in the Highest." Holy Communion was observed following Reverend Kreider's sermon.

In September our dear pastor, Rev. P. P. Wedel, became quite ill. Since his recovery from this illness was rather slow and since he needed some time to regain his strength, he was not able to serve our congregation for about four months. We are very grateful to all the ministers who brought the Word of God to us during that time. Our pastor was remembered in many ways during his illness, but especially in prayer. The love of the congregation for its pastor was further expressed in a benevolent way at Christmas time.—At this writing we are glad to report that our heavenly Father has restored his health and strength to such an extent that he is again able to preach regularly each Sunday.

EBENEZER MENNONITE CHURCH NEAR BLUFFTON, OHIO

We had two wonderful feasts the last couple months. Ours being a country church we take our vacations in winter, not in Florida though, just to vacate from hard labor and feast upon the Word of God. The Table was spread before us on December 1 to 6, by Rev. John Baergen of Villa Park, Ill. The evening services started with Bible study at 7:00. The half hour was very profitably spent in studging I Tim. Rev. Baergen had a full week as he spoke to several organizations and also in the College Chapel. The evening meetings were evangelistic and one soul was saved, a young man who had recently married into the church and who is now a regular attendent and a great help in establishing a Christian home.

Another table that was spread with precious things was when Dr. M. R. DeHaan, an outstanding Bible Teacher and Radio preacher of Detroit, Mich., gave us food for hungry souls in the form of Bible lectures. From Sunday P. M., January 19, through Wednesday 22, his subjects were, "The Days of Noah Repeated," "The Doom of Russia and End of the Age," "The Translation of the Church," "The Jew in Prophecy." Every afternoon a Bible study class was held and the theme of his studies was "Love for the Word of God." The Bible is a dry book to those who have no love for it. To love God is to love His Word. (I Cor. 2:14,15.) Dr. DeHaan made such a favorable impression the first meeting that scores of people never missed a meeting and asserted that they just couldn't stay away. He is gone from us but his books and his Radio Bible class are ever with us.

GRACE MENNONITE CHURCH, PANDORA, O.

On the evening of January 19, the John Thiessen family gave a farewell service before leaving to resume their work as missionaries in India, both Mr. and Mrs. spoke and the children rendered a musical number. On the evening of the 23rd Rev. M. Lehman, recently returned from relief work in Europe, spoke to a joint meeting of the four churches at First Mennonite Church, Bluffton. On February 9, President L. L. Ramseyer presented the work and need of Bluffton College to the church and the following Sunday an offering was taken for the College.

Our choir is busy rehearsing the cantata, "Olivet to Calvery" by J. H. Haunders, to be given April 13 in the evening. The church will conduct its annual pre-Easter services from March 23 to 30 with Rev. William H. Stauffer of Sugar Creek, Ohio as speaker. He will use the following subjects:

The Master's Call, The Master and Men, The Master's Joy, The Master's Trust, The Master's Sincerity, The Master's Patience, The Master's Indignation, The Master's Self-Restraint, The Master's Generosity, The Master's Strength.

BETHANY BIBLE SCHOOL, MUNICH, N. DAK.

Greetings with I Cor. 3:9, "For we are laborers together with God." This is the verse the seniors have chosen for their class motto.—We are sorry to relate that school will soon close. The 21st of March will be the last day of school, although the last week will be only examinations on all the different subjects, so we plan on having our closing program the 16th of March. The following program will be rendered:

Leader, Richard Hooge
Introduction, Choir—Mixed Quartet
"What the Bible School has meant to me,"
Jacob Hoffman

Ladies Chorus, Instrumental Number
Talk, Prin. of School, Rev. Walter
Double Quartet—Male Quartet
Scripture Contest—Anna Hoffman and Viola Klein
Solo—Mixed Octet—Choir
Close

Lately much has been done to make the Year Book. The school decided to call the book, "Bethany Echoes." Anyone desiring a book can abtain it by writing to the Bethany Bible School. A member of each class was chosen to make some reports of the different classes, Alma Janzen for Class I, Mildred Ortman for Class II, and Olga Thiessen for Class III.

The commencement exercises will be held Friday night, March 21, at 7:30. The speaker is to be Rev. A. E. McCracken of Fargo, N. Dak. We are all looking forward to a blessed time. The program will be given as follows that night:

Choir selection
Scripture reading, Rev. H. F. Ortman
Prayer, Rev. B. B. Fadenrecht
Commencement Address, Rev. A. E. McCracken
Presentation of diplomas and close by Rev. Ed. Duerksen

The above is intersperced with choir selections.

Perhaps some would like to know how this school is financed. Each student pays a small sum for tuition, which is the teacher's salary. The up-keep of the school is done by voluntary gifts and free will offerings. We invite you to a substantial partnership in this enterprise.

With gratitude for your prayerful and loyal cooperation, I am yours in the crucified, coming Christ.

Mildred Ortman, Corr.

IN MEMORIAM

JOSEPH C. GRABER, son of Peter and Verena Graber, was born in Russia, May 24, 1857. In the spring 1873 he was baptized by Elder John Schrag, on the confession of his faith and received into the Mennonite church. In 1874 he migrated with his parents to their new home in South Dakota. On the 23rd of October, 1880, he was married to Sister Anna Graber, by the Rev. Christian Kaufman. In 1885 they moved to Pretty Prairie, Kans. On August 27, 1930, the Lord took his wife from his side, and on October 9, 1933, he found in Mrs. Lucy Shark, another helpmate. As a young man he contracted bronchial asthma. As he grew older it became worse. On January 17 he took sick with the flu. He did not want to get well any more, but said, "As the Lord wills," and on January 28, 1941, the Lord took him home. He obtained the age of 83 years, 10 months, and 4 days. He leaves his wife, six daughters, Lizzie, Anna, Frances, Martha, Ida, and Emma; one son, Joe C., Junior; three daughters-in-law, Mrs. Henry C., Mrs. Emil C., and Mrs. Joe C., Jr., five sons-in-law, Simon Stucky, Tobias Schrag, Christ Schrag, Amos Stucky, and J. J. Goering, 57 grandchildren, twenty great-grandchildren; two brothers, Jacob K. Graber and John P. O. Graber; also five half brothers and one half sister, besides many friends and relatives to mourn his death. Funeral services were held in the Mennonite Church by the Rev. P. P. Tschetter in German, and by Rev. R. L. Foster in English.

CHRISTIAN ADOLF HIRSCHLER, the son of David and Barbara Hirschler, was born September 11, 1855, at Franklin, Iowa, and died recently at his home at the age of 85 years, having spent nearly all his life in Lee County, Iowa. He was a life long member of the Zion Mennonite Church. On February 14, 1884, he married Anna Refior in the David Hirschler home, east of Dover. Besides his wife, there are surviving his son, Ralph E. Hirschler; three daughters, Edna at home, Mrs. Cora E. Able and Mrs. Olga B. Grant, both of Donnellson. There are also four sisters, Mrs. Mary Benjamin of Fort Madison, Mrs. Christina Krehbiel of Pratum, Ore., Mrs. Katherine Mattern and Mrs. Hulda Koller of Donnellson; five brothers, Jacob H. of Haywood, Calif., Gustav D. of Gladstone, Ore., Oswald E. of Cucamonga, Calif., August H. and Otto M. of Donnellson.

The funeral services were held in the Zion Mennonite Church, Sunday afternoon,————, and were conducted by his pastor, the Rev. Adolf Friesen.

MRS. MARY ANN KEINER, 93, died January 16, 1941, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Amos Gerber, southwest of Bluffton, Ohio. A native of Canton, Bern, Switzerland, Mrs. Keimer came to this country when she was twenty years old. Her husband, Benjamin Keiner, preceded her in death in 1920. Surviving are her two daughters, Mrs. Amos Gerber, and Mrs. Frank Burkholder, a foster son, George Bixler, Ft. Wayne, Ind., and one brother, Solomon Bixler, Geneva, Ind. Mrs. Keiner was a member of the Ebenezer Mennonite church where funeral services were held by her pastor, Rev. P. A. Kliewer, on Sunday January 19.

MRS. SUSANNA STAUFFER, nee Schantz, was born in Lower Milford Township, September 30, 1846, the daughter of Rev. Joseph and Maria Moyer Schantz.

On April 16, 1864, she was baptized upon her faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, and admitted into the membership of the Upper Milford Church, by the late Rev. Christian Clemmer. Her transfer to West Swamp dates back many years, exact date lost. She was united in holy marriage with Daniel G. Stauffer, October 13, 1866. Four sons were born into this union: Oliver S. who died in 1879, those surviving their aged mother are: Joseph S. and Robert S., Milford Square and Herbert S., Dublin. She is also survived by four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Her husband preceeded her in death, April 15, 1911. The home-going came when she fell asleep late in the evening of January 29, thus bringing her age to 94 years, 3 months and 29 days. For many years she made her home with her son Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Stauffer.

Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, her Pastor conducted the funeral Service in the West Swamp Church, using Job 5:26 as text. Interment adjoining cemetery.

Tuno is Dead

by S. T. Moyer

Tuno is dead. When I heard the news, my memory took wings over the decades. One vision after another came to mind.

Back in the first or second decade of this century came his father and his stalwart sons to the village of Sukhri. The headman had called them from the southlands to clear the jungles and carve out the village lands from the forests and undergrowth. Long hours had they labored and perspired. The sons married and built small jungly huts for their brides. The Headman in return for their services gave them a tract of lowlying swampy land beyond the outskirts of the clearing. If tigers and panthers roamed over that tract as yet uncleared, or if wild hog and wild deer should destroy the crops that they might be able ultimately to sow, well, it was just too bad.

The years fled by. When Missionaries Steiner and Wiens came to the village of Sukhri, Tuno was the first convert baptised in that whole area by our missionaries. He was the oldest son of his father. During a morning service they were baptised under a Mauhawa tree. They had no church building. That afternoon, before God and the little group of believers, Tuno dedicated his children to the Lord. The oldest sons retained their names, but little three year old Cito became Phillip, and an unnamed infant in the mother's arms became Joseph.

The years again had the habit of flying by. The edge of the jungle was steadily pushed back. The swamps were drained and cleared. The Headman with covetous eyes gave Tuno and his brothers no end of trouble in trying to seize by fair means and foul those fields. For after years of sweat and labor, of felling the trees and tussling with stumps and roots, of building walls around the fields and determining water courses they were a prize to be had: they were always well watered; crops never failed due to slack rains; fertility from the higher fields naturally seeped down. We too were on the edge of the jungle of man-soul struggling valiantly with Tuno to keep his possessions from being stolen.

A year ago Tuno, now of patriarchal age, called together his sons and his daughters, their wives and their husbands, their little ones, his grandchildren. He recounted with them how he had come penniless to that country from the south. He reviewed how God had protected and had prospered them. He praised God before them that He had sent His messengers to that village to bring them the precious message of Jesus. And then after that memorable family gathering his children and his children's children scattered to their homes. Within one year he was dead.

When I heard the news of his death, I could not help but do some recounting of God's blessings on my own. For when Tuno was received as the first convert by our missionaries in that area, that little group after the first baptismal service numbered about sixteen souls. For forty miles to the East, except for Gopal and a few like him, none knew nor heard of the name of Christ.

What is the story of the years at that one station? Today:—There are at least 53 villages in that area to the East where live our Christians.—There are 18 regular places of Sunday worship established.—Instead of a Mauhawa tree as a place of worship, there are now 8 houses of worship largely or entirely built by the converts themselves, and entirely maintained by them.—For practically every one of the 365 days of the year, regular sunset worship is carried on in from 25 to 30 different places.—Six shepherds from amongst their own flock shepherd a community of close to 2,500 souls.—For the last five years, the average number of converts baptised year after year, for five years, has been 120 per year.—Are there any difficulties or problems? Yes, plenty! A wise mother once said that as the children grow older, the problems of the home increase rather than decrease. So with the church. But with the problems and sufferings and persecutions and sins and shortcomings, Christ is gloriously at work.

AN OBSERVATION OF HOME MISSION WORK

These people here in this section have been privileged to unite their voices and hearts with the multitudes the world over, in worshiping and praising the GOD of all GRACE. A part of the burden of the expense in carrying on this work is borne by the people here, however, the greater part is borne by the Home Mission Board, without whose help the work would not be done. In the past six years forty-eight souls have made public confession of CHRIST as their Savior.

The Quiet Time

Oh, what is life if, full of care,
We have no quiet time for prayer;
If in the busy rush of things
We see no glint of angels' wings,
Nor hear, amid the strife and din,
The still small Voice that speaks within;
If we so crowd the passing hours
With tasks that weary all our powers,
Then seek our rest in earthly pleasure,
And miss the joy of heavenly treasure;
If we can find no time to brood
On things divine, in solitude,
Nor tread the mystic way of love
That leads the souls to realms above—
Oh, what is life if, full of care,
We have no quiet time for prayer?

May I Accept Non-Combatant Service?

Yes, if it does not interfere with my relationship to God. I love to be in close fellowship with my Father. If I disobey His Will and love not my enemies I lose that close fellowship. "Love your enemies"—the all-sufficient "yardstick." Apply it on any thing you like.

I was offered a construction job on a bomb-proof bombing plane hangar. I applied the "yardstick" of "love your enemies." I did not take the job. Why? Because building a house for enemy-destroying "birds" was not and cannot be an act of love toward my enemy.

Apply the "yardstick" to raising wheat, corn, or any type of non-combatant service. For instance, if you raise a crop of wheat because you want "Our Boys" to be well fed so that they may kill the enemy before he slays you and for the big wartime profits which you may be able to make, then may God have mercy on you. But, if you do it because you have a passion and a love for hungry men, women, and children who need food whether they be friend or enemy, then raise your wheat and your corn with a prayer in your heart that EVERY hungry mouth may be fed.

Certainly God's arm has not grown short, and if you are confronted with any problem concerning non-combatant service then take it to God in prayer. This is the best suggestion I can give.

—Harry Albrecht, Wash. Y. P. Representative

BLUFFTON COLLEGE NOTES

Final registration shows 209 students taking regular college grade work and 11 taking work in the conservatory of music. The net enrollment is slightly less this semester than the first semester.

While in Indiana, Prof. I. W. Bauman, chairman of the Retreat Committee, conferred with ministers of the Central Illinois Conference in respect to the Young People's Retreat for this and the Middle District Conference. The retreat will again be held at Quaker Haven, Indiana, from August 4 to 10.

Miss Betty Kenney, Miss Frances Beckenbach, Bert Smucker, Paul Martin, and Walter Kirk, all members of the Bluffton College Peace Club, attended a conference of Christian Pacifists at Ahimsa Farm, Aurora, Ohio, over the week-end of February 8. The Rev. Carl Landes, now rural secretary for the F. O. R., was one of the leaders.

The Men's Gospel Team Quartet, composed of Leonard Metzker, Robert Sommer, John Boehr, and James Habbeger, completed a week-end tour of churches in Indiana. Churches visited were,Topeka, Eighth Street in Goshen, Silver Street, and Middlebury.

About twenty-three Bluffton College students attended the annual International Institute, held at Wilberforce University, a University for negroes. Last week a group of Wilberforce students with the Professor of Sociology visited Bluffton. The students sang negro spirituals and Professor Yarbough spoke on the various problems faced by the negro. He presented some revealing facts of racial discrimination and stressed the attempts made by Nazi and Communist groups to get the support of the negroes.

Though the negro has not been very susceptible to this type of propaganda in the past, there is danger that some may be won over.

WHY READ THE "MENNONITE YOUTH" SECTION

Rom. 12:4-9

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Blest be the tie that binds," "What a fellowship, what a love divine," "I would be true."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Special music—use songs out of "Mennonite Hymnary."
4. Offering for expenses of Young People's Committee.

II. Leader's Introduction

It is a privilege that we as young people have a share in the making of our own church paper, The Mennonite. This offers us an opportunity to give expression to our own religious convictions, it gives us a chance to speak of our ideals, it is a bond of fellowship between the young people of the East and the West, the North and the South, it enables us to work more efficiently at common projects, it helps us to grow in abiity, to carry on the work of the church which will be our responsibility in even a larger measure as we grow older, it is a means of growing in grace and knowledge.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. What topics in this section have been of the meditative, devotional type within the last three months? Give a review of one of them.
2. Reading of two or three poems which have come in this section.
3. Review of story: "The Latchstring" (Jan. 21 and 288).
4. Review of Article: "Union Projects after Two Years" by Wm. Juhnke (in Nov. 26, 1940 number).
5. Talk on Retreat work as presented in the Youth section within the last half year.

6. Talk on Peace Work (Rallies, Y. P. Meetings, F. O. R. Work) as reported in Youth section within the last three months.

7. Review of article, "Student Co-op Tour" by Esko Loewen (Dec. 1940)

IV. For Discussion

1. Is the program material brought in the Youth section suitable for our own use?

2. Do we use any of the suggestions that are given under "Worship Service?"

3. Would it be helpful to have more poetry, or more short "Thought" nuggets?

4. Should the "Illustrations" given be retold by some one at our meetings?

5. What use can we make of the "Leader's Introduction" and "Facts for Study" in preparing for our programs?

(Will the societies please appoint some one to take notes on these discussions, and please send these notes to the editor of the Youth section:— Mr. Reynold Weinbrenner, Beatrice, Nebr., or to Mrs. Gerhard Friesen, Newton, R. R. 2. Kansas.)

V. Facts for Study

There is need for some way of communicating thought between the young people. Young people are deeply religious, and have high ideals. They have a lot of strength and enthusiasm to go ahead in carrying them out in practical,everday living.

Through the "Youth" section they can share the inspiration they gain at the retreats, the resolves they make at the peace rallies, the projects of often far-reaching nature which are planned at the conventions. They find mention of wider movements and valuable reading material off and on. The C. E. departments offer help for the planning of C. E. programs—programs where young people meet from time to time to share in the world-wide task of "Building the Kingdom of God."

VI. Food for Thought

The "Youth" section is like an instrument. Its value increases with its use.

JESUS AND OUR RECREATION

March 16, 1941

Opening Song, "I Need Thee Every Hour."
Scripture Reading, Luke 5:27-34.
Prayer by Superintendent.

Recreation is not the highest kind of enjoyment, but in its time and place is quite as proper as prayer. S. I. Prime.

Song, "Just for Today."

Discussion

1. What has been the program of recreation carried on by your church?

2. Have there been too many or too few parties?

3. Have they been worthwhile?

4. How do they compare with other amusements in the community?

5. Have they interested other young people who are not members of the group?

6. Is there a real need that the church shall have a program of recreation for young people? If so, what should be the character of its program?

7. How many social events should we have during the year?

8. How can we have them varied in character?

9. What are some of the rules by which Jesus tested His recreation?

10. Do we follow the above rules in our recreation?

Scripture References

Jesus at a wedding, John 2:1-11.
Care in Speech, Col. 4:6.
Christ first in everything, Col. 1:18.
Pursue good conduct, Tit. 3:1-7.
Qualities of goodness, Tit. 1:6-9.
The best recreation, Psalm 1.

Song, "Work, For the Night is Coming."
Offering.

Quotations:

Recreation is not being idle; it is easing the wearied part by change of occupation. To re-create strength, rest. To re-create mind, repose. To re-create cheerfulness, hope in God, or change the object of attention to one more elevated and worthy of thought. —C. Simmons

The mind ought sometimes to be diverted, that it may return the better to thinking. —Phoedrus

It is doing some service to humanity to amuse innocently; and they know very little of society who think we can bear to be always employed, either in duties or meditations without any relaxation. —Sir P. Sidney

Snog, "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us."
Mizpah Benediction.

Worship: MEDITATION AND PRAYER

Setting:— Copy following verse on the blackboard:

Prayer makes the darkest hour withdraw;
Prayer climbs the ladder Jacob saw,
Gives excercise to faith and love,
Brings every blessing from above.
—Wm. Cowper

I Worship Period

1. Prelude, Soft Music

2. Call to Worship, James 4:8a. Draw nigh to God, and He will draw nigh to you.

3. Worship in Song, Draw Me Nearer. S. H. 242.

4. Worship in Scripture, I John 5:10-14.

5. Leader's Opening Prayer

6. Introductory Remarks, by Leader.

II. Study Period

Let us use our Bibles and see what God's Word teaches us concerning prayer. (The Leader may use the questions and Bible references in which ever way she thinks they will be most effective.)

1. By what title does the psalmist address God? Ps. 65:2.
2. Of whom does the Bible teach that God is a rewarder? Heb. 11:6.
3. Upon what conditions are we promised needed blessings? Matt. 7:7, 8.
4. How must we ask in order to receive? James 1:6, 7.
5. What does Christ say concerning secret prayer? Matt. 6:6.
6. To what place did Jesus retire for secret devotion? Matt. 14:23.
7. For whom did Christ teach us to pray? Matt. 5:44. Note:—We cannot hate those for whom we pray.
8. With what should our prayers be mingled? Phil. 4:6.
9. Song
10. How often should we pray? Eph. 6:18; I Thess. 5:17; Ps. 145:2.
11. By what means can we escape temptations? Matt. 26:41.
12. What encouragement does the Bible give us in regard to helping us in our weakness in prayer? Rom. 8:26.
13. Is there any limit to God's ability to help? Eph. 3:20.
14. How fully has God promised to supply our needs? Phil. 4:19.
15. If an answer does not come at once what should we do? Ps. 37:7.
16. From whom does every good and perfect gift come? James 1:17.
17. Leader's Heart Talk.
18. Song, "Sweet Hour of Prayer" S. H. 283.

III. Mission Minutes

1. A discussion of the letter by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Johnson found in the February number of "Missionary News and Notes." Have a map of the U. S. and point out to the Juniors just where this field is located. A short discussion of our Mission work there and our Missionaries there will make this letter of more interest to the Juniors.
2. Prayer for God's protection over His work and His workers.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat verse for the month.
2. Memorize verse of the song for the month and sing the song.
3. Pray the prayer for the month.

—Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander of Quakertown, Pa., writes that Grandmother Stauffer, whose obituary is found under "In Memoriam," has an interesting history. Her life of over 94 years spans the forming of the Eastern Dist. Conference in 1847—the starting of the General Conference in 1860 until now. Her husband was keenly interested in spreading information regarding the development of the General Conference. He was a printer and helped in putting out "Der Familien Freund."

« « JOTTINGS » »

—Rev. W. S. Gottshall, whom many of the readers of this paper affectionately remember, is still living with his daughter Flora's family, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Geiger, 1989 Nellawood, East Cleveland, Ohio. She reports that her father's condition is no better, but he is always delighted to hear from any of his friends. He likes to have The Mennonite read to him. He enjoys the news very much. Many of the items bring back fond memories. Let us remember the brother in our prayers, and with tokens of appreciative remembrance of him. The Geigers have a son who as a freshman in the large Princeton University is maintaining an A standing. Mrs. Geiger concludes the letter thus: "I wish I could tell you how grand my husband is in helping take care of father." How true: "I will pour my blessing upon thine offspring." Is. 44:3b.

—Salem-Zion Church, near Marion, S. Dak.—A committee of three, consisting of our church choir director and two directors of general church singing reported favorably on the new "Mennonite Hymnary," and expressed themselves as being heartily in favor of it. Consequently an order for 200 copies of this fine book will be placed soon. —Corr.

—Bethel College Church, North Newton, Kansas.—This church recently purchased 308 copies of The Mennonite Hymnary which were fittingly dedicated to their use in a short service. Although the church had about 250 Mennonite Hymn Books in fairly good condition, it was felt that the new book would serve the spiritual life and interests of the congregation so much better than the old book that a change was well worth the financial sacrifice.—The church is meeting once a week for the next month or longer to make a study of Hymnology, using Prof. Hohmann's "Outlines" described elsewhere in this paper as a guide, with Professors Hohmann and A. E. Kreider as leaders.

—Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pa., the town where the next General Conference is to be held had a Red Letter Day, Sunday, February 16, with programs extending into the week. The occasion was the dedication of the greatly enlarged and remodelled church auditorium. Dr. J. E. Hartzler preached the dedicatory sermon in the morning. Rev. Olin Krehbiel delivered a message at the Conference service in the afternoon, while other Conference ministers extended greetings. Tuesday evening the program was centered on the Sunday School, Wednesday evening on the Community, and Thursday evening on the Organizations of the church. We hope to be able to get the cut of the stately looking church and bring a brief sketch of the interesting history of this congregation.

—"THE CHRISTIAN CENTURY" recently published the following comment: "THE MENNONITE HYMNARY. Edited by Walter H. Hohmann and Lester Hostetler. Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kansas. One of the best edited and most attractive of the recent hymnals. After the main body of the book, containing 400 well chosen hymns of the more substantial and classic sort, there are sections devoted to hymns for children, gospel hymns and metrical psalms and a particularly interesting collection of about seventy chorales arranged according to the seasons of the Christian year."

—Rev. J. P. Glanzer, Shafter, Calif., reports the following newly wedded couples, members of his church, and recommends them for gift subscriptions to The Mennonite: Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Neufeld, Corcoran, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Albert Froese, Shafter, Calif.

—Deep Run Mennonite Church, Pa.,—Due to the ill health of Mrs. Fretz, Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Fretz have not been able to worship with us much of late, otherwise activities continue about as usual. Choir practice continues, and Bible study will be resumed in the spring. Glad to report an Intermediate C. E. was organized with Mrs. Russell Mast as leader. Much interest is shown. —Corr.

—Roaring Spring Menn. Church, Pa.—We have a neat, interesting Year Book of this church. Rev. Willard Claassen is pastor of the group and Rev. Arthur Snyder, associate. The pastor conducted 45 Bible Study-Prayer services, preached 50 sermons and made 785 pastoral calls. The booklet lists a board of six trustees but no deacons. The church has a regulation that those who show no interest in the church by attendance or support are placed on the "inactive list." They are then notified twice by letter, at an interval of six months, if there is no response their names will be taken from the church roll. This may appear somewhat drastic, but the "ballast" that some churches we know of are carrying of members who have not been heard from is certainly not commendable.

—Bethel College—One of the wide-awake students from Aberdeen, Idaho, Mr. Orlando Wiebe, '42, has been elected president of the Student Christian Movement for the coming year, and Miss Frances Becker of Ringwood, Okla., vice president. This is the strongest and largest organization on the campus.—From a member of the S. C. M.: "How shall we interpret what is meant by holiness without which no man shall see God? Simply this, God wants men to set apart their lives for His use regardless of the vocation they enter. This involves . . . accepting Jesus Christ as Lord and Master of our lives. With Him as a center of reference holy living is possible. Holiness then characterizes that type of life in which every thought and every deed is evaluated and incorporated when it fits into His plan for our lives."

—Freeman Junior College.—Prof. John B. Toews, in charge of the Bible department had a part in the annual Bible conference of Tabor College, February 7 to 9.—Miss Aganetha Loewen, teacher of English, is taking out time to finish her work for the Master's degree at the University of Minnesota. Miss Caroline A. Waltner, for many years a valued instructor, but retired from active service, as a good standby is filling the vacancy.—About 15 students with some faculty members gave a gospel program to the residents of the Turner county poor farm, which pleased so well that they were invited to return.

—Mennonite Church, Buhler, Kansas.—The local fellowship officers attended the annual Bethel College Fellowship meeting. This past year our Fellowship contributed $647.00 to the College, an average of $2.74 per church member or $12.94 per donor.

Is it Worth Trying?

President H. J. Burgstahler, of Ohio Wesleyan University, has made a proposal that deserves thorough discussion in these days when all Christians want to take some positive action against war.

He proposes that the churches of the United States shall ask our President and the Congress to call for an armistice: "to call together all of the belligerent nations and as many other nations as are vitally interested—such nations as Russia, the United States, the South American republics, Turkey—and have thrown on the table the requests of all belligerent nations. Face the issues clearly and see if there is not some possible conciliation of these differences that have resulted in this terrible war."

The Editor of The Christian Advocate is well aware of the fact that many sincere people believe that such a procedure holds no hope, and that any peace concluded with Hitler may be little more than an armistice. But, in the name of the millions of boys who will have to bear arms, and the millions of women and children who are living in front lines, this editor believes that some such plan is worth trying. After the fighting and dying have been done the nations of the earth will sit around a table and talk peace. Why not try to do it before so many men have given their lives? —The Christian Advocate

MEETING OF WOMEN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETIES OF THE WESTERN DISTRICT CONFERENCE

War conditions have brought about problems for our missionary societies, that are best solved as a group rather than by individual societies. The Executive Committee has therefore planned a meeting of all the societies during the Bethel College Bible Week. The date selected is Wed., March 12 from 4:30 to 7:00 o'clock p. m. in the basement of the First Mennonite Church of Newton.

A very simple evening meal is planned, which will not entail much work nor expense, and which will leave a maximum of time for fellowship and business. Coffee will be served and each lady is asked to bring just enough sandwiches for herself. An offering will be taken for relief and civilian camp work and it is suggested that each member contribute the ordinary price of a luncheon or dinner plate. These are difficult times and we need to pray and plan together. All women who find it at all possible are urged to attend this meeting.

GOD'S WORD

"Thy testimonies are wonderful." Psalm 119:129. Every true Christian will subscribe to the truth of this utterance by the Psalmist. God's words are wonderful! They with the redeeming grace of Christ are everything to us. Like the pearls on a necklace they awaken our admiration, are our chief delight. They are the food of our soul, our bread of life. As the hart pants for the waterbrook, so our famishing spirit is quenched by His Word. We are saved, we are made clean by the Word of redemption in Jesus Christ, and are sanctfied by His truth. His Word serves as our guiding light out of darkness. We hide His Word in our hearts to fortify ourselves against the onslaughts of the evil one, as our Savior did when tempted. His Word is our message in sermon and song. At midnight it gives us comfort and solace and in the morning it fills our hearts and lips with songs of praise. When we go astray, it is His Word that can bring us back to the fold. When we need wisdom and counsel, His Word is the only reliable source. —T.

Thy Word is like a garden Lord, with flowers bright and fair;
And every one who seeks may pluck a lovely cluster there.
Thy Word is like a deep, deep mine, and jewels rich and rare
Are hidden in its mighty depths, for every searcher there.
—Edwin Hodder

The World After the War

Irrespective of who wins the present war, an attempt will be made to create a new world order or set-up. Political economists and scientists, and social reformers here and there have been conjecturing what the new order may or will be, and a good deal has been written about it. But all this must be considered largely guess work, as even the leaders of the nations at war cannot be said to have a very definite idea. For, much depends on the condition in which the world will be when this terrible carnage and endless destruction now going on will be over. Perhaps H. G. Wells' book, "The New World Order," comprises as good a guess as any. He holds that the present war is a foolish struggle, emanating from minor issues, and is merely delaying or even preventing a world adjustment that is due. He is looking for a social revolution "profounder even than the revolution attempted by the communists in Russia." Hitler seems to envision a revolution along economic lines, an adjustment that is to give to people generally the things that they need and ought to have. Those known as the "have-nots" are to disappear. As for our country, it is felt that because of the leading role that it plays among the nations, it will hold out for a new, justifiable international economic system, perhaps in a union of nations somewhat on the pattern of the United States; if not all nations, then a great federal union of our country, Canada and England as a nucleus, which other nations would be invited to join, to form a great world republic. While the totalitarian nations are yearning to have things which they have been denied so long as "have-nots" and thus favor a readjustment of international scope, the democracies seem to hold that an adjustment tending toward internationalism may bring about the abolition of war. As in the past, wars have been caused by the overlapping of national interests, so it is with the present conflict. Hence the supposition or argument, that if nations were abolished, wars would come to a stop. Thus there is envisioned a sisterhood of nations, of all nations if possible, with national distinctions obliterated. A fine dream of reform philosophers, is it not? But the question: Would the scheme work? They forget that, whether nations or no nations, the root of war is sin, and no human schemes can eradicate it. It will continue to do its ugly work as long as the world, as it now is, continues to exist. Although if the leaders of the people could get together in a friendly, brotherly attitude, forgetting selfish interests, conditions might be brought about that would make the lives of the down-trodden on the earth more bearable, more tolerable. This is worthy of our hopes and the prayers of all honest Christians, but hardly realizable unless the great majority of people the world over should experience such a change of heart as was the case of the five thousand on the Day of Pentecost. However, wars are pretty sure to continue until our Christ returns to earth to establish His reign of peace and righteousness. Before that event takes place, even if nationalism could be abolished, there would be internal strifes, sectional strifes, because of the perversion of the human heart. —T.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

Champa, C. P., India, Oct. 29, 1940

Our dear friends,

Our paper states that the boat on which this letter is to go is due in New York on Dec. 10th., in good time for Christmas. Though communications are somewhat dislocated, yet we are grateful to God that it is yet possible to correspond with our dear friends and relatives in the United States.

Mrs. Penner and I wish for you all a most blessed Christmas Season. Although the world is torn and bleeding, yet it is possible to believe that God has His hand on the throttle. This world will not run away with Him. The Prince of Peace shall and will reign. This assurance alone is a blessing vouchsafed again to us at Christmas time.

This is probably our last greeting from India's soil where we have been privileged to spend 40 happy years. Now the time is near when we must entrust our share of the work into younger and more efficient hands. To leave India will not be easy. There will be a tug at our heart strings as we bid farewell to our dear, good fellow workers, the Indian Christians and many non-Christians and especially our lepers with whom for almost 38 years we have shared joys and sorrows. India has become almost a part of us.

I WISH THEE PEACE

"Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you."
John 14:27.

I WISH THEE PEACE! The Earth is full of trouble,
And days are marked by rush, and strain and test;
And life grows one unceasing round and struggle;
I wish thee peace! God's peace,—thy heart's deep rest!

I WISH THEE PEACE! the peace of sins all taken,
All cleansed away through Christ's atoning blood;
The peace that rests, untroubled and unshaken,
Since God's redeeming grace is understood.

I WISH THEE PEACE! peace past all understanding,
Which comes through prayer, and loving God's dear Word;
So shall thy life be fruitful, strong, outstanding,—
And thou shalt be of service to thy Lord.
Luke 2:14. —I. Danson Smith

Personal News from China

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jantzen and Grace Joan spent a happy summer at Kai Chow and on August 5th welcomed a son, Lyman Albert Jantzen, into their midst.

Dr. Balacz, our Hungarian doctor, who is giving very acceptable service, on the way home from his vacation in Peitaiho and Peking, became violently ill with dysentery and was forced to spend a month in the hospital at Shunteh.

The Kai Chow-American School opened September 15th with six pupils, viz. Betty Jean, Anita, and Alice Ruth Pannabecker, Irene, Ralph and David Ewert. Lelia Pannabecker and Martha Ewert are the teachers, each giving one-half day. Grace Joan Jantzen Philip Ewert, and Donald Pannabecker spend an hour each morning with Etta Davis in a kindergarten which she is sponsoring.

Richard Pannabecker, who graduated from North China American School at Tungchow near Peking in June, has entered Yeng Ching University. In a school of 1000 only about fifteen are foreigners. Outside of a course each in the study of German and Chinese, his work is all in the English language. He has an Australian and a Chinese as roommates. Robert Pannabecker is taking his sophomore high school work at Fungchow near Peking and Roland Brown at Pyeng Yank American School in Korea.

After spending a happy summer at Peitaiho studying the language, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin J. Dirks and Marvin Junior journeyed to Taming to make that their home for the coming year. They will continue their langauge study and also assist in teaching in the schools.

For three years in succession we have been able to welcome new arrivals in China. Such an occasion always causes rejoicing. This year we welcomed Miss Marie Regier who is returning from an extended furlough, and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Wuethrich who have come to China for the first time. Miss Regier is stationed at Taming and Mr. and Mrs. Wuethrich are taking their first year of language study in the College of Chinese Studies at Peking.

—Mennonite Church at Napier, Pennsylvania. From a church letter by the pastor of this church, Brother Willard Claassen, we take the following: "We could not have finished the projects of last year—the furnace, book racks, electric lights—without unselfish giving. Christian stewardship means that God is the rightful owner of life and property, and that we ought to acknowledge him thus. . . . Family Altars: In how many homes is the Bible read at family devotion? I am afraid in all too few. It is not, because it is out of date or that we do not have time, for we find time to do the things we want to do. We would have fewer broken homes and stronger churches, if we would let the Bible be heard in the home. It is not taught in school; in some states the teachers are not even permitted to read it to the pupils. Sunday School lasts only one hour a week. The Bible is the most up-to-date Book.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

THE CASE FOR THE RELIGIOUS COLLEGE

By William McAllister

Since the usual state college and large private colleges have student bodies ranging from 1,000 to over 10,000, and the religious college is essentially a small college, with a student body under 1,000 and as a rule nearer the 500 mark, the question of the relative value of the two types of institutions resolves itself to the advantages of the small college over the large, with the emphasis of course on the religious aspects of the two types.

After questioning several students of a large California state college, I was forced to the conclusion that the main reason for going to the large state school was the matter of finances, a just reason of course, but one must also conclude that the educative process is mass education in a huge learning machine by a disinterested faculty. A spiritual emphasis on the campus of a state university is doubtful, in fact, out of question.

I have learned what the large college has to offer the undergraduate, but in spite of the wealth of resources for educational and scientific research and the financial backing which it may have, I am convinced that the religious college has as much to offer, on a scale suited to its student body, and even more which the large college cannot offer at all.

Granted that not every student who attends a college is, or will be, a credit to its name; nevertheless, at religious colleges, the opportunity for religious cultural enrichment exists. The student can make of this opportunity what he will.

The small religious college definitely has the spiritual emphasis. It adds to the good of the large state school the betterment of the religious attitude and way of life. In our church training we are given a foundation for a life philosophy based on religion. In continuing our education at a religious college it means that this background can be developed into a working philosophy of life which is full of idealistic practicality.

Although there is a tendency on the part of colleges founded by religious groups to draw away from that control toward more worldly and material attitudes and activities that characterize many state controlled colleges, the true religious college holds to the primary tenets of its religious founders. Modern in every aspect and just as challenging as the state college, or larger private school, in its educational purpose and methods, it holds that the individual, not the mass, is of the first importance educationally, and so provides individualized plans of instruction designed to meet the needs and abilities of each student. Its purpose, as one institution states, "is to help its students attain their best, to become men and women whose wholesome bodies are fit temples for the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, whose social graces make them welcome where gentlefolk congregate, whose keen minds enrich scholarship, whose reverent souls worship God in spirit and in truth, whose loyal lives examplify the teachings of Jesus Christ and serve to advance His Kingdom and His righteousness."

It adds to one's attitude toward the relative values of life to live in the small religious college. You gain independence; you are more easily oriented into college life than at the large school. There is a friendly spirit to greet the newcomer. There is unity of thought and aims, because your fellow students are for the most part of like minds and tastes.

The classes in the religious college are small. Your professors are neighbors, and willing to help and advise you at any time. Athletics are more for the benefit of the student and team spirit instead of being publicity stunts. The social life cannot be excelled anywhere. There are more things to do than you possibly have time for, and more organizations and activities than you can join; but even at that one feels more a part of real college life, because there is such close contact with everyone, which is impossible in the large university. Back of it all there is the true spirit of brotherhood, the religious spirit.

Perhaps we of the religious college feel that spirit most when we sit in the hush of the chapel; or perhaps we feel it when we sing college songs together; perhaps it is as I have felt it at my own college when we stand as a group on the steps of the administration building overlooking the campus after a student body meeting or rally, and sing the alma mater, watching through the cool and starry night the blazing, rugged, college initials carved on the distant mountainside, a symbol and a challenge toward truth and goodness, beauty and service. But wherever we catch that glimpse of the chalice that is the grail, we of the religious college follow that gleam, for we feel that it is there, and we know that it is real!

THY WONDROUS GRACE

O, Jesus when our lives lose fervor
And evil thoughts assail the mind,
When worldly pleasures seek first place
And secret sins our eyes would blind;
  Then cause us to behold Thy mercy,
  Thy boundless love, thy wondrous grace.

O, Jesus, when our lives stop singing
And knotty problems bow us low,
When darkening shadows cloud the face
And sorrows cause the tears to flow;
  Then cause Thy presence to be near us,
  Thy boundless love, thy wondrous grace.

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by C. H. Suckau

MARCH 8—"I am the way, the truth, and the life." John 14:6

Jesus Christ is the only way unto the Father. The most popular way man would go to the Father is by his goodness. But alas, "There is none good but one, that is, God." Jesus Christ is the only truth unto the Father. No amount of scientific truth can save man. The truth which alone can save man is Jesus Christ, because "the truth is in Jesus." Jesus Christ is the only life unto the Father. "He is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them." "When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory."

MARCH 9—"My words shall not pass away." Mt. 24:35

A present treasure is His word and oh, to know it shall be ours throughout eternity!

Blessed Bible, sacred treasure,
  Precious book, of all the best,
There is comfort never failing,
  And a calm abiding rest.
Read with reverence, and commit it,
  Verse by verse, and day by day;
'Tis the word that God has spoken,
  And it cannot pass away.
—Fanny Crosby

MARCH 10—"That I may know him." Phil. 3:10

Why was Paul so desirous to know Jesus Christ? Because to know Him is life eternal. What a sad mistake we make when we spend more time to learn to know great men, than to learn to know Jesus Christ. We may enrich our lives by learning to know great men and be blessed by their influence. But it is indeed wrong and impoverishing to our own lives if we neglect to learn to know Jesus Christ and fail to let His life influence our own.

Christ is the Fact of facts, the Bible's Theme,
Who stands alone, august, unique, supreme.
—Daniel L. Marsh, D. D.

MARCH 11—"My beloved is mine, and I am his." Song of Sol. 2:16

In these words we have expressed the declaration of what we might call mutual or reciprocal possession of two lovers. These words are indicative of what should be the relationship between Christ and the believer. God has given us His only begotten Son. Jesus Christ "loved me and gave himself for me." I have received Him, He is mine. Now the question is, Am I His? Have I given myself to Him? It is not proper nor natural to claim as our own the one we love without yielding ourselves to his possession as well. Do we thus yield ourselves to Jesus Christ? He has chosen us a His bride before the foundation of the world. Beloved, let us respond and say, "I am His."

MARCH 12—"His name shall be called Wonderful." Is. 9:6

The Holy Spirit knew that Jesus Christ would be wonderful and so He prophecies that He shall be called "Wonderful."

Wonderful, wonderful Jesus
Who can compare with Thee?
Wonderful, wonderful Jesus,
Fairer than all art Thou to me.
Wonderful, wonderful Jesus
Oh how my soul loves Thee!
Fairer than all the fairest
Jesus, art Thou to me.

MARCH 13—"Yea, I have loved thee with an everlasting love." John 31:3

In spite of all the manifold and grievous failures on the part of Israel, God declares in these tender words that His love to them is everlasting. They are still His chosen people. Men may hate them and nations may persecute them, but God's watchful eye is still upon Israel and His love to them will never cease. As is God's love to His ancient people, so it is to His chosen people of the New Testament. He loves us with an everlasting love, though we have often failed Him. How unspeakably sad, how utterly hopeless would be our lot, if God's love to us would be conditioned upon our faithfulness to Him. Oh matchless grace, He loves us with an everlasting love.

MARCH 14—"Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." I Sam. 7:12

Hitherto the Lord hath helped us,
  Hitherto His hand hath led,
Hitherto His arm protected,
  Hitherto His bounty fed;
Will His love desert us wholly,
  Will His heart our need forget,
Will His presence clean forsake us,
  Who hath never failed us yet?
—Annie Johnson Flint

No, basing our assurance upon His dealings with us in the past, we take courage and trust Him and believe that He will help us to the end.

OUR HYMN BOOKS

THE MENNONITE HYMNARY

The following are further comments on our Mennonite Hymnary.

The Reverend Olin A. Krehbiel, President of the Eastern District Conference, writes: "Received a copy of the new Mennonite Hymnary and examined it very thoroughly. The result is, our Sunday School ordered 150 copies to start with. Have noted the comments on the books in The Mennonite from time to time. But there are a number of important points not yet mentioned. Who spends the most time with the book? The pastor, for he devotes hours arranging his program, picking appropriate hymns and responsive readings. I wonder whether the congregation considers this fact in selecting a song book? Most books cannot be compared with The Mennonite Hymnary in the variety of hymns offered and the arrangement of indexing them.

"A special word should also be said about The Responsive Readings in The Mennonite Hymnary, for they far outstrip anything in the field. Our churches should make greater use of these readings, for this is Scripture used in a scriptural way. People read the Bible so little nowadays, and these readings will help them get acquainted with God's Word. The ninety selections in this book give a well rounded coverage of the important subjects of the Bible, and their arrangement is the best."

A word from the Reverend Wilmer Shelly, pastor of the First Mennonite Church, Wadsworth, Ohio: "I am highly delighted with The Mennonite Hymnary. We here at Wadsworth have a series of union services during the year, when the members of all churches, such as the United Lutheran, Methodist, Evangelical, and Reformed meet in the various churches. I always felt, in comparing their denominational hymn books with our old Mennonite Hymn Book, that ours was far inferior. But I will be PROUD, as a brother wrote in last week's Mennonite, to have The Mennonite Hymnary in the book racks when the brethren of the other churches worship with our church."

Dr. D. D. Eitzen of the University of Southern California faculty comments: "It seems impossible that this publication, The Mennonite Hymnary, should be as flawless as the testimonials of The Mennonite would indicate by the absence of criticism. Therefore I have allowed myself this evening for a critical study of this hymn book, albeit with very limited resources. We all appreciate the way the book opens. More significant is the "Mennonite modesty" of its general appearance. How unfailingly the cross in the very center of the front cover will penetrate the consciousness of thousands with its uniquely Christian challenge! It is, however, a bit ornate to remind me of the cross my Savior bore.

"The selection and organization of these songs of Zion impresses me as a comprehensive research labor of love. The self-investing service of the Editors, the Hymn Book Committee, and the members of the Board of Publication is an impressive manifestation of "the love of God shed abroad in the hearts of men by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us," It is gratifying that several of our own number have contributed translations of German hymns which preserve for me the indispensible depth of spirituality of their orginal message."

Das Deutsche Gesangbuch

(The German Hymn Book)

At the General Conference session in 1935 the Canadian brethren presented a rather urgent need for a unified hymn book in the German language. Attention was called to the "Gesangbuch mit Noten." But that did not meet their situation. Besides, the plates of the "Gesangbuch" were pretty well worn, so that another printing from them appeared rather inadvisable. Consequently it was resolved, "That they work out their manuscript and submit it to our Board (of Publication) to see in what manner we could cooperate with them in publishing such a book."

At the session in Saskatoon, in 1938, the Board of Publication presented this proposition to the Conference: "The Board of Publication is ready to assist the German speaking and German singing churches in the publication of a new unified hymn book and to do all within its power to expedite the project. To do this it is necessary that the Hymn Book Commission of Canada submit the manuscript as early as possible, accompanying the same with concrete proposals, so that the necessary financial estimates may be made and the contracts for the printing of the book may be executed." The Conference approved this plan and encouraged our Board "to proceed with its execution as soon as possible."

In May of 1939 the Commission had finished the manuscript and forwarded it to the undersigned who immediately began to cast about in search of a publishing firm fully competent to manufacture this German hymn book at a reasonable cost. Some obstacles were found: the scarcity of German compositors, the fact that some of the pages of the manuscript contained more matter than could be accommodated on the printed page, also the time it would take to do the book. After considerable correspondence the Canadian Commission went to work to rearrange the matter on some pages. When we thought we had the plans for the work pretty well arranged, one firm that we favored gave notice that they could not handle the book for some months, while the next competent firm had set the price too high. Thus valuable time was passing. Meanwhile, however, the Canadian Hymn Book Commission and others worked on the financial problem. Brother John G. Rempel, as its spokesman, solicited pre-subscriptions for the book at fifty cents a copy and succeeded in getting more than 4000 subscribers. And with the aid of the General Conference Home Mission Board the cash thus accruing, nearly $2000.00 in U. S. money, could be turned over to the treasurer of the Board of Publication. The brethren have also made another $2000.00 available. This, making a total of $4000.00, is the amount that the Board of Publication felt should be in the hands of its treasurer, to enable it to let contract and start work on the book. The noble efforts which the Commission, in particular Rev. John G. Rempel, with Rev. David Toews' help, have put forth are most commendable.

In due time it was found that the Methodist Book Concern of Dobbs Ferry, New York, which has given us such splendid service in the manufacture of The Mennonite Hymnary might be induced to handle this German book also. An agreement was reached and the contract was let to them. They are now beginning with the work and, if no unforseen obstacles arise, they hope to have the books ready about the time the Conference meets. It is believed that the 4,000 some members of the Canadian churches will buy the book when it is ready, so that the financing of the project is pretty well assured. This new book will be much like the "Gesangbuch mit Noten." Let us pray that God may bless this work as He has so signally blessed the undertaking of the English book!

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

A. S. BECHTEL

CHRIST REJECTED

Luke 20:9-20

Topic: TAKING OUR STAND WITH CHRIST

Introduction

The subject and topic of this lesson represent opposite attitudes toward Christ. Every person who knows of Him will take one or the other of these. The question, what one will do with Christ, involves the most far-reaching consequences. One cannot be neutral. The decision either to reject Him or to take our stand with Him, lies wholly within our power. They who busy themselves with this world's affairs and ignore Christ, shut Him out of their lives. Thd worldly, materialistic spirit of our age causes many people to ignore religion, the Church and Christ.

The Rejected Son vs. 9-18.

The purpose of the parable of our lesson is to show that the Jewish nation by persecuting the prophets and the Son of God Himself, so provoked God that their high privileges as His people were withdrawn and the consequent suffering and ruin came upon them. Privilege and opportunity have their end. The vineyard refers to the people of Israel (cf. Isa. 5:1-7) and represents the opportunities and privileges which God—"a certain man"—had given to them. The "husbandmen" has special reference to the leaders who were responsible for the policies and condut of the Jewish nation during the long period of their national history.

God expected the vineyard, Israel, to bring forth fruit of righteous character, holy living, in keeping with the law which He had given to them. He sent servants, the prophets (vs. 10-13), to teach and warn Israel. These were shamefully and cruelly treated by the wicked husbandmen. They were all rejected. Finally God sent His beloved Son, love's final appeal to Israel (v. 13). Jesus here declares Himself as being exalted above the prophets. God sent His Son as reconciler and Israel killed Him, thinking that now they were through with Him. Jesus gave a stern warning to the Jews (v. 16) which should have turned them from their evil purpose. The place of leadership in the kingdom of God would be given to the Gentiles. He whom they rejected was to attain the place of highest honor (v. 17). The wicked husbandmen moreover would be, as it were, ground to powder (v. 18). Some stumbled over the stone—Christ's claims—and afterwards accepted Him. Persistent and defiant rejection of Christ leads to utter destruction. Those who enjoy God's privileges in grace are stewards and they are to bring forth fruit unto God. Israel was unfruitful and her opportunity came to an end. Disastrous destruction overtook Jerusalem in 70, A. D., bringing an end to Jewish nationality. We need to guard well against the sinister influences which tend to weaken our loyalty to Christ, sap our spirituality, anl lead to religious indifference.

The chief priests and scribes were stung to the quick by this parable and it hardened their hearts, instead of moving them to repentance. Their hatred sought underhand means to put Jesus out of the way (vs. 19, 20).

Taking our stand with Jesus means an initial act of choice and surrender and a life of heroic loyalty and love. It means bringing forth Christ-like fruits of character, a spirit of loyalty to Christ expressed in acts of faithfulness to Him. It brings rich rewards. God is on our side and Christ will stand with us, a helper who can help at all times.

Why does God expect spiritual fruit of us?

In what ways do people reject Christ today?

How well, or how poorly, do we as individuals, as a nation, use our God-given privileges?

"In His death Christ is a sacrifice for our sins; in the resurrection, a conqueror; in the ascension, a king; in the intercession a high priest." —Luther

LEADERS FOR BIBLE WEEK

BETHEL COLLEGE

North Newton, Kansas, March 9-14, 1941

Dr. H. E. Dana

Dr. H. E. Dana, one of the leaders for the Bible Week or Institute for Ministers and Church Workers, March 9-14, is president of the Kansas City Baptist Theological Seminary and professor of New Testament there. He has been a teacher of the New Testament for many years, and out of these years of study and wide experience he will bring helpful and inspiring messages. Dr. Dana will speak twice daily during the week. Each afternoon; Monday at 1:20, the rest of the week, at 2:15; he will lead in an expository study of the Epistles to the Galatians. The general theme for his evening addresses will be, "The Holy Spirit in Christian Living."

The other speaker during Bible Week is Prof. Rockwell C. Smith, teacher in the department of the Rural Church at Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Illinois. He has been a rural pastor and has given much study to rural life and to the problem of rural America. This is his special interest. Professor Smith is scheduled to appear twice a day during Bible Week. In the afternoon he will center his addresses around the specific work of the rural church. He aims to offer help in understanding and meeting the challenge which comes to the rural church. In the evening his general theme will be, "Preserving the Values of Rural Life." These addresses will give us a higher appreciation of our rural heritage and will magnify the calling of the farmer. Everyone is welcome to attend all of these meetings and benefit from the messages of these leaders.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF ANNUAL BIBLE CONFERENCE

The Annual Bible Conference will be held at the City Auditorium, Newton, Kansas, from April 13 to 20 inclusive. Doctor W. H. Houghton, president of the Moody Bible Institute, will be the main speaker. We ask for your prayers. The meetings will be free and open for anybody. —The Committee

Annual Meeting of the Bethel Deaconess Home and Hospital Society

The 37th annual meeting of the Bethel Deaconess Home and Hospital Society was held Tuesday Feb. 11, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m., in the First Mennonite Church of Newton, Kansas.

Rev. W. C. Voth, Missionary to China, read several passages of scripture and gave the invocation; after which Rev. J. M. Regier, pastor of the Johannestal Church of Hillsboro, gave an inspiring message, based on "The man with the withered hand," in Mark 3. The speaker emphasized, that while the world is bent on destroying and killing, this institution stands for healing. Jesus came to save life. Our goal is saving life. We are surrounded by bodily, mental and spiritual ailments. Soul surgery is often more painful than physical surgery. Our institution offers spiritual recompense for bodily suffering. If only the body finds healing, we wonder what has been accomplished!" After this Rev. J. E. Entz, president of the society, declared the annual business meeting in session.

A quartette of student nurses gave a double number. The report of the directors showed the present membership of the society to be 338, with a total of 2170 votes. Nine of its members have passed away during the past year, but new members were received. The sisterhood consists of 30 ordained deaconesses and one probation sister. Two have retired from active service. The Bethel Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing has 28 students at this time. Seven have finished their training during the part year. The administrator's report indicated a healthy condition in all phases of the work and and considerable progress. Twenty-five per cent more service had been rendered during the past year.

The forenoon session closed with prayer by Rev. C. E. Krehbiel. As in other years the ladies of the auxiliaries again proved their interest in their loyalty to the work of the society by serving a bountiful meal in the basement of the church.

The afternoon session opened with a short memorial service conducted by the Rev. P. P. Wedel of Moundridge. Among the departed were the following ministers: H. J. Krehbiel, H. P. Krehbiel, Bernhard Regier, and John Roth. Also the brethren C. F. Claassen, who for about thirty years was a member of the Board of Directors; G. R. Toews, J. J. Friesen, Dav. G. Bechtel, and Mrs. Edw. Classsen. Rev. Wedel based his remarks on I Cor. 15: 50-58 anl led in prayer.

An item of special interest was a paper prepared and given by Sister Newta Newfield on, "The Care of the Patient." In this she discussed the various departments and different facilities of the modern hospital, which must be maintained and function effeciently for the care and proper treatment of the patient.

The report of the Home for the Aged gives the number of residents as thirty. The Home makes it a practice to celebrate the 90th and 100th birthday of its residents. During the past year two celebrated their 90th birthday and one, Gerh. Ewert of Gnadenberg, passed his century mark.

Both the senior and the junior auxilaries reported on their work, which was highly appreciated. The members of the Board of Directors, whose terms had expired and who were reelected are as follows: H. J. Dyck, H. E. Suderman, D. O. Rupp, and Gerh. Zerger was elected as a member of the Advisory Council to the Home for the Aged.

Sister Newta's paper, "The Care of the Patient," is to be published in our church papers. After the report of the Committee on resolutions the meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. H. J. Kliewer.

Our Unsolved Problem in Evangelism

By Charles W. Koller

The "unreached" are becoming more and more "unreachable" under present methods. This is the testimony of evangelists whose experience extends from coast to coast. A "campaign" is likely to result in a fair attendance on the part of Christians, but not of the "unreached." Our customary appeals to "bring them in" do not produce results, because neither the preacher nor the congregation has felt the urgency of changing our approach. We are living too much in the memory of other days when a substantial proportion of every audience consisted of the "unreached." Moreover, when efforts are made to "bring them in," it seems increasingly difficult to bring them. The evangelist, with only a few of the "unreached" attending, is limited in his appeal to these few. These in turn feel conspicuous, and are afraid to come back. The most general appeal from the pulpit seems personal, and they do not wish to be singled out. Thus we are involved in a discouraging cycle, which we have been unable to break. What is the solution?

Here, as elsewhere, we do well to study again the technique of the apostles and of the early church. Did they merely announce public services and wait for the people to come? Not so! Paul, the Evangelist, ministered "publicly and from house to house." And the deacons were not silent. Of Stephen, we read that "they were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit by which he spake." Philip likewise "preached Christ. . . . and the people gave heed." People will often "give heed" to a deacon when they will not hear the pastor or the evangelist.

When Peter stood up to preach, at Pentecost, "the eleven" stood up with him. Imagine the effect today if, when the preacher stood up, eleven strong men rose up and stood with him as he bore testimony and gave the Gospel appeal! Or imagine a whole congregation, as at Pentecost, all filled with the Holy Spirit" and speaking " as the Spirit gave them utterance!" Later we see them not only "continuing in the temple," but "breaking bread from house to house." And when they were "scattered abroad," they "went everywhere preaching the word." That is the New Testament pattern. Other plans will fail—and are failing!

Perhaps in the very futility of our unscriptural procedures lies our salvation. Men have been forced back to a pure Gospel by the futility of unscriptural substitutes. Perhaps we shall be forced to rediscover the Scriptural way to evangelize. The apostles and the early church, with an effectiveness which has never been duplicated, are well able to teach us. They did not leave soul winning to a chosen few. It was the business of the whole church.

Why I Cannot Accept Non-Combatant Service

Carl J. Landes, Rural Sec., F. O. R., Merom, Ind.

One of the most frequent questions I face from Mennonite young people runs something like this: "Do you consider Non-Combatant Service consistent with our Mennonite Doctrine of Christian Pacifism." ("Non-Resistance" we have called it; which is not quite true. We do "resist," but not with violence, only as Christ "resisted.") Since this is a serious question, I would like to answer as best I can, for those who are digging their way through these problems today.

I cannot accept Non-Combatant Service as consistent with my pacifism for the following considerations:

I. Because of The Military Set-up.

For every person on the firing line, shooting at the "enemy," the army has from seven to ten men in tasks which are "non-combatant" in nature, cooking, medical corps, quartermaster, etc. When seven-tenths of the army is doing what I term "non-combatant," I can hardly accept such duty as being consistent with my pacifism.

II. The Army Makes No Distinction, Except in Name.

One Mennonite (Kansas) farmer wrote a letter to a commanding officer, in the last war, asking that his son (a non-com) be released during "seeding" and "harvest time," thinking the army would gladly release his son for work as important as farming. The commanding officer informed the father that his son could not be released. Why? Because his son was in "one of the most important" branches of the service—the sanitation service. Evidence, that the army makes no distinction between "combatant" and "non-combatant" service can be piled high and wide. It is a useful distinction in name, because it brings many sincere C. O's. into the military, who would otherwise not consent to such service.

III. Because in Non-Combatant Service I merely release another who has no scruples against taking life. He shoots, while I do the work he would be doing, if I didn't take his place.

Some then argue, "But I must help take care of wounded and dying; I want to help save life." I too want to save life; but I must refuse to do so within the military machine for two reasons: (1) The army will have an ambulance driver, hospital orderly, etc., whether I am there or not. The army is set up in "units," and for each unit there are so many ambulance drivers, so many orderlies, so many nurses, etc. If I become one of those "cogs in the machine," another is left free to do my shooting for me. The army will not be minus a driver because I cannot go. (2) Is the medical corps primarily interested in human life? Or, is the army medical corps interested in health because it desires an efficient killing force? Based on two years experience in the army, I'm convinced that the latter is true; and I cannot participate. I will take care of wounded and dying anywhere as a civilian, if I can take the spirit of Love and Forgiveness with me. The army demands hate (read an army manual).

IV. The Basic Purpose of the Army is Killing Men—that is how wars are won. No matter what duty I perform behind that machine, I am there for one purpose—aid a killing machine. A farmer contributes to the war machine indirectly but he is in a peace-time industry. No service in the military is ever a peace-time industry; it serves one purpose, all its training is toward one end, efficient killing.

There are many other considerations. I cannot answer this question for you, nor you for me. We all have a conscience. Let us permit God to touch that conscience with His Spirit, and then have the courage to follow. Let us respect each other, where God leads us by different paths. Positively, I renounce all military service, because I have given allegiance to Christ, whose Cross is self-giving Love and Forgiveness. Negatively, I renounce all military service, because "They that take the sword shall perish by the sword." I want my country, my posterity to live not perish.

"He that would follow after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me," said Jesus. I challenge youth to answer that call.

—Woodland Menn. Church, Warroad, Minn.—Jesus said, "I came not to be ministered unto but to minister." Your pastor is "in the midst of you as he that serveth." Use him—if you have a special problem, tell him about it. If there is sorrow or sickness, do not fail to let him know. If you have run into a moral tangle, let him help unravel it. If you have any question about your spiritual or everyday life, let him help answer it. Use him, give him an opportunity to be a real minister. —Church Bulletin

Mrs. Gerhard Friesen

Program for March 16, 1941

MAIN TOPIC: THE GRACE OF CHRIST

Jn. 1:15-17; 2 Cor. 8:9; 2 Tim. 2:1-3

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "I stand amazed in the presence," "In the cross of Christ I glory," "I love to tell the story."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Special music: "Fairest Lord Jesus"
4. Offering for Missions

II. Leader's Introduction

When Napoleon was exiled, he is reported to have said to one of his companions, "Tell me, Bertrand, how do you account for the great abyss between my misery and the eternal reign of Jesus? I am forgotten, so is Caesar and Alexander. Our exploits are given to pupils in school who sit in judgment upon us, but behold the destiny of Christ! His Kingdom extends over the whole earth, and there are milions who would die for him."

Who is Jesus, the Christ?
He is the Light of the World,
He is the Water of Life,
He is the Good Shepherd,
He will live in us and our hearts shall rejoice,
He is our joy no one taketh away from us,
These things has he spoken unto us,
That his joy may be in us and that our joy may be full.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Gift of grace Eph. 2:4-8
2. Grace for sin Rom. 5:15-17
3. Grace by love John 3:16, 17
4. Salvation and hope Tit. 2:11-14
5. Proof of grace 1 Cor. 15:10
6. Victory through grace 1 Cor. 15:54-57

IV. For Discussion

1. Why is the cross the best symbol of Christ's real greatness?
2. What does the grace of Christ do for men?
3. What story of Christ's deeds do you think reveals his grace in a special way? What parable?

V. Facts for Study

People who lived with Jesus had various answers to the question, "Who is Jesus?"

For John the Baptist he was the "Lamb of God." The Syro-phenician woman called him "O Lord, thou Son of David." The Samaritan woman said of him to her friends: "Can he be the Christ?" Nathanael says: "Thou art the Son of God, thou art the King of Israel."

Peter on the mount of transfiguration is asked by Jesus: "Who do people say that I am." We are familiar with his answer. The demons testified that he was the Son of God, and the multitudes said of him: "He hath done all things well, he maketh even the deaf to hear, and the dumb to speak."

In Jesus own estimate that was the way people should know that he was truly the Messiah. To the messengers sent by John the Baptist with the question whether he was the expected one or whether they should wait for another, he says: Tell John—the blind see, the lame walk, the deaf hear and to the poor the Gospel is preached."

His life, his teaching, his love for men reveals his grace. His death, his willingness to go the way of the cross to redeem men, his life giving spirit, reveals his grace in a depth and with a glory that will always win the hearts of men. The benediction, "The GRACE of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all," is well worth pondering upon.

VI. Food for Thought

I cannot put his presence by, I meet him everywhere;
I meet him in the country town, the busy market square;
The mansion and the tenement attest his presence
there.
Upon the funneled ships at sea he sets his shining feet;
The distant ends of empire not in vain his name repeat—
And, like the presence of a rose, he makes the whole world sweet.
He comes to break the barriers down raised up by barren creeds;
About the globe from zone to zone, like sunlight he proceeds;
He comes to give the world's starved heart the perfect love it needs.

Love Conquered

The story is told of a young Christian woman, who, during the Armenian atrocities, was pursued with her brother by a Turkish soldier. The brother was killed before his sister's eyes. She escaped. Later on, being a nurse, she was forced to work in a military hospital. Into the ward one day was brought this Turkish soldier who had killed her brother. She recognized him. He was very ill, a slight neglect on her part would have been all that was necessary to insure his death. The young woman describes the struggle that ensued. The old Adam called, "Revenge!" The new Christ cried, "Love!" Love conquered. She nursed the Turkish soldier as carefully as she did any patient. One day he recognized her. Unable to restrain his curiosity, he asked her why she had not let him die. She replied, "I am a follower of Him who said, 'Love your enemies and do them good.'" The soldier was silent for a time. At last he spoke, "If that is your religion, I want it, too."

Is Our Youth Section also Performing a 'Helpful Ministry?"

A man seeking for work was bidden to take a rope and pail, draw water from a well, and pour it into a sieve. The work seemed highest folly, but he continued hour after hour the long day through. As evening approached he found the well nearly dry, when he happened to notice a bright sparkling light at the bottom. It proved to be a ring set with a brilliant gem which had been accidently dropped into the well. He had not understood before; but having been instant and faithful in obedience he now saw the reason for the work he had been given to do. Here are some good words for every disciple of Jesus to bear in mind: "Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it."

JESUS AND OUR FRIENDS

Song "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us"
Scripture Reading John 15:11-17
Song "I've Found a Friend, O Such a Friend"
Sentence Prayers
Vocal Solo "I Choose Jesus"

Talks How to Win Friends
1. By kindness (Acts 28:1-10)
2. By helping them (Mark 2:1-12)
3. Win friends by love (John 15:12)

Prayer Hymn "Savior, Teach Me Day by Day"

Talks How to Keep Friends
1. By being friendly (Prov. 18:24)
2. By serving them (John 19:25-27; Luke 22:24-27)
3. By being faithful (Ruth 1:16)
4. By being sympathetic (John 11:1-46)
(Note how Jesus observed the above)

Song "What a Friend We Have in Jesus"

Talks Friends of Jesus
1. John, the beloved disciple (John 19:25-27)
2. Mary (John 12:1-3)
3. Martha (John 11:20-23; 11:5)
4. Zacchaeus (Luke 19:1-10)

Questions

1. What kind of friend are you?
2. Are your friends able to trust you?
3. How can we be better friends?
4. Who is our best friend?
5. How has Jesus proved that He is indeed a true friend? John 15:13
6. If we are friends of Jesus, what will we do? John 14:15
7. Do you suppose Jesus ever feels hurt by the way we treat him?
8. Read Prov. 18:24. Who is the friend to whom the passage refers?

Daily References:

Jesus with His friends	Luke 10:38-42
Jesus, friend of children	Mark 10:13-16
Jesus, friend of sinners	Matt. 9:9-13
Jesus encouraging friendship	Luke 7:36-39
An unexpected guest	Luke 24:13-35
Bringing a friend to Jesus	John 1:43-49

As the above references are read, notice that Jesus made friends of all kinds of people; that he chose people who needed his friendship rather than those who could give Him advantages; that He judged people as He saw them, not by what others said about them; that he gave rich and poor friends the same loyalty.

England:—20 Gordon Square WCI, London. Letter—December 13, 1940, from Claassen and Coffman.

Clothing—"Several weeks ago, a letter reached Ted from Brother C. F. Klassen of Winnipeg, concerning the shipment of clothing which the Canadian Mennonites had sent via the Canadian Red Cross. The shipment reached us on the tenth, and we have placed it in a room which the Save the Children Fund are allowing us to use for storage and distribution purposes. There are certainly plenty of calls for the clothing. We plan to use what we can for the children in our residential nursery center at Wickhurst Manor. Some of the mens' and boys' clothing will be distributed to our Polish boys."

Nursery Home—"Last Monday morning we saw the first eight children leave the receiving center on London for our own residential nursery home at Wickhurst Manor in Kent. Four more have been sent since then; a third group of fourteen are to reach there on the following Saturday. We have both had occasion to see the place which is being used, and we are satisfied that it will provide excellent accommodation for the forty children who will be kept there.

Quotation in letter received by our English Relief Workers from Captain Gracey to the Save the Children Fund:

"On behalf of my committee I desire to thank you for your generous and kindly action in providing us with twenty-two steel cots for use at our residential nursery center at Long Barn, Sevenoaks. May I say how much we appreciate your thoughfulness and practical cooperation in helping us to meet an urgent need. These cots will add considerably to the efficiency of our work, and we are deeply grateful to you for filling this breach for us so promptly and readily. Please convey to the Mennonite Central Committee our warm appreciation of this further mark of their sympathy."

War Prisoners Aid—Young Men's Christian Association, 347 Madison Ave., New York, January 11th: "This will acknowledge receipt of your note of December 18, announcing the forwarding of eighty-four 11- pound cartons of books. These have arrived and have been immediately sent off, after preliminary examination, to various camps in Canada. Books are one of the most appreciated supplies which we have been sending in to the different camps."

Conrad Hoffman, Jr.

In later personal contact with Tracy Strong of this office, it was stated that the further need of good literature for Prison Camps was practically unlimited. Mr. Strong encouraged us to continue to make this need known among our constituents. German and English grammars, story books and fiction of the better type, religious books of all kinds, technical books in either French, German or English are wanted. We would continue to encourage the sending of such donations in prepaid packages to the Mennonite Central Committee, Akron, Penna., from where via this New York office they will be forwarded to the various countries where most needed.

Bro. Jacob Siemens—Fernheim, Chaco, Paraguay, January 4, 1941, J. Legiehn: "On December twenty-nineth in forenoon was held the funeral of our dear Bro. Jacob Siemens. On the same day, in the afternoon, we received a telegram stating that a group of Hutterites would arrive at station 145 on Tuesday, the thirty-first. Forty teams were requested to meet this group. The group was composed of eighty-one persons (twelve families) and was accompanied with twenty-three tons of baggage and supplies. Very quickly ten rooms in our Central school building were prepared for these new-comers. The group were all well. One of their number is a doctor and we hope that this will also help solve our doctor problem. Last night in our hospital arrived the first member of their group born in the Chaco."

In later January 12 correspondence, Bro. Legiehn states that he, in company with two of the Hutterian brethren, were leaving on a trip to east Paraguay, to continue the study of settlement possibilities for this new group. It is hoped that they will locate near the present Fernheim settlement.

—Loon Forks, Saskatchewan, Canada. The Reverend Peter B. Friesen subscribes for The Mennonite and Missionary News and Notes again and says: We all enjoy reading these papers so much. I must say the sermon sketches have been very helpful to me, as I have to preach in English quite often. I also like the Sunday School Lesson discussion. Only we generally get the paper about a week too late. We get our mail only once a week, and we live about 360 miles north of the United States boundary, sixteen miles from the nearest town.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. ERNEST E. SCHRAG, (Olga Miller), daughter of Peter and Anna Miller, was born at Marion, S. D., Feb., 28, 1900. She was baptized upon her confession of faith in Jesus Christ, her personal Savior, Sept. 10, 1916, and became a member of the Salem-Zion Church, which she served faithfully with her God-given talents. In 1921 she graduated from Freman College Academy. And in September of the same year she was united in marriage to Ernest E. Schrag with whom she shared many blessings and joys, with some griefs and disappointments, for 19 years. The union was blessed with one son, LeRoy, and two daughters, Loraine and Glennis. After her marriage she had her membership transferred to the Salem Mennonite Church at Freeman, S. D. Here, too, she took an active part in all the activities of the church. She was a true Christian. Her friendliness, her willingness to share with others, and her hospitality endeared her to all who knew her. As a true, devoted mother she made a real home for her family. Her life was short, but she has finished her course, she has fought a good fight, she has kept the faith.

About a year ago a thorough physical examination disclosed the fact that she was suffering from a malignant malanosarcoma type of cancer. This discovery cast a dark cloud on the happy home. Medical aid was sought in different places, but slowly the malignant cancer did its deadly work. When she realized her condition she busied herself more than ever in making provisions for her family. Her spiritual preparation was also taken care of. On January 25, after a severe pain attack, she became bedfast. She suffered patiently and sought help in the grace of Christ. In the morning of February 13, she passed peacefully on to be with her Savior, at the age of 40 years, 11 months, and 15 days.

She is mourned by her grief-stricken husband, her son, and her two daughters, her aged father, her mother-in-law, six sisters, two brothers, and a large circle of relatives and friends.

RUDOLPH H. EWY, son of Peter and Katherine Brubacker Ewy, was born in Austria, December 29, 1976. He came to America in 1882 and made his home in Kansas. Upon the confession of his faith he was baptized by the Rev. Valentine Krehbiel, and received into the First Mennonite Church of Christian, April 17, 1892. May 6, 1900, he was united in marriage with Josephine Bufferding at Perry, Oklahoma. To this union four daughters and one son were born. Soon after his marriage they moved to Moundridge, where he followed the blacksmith trade. Later he became a mechanic in a local garage, and after that he setablished his own business, following it for many years, until 1935, when he retired due to illness.

Soon after they came to Moundridge he and his wife united with the fellowship of the West Zion Mennonite Church in the spring of 1902. His wife was called to her final reward in 1910. Then he was married to Christina M. Dahlem on September 24, 1911. She also preceded him in death, on July 19, 1922.

His Heavenly Father saw fit to call him home on February 6, 1941, at the age of 64 years, one month and seven days. He leaves three daughters, Mrs. Henry Ewy, and Mrs. Alfred Ewy of Hanston, and Mrs. Harvey Ball of McPherson, Kansas, two sons, Carl of Beloit, Wisconsin, and Harold of Moundridge, Kansas; four grandsons, seven granddaughters, and many other relatives and friends. Funeral services were conducted at the West Zion Church in Moundridge, Sunday afternoon, February 9, by the Rev. P. K. Regier.

CORRESPONDENCE

WEST ZION CHURCH, MOUNDRIDGE, KANS.

Our congregation hearily endorses all that has been said in the Mennonite in regard to the new hymnary. Our people have all praised it highly. Our books were dedicated at the morning worship service on Dec. 29. Following the worship service a fellowship dinner was served in the church basement. The annual business meeting of the church was held during the afternoon. The attendance was somewhat larger than usual, but there was room for many more.

The anniversary of the birth of our Savior was fittingly observed during the Christmas season. The Vesper service by the Ladies' Chorus will long be remembered. Those present felt that truly Christ was born again, as we listened to the beautiful Christmas songs. The children of the Sunday School presented a junior Cantata as their contribution. This was different from the type of program usually given but was much appreciated.

Our pastor continues to minister to us with his inspirational sermons. He is our leader at the mid-week services. At present the current Sunday School lessons are being studied. Teachers especially are finding these meetings greatly worth while.— Our morning worship services are very well attended, but the attendance at the evening services leave much to be desired, though Juniors and Intermediates are faithful in attending the respective meetings. Last fall a new plan was put into practice. The Christian Endeavor meets every other Sunday; the pastor is in charge of the other evenings. These are known as "church nights." Attendance has been quite good.

Early in December Rev. J. Esau ministered to our congregation with a series of inspiring sermons. His being with us was a blessing indeed!

We appreciate and enjoy The Mennonite, and feel it is a great power for good to our people. May God bless all who have any part in it.

Mrs. August Ewy, Corr.

HEBRON CHURCH, BUHLER, KANSAS

Feb. 26, 1941

In January we received 143 Mennonite hymnaries which we now use every Sunday. We enjoy the songs very much and feel that this book is a blessing to our people. Feb. 9, Miss Justina Schmidt, missionary among the lepers of Nigeria, Africa, showed colored pictures of her work in the leper colony. We enjoyed the pictures but we were sorry that there is so much suffering among the poor lepers.

Feb. 12, Missionary and Mrs. John Thiessen of India showed pictures of their work in our mission field in India. Mr. Thiessen is well known in our community and many friends came to hear him and to see the pictures. Feb. 16, the C. E. Societies of the Hebron and Buhler and of the Hoffnungsau churches presented a joint musical program. The program consisted of choruses and readings. The church was filled to overflowing. Feb. 20, August Regier, was the first to leave from the Hebron church for camp Robinson. He went as a noncombatant. Feb. 23-28, the Rev. J. M. Regier of Hillsboro is conducting a series of meetings in our church. He is using "The Lord's Prayer" for his topic. The meetings are fairly well attended, in spite of the snow and bad roads. The Hebron church is Rev. and Mrs. Regier's home church and they have many friends here. Correspondent

NEW HOPEDALE MENNONITE CHURCH MENO, OKLAHOMA

Greeting to all through Christ Jesus our Lord:

Our blessings since the last writing have been many. We have had showers of rain which give us hope for the coming year, also showers of spiritual blessings in the preaching of His blessed Word. The special Bible Course at the Oklahoma Bible Academy affords our church and the surrounding churches splendid opportunity to receive Bible instruction. The speakers have been Rev. P. P. Tschetter, Rev. H. N. Harder, Rev. J. C. Kaufman. This week Rev. Clyde Dirks is the speaker, and the next week Rev. P. H. Unruh will conclude the series of addresses of this Bible Course.

Our church will celebrate an ordination service in the near future of one of our members, Rev. Albert Unruh, for whom we thank God and pray that God may richly bless him and use him in His service. Recently Brother John J. Johnson had the misfortune of falling and dislocating his shoulder after returning home from church services. We pray that he may recover speedily. Sister Penner's health has not permitted her to attend church services very often. We pray that God may be very near to our older Brothers and Sisters that they may not feel lonely when they are confined to their homes. Our pastor, Rev. H. U. Schmidt, and his wife have not been well but are improving.

A LOOK AT ERRORS

Errors in print are always annoying. They gaze at the editor and readers with disapproving looks. They are especially disagreeable when they appear in proper names. We can hardly suppress the urge to call attention to a few in the 1941 MENNONITE YEAR BOOK which has recently been mailed to hundreds of suscribers. For the benefit of the owners of these books we shall list them here so that they may be corrected if desired.

On page 34, first column, Middle District Board of Trustees, it should be Eli Luginbill, not Lugilbill. Same column, same page, Rev. M. Horsch or M. M. Horsch, never M. H. Horsch. Same page, second column, Central Conference Bluffton College Board, it should be Rev. I. R. Detweiler, not R. I. R. Detweiler. A little farther down, same column, under Middle District Mission Society officers, Mrs. Howard Gilliom, Berne, Indiana, not Gillion, nor Pulaski, Iowa. Below, same page, it should be Rev. Harold D. Burkholder, no longer Burkhalter in his case. On page 36, Ministers of the Western District, Rev. G. N. Harms is erroneously listed as a minister without a regular charge, though he is still active as Elder of the Gnadenberg Church, a position which he has held for forty years. Under Pacific Conference Ministers, page 36, Rev. J. P. Glanzer is made to reside at Srafter, Calif., where it should be Shafter, Calif. In the next column under "In Manitoba," it should be Winnipegosis. On page 47, Pacific District Conference it should be San Marcos (not Marcus) Mennonite Church, and below, Aaron Wiens, not Weins is the pastor at Deer Park.

—Recently Miss Emma Ruth of the First Church, Reedley, California, gave an Organ Vesper Service in the church. Judged by the program this must have been a greatly worth while entertainment. Some of the numbers were: "Sixth Organ Concert," by G. F. Handel; "Hymn of the Nuns," by Lefebure-Wely; Chorale, "Mein Herz ist voll Verlangen," by Bach-Schreiner; "Pastorale," by Alex. Guilmant; "Largo," from "The New World Symphony," by Dvorak; "The Lost Chord," by Sullivan.

PLEASE, BE PATIENT

The editor occasionally receives articles of a great deal of merit for publication. He is glad for these and intends to publish them as soon as he can find space for them. Fortunately they are contributions that retain their value for some time, while other material must be published presently or it will get stale. We hope that all kind contributors will keep this in mind and have patience with us. Of the sixteen pages in The Mennonite, only twelve pages or a little more are at our disposal, hence space is an important item.

—Second Mennonite Church, Philadelphia, Pa. The congregational meeting has voted to purchase 125 copies of The Mennonite Hymnary. This will entail a fund of nearly $150.00. A committee composed of Mr. Wm. H. Shelly, Mrs. G. Huffman, Mr. Walter Troup, Miss Edith Geisinger, and Mrs. Mary Wright is at work to procure the fund. It is suggested that each member contribute the price of one book.

—Rev. A. S. Bechtel, Hanston, Kansas, writes, February 26: This is a white country out here for almost a week now. Have had snow almost every day. And there has been no wind to blow up drifts. This spells much good for the growing crops in spring.—Missionary W. C. Voth was with us for an evening service. We appreciated his very informative talk and the pictures of China.—You folks living within our Mennonite centers hear so much direct from the missionaries, while we on the outer fringes hear so very little.

—Bethel College.— In full uniform, forty-six members of the Bethel College Band, under the direction of Professor David Suderman, gave a much appreciated concert, Sunday night, February 23, in the College Chapel. The first division consisted of "O Lord of Life," Bortmansky; "Adoramus Te," Palestrina-Harvey; and the "Crusader's Overture," Buchtel. Then there followed a number by a woodwind quintet, "La Gondoliera," by Zamercnick; "Twin Stars," by Wendland, "Storm," played by two trumpeteers. In the second division was given "Aladdin's Lamp," by Charles O'Neill; "First Movement from the Symphony in B Minor No. 8," by Schubert-Cailliet; "King John," Moehlmann; "La Rosita," by Dupont-St. Clair, and "Rustucon," by Franghiser. . . . Amid signs of fear and uneasiness on the part of some students the College is going through its second quarter examinations. A student with fair intelligence who has faithfully pursued his studies should have no fears.

—East Swamp Church, Quakertown, Pa. The Reverend J. J. Esau, our blind evangelist, has been engaged to hold evangelistic services at this church, from March 2 to 16. Brother Harold D. Burkholder is pastor of this church.

—Bluffton College.— Registration now shows 209 students taking regular college grade work, with eleven taking work in the conservatory of music. Several students dropped out at the end of the semester and a few transferred to Bluffton. The net enrollment is slightly less than the first semester.... President Ramseyer recently spoke at a Father and Son Banquet at Waynesfield, Ohio, on "Our Responsibility." He stressed the fact that we have to strengthen our fundamental principles of democracy, if that institution is to survive. A consistent religious attitude, clean living, an awareness of social problems, with a desire to work toward their solution, together with the ability to think clearly, are the essential conditions if democracy is to continue. . . . Professor I. W. Bauman, chairman of the Retreat Committee recently talked with ministers of the Central Conference concerning the Young People's Retreat for this and the Middle District Conference. It will again be held at Quaker Haven, Indiana, and from August 4 to 10.

—Meadow Mennonite Church, Mingo, Thomas Co., Kansas. The Reverend John H. Epp of Hillsboro, Kansas, was again with us, Sunday, February 3. Final arrangements have now been made for Brother Epp with his family to move here, to be the pastor of the Meadow Church. They will move sometime in March. —Mrs. Alvin L. Goossen, Corr. This rural church is certainly fortunate to get Brother Epp to shepherd the flock. For years this group has been yearning and praying for a pastor in their midst. Now their longing is fulfilled. May God richly bless pastor and church. —Editor —With our Reverend H. N. Harder as chairman of the Social Service Department of the Enid, Oklahoma, Council of Churches, a Race Relations Institute is to be featured in the town from February 9 to 11. Rev. Harder is to speak on "The Race Problem," also on the "Findings of the Seminar." There will be interracial seminars for both negroes and white folks. In the First Presbyterian church of the city Rev. Harder is scheduled to address a Social Relations Conference upon the subject, "A National and Christian Problem."

—Well done! The Bulletin of the First Church, Bluffton, Ohio, reports: Our collection for National Service Camps so far amounts to $127.11. Our quota for the first six months is $232.00. From March 9-14 this church will have special services. The Reverend E. J. Bohn of Souderton, Pa., will bring the messages.

"The talent of success is nothing more than doing what you can do well, and doing well what ever you do without a thought of fame. If it comes at all it will come because it is deserved, not because it is sought after." —Longfellow

COLLEGE AND CHURCH

Letter From a Father to a Son at College

My dear Son:

I expect you to take the contents of this letter in the spirit that it is written you, for both your present and future benefit, and it is to be understood that you will be guided accordingly.

The purpose of this letter, primarily, is to give you to understand that you are still a minor—that you have brought no fame to yourself and deserve no praise regardless of the many false admirers you may have. Knowing the world as I do, I realize my responsibility to God and society, in rearing you to the age of reason, so that you develop a character that can stand the temptation of wrong. However, you or no other human being can withstand the temptation to do wrong if they do not have God to rely on. And as I pick up the papers and read of the failures of college-bred men and women, I know it is not the colleges who are to blame. I know that it is not the parents that are to blame. This last-mentioned may be a factor to some degree, but I know I am not going to be to blame, if God gives me strength.

I am now coming down to the point.

When you were a baby and a small boy, your mother and I took you up to the center of Church, or as near as we could get to the Altar. As time went in, you got to going to church alone, and as we would come into the church, I would find you standing in the back of the church with plenty of empty pews in front. As you know, we had more than one battle—church or no church—but you invariably came up with us. Now it may not be long when there will result, through carelessness or some other reason, that you will want to be out of the Church altogether. But it will never be as long as I live. What I am leading up to is this, your last report card shows a deficiency in religious study and application. This is going to be improved, believe me, old Pal, and where I am for you at all times, I am for you especially on one point—the recognition of right. When I see your religious studies going haywire, it is time that I jerk you up, and I don't mean maybe.

I appreciate all the confidence you have in your mother, and regardless of what confidence you have in me at the present, long after I am gone, regardless of your successes or failures in life, you will realize that my teaching and advice at this time was for your benefit. To be good to you, Son, one must be cruel, at least that is the way you will take advice. When I hear you express some of your ideas of life, especially pertaining to the present time, my only recourse is to guide you firmly until you realize your humbleness.

I am at a complete loss to understand why you fall down on religious training; unless you have solid, sound reasons, or can acknowledge that you have not applied yourself humbly and faithfully to your studies, beliefs and practices. I don't care to hear any weak alibis. The faculty there are going to grant you no special favors unless you are worthy of them. You appear to feel that you can create your own ideas anl laws to satisfy yourself. At least, you have many times in the past. This is an error, and the sooner you cease this kind of thinking, the happier you will be.

You are the son of poor people with no position. Your prominence will come only with your successes, and if it does come, you can't get by on that. While you are down there at college with the sons of rich and socially prominent people, don't think for one moment that you can live and enjoy the same atmosphere and pleasures that they can, based on their parents' successes, because you are going to have to make the grade on your own hook. If you use the right kind of bait, as I may express it, you will land the fish of life that means horor and suscess, but if for one moment you think these will come to you if you neglect your religious teachings, you are lost right now.

Because you may graduate from college, don't think that is going to get you by. I can run a big factory with the college men who are motermen and conductors on the street car system of New York City. To bear out that college isn't the making of you unless you lead a good clean life, well balanced, with only the thoughts of righteousness predominating, I am enclosing various clippings from newspapers which state that college graduates forgot their God and committed criminal acts.

Now, Son, this is a tough letter to write, but I am putting it all in one book. There are no ifs nor ands about it; you are going to obey the law of your

God and your superiors, and avoid the mistakes that I have made.

A certain amount of pleasure at college is in order, but those good faculty members know better than I do what constitutes pleasure, and they have my full unrestricted authority to handle you in any manner they deem fit, with no reservations. Two weeks ago when you came home, you told me you came home for pleasure and not for work, but before you left, you found it was for a combination of work and pleasure, and as such it will always be.

Regardless of whether I am at home or not, when I tell you there is certain work to be done, you do it. You are costing me a lot of money to give you this education, but I don't begrudge it. I am happy to give it to you. And as I have no desire to leave a great amount of money to you after I pass on, unless you can show me that you can use it judicially, I would rather spend it on you now, knowing it is going to your benefit—giving you this education, rather than taking any chances of leaving it to you later on, not knowing how you will handle it.

When I put you down there, I didn't figure that I was buying a second-hand car from an advertisement in the newspaper, or as the saying goes, buying a pig in the bag. I didn't send you down there to be merely a well-dressed "gentleman." I sent you down there to learn to think for yourself, and prepare for leadership. I didn't send you down there to wear a tuxedo before you have the ability to pay for it. And I don't intend you will have one, until you show the ability of being worthy of it, because in my travels I see enough of these lounge lizards wearing tuxedos who haven't the backbone of a worm, and don't have the knowledge of the true and beautiful which makes for good and happy living. Tuxedos and poker, alcohol and automobiles, won't enter your life if I know it, to the point of endangering your soul or keeping you from building up the tough fibre that makes for character.

I am giving you this, this Sunday afternoon, in the manner I am giving it to you, so that nobody else will have to give it to you later on in life. I want to convey to your mind that the world will be a cruel master to you if you disobey the natural law of right. Knowing that I am right in these expressions, I hope that my feelings will prevail. If they didn't prevail on this subject, yours will. And should they be contrary to mine, you will be wrong to the age when you reach the point of reason. But wrong never conquered right. Therefore, I know that I will be the master for the present.

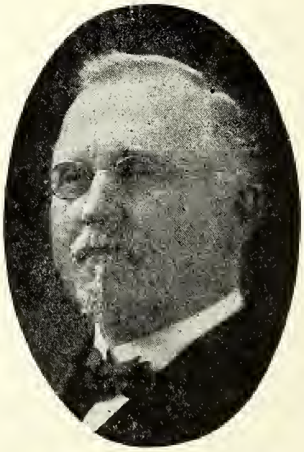
THE REV. W. S. GOTTSHALL GONE HOME

Late Monday morning, March 3, we received the following telegram from 1989 Nellawood, East Cleveland, Ohio: "Father died last night. Funeral in Pennsylvania. Notice later. Signed, Flora Geiger."

This was from Rev. Gottshall's daughter in whose home her ailing father has been taken care of soon after his retirement from the ministtry. Subsequent information was: The funeral was to take place in the Eden Mennonite Church, Schwenksville, Pa., on Friday, March 7, 1941, at 10:30 a. m. Interment in the cemetery near the church. The departed brought his age to 75 years and a little over nine months.



Rev. W. S. Gottshall

Rev. Gottshall began to preach when he was nineteen years old and continued in the profession until about two years ago, during a period of about fifty-five years. He had several charges in Pennsylvania, served the united Swiss churches in and near Bluffton and Pandora, Ohio, twenty-five years; the Salem Mennonite Church near Freeman S. D., six years, and lastly, before his retirement, the Swamp Church, Pa., eight years. He held many positions of trust in our conferences; thus, for instance, on the Home Mission Board of the General Conference for some forty years, as member, treasurer, secretary, and chairman. He was a man of strong, congenial personality; an interesting, convincing speaker, and a powerful champion of the cause of His Master Whom he dearly loved and cheerfully served.

No doubt his obituary will be presented for publication. —T

It was not mere breath that this preacher uttered, they were the words of life, because a life of good deeds, holy love and devotion was melted into them. Pearls, pure and rich, had been dissolved into the precious draught. —Nathaniel Hawthorne

FROM THE WORK AT ORAIBI, ARIZONA

Dear Mission Friends:

"Where the Word of the King is, there is power." Eccl. 8:4.

We thank all of you who have so graciously helped supply the Hopi Mission with Bibles and Testaments. Were you to enter our little chapel here at any of our services, you would see these Bibles used by young and old. The Lord will indeed bless you for your gift for His promise is, "Cast your bread upon the waters and thou shalt receive it after many days." How true this was in the case of that mother who gave so faithfully to the Lord's work in the face of her son's disapproval and then years later this same son, while in a land across the waters, chanced into a mission and there under the sound of the missionary's voice heard and believed the blessed news of Jesus Christ. How much that mother's heart must have throbbed with heavenly joy when reading her son's letter telling of his salvation.

We would also share with you our joy in the great privilege we had in holding vacation Bible schools at each of our three stations, with the help of the respective workers. In all 241 Hopi children attended these Bible schools. All who can read carried home a five cent New Testament which they were taught to use in their class instruction. Each school was divided into three divisions, and for each class we had mimeographed and stapled booklets with nine lessons each. Each booklet also contained thirty-two choruses and two songs. Most of these choruses and songs have been memorized. For motivation or busy work, to draw them to come, the primary group made celotex hot pads; the older girls made shopping bags or rather "carry-all" bags. The boys made some wood trays. All of these were beautified with carved work.

Earlier we had the privilege to go into the Hopi High School to practice a cantata. About 45 copies of the cantata "Life Eternal," by Fred Holton, had been secured for us. Mr. Suderman directed the choir. Louise Lomavitu, a young Hopi girl, member of our church, accompanied the choir on the piano, while I played the organ accompaniment. Over one hundred young Hopis blended their voices in the chorus parts, while neighboring missionaries sang the solos, duets, and quartets. This cantata was rendered as a one evening's program of commencement week, in the high school dining room and kitchen, our chapel being too small for it. The government people from all over the reservation expressed their appreciation of the work and also their surprise of how beautifully these Hopis sang. When visiting a sheep camp some time later an elderly Hopi said, "That singing was good. These days while herding my sheep I sometimes stop to listen, because it seems to me I can still hear them sing."

Gratifying as such immediate results and comments may seem, we consider our aim in it all the sowing of the seed of the Word of God and our goal the salvation of these precious young people for whom Christ died. While calling in some homes, I asked a few girls, "Do you ever sing the cantata?" "Yes," was their reply, "We were just singing it before you came." Scripture passages set to music in this cantata are such as pertain to the salvation of man in the death, resurrection, ascension of Jesus Christ and the application of all by faith unto eternal life. We hope to continue this work in the high school this coming year.

The Satanic inroads in this day of apostacy are becoming very acute here in the Hopi reservation. The erosion projects which the government is carrying out has brought in many white workers, most of whom are Mormons. In and around Oraibi are five such families, each of whom is also a missionary for their church. A few months ago twenty-one Hopi and Navajo Indians were baptized by the Mormons at Polacca, a Hopi village 20 miles from Oraibi. These Mormons promise saddles and other temporal provisions to any who will join their church. This year's drought together with last year's meagre crop, makes this a welcome bait, augmented still more with the suggested permission of the plurality of wives for the already morally weak Hopi. The fact that our government years ago bought the Moencopi and Tuba City homes from the Mormons, makes it, to this day, a desired place for Mormonism.

You will readily realize that we, your representatives on the field, must needs bend every effort in giving the Hopi the true Gospel of Jesus Christ. For all of our three stations, we therefore welcome and greatly appreciate any Christian literature such as gospels, tracts, Sunday School cards, papers and charts, any of which you would wish to send. We are also in need of more quilt patches (4x6 and 4x4) for use in women's sewing classes. These sewing classes are a most wonderful way of gathering the women of the villages together, to give them the Word. Last year quite a few were very near to the Kingdom. One on the mesa accepted the Lord and after a few months went home to be with Him. With some more of the Word others may come to Him also. Where any of you have shared in Junior C. E. work as the children have sent to these stations stamped articles with floss, and Bible picture work materials ? . . . ? which we have found so helpful in weekly and vacation Bible School work, we thank you.

However, the greatest need and the most effectual service any child of God can render to the Hopis is the earnest intercessory prayer of faith for their salvation. There is one such intercessor, who at various intervals sends us a card letting us know of her continued remembrance of the Lord's Work and us in her daily prayers. She wrote, "I've had my devotions this morning and prayed for you and your ministry there, and now want to drop you a card, letting you know that you are thus remembered." That note set my heart rejoicing in song that day, just to know that somebody prayed. Living out in the desert 80 miles from the nearest railroad town, such a word means more than one may at first realize.

In His blessed service,
Mrs. J. P. Suderman

MENNONITE BIBLE MISSION QUARTERLY REPORT, DECEMBER 1940

The Diary of a Busy Worker

We feel grateful for the continued support of the Mission Board and the Bethel Church, Kansas. May the Heavenly Father reward the givers. We have enjoyed the quiet blessing of the Lord. While no special event has happened we have had the visit of missionaries and the celebration of Christmas which we have enjoyed. I shall again relate a few of the happenings from our day-book.

Sunday, October 6—Mission Sunday, Rev. and Mrs. Henry Toews who have spent one term in Belgium Congo were with us and we welcomed them back to their home. Had a good attendance all day. The Toewses spoke morning and evening. I spoke at the First Mennonite Church at the Installation of Rev. Albrecht.

Sunday, October 13—Promotion Sunday. Children promoted from Beginners to Primary receive Testaments; those promoted from Primary to Juniors receive Bibles.

October 15—Attended meeting of Pacifist Ministers at Evanston. About 50 ministers of the Chicago area present. Mr. Muste of New York spoke.

Saturday, November 2—The Brightsbill brothers from the Bethany Biblical Seminary are here to overhaul our organ. They are music instructors at the Seminary and offered to overhaul the organ free prior to giving a musical program.

Sunday, November 3—Had a musical program in the evening by the Brightsbill brothers. They showed slide pictures and played the organ as the pictures were shown and the congregation joined in the hymns.

November 7—Attended meeting at First Mennonite Church at which Rev. Lehman spoke on Home Missions.

Sunday, November 10—Had a Sunday School Teachers and workers meeting and dinner. Mr. P. G. Schultz of the Brighton Mennonite Church was the speaker. Twenty-five teachers and workers present.

November 12-15—Attended Ministers retreat at Bluffton and visited with the Thiessens and Dicks in Bluffton and Lima. Enjoyed the blessings of the conference very much.

November 18—National Christian Mission meeting held at the Union Avenue Methodist Church. As chairman of the Protestant Church Organization of the Stock Yard District I was also chairman of this meeting. Dr. Muste of New York spoke on Democracy and Religion. He then gave one of the best peace talks I have heard. His stand on Nonresistance is, I believe, as strong as the Mennonite teaching. It was quite encouraging that a meeting of this kind could be held near the center of a great industrial community.

November 20—Had a wedding at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fetters. Have had quite a few requests to marry people outside of our church but so often when I make inquiries there has been a divorce and so I have always turned them away.

November 21—Our Thanksgiving day. Rev. Albrecht spoke here.

November 26, 27—Bluffton Gospel Team here for a program. Very cold and not a very large group out. Rev. W. C. Voth speaks on China Missions.

December 5—Had a special prayer meeting at the home of Mrs. T. Her only boy is in Pontiac and is to come before the Parole Board. Heard later that he was granted a parole, but he has not yet come home. I am to act as sponsor for him when he comes home.

December 6—Had meeting of Christmas Committee.

December 15—Communion service in which the Toewses were our special guests and Mr. Toews assisted.

December 16—Mrs. Mahaffey, one of the members, starts a children's class in her home. The object is to reach children that will not come to church.

December 22—Thiessens from Bluffton and Rev. Thiessen from his trip in Canada arrive for the Christmas reunion. Bro. Thiessen spoke in the evening.

December 23—The Dick family from Lima arrives for the Christmas reunion. In the evening we have a busy time getting ready for the Pageant of the Young People.

December 24—Christmas evening. A good program by the Young People. At ten o'clock about 40 of the young folks go carolling. We visited about 32 homes, and heard comments on the fine behavior of the carollers.

December 25—Christmas Day. Started at 10:00 o'clock. Had a program of the Beginners, Primary and Junior Departments of the Sunday School. After the program Rev. George Dick brought a Christmas message. In the afternoon of Christmas day we had a reunion at the home of Mrs. Wiens, mother of Mrs. Neufeld. All of the children and grandchildren were home, except the Ewerts, from China. The following were present: the Thiessen family from India, the Toews family from Africa, the Dick family from Lima, our own family and the two sisters at home with Mrs. Wiens; also a few cousins from Nebraska who are going to school here and helping at the Mission.

December 31—Watchnight service. Got together for a short program in which each family brought some number of its own choice. Had a meal together and visit for a while. Go home at 10:30.

General

Visitation work was carried on as usual. A number of people were in the hospital. A few babies were born for which we are thankful as they are needed. Formerly the missionary had quite a few children growing up in our midst, who were, as they became old enough, added to the Sunday School and later to the church. In the later years however families with children have been forced out from the community because of renting conditions. Those that stayed had fewer children and were encouraged by the relief and welfare agencies to have fewer children, so that our Beginners department has been very small.

So far only two of our men have received their questionnaires for the selective service. Both of these (to our surprise) have claimed exemption as conscientious objectors. One has received his classification as such, that is class 4E. The other one I have not heard from. May we pray that as they have taken such a step that they might be able to stand and that they might grow in Spirit through this experience.

Quarters Financial Report

Average Sunday morning attendance, 102; Average Sunday evening attendance, 45; average prayer meeting attendance, 20; offering per Sunday, $21.94; Total offering for Sundays and special days, $363.33.

For Missions outside of our own, from above, $78.96.

This was sent to Congo Inland Mission and to the Middle District Conference. John T. Neufeld

Every impulse and stroke of missionary power on earth is from the heart of Christ. He sows and there is a harvest. He touches nations, and there arises a brotherhood, not only civilized by His light, but sanctified by His Love.

A Sceptic's Conversion

"I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase." 1 Cor. 3:6

A minister had among his congregation an eminent lawyer who was an infidel. He had long desired the salvation of the sceptic, and one day, knowing that he was to be present in the meeting, he prepared a sermon especially for him, hoping and praying that through it he would be converted.

The infidel came. It was an icy winter's day; he listened to the sermon, and went his way, and not long after confessed his faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. The minister rejoiced, and in conversing with him inquired of him what portion of the sermon it was which especially affected his mind, and led to such a desirable result. He answered: "It was not your sermon at all; I did not hear it; I was making a brief all the while you were preaching. But after the meeting closed, as I came out I saw old black Aunt Chloe, trying to get down the slippery steps. I stepped forward and helped her down over the ice to the crossing, and as I left her she looked up in my face and said: "Oh! massa, I wish you loved my dear Jesus.' Those words rang in my ears, and I could not get rid of them, until I went to my office and bowed myself on my knees and gave myself to Christ. It was not your sermon, but it was old Aunt Chloe's words that led me to the Savior."

"Not by might, not by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts," is the constantly recurring lesson which God teaches us by circumstances like this. Shall we ever appreciate the Divine instruction, and learn to make the Lord our confidence and trust, believing that in Him alone is victory and strength?

IF CHRIST WERE TO ENTER

One evening Charles Lamb and some of his friends were conversing on the probable effects upon themselves, if they were brought face to face with the great and wonderful dead. "Think," said one, "if Dante were to enter the room! How should we meet the man who had trod the fiery pavement of the Inferno, whose eyes had pierced the twilight and breathed the still, clear air of the mount Purgatorio, whose mind had contemplated the mysteries of glory in the highest heaven?" "Or suppose," said another, "that Shakespeare were to come?" "Ah!" cried Lamb, his whole face brightening, "how I should fling my arms up! how we would welcome him, that king of thoughtful men!" "And suppose," said another, "Christ were to enter?" The whole face and attitude of Lamb were in an instant changed. "Of course," he said in a tone of deep solemnity, "we should fall upon our knees."

And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me. —Bible

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by C. H. Suckau

MARCH 15—"Take therefore no thought for the morrow." Mt. 6:34.

May we trust our Father in heaven who cares for the birds, the lillies and the grass, to care also for us.

"When you see the lillies spinning in distress,
Taking thought to manufacture
loveliness;
When you see the birds all building barns for store;
It is time for you to worry—
not before."

MARCH 16—"Who loved me." Gal. 2:20.

It is precious to know that God loved the world and gave His only begotten Son. More precious is the truth that Christ loved the church and gave Himself for it. But oh, what marvelous, matchless love that condescended to love a poor sinner like me! Christ loved me and gave Himself for me.

To think of it! He knows me
Through and through;
And yet He loves me
Tenderly and true.

—Arthur B. Rhinow

MARCH 17—"Now abideth faith, hope, love." 1 Cor. 13:13.

FAITH sees beyond the grave,
A home of rest;
And whispers in the gloom,
"God's will is best."

HOPE, like a shining star,
Brightens life's way;
Gives courage to the faint,
From day to day.

LOVE, greatest gift of all,
Calms ev'ry fear;
Makes all our burdens light,
Brings Heaven near.

—By an Invalid

MARCH 18—"But we see Jesus." Hebr. 2:9.

Praise God that we do not have to look at ourselves with all of our terrible failures in service, all our stumbling in trying to follow Him; all our grief and remorse over sins. That would indeed be a crushing sight to behold. No, we see Jesus and as we see Him, the dismal picture of our miserable self vanishes.

Turn your eyes upon Jesus,
Look full in His wonderful face;
And the things of earth will grow strangely dim
In the light of His glory and grace.

—Helen Howarth Lemmel

MARCH 19—"That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you." 1 John 1:3.

Christ was very real to His disciples. They had heard Him; they had seen Him; they had handled Him. Oh, that we too might come to know the realness of Christ, to know Him by the reality of experience. Let us pray:

Lord Jesus, make Thyself to me
A living, bright reality;
More present to faith's vision keen
Than any outward object seen;
More dear, more intimately nigh
Than e'en the sweetest earthly tie."

—Anonymous

MARCH 20—"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee: because he trusteth in thee." Is. 26:3.

When in these troublesome times we hear of wars and rumors of wars on every hand, how soothing to the soul is this word of promise, "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace."

Peace will not come to our hearts by any mental or spiritual effort on our part. It will come only as we have our minds stayed on Him.

Peace, perfect peace,
Our future all unknown?
Jesus we know,
And He is on the throne.

—Edward H. Bickersteth

MARCH 21—"The truth shall make you free." John 8:32.

Many men today, as then, do not realize that they are in slavery, slavery of sin. Likewise now, as then, many fail to accept the only means of emancipation from this slavery. Jesus says, "The TRUTH shall make you free." What is this freeing truth? Abstract or scientific truth cannot free us from sin. Such truth may free us from academic error or superstition, but it cannot free us from the slavery of sin. Sin is not a mental error but a spiritual depravity which has subjected all men, and, therefore, requires a spiritual remedy. This remedy is Jesus Christ, Who says, "I am THE TRUTH." "The TRUTH shall make you free."

HOME MISSION BOARD MEETING

Will you remember us in your prayers before the Lord, so that we might be given wisdom and grace to carry on the work as it ought to be done.

The meeting will be held in the Musselman Library, Bluffton College, March 12 and 13.

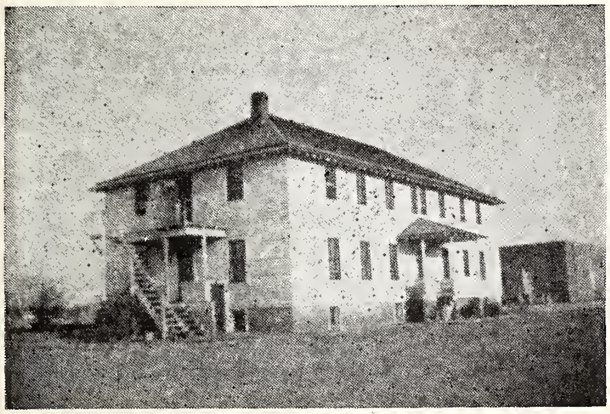
Oklahoma Bible Academy

Meno, Oklahoma

The Oklahoma Bible Academy, or Meno Academy, Oklahoma, was established in 1917, during the stress of the World War days, when the need of a Christian education for young people was especially felt, just as wee feel it again at present. A Bible school had been maintained by the local New Hopedale church a number of years before this, but that year the Oklahoma Convention, in session at Meno, decided to adopt the Bible Academy as its special field of service. Since then most of the General Conference churches in Oklahoma have helped maintain the Oklahoma Bible Academy.



O. B. A. Dormitory with School in Background

The direct management of the school was left in the hands of a "Verein" or society, as was customary among similar schools of the Western District Conference at that time, but the Convention is represented on the board of directors by electing two members out of the eight. The O. B. A. does not have any endowment fund nor many rich patrons to insure it against the inevitable deficits. As a result it has had to struggle financially for its existence almost from the beginning. But, because those whom the Lord had called into the work thought of it as God's work, He has honored their faith and has supplied the means. And we feel assured that He will continue to do so in the future, so that He may accomplish His purpose with the O. B. A.

The O. B. A. has had a steady growth. The first years it had only one or two teachers who taught all the academic and Bible subjects. With the passing years more subjects had to be added to meet the demand of the young folks and the competition of other schools. For the same reason the school was finally compelled to secure state credit for its academic work, so that since 1935 the O. B. A. has been fully accredited by the State of Oklahoma for four full years of high school work. Since then four teachers have been doing the teaching in the school every year, three in the high school department and one in the Bible department.

The desire of O. B. A. is to continue to serve the churches of Oklahoma and other states, so that the young people coming to this school will be brought into vital relationship with the Lord Jesus Christ. Our aim is to train for service in the local churches from which they come, and, if possible, open up wider fields of service. —August Schmidt, Principal

The Lord's Supper

Luke 22: 14-30 Read chap. 22

TOPIC: AN ENDURING MEMORIAL

Introduction

Jesus spent a very busy day in Jerusalem on Tuesday of His last week. Much has been preserved of what He said on that day. He went to Bethany that night and we hear nothing more until Thursday. On that day Peter and John were sent to prepare the passover meal for Jesus and his apostles.

The Upper Room vs 14-18

The evening of the Passover had come. With a sense of reverence and awe we come to the closing scenes of Christ's life. We follow Him and the Twelve into the upper room in thought, and see Him there and listen to his matchless words issuing out of a full heart. This was an evening of sacred fellowship. Jesus tells His disciples that He had looked forward to eating this Passover supper with them with earnest and eager expectation and longing (v15). This would be His last opportunity to eat this Passover with them until the whole meaning of it should "be fulfilled in the kingdom of God" (v16). Anguish of heart, suffering and death were before Him. All the powers of hell were about to go the limit and do their very worst to Him.

Now in the upper room there was, for a little while, the calm before the storm. Jesus was sheltered safely with his most intimate friends about Him. Here He could reveal the hidden thoughts of his heart.

Memorial in Remembrance of Christ vs 19,20

Jesus gave thanks before passing the bread and the cup to the disciples. The bread which He broke symbolized his body which was literally broken when He was nailed to the cross and when He was scourged. The broken bread stands too for a symbol of his great love for us. The bread represents the body of Jesus. The word "is" is frequently used in the sense of "represents" (cf Luke 12:1, John 10:7, Rev. 1:20). The cup represents Jesus blood shed freely for all. At the cost of his life, He established a new covenant for the forgiveness of sins. This covenant, sealed with his blood, takes the place of the old covenant under the law. Jesus' words, "this do in remembrance of me," makes this an enduring memorial. Jesus regarded his death as for others, and by it a new covenant was established.

There is great blessing when we partake of the Lord's Supper aright. He who thus eats and drinks bears witness to his personal need of the atoning sacrifice which the elements represent. How ungrateful they are who neglect to remember Him by partaking of the Lord's Supper. Jesus knew how much His followers needed this memorial supper. Jesus' death is the means of bringing on, instituting and sealing a redemption which only the sacrifice of His life will bring to fulfillment. There can not be forgiveness except on the ground of his shed blood.

Proclaiming the Lord's Death

Paul says in our Golden Text, that as often as we eat this bread and drink this cup, we proclaim the Lord's death. This doctrine he preached to the churches which he founded. The Lord's Supper, wherever celebrated, does proclaim the Lord's death and always will. When we partake of the Supper, we thereby proclaim our belief in His sacrificial and atoning death. We proclaim the fact that we need his death for ourselves personally; also our belief that He will come again. The Lord's supper is an enduring memorial of His death.

Why did Jesus so much desire to eat this passover with His disciples?

What is the value of the Holy Communion to you?

What spiritual preparation is necessary for partaking of the Sacrament?

OUTLINES OF HYMNOLOGY

a paper-bound book of 72 pages, edited by Prof. Walter H. Hohmann, M. M., and published by the Board of Publication of the General Conference, has just come off the press. The book is to be given GRATIS to churches who order THE MENNONITE HYMNARY, at the rate of one copy for every twenty-five hymnaries bought. Its purpose is to assist song leaders, ministers and lovers of church music to make a more appreciative use of our hymnary, to acquaint our people with our Mennonite heritage in hymnology and to stimulate greater interest in church music and congregational singing.

PART I of the book traces the history of ANCIENT AND MEDIEVAL HYMNODY, starting with Hebrew psalms and Greek hymnals, then listing what may be called the first Christian chants or hymns found in the first two chapters of Luke's Gospel; also several early Christian hymns used as liturgies, such as "Ter Sanctus," Gloria in Excelsis," "Gloria Patri," etc. Then it shows the development of Greek, Early and Later Latin Hymnody.

This is followed by: GERMAN HYMNODY, comprising hymns of the Reformation period, the Thirty Years War period, the Pietistic and Moravian period, the Rationalistic period, and the Classic period.

Next the book takes up the development of PSALMODY, explaining that there are three types of psalmody: Responsorial, alteration between soloists and the choir; antiphonal, alteration of two choirs; direct psalmody, having no alterations. Then follow brief treatments of English psalmody, the beginning of psalms, the Bay Psalm Book, Dutch psalmody, German psalmody.

Considerable attention is given to ENGLISH PSALMODY, taking up first the Doctrinal and Didactic period, then the Missionary and Evangelistic period, and Devotional and Experimental period. Then follow paragraphs on GOSPEL SONGS and TWENTIETH CENTURY PSALMODY.

PART II comprises a Chronological List of Mennonite Hymn Books; first Dutch books adopted by Mennonites; then hymn books of Mennonite origin, of German Anabaptists, of Swiss and South German churches, of the Danzig Mennonite church, of West Prussian Mennonite churches, of churches in the Palatinate, also of churches in Russia.

Lastly there follows a long list of hymn books used and originated in AMERICA, with short explanations, beginning with the famous "Ausbund" and ending with editions of the "Gesangbuch mit Noten," the "Mennonite Hymn Book" and now "The Mennonite Hymnary."

PART III is a Frequency List of Hymns in Mennonite Hymn Books. This is an exceedingly interesting part. Some of the most frequently found hymns are: Ach bleib mit Deiner Gnade; Alle Menschen muessen sterben; Befiehl du deine Wege; Aus tiefer Noth schrei ich zu Dir; Eins ist Noth! Ach Herr, dies eine; Gott des Himmels und der Erden; Herr Jesus Christ, Dich zu uns wend; Ich habe nun den Grund gefunden; Jesus nimmt die Suender an; Lobe den Herren, den maechtigen; Liebster Jesus, wir sind hier; Mache dich mein Geist bereit; Ringe recht, wenn Gottes Gnade; Warum soll ich mich denn graemen? Werde munter, mein Gemuethe..

This is a very timely book, a helpful companion to The Mennonite Hymnary, but one has to see and examine it to appreciate fully its valuable contents. It ought to be in the hands of every song leader, choir director, minister, and others interested in hymnology.

The book may be had at the MENNONITE PUBLICATION OFFICE, NEWTON, KANSAS, OR MENNONITE BOOK CONCERN, BERNE, INDIANA, at 25 cents a copy, for any not entitled to free copies.

What worth has the Simple Life for our Young People today?

"We believe that our Lord set an example for us by living, as far as we know, a true pattern of the Simple Life. His way is the true way of life.

"Indeed, it comes from within, bringing with it those fine virtues which are far too rare among us; humility, sincerity, honesty, and frugality. These, our friends admire, our enemies respect and history records as evidence of Christ's presence in our lives.

"Many Christians are weary of cold formality and ritual in worship programs. Is there a better way to the Throne than the simple direct way of our forefathers? The Lord looketh on the heart! Have the Mennonites lost something here?

"Our forefathers lived in uncertain times like these; dark days which drove them to the very fundamentals of all life. Their fine example suggests our examining their way of life. Preaching and practicing the Simple Life they prospered, were blessed by God, and honored by their fellows as frugal, thrifty and ideal citizens in all lands.

"Shall we follow His example and pray with the Psalmist—That thy way may be known upon earth, thy saving health among all nations? Ps. 67:2."

YOUNG PEOPLE'S EXHIBIT

Are you planning to attend the General Conference this summer?

It is the expressed hope of the General Conference leaders that more young people will be present at the coming Conference sessions. With this in mind, the committee in charge of the Young People's Exhibit, is doing its best to make the exhibit inspiring as well as interesting.

A part of the planned work of the Committee is a "Who's Who," or "What Mennonite Young People are Doing." The gathering of this material is in charge of Stanley Fretz, Lansdale, Pa.

A Camp Mennolan Letter

The young people of the Eastern District are the first group of our General Conference to build their own Retreat Grounds. To facilitate this work they publish a little letter from which the following excerps are taken.

"Our News Letter was born out of the need for a medium through which our workers and friends of Mennolan might be kept in constant touch with activities and developments at our camp.

"The area about Finland (location of camp) is one of the State's richest in wild plant life."

"An amateur botanist, Francis Doyle of Philadelphia, found 37 varieties of wild flowers in bloom within a few hours one afternoon in July,1939.

"We are investing for our future, both for ourselves and for our children. There is a difference between spending and investing.

"The area of Mennolan is over 23 acres. About forty slides showing pictures of wild flowers and plants, native to Finland, have been made recently.

"A Day at the Camp, Sat., Feb. 15, 1941—The window and door openings were put in place and the East wall was completely boarded up as was one half of the North wall. It is hoped that in a week or two the entire building will have its walls in place. Next week we hope to get quite a number of rafters in place."

From a Bethel Student's Letter

"We had two papers to write up—one for Bible and one for Social Ethics. For Bible we were to paraphrase the Beatitudes (through the 16th verse of Matthew 5) and for Social Ethics we were to write at least two pages on our conception of what Jesus meant by 'The Kingdom of God!' We are studying Christian Ethics now. . . . All of my subjects happened to be along the line of Christian thought last week and part of this—even Philosophy of Education. We were to explain Jesus' statement, 'Ye shall know the truth and it shall make you free." That's one thing I like about Bethel—that this line of thought is running through all things even those usually considered secular." (Italics mine —R. W.)

Bluffton College Notes

The Gospel Team Quartets are planning to visit Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, and Pennsylvania churches during the Easter vacation. Recently the Men's Gospel Team Quartet conducted the evening service at the First Mennonite Church, Bluffton, Ohio. Robert Sommer preached a sermon on the spiritual life.

On Saturday, Feb. 23, several faculty members spoke in churches in northern Indiana. Dr. C. Henry Smith spoke in the Topeka Mennonite Church; Dean J. S. Schultz in the Silver Street Church; Prof. A. C. Schultz in the 8th Street Church, Goshen; Prof. Staufer in the Middlebury Church and Miss Edna Ramseyer in the Nappanee Church.

Bishop Paul Jones was the speaker at the Vesper Service held on Sunday, March 2nd. Dr. Jones is Associate Professor of Biblical Literature and College pastor at Antioch College, Athens, Ohio. He is an ardent advocate of peace and is well known for his interest in social welfare.

MAIN TOPIC: "MISSIONS" Matt. 28:19-20

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "All hail the power of Jesus' name," "The whole world was lost in darkness and sin," "The work is Thine, O Christ."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Drama: "White unto harvest" (Write Mrs. A. E. Kreider for the play).
4. Offering for missions

II. Leader's Introduction

Missions have always been the "business" of the church. Some of the most outstanding men of talent, of heart and of mind, have been missionaries; think of Paul, and all his noble followers. This work is not finished nor outmoded today. It is still one of the outstanding challenges to the church! Our own country has wide areas which need the faithful, devoted work of consecrated men and women. One large field is the work among the migrants. Our own denomination has so far done practically nothing for these most needy ones. Our fields in India and China are calling. Africa and South America also need our Savior. Today, too, there is the Macedonian call from many quarters, "Come over and help us."

III. Instead of the usual talks give the time for the above drama, and good special musical numbers along the line of "Missions."

IV. Facts for Study

Arrange for a contest on the names and the present locations of missionaries, or deal out the names to various members to have them make three minute reports on their work.

V. Reading

"Christ has no hands, but our hands,
To do his work today;
He has no feet, but our feet
To lead men in his way;
He has no tongue, but our tongue
To tell men how he died;
He has no heart but our heart
To bring men to his side." etc.

(Use other available short readings)

VI. Food for Thought

"Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done
On earth as it is in heaven."

Till My God Is Their God

The greatest sight in all India was not Mount Everest, nor the Taj-Mahal. It was a lone American woman physician, daughter of a university professor, living alone in one of India's sacred cities. In Brindaban thronging with garlanded sacred cows, chattering sacred monkeys, vile priests—a haunting nightmare of a city—she was carrying on her work. Never can I forget that good-by as she stood on the veranda of her bungalow. It seemed so impossible to leave her there in that cesspool of iniquity, with not a single one of her own race. She answered the unspoken thought: "But these people are my people." Her life was a vow. With another she had said, "These people shall be my people till my God is their God." —Mary Swail Taft.

Poem

My Father's World

This is my Father's world. O let me ne'er forget
That though the wrong seems oft so strong,
God is the ruler yet.

This is my Father's world. The battle is not done.
Jesus who died shall be satisfied,
And earth and heaven be one.

This is my Father's world. Should my heart be ever sad?
The Lord is King, let the heavens ring,
God reigns;—let the earth be glad.
Maltbie D. Babcock, F. H. Revell, Co.

Discussion:

1. Ask three or four members to give their conception of conditions in our world.
2. Ask several members to discuss what they think the world needs more than anything else.
3. Assign to different members the task of finding principles which Jesus taught which would establish better relations between peoples, such as, "Love your enemies," "Do good to them that hate you and despise you."
4. End with an informal discussion of world conditions and the need of practicing the principles of Jesus.

Poem

A Thousand Years Have Come

A thousand years have come and gone,
And near a thousand more,
Since happier light from heaven shone
Than ever shone before,
And in the hearts of old and young
A joy most joyful stirred,
That sent such news from tongue to tongue
As ears had never heard.

And we are glad and we will sing,
As in the days of yore;
Come all, and hearts made ready bring,
To welcome back once more
The day when first on wintry earth
A summer change began,
And, dawning in a lowly birth,
Uprose the Light of man.

WORSHIP: THE VALUE OF SONG

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude Soft Music
2. Call to worship Ps. 100:2
3. Worship in Song Awake, My Soul To Joyful Lays. M. H. B. 25.
4. Worship in Scripture Ps. 69:30-36.
5. Leader's Opening Prayer -
6. Leader's Introductory Remarks regarding the topic of the evening.

Music, like poetry and flowers, is elevating and refining in its nature, and should therefore have its place in the worship of God, and in the life and experience of God's people. It is adapted to every mood and feeling of the human soul and many times has rached hearts when other means have failed. Next to prayer, music seems best adapted to worship.

II. Study Period

1. Topic - Does the Bible approve of the use of musical instruments in the worship of God? Ps. 150:3-5; Ps. 92:1-3.
2. Topic - (by an older person) The value of memorizing hymns.
3. Song - "In My Heart There Rings A Melody"
4. Topic - (by an older person) Does my singing please the Lord? Ps. 69:30, 31; Ps. 19:14.

III. Mission Minutes

1. Have a discussion or a report on My First Visit to a Hindu Temple, found in the February number of Missionary News and Notes.
2. Pray that many of the lost souls may be won to Christ.

Though we may be so far apart from those for whom we plead, and so seemingly helpless, we are thankful that there are no distances in prayer nor any frontiers.

Who gives a prayer, gives his best.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat verse for the month.
2. Sing the song of the month.
3. Pray the prayer for the month.

THE LAW WILL LAST

Have some of those government men at Washington been going to Sunday School of late? Where did they so suddenly get the idea that somebody sometime would have to pay for all this terrific spending? How did the word get around to them that wild oats must be harvested, that chickens come home to roost, and that a lot of other old-fashioned gospel recently and currently despised is really true?

"Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." That divine law may be trampled on but never without disaster to the trampler, soon or late. In the insanity of our times, that is one thing you can bank on. Better hold fast to it. When the world comes to its senses, it will be good to be of those who knew it was true all the time.

IN MEMORIAM

HENRY VON RIESEN, son of Abraham and Johanna Hamm von Riesen, was born in Schidlitz near Danzig, West Prussia, on January 30, 1851. He lost his parents at an early age and then lived with relatives and friends. Upon confession of his faith he was baptized by Elder Manhardt in Danzig on June 30, 1867, and joined the Mennonite Church at that place.

In 1874 he emigrated to America, first locating at Burlington, Iowa, with his sister and other friends. In 1877 he came to Beatrice, Nebr., where he engaged in the drug business for several years. In 1879 he was married to Miss Alice Whitney of Beatrice. To this union two children were born, Charles Louis and Louis Edward. In 1889 his wife died, and his sister, Anna von Riesen, made her home with them and became a second mother to the boys. On May 14, 1891, he was married to Miss Anna Elizabeth Zimmerman. While he was engaged as a salesman for a wallpaper company, they lived temporarily in Omaha. In 1892 he and his family returned to Beatrice. The two sons both died in young childhood.

In 1900 he established an insurance agency here in Beatrice, in which he was active to within a few years of his death. In April, 1927, his second wife passed away, and in 1934 his sister, who until then made her home with them, also passed on, thus leaving him alone. It was remarkable how he was enabled to bear up patiently in these years of loniliness. Often he voiced his thankfulness to the Lord for His grace and guidance. When it became impossible to care for him in his home, he was taken to the Mennonite Hospital. He was graciously permitted to attain the ripe age of 90 years and 8 days, having looked forward toward the 90th birthday as a probable goal to attain. On Friday, February 7th, he passed to be with Him whom he loved, his Savior. Thus Brother von Riesen has enjoyed the fulfillment of a promise not attained by all, found in Ps. 91:16, "With long life will I satisfy him, and shew him my salvation."

Funeral services were held February 10, from the Funeral Home and the First Mennonite Church. The interment is in the Church Cemetery.

ELISABETH SCHMIDT, the daughter of Tobias Schmidt and Luvantine Decker Schmidt, was born in Jadvaninne, Polish Russia, October 11, 1864. In 1874, she with her parents and many others came to America and settled in McPherson County, Kansas. Then they moved to Marion County, Kansas, where she grew to womanhood. In the summer of 1886 she was baptized by Elder Johann Ratzlaff and joined the Mennonite Church at Moundridge, Kansas, as there was no organized church at their home yet. June 20, 1886, she married Jacob A. Wedel, with whom she shared joy and sorrow for over 54 years. In the spring of 1894 they moved to Meno, Oklahoma, where she has lived to her last. Mrs. Wedel lived a quiet, consistent Christian life, always ready to do her part. With a smile she met those who came in touch with her, and was ready to suffer for the sake of others. Monday evening, February 10, she was taken down with influenza, which developed into double pneumonia. Her heart being weak, she realized that she would soon be called to her reward, but she was ready to meet her Savior. On Friday night, February 21, only a few days after she had been taken to the hospital, she was called home, at the age of 76 years, 4 months, and 10 days. She leaves to mourn her loss, the bereaved husband, eight daughters, and two sons; Katie, Mrs. Jacob B. Eck, Fairview; Ida, Mrs. Joe Jantz, Ringwood; Minnie, Mrs. Jacob B. Unruh, Meno; Anna, Mrs. Robert Koehn, Meno; Helena, Mrs. Peter H. Jantz, Cleo—all five, Oklahoma; Elisabeth, Mrs. Samuel Redeger, Witmore, and Lorena, Mrs. Otis Schmidt, Greensburg, Kansas; Jacob and Benjamin, Meno, Oklahoma, and two daughters-in-law. CORRESPONDENCE

GRACE MENN. CHURCH, ENID, OKLAHOMA

The year 1941 is well on its way. Already it has brought us, as a church and as individuals, many blessings and probably also a few disappointments. However, Christians can overcome these disappointments by holding to the promise in Psalm 31:24: "Be of good courage, and he shall strengthen your heart, all ye that hope in the Lord."

All the departments of the church have planned and started their year's work. The re-elected and newly-elected officers are conscientious about their duties, and we are anticipating a very blessed and fruitful year of work for our Master in the local church. The Sunday School Teacher's Training Class meets regularly with the minister, the Christian Endeavor meets twice a month. The Ladies' Mission Society also meets twice a month, one meeting is devoted to various mission projects, the other to sewing for individuals, where help is needed or in carrying out projects for our church.

Recently the men met at the church one evening to build a partition in the basement. This work of dividing the basement into S. S. rooms will be continued as funds are available.

Our choir sang at the Booker T. Washington Colored High School, at one of the meetings of Enid's First Race Relations Institute, which was planned by the Interracial and Social Service Committee of Enid's Council of Churches. Sunday evening, February 16, an inspirational program was rendered by the Bible students of the O. B. A. at Meno, Oklahoma, with the help of young people who were enrolled for the special Bible Course.

The attendance at our services is increasing and very encouraging. February 23 our Sunday School attendance was 80, with nearly the same for the worship service. Prayer meetings are also well attended. The spirit of the church is very encouraging and has the promise of growth and better service. The offerings during services are fair. —Mrs. H. T. H., Corr.

ALEXANDERWOHL CHURCH, GOESSEL, KS.

Thanksgiving Day was again, as has been our custom for many, many years, the day for a special foreign mission offering, when the adults gave $1405.39 and the children $181.01. This amount could and should be greater if we all would give as God's stewards ought to give. Our other foreign mission collections are taken every month, and on special occasions as they arise.

With the beginning of the new church year the Sunday School officers and teachers were elected for the year 1941. We are grateful to have members who have been willing to serve as teachers from fifteen to twenty-five years and some even longer. May God bless them and give them courage to go on with their work for Him. In December we were privileged to have with us Prof. A. E. Kreider and Rev. J. C. Kaufman, giving us messages, the one in English, the other in German. These sermons no doubt have been an inspiration to the young people, especially helping them to decide for Christ. A class of forty-four members was organized on December 29 for their catechismal instruction, under the leadership of our pastor, Rev. P. H. Unruh. Musical programs which were greatly enjoyed and appreciated by large audiences included a Christmas cantata and Christmas carols by our mixed choir on the evening of December 22; a sacred program on the last evening of the year by the Young Men's Chorus; a program of Christmas carols and songs by the Lehigh Community Men's Chorus under the direction of Mr. Gerhard Friesen; and a sacred program by the Men's Chorus of the First Baptist Church of Newton, on the evening of January 19.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Voth celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary on December 16, 1940; and on February 21, this year, the wedding of Miss Rachel Nickel to Mr. John Entz occurred.

Our Annual Meeting took place on December 30, which was an all day event. The prayer meetings were observed on three evenings. Topics were assigned and discussed by members of the church, several prayers offered each evening, and a few musical selections given by the Men's Chorus, a trio and a quartet. One night recently, Miss Justina Schmidt showed pictures from Nigeria, Africa, at a joint meeting of the Senior and Junior Endeavors.

Much illness has kept many away from the services, but we hope they all will soon have recovered. This winter has been an unusually cloudy and moist one. —Mrs. G. Duerksen, Corr.

BETHEL MENN. CHURCH, WINTON, CALIF.

Just a few lines from this church. Our newly organized church here is progressing slowly but surely. Although the way is steep sometimes, it is not discouraging. The attendance of our Sunday School and church services is increasing, and the Christian Endeavor meetings are also well attended. We also have mid-week Bible study and prayer services. At the election of officers, one deacon was elected and other officers re-elected.

Our congregation has been blessed much by a two-day visit of the Reverend J. B. Epp of the General Conference, a traveling minister, and a past missionary of the Hopi Indians. We have been very much inspired by the two messages he delivered. It was so needful, for our condition here in Winton and in this day and age. The first night his message was, "What should be our conduct towards our sister churches around us?" To follow his good message this, of course, calls for the grace to "Love thy neighbor as thyself." The second night his message was "to be alert and on the watch against modern preachers," preachers that deny the saving power of the blood of the Lamb. Let us cling to Rev. 12:11, "and they overcame him by the Blood of the Lamb, and by the word of their testimony." This scripture applies to our present day and age.

From here Rev. Epp continued his trip to Oregon. May the Lord bless his mission and may others pray for our church here in Winton.

FIRST MENNONITE CHURCH, UPLAND, CAL.

This church and community has lost a dear friend in the passing of Mrs. Elizabeth Weber. It seems strange not to see her at the regular place in church on Sunday. Her soul is now resting with the Lord. We are looking forward to a series of Bible lectures in April, by Dr. D. W. Kurtz. He was a student at Leipzig, Berlin, Marburg and College de France. He has lectured at the World's Sunday School Convention at Tokyo, Glasgow, and Los Angeles. . . The Oratorio Society of Upland, under the direction of Rev. Lester Hostetler, have begun their rehearsal of "The Seven Last Words," which they plan to present at Easter.

The Church Council recently appointed a budget committee to work out a plan to raise the money needed for the year's expenses. They appointed a group of twenty couples, each couple contacted seven families assigned to them. In this manner the canvass was completed in a few days, and the results were gratifying. This also gave opportunity to form new friendships in our calling . . . Our missionary societies are doing a great deal of work in war relief. Recently the S. O. Circle spent an entire meeting sewing on new materials, a number bringing their sewing machines along to expedite work . . . At the February meeting we were privileged to have Mrs. Raymond S. Holdings as speaker. She and her deceased husband served for many years as missionaries in Mexico. During the World War they were working in Cuba and Mrs. Holdings has many rich memories of their experiences there. At present she serves under the Congregational Church, with the Mexicans in Ontario, California. On Sunday she has classes in Bible study; during the week in sewing . . . A great many of our young people have to find employment away from the home church. The airplane factories have drawn many. But we are happy to know that many attend church, even though it cannot be Mennonite. —Mrs. Paul Baird, Corr.

—The Recent Session of the Board of Foreign Missions held at the Bethel College social room was attended by all members, also partly by the officers of the General Conference Women's Mission Association. The disturbances caused by the war around the world brought up many weighty problems. Thus, for instance, the United States government wants all missionaries to come home, but our faithful workers there trust the Lord for their protection and will continue their work for the present at least.

—A Farewell Festival for Missionaries John Thiessen was held on February 23, in the Bethel Church near Inman, Kansas, the home community of Bro. Thiessen. The attendance was large. Three meetings were held. Mr. Thiessen announced that their passes had not yet come, but that they were going to the west coast, and if the passes didn't come, this would be a sign that they should not venture out.

—Rev. Delbert Welty of Wayland, Iowa, will hold a series of evangelistic meetings on Christian Living, at the Mennonite Bible Mission in Chicago, from March 11 to 16 inclusive. During this time he will discuss the following: Our Common Sin; Our Common Service; The Christian in the Home and at Work; The Christian as a Neighbor and Citizen; Values, Enduring and Transitory; The Christian and the New World Order. —Church Correspondent

ANNOUNCEMENT, INVITATION

The Peace Team of McPherson, Kansas, will be host to the Kansas Conference of the Fellowship of Reconciliation on March 21 and 22 at McPherson College. The first meeting will be held at 7:30 p. m. on Friday, and the sessions will continue all day Saturday. We welcome you. The theme of the Conference is PREPAREDNESS THROUGH CHRIST. All who are interested in Peace come and join in fellowshipping with us and receive much spiritual blessing. You will be able to get your meals at the College for 25 cents each. There will be no registration fee. Come!

Mrs. A. M. Lohrentz, Chairman

—Rev. A. W. Friesen, pastor of the Bethany Church, Henderson, Nebraska, has given us an agreeable surprise by sending us a copy of their newly inaugrated church bulletin, entitled, ECHOES, and their 1941 Year Book, both of which carry much that is interesting. The bulletin contains a list of 48 young people who are taking catechetical instruction.—The Bible School which is maintained by the church is featuring an evening class on Wednesday nights, which is attended by as many as forty and fifty students. Some of these conduct the devotional exercises in the day school which brings in enjoyable variety.—Their Christian Endeavor meetings are interesting and well attended. The group is preparing to give a special program of song and scripture readings on March 16.—Nine young brothers of the church have been classified as 4E, which means that they will be drafted and sent to a civilian camp, most likely to the one near Colorado Springs, Colorado.—Eighty-four of the new Hymnaries have been ordered and the choirs are busy rehearsing, with the aim of formally introducing the new hymn book to the congregation some time this month. (We will have to postpone mentioning important items in the Year Book until later.)

—Bluffton College. Prof. E. J. Hirschler who has served the college as professor of mathematics for nearly forty years, is again seriously ill at his Bluffton home. Due to impaired health, he did not teach the first semester, but reassumed his duties with the opening of the second. On the fourth of February he suffered a stroke of paralysis. He is paralyzed only in parts of the body, his speech organs being among these. According to last reports, he seems to be slightly improved.—The Lima, Ohio, choral organizations, directed by Prof. Russell Lantz, of the College, won the top prizes in the Central Ohio Eisteddfod held recently at Columbus. The male chorus won the first prize of $500.00 and the mixed chorus the second prize of $300.00.—A group of twelve professors from Bluffton recently attended a conference held by the North Central Association at Toledo, Ohio, the purpose of which was to discuss the responsibility and place of the liberal arts college in the training of teachers.

—Freeman Junior College. Under the caption A Big Undertaking, their bulletin tells of the great need of productive funds to keep the institution going. At one time it had an endowment fund of $40,000. During a series of almost cropless years in the territory that furnishes the school with most of its students and its main support, honest people who had given endowment notes, could not maintain payment. Some died and their families sort of let matters drift. So that in one way or another the fund has dwindled down to a very small figure. Now, the Board of Directors and the Administration have worked out this plan for a coming financial campaign: To give holders of old notes an opportunity to sign new twenty-five year pledges; and to get as many signers of new pledges as possible. The goal set is at least $40,000. Between May 19 and June 14 a strenuous campaign is to be put on, covering the town of Freeman and all the churches in the vicinity of Freeman. Later many other communities are to be given opportunity to join in this effort.

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary

"And the word of the Lord came to Jonah the second time, saying, Arise, go unto Nineveh, that great city and preach unto it the preaching that I bid thee." Jonah 3:1-2.

The way the Home Mission fields have multiplied in recent years and the way the workers were supplied, we recognize that the Lord has had a definite hand in this work. True, not all the new preaching places that have been opened are large cities, but the Lord of the harvest, is keenly concerned about smaller places as well. Recall how He sent Philip down into the desert to preach to one man, the Ethiopian eunuch. So we might recount how rural communities have opened to the call of the Gospel in Canada, but we have one place in a city that needs to be recognized.

Mission Work in Asuncion, Paraguay

As is well known there are large numbers of Mennonites in the Fernheim Colony, Gran-Chaco, Paraguay, South America. The majority of the Mennonites by far live in colonies or in small villages. Others find it necessary to look for work elsewhere, and so a goodly number have settled and found employment in the city of Asuncion. For a long time the need was felt for a Mennonite Church to be established in this two-century old city. Asuncion has approximately 100,000 population.

Circumstances took such a turn that early this year Rev. Abraham Harder, could go to Asuncion to take up this important work. Of course he will keep up his connections and relationship with the Church at Philadelphia.

Details about the work and other interesting facts will be published later. May we enlist an interest in this work before the Lord in your prayers?

The Home Mission Board is pleased to have Rev. J. J. Esau, blind evangelist, who is holding some meetings in churches in Eastern Pennsylvania, stop off and conduct some meetings in the Home Mission Churches in Western Pennsylvania, also.

A WORD FROM GREAT DEER, SASK.

Feb. 24, 1941

Dear Brethren:

Greetings in Christ Jesus! We are glad to have this opportunity to forward a brief, humble report of activity and problems in our community. At Great Deer, a rural community, we have our services at two points, one at our Bethel Church, which now belongs to the Home Mission Board and the other one in a rural school about five miles away. Being the teacher in the above mentioned school, I get in contact with and have access to the parents' as well as children's ways. The community has lived in extraordinary poverty, but is ready to accept the word of God, whenever it is offered. I've been studying local conditions here for more than five years to meet the demands. There are great problems to be solved. One of the major ones is that of attending to our young men and women. They appear at our meetings looking for interesting activities, as youth always does. However, we cannot deal with them as we should, i. e., to offer them inviting parts to develop an appreciative understanding of the Christian's life. It is a great drawback for us not to have an organ, as we all love music and singing so much. I still plan on getting a small organ that can be taken on the car. We have missed many opportunities already to do our bits for the Lord, that is, giving every member some important task. As we all know interest is kept up mostly through activity of every member.

It is our prayer that the Lord may guide us in this struggle for Christian freedom, and we extend our prayer to ask our Lord to bless everyone for the support we are getting.

Very sincerely in Christ,
N. J. Kroeker

A SHORT REPORT TO THE HOME MISSION BOARD from the Bethel Mennonite Mission in Winnipeg

Our Mission has adopted the name: Bethel Mennonite Mission in Winnipeg. This mission was started by me three years ago, with consent and support of the Canadian and North American Home Mission Boards.—Two years and two months in the present church, corner Sherbrook and Sargent.—For the use of this the Home Mission Board of the North American Conference is paying $25.00 rent per month. It has also made extra donations several times, through Rev. D. Toews. We are very thankful to the Home Mission Board for the support of this mission, and hope that it will continue to do so.

There are over fifty Mennonite families who have come to Winnipeg, from different places in southern Manitoba, especially during the last five to ten years, to live here; and many young people, more than one hundred, from the same territory to attend the University, Colleges, Normal School, Bible Schools and different other institutions, or who have come here to find employment and earnings. These all from the so called old timers class. For such this mission is especially intended to be, but also for others. "Who-so-ever-will may come."

It has taken time, effort, perseverance and much self-denial, to make this mission known and to get the people to come to church and to take part in the work, since a number of them were of a class who were not interested in church and religious matters. The success of the work has improved lately quite a bit. Better attendance, better collections, more interest and greater activity. A number of people, married and unmarried, who would not come a year ago, are now quite regular attendants of the church. Some of them also came to be prepared for baptism. And it is gratifying that a number of university, college and normal school students come to our church and take an active part. I am especially glad to report that we have a great help this year in Rev. C. C. Boldt, who is attending the Winnipeg Bible Institute, and who is a regular attendant and helper in our mission. He is superintendent of our Sunday School, helps with the programs, and also preaches whenever I ask him to do so.

Besides the regular church services, Sunday forenoon in German and Sunday evening in English, with an average attendance of about 25, we also have programs every third or fourth Sunday evening, which are attended by from 30 to 70 people. Since October, 1940, we also have Sunday School; 5 classes, 4 in English. Then we also have a ladies' aid society, about 15 members, and a small choir. We also have special meetings occasionally. Besides superintending all this, I visit the people in their homes, the sick in the hospitals, attend different meetings in the city and have an extensive correspondence to tend to.

During the time since this mission was started, we have had baptismal services four times. Twenty-two persons, several of them married, have been baptized here in all. Special sermons and instructions for young people desiring to become true followers of the Lord Jesus Christ were given before baptism. The same plan is being carried out again, now, since the first Sunday in February. I am also glad to report that we have had twelve outside ministers, besides Bro. Boldt, during the last six months, which was a great help and appreciated very much.

With hearty greetings to all the members of the Home Mission Board,

I am fraternally yours,
Benj. Ewert

MAIN CENTER, SASKATCHEWAN

Mission Friends:

I am greeting you with the peace of God. First of all I want to thank the General Conference for the monthly support in my work for the Lord and Master, as also those who make it possible for the General Conference to do this. May the Lord reward you on that Great Day!

As I undertook the great responsibility of being the Leader and Bishop of the Herbert Mennonite Church, which numbers close to 400 members, and over 1000 souls, my heart was heavy. It was the responsibility of keeping watch over every individual, for on that day the Lord would expect an account of how I had taken care of that responsibility. Had I done everything on my part to see that every soul was shown the way of the Cross and saved? And I prayed about it. I prayed that I might have love for every individual, as Christ had. I prayed that I might be meek but also that I might have patience with the weak ones. I also asked the good Lord for wisdom to direct and guide the whole of the church to the end of helping every Christian. And, strengthened through my prayers, I went forward courageously into that great work, firmly believing that the Lord is a strength unto the weak. And thanks be unto God, for He hath given strength and grace for the work.

The Herbert Mennonite Church is very scattered, which makes the task so much harder, if every member is to be given a personal visit in his home. But I came to this conclusion: If you want to know exactly, how every member and also the children, stand toward God, there is no other way but to make a personal visit to every home and ask them about their condition of soul. A task that is hard but also one that has brought blessings, thank God! And so I made it my duty to give each family a personal visit at least once each year. I always took one of the preacher Brethren with me, and so we went by twos, just as Jesus sent His disciples. It took twelve weeks without stopping to reach all of them.

How different one finds the condition of many members as one enters their homes and inquires about their souls, from what people often talk from outside. Then one finds that the spark is still there and that it only needs a little fresh air to make it a bright flame. How thankful most of them are for such visits. Many feel uplifted and strengthened, that they are considered worthy of extending the preacher brethren their hospitality. They have felt so lonely and desolate, and then they see there is still someone who thinks of them. O that we had more Philips, who are willing to go also to the deserted places, to give the seeking souls and the straying sheep a helping hand, and a sympathizing heart, and call to them with the words of Peter, "Rise up, for the Lord Jesus is making you well."

Many tears have flowed—tears of happiness, but also tears of repentance. Many prayers have risen openly and have been laid near the heart of God, the Father. The results, or rather the blessings, of this work are as follows: Many who had not been in churches for a long time, came again regularly. Others who had backslidden, made a fresh start and wanted to serve the Lord better and more willingly. Girls and boys of different ages were saved and shown the Lamb of Calvary who died for us and have found peace. Such results gave me courage and joy to do this work and not tire of it, but to work as long as the day lasts, for the night cometh when no man can work.

In this work one also comes in contact with really poor people where not only the Gospel is needed but also financial help.

Soul Touching Experiences

Once I came to a home and as I entered I noticed it really looked very scanty. It was in winter. A young married couple with four children made up this home. A bed, a table, a few chairs and some apple boxes for the children to sit on made up the furniture. There was no ceiling and the roof was just papered from the inside. I felt sorry for the half-clothed children and thought, "This is a place where more is needed than just the Gospel of Christ." But I was welcomed heartily. We read the word of God, prayed and sang, and these people could still thank God, that it stirred one's heart. And the dear sister did not let us go without a simply prepared meal. I could not forebear, even if I haven't riches, to press a few dollars into her hand. How the thankful tears streamed over the faces of these people. On such occasions one wishes that one had more money to help them.

A Long but Fruitful Trip

I will relate of one more family and then I shall close. I met a brother in a church on one of my trips who looked as if something was weighing down on him heavily. I followed the voice of the Holy Spirit and greeted him heartily. He was a complete stranger to me, but I asked him, what was wrong and whether I could do anything to help him. For a while he looked at me silently and then, taking a deep breath he said, "I can not tell you that in a few words. You must come over to our place for that." Well, they lived 30 miles from the church and from that church to my home was 65 miles, so I was unable to see them that time. But I couldn't get him out of my mind, and the next time I went directly to his home. He had a large family and was exceedingly poor. I had not set a definite time as to how long I would stay, but I had made up my mind to help if I could, and I wanted to give that brother a chance to unburden himself. For five hours we talked and prayed, till at last he could really believe that Jesus Christ had died for him and blotted out all his sin with His own blood. His daughter was saved in the meantime and rejoiced. She found that she had not been able to find such peace before. How much easier it is to take the Lord Jesus into their hearts when still young.

I could relate many more interesting things, but will stop for this time. After the beginning of 1938, when I had a complete nervous breakdown, I could not for a while dedicate my life so wholly to this hard but blessed task as I would have liked. But now I am on the way to better health, as far as the nerves are concerned and am hoping to be able to do more work along that line soon. Of course, I am serving with the Word of God each Sunday, now, if the weather permits and also have choir practice once a week here at Capeland. Now and then I travel also on request of the station. And, the Lord willing, I will be in Regina on March 2 by request of Brother David Toews, to preach the Gospel there. I have heard complaints from the preacher brethren that many patients do not want them when they are ill, saying when they are well the preachers have not thought of asking them about their souls and they do not have to know when they are ill. I think there is a good remedy for this. Do not wait to talk about their salvation, till they are sick. If we do it, when they are well, we will receive their welcome when they are ill.

May God bless you and give you power in your work.

Your Brother in Christ,
J. J. Nickel, Main Center, Sask.

The minister who would be most like the Master must lay the warm, kindly hand on the leper, the diseased, the wretched. He must touch the blind eyes with something from himself. The tears must be in his own eyes over the dead who are to be raised to spiritual life. Jesus is our great examplar —J.H.

A LETTER FROM ONTARIO

164 Erb Street West,
Waterloo, Ontario, Canada
February 20, 1941

Co-laborers in the Lord:

Our church has for such a long time been a mission church under the care and protection of the Home Mission Board that it seems almost strange to see that church entirely self supporting, and not to think of it any more as a mission church. I feel, it still is a mission church, notwithstanding the fact that the good Lord has prospered us to become independent, financially. We still depend on the benevolence and the guidance of the H. M. B., and are getting it, and shall hardly ever grow independent enough to afford to break away from it altogether. I therefore shall respectfully submit a little report on the activities of

THE WATERLOO-KITCHENER UNITED MENNONITE CHURCH

It was, as you know, in the beginning, together with the other United Mennonite Churches in Ontario, wholly dependent on the H. M. B. financially, and it grew under its care to be stronger from conference session to conference session. The first three years it drew its financial support wholly from the H. M. B. During the second three years it contributed in different donations to the General Conference, about half as much as it drew for its support from the H. M. B. treasury. During the third three-year period these contributions multiplied to equal the support received from the H. M. B., and then the churches became financially independent and their former Elder was free to do itinerary work in the service of the H. M. B.

Meanwhile the one church had grown to be three churches, and a few years later even four, of which the Waterloo-Kitchener United Mennonite Church, was one. For this church a period followed, in which difficulties arose. I resigned my position with the church and went to Vancouver to found a City Mission and a Girls' Home there, but was recalled after two years, to serve again with my home church which meanwhile had become a mission church again, drawing part of its financial support from the H. M. B. treasury. On request of the church that support has been stopped last year, and today we look back again on one whole year, in which the church has been self-supporting and has paid even the salary of its pastor entirely out of its own funds.

The Lord has blessed the work of the church, and some who were at odds with it have come back again. Others have been brought to Christ by the humble efforts of the church and have become members of the same.

We readily admit that other churches have been more successful in their endeavors, but we are grateful for what the Lord has deigned to do through us. Real old-fashioned conversions from a sinful life to the Kingdom of God have occurred for which we are especially grateful. Estranged people have found their way home to the Father in Jesus Christ. We are grateful to have a living Christ who carries us through all difficulties of life and has made our church also, among many others, a growing and fruit-bearing part of His vineyard.

Briefe an mein Volk

The church is wholly independent again, but its pastor is still a mission worker under the H. M. B.

issuing his "Letters to Our People." ("Briefe an unser Volk") in German, designed to reach such Christians of other people who have little or no access at all to church services: shut-ins, lonely settlers on far away farms, deserted groups who use the "Letters" in their "Lesegottesdienste" (church services in which the sermon is being read because they have no minister to preach to them), and even such who do not care too much about attending church services. To these the "Letters," short sermons are being sent in the hope that something in them might catch the eye of the recipient, that he might read the sermon and thereby eventually be drawn nearer to God and even be converted to Jesus Christ.

Since the war against Germany rages, these "Letters" in German have, in some instances been inconveniencing their recipients and I felt constrained to write them asking to let me know as soon as possible whether or not they still want these letters. A large enough number of the former readers have asked to continue sending them the sermons, and at present I am issuing them again bi-weekly as before, and hope the Lord will bless the work as He has done before, of which many letters from the readers bear witness.

Financially, this branch of the home mission work had its difficulties and drawbacks. It was, and still is, agreed that the operating costs should be supplied by freewill offerings, directly to myself, and this made it rather unsuitable for me to advertise the enterprise and to solicit funds. It seemed a little awkward to me to do all the work and solicit funds at the same time, as if begging money for myself while the H. M. B. granted me a small monthly support for my own subsistance. There were times when the work seemed to be doomed, but in the nick of time the Lord always moved someone to help me out. Substantial sums came in from the Eastern District Sunday School Union, from the Emmaus Mennonite Church at Whitewater, Kansas, and from other sources. At the end of last year, smaller contributions started to come in in greater numbers, and at present I have a little operating capital to draw from for a few more months.

I have also tried to find out whether it would be well to issue such "Letters" in English, but in that respect I have had practically no response at all, I am afraid, because my English is not what it ought to be.

I shall do my best in German then, as long as the Lord permits me to do so. Pray for me and the work that many may profit by it.

Yours in the Lord,
Jacob H. Janzen

PERSONAL WORK & EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS

Laird, Saskatchewan,
February 22, 1941

Dear Brethren in the Lord:

This time I desire to report about some work outside of my own church here. This work is carried on in addition to my own work at home. Of course, this work would be impossible if it were not for good assistance at the home base. In general, my work might best be described as that of a traveling minister, only I do most of my work in homes and not in churches, since in many places they do not have churches as yet.

The isolated groups increase each year, since constantly new localities are opened up for settlers. Of course, all is in a very primitive state. In November and December 1940 I visited and worked among fourteen such separated groups. Thus far, in 1941, I have visited five such settlements.

As traveling minister my work is to make many visits into homes, speak personally to individuals about their relationship with Jesus Christ, holding preaching services in homes, also revival meetings and baptismal and communion services. Added to this is the work of organizing Sunday Schools, the directing of elections of ministers, the conducting of business meetings, and I was also permitted to officiate several times at the ordination of ministers.

In January and February of this year, I made 68 visits to individual families, preached 17 times and officiated at the dedication of a church at Horse Lake, Saskatchewan. In three of the groups that I visited, nine young people have made the all-important decision to accept Christ as their personal Savior. These are now being instructed in the catechism course and if the Lord so leads, the plan is to have baptismal service in April.

In visits to homes, "Seelsorge" is one of the primary tasks of a minister, and it is encouraging that one constantly finds individuals who are seeking the Lord. In two instances the families had studied the Scripture, but found certain passages that were too difficult for them, these were noted on paper, and, when we arrived, we studied these together and the Lord gave light and understanding. Many instances could be cited where the Lord gave enlightenment.

Another experience that has been noted, is the fact that where pastoral visitation is seldom, a return visit is always welcomed. Thus the encouraging experiences far outnumber those that are less promising. For this we praise the Lord.

Christian greetings to all,
Johannes Regier

CANADIAN YOUNG PEOPLE'S WORKER

Glenlea, Manitoba, Feb. 25, 1941

Dear Mission Friends:

Since early last November I have been doing work among the young people at the direction of the Young People's Committee of the Canadian Churches. My sphere of work is to be mostly in Manitoba and is linked with the work of an itinerant Minister. My work also takes me into many small groups and isolated families.

This type of work is very necessary among the widely scattered settlements, that are found over Manitoba, from the boundary line far up into the North. In the far northern part, I visited in Mayfield, Arden, McCreary, Fork River, and Swan River. Swan River is almost as far north as settlements are charted on the Manitoba Auto Map. While on that trip I also visited two groups in Saskatchewan, in the northern part as well as other parts along the boundary line communities. In all these places our messages were eagerly received. Naturally in these localities where visiting ministers seldom come, we ministered to the older ones as well as the young people.

In the villages of southern Manitoba, where church work is already more organized, I could fulfill my special task more in detail. In all, my messages

I directed the young people to Jesus as the Savior, friend and benefactor of youth. At all times I have sought to induce them to labor in His cause.

At this writing I am working in the Whitewater Church. Special Bible Studies, directed to deepen spiritual life, have been offered in several other churches. In many of my messages I seek to build up a more substantial knowledge of the Scripture. Some time this winter I hope to get into the East Reserve to work there.

Much work is to be done, and we praise the Lord that He has given us open doors. My prayer is that the Lord might bless this, His work, and give us grace to do it aright.

With cordial greetings, Jacob Toews

WORK IN OREGON

1114 Santiam Road, Albany Oregon, Jan. 8, 1941
Dear Brethren of the Home Mission Board:

Herewith I am handing you the second quarterly report of our work in the Grace Mennonite church here at Albany, Oregon. This report covers the months of October, November, and December. These have been real encouraging months. The attendance in Sunday School and also preaching services has gradually increased. Many new people were brought in touch with the work. On October 20 we had the joy of receiving eight new members, representing three new families, into the church. On that day we also had our first communion service, where fifty-two people took part. It was a very blessed and happy hour of fellowship.

In August I married a young couple in our home. They had no church home, so after the marriage, I had a friendly visit with them, and explained to them, the importance of establishing their own home and also explained to them the great importance of a church home, and extended a friendly invitation to them, to attend our services. After they were settled, we had the joy of seeing them in the services very regularly. Then in November one morning they stopped at our home, and to our joy announced their willingness to come into the church. I examined them and found that both had accepted Jesus Christ as their Savior. So on November 24, the young man was baptized and his young wife, who had been baptized previously in another church, were both received into the church, also another sister was taken into our fellowship at this occasion.

From November 26 to 29, brother Homer Leisy of Dallas gave us four very interesting evangelistic services. The attendance and interest was very good, and a number of persons reconsecrated themselves to the Lord.

At our Sunday School Christmas program, the church was well filled, and we praise God for the interest that was manifested. The prospects for the new year are very encouraging and our church people are aware of the changes that have taken place, so that they too, are taking a good interest in the work.

Your co-worker in Christ, John M. Franz

We believe that the very beginning and end of salvation and the sum of Christianity, consists of faith in Christ, who by His blood alone, and not by any works of ours, has put away sin, and destroyed the power of death. —Martin Luther

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

REPORT OF THE FOREIGN MISSION BOARD MEETING held at Bethel College, North Newton, Kansas

February 21, 1941

The meeting was opened by the vice-chairman, A. E. Kreider, to whom the chairman, P. P. Wedel, had turned over the chair. Two passages were read, Mark 11:22-26 and Matt. 16:13-18, with a few remarks on them, emphasizing faith and its rock foundation, Christ, who builds the church himself upon it. Then followed a brief season of prayer.

All members of the Board were present: P. P. Wedel, M. Horsch, H. G. Nyce, A. E. Kreider, A. P. Waltner, J. E. Regier, and P. H. Richert, as also the officers of the Women's Mission Societies, Mrs. R. A. Goerz, Mrs. Frieda Regier Entz, and Mrs. J. E. Kaufman. Upon invitation also the Conference chairman, C. E. Krehbiel, attended part of the time, as also the missionaries John Thiessen, W. C. Voths, P. J. Wienses, and Mrs. S. J. Goering.

1. First the minutes of the last Board meeting were read and approved. After the treasurer had read his report, it was—

MONTANA

3. Resolved, to leave it to the Executive Committee of the Board to pass upon the estimated cost of the house repair plan, Lame Deer.

4. Resolved, to allow the repairs for the supports and platforms of the water tanks at Lame Deer.

5. Resolved, to allow the following budget for Lame Deer and Birney:

Birney native help	$230.00
Lame Deer native help (partly implies Ashland)	150.00
Lame Deer budget	100.00

6. Resolved, to allow for Birney $150.00 station money—40.00 up-keep, 60.00 fuel, 30.00 repair and paint.

7. Resolved, to ask Bro. Habegger to plan and arrange for a jubilee celebration, at Lame Deer, of the 50th anniversary on October 1, 1941, of Bro. R. Petter's entry into our mission, and that he do this in consultation with the Petters.

8. Resolved, to recommend to the churches that they also take notice of this celebration.

9. Resolved, to invite Bro. and Sister Petter to the next General Conference, in recognition of his fifty years of efficient and faithful service in our mission.

10. Resolved, to retain Mrs. Laura Petter for another term of three years.

11. Resolved, to pay Miss Gibbs 10.00 a month in recognition of her staying.

12. Resolved, to allow the following budget for Ashland:

Current Expenses, 175.00; Native help, 25.00; Painting of house and church, 107.00.

13. Resolved, to allow the Busby budget of 100.00.

14. Resolved, that we approve of Bro. Habegger's plan to send the Christian Cheyenne girl, Willena Horn, to Freeman College.

15. Resolved, to approve of Bro. Habegger's plan to take a vacation and visit churches during part of the year.

ARIZONA

16. Resolved, to accept the proposed budget for Arizona as follows: Moen Copi, Current expenses, 125.00; Repair of pipe line, 186.00; Hotevilla, Current expenses, 125.00; Oraibi, Current expenses, 100.00; Native helper, 100.00.

17. Resolved, to approve the first mentioned church plan sent in by Bro. Suderman, at an estimated cost of $2960.00 (Special gifts for this church will be very welcome. The treasury will have difficulty to meet these expenses)

OKLAHOMA

18. Resolved, to allow the following budgets for Oklahoma:

Fonda, Canton, and Longdale, Station account, 300.00; Native help, 600.00. Clinton, Hammon, and Thomas Station account, 300.00; Reshingling church, 100.00; Native help, 800.00.

19. Resolved, to ask Bro. Ediger again to attend this year the Southwest Regional Conference of Indian Workers.

20. Resolved, that our missionaries in Okla. may once a year visit the Indian schools at Chillocco and Haskell, and do this alternately.

21. Resolved, to offer for sale our vacant lots in Canton.

22. Resolved, to ask the Friesens at Canton to spend as much time as they can in the study of the Cheyenne language.

INDIA

23. Resolved, to accept the suggestion of the India conference to secure a doctor from some "orphaned mission" in India.

24. Resolved, that we approve the plan of the India conference to begin their fiscal year on April 1.

25. Resolved that we are sorry to see from Bro. and Sister Wiens's health reports that it would be unwise to return them to the strenuous work and climate in India. But we are glad that opportunity presents itself for them here at home, to make themselves useful in the interest of missions.

26. Resolved, to pay Bro. and Sister Wiens one half salary another year with the understanding that he help the General Conference Historical Committee in its work, as they can use him. Meanwhile we will consult with our missionaries in India, according to the regulations of the pension rules, regarding putting them on pension.

27. Resolved, that we are glad to see the Historical Committee at work, emphasizing especially the collection of mission material. We are willing to cooperate with it as much as possible.

28. Resolved, to allow 1300.00 for housing improvements and church at Basna.

29. Resolved, to take Miss Alida Schrag in view as a nurse for India to be sent out this fall.

30. Resolved, to send Miss Mary Becker to India this coming fall.

31. Resolved, to allow the budget for India, of 14,800.00.

CHINA

32. Resolved, in view of the unsettled conditions, we postpone action on the Kuhlman proposition made a year ago, lest we become involved in legal entanglements.

33. Resolved, to allow the request for 37.50 for a retreat.

34. Resolved, to allow for hospital supplies in the new building 750.00.

35. Resolved, to allow a total budget of 6935.62 of the General Committee Meeting.

36. Resolved, that the Board does not deem it wise to return old workers or send out new workers to China this year, in accordance with the advice of our government.

37. Resolved, to follow up our former resolutions concerning evacuation of our workers in China, namely the one, that all of them are at liberty to come home at any time, and the later one, in which we advise the women with children, and those whose furlough is due soon, to come home—by stating that, since conditions look increasingly dangerous, we feel impelled now, to urge the women and children to come home. And, where such separation of families causes hardships to the latter, the husband should accompany them. And we repeat that all workers on the field are at liberty to come home.

38. Resolved, to accept the budget of the Workers' Conference as follows:

Home Mission Bond	100.00
Property Committee	187.50
Travel	84.37
Total	371.87

39. Resolved, on account of the disturbed conditions in China, we discourage the erection of new buildings there.

40. Resolved, to ask W. C. Voth to do deputation work in Canada this year.

GENERAL RESOLUTIONS

41. Resolved, to adopt the total budget of 76,708.75 for 1941.

42. Resolved, that the Executive Committee make a new draft of our questionnaire for mission candidates.

43. Resolved, to ask Bro. Nyee to cooperate with the Eastern Mission Exhibit Committee for the next General Conference.

44. Resolved, in order that our mission candidates may have a thorough evangelical training, we urge them to obtain the advice of the Board in choosing their school for special preparation.

45. Resolved, to send again $50.00 to the Foreign Missions Conference for the current expenses.

46. Resolved, to have 500 copies of the Pension Rules reprinted.

47. Resolved, to thank Bro. C. E. Krehbiel, Conference President, for attending our session a good part of the time.

48. Resolved, to thank all our mission friends, churches, Sewing, Christian Endeavor Societies, and the Women's Association for their faithful and sacrificial support of the work. We are glad for the large number of readers of the "News and Notes" and hope that the time may come that they can be sent into every home in our conference.

49. Resolved, that we appreciate the beginning which the Women's Mission Societies have made with a "Mission Extension Library," and we encourage them in this work. If they need financial help, they may report to the Board.

50. Resolved, to thank all our mission workers for their faithful and sacrificial service, both on the field and during furlough at home, as also for the many short gripping articles for our church papers. Every week we need them. The former "Mission Quarterly" was discontinued, because it did not come often enough. The "News and Notes" bring monthly news, which is a great improvement on the quarterly news, but we also need the weekly reminder of missions in our churches, which, of course, should ordinarily be by short articles. Thanks for them. Articles for church papers find room when not too long.

51. Resolved, that we thank Bethel College for the free use of the social room for our sessions.

52. Resolved, above all, to thank the Lord for His upholding grace in these difficult times, and His protecting hand especially over our work and workers in China. While war dangers may cause some or even all of the China workers to come home, the fact that none of our missionaries have been killed overweighs it all, as also the good prospects that the work in China will go on, even if the missionaries have to leave. Natives will go on with it. But let us still hope and pray, that they need not leave soon and that all threats of war may end. When we think of the good results again last year, so that 647 souls confessed salvation in Christ, and were baptized, we cannot but be thankful and pray for continued open doors. The total present membership on all fields is some 5,200. This does not include those who have died or left.

53. Resolved, to adjourn.

Bro. P. P. Wedel led in the closing prayer.

A NEW VENTURE

We should perhaps rather call it a new emphasis expansion of what the Women's Mission Societies have been doing right along. They call this the "Mission Extension Library." The purpose is to increase the mission literature in the form of leaflets, etc. for easy distribution, especially upon request by societies and mission friends for their program, etc. The Board welcomes this, as expressed in one of the resolutions of its last meeting. Some of the old leaflets can be reprinted, and new ones can be written or otherwise obtained and distributed.

Whoever has something brief and gripping that would fit into such a library, send it in. Missionaries will in this way be encouraged to write more for this purpose, that can be printed in leaflets for distribution by the thousands. About a year ago Bro. P. J. Wiens wrote such a leaflet on "The Unfinished Task." Over a thousand of these have been sent out, and it will have to be reprinted, as calls for it continue to come in. We still have German copies, but not English.

ANOTHER MISSION JUBILEE IS COMING

On October 1, this year, it will be fifty years since Dr. R. Petter entered our mission work in Oklahoma. He is now in Montana, and the Board has passed a resolution to have this anniversary properly celebrated in Montana, where Bro. Habegger will see to this. See resolutions No. 7, 8, and 9 in the report of the Board's session as given in this issue. When these resolutions were sent to Bro. Petter a week ago, he replied:

Dr. Petter
Taken unawares
In Switzerland

"We shall talk it over with Bro. Habegger. For myself the human factor or instrumentality is bound to get an undue 'spotlight.' Any one of God's servants is rewarded by him according to faithfulness and obedience in the service, not by the length of its duration. God is eternal, to Him faithful service of one hour is as much as that of years. Jesus illustrates this in the parable of the laborers and the vineyard. He who labored one single hour is rewarded equally with the one who toiled twelve hours. The festivals of God's people in the Old Testament, also in the primitive Christian church, never centered around a human being. The eternal monument of God's great deeds is the redemption of men through Christ."

Mission friends will see from the above quotation that Bro. Petter will not become proud or puffed up by this celebration. That makes it doubly proper to have it. And to have it center around the great deeds of God in His work of redemption, which, of course, implies mission work and mission workers. If we consider our mission workers as gifts from God, we will make God the center of our celebrations, as it should be.

This does not mean that Bro. Petter lays down all work. Sister Petter is still able to carry on, Bro. Petter doing as much as he can. The trip to Europe, nearly two years ago, invigorated him by a rest in his home country, Switzerland, and his relatives. One of the accompanying pictures shows him with his granddaughter enjoying their leisure. The other cut shows him alone, while in Switzerland.

A FORTY YEARS' JUBILEE WAS RECENTLY HELD IN INDIA

In the fall of last year, Dr. P. A. Penner finished his forty years of service in India, and the occasion was fittingly celebrated there. For him this practically ended his work as missionary, perhaps. Whether they will return is doubtful. They are expected to arrive at home early in May. We will no doubt hear from him then personally, as well as in writing. I have asked him to give a resume of the work in India for the report of the Board for the next conference, to which he will no doubt attend, the Lord willing. So nothing further need be said now.

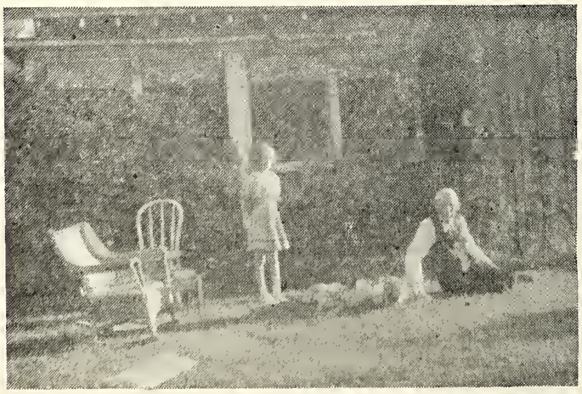
MONTANA

TWO LIGHT BEARERS

The Light of the World is Jesus Christ, the Bearers of this Light are the Christians, whose life and persons, far more than words and deeds, are the tiny candles in the growing darkness of this world. Yes, a tiny light compared with that of the Master, a spark of shine in the encompassing night in contrast with the sun's brilliancy filling the heavens from end to end, yet, where the servants of God carry the light, the darkness feels and flees it.

This "Mission Number" aims at presenting to its readers some of the struggles and results of this Light shining in the Night, so let us hear of two Light Bearers here in the Lame Deer Montana mission field.

They are both Cheyenne Indians near or past their fifty years. The older one belongs to the family of a famed Indian Chief and was raised accordingly, also receiving some schooling in English. Later on he became initiated in certain sacred tribal rites which gave him a higher standing among his people. However, when sorrow came to his heart and lodge, in the course of years, he felt keenly that no Cheyenne ceremony could comfort him and his. Thus as he gradually became influenced by the Christian religion, the true Light filtered into his heart. "Gradually," because he was of a quiet, honest and thorough nature, averse to all hastiness, disorder, dispute and laziness. The Government appreciated the man, made him an Indian policeman, which he remained for fourteen years. Later on he became and now still is one of the three tribal judges.



Dr. Petter and Granddaughter
Kettle Falls, Wash., Sept. 1938

It was twenty-four years ago that he became a Christian and joined our church, confessing his faith in the baptism. His wife followed him, later on the rest of his family. Still, for several years a sacred object, i. e., so regarded by the tribe, was kept in his home. This caused suspicion among some of the Cheyanne Christians and he got rid of it. Coming to me, he said, it had not been easy for him to do so, not at all because of the former sacredness of the "object," in which he no longer believed, but it was the most beautiful gray wolf skin the tribe had, and he considered it an heirloom of the family.

He was eager to be instructed in God's Word, also to learn to read it in Cheyenne. And as the Light grew in his heart and life he felt driven to witness for it wherever possible, in his person and words. Thus he gradually became a useful and faithful Native Helper in our mission work, without relinquishing his government service and home duties. And now, for the past fourteen years, he has served our Birney station, going there on Saturday, visiting the Indians and holding the Sunday service. No bad weather or subzero cold held him back and his faithfulness was not without actual results.

The other Light Bearer had a Cheyenne chief for father, but his bringing up had no connection with Indian religious ceremonies. His nature was rather wild, loving all that pleases the flesh, not caring at all for gods or God. Thus the ways of the tough and rough allured him and he learned plenty of it, under the influence of godless white people. He says himself, "I cared nothing for God or gods, I craved for the company of such who delighted in drinking, dancing, smoking and far worse evils. I went to many places in the States with "Wild West Shows," led a hobo life, no morals, nor religion making any impression upon me."

Finally he settled in the cowboy life and government service in which he was when we came to Lame Deer in 1916. A few years after, when he began wooing a fine Christian widow, member of our church, we feared for her. After her marriage with him, she avoided us and the church services for quite a while, then began to come again, but alone. In the prayer metings she would plead for her husband, that he might be drawn to hear the Word of God. And, lo! one Sunday evening, as we held the Lord's Supper, he appered in the church! Then and there the Light of Christ burst upon him, and his whole being responded. In this Light he saw the Night of his heart, tears started from his eyes, a new man was in him. From that day on he turned his whole being from the one he had been slave to. That is the grace of God worked that in him, kept him in his life and made him a Light Bearer for his tribesmen. That was fifteen years ago.

Last week, one evening, he and the other Light Bearer were sitting with me and others in our room, remembering years gone by and what they had been saved from. They thanked God for what He had done to them, in saving them from the power of darkness. The one said, "Where would I be now, had God not saved me? . . . But what a tear and hard wrench it was from the life of sin! And, during these past fifteen years, how much has the Evil one done to make it as hard as possible for me, he using not only the heathen, but sometimes Christians, yea, members of my own relatives to oppose my Christian stand."

He, too, learned to read the Word in Cheyenne and has become a Native Helper of our Mission. He is a Light Bearer here in Lame Deer, in Sunday School, preaching and prayer meetings, also going to Ashland from time to time.

These two faithful Light Bearers each have peculiar and hard struggles as Christians. The one, because he formerly officiated in sacred tribal ceremonies, is still respected (maybe feared) by his tribe people and they dare not oppose him like they do the other one. But he is continually told what an important man he could be, were he not a Christian. What honor, benefits and stand he would have in the tribe. Then he is offered this or that for accommodating them. Again they pity him, an Indian of his stand, to occupy such a low position, helping a white man, getting almost no renumeration made equal to other Christian Indians who are of low descent and rather "common trash" . . . .etc.

The other Light Bearer is attacked in a different way. His former wild life is aired out in all possible details. On the basis of what he once was, he is sometimes at Ashland, also do some camp visitatogether to fabricate evil reports against him. He is left aside in tribal matters, where he could and would be of valuable help to his people. Formerly he was praised for his singing, at the dances, and nothing was said against his sinful life. Now he is raved at because he has become a good man and a Christian!

If the average Christian man among white people had to live and labor in such a dark, pagan atmosphere, day after day for years and years under continual opposition and false accusiations, how long could he hold out? For the sole desire and intent of such a darkness is to choke, blot out any ray of light that shines into it. The two Light Bearers among these Indians feel that far more than we missionaries. In the Indian mind we are Whites, what we preach is our religion, we have a full right to it. Quite a different matter is it for a Cheyanne, for he is not supposed to become a white man, he should never adopt his religion, but be faithful to the tribal customs and beliefs.

The two we mention have stood the brunt of the power of darkness, often in weakness and weariness, discouragement and despair, sometimes left alone in their struggles by other Christians, their light flickering and choked by the spirit of darkness. But again they wave their light with courage, hope and their hearts singing.

This reminds me of men ascending or descending the very steep trails in the Alps at night. The leader waves his mountain lantern as he goes ahead through a labyrinth of boulders, rockwalls, precipices, steep slopes, or meets the terrific impact of winds, snow, hail, often blinded by thick fog or the snaky lightning flashes that break into shivers immense rocks. Then again the path becomes smooth, the light shines bright, all is calm and the stars are seen above. Finally the dawn appears, the sun rises in its glory and the lantern's light is quenched. That time, that day is coming for all the Light Bearers, when night and struggle shall vanish in the presence of Him who cometh, the Light of the World.

Contributions by church members to help a member serving an undeserved prison sentence ---- $53.00
Total amount contributed by the church ---- $125.59
Of this amount, $10.41 was a birthday bank money, which was sent to the American Bible Society in New York City

Of the same amount, $5.53, is a small fund started to help pay transportation when native evangelists do field work or go to Birney and Ashland.
Collections took care of Sunday School expenses, including fuel, light, cleaning, etc.
Marriage ceremonies performed (white and Indian) -- 16
Funerals conducted from the church ---------- 16
Training classes for native evangelists continued throughout the year.

These serve in the pulpit at Lame Deer, Birney and suspicioned and accused; yea, some band themselves tion. Julia Yellowhorse continues a faithful helper with the Cheyenne children of the mixed Sunday School.

BIRNEY MISSION STATION

Founded in 1910. Served from Lame Deer by Frank Littlewolf, who has gone faithfully for the week-ends since Rev. Pankratz left in 1926. The large, barren mission house at last has an occupant. Miss Marie Buller, has been there since April, during which time she quite transformed its interior and has also done commendable work with the Indian children and the Indian women.

A small nucleus of listeners comes regularly for the Sunday morning services. A capacity attendance at the Christmas tree service and at the time Harvery Whiteshield of Oklahoma conducted special services was encouraging.

ASHLAND MISSION STATION

Founded in 1917. Served by Mrs. Valdo Petter, assisted by Miss Marian Gibbs.
Number of accessions since started ------------ 2

Regular services on Sunday and prayer meetings during the week, were held throughout the year. Native helpers from Lame Deer came, when convenient, to conduct meetings.

Indians, both young and old, have been touched by the friendliness and helpfulness that ever greets them at the mission station, and consequently frequent it daily, coming on all kinds of errands.

THE ORAIBI MESA CHAPEL

"He in the first year of his reign, in the first month, opened the doors of the house of the Lord, and repaired them." Chron. 29:3. (2 Chron. 29 and 30).

We find that that great revival in King Hezekiah's day was a result of the fact that he opened the door of the house of God, repaired the house, established worship service, and called the people back to the worship of God.

The Oraibi Mesa chapel was built in 1903. Rev. H. R. Voth had started to gather the material for it, and when Rev. J. B. Epp came, they together built that rock structure to call the Hopi Indian to the worship of our God and our Lord Jesus Christ. It was used until 1917 when the lower village chapel, a wooden structure, was built. To many an old Christian that Mesa chapel is a very dear and sacred place, for there they were led to Jesus Christ.

Mesa Chapel, Oraibi, Arizona

Furthermore, Fred Johnson tells us, that that church building stands as a visible sign of the covenant or agreement between one of the former old chiefs, Lololama, and the Mennonite people. That as long as that church stands the Mennonites have the privilege to preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ to the Oraibi Hopis.

Again, another Christian Hopi tells us that this Mesa church stands at a very unique place, cutting the very path of the Katchinas. (The heathen ceremonial dancers). Now they have to go out of their way, around this chapel, to deposit their prayer sticks, and so on. What a marvelous spiritual significance!

Then, too, this chapel stands as a landmark, noticed from quite a distance and admired by the resident white man, the freighter, and even the tourist in his curiosity to find something very antique for his traveling diary, or for a write-up in some present day paper! One day a group of tourists stopped at the chapel, supposing it to be an old, old Catholic Mission. However, the missionary happened to be there, and noticing him they asked concerning the history of the building. When told that it was built just in 1903, and not centuries back, and built by the Mennonite people and not by the ancient Catholic priests, they drove away disappointed, not willing to accept the missionary's information! With the South America-Alaska highway to go through Oraibi such incidents may be repeated.

We understand that, prior to our coming to this field ten years ago, there was an agreement between the Mission Board and the Missionaries then on the field, that this chapel might be torn down. However, due to the Christian Hopis' objection, it was never done. He felt it was just too bad, not only not to use the church, but also to leave it in its dilapidated condition. So one day, with the help of Miss Schmidt and the Hopi Christians, we went up to clean it, using big shovels to scoop out the blown-in sand, together with the broken panes from practically all the windows. An unsightly heap of rocks from a shed ruins was also removed. Then, with a few scattered gifts from some sewing circles, it was possible to replace window sashes and panes, thus making it somewhat usable for ervices. Later, with some Mission budget money, the roof of the main room was reshingled. Since then this main room has been used for Sunday School, sewing classes, and vacation Bible schools.

And God is blessing His work. Sunday, February 16, we shall enjoy a baptismal service; for Puhumana, an old mesa lady, who accepted Christ as her Savior last fall, has asked for baptism. She wants to be "branded with water," for Jesus Christ. 'Tis wonderful how God watches over His Word as the years go by; for Puhumana tells us that her desires for the things of God were first kindled by the very first missionary, Rev. Voth. Her father, Wikwayya, was the very first Oraibi Hopi to be baptized. Rev. Epp had that privilege. Puhumana has yet five unsaved brothers; two at Oraibi, two at Hotevilla, and one at Moencopi.

Now it has become very necessary that this Mesa chapel should be completely repaired, and the fence around it replaced. For, during the time that the lower church building will undergo its enlarging, we will need the whole of the Mesa chapel for Sunday School and church services.

According to God's own words in Haggai, the first chapter, all the money and time spent by His people on His house are but an opening for Him to shower down upon them His blessings, even materially. But, to neglect God's house means for His people leanness, not only spiritually, but also materially. What an opportunity then this gives to our Mennonite churches!

WHAT A DAY!

Dear Friends:

November 17, in Hopiland, presented a day of such varied and contrasting forces that at its close one was led to exlaim: What a day this has been!

Soon after our arrival in Oraibi, now ten years ago, one of the first homes in which Mr. Suderman preached on the mesa, was Puhumana's. Her husband was then critically ill and died soon after. Then, before the mesa chapel was repaired, this same old lady, and her daughter Juanita, let me conduct a sewing class for the women in her house. That was about eight years ago. Never have we felt unwelcome there. Last winter Juanita took sick, accepted the Lord as her Savior and died in the spring. Her husband asked us to conduct the funeral service. It was the first corpse from the mesa buried in the civilized way. Juanita left four children and her husband and mother behind. However, none of them attended the funeral. And of all the superstitious stories that spread amongst the heathen Mesa Hopis! For some time it has been evident that Puhumana was greatly interested in the Gospel, and at times she seemed strongly under conviction, to accept the Savior. This she did in her home on November 13, after the Rev. Kliewer had presented the Word, having Laura Q. as their interpreter. Now, last Sunday morning, right after our Sunday School, before a practically full church, she confessed Christ as her Savior. Hearts of Christians were stirred and glad indeed.

The afternoon presented a different scene. Mrs. Mt. Pleasant, the wife of a government school teacher at Chimopovy, but formerly of Oraibi, died Saturday afternoon, following an operation on a ruptured appendix. Mr. Mt. Pleasant desired for Mr. Suderman to conduct the funeral service on Sunday afternoon. He wanted a very simple service. It is interesting to see God's hand drawing government employees together under the sound of His Word, even at a short funeral service, whereas they seldom, if ever, attend church services. But friends, our hearts are touched with a sharp feeling, because of our lack of time to minister the Word to these white people in our midst. They sometimes feel that the missionaries are here only for the Indians. They have their card parties, dances, and movies, but their souls' needs are not met therein. They desire the fellowship of the missionary in what he has to offer. We are welcome in their homes. Pray for them and for us in reference to them.

Then in Chimopovy, ten miles from Oraibi, the heathen initiation ceremony of young Hopi boys into the ceremonies was at its peak on Sunday. Sacred corn meal, spread on roads, closed all the roads around between 10 to 12 a. m. and 5 to 7 p. m. No traffic is there allowed, sometimes as far as the Butte country, twenty miles from the village. Such ceremonies always cast a Satanic power over the whole reservation. It is difficult to pray. Missionaries find it difficult to speak. They cannot find the proper words, or cannot concentrate, or find unusually disturbing influences. Interpreters find themselves hindered in similar ways. The world calls it mystic, weird, uncanny; but to the Christian worker this is powerfully Satanic. For we wrestle against Satan and his host of demons, who still is our ancient foe. Praise to God for victory in the name of Jesus.

So, what a day! Thank you for your prayers on days like this. From November 25 to December 1, we shall have special evangelistic meetings. Rev. Bysegger from Chinn Loo is our special speaker. Souls in darkness are groping about, needing your intercessory prayers for deliverance. Some are so near, yea, "almost persuaded." Some Christians need your prayers for repentance and restoration of the joy of salvation. We covet your prayers for liberty and boldness to press on for the Lord.

Yours for the salvation of the Hopis,
John and Mabel Suderman

OKLAHOMA

THE CONCHO INDIAN SCHOOL

Dear Readers:

Yesterday evening, being the first Sunday of the month, we again had the opportunity to go to the government boarding school, at Concho, to conduct the services for the Indian school children. The school is approximately sixty-five miles from the station here, at Canton, and also that far from Clinton where Rev. and Mrs. Ediger are stationed. We two Mennonite missionaries and two of the Baptist missionaries alternate with the services at the school. Thus each missionary is in charge of one Sunday evening each month. It is always a joy to look into the faces of 150 to 185 young folks. Attendance is voluntary. This makes a group like that even more appreciated. One thing which has impressed me greatly is their attitude to prayer. Upon the announcement of a prayer every head is bowed, and a complete silence comes over the crowd. The response to the singing was exceptionally good, last evening.

On Sunday mornings a group of teachers from the Baptist church from El Reno, Oklahoma, go to the school to conduct the Sunday School. The Baptists and Mennonites sponsor this work and defray the expenses connected with it. One wishes that other denominations which are coming into the Mennonite field would cooperate in such a friendly way, but, on the contrary there is a spirit of competition, so that many of the Indians are becoming confused in their beliefs.

This winter about forty-five of the children from our district around Canton are attending the school at Concho. Other young people from our field attend the Indian schools at Haskell, near Lawrence, Kansas, and the Chilloco Indian School, in Oklahoma. We hope that arrangements can soon be made that we can also visit these schools during the school year.

At nearly any time one can see a number of these students who have run away from school, to be with their parents. Just yesterday the principal was in the community, to get back a number of these truants. One wishes that they would be more anxious to make use of such an opportunity to get an education. Soon after our arrival here, a mother remarked that she preferred to send her children to the public schools, than to send them away, for they did not then become so dissatisfied with conditions in the home. Even though these schools offer good educational opportunities to the children, by far not everything is ideal. Just now, again, there has been some drunkenness and immorality, so that several boys and girls were expelled.

Much has been done in the past in spreading the seed of the Kingdom. We are often surprised at the knowledge they have of the Word. Much needs to be done that the Spirit may hold sway in their lives and that they, as Peter says, "abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul."

DOES WORK AMONG THE LEPERS PAY?

By Dr. P. A. Penner

Let us stop saying that there is no hope of a leper ever becoming symptom-free. Look at this beautiful picture anl listen to the story of healed bodies and transformed lives.

Sewak Ram, the servant of Ram, is the young man's name in the picture. The young lady at his side is his wife. In the rear, the mother of Sewak. The young man is called, since he accepted Christ, Sewak Masih. Translated it means the servant of the Messiah. He came as a leper to our Leper Home, with his leprous mother, on March 29, 1928. The disease was in the initial stage and hence treatable with a reasonable hope that it could be arrested.

Manglee is the young lady's name. She, too, came as a leper to the Home with her leprous mother. Manglee was admitted as a patient into the Spencer Jack Memorial Home, on January 1st, 1935, erected for girls that have the dread disease, leprosy. Oh, I forgot, you may want to know, how this Home came to be erected. Here is the history. A young man, Spencer Jack, of New Zealand, was preparing to enter the medical profession with a view of giving his life to the service among the lepers of India. While yet in preparation, T. B. claimed his life. His mother, who was heart and soul in sympathy with her dear son's plans, was almost heart broken, because of his untimely death. But, if she could not give her son, she could at least do something to perpetuate his memory. God so led her and the Mission to Lepers that the B. L. Home in Champa was selected as the site for this memorial building. There it stands, not one, but five well constructed buildings, a memorial to her departed son, and a home for unfortunate leper girls, "The Spencer Jack Memorial Home." Such a memorial is better, methinks, than a ten foot marble shaft in the cemetery. Into this Home Manglee, as noted, was admitted.

Sewak's Mother, Sewak Masih and Manglee, India

Both Sewak Masih and Manglee took intensive treatment against leprosy, and their condition gradually improved. The telltale spots disappeared, sensation returned, health improved, so that both were well on their way to become, what medical science calls, "arrested cases." Sewak is capable. He passed all the classes of the primary school and read in the fifth class. Under the preaching of the Gospel and the Christian influence of the Home, he gave his heart to the Lord. His life was in many respects exemplary, his testimony clear and it is, therefore, no wonder, that the church elected him, although young, as a deacon. He was a leader in Christian Endeavor and Sunday School. Indeed, he was for a time its Superintendent. Moreover, he was a student of the Bible.

Manglee was not so gifted. She read up to the third class only. But, what she lacked in school was made up by her sweet life and unimpeachable character and helpfulness. She is good looking and her smile seldom wears off. To hear her laugh is music. Dozens of times have I said to her: "Manglee, laugh a bit for me." Manglee and her mother decided to accept Christ as their Savior and Lord. They were under instruction, but a few days before baptism the mother died. Manglee was baptized.

We all liked Manglee, but one liked her above all others and that was Sewak. One day he asked us for her. The reply was: "If the doctors can give you both certificates that you are symptom-free, you may have her, provided she says"yes." Thorough examinations by our doctors showed that leprosy was no longer active in these two young people. Were they happy? Well, can a duck swim? The "yes" was obtained, and on May 22, 1940, they were married in the compound church, which was crowded to its capacity. After the ceremony about 450 Christians and children sat down for the wedding meal consisting of curry and rice. Now, please listen again. Sewak, erstwhile leper, now an arrested case, happily married, has entered our Mission Bible School and sits in class with the regular students attending from our and neighboring missions.

Does work among lepers pay? Is it worthwhile? Well, let's ask the question: What would have become of this couple had the Lord not sent them to the Leper Home at Champa?

REMARKS

The growth of the church has been encouraging, with 264 baptisms, bringing the total church membership, less deaths, etc., to 2196 and the total Christian community to 3739.

There is a substantial growth in the number of villages where there are Christians. This is particularly true for Basna and Korba. If Christians are scattered in many places, the likelihood is that their numbers will increase rapidly. Nevertheless we do not want to rely on statistics but want to ask he Lord of the harvest to send more laborers into His harvest and we want to ask Him for the empowering of His Spirit in preaching the word.

It is in line with the general increase in evangelism that the number of evangelistic workers shows an increase.

Reduction in Evangelistic outstations is not really a reduction but is a change of names in Bansa area, where each place is now a church.

Total inmates of Leper Home has decreased because London could not permit new admissions.

Medical income shows a healthy growth throughout. The same is true with the church offerings.

Work Among the Untainted in the Leper Asylum

By Mrs. P. A. Penner

Champa C. P. India, May 28, 1940

Each season has its special work program. The hot season gives us a special chance to work with the young people. The various schools close some time in April and begin again from middle of June to middle of July. Since most of our Christians are not farmers, but carpenters, masons, teachers, evangelists and day-laborers, it is very difficult to keep the young people healthfully employed. Mr. Penner has a Bible class for them every day, from 6:30 to 7:30 a. m. About 40 to 46 attend. For the untainted children we are directly responsible to keep them busy. We have 35 girls and 25 boys. Of these children 23 are below ten years of age, ranging from one and one-half to eight years of age. The girls are kept fairly busy with house-work, such as cooking, washing, mending, sewing their own clothes and those for the little ones. They also each get one small child to take care of. The boys have to help with field and garden work. They dig and prepare holes for new bananna plants, prepare land for rainy season garden, repair rich rice field ridges. These ridges are needed to keep the rice fields flooded, and on the tops of the ridges we plant rahardal, a kind of pea, and tilli, which is mostly used for vegetable oil. To keep these children at work takes a good part of my time. Our heart's desire is that every one of them may become a truly converted Christian. Then, they will also become useful citizens and be "the praise of the glory of His grace," as Paul writes to the Ephesians, Eph. 1:6.

ABOUT DEACONESS WORK

By Eva Pauls, India

It was my privilege this year to go out to a village called Akakora with Dr. Ella Bauman, and one of the Bible women, for evangelistic work. We packed our food, bedding cots, etc. and left on the train Friday morning. At the next station we got off, and from here we walked seven miles across the rice fields. Our baggage was put in a buffalo cart. We reached the village toward evening. The first welcome came from the women cutting rice in the fields. Since Dr. Ella Bauman and the Bible woman had been here two years ago, they remembered them well. During our stay in the village we lived in a mud school house on the Mission Compound. As we tried to get settled, we had many spectators, peeping in at the door and windows, and even crawling on the window sill in order to see just a little more. We cooked our food on a primitive stove which was quite an attraction.

In the forenoons we stayed at home and attended to patients that came for medicines and treatment. At noon, while the people were home from the fields, we went out into the different homes, to meet the women, and present to them again the Gospel of Love. We found that many of them were ready to listen to the Gospel. The evening meetings out in the open were well attended. In spite of their having worked hard all day, and the cool evenings, they listened attentively. A number of families have expressed their desire to follow Christ and serve Him. Our prayer is, that they may experience a change of heart and become true disciples of Christ. In this village the Gospel has been preached for many years and we are happy that some have become willing to leave their sinful ways and follow Christ. At present we have an evangelist and his family living here and teaching the people.

On Sunday morning we had our church services on the school verandah. The evangelist gave a message on, "We are His Witnesses." Early in the afternoon, about 34 children gathered for Sunday School at the evangelist's home. We stayed in this village a week, and then we went back again as our Missionary Conference was at hand.

DISCOURAGED? NO! ENCOURAGED

Mauhadih Mission Station, India

The Bible Course was to start on Monday. Sunday evening a report came to our ears that certain persons, Christians, had been discovered in gross immorality. The implication was clear. The evil one had intended to break up this intensive Bible study by discouraging us before we started. We determined that nothing should stop us and begun the Bible Course as per schedule the next day. God would give us the victory.

The next Sunday Satan made another attack. The involved man struck his wife on the head with a stone. This happened before all the people as they were leaving Sunday School in the afternoon. Stern measures were taken against him, and the next morning about nine o'clock, he came weeping convulsively and begging forgiveness. After this a change could be seen in him. The Bible course went right on. Within six weeks this man confessed all his evil deeds and the lies with which he had tried to cover them.

In the meantime the Bible Course had closed with a great blessing. Nearly all Christian persons on the station had taken part, and we had heartening testimony meetings on the closing day. An additional joy was the fact that many non-Christians of our Mauhadih village came quite regularly to listen in. This six weeks Bible study, during the rainy season, is an annual affair in our Mission, and we are persuaded that it is spiritually more fruitful than so many days of revival meetings.

Our deacon who was to relay the Bible course in several villages, has a bad leg. He hurt his shin during the hot weather, and it still festers from time to time. Nevertheless, he insisted that he would go to the villages. At several places there are Christians who cannot come to the main station, on account of their field work, and again, the swollen rivers are a hindrance. He is still at this work and reports enthusiastically about it.

From one place he reported that the grown daughter of a Christian family had begun a small school for both adults and children. This girl was in the Janjgir girls' school for several years, and now stayed at home so that her younger sister might go. She teaches reading, but also Christian songs and Bible verses; and now wants to teach simple sewing. Such individual initiative is heartening.

Are we discouraged? No, we are encouraged.

PRAYER CHANGES THINGS

By H. E. Dester, M. D.

"Prayer Changes Things." It is the doctor's best surgical instrument, and is more effective than the new drug, sulfafanilimide. The following from the Basna Hospital is an illustration in point.

It changed things for Jagnath. Two years ago he was run over by a cart. His back was fractured, and he has been suffering very much since. He is, however, cheerful, and gives a good witness of God's redeeming grace. His wife, a very fine spirited woman, is helping in the hospital.

It helped in the case when the church prayed. A woman was brought to the hospital very anemic because of prolonged hemorrhage. At the Wednesday evening prayer meeting one of the compounders asked that prayer be made for this woman. Although very risky, an operation was performed the next morning. A large tumor was removed, and the woman has been going remarkably well.

May prevailing prayer prevail in this case: Rachel Bai is one of India's patient suffering childless women. For the past two years she has been serously ill, as a result of amoebic dysentery. Although a Christian, and living only half a mile from the hospital, treatment was withheld. After much persuasion and some pressure, she was finally brought to the hospital. We are praying that it may not be too late.

PRAYER ITEMS

By S. T. Moyer

1. For an Indian doctor for Basna.
2. For the language students, Rev. and Mrs. Waltner, now here, and Rev. and Mrs. Ratzlaff, whom we expect to arrive in November, that all four may receive special help from God in acquiring the use of Hindi.
3. For a revival at all stations. We feel assured that the seed is well sewn, that if our central churches were abounding in the life that is in Jesus Christ, the masses would rise up and cry, "Give us a Savior." Revival is no secret; it is merely the result of prayer.

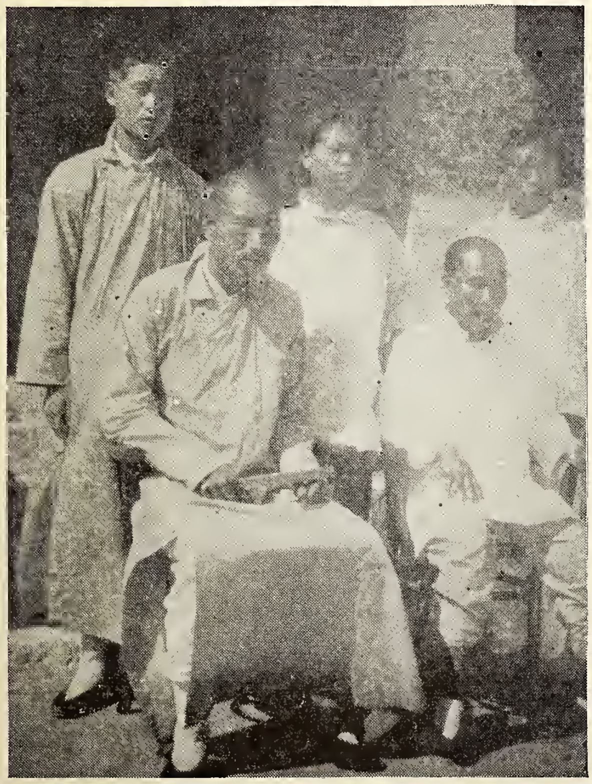
4. For all our institutions. The Primary School, the Middle School, the Boarding Home, the Bible School, our two hospitals, the Home for Untainted Children, the Leper Home, that these may continue to give strong witness to the crucified and risen Lord of needy men, and continue to be even stronger agents in reforming men.

5. For the beginning of large in-gatherings at our other stations in addition to Basna. Some of us yearn for a great awakening, and are willing to meet it in all its axacting ways. "When Zion travailed, she brought forth her children." If Calvary precedes Pentecost, send both, Lord.

CHINA



A Christian Chinese Family

A GLORIOUS PARTING

Ch'en Chen was baptized on the K'ai Chow station about twenty years ago. Later his wife also became a Christian. He had his youngest son and only daughter attend our mission schools. For some years he himself served as a Bible colporteur. But since that he had again been home with his family, trying to make a living from the few acres of land. The daughter married and later died. The youngest son left home in order to seek his fortunes, but came home an opium addict. He was treated in the mission hospital, but still his old friends are trying to get him back into their company. Ch'en Chen had many troubles, trials and a good deal of suffering on account of his children. He never was very strong in body, but later he suffered from consumption. Now being seventy-one years old, he could not make long trips any more. But on Sundays he faithfully attended the city church meetings. Even his last Sunday on earth found him in church.

On Wednesday toward evening he called his sons in and told them frankly: "I am going to leave you now. Not for an hour or a day, but forever. I am ready and I am happy to go to my Savior in heaven. Now, I do not want you to be sorry and mourn. Neither must you cry and lament at my burial. You shall have no heathen affairs performed. Put me into a simple coffin and bury me. Call Rev. H. J. Brown to hold funeral services in our home. Have everything simple and Christian. I am happy to go to my blessed home above. If you are my obedient and filial children, then do not sorrow over my body. I go happy and do not want you to be sad."

He rested between, and then gave out some songs for his family to sing. Again and again, at intervals, he would ask for a favorite song to be sung. A little after midnight he quietly passed into the beyond, still having a smile in his face, even after the soul was gone.

It was a truly remarkable funeral. There was no sign of sorrow, no tears, no moaning. The family wished to sing father's favorite songs. They buried his remains, but they knew that he himself had gone into glory, to be with Christ in whom he had believed and whom he had faithfully tried to serve. Their hearts beat warm and they were more determined then ever to live consistant, Christian lives and meet father in glory.

THE GROWING HOSPITAL WORK AT KAI CHOW

I Equipment

Our new buildings are a source of great pleasure to us, even though we realize they are very short of what a modern hospital needs. The two new wards, with adjacent service rooms, are quite good enough. We do feel the need of a few better single rooms, however. The new building we are working on now will be completed before long and we will be moving into it. It will provide some much needed room. The operating room will be light and large enough for two operating tables, and moving it from the clinic building will help relieve the congestion there. The School of Nursing will use a good part of the second floor, and the attic will be for storage. The building is now short of much equipment and unfortunately our building funds are about exhausted. We spent about $13,000 on the two wards, and the central building is now costing us twice that or over $26,000; this is because of the price materials and work which is twice last year's prices. We will add equipment and furnishings as we are able. We have been trying for some time to get an X-ray outfit, and thought for a time, this summer, we had one as a loan from Weihui, but the outfit , when put together, didn't work and has been sent to Shanghai, the last I hear, for repairs. We can have it when it is returned. Other things we need in the clinic in the line of equipment are a good pressure sterilizer, water sterilizer, and operating table. In the future we look forward to electric lighting, running water, central heating.

II Building

Our new building is about completed, but our building fund is used up. I suggest that we ask the mission to consider ways of adding funds to complete the necessary items.

ANNUAL EVANGELISTIC COMMITTEE REPORT 1940

To the General Committee:

All praise and glory to God and to our Savior, Jesus Christ, who has again blessed us beyond deserve. We have been able to carry on the work throughout the year even in spite of great political changes.

Tamingfu reports improvement as far as bandits are concerned, and Lung Wang Miao also has greatly improved. Nanlo and Ch'ing Feng still remain more or less empty cities. The people have not yet returned since the occupation. Out in the country, there are still communists which cause many hardships to the common people.

Living conditions have become a problem to many of our workers, because of the rise in prices of almost everything necessary to live, be that ever so simple. Because of the prices, all workers have been underpaid.

The Tamingfu Evangelist work was carried on during the year under the supervision of Rev. and Mrs. Brown, Miss Fast and Miss Kuyf. Nanlo and Ch'ing Feng are also included in the Tamingfu area, since they are worked from that center.

There are about thirty-seven evangelists, Biblewomen and a few gatekeepers employed to carry on the work.

Revival meetings were conducted by Rev. Brown last fall in the Ch'ing Feng church. In spring, Mr. Liu Ming Shun, with other helpers, conducted revival meetings in Shuang Ching and Pien T'sun, and good results are reported. The Han Chang church had internal troubles, but after much prayer a month of Bible study and preaching led by Mr. Liu Ming Shun and Wang Hsiu Ch'ing, the wrongdoers confessed their sins and were reconciled to one another and to God.

Mrs. Brown and her Biblewomen have carried on meetings, character reading and Bible study classes. They have also done a good deal of house visitation. In spring Mrs. Brown spent three or four weeks in the region of the village churches.

Miss Kuyf has been going out to country villages, where classes are being carried on by faithful Biblewomen. She feels that family worship is of great importance and hopes to do more along this line. She also has a Sunday School Class of school girls and a Bible Class for older girls. Mother' classes are conducted, as well as Bible and character reading classes. Open doors are reported everywhere, with willing listeners and hungry hearts for the Gospel. Along with her evangelisttic work, Miss Kuyf, with the help of a Chinese nurse, does a lot of medical clinic work such as giving vaccinations for small pox, injections against cholera, and medical aid for many minor troubles. This work, a blessing in itself, is also a heart opener for the gospel message.

Miss Fast is very much occupied with the Women's Bible School, but she also does considerable work besides. She reports that the Women's Auxiliary meetings are being carried on with much enthusiasm

There are also women's meetings. Cottage Bible classes are conducted, which are led by the hostess, regardless of her ability or standing. Once a quarter, a Women Leaders' conference is held, where reports are given and problems discussed. A Women Leaders' Bible Class is conducted on Wednesday, after the regular prayer meeting. Neighborhood Sunday School Clasess are held every Sunday afternoon. These classes are led by students from the Bible School. Two of these classes are held in Mohammedan districts. Miss Fast feels a great responsibility for the Mohammdans and takes a great interest in that work.

Rev. and Mrs. Pannabecker are in charge of the K'ai Chow city church. This work has been somewhat disturbed during the year because of the political situation, but has now returned to normal. Mrs. Pannabecker also goes out to visit country churches and the homes of Christians.

Instruction class was held in the City Church in spite of disturbed conditions, and five were baptized last spring. In the east suburb twenty-one members of a large instruction class were baptized in the spring.

K'ai Chow Country, Ch'ang Yuan and Tung Ming evangelist workers of Rev. Ewert for the past year has on the whole been very encouraging.

Last fall, instruction classes were held in eighteen places. Twelve in the K'ai Chow country district, five at Ch'ang Yuan, and one in Tung Ming. Over five hundred inquirers were enrolled in these classes and sixty-five were baptized and received into the church. In spring, instruction classes were held in twenty-three places, five in the Ch'ang Yuan area, one in Tung Ming, and seventeen in the K'as Chow district. In seventeen places out of the twenty-three, baptismal services were held and a total of one hundred thirty-seven were baptized. In September, the Lord's Supper was observed in fourteen different country churches in the K'ai Chow area. Attendance and interest was exceptional and all semed to be truly blessed. In several churches, parents brought their little children to have them consecrated to the Lord.

Because of military movements, the results of the tent work were not very good in some places. That is for the winter, but during the summer one in Tung Ming, and seventeen in the K'ai Chow went out to different places for short periods. Character classes were held in several places, and not all requests for them could be met.

Vacation Bible Schools were held in some twelve places for four weeks, in the K'ia Chow area and many children had the opportunity to get better acquainted with their Savior. In the Taminfu district, these schools did not come up to expectation, because of disturbed conditions.

One of the outstanding events of the last year and in the history of our Mission, was the ordination of five men as Elders. These were Rev. Sun Ch'ing Sheng at Lung Wang Miao, and Rev. Liu Ch'ing Hsuan of the K'ai Chow City Church. These two were ordained by Rev. Brown. Rev. Chang Ching and Rev. Gang Wan Chue teachers in the Bible School, were ordained by Rev. S. F. Pannabecker. Rev. Yang Ch'ing P'o of the East Suburb Church was ordained by Rev. Ewert.

With opportunities on every hand to spread the Gospel, may we be found faithful and work while it is day lest the night come when no man can work.

Respectfully submitted, Evangelist Com.
August Ewert, Chairman

IN THE CROSS

By Marie J. Regier, China

When some of the Shao Chuan women came up for Christmas they told us that in a village near by a woman had been sick. They had prayed for her and she had gotten well with the result that the whole family had repented. The people were very anxious that we should go over and see them. We were delayed several days but finally Miss Kuyf, Mrs. Shang, the Bible woman, and I started out though it was a dark, cloudy day and we feared that there would be rain or snow before we got back.

As soon as we arrived in Shao Chuan the people there praised God that we had come. Only the day before word came from the neighboring village for someone to come over to pray for the daughter-in-law who was very ill. Two of the women had gone but had not yet returned. So we lost no time getting back on our bycicles and rode over.

Just outside the village we met the Shao Chuan folk coming back in a cart. We hailed them. They climbed off the cart and led us to the house. On the way they told us excitedly, both talking at the same time, that the night before the sick woman had repeated two hundred fifty times, "Jesus you have come to kill me." The next time she had repeated it a hundred times and this morning eighty times. They had prayed with her and when she was clear she had repented, but they felt that their faith was small. If only we would come and help pray.

We met first the old Mrs. Tuan, the first fruit in this home. She said, "When Mrs. Wu told me to pray I wondered whether Jesus would hear me, would He understand? I couldn't see Him, so I was puzzled. But I prayed and He did hear. Now I pray much, both during the day and at night."

The moment we arrived in the yard, the sick woman started all over, "Jesus, you are killing me, a devil, Jesus, you are killing me, a devil." I still wasn't thinking of demon possession, but rather that the woman was frightened because of this foreign gospel and I tried to reassure her, but she didn't pay any attention to me. Then the Bible woman came in. She took her Bible and pressed it down upon her chest and shook her.

"Listen to us, we are going to sing to you."

She stopped a little. "You want me to leave?" she asked.

"Yes," Mrs. Shan said, "In the name of Jesus leave her."

"All right, thank you." was the reply.

We sang repeatedly the chorus, "In the Cross, in the Cross." I don't think I have ever sung that with more fervor. It semed to thrill me clear through. While I am not sure, whether it was force from outside that was possessing her, or whether it was something that rose out of her own subconscious mind, I was sure that we were in accord with a power that was greater than the power that was clutching her.

When we were through singing, Mrs. Shang spoke to her, and she was perfectly normal. She answered every question. She understood, what it meant to repent. She was happy to see us. She repeated several times that we were all friends, that in Christ we all belonged to one home. She said, too, now she understood, now her mind was clear. She was so sorry that she had frightened her children with her ravings, but she had had no control over herself. Mrs. Shang taught her a little prayer which she learned in no time at all.

We all knelt down and prayed in unison as the Chinese like to do. I was near the sick woman and listened to what she was saying. She was asking for forgiveness for having served idols, for having cursed, for not having done her duty by her children.

The room was crowded with onlookers while we prayed with the sick woman and the sudden change in her quite impressed them. I used to have my doubts about testimonies of healing. I felt that people were emphasizing the physical to the exclusion of the spiritual miracle, but I am not so sure now. I have been impressed with the fact that they all emphasize the necessity of repentance, that physical healing cannot be expected unless there is a change of heart, and also that faith in Christ should not depend upon whether one gets well or not.

I was so impressed with the fact while the Bible woman and we came in now, the ground work had been laid by these simple Christian women with no learning except a little reading knowledge with a vital faith.

We rode home in the teeth of a cold north wind. For six miles, about half of the way, we had to push our bicycles but we weren't sorry that we had gone.

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by C. H. Suckau

MARCH 22—"Follow . . . holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." Hebr. 12:14.

How may holiness be secured and followed? Never by keeping the law; neither by asceticism nor by pharisaic externalism.

Holiness by faith in Jesus, not by effort of thine own,
Sin's dominion crushed and broken by the power of grace alone,
God's own holiness within thee, His own beauty on thy brow,
This shall be thy pilgrim brightness, this thy blessed portion now.

—Havergal

MARCH 23—"Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith." Eph. 3:17.

How blessed to be able to say with Paul, "Christ liveth in me." What a difference it will make in our lives to realize His presence in us. This is possible by the same agency that worked in us the miracle of salvation—FAITH. Will you, beloved, give Jesus room, yea every room of your heart, not as a visitor but as an abiding Savior?

"O Jesus Christ, grow Thou in me,
And all things else recede;
My heart be daily nearer Thee,
From sin be daily freed."

MARCH 24—"Filled, unto all the fulness of God." Eph. 3:19.

What a wonderful prayer! Is it mere rhetoric to us when we read it, or is it the honest desire of our hearts? "The idea is of a vessel connccted with an abundant source external to itself, and which will be filled, up to capacity, if the connection is complete." Now the very thought humbles us that God should condescend to fill a poor sinful being with all His fulness.

"Lord, we ask it, hardly knowing
What this wondrous gift may be;
Yet fulfill to overflowing;
Thy great meaning let us see."

MARCH 25—"Grow up into him in all things, who is the head, even Christ." Eph. 4:15.

There is absolute unity betwen the members of our bodies. All are governed by the head, so there is harmony and cooperation after the various members have grown up. It is only in babes and feeble minded persons that we find discord anl lack of coordination among the members of the body. This we find to be true also in the spiritual realm. Only among "babes in Christ" is there "envying, and strife, and divisions."

"To know, to do, the Head's commands,
For this the Body lives and grows;
All speed of feet and skill of hands
Is for Him spent, and from Him flows."

MARCH 26—"Then judgment shall dwell in the wilderness, and righteousness remain in the fruitful field. And the work of righteousness shall be peace." Is. 32:16, 17.

"The whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now." But, praise God, the day is coming, when judgment shall dwell in the wilderness. "The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them; and the desert shall rejoice, and blossom as the rose." Now we are living in the time when men are beating their "plowshares into swords" but thank God, the day will come when "they shall beat their swords into plowshares."

"Jesus is coming! His saints to release;
Coming to give to this warring earth peace;
Sinning, and sighing, and sorrow shall cease,
Jesus is coming again!"

MARCH 27—"Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him." Ps. 103:13. "As one whom his mother comforteth, so will I comfort you." Is. 66:13.

It is blessed to know that God is described as both a father and as a mother in these verses. May we in childlike faith go to Him in our need of pity and comfort.

"Absolutely tender
Absolutely true.
Understanding all things,
Understanding you.

Infinitely loving,
Exquisitely near.
This is God our Father
What have we to fear?"

MARCH 28—"Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly." Col. 3:16.

Paul says that the church is to be sanctfied and cleansed with "the washing of water by the word." Now in order to wash our hands and faces in the morning we need a basin, not a glass of water. How then can we expect "the washing of water by the word" to become efficacious, unless we let the word of Christ dwell in us richly?

"Order my footsteps in Thy Word,
And make my heart sincere;
Let sin have no dominion, Lord,
But keep my conscience clear."

JESUS CONDEMNED AND CRUCIFIED

Luke 23.13-25, 32-34a

TOPIC: Christ on Trial Today

Introduction

Two nights stand out uppermost in all human history; the one, the night of Jesus' birth, and the other, His last night on earth.

The first part of this night He spent in quiet fellowship with the disciples in the upper room. The second part, during the middle of the night, was spent in Gethsemane in prayer, an inexpressibly sacred time for Jesus. The third part was taken up with Jesus' arrest and His trials before the Jewish authorities which were a farce and a travesty on justice. After these disgraceful trials, the whole company of Jewish leaders and people brought Jesus before Pilate (23:1). They there charged Him with perverting the nation (v 2), while in the Jewish court they condemned Him for blasphemy. Pilate saw the emptiness of their charge (v 4, Matt. 27:18).

Jews demand Jesus' Death (vs. 13-23

Pilate knew well that Jesus' teaching ministry had not in any illegal sense perverted the people's minds. He again declared Jesus' entire inocence of the charges made against Him (v 14). Pilate then should have set Jesus free. He gained nothing by compromise and delay. He made it more difficutt for himeslf to do the right thing. When a person begins by delaying and compromising, he will always end by doing a greater wrong. Pilate was paving the way for his suggestion in verse 16, a very unjust suggestion. We never gain anything for truth and right by compromise with error and wrong. The response of the Jews (v 18) is their final answer to Jesus' plea for their loyalty.

The mob became more appallingly insistent in their demands (vs. 21, 23) when they saw that Pilate wished to release Jesus. The mob made an awful choice, yet not any more awful than tens of thonsands are making very deliberately today.

Many reject Jesus and accept Satan.

Jesus Sentenced and Crucified (vs. 24-34a)

The popular clamor of the multitude (cf. Matt. 27:20-23), instead of justice, won the day (vs. 24,25), this to the eternal disgrace of Pilate. His word was final and there could be no appeal. Pilate did not have the courage of his convictions, nor did he make his decision according to the evidence and without fear or favor. Indiscreet and cruel acts of his had won the ill-will of the Jews and Pilate was afraid to do the right thing. He sentenced an innocent man to death because he was afraid of the Jews. Pilate sinned against better light. Washing his hands did not purchase his innocence.

Christ is on trial today. "Jesus is standing in Pilate's hall. What would you do with Jesus?" Neutral, no one can be. Many are saying "Away with this man." They crucify Jesus afresh when they reject Him. They classify themselves by their choice of the one they follow. While we feel the horror of the awful sin committed on Calvary, let us beware lest we allow Satan a place in our hearts and lives. Let us magnify the grace of God which gave Christ, the sinless one, for a lost world.

Thought Suggestions

What shall I do with Jesus which is called Christ?

Why do some Christians lack the courage to follow their convictions as to what is right?

What stood in the way of Jesus receiving justice in His trials before the Jews and before Pilate?

—"What Has Helped Me in My Devotional Life," is the title of two short articles in the Workers' Exchange, eight-page paper published by the young people of the Pacific District. Mr. Lawrence Goerz of Aberdeen, Idaho, mentions the following as chief helps: My Christian home; family worship, with the children participating; secret devotions encouraged by the parents; regular attendance of church from babyhood up; discovery of the unfathomable greatness of Christ as Savior and the desire to link my life with His. Miss Dorothy Wiebe, also of Aberdeen, says: My own strength and knowledge in life is not sufficient, I receive them from a daily talk with God A Sabbath day of worship is very necessary. But to forget God on week days is to take a back step. By my daily contact with Him, and with His divine help I can step forward. When my mind becomes weary with little cares and problems it is pleasant to stop and rest, and think of heavenly things. After that I find that my cares are gone. Thus in daily communion with God, I can say: "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."

—Pleasent Valley Mennonite Church, Kismet, Kan.—Friday evening, February 28, Rev. W. C. Voth presented our congregation with a much appreciated report of our mission field in China, and also showed slide pictures. Sunday, March 2, we were favored with a musical program brought to us by Rev. J. J. Gerbrand and his Bible School from Meade. Wednesday, March 5, in the evening, Missionary Justine Schmidt gave us a similar treat with a talk on her work in Africa, illustrated with lantern pictures. We are grateful to our missionaries who remember our church with their visits, as we are located on the outskirts of our Mennonite district, which makes it difficult for them to reach us. —Correspondent

CALLING ALL YOUNG PEOPLE

"Choose ye this day"

The world offers you a never satisfying craving. Craving for what? For more of everything the flesh desires. What does the flesh desire? The world has taught our youth to desire everything except the things of God, yes, even the deadliest of poisons. You don't believe it? Then just look up the records of the following subjects: Suicide, Alcohol and Tobacco. Sure. "Eat, drink and be merry." Tomorrow you will wake up in hell. The faster you live the quicker you will get there. "And in hell he lifted up his eyes, being in torments."

"Choose ye this day"

God offers to SATISFY all your desires. How? By asking you to live a SIMPLE, OBEDIENT, CHRIST-CENTERED life. Jesus satisfies. Amen. Are satisfied desires all He has to offer? No! That is but the beginning. He has prepared for you a glorious mansion in the heavenlies decorated with the "riches in glory by Christ Jesus!" Choose, Youth, this day. Even this very minute.

SLOTHFULNESS IS DETRIMENTAL

By Lillie Krehbiel

"How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard? When wilt thou arise out of thy sleep? Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of he hands to sleep; so shall thy poverty come as one that traveleth, and thy want as an armed man." Proverbs 6:9-11.

Dr. S. Ralph Harlowe, a professor at Smith's University of South Hampton, Mass., in one of his recent inspirational addresses said that en route to his destination he noticed a very interesting signborad along the road with these words inscribed upon it. "Miliions now living will never die." Some traveler had stopped to add in big, sprawling letters, "Millions now living are already dead." Dead—asleep—unaware of the many responsibilities and opportunities to be working for Christ.

Habitual indolence and lack of service to God and humanity spells the doom of every individual as well as organization. We reap whatsoever we sow. Slothfulness is certain to yield only distress and disappointment in the future.

It is very discouraging, indeed, that so many of us are satisfied in just going about. Why not go about doing something—something fine, pure, and uplifting.

So often we start nowhere and do a very fine job in getting there. In order to accomplish anything great, we must know the goal which we are striving for. Probably the best way in managing our time in service would be to list the different things besides our regular routine work, which we ourselves see must necessarily be done. Perhaps its visiting a sick friend, helping some needy family, or why not aid the pastor in some of his many responsibilities, and most important of all, don't forget the service which can be done in the home. Don't list only the things which you would enjoy doing, but rather those things which have a definite place in a Christian's life of service here on earth.

This is advisable, not only for individuals, but as a Christian organization it is the responsibility of the Christian Endeavor Society to guide its members in a program of service. Think of the illimitable resources of spiritual power which is locked up in the hearts of the endeavorers! Would it not be wise to give each and every one of them something to do in the upbuilding of Christ's Kingdom here on earth? Of course, they are not restricted as to the number of things they can do individually, but where there's unity, there's power, and where there's directed power, expect a masterpiece— a masterpiece in a life of service.

"Let no man hear you idly saying
There is nothing I can do
While the souls of men are dying
And the Master calls for you."

MAKING CHRIST ATTRACTIVE

Matt. 5:14-16; II Cor. 3:2-3; II Tim. 1:8

I. Worship Service

1. Songs, "Jesus the very thought of Thee" (No. 155), "There is a place of quiet rest" (No. 239), "Sun of my soul, Thou Savior dear" (No. 30).
2. Reading of the main topic, and prayer.
3. Biography of Dwight Moody
4. Offering for Mission project.

II Leader's Introduction

Being a Christian is the greatest experience in the world. When a person lives a radiant Christian life, when he bears in his life the fruits of the spirit of which Paul spoke, others will be more easily persuaded to receive Christ as their Savior and Friend. People are persuaded to become Christian by deeds and demonstration more than by words.

Winning others to Christ is an art that must be learned from our Lord and Master. How did He win others to be His followers? What made His teaching so heart-searching? What made His daily life so soul-winning? The secret of His power lies in His words, "I came not to be ministered unto, but to minister" and "Greater love hath no man than that he give his life for his friends." He valued highly the soul of man. His keen eye saw the inward longing, the deep desires of the heart. He drew men unto Him by His love.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

Presented as "Lamb of God" John 1:29, 35:37.
Implicit Assurance, Rom. 1:16
Personal Contact with Christ, John 12:20, 21
Yielding to God, Rom. 6:11-13
Testifying, Mark 5:18-20
Righteous Living, Eph. 4:20-24

IV. For Discussion

1. What did Jesus do to win men to be His followers?
2. What instructions did Jesus give to the twelve when He sent them out? What did they do?
3. How can we make Christ attractive today?

V. Facts for Study

Is it still true that we will desire to be like some one we admire very much, and that in a measure we will become like him? If we can make Christ attractive by presenting Him as He is by our words and by our lives others will want to become like Him.

Christ has so much to offer that the human heart desires and needs—peace and rest for the sin-sick soul, strength and courage for the daily task, wisdom and vision for the many problems confronting us today, love and sympathy for our "neighbor." There is still occasion for us to speak of the height and width and depth of His love and grace—to present Him in all His beauty and power, and so win others to Him.

VI. Illustration

In the Likeness of Christ

A young girl in her teens was being examined for church membership by the officers of a certain congregation. "Do you want to be like Christ?" was the straightforward question of one of the deacons after some preliminary conversation. For a moment the girl hesitated as if puzzled, then she lifetd up her eyes frankly to meet those of the speaker. "I don't know," she replied slowly and thoughtfully. I never thought about that." Then with a look of tenderness in her face, she added, "But I know—I want to be like—my mother."

VII. Food for Thought

A young Italian knocked one day at the door of an artist's studio in Rome, and when the door was opened, exclaimed, "Please, madam, will you give me the master's brush?" The painter was dead, and the boy, filled with a longing to be an artist, wished for the great master's brush. The lady placed the brush in the boy's hand, saying, "This is his brush; try it, my boy." With a flush of eagerness on his face, he tried, but found he could paint no better than with his own. The lady then said to him, "You cannot paint like the great master unless you have his spirit."

The Challenge

The challenge comes
To Christian men;
The world demands
New proof again.

Material might,
With ugly mien,
Defies the power
Of things unseen.

The church, the Book,
Must stand the test,
To show the world
God's truth is best.

The cause of Christ
Must suffer loss
If Christian men
Bear not the cross.

No longer words
Nor empty creds;
The world demands
New proof in deeds.

Song, "Work, for the Night is Coming"

Questions:

1. What do you think is the secret of an attractive, compellingly interesting personality?
2. Does a cheerful disposition always pay?
3. Can we be real Christians and not have a pleasent disposition?
4. How can we cultivate the habit of smiles?
5. Where do we have an influence upon others?
6. Name some ways in which you have been influenced by others.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

LETTER TO THE JUNIOR LEADERS

Dear Junior Leaders:

Miss Mary Becker, who will leave for our Indian mission field this coming fall, the Lord willing, wrote the Junior Department lessons for the months of November, December, and January. I am sure that you all found her lessons helpful and have especially enjoyed the Missionary Journeys that she planned for us. During the months of February and March Miss Anna Huebert had charge of the Junior Department, and you have found her suggestions very helpful, too. I am glad to be back in the "Junior Corner" and covet your prayers and your suggestions that the work may be of help to us all..

Sincerely, Mrs. J. E. Entz

PAUL, A GREAT MAN OF GOD

April 6—Paul, at home and at school

"I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day." Acts 23:1b.

April 13—A day of rejoicing. (Easter Program)

"But now is Christ risen from the dead." I Cor. 15:20a.

April 20—Paul becomes a Christian

"Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am chief." I Tim. 1:15b.

April 27—Paul telling others about Jesus.

"And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that He is the Son of God." Acts 9:20.

Verse of the Month:

Galatians 2:20: "I am crucified with Christ; nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me; and the life which I now live in the flesh I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me and gave Himself for me."

Song of the Month

" Jesus, the Very Thought of Thee." (M.H.B 93; Hymnary 155)

Prayer of the Month

Psalm 17:8: "Keep me as the apple of the eye, hide me under the shadow of Thy wings."

Program for April 6, 1941

PAUL, AT HOME AND AT SCHOOL

To the Leaders:

For several months we plan to study the life of Paul, that great man of God whose life was perhaps more remarkable and useful than any other who ever lived on earth, outside of our Lord's. The story of Paul is so full of interest that it appeals readily to Juniors. Let us through this study help them to understand what it means to be a worthy disciple of Christ.

Shall we plan a "Paul Museum" gathering and making articles that will be an exhibit about Paul, and then at the close of this series of lessons have a visitor's day when we show our museum? Shall we also keep a list of words that Paul liked to use—faith, justification, salvation and others—helping our Juniors to make them their own. Would it not be well to ask each Junior to keep a note book? Our "study period" should be a work period on the part of the Juniors not only a listening period.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude—Pianist play softly the melody of "Jesus, the very thought of Thee."
2. Call to Worship—Isaiah 2:3, "Come ye, and let us go up to the mountain of the Lord to the house of God, and He will teach us of His ways, and we will walk in His paths."
3. Song—All Juniors stand to sing, "Jesus the very thought of Thee."
4. Scripture reading by a Junior boy—Joshua 4:19-24.
5. Scripture reading by a Junior girl—II Tim. 3:14-17.
6. Prayer—by the Juiior leadsr.
7. Special music—Girl's Chorus, "My Jesus, I Love Thee."

II. Study Period

1. Aim: To help our Juniors to learn of the early life of Paul and how that helped him later.
2. Materials needed—A good map. Let several Juiiors make and bring a Jewish scroll for the "Paul Museum." The scroll should bear the words of Deut. 6:4-6.
3. A Junior girl may tell about Paul's home. His Father: Acts 22:28; 22:25; 25:16; 26:37; 23:6. His Sister: Acts 23:16.
4. A Junior boy report on the city of Paul's birth: Acts 21:39; 22:3; 23:34. (cf. also a good encyclopedia.)
5. A Junior girl tell about Paul's education. (a) at home—At the age of five all Jewish lads would begin to study the Bible with his parents at home. They were required to memorize scripture passages: Deut. 6:20-25; Deut. 6:4-9; Ps. 113, and 118. All Jewish boys were taught a trade—Acts 18:3.
   (b) In Jerusalem. Acts 22:3, Acts 5:34.
6. A Junior boy may write an autobiography of "Paul's Boyhood Days" and read it.

III. Mission Minutes

Let us have a "Missionary Spell-down" . All stand and name a missionary in turn. If a name is repeated that Junior must be seated. Do not let a Junior wait too long to think of a name.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Memorize the first verse of the song of the month.
2. Together read the verse of the month from our Bibles.
3. Together read and momorize the prayer of the month from our Bibles.
4. All stand, Junior leader speak the benediction found in II Thess. 3:18.

This is followed by all singing softly, "Into My Heart."

—From Reedley, California comes this informtion: We regret to see the Reverend Edgar Toevs and family leave us when school closes. They go to Shafter, Calif., to serve the First Mennonite Church there.

« « JOTTINGS » »

TO CHURCHES WHOSE HYMN BOOKS ARE BADLY WORN AND WHO ARE THINKING OF GETTING THE HYMNARY WHILE THEY LAST, we wish to give this information: At this writing, March 15, 1941, the Mennonite Book Concern, Berne, Indiana, has 275 copies left, and the Mennonite Publication Office at Newton,Kansas, only 250.

While the Board of Publication is planning to publish another edition of 5000, it will take a good deal of time to get that out. Our Publishing firm in New York is now working on the Gesangbuch, which, to some extent, has the right of way over other work.

—Occupying the front seats in church. Occasionally we find, in the church bulletins sent us, requests to occupy the front seats first, to leave those further back for any who come later. Also to fill up the center of the rows, for the same reason. Why the need of such requests? In the first place, a good many people think only of themselves. They come with a careless attitude. Then we wonder if the tendency does not also show a lack of eagerness to share in the work of worship, a lack of hunger for God's Word. Some, too, seem to feel better when they can be partly hidden behind others. What is needed? Something of the spirit that the psalmist had, when he said, "The zeal of thy house has eaten me up." A deepening of the spiritual life; a rededication to Him to Whom one's life was once dedicated; yes, a rebirth, an entire change of the heart. Wonder, how the Christian people of war-torn Europe would act, if they could come here and enjoy the conditions and opportunities that are ours.

—From Mrs. Selma C. Sommer at Tucson, Ariz.— "This is a joyous chat," said Missionary John Thiessen, as their train pulled out of Tucson towards California, on the evening of February 28. The train stopped here about fifteen minutes. Professor and Mrs. E. R. Riesen, Professor and Mrs. A. B. Schmidt, N. Paul Stucky and I were at the station to greet them. They are brave warriors and, although it seems hard to leave part of the family behind, they seen happy to return to India, their field of work.

—Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church, Wichita, Ks.— Last week a committee from our church met with the Board of Trustees and the Home Mission Committee of the Western District Conference, to discuss the future progress of our church. Arrangements were made for us to go ahead to plan a new church building and raise the needed money. Our choir is diligently practicing an Easter cantata. Our average attendance for January and February was 138, the highest being 163, the lowest 115. Seating capacity of the church is 125. —O. K. Galle, Corr.

—Flatland Mennonite Church, Quakertown, Penna.— The Reverent J. J. Esau, blind evangelist, will hold meetings in the Swamp charge: Flatland, Bethany, and West Swamp, from March 31 to April 6, beginning at Flatland, Monday, March 31. Our pastor, Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, has started a series of sermons from the book of Revelations at our regular worship services. They are proving very interesting. —Correspondent

—Moundridge, Kansas.—The Annual Day of Prayer was observed Friday, February 28, by the churches of this town. The morning service was led by Mrs. Herbert Kutnink and the afternoon service by Mrs. P. P. Wedel, both held in the West Zion Church. A covered dish luncheon was enjoyed at noon. Dr. D. W. Bittinger of McPherson, a former missionary to Africa, was the guest speaker for the afternoon. Special music by the Bethel College male quartet and the local high school. —Correspondent

—Rev. Wilmer Shelly, First Mennonite Church, Wadsworth, Ohio—in their February 23 bullentin: Tomorrow is Ash Wednesday, which takes its name from an ancient custom of strewing ashes on the head as a sign of penitence. And, indeed, this is a time for Christians "to repent in sack-cloth and ashes." Matt. 11:21. It is my purpose to lead the congregation in a spiritual experience through the suffering, death and resurrection of the Lord Jesus. Our Sunday morning sermons and texts will be found in the first Epistle of Peter: The Apostle Peter, the Epistles of Peter; Jesus, the Source of Hope; Jesus, the Chief Corner Stone; Jesus, the Perfect Example; Jesus, the Shepherd of Our Souls, etc. Besides, there will be a meeting on each Thursday evening for a more detailed study of the Epistle.

—Bethel Mennonite Church, Fortuna, Missouri— Our church participated in a World Day of Prayer program, with four other rural churches. Mrs. P. P. Hilty talked on the beginnings in our India missions. Rev. P. P. Hilty led in devotions, and a quartet sang. On March 9, a group of Christian Endeavorers visited several shut-ins in the community and brought them messages of scripture and songs. It is now six weeks that we have been without a minister. We were glad to have Rev. Arnold Funk of Hillsboro, Kansas, with us in an evening meeting with our folk, and especially with our young men under the selective draft. —Mrs. Joe Lehman, Corr.

—A Church that is setting a good Example— The quota of the West Swamp Church in Pennsylvania, for support of the Civilian Service Camps is $113.00, but in the first solicitation for this cause $238.35 were given. That Spells Loyalty!

—Rev. J. J. Esau writes: I am in the Eastern District, holding evangelistic meetings and visiting other churches as well. Great interest is manifested. Expect to stay here until Easter Sunday.

—First Mennonite Church, Upland, California— The latest bulletin contains these significant statements: I hereby announce my resignation as pastor of the First Mennonite Church of Upland, to become effective six months hence. . . By the fall of this year, the Lord willing, I will have served here nearly ten years. The years have been rich with blessings to me and my family, made doubly so by your continuous and unfailing kindness to us. . . . I announce my decision, with much regret, after carefully and prayerfully considering an invitation to join the faculty of Bethel College, etc. —Lester Hostetler

—Brudertal Mennonite Church, Hillsboro, Kansas. Members of the Volunteer Mission Band of Bethel College rendered a fine program in our church Sunday evening, March 23. We do appreciate the efforts of our young people at school to come out and brave a snow storm such as we had the evening of their visit here. —Correspondent

—Bethany Church, Freeman, South Dakota. Rev. J. B. Toews of the Freeman Junior College faculty is scheduled to hold a series of evangelistic meetings from Sunday, March 9 to March 16. The bulletin lists the following subjects: Our Supreme Concern, Our First Step to God, Man under the Microscope of God, Hope for the Hopeless, What Then? A New Man, The Christian Reward.

—Mennonite Church, Nappanee, Indiana. Their bulletin announces that Rev. J. N. Smucker of Bethel College is to hold a series of meetings in this church, beginning March 24 and continuing two weeks.—Recent speakers at this church were Dr. Harold Bender of Goshen College, who spoke on "Civilian Service as an Alternate for Military Training." Also Miss Edna Ramseyer who spoke of her experiences as relief worker in France the past year.

—Bethel College. The Institute for Ministers and Church Workers, held at the College last week was unusually well attended. Both special speakers, Dr. H. E. Dana, in his studies of the Epistles to the Galatians and his addresses on "The Holy Spirit in Christian Living;" and Prof. Rockwell Smith of the Garrett Biblical Institute, with his addresses on the Rural Church and "Preserving the Values of Rural Life," both gave much food for thought. However, the interest of the audience seemed to be particularly centered on the rural church and rural life, as is natural with rural folks.

About Conscientious Objectors

The Selective Service Law of 1940 exempts from military service any person "who, by reason of religious training or belief, is conscientiously opposed to participation of war in any form." It gives such persons the choice between noncombatant service or work of national importance under civilian service direction.

It is estimated that, of the first 800,000 draftees, from 20,000 to 40,000 will be in class IV-E. By February 1, 6,700 men had been placed in this class. In Indiana the number is 4,000 or eight times the original estimate. This is attributed to the fact that there are many Friends, Brethern, and Mennonites in that state.

A total of about eighty men, for the country, have declined to register, and about half of these have drawn sentences, mostly of a year and a day, but of three months in New Haven, and of five years in San Francisco. The President, on January 18, offered a parole to those who had refused to register, if they would accept, (1) service in the army or navy, (2) noncombatant service, or (3) work of national importance under civilian direction.

The National Service Board of Religious Objectors has been designated as the coordinating agency for all this work. Its members are American Friends Service Committee, Mennonite Central Committee, Brethern Service Committee, Fellowship of Reconciliation, Methodist Commission of World Peace, and Molokan Advisary Committee. This Service Board is also to have contact with local draft boards in regard to local cases of dispute, and with the Department of Justice in regard to appeals and investigations, and to assist the Selective Service System in assigning individuals to the different work camps.

The following are the camp directors: Thomas E. Jones, president of Fisk University, for the Friends; Henry A. Fast of Newton, Kansas, for the Mennonites; Paul Bowman, president of Bridgewater College, for the Brethren. Thus far arrangements have been made with the government for the establishment of camps at Patapsco State Forest, near Baltimore, Md.; Cooperstown, New York; Onekema, Michigan; Grottoes, Va.; San Dimas, Calif.; Lagro, Ind.; Colorado Springs, Colo., and Bluffton, Ind. In some instances unused C.C.C. camps are put in operation for this purpose.

The first camps will operate under the technical supervision of the Soil Conservation Service and the Forestry Service. Projects will be set up later in connection with the Public Health Service, the Farm Security Administration, and other government agencies. It will cost $35.00 a month, or $420.00 a year for each man at the camps. The disciples of Christ, the Methodist World Peace Commission, the Baptist Pacifist Fellowship and other groups are planning to help the men who cannot pay their own way. The Mennonites, Friends, and Brethren, as we know, are assuming the support of their men in camp, and are even disposed, particularly the Friends, to help others, also. But, in view of the fact that the number of men being classified as IV-E, will be much larger than anticipated, the financial problem may become a rather serious one.

A good part of the above information is obtained from "Information Service," issued Sat. March 15, 1941, published by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

THE MASTER'S TOUCH

In the still air the music lies unheard;
In the rough marble beauty lies unseen;
To make the music and the beauty needs
The master's touch, the sculptor's chisel keen.
Great Master, touch us with thy skilful hand;
Let not the music that is in us die.
Great Sculptor, hew and polish us; nor let
Hidden and lost thy form within us lie!
Spare not the stroke! Do with us as thou wilt!
Let there be naught unfinished, broken, marred;
Complete thy purpose that we may become
Thy perfect image, thou our God and Lord!

THE REAL EMERGENCY

L. L. Ramseyer

We hear much these days about emergencies. No one can deny that these are the days of danger, that momentous decisions must be made, decisions which will likely effect the future of our country for years to come.

In the very hysteria and obsession which is caused by this emergency, however, we are likely to create another type of emergency more acute. This is the emergency which faces us due to moral and spiritual decline, to lack of interest in things which are constructive, lasting, and worthwhile because of the concentration of our thinking upon destruction and the means of physical defense.

Even before the present period of international unrest there were signs of moral and spiritual decline. If history repeats itself, this condition will be aggravated rather than helped by concentration of large numbers of men in military camps and by turning the thoughts of our people toward war. Many young men are apparently beginning to feel that the future is so uncertian that it doesn't pay to plan ahead, that they had just as well "eat, drink, and be merry" while they can.

This is an emergency which is very real. History shows that moral and spiritual decline is accompained by a softening of the moral fiber which leads to national decay. Thus both from the standpoint of the nation and the church, an emergency exists which must be met.

The church must meet this challenge, both directly and through its affiliated organizations. The Christian college has a definite part to play. It must not be swept off its feet by hysteria. We are chiefly in need of leaders who are serious, God-fearing men. Following "play boys" as our leaders can result only in disaster.

The Christian college must be maintained to provide leaders and intelligent laymen for the future who not only have edcuation, but who have an education directed by loyalty to God and Christian values. Without such a loyalty and sense of values, edcuation is dangerous both to the individual and to society. With such values, the problems which face us can, with God's help, be solved. Leaders so prepared will have a proper sense of the importance of the individual and will strive to so direct our path as to give each man an opportunity to develop his moral, physical, and spiritual life to best advantage. They will inspire youth to live morally clean and spiritually consecrated lives.

Our nation must have a new foundation of faith, faith in God and in our fellowmen. Without it, both as a nation and as individuals, we are doomed. With it, the prophets of doom will be discredited. It is the function of the church and the Christian college to point the way of our future leaders to new Christian faith and its fruits of saner, cleaner living.

GIRLS' HOME WINNIPEG

Winnipeg, Manitoba, Jan. 4, 1941

Dear Mission Friends:

Today I received the letter from you, Brother Toews, and also the money for December. We thank you sincerely for both. We also appreciate greatly the greetings for the girls, I shall read it to them.

We do also want to express our thanks and appreciation for the support as it comes from the many Mission friends.

Finally our long felt need can be realized. We have been in need of a cook stove for a long time in the home. Now with the Christmas gifts from various Societies, and Sunday School Classes, we were able to buy a good kitchen stove. To all those good friends in the U. S. A. a hearty thank you for these gifts. The support from the Manitoba churches is also received with gratitude.

We had our Christmas program on the 26th of December. A few girls had gone home for the holidays. Rev. Benjamin Ewert and Rev. J. H. Enns and family were our guests. In the evening a program was presented in the church, and most of our girls had a part in it, by helping in the choir and by reciting poems.

On the Thursdays the girls time is all taken. One group goes to Bible School at 6:30 p. m. In the Home we have Bible Study from 6 to 7 p. m., and most everyone attends this class except those that attend the regular Bible School. Later on there is choir rehearsal in the Church attended by many girls. The girls in the Home are fortunate that their spare time is so well used up for things that have eternal valuses. Some of the girls that remain in the Home for the rest of the evening, sew hand work while others knit socks for the soldiers.

On Sunday evenings the group gathers around the piano to sing and of course everyone goes to our Mennonite Church.

We are all grateful to our Heavenly Father for the Home which fills a real need and we hope that it might be maintained in the days to come.

With kindest greetings, Helena Epp, Matron

"The Way to Peace They Have Not Known"

Rom. 3:17

Radio address by P. H. Richert, published by request

Kind Radio Audience:—

As a member of a Peace Church, and of the Peace Committee of that church, it is natural for me to speak on the subject of Peace, especially in a time like this, when half of the world is at war, and the other half is in danger of being drawn into it. No wonder that there is today such a general hunger for peace among men as was never known before. But if there is such a hunger for peace, why does the world not have peace? This verse, or text, if you please, gives one of the best answers, namely, "They have not known the way of peace." There is more lack of knowledge on this subject than is commonly admitted. The complaint of lack of knowledge is a very old one. Hosea, one of the Old Testament prophets, complained: "My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge." O what a pity this is, to have wholesale destruction of people, when it could be prevented by better knowledge.

Of whom does Paul speak when he says, "They have not known?" He mentions two classes of people, the Gentiles and the Jews, but not the Christians. Why not? Because the Christians of the early church in his time knew the way of peace, and walked it. Even John the Baptist, who barely stood on the threshold of the new day of grace, had some knowledge of this way of peace. When the soldiers came to him and asked him, "What shall we do?" he answered, "Do violence to no man." And he clearly said this to all soldiers. (Luke 3:14) Think of it! To give such instructions to regular soldiers! Does not that put combatants out of commission, and those that are yoked together with them in the army? In such an army of defense without violence, even members of the Peace churches, so-called pacifists could serve. What would Paul say today about the so-called Christian nations? Would he not have to make the same complaint, "The way of peace they have not known." Are not the Christian nations now just as much at war as the Gentile nations?

What is this way of peace? Christ, the Prince of Peace, says, "Follow me." ."I am the way." He is the way, not only to the Father by his atonement on the cross, through which we have peace with God, but he is also the peacemaker between man and man, and even between nation and nation. A prince is a national leader, not only a group leader. If only the nations would dare to follow Him, at least the Christian nations, then the rest of the world would much sooner fall in line than they do now, and with much less bloodshed than now.

Some 3000 missionaries in China decided some ten years ago, to ask their governments, not to protect them by guns, because they were peace messengers, and would have to quit their job, because the Chinese would consider them insincere, and refuse to hear them.

The Supreme Court of our country has declared repeatedly, that this is a Christian country. They did not define Christianity. That is left to the churches. But, however much the churches disagree on other points in their definition of what Christianity is, all agree that it means to follow Christ. If that is correct, and it is without contradiction, it follows that a nation or an individual is only insofar Christian as they follow Christ, who refused the sword, even in defense.

Some time ago I spoke to a fellow Christian about this, and he asked me, "Do you mean to say, that I do not follow Christ?" I replied, "Not exactly, but I do mean to say, that those who take the sword, do not follow Christ all the way." The two swords, of which Jesus said, "It is enough" (in answer to Peter's confession) were certainly not enough for defense, but they were enough for fulfilling the Scriptures," as Jesus Himself explains in the same verse. (Luke 22.37.)

This explanation was also necessary, because with their intentions to fight, they were "evildoers," rebels, against the government, at least two of them, who had secretly provided themselves with swords. But had Peter not promised to follow Christ even into death? Yes, and he meant what he said, but not without first trying to kill rather than die. Now he learned his lesson. For this also two swords were enough. Why do we not always follow Christ all the way. Because it means, as Christ explains, to take our cross upon us, and the cross always means death, first of all death of selfishness, so that we can love our enemies, bless them that curse us, pray for them that despitefully use us.

When Jesus met Judas in the garden, knowing him as his traitor, he still called him friend, "Friend, wherefore hast thou come?" That was heaping coals of fire on the enemy's head, which sooner or later, as a rule, burns clear down to the heart. Even hard-boiled Judas said soon after this, "I have betrayed innocent blood." Even the money got hot in his hands, and he got rid of it. Do you think that Judas would ever again betray Christ, if he had had a chance, even though he is the "son of perdition," as Christ calls him.

Yes, this fire is effective. Even in the Old Testament we have a similar case in Saul, who for years hated David unto death, until David by repeated absolute proofs showed Saul that he did not want to kill him, even if he could. Then Saul said, "Thou art more righteous than I," "Return, my son David, I will do thee no harm." And he kept his word. Evil can be overcome with good, only it takes much good. If this could happen under the old dispensation of the law, how much more could we expect this under the new dispensation of grace? There is a differnece between the two dispensations. Not that the old was not just, but it needs something better than mere justice to root out evil from the hearts of men. It requires grace. "Eye for eye, and tooth for tooth" is just, but it is not Christian. Our chief concern should be to make friends of enemies. And Jesus emphasized this very thing when He said, "Make for yourselves friends with the unrighteous mammon." When our country returned to China the boxer idemnity money, that was Christian, and also when last year we voted for China 50 million dollars for relief. It would have been even more Christian, if we had done this to an enemy country. How many friends in all the world, do you think we could have made with the billions and billions allowed for war, if we had used them to make friends? It would have done wonders, especially in view of the fact that the causes of war are so largely of an economic nature.

In closing let us look at the "Lord's Prayer." It in a peace prayer. When we say, "Our Father" and not only, "My Father," it makes for unselfishness. We include the others in the same good will we have for ourselves. That spells peace.

When we pray, "Hallowed be thy name," we think of the holiest name in heaven and earth, as John expresses it, who knew best, "God is love." To hallow this name is to praise it, proclaim it and live it. That also means peace.

When we pray, "Thy Kingdom come," we look not only for God's rule in the hearts of men more and more, but especially for the Kingdom of the Prince of Peace, the millennium, because the other form of it is already here, as Christ Himself explains. That spells also peace on earth. And the petition, "Thy will be done," is really only an amplification of the Kingdom, when heaven will be on earth, so to say, because men do God's will as the angels do it in heaven.

Even the petition for the daily bread is a peace prayer, because we do not say, "My bread," but "Our bread," which makes for unselfishness, and that is the first condition of peace.

And most specially do we pray for peace, when we say, "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors."

May we more and more pray this every day as a peace prayer.

God bless you!

—Bethany Church, Freeman, S. D. The Bulletin brings this announcement: By invitation of the local Ministerial Association (Mennonite), Dr. Paul Rood will visit this community and will hold meetings in the College auditorium from April 23 to May 4. Such are times of spiritual feasting, of taking in and enjoying the good and bountiful things with which God wants to enrich our souls.

Daily Devotional Messages

By C. H. Suckau

MARCH 29—"Set your affection on things above." Col. 3.2.

The little word "set" indicates that the placing of our affections is to be a deliberate and determined choice on our part. This choice will depend upon whether things above, or things below, constitute our treasure. We are admonished to lay up for ourselves treasurers in heaven. If we do this our affections will naturally be there, for where our treasure is, there will our heart be also. "The world passeth away." If our affections are set on things below, we shall suffer disappointment, for loss will be the inevitable result. If our affections are set on things above, we shall one day rejoice in their possession and they will remain throughout all eternity.

MARCH 30—"Wives, be loyal to your husbands, ...Husbands, love your wives,.......Children obey your parents." Col. 18-20.

In the above passage we have the secret of a godly, happy home. Ponder these words well, wives, husbands, and children. Loyalty, love, obedience, are the three links in the chain that prevents disruption of our homes when so many homes around us are being shattered. Note that wives are mentioned first. She is the essential person of a home. A Chinese proverb says, "A hundred men may make an encampment, but it takes a woman to make a home." This is true also in America. "When home is ruled according to God's word, angels might be asked to stay with us, and they would not find themselves out of their element." (Spurgeon)

How sweet, how heavenly is the sight,
When those who love the Lord
In one another's peace delight,
And so fulfill His word. —Swain

MARCH 31—"There is none other." Acts 4:12.

Would to God that we might humbly acknowledge and confess that Jesus Christ is absolutely unique and that there is none other when our salvation is in question. There were other prophets, other priests, and other kings. He is declared to be better than the angels, Moses or Aaron, indicating the possibility of comparison with them. However, as Son of God, as Savior, as Truth, as Way, as Life, there exists no comparison for there is none other!

All hail the pow'r of Jesus' name!
Let angels prostrate fall;
Bring forth the royal diadem,
And crown Him Lord of all.

O that with yonder sacred throng
We at His feet may fall!
We'll join the everlasting song,
And crown Him Lord of all.

ANNUAL EDUCATIONAL REPORT OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE OF THE CH'ING CHIEH CHURCHES FOR 1940

Summary of the Educational Work

"Work for the night is coming!" "Look unto the fields for they are white with harvest. Pray the Lord of the harvest to send forth workers." Matt. 9:37, 38.

Never in the history of our mission has the work been as promising and as pressing for immediate attention as just now. How we need to pray, to unite with the Lord of the Harvest, to pray for more workers. Everywhere the church's work is pressing and so is the school work. There is the call for efficient teachers, for quarters to accommodate the influx of students everywhere.

Taming schools are also in need of quarters. The Lower Primary students in the city have had to be in a dark basement. Of the Higher Primary classes, some are held on a terraced floor. With city and south suburb pupils they have about 155. The schools at Taming and Lung Wang Miao have had no interference, though they had to comply with the new regulations and buy the new books.

Tsingfeng and Nanlo have not fared so well. Repeated evacuation of the population also evacuated the students. At Nanlo the students are slowly returning and the school opened in the middle of the spring term and, in spite of repeated bombing, the school pushed right onward, and they had an enrollment of 40 pupils. This fall they have an enrollment of about 10. At Tsingfeng the general condition is rather pathetic, and merits our prayers. Last spring term the school opened late and they had, at the evacuation, 24 pupils.

The Kaichow city school (fall of 1939) was overflowing all the year round, and rooms were deficient for they had over 200 students. In spite of air raids, the work has gone on uninterrupted. During the winter the school work was seriously affected by the mass evacuation and the school was closed for several weeks. Later the school re-opened with 180 students, 100 less than before.

In the fall the school opened with an enrollment of over 200. The rooms were overcrowded.

The local (present) Education Authorities so far are friendly. They have started a training class for the teachers. And some of the leaders are expected to attend them, and new books are to be introduced as soon as they arrive.

Ch'ang Yuan and Tung Ming

With the last quarter of 1939, Mr Ewert took over the work so far done by S. F. Pannabecker. Here the schools had been much disrupted, all the year round, due to political conditions.

At Tung Ming there are 150 pupils with four teachers. Since the school is outside the city it has not suffered as much as it would have otherwise, and pupils have increased.

At Ch'ang Yuan the school has increased from less than 30 students to over 100 this second term. Here there was only one other school in operation and the people who had fled, slowly returned to the city and the students increased accordingly.

Hua Mei School

This school had an enrollment of over 400 students during the fall term of 1939. The school has been able to carry on without interruption. However, the four lower grades had to move out of the temple place into the auditorium for class work, which is not an ideal place for efficient school work. The first year of Senior High was carried through without disturbance. The school is grateful to Rev. and Mrs. Jantzen and Miss Etta Davis who are helping with the English classes.

The school has a total staff of 25, of which 19 are regular teachers. Pupils in the Lower and Higher Primary: boys, 167; girls, 85; total, 252.

High School: boys, 267, girls, 55; total, 322.

The sum total of both is 574 students. Of these 382 come from Christian homes, of which 81 are Christians. Seven were baptized this spring.

The Junior High School graduated 16 in spring, while the Lower grades (primary) graduated 60 pupils. As a whole we find the students diligent in their studies.

The Senior High School, first year last fall, had 23 pupils and this second year there are 12. This fall 29 entered the first year of Senior High School, a total of 41 pupils in both years.

The "Love the Lord" Society has a membership of 100 pupils. They conduct Bible classes, prayer meetings, evening devotions and other meetings. They also go out into villages to conduct classes. We praise the Lord for answered prayers in giving the school a religious instructor. Rev. Ch'ai Shih Chu has come from the Tientsin Bible School, to meet the need of religious instruction in the school. He is a graduate of "Peng Hsien Theological Seminary" and taught in the Tientsin Bible School eight years. The students are all attending church and the church is overfilled. Several teachers are having an instruction class under Rev. Ch'ai. Albert Jantzen is superintendent and James Liu now is principal. The school had to add a class in Japanese language. It is overcrowded. Five girls have to sleep under an open porch, while 50 boys are sleeping in the school chapel. Eighty pupils have to eat out in the yard for lack of dining room facilities. The school is urgently requesting funds to build quarters to meet the needs. Five 'chien" are occupied by 70 pupils and yet five must sleep on the open porch.

Bible School

Fall 1939. School work most encouraging. Record enrollment and rooms crowded. Total enrollment 86 of which 62 were new students. At Christmas the students had several special services. Weekly Sunday trips to neighboring villages is also in their program. Some went as far as nine miles (per bicycle) to conduct services.

Work projects are encouraging—printing press the greatest return. Besides this there is cloth weaving, cleaning school rooms and yard. The income was $1,286.18 of which one-half was deducted for materials and supplies leaving over $600. to apply on student labor. Expenses are rising due to high cost of living and it effects the students and it also effects the budget.

In the spring of 1940 five graduated from the regular course and seven from the elementary course. Total, 12 graduates. Two of the teachers were ordained during the year, Rev. Chang Ching and Rev. Wang Wan Chu. Both are trustworthy men. During the summer months both served at the Retreats as special speakers. The Bible School opened again this fall (1940) September 7 with an enrollment of 102 of which 64 are men and 38 women. One woman was so anxious to come to Bible School, she sold her cow and lamb to make it possible to attend. She did not pass the entrance examination and was not accepted. The Bible School is overcrowded. Dormitory rooms which should hold five, must house nine. Classrooms are crowded and during devotions three must occupy a seat made for two. More room must be provided. There has been already quite a shifting about, but still the room problem is quite acute.

Kindergarten

Taming. Fall enrollment (1939) 24 students. Fall (1940), 30 little ones. Mrs. Shen Wu Mei Ch'in is the very capable teacher for these little ones. Seed sown in these tender hearts will some day bring rich fruit.

Scholarship Funds

These have been given to graduates from Hua Mei School and graduates from Bible School. These years 1939 and 1940 no graduate from Hua Mei was regarded as suitable. However, one was selected from the Bible School who received help last school year (1939-1940). The Scholarships are not to be repaid. Loans are subject to repayment. During the past year considerable funds were repaid for former loans by students who have now returned and are at work. This helps the funds circulating and we hope that loans can in the future be cared for by repayments. Scholarships, however, call for the use of new funds from home.

We are grateful to our Heavenly Father for the open doors we still have among the children and young people. May the Lord continue to bless and keep open the doors, and may He abundantly bless the work done among the young lives.

Respectfully submitted,

CHRIST'S COMMISSION

Topic: The Christian Message and Mission

The Risen Jesus Appears to His Disciples (vs. 36-44)

It is the evening of the ressurection day. Jesus had appeared to individuals, now He appears to the eleven (v. 33). It was immediately after the return of the two from Emmaus with their happy report (vs. 13-35). The disciples, for fear of the Jews (John 20:19), met behind closed doors. Suddenly Jesus stood among them and with a word banished their fears (v. 36). His presence with them now meant peace to their troubled hearts. Closed doors will not keep Jesus out when He will come to His own. The first result of His appearance was increased fear (v. 37). The heart of man shrinks back from the supernatural. The spirit of quietness soon possessed them. When Jesus is present, there is peace, for He actually imparts peace (J. 14:27; 16:33).

The sorrowful events of the days passed had greatly troubled the disciples. Jesus came to them to lift them above their troubles and doubts. He puts the same question (v. 38) to every troubled heart today. Troubles are sure to come to each one, and Christ will strengthen us in heart and soul to face and endure all things.

Jesus removed all doubts and convinced them fully that He was indeed risen from the dead, by showing his hands and feet, by showing that He was real flesh and bones—convincing proof that His was a literal, physical resurrection. It seemed too good to be true (v. 41) and some today profess difficulty in believing the doctrine of the resurrection. Jesus gave further evidence by actually eating before them (v. 43), thus removing all doubt. He has an answer for every doubt today. Jesus reminded them that the predictions He had made of His own death and resurrection were now fulfilled. He set His stamp of authority on the whole Old Testament.

Christ's Commission vs. 45-49.

Jesus opened the understanding of the disciples by explaining to them the scriptures concerning Him, so that they might understand the meaning of what had taken place (v. 45). Christ's suffering and death were a part of God's plan and were an essential part of His work. These were all foretold as being the price of man's redemption. The resurrection was also a necessary part in God's plan. It was essential to the complete gospel message, showing to men that Christ's life did not end in defeat.

On the ground of these sure facts, repentance and remission of sins should be preached in His name among all nations (v47). This is the Christian mission and the disciples were commissioned to be the first witnesses (v48). This message is to be proclaimed as being something vitally related to life. This message is for all time. Christ has done that which makes remission of sins possible, that on which our salvation depends. He is to be preached as the divine Christ who came to save men from their sins. It is the Christian mission to persuade men of this and to lead them to so trust in Him that repentance and forgiveness become a fact. It is our duty to make the Christian message known to others and endeavor to lead them to accept it.

Thought Suggestors

What is the essential Christian message that we are called to take to the world?

What was the nature of Christ's body during the time between His resurrection and ascension?

How is Christ present in the world now? How does this fact help us in our daily tasks?

IN MEMORIAM

REV. WILLIAM SHELLY GOTTSHALL, the son of Rev. Moses and Mary Shelly-Gottshall, was born June 23, 1865, near Schwenksville, Pa. Early in life he responded to the call of Christ and was baptized and admitted into the church by his father. His ability and interest in the Cause of Christ, was noted and he was called to assist his father, who in November 1884 ordained him, at the age of 19, as minister. His leadership being recognized, he was ordained to the Eldership, at the age of twenty-one.

The marriage to Nancy K. von Nieda, Bowmansville, Pa., was an event of September 22, 1886. Into this union the following children were born: Aaron Elmer, Chevy Chase, D. C.; Jennie May Boehr, died March 4, 1936; Flora Geiger, East Cleveland, Ohio; Paul Herbert, Wilmington, Delaware; Hannah Alieda, died in infancy. On May 27, 1939, his faithful life-companion was called from his side in death.

Feeling the need of more than a common school education, he attended Perkiomen Prearatory School, Pennsburg, Pa.; Ursinus College, Collegeville, Pa., and Ursinus Theological Department, where he was graduated in 1889.

Pastoral Fields: Pastor Schwenksville Charge, 1884-1905, including Eden, Schwenksville, Bertolets, Pottstown and Boyertown; Allentown-Upper Milford Charge, 1905-1909; Swiss Mennonite Charge, Bluffton, Ohio, consisting of three churches, First Mennonite and Ebenezer, Bluffton, Ohio, and St. John, Pandora, where he labored 1909-1924; Salem Mennonite Church, Freeman, South Dakota, 1924-1930. In 1930 he returned to Pennsylvania, locating in Quakertown, where he assumed the leadership of the East Swamp Mennonite Church, until 1938, when he had to lay down the work on account of failing health. Here he was made Pastor Emeritus, until his end.

Conference Activities: Rev. Gottshall was an active and efficient man in conference circles. He held various positions in the respective districts where his churches were located. In the General Conference he served a three year term on the Foreign Mission Board,. He was elected to the Home Mission Board in 1896, and remained a member for 42 years. For 22 years of this period he served as Chairman and for 12 years as Secretary.

Rev. Gottshall was widely known as a forceful Bible expositor, and frequently churches asked him to deliver series of Bible Lectures. Many ministers in the General Conference and especially those in the Home Mission fields, have been ordained by him. A long and fruitful ministry has come to a close, but while health and strength permitted, Brother Gottshall's chief joy was to "preach the unsearchable riches of Christ."

In the fall of 1939 he was taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Homer Geiger, East Cleveland, Ohio, where he was tenderly cared for until the Lord called him home, early in the morning of March 3rd, bringing his age to 75 years, 8 months and 10 days.

Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past,
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou are crowned at last."

Funeral Service, Friday, March 7th, 10:30 a. m., Eden Mennonite Church, Schwenksville, Pa., Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander and Rev. Freeman H. Swartz, officiating. Interment at Eden burial ground.

MARIE VOTH ELLENBERGER GOERING was born in Poland of German parents, August 5, 1856. At the age of eight, her parents, along with all the families of the entire village, moved to Russia. At the age of twenty-two, she came to America, where her brother had preceded her by two years. All of her other relatives remained in Russia.

On November 3, 1878, she was united to Carl Christian Ellenberger, at Moundridge, Kansas. This union was broken when the husband met his death by being crushed by a train. On May 16, 1922, she was again married, this time to Daniel Goering, whose sudden death, last April 16, again left her a widow. In 1923, Mr. and Mrs. Goering united with the First Mennonite Church of Monroe, Wash., where they remained until death. In addition to the passing away of her husbands, another great sorrow permanently saddened her life, namely the death of her brother, who was very dear to her.

The key word of her life was faithfulness. She was faithful to the last in performing every duty that she could do, in a quiet way. After her last illness of about six weeks, she quietly slipped away on Saturday afternoon, January 11, at the age of 84 years, five months, and six days. Surviving her are her nieces, daughters of her brother, Mrs. Lena Kaufman of California, Mrs. Anna Miller, Mrs. Hulda Froese, and Mrs. Katie Schmidt of Kansas; and her step-children, Daniel and Jacob Goering of Kansas, and Mary Gering of Monroe. . . She could say to us now, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith," and her love of God's Word and sacred songs, as well as her deep reverence for the things of God, confirmed this.

Funeral services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. M. M. Lehmann.

MRS. ROSA SCHNELL, beloved wife of Andrew F. Schnell, born Dec. 29, 1883. Mother of three daughters and two sons. Son Russell Schnell now serving as missionary to Africa, with his wife and daughter Carolyn. She was a faithful, true, and active member of the Mennonite Bible Mission, having united with us on Feb. 1, 1925. She served as president of the Ladies' Aid Society for eight years, with willingness and love. Her victorious Christian life shall always be before us.

She went to be with her heavenly Father on March 6, 1941, and was laid to rest on March 8, 1941, from the Mennonite Bible Mission with Rev. Neufeld officiating.

Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days.
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
A beautiful memory she left behind.

CORRESPONDENCE

BETHESDA CHURCH, HENDERSON, NEBR.

March 12, 1941

On January 1, in the afternoon, our church meets for its annual business session. Judging from the speed in which the various items were hurried through, everything seems to be running satisfactorily.

Each winter, if possible, our church engages an outside minister for a series of meetings. The plan in general is to have Bible study in the forenoon and inspirational sermons in the evening. Ministers, who are able or have the time to serve in this capacity, are not too numerous in our conference. Rev. Philip A. Weded from Aberdeen, Idaho, was with us at this time and served our congregation from February 28 to March 6. In spite of threatening weather and heavy roads the number attending increased as the meetings progressed. This is a good criterion of the kind of work offered by Brother Wedel.

Rev. Wedel is very zealous and conscientious in his work. His influence is for unity within the congregation itself, and for harmony within the General Conference of which the congregation is a member. These two things are vital and especially needed in our time, where it is so easy to lose that wholesome sympathy that should bind us as a conference, and to fall for all kind of appeals that may come to us over the radio. Why should that be so? The financial support solicited for some of these problems is at times quite staggering. What do we know how these funds are used? I trust our intentions are good, we want to help build God's kingdom. But is it not true that our efforts will avail most if applied within our own organizations?

Our Bible School, after a session of five months, had its closing program last Sunday, March 9. The school emphasizes, as its name suggests, the study of the Bible, then also church and Mennonite history, music, and Sunday School teachers' training. In addition to the regular courses taught during the day, evening coures were offered on Wednesdays for a period of twelve weeks. According to the expression voiced by a number of individuals, the school supplied a definite need. —H. D. Epp, Corr.

BETHANY MENNONITE CHURCH QUAKERTOWN, PA.

On the evening of March 6, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lovine Deily, the Adult Bible Class held a very pleasant social, in honor of the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thatcher. To the tune of Lohengrin's Wedding March, the Thatchers entered the room, filled with about forty people. The short program included a few songs, prayer, and a short address by the Reverend A. J. Neuenschwander; an original poem, written and read by Mrs. Adelaide Moyer; a duet, "In the Garden," by the Reverend and Mrs. Neuenschwander; reminiscences, by the Thatchers. Until a few years ago, the couple lived on a farm in Haycock Township; now they occupy an apartment in Quakertown, enjoying fair health, mentally still active, taking a keen interest in all current affairs. Among the Bible Class members present were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roth who will soon celebrate their sixty-second wedding anniversary. —Correspondent

GRACE MENNONITE CHURCH, DALLAS, ORE.

Greetings in our Master's name: We indeed feel that the Lord has been very near to us. Our Sunday School has been growing steadily in attendance. The average attendance last year, for the four quarters was, 123, 131, 135, and 140 respectively. This year, for the first quarter we have 163.

We are happy to have Mrs. Nick Neufeld back in our midst again, from Canada, where she had gone to be with her sister who was seriously ill, but are happy to report that she is better and at home again. Mr. Perry, in bed with pneumonia, is a little better. Frieda Towes, who had an appenditits operation, is home from the Hospital today. Ferdinand Balzer who has been quite ill is able to be up and around. We are wishing them all God Send speedy recovery.

The Beacon Bible School, which is located at North Dallas, will render another program next Sunday evening, March 9th. March 23, they will have their baccalaureate services in the Mennonite Brethren Church. Rev. Homer Leisy, pastor of our church, will be the speaker, and on March 28 is their graduation.

At their annual meeting, the Young People's Christian Endeavor decided to take up some definite project for this year, which will be to support a boy in India, so that he may go to school. Our choir of 36 voices is busy practicing the cantata, "The King Eternal," for Easter.

Our pastor, Rev. Homer Leisy, will hold meetings in the Alberta Community Mennonite Church, Portland, Oregon, from March 30th till April 6th. We trust that these will be a blessing to many. It may interest the other churches in our Pacific District that this year's Conference will be held here in Dallas, from May 15-18. —Helen Thiessen, Corr.

MY WORK CAMP EXPERIENCE

by Esko Loewen

After the last war a Swiss engineer, Pierre Ceresole, like so many others envisioned the building of a peaceful world. He was a 'war-resister' but heartily disliked the idea that a conscientious objector was only opposed to war. As a result he evolved a method whereby a pacifist could be positive and constructive during war and peace-time—not just negative and opposed to war when a crisis came.

Mr. Ceresole conceived the idea of mobilizing pacifists of all nationalities into a peace army. This army of peaceful men would go about doing work where it was needed. Homes, recreation areas, and parks would be built in ugly industrial cities. Where poverty was rife and strife was menacing, this army would locate and work, trying to improve conditions materially and spiritually at the same time.

Ceresole's idea was put into action in Europe. Pacifists from various nations volunteered. Soon camps of the International Voluntary Service for Peace were established in several nations. Young men from different nations soon were working side by side with coal miners, steel workers, mill workers and peasants. As they constructed buildings or areas of community benefit the native folk learned to know their benefactors. This mixing of nationalities and spreading of the gospel of peace through interaction was Ceresole's principal objective. He hoped to create goodwill by getting different nationalities together intimately.

The American Friends Service Committee in America adopted this idea from Ceresole and established the Quaker work camps. These were to be established in areas of potential strife. Poverty, labor trouble, race prejudice, narrow-mindedness, lack of understanding—all this is potential strife. So areas in the cotton-producing South with all its race prejudice and poverty, migratory labor areas in California, coal mining areas in Pennsylvania were investigated and camps were established. The Quakers hoped to help matters in these areas by putting in them young people who would show their willingness to sacrifice for the sake of these unknown sharecroppers, miners, transient workers.

These young people worked side by side with the community folk and helped build homes, recreation areas and churches for them. Schools were conducted for the local people. A new spirit of brotherhood came into these communities.

Last summer I attended a work camp in North Weare, New Hampshire. At the camp were twenty students. Four countries and eleven states were represented. Two campers were refugees, one from Germany, the other from Austria. An Englishman was at camp, too. About eight religious faiths were there, including Greek Orthodox, Jewish, Episcopalian, Methodist, Quaker, Lutheran, etc.

It was gratifying to see such a varied group develop a deep abiding spirit of mutuality as the summer wore on. This was due to several factors.

Every morning about twenty minutes were spent in silent meditation. We all sat together in the living room of the old farm house in which we lived. In true Quaker silence we worshipped. Whenever anyone felt moved to speak he was free to do so. Those morning meditations brought us together in a deep abiding fellowship.

Another force which deeply affected us was our common work project. We all, men and women, worked on a project constructing a recreation area for the community. This was beside a lake which was to form behind a dam being constructed. We built a boating dock, diving pier, bath house and picnic area. This would furnish Weare with something it was too small to have—a place where they could play together.

Working on this project, and it was solid physical labor, created a common interest and a common bond among the group. We cut trees, hauled them to a mill and made lumber which we used to build the necessary buildings. Also, we landscaped a knoll, moving tons of earth with shovels and wheelbarrows. While this work was being done each camper learned to know the other more intimately and as a result could understand him better.

The third factor which inspired everyone was the evening discussions. At these we talked on religious topics, pacifism, economic problems and social problems which New England was facing. Our varied background made these discussions very inspiring. We argued and discussed pacifism with vigor, for not all of us were conscientious objectors. Yet, although we all had a different background and outlook upon life, there was a certain tolerance and mutuality each one felt for the other.

We found it difficult to spread this feeling of unity to include the community in which we lived. It was a slow and painful process to get acquainted with these New Englanders. This was due partly to our isolation. Our camp, an old abandoned farm, was some distance from the village. Also, our work project was almost entirely our own which made possible an acquaintanceship with the natives only during spare hours.

As we Mennonites establish civilian camps over the country I look upon them with one hope. Although we will receive no material benefit for our effort in these camp projects I hope, we, the youth, will realize that these camps offer spiritual riches the fulness of which is inestimable. The deep fellowship between kindred spirits and with God which is possible in such an environment is indeed something to anticipate. We, who will go to camp, should prepare for it with that in mind and make of it a blessing for God, for mankind, and for ourselves. Perhaps there we will see the truth that this is a God-centered and not a man-centered world.

HE LIVETH FOREVERMORE Mark 16:1-11

Easter Lesson

I. Worship Service

Songs: "Low in the grave He lay," No. 452; "I know that my Redeemer liveth," No. 453; "Jesus Christ is ris'n today, Alleluia" No. 114. Songs—"Mennonite Hymnary"

2. Reading of main topic and prayer
3. Singing of Lenten and of Easter Hymns
4. Offering for Missions

II. Leader's Introduction

"He Taught High Things, But He Lived Higher"

"He taught high things, but he lived higher." Thus has some one said of Christ. "He taught men to turn the other cheek. The servant struck him on one cheek, and he turned the other and let the soldiers smite him on that. He asked men to go the second mile when compelled to go one. They compelled him to go one mile from Gethsemane to the judgment hall; he went with them twain, clear to the cross. He asked them to give the cloak also; they took his coat at the judgment hall and he gave his seamless robe at Calvary. He asked them to love their enemies, and when they had nailed his hands to a cross so that he could no longer heal them, he could do one last thing; he could die for them. And he did. But before he died his prayer was, 'Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do.'"

That is redemptive living! Did not Jesus live purely and yet suffer for sinners? Did not that very acceptance of undeserved suffering bring us our redemption?

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. The glory of the risen Christ Rev. 21:10-27
2. His reign of peace and righteousness Is. 11:3-9
3. At God's right hand Heb. 10:11-14
4. His power manifested Acts 4:31-35
5. His resurrection and reign 1 Cor. 15:12-25

IV. For Discussion

1. What meaning and value has the resurrection of Christ for us?

2. How does the risen Christ manifest his power today?

3. What is the connection between the cross and the suffering of Christ and His resurrection?

V. Facts for Study

Paul says, "We were reconciled to God through the death of His Son, much more being reconciled shall we be SAVED by His LIFE? Christ died and rose in behalf of men. His death and resurrection according to John meant the end of all limitation which his earthly life brought with it, and led to His return as a spiritual presence no longer encompassed by time and space, and so his influence is on a much larger scale now than when He lived here on earth.

God raised Christ from the dead and made Him to sit in the heavenly places, and He is according to Paul "the living and exalted Lord, the glorified Christ." Paul does not tell us much about Jesus' life here on earth, but in ever new and varied ways he speaks of the meaning of His death and His resurrection.

VI. Illustration

Did death mean life for Peter? Did Christ's Spirit living in Peter mean death for him?

VII. Food for Thought

"He that believeth on me, though he die, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth on me shall never die. John 11:25.

QUO VADIS?

Peter, outworn,
And menaced by the sword,
Shook off the dust of Rome;
And, as he fled,
Met One, with eager face,
Hastening cityward,
And, to his vast amaze,
It was the Lord.

"Lord, whither goest Thou?"
He cried, importunate,
And Christ replied—
"Peter, I suffer loss,
I go to take thy place,
To bear thy cross."
Then Peter bowed his head,
Discomfited;
There, at the Master's feet,
Found grace complete,
And courage, and new faith,
And turned—with him,
To Death.

So we—
Whene'er we fail
Of our full duty,
Cast on him our load—
Who suffered sore for us,
Who frail flesh wore for us,
Who all things bore for us—
On Christ, the Lord.

HOW WE GOT OUR BIBLE

Song "Wonderful Words of Life"

Leader's Talk

"The history of the Bible is one of the most interesting of stories. We have received the Bible from three sources: First, the Hebrew manuscripts, giving us the Old Testament; second, Old Testament books which had been translated into Greek; third, the manuscripts of the New Testament written in Greek.

"In the early days all of the manuscripts had to be copied by hand; so many small errors would creep into the manuscripts; therefore the earliest of these will be the most correct, because they are nearest like the original writings.

"The copies of the Bible in the original tongue are called manuscripts. The copies which have been translated into other tongues are called versions. Our Bible is called the "King James Version," because it was translated into English by command of King James; or "American Revised Version," because it was translated from the Greek and Hebrew into English by American scholars."

Song "How Firm a Foundation"
Scripture Reading Luke 1:1-4
Prayer Song "Take Time To Be Holy"
Sentence Prayers
Response "Into My Heart"

Talk "Manuscripts"

There are three very old manuscripts in existence today:

1. Vatican Manuscript
2. Sinaitic manuscript
3. Alexandrian manuscript

The first of these three lies in the library of the Vatican in Rome. The second was taken to the British Museum in 1933. The Alexandrian, most recently discovered of the three, was found too late to be used in the King James Version. It is also in the British Museum.

Song "The Word of God Shall Stand Forever"

Talks "Versions"

1. St. Jerome's Latin Vulgate finished in A. D. 385.
2. John Wycliffe gave to England the first complete version of the Bible into the English language.
3. Tyndall's version—Tyndall was the first one to go back to the original copies of the Hebrew and Greek manuscripts and translate from them.
4. American Revised Version—Nearly a hundred of the finest men of England and America were asked to aid in this version. The greatest care was taken with every detail, and, after it had been worked on for ten years, it was finally completed in 1885.
5. King James Version—The revisors studied the Greek and Hebrew manuscripts, and Bibles in every language were used in the effort to translate the Bible into the form nearest the original. Ever since it was completed in 1611 all Protestants have loved it.

AN APOLOGY FROM YOUR PRINTER

For some time the printers of THE MENNONITE, The Bethel College Press, where some twenty students are working to help meet school expenses, have successfully produced issue after issue with the regularity of your clock. But last week we had the misfortune to break a part on the Intertype; on top of that came the 24-page Mission edition. We are sorry your copies came late. Your efficient editors are not to be blamed. We are.

PAUL, A GREAT MAN OF GOD

A DAY OF REJOICING

"But now is Christ risen from the dead." 1 Cor. 15:20a.

Setting — Place a large Easter Lily on a small table near the children where they can see it and enjoy its fragrance.

To the Leader

No day in all history has made such a difference to the world as that first Easter day. We need a living Savior, an ever abiding Presence. We need the certain knowledge of a Savior who is greater than sin and death. In the Risen Christ we have The One, who is victor over death, The One, who meets all of our needs, who cares for us, saves us from our sins, and gives us eternal life and joy. To Christians, Easter is a day of rejoicing, because it reminds us again that death itself cannot separate those who love Him from Christ their Savior. May we make this Easter lesson a vital one for our Juniors.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude "Jesus Christ is Risen Today," (The Mennonite Hymnary, No. 144.)
2. Song by the Juniors "Low in the Grave He Lay," M. H. B. No. 452.
3. Call to worship
   Leader—"Christ is risen"
   Juniors—"The Lord is risen indeed"
4. Solo, by an older girl, with violin, "I Know that my Redeemer Liveth" M. H. B. No. 453.
5. Scripture given from memory, by either a Junior boy or girl Mark 16:1-7
6. Leader's Prayer
7. Song by the Juniors "My Jesus I love Thee" 216.

II. Study Period

Aim—To help our Juniors to experience the joy of the sure knowledge of a living Savior. To help them to understand that Easter means to us that death is the beginning of a more beautiful life with Him and our loved ones who have gone to be with Him.

1. Introduction.—For several months we will study about Paul who was one of the greatest men that ever lived. He was a great missionary and a great preacher. In First Corinthians we find one of his favorite subjects. He begins this letter in telling us of the crucified Christ and ends it with telling us of the risen Christ.

2. All Juniors open their Bibles to First Corinthians and read the following verses around the class. Chapter one, verses 18, 23, 24; Chapter two, verses 1, 2; Chapter fifteen, verses 3, 4, 5-9, 12-19, 20, 55-57.

3. Memorize verse 20 of 1 Cor. 15

4. Talk by a Junior boy on "Why Easter is the happiest and most important of all the Christian holy days." John 11:25; John 16:16, 22.

5. Talk by a Junior girl on "What difference does it make to us that Jesus arose from the dead." John 14:2, 3, 19.

6. Poem by three Juniors

"Since Christ Arose"

Since Christ arose
The grave has lost its terror;
We know that death no longer can dispose
Of life, which is not fleeting, but eternal,
Unlocking heaven's gate—
Since Christ arose.

Since Christ arose
He is the mighty victor,
Dispelling doubt and crushing earthly foes,
And thus to all is offered full salvation,
And strength for every task—
Since Christ arose.

Since Christ arose
Undying love has conquered,
And like a silent stream, unending flows,
From out the yearning heart of God, the Father,
Back to the throne of grace —
Since Christ arose.

—By George Wiseman

III. Mission Minutes

Refer to the March "Mission News and Notes" and report on "Forty Years in India" telling and reading parts of the accounts as it is given there.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Sing together the song of the month, "Jesus, the very thought of Thee."
2. Memorize the verse of the month, Gal. 2:20.
3. With bowed head pray the prayer of the month, Psalm 17:8; closing with simple prayer by the leader, thanking God for a risen Savior.
4. Stand and sing softly, "Into My Heart"
5. Repeat together the benediction, 2 Thess. 3:18

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, REEDLEY, CALIF.

Having been elected correspondent for The Mennonite, I shall try to do my duty to the best of my abilities.

Our church observed a week of prayer, January 5 to 12. Different leaders served each evening, representing each department of the church and its activities. It is so encouraging to see how willing the young people are to do their part, especially for the Sunday evening services, when they render such fine music in song directed by Miss Emma Ruth. Many have remarked that the selection the mixed chorus rendered so faithfully is very much appreciated and encourages the people to come to the evening meetings. A good number of young folks have organized an orchestra conducted by Harry Harder. Pipe organ adds much to the worship service. We have had two organ vesper services, one rendeded by Mrs. Arthur Krehbiel and the other by Miss Emma Ruth.

The children are privileged to listen to a special message for them every Sunday morning preceeded by a sermon by Dr. H. J. Langenwalter. February 9, Rev. J. B. Epp was in our midst and served us with a German sermon on Sunday morning. He spent five days in and around Reedley, holding meetings in various churches and is planning to go along the coast to serve in other churches that invited him. At the end of this trip he plans to return to Los Angeles to the family of their adopted Indian daughter.

The Ministerial Union of Reedley is planning a survey in order to find out how people stand in regard to church membership or preferences. Active church members from different denominations are at work, going out in two by two's, to canvass especially assigned territories. Working thus together we all get better acquainted, which I think is a very good idea. Although my father and I have lived in this place only one and one half years, we feel quite at home, and are intending to join the church in the future. Here, too, as in many other places, one has the same problems to face, namely, "more room" to accommodate the people, especially during Sunday School hours, and on special occasions. Here is an opportunity for everyone to do his part to further God's Kingdom.

We regret to see the Rev. Edgar Toevs and his family leave us when school closes; but in turn, we wish them much success as they go to Shafter to serve in the First Mennonite Church, which used to be our place of worship for a number of years.

—Miss Helen E. Penner, Corr.

GRACE MENNONITE CHURCH, PANDORA, O.

The Grace Mennonite Church at Pandora, Ohio, called Rev. Forrest Musser to be its pastor upon the retirement of Rev. Paul E. Whitmer who has served the church for the past twelve years. Rev. and Mrs. Musser were born and reared near Orrville, Ohio. They both graduated from Bluffton College and in the spring of 1932 they both received the B. D. degree from Hartford Theoolgical Seminary. They both have fine scholarship records.

Since his graduation from the seminary, Rev. Musser has served two churches as pastor. The first church was a rural church in the open country where he had a fine record of success among rural people. More recently he has been the pastor of the First Congregational Church of Portland, Conn. There, too, he has been equally successful in a church in a smaller city with its city conditions. Rev. Musser will begin his work at Pandora, Ohio, at the beginning of June. —Mrs. L. A. Amstutz, Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, MADRID, NEBRASKA

March 6, 1941

We have just ended a series of meetings, in which the Rev. Phil A. Wedel, Aberdeen, Idaho, served us. We had Bible conference meetings in the morning. We studied the Dispensations of Time according to Scripture. Brother Wedel had gone to the trouble of making enough mimeograph copies of the whole course, so that each student could have one. In working through these pages, we came in contact with and received an explanation of the whole plan, how God has dealt, is dealing, and will continue to deal with men and to save them. These morning hours will be a lasting memory with us. In the evening the Reverend Wedel preached inspiring, stirring messages. We sincerely hope that a lasting blessing will accompany this campaign.

On every Wednesday evening we gather for prayer meeting in the homes of the church members. These meetings are times of close fellowship and tend to keep up the unity of the spirit. Every Thursday a class in Bible study meets. It consists of two married couples, a married man and a single young man. Our prayer is that these souls may all come under the grace of our Lord and become diligent workers in His Kingdom. Our young people's Sunday School class of high school age gathers once a month for a fellowship meeting. They have singing, devotions, and some games. May these meetings help to bring our young people closer together and keep them for the work of the Mennonite faith. Jacob T. Thiessens have left Nebraska for Oregon. Their going has left us poorer in members, has withdrawn a willing help, and a good Sunday School worker, and left a vacancy in the church board. We wish them the blessing of the Lord in their new home. —J. F. Sawatzky, Corr.

FIRST MENNONITE CHURCH, HALSTEAD, KS.

This spring-like weather affects our services as much as everything else. On a nice Sunday our church is always filled. We have not had to call off any services on account of muddy roads, as some congregations have done. However, much sickness, as flu and colds, caused many to stay at home. We are grateful that we have had no deaths in our church this winter.

On January 22, we had a special business meeting to discuss the problem of the civilian camps. We also granted our pastor a leave of absence, in case he should be called to any service in connection with these camps. None of our boys have been drafted up to this time.

Our congregation is getting the new Mennonite Hymnary. It will add much to the worship services, by its dignity and harmonious melodies, which we learned to love when we were younger. Our young people gave a play, "League of Peace," on the evening of March the ninth. The churches of the town had a Leadership School for church workers. There were about one hundred in attendance. twenty-four of whom took the course for credit in Sunday School work.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Linscheid were our guest speakers at a joint meeting of the Ladies' Missionary Societies on February 13. Both of them gave a clearer conception of the work they have done and what we can do to bring the gospel to our Indians.

—Mrs. Gus Wiebe, Corr.

NEW HOPEDALE CHURCH, MENO, OKLA.

Sunday, March 2, was Oklahoma Bible Academy day, with great blessings for all of us. Rev. Albert Schmidt of Medford and Rev. J. W. Bergen of Goltry spoke in the afternoon, while Rev. Solomon Mouttet of Inola and Rev. J. R. Barkman, Bible teacher, served us at night. The music was rendered by the students and the Goltry Choir.

Rev. W. C. Voth, missionary to China, who was to speak in our church Thursday, March 6, spoke at the O. B. A. that morning and afternoon, and in the evening showed picture slides of China. We regret that only a few could attend because of the rain and snow.

Sunday March 9, was another day of blessings. On this occasion Bro. Albert J. Unruh was ordained as minister of the Gospel. In connection with the ordination, we had a thanksgiving service, commemorating the twentieth anniversary of the service of Rev. H. U. Schmidt as Elder of the church. Speakers were Rev. H. N. Harder of Enid, Rev. J. R. Barkman, Elder Schmidt, who spoke briefly, then performed the ordination ceremony, after which Bro. Albert Unruh gave a short address. Then Elder Schmidt gave us a brief review of his life, as a minister of the Gospel, also of the twenty year's service as pastor of our church.

A thank offering was taken which will be sent to Bro. and Sister Harold Ratzlaff, missionaries to India. Musical numbers were rendered by the Men's Chorus, Mixed Chorus and the Men's Quartet.

MEADOW MENNONITE CHURCH, MINGO, KS.

Greetings with Psalm 103:2, "Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all His benefits." Though a small church of twenty-two members, we still can say that the Lord has let us share His benefits.

On the third of January our church had its annual meeting. The office of the chairman of our church having expired, we elected a new chairman. Voting with closed ballot, the office fell to Mr. Frank D. Goossen, who was then installed on January 13, by the Reverend John H. Epp of Hillsboro. Our Sunday School officers are as follows:

Superintendent, Alvin L. Goossen; Secretary, Mrs. Helen Willms; treasurer, Milford Franz. It became my duty to be the English corespondent, so I shall try to give a little report now and then. We have Sunday School every Sunday morning, preaching when a minister comes along. We are looking forward with great hopes and much prayer that the arrangements that have been agreed upon will soon be a reality. That is, that we will have a minister in our midst who will preach for us three times a month on Sunday morning. February 26, Missionary W. C. Voth was with us. He had bad roads, so he could not be here for the afternoon meeting. But he gave us most of his message in the evening. It got late, but everybody sat still. It had been over ten years since we had had a Mennonite missionary in our midst. The slides were of very great interest to all. May God bless all workers in His service, is my prayer. —Mrs. Alvin L. Goossen, Corr.

Daily Devotional Messages

by Lester Hostetler

APRIL 1—"For godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation, not to be repented of." v. 10, Read Cor. 7.

Life is not perfect. We sin over and over again. Though we try to be perfect as our Father in heaven is perfect, at the end of the day we have failed. We have done wrong, we have been false, or irreverent or unkind or impure. Shall we give up in despair? No! With humility and penitence we bring our imperfect selves right into the presence of Christ. It is the way of godly sorrow. Life is a difficult climb toward the mountain-top. Daily our feet slip back,—for the ascent is steep. But still we make progress. We need to repent continually but not for the same sins. Spiritually we should be stronger now than we were last year. And by the time another Lenten season approaches, we should find ourselves a little nearer the top than we are now. Not despair, but repentance with godly sorrow is the way of spiritual progress.

APRIL 2—"And be clothed with humility." v. 5. Read I Peter 5.

The word humility is not popular. It suggests a cringing soul, lacking in self-respect, and holding a low estimation of itself. But Christ has changed all that. In Him was true greatness, and true humility. He took the towel and the basin and washed the disciples' feet. He took upon Himself the form of a servant. Our lives, compared with an unfortunate or fallen neighbor, may give us a feeling of superiority and pride. But measured in the light of Christ's life, it can only give us a sense of humbleness. To be humble before others does not mean that we feel ourselves worse and wickeder than they. It is to remember that there is nothing in us too good to be employed in the service of others. What we give for our fellow men is so small! In the light of the cross of Jesus, our best accomplishments are nothing to boast of. Wearing the garment of humility, we are prepared for better service.

APRIL 3—"Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." v.1. Read Heb. 11:1-10.

The need of the hour is a revival of faith. We are sailing through mists and darkness. There are shallow seas and treacherous rocks and heavy storms that constantly threaten to wreck the ship of life. Religious faith consists in the confidence that our Heavenly Father is at the helm, that He is abundantly able to guide, that our hearts need not fret and worry, and that we can have the peace that passeth all understanding. Faith satisfies the heart; reason cannot do so. Too many of us try to give good reasons for everything and end by believing nothing. "The heart," says Pascal, "has reasons of its own which the head can never understand." Our hearts need the warmth that comes from an unfaltering faith in our Pilot, Jesus Christ. Life at its best is lived not by sight but by faith.

WE WANT TO HELP YOU !

The Education Committee of the Western District Conference herewith offers its help to all communities and districts interested in conducting a daily vacation Bible school. We invite those who seek teachers for their schools to contact Dr. A. J. Regier, North Newton, Kansas, and make their needs known to him. Likewise we invite all who would be interested in teaching in such a school to write to him at North Newton, Kansas, giving such data as would be valuable in regard to preparation, teaching experience, etc. The Education Committee —Friedensberg Mennonite Church, Avon, S. Dak. Rev. D. A. Schultz gave his farewell sermon Sunday morning, March 16. Following the morning service, a bountiful community pot-luck dinner was served. A farewell program was arranged for the afternoon. Rev. Schultz will be greatly missed and many expressed their love and appreciation through words and tears. He is retiring from his faithful service because of ill health. He has been our pastor for 39 years. He will be leavng for the West Coast immediately, and later will make his home with a daughter in Mountain Lake, Minn. —J. E. Unruh, Corr.

In a letter to the editor Brother Schultz reports that his address for the next few months will be: 416 Elden Street, Lodi, California.

—Three Lives Lost in Blizzard near Munich, N. D. In the terrible snow storm that raged over the northern states March 15-16, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hoffman, their three-year old daughter Yvonne, and a neighbor, Henry Friesen, were returning in their car from Devils Lake. Near the driveway to their farm they got stalled in the snow drifts. So they started out to walk home. Mr. Hoffman got there. Not able to find the rest on his return, he got the help of their neighbor Jacob Harded, and they found the three lifeless bodies before dawn Sunday morning, only about 300 feet from the Hoffman home. This is not the first time that Mennonite folks, along with others, met similar fates in blizzards in that area.

—Bluffton College.—Bluffton College is to be host to an orchestra contest of the high schools of northwestern Ohio. Orchestras will be classed A, B, BB, C and CC, and will compete with schools within their class. The college music department, with Prof. R. A. Lantz as presiding chairman is sponsoring the contest. . . . The planting of a Student Arboretum is a project to be worked out this spring. A three-acre plot behind the Science Hall is to be planted with 300 varieties of trees and shrubs. One section of the arboretum will be typical of the Appalachian Mountains; another one of the northern and northwestern conifers; and the largest of the common desiduous forest trees of the middle states. Native shrubbery and threaded by-paths is another feature. . . . Mr. Charles Corwin White, lecturer, traveler, and business executive from New York City, recently gave an address in chapel on "Tend to Business." He emphasized the fact that civilizations have fallen for three reasons: Oppressive cost of government, weakening effect of war, and loose morality. America is in danger, because all three of these trends are evident. No nation can stand up under the loose moral conditions such as ours.

—Freeman Junior College.—Recently, the Mandskor of Sioux Falls, a Lutheran aggregation gave a concert in the college auditorium. The chorus consists of 40 men's voices and has an enviable record. . . On Monday evening, March 17, the ministers of all the surrounding churches met with the college Board of Directors and Faculty to discuss the coming endowment fund campaign.

—From the March "Vine Press," Middle District Y. P. paper, we take this item: The Akron M. C. C. office has received 280 notices of IV-E classification. Of these 105 names are from west of the Mississippi, 72 between Pennsylvania and the Mississippi, and 103 from the area including Pennsylvania on the East. One hundred fifty-seven of these list themselves as farmers. The ages between 21 and 24 account for 193 of those reporting. . . . All young Mennonites, and for that matter old ones too, should have a chance to read the original story in the paper, "Tommy and the Cat."

—Bethel College.—On March 14, the College a cappella choir sang before the Federated Music Clubs of Kansas at Arkansas City. The singing took so well that words of the fine work the choir does were passed on. And a few days later Prof. W. H. Hohmann, its director, received a wire, informing him that his choir had been placed on the program of the biennial Convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs to be held at Los Angeles, Calif., June 16 to 21. . . . At last week's end Bethel College was host to the provincial Pi Kappa Delta tournament in debate and oratory, in which twenty-three colleges, with 150 students, from the states of Colorado, Nebraska, and Kansas participated. Dr. E. L. Harshbarger is governor of the "Province" comprised by the three states.

—Oklahoma Bible Academy, Meno, Okla. Our Special Bible Course was better attended this year than ever before. The different churches from which students and visitors came were Orienta, Goltry, Medford, Inola and Turpin in Oklahoma; Elbing, Whitewater, Plains and Liberal, Kansas; and Campo, Colorado. Usually our enrollment for second semester has been less than for the first, but this year the reverse is true.

—West Swamp Church, Quakertown, Pa.—A Homecoming of the Young People's Society, in celebration of its 50th Anniversary, will be observed on March 30, at 7:30 p. m., with a program of music and greetings. The churches of the charge are looking forward to a week of services from March 31 to April 6 with evangelist Rev. J. J. Esau. Several services will be held at each church of the charge during the week and closing on Sunday with services at the three churches. —Corr.

—Mr. Ted Claassen, Mennonite Relief worker in London, Eng., had given his family hope that he might be on the way home by now, in taking an air liner to Lisbon, Portugal, and passage on ship from there to New York, but did not succeed in his plans to leave England. He will try again to come later. Though her husband is beset by many dangers, his good wife with her four fine still small children, trusts God, is calm, and acts the real heroine.

—Bethel Menn. Church, Lustre, Mont. We had the privilege of a visit by the Lustre Bible School, for a program on March 9. On February 9, a young man, Albert Trechrow, was ordained as a missionary to Africa in the Brudertaler Church. On the first Sunday of this month Rev. Albert Ewert served the Bethel Mennonite Church at Wolf Point. We had a very nice winter, hardly any snow, and no severe cold. —Correspondent

—First Menn. Church, Sugar Creek, Ohio. Our congregation is looking forward to a series of meetings to be held from March 16 to 21. Dr. J. E. Hartzler, Hartford, Conn., will bring the messages. His themes will be: "Who is God?" "Where is God?" "The Christian Experience," "Is Jesus Adequate?" "Building Men for God," "The Conquering Church," "When am I a Christian?" —Mrs. W. A. Beechey

—Berne, Indiana.—A colorful operetta, "In Grand Old Switzerland," by Otis Carrington, was rendered by Berne folks March 21, under the direction of Freeman Burkhalter, music supervisor of the Berne schools. . . . Last Sunday this community had the opportunity to listen to three addresses by Dr. Dan Gilbert, Washington journalist, upon the invitation of Dr. C. H. Suckau. In the morning, at the Mennonite Church he spoke on "Can America Stop Short of War?" In the afternoon the theme was, "Some Monsters of the Modernist Menagerie." For the evening the audience had their choice of "Who Will Win the War and Why?" "Adventures of a Newspaper Man in the Nation's Capitol," "Satan's Blitzkrieg in Our Schools."

—The Peace Rally of the Young People of the Western District, held at the First Mennonite Church, Newton, Kansas, Sunday night, March 16, was attended by nearly 1000 people. Harley Stucky, Bethel student, acted as chairman. Dr. A. Warkentin spoke on "Mennonite Relief in War-torn Areas;" Dr. H. A. Fast, director of civilian service camps for the Mennonites on "The Latest Civilian Service News," and Rev. Carl Landis, representative of F. O. R., gave the final address on "Pacifism in Action."

—Mountain Lake, Minnesota Mennonite community is having an interesting auction sale for the benefit of The Home for the Aged. Farm products, groceries, household and kitchen articles, furniture, poultry, live stock, etc., are donated to be bid on. . . . This is a good idea. How often do families have things which they no longer need, but which would do valuable service in some other home.

—First Mennonite Church, Aberdeen, Idaho. On March 9, Rev. P. P. Wedel returned from Nebraska, where he had been holding series of meetings at Madrid and Henderson. The young people had charge of the services during the three weeks of his absence. . . . The Eastern Idaho Christian Endeavor will be held in Pocatello, Idaho, March 28. Henry D. Becker is president of the organization, which is one of the few to carry the light of the gospel over this state. —Correspondent

Thoughts With Christ, Our Savior

During the weeks, through which we are now passing, the thoughts of earnest Christians are much with the experiences of our Savior, as He was approaching the culmination of His work on earth, and the suffering He had to undergo to redeem humanity from the curse of sin. Below we are quoting the thoughts of some of the disciples of the Master which may find echoes in the hearts of many readers.

CHRIST ALL IN ALL—"Jesus! How does the very word overflow with sweetness, and light, and love, and life; filling the air with odors, like precious ointment poured forth; irradiating the mind with a glory of truths on which no fear can live, soothing the wounds of the heart with a balm that turns the sharpest anguish into restful peace, shedding through the soul a cordial of immortal strength. Jesus! the answer to all our doubts, the spring of all our courage, the earnest of all our hopes, the charm omnipotent against all our foes, the remedy for all weakness, the supply of all our wants, the fullness of all our desires. Jesus! at the mention of whose name every knee shall bow and every tongue confess. Jesus! our power; Jesus! our righteousness, our sanctification, our redemption—Jesus! our elder brother, our blessed Lord and Redeemer. Thy name is the most transporting theme of the church, as they sing going from the valley of tears to their home on the mount of God. This name shall ever be the richest chord in the harmony of heaven, while the angels and the redemeed unite their exhaulting, adoring songs around the throne of God.

—George W. Bethune, American Clergyman and Poet

CHRIST GREATEST IN HIS SUFFERING AND DEATH—"All the virtues which appeared in Christ shone brightest in the close of His life, under the trials He then met. Eminent virture always shows brightest in the fire. Pure gold shows its purity chiefly in the furnace. It was under those trials which Christ endured in the close of His life that His love of God, His honor of God's majesty, His regard to the honor of His law, His spirit of obedience, His humility, contempt of the world, His patience, meekness, and spirit of forgiveness toward men, appeared. Indeed, everything that Christ did to work out redemption for us appears mainly in the close of His life. Here mainly is His satisfaction for sin, and here chiefly is His merit of eternal life for sinners, and here chiefly appears the brightness of His example which He has set us for imitation. —Jonathan Edwards, American Divine

HE WAS ALL ALONE—"He was alone; alone, enduring the curse for us; alone, "bearing our sins in His own body on the tree," and exhausting the fierceness of eternal justice; alone without succor by man; alone, without one strengthening whisper from angel; above all, alone, without one ray from His Father's countenance. And that expiring cry, "My God! My God! why hast Thou forsaken me?" was the bitter, dreary, dismal, piercing wail of a soul utterly deserted—wrapped, shrouded in essential unmitigated desolation. —Richard Fuller

THINK ON CHRIST—I entreat you to devote one solemn hour of thought to a crucified Savior—a Savior expiring in the bitterest agony. Think of the cross, the nails, the open wounds, the anguish of His soul. Think how the Son of God became a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief, that you might live forever. Think as you lie down on your bed to rest, how your Savior was lifted up from the earth to die. Think amid your plans and anticipations of future gayety, what the redemption of your soul has cost, and how the dying Savior would wish you to act. His wounds plead that you will live for better things.—Albert Barnes, American Divine

THE LENTEN SEASON—Lent is that season of the year which has been set apart for the special consideration of our Savior's Passion. It comprises the forty-six days preceding Easter. In late years the Lenten Season has been restored to its original character. It has but one supreme motive—to hold up Christ, the Christ of our Cross, as the only hope of a dying world. During this season: We should be present as far as possible at every service of the church . . . . Read the scriptures regularly, and meditate upon what we read. . . . Pray until prayer becomes a habit, turning to God at all times as naturally as the flowers turn to the sun. . . . Deny ourselves some luxury and add the cost of it to the Easter offering. . . . Let self-examination be a daily duty, to know whither we are moving. . . . Make Lent positive, not merely negative. Undertake some practical work for good and carry it through.

THE LAST PASSOVER AND THE LORD'S SUPPER

Luke 22:7-20

By J. F. Sawatzky, Madrid, Nebraska

We are again nearing the time which we call the Passion Week. During these days Jesus partook of the Passover and instituted the Lord's Supper. Jesus had completed His public ministry. During the last five days He had continually labored to finish His duty to His people. He had proved Himself to be King. He knew that He was rejected, that the cross was before Him. Mary of Bethany was the only one who had understood His statements regarding His death. She had annointed His body for the burial.

To the public His teaching was finished, but to the disciples He still had to give the last instructions and prepare them for the ordeal that awaited them. For this last fellowship He gathered them together at the Passover feast, the great Jewish festival.

With this last rite Jesus closed the Old Testament and opened the New Testament by instituting the Lord's Supper. The Passover was a rite of Judaism The Lord's Supper is a rite of Christianity. Judaism and Christianity are not two different religions but one and the same. Christianity is Judaism fulfilled. Judaism is Christianity promised. Christianity is Judaism unfolded. Judaism is the root and Christianity the fruit. What is concealed in the Old Testament is revealed in the New. The one is supplemented by the other.

Jesus was a Jew, born of a Jewish mother. He was taught to keep the Jewish customs, and practiced what the Jewish law prescribed, therefore the Passover. "With desire I have desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer." Once more the Lord desired the fellowship in remembering the miraculous act of taking the children of Israel out of the Egyptian bondage. He knew only too well that He Himself was the Pascal Lamb to be offered for the sins of the world.

In connection with this festival He could so well bring in the Lord's Supper, with the bread to represent His body, and wine to represent His blood. The apostles should afterwards go and teach the gospel to the nations and they should at all times be able to have this fellowship with Him and with each other. And is not the Lord's Supper to this day the binding link that unites the believers into that great family which is known as Christ's Body? The Passover was a home festival. But our Lord Jesus Christ was too poor to have a home. So He had to eat it at another place with His disciples. Is it not significant how Peter and John find the place to prepare this feast?

Besides the lamb the Jews had at their Passover unleavened bread and wine. The Passover had a twofold significance. Historically it reminded them of Egypt. Prophetically it pointed them to the coming of their Messiah. So the Lord's Supper has an historical and prophetic significance. Historically we look back to Golgotha, prophetically we look forward to His coming again, because He says: "For as often as ye eat of this bread and drink of this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death till He come." I Cor. 11:26.

When the Passover was prepared and the hour had come, Jesus and the disciples gathered around the table. On it were placed three cakes of unleavened bread, bitter herbs, two hard boiled eggs, a dish with salt water, four cups with wine, and the lamb, and an apple. The bitter herbs reminded them of the life in Egypt. The eggs represented the eyes and the salt water the tears shed because of their bondage. They took the herbs and a portion of the eggs, dipped them in the dish of salt water, and ate them. Of the three cakes the middle one was broken into halves. The one half was hid, the other half divided among the members of the household. How wonderfully representative! Three cakes, Father, Son, and Holy Ghost. The middle one, the Son, broken in halves, represents the body of Christ broken for our sins. The bitter herbs, the eggs, and the salt water refer to Egypt. Egypt represents the world and it means bitterness and tears.

That is all that the world can offer. The pleasures of the world are very empty. But, thank God, Christ has come to save us from the bitterness and tears. We are His as soon as we have accepted Him as our Savior and Lord. Therefore, the bitter herbs and the tears have no place at the Lord's table. Love Him with all your heart, and He will save you from bitterness and tears. You need Him especially in these days of perplexity.

The apple reminded them of the work in Egypt. It was cut up into little pieces in the form of bricks. Every member received a piece. The believers are expected to work for their Lord, and when we come to the table at the Lord's Supper, remembering His death, He asks us: What have you done for me? Where do you work? Are you helping to build the walls of Zion? Are you interested in the things of God? Do you help to glorify His name? Then it is well with you. On the other hand, if you are interested more in the things of this world, you are still in Egypt and God's blessing cannot rest upon your labors.

The Passover Lamb was to be without blemish, the first born, to be roasted with fire, and no bones were to be broken. What a wonderful picture of Jesus, this Pascal Lamb! He was without blemish. Pilate said, "I find no fault in Him." He was the first born of the Virgin Mary. He was roasted, so to say, in the fire of affliction. Look at Him in Gethsemane, how He grieves and moans! How the drops of blood roll off His face like sweat! How He prays, "Father, if it be Thy will, remove this cup from me; nevertheless not my will, but thine be done!" Then view the crucifixion and hear Him cry out, "Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani." Yes, a true Pascal Lamb indeed! Oh, He is the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sins of the world.

Then the four cups of wine. But why four? The blood was sprinkled only three times on each of the two sides posts and on the lintel of the house. The Jews had the four cups and drank of them all, long before Christ died on the cross. Jesus took the cup, the first cup, and gave thanks, and asked the disciples to divide the contents, each one to have a share of it. Then we read, He took the cup after supper. This is the last cup, as the fourth. No doubt they had taken the other two cups in the course of the Passover, even though they are not recorded. The Lord taught His disciples here that three cups refer to the blood of the Pascal Lamb, which is sprinkled three times on the two side posts, and on the lintel. The fourth cup stood for the blood on Calvary's Cross by the Lord Himself. Yes, He redeemed us with His precious blood and delivered us from the guilt and the power of sin. Oh, it is the blood of our Lord Jesus Christ which cleanseth us from all sin.

We see our Lord and Master as the Lamb of God that is given for the sins of the world. Only His twelve chosen ones are with Him. After the Pascal Lamb was eaten, it was customary to have a regular feast. At this feast the conversation centered about the things represented. This explains how the Lord took this opportunity in giving the disciples those words recorded in John 14, 15, 16, and 17.

Let us turn yet for a while to the communion table. We do not need the candles, the bitter herbs, the apple, the salt water, nor the eggs, but only the bread and the cup, because the Lord said, "This is my body given for you, this do in remembrance of me." Luke 22:19. As to the cup He said, "This cup is the New Testament in my blood, which is shed for you." The communion, the bread and the cup, assures the believer of the redemption from the power of sin. It takes power to get free from the clutches of sin. Thank God, we have that power in the shed blood of the Lamb. This power is ever renewed in the Lord's Supper if taken worthily.

Do we put the true value into the Lord's Supper? Or are we going lightly to His table. Jesus our Lord had a desire to have the intimate fellowship with His disciples. Let us then, when we next commune together at the Lord's table, remember that we have come to have fellowship together and with the Lord, so as to receive power to constantly overcome the power of sin.

One last thought, in regard to the washing of feet, as recorded in John. Many Christian churches practice feet washing, others do not. We should only like to note that to our understanding, the practice of feet washing is a desirable practice. It brings us into an intimate fellowship, affords an opportunity to serve one another, and binds us more closely together in love. How beautiful, if one brother can condescend to wash the feet of another brother whom he does not highly respect. Spiritually, we need a feet washing every day. Jesus said to Peter, "If I wash thee not, thou hast no part in me." And then again, "He that is washed needeth not save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit." Yes, we are clean from transgression, sins, and iniquity. All that was against us has been washed away by the blood of the Lamb. Clean every whit! But our feet are defiled with sin. Daily then, we need a cleansing from this defilement. This we receive by coming to the throne in repentance, acknowledging our guilt, and asking forgiveness. Yes, Jesus is still there, girded, ready to wash our feet, and to forgive freely. Let us, therefore, come to Him daily with our load and receive power to fight the battles and have unbroken fellowship.

A DIFFERENT CONQUEROR

Perhaps the time will come when I will have to take my stand, even though I am now a civilian, for I hear the war drums beating louder and louder upon every hand. I begin to sense the scorn of those who do not share my convictions. Some tell me that Christianity rests upon the outcome of this war, that it is a holy war, that we must bear with the wanton rape, murder, hunger, and pestilence of the sword; but I have learned that our cause does not rest upon the weight of armies, nor upon the shoulders of any political body, for surely if Christianity could thrive under the sword of Herod and Nero, it shall not die beneath the iron heel of Hitler.

Thus I have come to give my allegiance to a different conqueror. He does not shoulder a gun. Hatred and destruction are not his weapons. Great empires of land and sea are not his goal. His kingdom lies within the hearts of men, and today these men are walking undaunted among the desolations of the world. They are binding up the wounds, healing the broken hearts, weeping with the sorrowful, suffering and sharing with the oppressed. Guided by his still small voice, their banners rise like battle-torn flags above new heights. They come as conquerors; but beneath their feet the green herbs spring forth like jewels out of a desolate wreck. Against the hatreds of tribe and nation, the boasting of king and dictator, the lies of intrigue and international injustice, comes their love bearing its cross, their humanity sharing its burden, and their loyalty offering its sacrifice. Upon these rest the hopes of our universe.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

Champa, C. P. India, Jan. 13, 1941

The Foreign Mission Board

Dear Brethren:

Greetings in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, with the words of Isaiah 7:12, "Hitherto hath the Lord helped us." The year just closed has been full of life and momentum. The Mission number gave you a small view of our contacts with people in the past year. The numbers may have seemed dry, hard and cold to most of you; but to the staffs who dealt with flesh and blood, who were in need, it meant the giving of life, energy and love. The report includes both hospitals, Basna and Champa, and the Janjgir, Mauhadih, and Korba dispensaries, and the Leper home.

Very interesting cases have been reported from all of the places. Some have had wonderful and miraclous recoveries. We here in Champa had two cases which were physically incapacitated due to spiritual disintegration. One was a Hindu woman whom we could not help see her need. The other was a Christian man who, when told that his suffering was due to some mental conflict, came to himself as the prodigal son had done, and returned to the Lord Jesus Christ and found relief. He is still weak but he is entering the new year with courage and determination to cling to God's promises.

The missionary conference passed a resolution that we look around in India for a doctor to help out in our mission, when our doctor's furlough falls due, since no one is on the application list from home. This was done due to the great need we see here. So those of you who read this report put this matter on your prayer list and intercede the Lord of the harvest to speed sending the worker that He has called and prepared for this field.

Yours in His service,

The Medical Comm., per Ella Garber-Bauman

A REQUEST FOR PRAYER

A letter from Missionary Petter to Rev. P. H. Richert reports that a grandchild of his is very sick in a hospital at Miles City, Montana, one hundred miles away from the mission station. At the time the letter was written, both Dr. and Mrs. Petter were with the patient and his mother, Mrs. Laura Petter, to watch at the child's bedside, as his mother is not able to hire a nurse.

"The child is very, very sick," declared the doctor and, after a consultation with two other doctors, they diagnosed the case as "infantile paralysis" or "sleeping sickness," as they also call it there. No one knows the exact cause and the healing of it, the report adds. Brother Petter says, "We commit it all to Him who said to Moses and Israel, 'I am Jehovah the Lord, thy Physician.' We submit in trust and faith to Him, whatever may come. I trust not in my prayer, but in His power to give healing, if that is His will."

"WE ASK FOR OUR MISSION FRIENDS' INTERCESSION."

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A. S. Rosenberger

TEACHERS FROM OUR COLLEGES

J. S. Schultz, Bluffton College

It is our earnest hope and prayer that all graduates of our Mennonite Colleges, yea, all students attending even only a year may, as a result of their attendance 1) be better Christians themselves and, 2) influence others about them to become better followers of Christ. We are anxious that those whom the Spirit calls to full time religious service, may become effective ministers. On the other hand, the church certainly needs laymen in all walks of life to represent Christ and help build His kingdom.

Since more of our graduates go into teaching than into all other vocations, we want to point out these special opportunities open to Christian teachers, to let their lights shine.

The public school teacher has children at the age when they are most impressionable, and most teachable. Children are strongly under home influences until they enter the elementary school. From there on what the teacher says, does, and is has tremendous weight with the child. And though we do not teach religion in our public schools directly, let no one think that reading, arithmetic, history, science take on the same meaning to boys and girls, when taught by an atheist as when taught by a consecrated Christian teacher. It just can't. A further opportunity is offered in the fact that the public school teacher has all the boys and girls. Thus thousands of pupils come under Christian influences who are never reached by the church.

The public school teacher has another opportunity for wielding Christian influence, that of taking part in civic, religious and social affairs of his community. He will vote intelligently for men and issues; he will choose entertainments and social gatherings discriminatingly, he will serve God and man devotedly through the church of his choice, as his talents and time permit.

While there are Christian teachers who have studied in state universities, an important difference between them and teachers from Christian Colleges is that Bible study in college has helped the latter to both a maturer understanding of Christ's teachings, as well as the relation of religion to the subjects he is teaching.

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by Lester Hostetler

APRIL 4—"For He knew what was in man." v. 25—Read John 2:13-25

If, in dealing with others, we only knew more about them! Then our attitude toward them would often completely change. A baby, crying at night, may become an annoyance and source of irration to its parents, especially if the child is believed to be spoiled. But suppose the crying is due to illness—an affected kidney or a form of meningitis. It changes the attitude of the parents completely. Instead of losing patience and temper, they will do everything that love and patience can do to help the child. So in dealing with others. If we only knew their trials, their defeats, their secret burdens, how often we would act and speak differently. Jesus knew what was in man, his weakness as well as his strength. Knowing all about us, He yet loved us and died for us.

APRIL 5, Saturday—"We go up to Jerusalem!" v. 31—Read Luke 18:31-34

Those words were full of meaning. Jerusalem was the "holy" city, the religious capital, the place where the Temple was, where the feasts were celebrated. It was the seat of the government. Everybody wished to go up to Jerusalem at least once a year. But there was a cross in the "holy" city and Jesus knew what He was to meet—disappointment, enmity, pain, death. He could not avoid Jerusalem for the culmination of His work was to be accomplished there. And so He went with joy. We become like Him, not by avoiding suffering, but by following steadfastly the course of duty, even though it leads through deserts and fire and death. Do not pray for easier lives; pray to be stronger men and women. Do not pray for tasks equal to your powers; pray for powers equal to your tasks!

APRIL 6, Palm Sunday—"And the multitudes that went before and followed cried, saying, Hosanna to the son of David . . . Hosanna in the highest." v. 9—Matt. 21:9—Read Matt. 21:1-11

Jesus Christ, surrounded by His disciples, entered the city of Jerusalem amidst the outbursting shouts and hosannas of the multitudes. He was hailed and applauded by men, though He was soon to be "despised and rejected." Outwardly they accepted Him as King and acknowledged Him as Son of God. But were they inwardly and spiritually committed to Him? This is the supreme matter. It is well that we acclaim Him outwardly; that we honor Him with rites and ceremonies and church attendance. The religious life is not easily maintained if at all, without these. But let us remember, on this Palm Sunday, to give Him more than external allegiance. He accepts our outward symbols. But He wants most of all our hearts, our wills, our minds. Only if we yield our lives to Him can we truly repeat the ancient song: "Hosanna in the highest!"

APRIL 7—"Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good." v. 21—Read Rom. 12

Here is the best statement of the doctrine of nonresistance. It is not negative but positive. It seeks to deal with evil, not by closing one's eyes to it, or by folding one's arms in its presence, but by confronting it with good. The good life, the good deed, the good word, the good example, work miracles in dispelling evil. An atmosphere of jealousy and hatred and ill-will changes quickly in the presence of a person who is completely calm and given to nothing but good will. Jesus did not cleanse the Temple with physical violence. He was alone and His enemies could quickly have overwhelmed his physical strength. But they could not resist His personality. A gang of thieves met the goodness of Christ and were overcome.

APRIL 8—"Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do." v. 34—Read Luke 23:33-38

At the moment of greatest pain, when ordinary criminals filled the air with curses, Jesus prays for those who nailed Him to the cross and finds excuses for them. It is perfect love. The world has not forgotten the picture of Calvary. It can never forget this prayer of forgiveness. It won the thief on one of the other crosses and perhaps many in the crowd of bystanders. Before such a One we can only stand in silence and adoration and resolve to give our hearts anew to Him. Do we pray for our enemies and honestly desire their good? Or do we harbor resentment, take offense easily, and secretly rejoice in their misfortune? Let us contemplate the cross anew and learn what it means to have the mind of Christ.

APRIL 9—"Behold thy mother!" v. 27—Read John 19:25-37

Jesus prayed for the soldiers and welcomed the penitent thief home. Then His thoughts turn to His mother who was "standing by" as the curious crowd drifted away. To the disciple He gives the sacred charge to care for His mother. Jesus was a member of a family, He grew up in a home and for thirty-three years lived at home. The home ties were close to Him and by all He did and said, He sanctified the home. The home is still the foundation of the Kingdom of God. As the home goes, so goes the church. What is my attitude toward the home? Does Jesus dwell in it? Have I betrayed my home? Have I broken or strained it by selfishness, impatience, censoriousness? Have I made husband, wife, father, mother, sister, brother, to offend? Let the cross of Christ move us to thoughtfulness, and sympathy and sacrifice in behalf of the home.

APRIL 10, Thursday—"I am the living bread which came down from heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world." v. 51—Read John 6:48-58

By the eating of bread we renew our physical strength. It is absorbed into the blood stream and incorporated into our very being. Likewise the soul is nurtured by eating of bread—the Bread of Life. And that Bread is the flesh and blood of Christ. It is a striking figure and its meaning is this: we eat His flesh and drink His blood when we meditate upon His life and character and seek to understand His will, and try continually through prayer and quietness to know His mind. By His death He saved the world. As we survey the wondrous Cross, we are made aware of the love He has for us. The daily contemplation of His life and death is as bread to our souls; we incorporate His life into ours and experience a strength and nourishment we never knew before.

APRIL 11, Good Friday—"And when they had platted a crown of thorns, they put it upon his head." v. 29—Read Matt. 27:24-38

This is the day of Christ's coronation. The brutal Roman soldiers set a crown upon His head. It was a crown of thorns and to them it meant only mockery. They had heard that He claimed to be a king and so they crowned Him—with a crown of thorns. The thorns pierced human flesh, for the Word had become flesh. This is the great central truth of the Incarnation and we should never forget it. The blood that flowed from His wounds was human blood. His affections, wounded by the cruelty and ingratitude of men, were human affections. The King suffered with human suffering. There lies His power and mastery over us. The arrogant masters of the world rule with iron might; Jesus with gentleness and patience and suffering. As we remember anew His suffering, let us make Him anew our King and let His life and light come into our hearts.

—First Menn. Church, Geary, Oklahoma. On Sunday night, March 23, Rev. H. Hege of Corn, Okla., brought a group of his young church people to our church, and delivered a musical program that was highly appreciated by our people here. The Christian Church of Geary dismissed their services in order to attend ours, and we had a full house. The two following nights, March 24-25, Rev. W. C. Voth, missionary of China, lectured and showed pictures of China and our mission there. These meetings, too, were greatly appreciated and we believe, were an excellent stimulant of the mission spirit.

Christ Promises Power

Acts 1:1-12

Topic: Christ Promises Power for Our Tasks

Introduction

In the lessons of the next six months, we shall learn how Christianity got under way and spreads out. The general subject of the lessons is, "Christianity Reaches Out." It is very interesting and important to observe how the gospel gained a foothold and progressed. Our chief source of authentic history is the Acts of the Apostles, so ably recorded by Luke. The day of Pentecost when the Spirit was poured out so marvelously, was one of the greatest days in all history. When persecution made it impossible for the Christians to remain together in Jerusalem, they scattered abroad preaching the word. During this quarter we may trace the events and causes which resulted in the small group of believers becoming a wide-spread and well-established church.

The Risen Christ Promises the Spirit's Power vs 1-8

In his gospel—"the former treatise," (v1) Luke tells what Jesus began to do and teach." In the Book of Acts he tells what Jesus continued to do and teach through the Holy Spirit, after His ascension. He gave commandments to the disciples (v2, L. 24:45-49) just before His ascension, and in the power of the Spirit. He gave indisputable, infallible proofs of his bodily resurrection during a period of forty days (v3). The one chief subject of conversation in these days was, "the things pertaining to the kingdom of God." He solenmly charged the disciples to tarry in Jerusalem until they received the all-essential baptism of the Holy Spirit promised by the Father (vs 4, 5).

The disciples were still thinking of the restoration of the Jewish national kingdom (v6). Now at the time of Christ's last appearance, they ask Him again when He will restore it. At Pentecost they finally learned that His kingdom is not an earthly one. Jesus tells them definitely that God does not reveal such knowledge to men (v7, Matt. 24: 36). How vain and presumptuous it is for any one to try to predict the time of our Lord's return, and to speculate as to its nearness or its remoteness. Jesus turns their attention to their duty of witnessing for Him. Our present duty is the all-important one. He does disclose when they should receive power (v8). This was a matter of vital importance for their effective witnessing. This power was not merely for their own good and enjoyment, but to empower them to witness (2:4, 4:8-12). They were to begin where they were and then spread on and on. Jesus promised to send the Spirit in such a way as He had never been revealed before. Pentecost is the fulfillment of this promise.

Ascention and Promised Return vs 9-12.

Jesus' last words were to be greatly treasured because they were among His most important words. As He finished speaking, He started to rise into the air (v9), with hands outstreched in blessing (L.24: 50,51). He ascended to appear in God's presence in our behalf. God's messengers came to the disciples who stood gazing so intently into heaven. Their question reminded them of their duty here on earth. The angels gave a glorious message and promise to cheer and strengthen the disciples. Jesus was to come again, just as He went, in person and visibly. In the power of the Spirit they preached the crucified, risen, ascended Christ and in the definite assurance that He was coming again. Jesus left a difficult task for his disciples and promised the needed spiritual power to them.

For what purposes does the Christian need power from on high?

How do we obtain the power promised by Christ? What must we do?

THE MENNONITE PEACE POSITION AND THE PRESENT CRISIS

by Russell A. Lantz, Bluffton, Ohio

"The Mennonites are the lineal as well as the spiritual descendants of a people known in the Early Reformation days as Anabaptists; for they trace not only their faith, but also their family connections in many cases back to that group. In the first stages of the great revolt from the Catholic Church there were large groups of people who favored a more complete separation of the new religious order from political control than that which was finally adopted by either the Lutheran or Reformed establishments. The New Testament rather liberally interpreted and especially the Apostolic Church became the basis of the new religious order; and the sermon on the Mount, its working program. Love, not compulsion, they said, must rule both the church and the world. Since love must rule all our social relations, it is wrong to take human life in the settling of any dispute whether public or private; war consequently is forbidden the Christian. Revenge has no place in the heart of the follower of Jesus. These were the principles of the peaceful Swiss Anabaptists—absolute religious toleration, and the law of love and good will as applied to all social relations."

Here we have a clear conception of the early Anabaptists and of the religious ideals that dominated them during the Reformation days. These ideals became the foundation of our Mennonite faith after God troubled the conscience of a certain Catholic priest, Menno Simons. Menno was inspired by the courage of the Anabaptists as they carried on during severe persecution to live their lives as conscience directed, or die in the attempt. He began to study the New Testament more carefully, which soon brought him in open conflict with the Catholic Church. In 1536 he renounced the office of priest and was baptized into the Anabaptist faith. Menno Simons now became the leader of the peaceful wing of the Anabaptists, and out of this leadership comes our Mennonite Church. In this brief survey mention must be made of the bitter persecution that followed these early Mennonites. They were imprisoned, exiled, and executed in both Protestant and Catholic countries. After Menno Simons became the Mennonite leader he remained an "outlaw," with a reward upon his head. Truly, our Mennonite Church has been built upon the faith and blood of martyrs.

With this heritage it is not difficult to see why our church, though one of the smallest denominations, has survived. It is because our church fathers believed in the fundamental principles of Christian living. The Sermon on the Mount was the basis of their faith; their working program. The doctrine of non-resistance was accepted without question, and it is today our priceless heritage. Historically, then, the peace implication is clear to all those who share the name "Mennonite."

From the Biblical view-point, we know that Jesus was opposed to war and all violence under any and all situations. Time will not permit a discussion of this aspect of our peace position, nor is it necessary, since from this very pulpit we have been instructed and admonished many times on this point. We are led to believe that the whole spirit of Christianity, as represented in the life and teachings of Jesus is opposed to war. The Bible does not justify it. The power that Jesus brought into the world was the power of love, and is utterly opposed to the spirit of war.

Mennonites then, are committed to a program of peace, historically and Biblically. In substantiation of this fact the three historic peace churches—the Friends, Brethren, and Mennonites—meeting at Newton, Kansas, drew up a statement of their peace position and concluded it by saying, "As members of the historic peace churches we love our country and sincerely work for its highest welfare. True love for our country does not mean a hatred of others. It is our conviction that only the application of the principles of peace, love, justice, liberty, and international good-will make for the highest welfare of our country; and the highest welfare of our country must harmonize with the highest welfare of humanity everywhere. Our faith is in security through love, protection through good-will, and for such we are willing to make the necessary sacrifice. We are opposed to war as a method of settling disputes, because it is un-Christian, destructive of our highest values, and sows the seed of future wars. We feel that we are true patriots because we build upon the eternal principles of right which are the only foundations of stable government in our world community."

During the last war many of the Mennonite young men were conscientious objectors. We were thrust into situations of extreme difficulty and embarrassment, because our church had no program for us. We believed in our historic principle of non-resistance, but in the years of peace we did not positively carry on in ways to demonstrate this principle. Many times we were asked "If you don't believe in war as a method of settling world disputes, what method would you use?" Since the last war many of us resolved that during peace-time we must effectively demonstrate our peace-position by many works of unselfish nature, reconstruction work, relief work, work camp, and the like. We further resolved that we would present our peace testimony to high government officials anl in case our young men were drafted, suggest the type of civilian work we felt we could do. The present emergency has made it necessary for our General Conference to send its peace emmissaries, in conjunction with those of the Friends and Brethren churches, to Washington to work out a Civilian Service Program.

As Dr. Thierstein said in "The Mennonite" of January 21, "We owe, first, sincerest gratitude to God Almighty, next to our understanding government and certainly also to the brethren who have nobly championed the C. O. cause in Washington." The plan now in operation, is that our committees set up and administer two camps, one at Grottoes, Virginia, for the men east of the Mississippi and another near Colorado Springs for the western men.

The personnel organization necessary for opening these two camps is practically complete. The Mennonites in conjunction with the churches already mentioned have agreed to administer and finance within the limits of their ability this Civilian Service Program in conjunction with various governmental agencies, such as Soil Conservation, Forestry, Land Reclamation, and the like.

In conclusion I would like to quote excerpts directly from Dr. Henry Fast's article in "The Mennonite" of January 7, entitled, "Mennonites and the Civilian Service Program."

"Our history as a people apparently demonstrates that where Mennonite groups started to compromise on the question of participation in military training and war they lost their Christian witness and all but their identity, because this compromise inevitably led them into many other compromises.

"The question before the American Mennonites now is how they will answer the challenge of their present choice. Their answer will not only test the reality and depth of their loyalty to Christ and their faith in His way of love but, in the light of Mennonite history, will also determine very largely the whole future of Mennonitism in this country. The choice before them is not entirely an easy one, especially since it involves important financial considerations, but we pray that we may be possessed of such high faith and courage, and such a measure of spiritual depth and maturity, that loyalty to Christ rather than financial considerations shall determine our choice.

"The cost of maintaining several hundred men in a camp for a year at a time is, of course, considerable, even when the camp is operated with the strictest efficiency and economy. But when the cost is spread out as widely and evenly as possible among the membership of the constituency, it is surprising how easily it can be taken care of. That is, of course, the way the problem should be handled, because this is after all the concern of the whole church. The stand of our boys on the issues confronting them simply represents the Christian spirit and conviction of the church. How vital this conviction is to us as followers of Jesus will become very evident by the way we will back this work with our support, financially, morally, spiritually. Will we hold just as faithfully to our Christian conviction against participation in military training and war and to our faith in Jesus' way of love, even when it touches our pocketbook? God forbid that it should ever be said of Mennonites that they are conscientiously opposed to participation in military training only until it costs them a little money.

"It is estimated that if the churches of our denomination would contribute at the rate of fifty (50) cents per member, we would have ample funds to finance adequately the expense of carrying on this work for the first six months. Just how the individual congregations proceed to raise their contribution is, of course, their own business. Undoubtedly those who are more able to contribute will, as an expression of their Christian concern, want to make up the lack of those less able, so that there be none who will suffer needlessly. But even so, a widespread Christian sharing of the cost of bringing this expression of our loyalty to Jesus' way of life will spiritually be much more wholesome for the life of our churches than a drive for funds.

"If the people in our churches can catch a vision of the wonderful opportunity God, through this arrangement of the government, has placed at their disposal to work out together with their young men a type of camp life that will protect their health physically, morally and spiritually, provide for growth of character and skill in living, and arrange for a program of service to their fellowmen and their country which they can heartily approve and which gives opportunity to express positively their Christian concern, they will thank God for the opportunity and undertake it with the determination to make the most of it." This is God's call to us.

Spring Vacation Gospel Team Trips

Two men's Gospel Team quartets from Bluffton College are planning tours of Mennonite churches during the Easter vacation, April 3 to 14. The first quartet, consisting of Leonard Metzker, Roaring Springs, Pennsylvania; Robert Sommer, Middlebury, Indiana; John Boehr, Pandora, Ohio; and James Habegger, Berne, Indiana, will go to Indiana, Illinois, and Missouri. The second quartet, consisting of Harvey Bauman, Quakertown, Pennsylvania; Edmund Zehr, Gridley, Illinois; Glen Graber, Wayland, Iowa; and Paul Soldner, Bluffton, Ohio; accompanied by Alvin Beachy, Fairfield, Pennsylvania; and Herbert Fretz, Lansdale, Pennsylvania, as speakers, will visit churches in Pennsylvania.

The churches to be visited by the first quartet are Grabill and Kouts in Indiana; Flanagan, Normal, Congerville, Hopedale, Pekin, Peoria, and Summerfield, in Illinois; and Fortuna and Tiskilwa in Missouri.

The Pennsylvania churches to be visited by the second quartet are Napier, Schwenksville, First Mennonite church in Philadelphia, East Swamp, Deep Run, Souderton, Allentown, Lansdale, Saucon, and West Swamp.

Dean J. S. Schultz plans to accompany the quartet west, and Dr. I. W. Bauman will go east with the second group.

Y. P. FORUM

"What value has the 'Simple Life' for young people today?"

"At various times I have publicly stated that I feared lest the Mennonite principle of Peace be stressed to the exclusion of the important teachings of Menno Simon on the matters of Church Discipline and the 'Simple Life!' I am not clear regarding the original conception of the Mennonites concerning the 'Simple Life.' If thereby is meant peculiarity of dress and absolute withdrawal from the world as was practiced by the Old Colonists, then I say that such a life will be of no worth spiritually to our young people. However, if by that term is meant what the New Testament teaches concerning our attitude toward the things of this world, then it constitutes a real message for our Mennonite Youth. We cannot measure the value to children of parental teaching which has stressed contentment with the necessities of this life and which has exalted the laying up of treasures in Heaven far above the accumulation of earthly wealth. To teach thrift, industry, and pioneer courage coupled with godliness is to teach the 'Simple Life.'" —The Rev. Victor Sawatzky, Y. P. Representative of the Northern District.

How the First Mennonite C. E. Society Was Organized

by C. H. A. Van der Smissen

It was in 1885, that the Hereford Mennonite Congregation, Bally, Berks County, Pa., elected Bro. C. Van der Smissen, then pastor of the Upper Milford Congregation, and Bro. Abr. Gottschall, formerly preacher in Hereford, as preachers for a year. At the end of the year they elected Bro. V. d. S. as sole pastor.

After he had served the Hereford Congregation for a while, he thought it best to preach in English every other Sunday afternoon after Sunday School. In the forenoon on the other Sundays he preached in German after the Sunday School period.

The Elder in this church was Bro. J. B. Funk. Each congregation in Pennsylvania then had only one elder, who had nothing to do with business matters, but was only concerned about the spiritual development of the church, and who was the advisor of the pastor in congregational matters.

Bro. Funk (father of our lady missionary, A. Funk) was a dear, intimate friend of the pastor. Once V. d. S., as usual, came to Funk and said, "Bro. Funk, ought we not to have a young people's society for our nice young people?"

"O, Bro. V. d. S., that is just what I have been thinking about and praying for. But how? A Y. M. C. A. or a Y. W. C. A. would be good, but we ought to have them together. I will write to a friend who is a leader in the Y. M. C. A."

So he did. The answer was, "There is a new young people's society. I have written to Portland to send you material."

We got acquainted with the Y. P. S. C. E. and liked it. We called the young people together and talked the matter over. We organized a society, but we did not adopt the pledge, because we thought that was not necessary.

In November, J. B. Bechtel, one our most ardent and efficient young men, had to go to Chicago because of business. The International C. E. Convention was meeting there. So we sent him as our delegate. (Mr. Bechtel is living in Philadelphia and is still interested in C. E. work.) He came back very enthusiastic, and told us that we were no C. E. society, since we had not taken the pledge.

We elected a committee which considered the pledge carefully and prayerfully. It found the pledge to contain nothing but what every earnest Christian would do and ought to do. However, there came the thought, "What will Mr. Yaekel, our president, say?"

Our organization included young people from the Reformed, Evangelical and Schwenkfelder congregations, since they had no C. E. societies. Mr. Yaekel belonged to the Reformed Church. He was attending a teacher's seminary at that time. When he appeared on Sunday, Funk and V. d. S. spoke to him and he considered the pledge. In the evening he read the pledge and said, "I am sure that every one of us does what the pledge asks, so, I believe, we can adopt it!" The whole society arose, and we were the first Mennonite C. E.

THE TEST OF DISCIPLESHIP John 15:8-17

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Onward Christian soldiers," No. 225; "O Jesus, I have promised," No. 212; "A charge to keep I have," No. 214.
(Songs can be found in the Mennonite Hymnary)
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Question-box on Life of Paul—a true disciple
4. Offering for missions

II. Leader's Introduction

A disciple is a learner in the school of Christ. A learner must make progress. He learns by doing. He must practice the Christian life. According to John the test of discipleship is "that ye bear much fruit." And Paul tells us what the fruits of the spirit are: Love, peace, joy. They will be seen and noted in our lives as certainly as the color of our hair, or the type of clothing that we wear.

By the test of how you meet human situations which arise at home, at work, in your personal use of time and money, are you a Christian? Do your faith and your conduct agree? Do you choose the noblest way because of social compulsion or expediency, or because nobility of choice and conduct have become a part of your genuinely Christian attitude? Do you dodge dilemmas or muddle through them with the least possible mental effort, or do you face them with the energy of a robust Christian spirit?

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Sincerity.	Matt. 21:28-32
2. Singleness of Purpose	Luke 14:26
3. Soberness	I Thess. 5:4-10
4. Sharing	Mark 10:21, 22
5. Self-denial	Luke 9:23
6. Suffering	I. Peter 4:1, 2

IV. For Discussion

1. Why is prayer a necessity to meet the top tests of discipleship?
2. What are the standards by which men judge a disciple?
3. What must we do, or have, to prove ourselves as disciples?

V. Facts for Study

The Motto You Live

"You may bring to your office and put in a frame
A motto as fine as its paint,
But if you're a crook when you're playing the game,
The motto won't make you a saint.
You can stick up the placards all over the wall,
But here is the word I announce:
It isn't the motto that hangs on the wall,
But the motto you live that counts."

I Am a Follower of Christ

I am a follower of Christ.
I woul seek first the ways of the kingdom of God.
I would follow the example of Jesus Christ, who lived a life of perfection among men.
I would stand fearlessly for the right in word, thought, and action.
I would face temptation, that it may strengthen my character.
I would face temptation fearlessly and triumphantly.
I would resist temptation with all the power which I may gain through prayer and fellowship with God.
I would detect the wrong and hold high the standards of right
Because I am a follower of Christ. —Anonymous

"Well, I never knew before that you were a Christian," said one man to another in a Michigan logging camp, "though we've been on the job together here for two years. When the sky pilot was here last winter and talked with me about my soul, I told him if so clean a chap as you could get along without religion I believed I could take a chance on it myself." The silent Christian felt that he had been disloyal to Christ.

VII. Food for Thought

"And in the morning, a great while before day, He rose up, and went out into a desert place, and there prayed."

MY BELIEFS; HOW CAN I SHARE THEM?

(Easter)

(Please turn to MENNONITE of March 25, for lesson of April 20)

Prelude, I Know That My Redeemer Liveth

Poem

CHRIST IS RISEN

Come, rejoice, 'tis Easter Day!
Lo, the stone is rolled away!
Empty lies his tomb.

Death has lost its bitter sting—
Ring, ye bells of Easter, ring!
Christ is risen today.

Lo, He comes to you and me,
Bringing immortality,
That we, too, may live.

Priceless gift from Christ our King!
Ring, ye bells of Easter, ring!
Christ is risen today.

—Mrs. D. H. Dugan, F. B. Revell, Co.

Leader

Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, Who, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, hath in His great mercy begotten us anew unto a living hope. I Pet. 1:3.

Group Response

For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life. John 3:16.

Hymn, O Joyous Easter Morning

Scripture Reading, (by the girls) The Easter story in Matt. 27:62; 28:10

Hymn, "Christ, the Lord, is Risen Today"

Scripture Reading (by the boys) A part of the story in John 20:19-29.

Hymn, "Come, ye Faithful, Raise the Strain"

Poem

NOT IN VAIN

Hope we not in this life only.
Christ himself has made it plain
None who sleep in Him shall perish,
And our faith is not in vain.
Not in vain our glad hosannas;
Since we follow where He led,
Not in vain our Easter anthem:
"Christ has risen from the dead!"

—Anonymous, F. H. Revell, Co.

Hymn, "Tell It Out Among the Heathen" (Substitute for first line "Tell it out among all people.")

Scripture Reading by the Leader, Eph. 4:17-25; Luke 24:31-35.

Offering

Silent Prayer, (The piano accompanies. After a few moments of silent prayer, the leader may pray as follows:)

Prayer, "Accept our thanks, our Father, for this Easter day with its message of victory and hope. Accept our gifts and use them to share that message with others. We ask it in Jesus' name." Amen.

Prayer, "O Zion, Haste"

Benediction, "Now the God of peace, who brought again from the dead the great shepherd of the sheep —even our Lord, Jesus Christ, make you perfect in every good thing to do His will. Amen."

7. Memory Verses by three Juniors: Phil. 2:9, 10, and 11.
8. Songs at the Piano—(all Juniors gather around the piano to sing the following:)

"Alas and Did My Savior Bleed"
"In the Cross of Christ I Glory"
"Blessed Assurance, Jesus is Mine"
"O Happy Day"

Study Period

Aim: To show our Juniors what a different man Paul was after he accepted the Lord Jesus as his Savior and create in them the desire to become a follower of the Lord Jesus.

I. Introduction

Paul, or Saul as he was called before his conversion, hated the Christians and hated Jesus, but something happened to make him change. He became a follower of Jesus and he loved the brethren. Our study today tells how this came about. There are three records of his conversion in the book of Acts. Luke, Paul's friend, tells about it in Acts 9:3-9; then Paul himself tells of his conversion twice. Once when he was on the temple steps; (Acts 22:6-11); and again when he stood before King Agrippa (Acts 26:12-18).

2. A junior boy tells, "Why Paul persecuted the Christians," Acts 26:9-11; I Tim. 1:13; Acts 1:15; 2:41; 4:4.

3. A Junior girl tells, "How Paul felt about persecuting the Christians after he became a Christian." I Cor. 15:9,10; I Tim. 1:15; Eph. 3:8.

4. Solo—"The Old Rugged Cross"

5. Three Juniors may come before the group and read slowly and distinctly the three accounts of Paul's conversion:

First Junior may read: Acts 9:3-9.
Second Junior may read: Acts 22:6-11.
Third Junior may read: Acts 26:12-18.

6. Give the Juniors time to ask questions about the passages just read.

7. A junior girl tells about: "The man that was told to help Paul" Acts 9:10-18.

8. All sing—"I Am Thine, O Lord" v. 1, 2.

III. Mission Minutes

Paul was the first, or rather, the greatest missionary.

Six Junior boys may read scripture verses that help us to know this: Acts. 9:15; Acts 22:12, 13a, 15, 16; Acts 26:16-18; Acts 13:44-49; Acts 15:36; Acts 17:22, 23.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat from memory the verse of the month—Galatians 2:20.

2. Pray the prayer of the month, Ps. 17:8.

3. Sing all verses of the song of the month, "Jesus the very thought of Thee"

4. Repeat together the benediction, II Thess. 3:18.

GOOD ARTICLES FOR "THE MENNONITE"

We have the following good articles waiting for publication in this paper, and we are anxious to bring them as soon as the twelve page space at our disposal, as editor, will permit: "My Reasons for Being a Conscientious Objector," by Willard A. Baer of the Souderton, Pa., congregation; "Ministerial Ethics and Inter-Church Practices" or "Ministers Should Love Each Other," by Rev. Walter H. Dyck, Beatrice, Nebr.; "Planning Your Leisure Time," by Sister Wilma Janzen, R. N., Bethel Hospital, Mt. Lake, Minn.; "Thy Kingdom Come—Among the Nations," by Mrs. D. P. Siemens Ewert of the Mennonite Church, Hillsboro, Kans.; "Whitmarsum Seminary," by Prof. N. E. Byers, Bluffton, Ohio, and "Hell on Earth or War," by "A Reader."

IN MEMORIAM

PETER C. NEUFELD, the son of Peter K. and Anna Friesen Neufeld, was born October 12, 1865, at Annafeld, Krimea, Russia. He died March 6, 1941, at the age of 75 years, four months, and 25 days. He was baptized upon the confession of his faith in Jesus Christ, his personal Savior, June 6, 1892, by Elder Jacob Buller and joined the Alexanderwohl Mennonite Church. Of this church he was a member in good standing at the time of his death. On January 31, 1893, he married Elizabeth Schmidt. To this union were born seven sons and two daughters; of these, four sons died in infancy. He lived in the state of matrimony a little more than 47 years. During his life he was never seriously sick. On the first day of February he suddenly became very ill, and had to be taken to the Axtel Christian Hospital, Newton, Kansas, for treatment. Here he was under observation and care for twenty-five days. When he felt that his end was near, he wished to be taken home, and this was done, February 27. Since Monday March 3, he was losing daily. He was firmly settled in faith and was not afraid to die. Quietly he fell asleep in Jesus.

He leaves to mourn his departure: his wife and companion, Mrs. Elizabeth Schmidt Neufeld; the children, Mr. David B. and Mrs. Bertha Neufeld; Mr. and Mrs. John Neufeld; Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Neufeld, and eleven grandchildren. Also one sister, Mrs. H. H. Dirksen, and two brothers, Jacob and Bernhard Neufeld.

Funeral services were held at the Alexanderwohl Church, March 9. Words of comfort were spoken by the Rev. F. N. Dietrich, Psalm 23:4, and by Rev. P. H. Unruh, Rev. 14:13.

OUR FATHER HEINRICH H. SCHMIDT, the son of Heinrich and Anna Unruh Schmidt, was born in Alexanderwohl, South Russia, Jan. 16, 1859. In 1862 the family changed their residence to Gnadenthal. When he was 15 years of age the family migrated to the United States of America and settled in Marion county, Kansas, near the present town of Goessel. He was educated in the village school of Gnadenthal. His teachers were Peter Dick, Peter Thielman and Jacob Janzen, the last of whom he often mentioned later in life. In America he had the privilege of attending public school only a few months. Yet, he acquired a good use of the English language. He could read and write well, and read much. He loved to associate with English speaking neighbors.

On Aug. 4, 1883, he married Marie Buller. This union was blessed with six children, two of which died in infancy. His wife died May 9, 1897, his son, Henry, at the age of thirty, and daughter Anna, at the age of 39. His second wife, Sara Kroeker, whom he married in December, 1897, was called to her heavenly reward in less than a year.

On Jan. 26, 1901, he married Anna Koehn. This third marriage was blessed with three children, a son and two daughters. Our parents were privileged to observe their silver wedding anniversary in 1926. After forty years and twenty-six days this union ended by father's death.

For many years father enjoyed good health, was thankful for it, and endured bodily infirmities with patience. About ten years ago his strength began to fail, and during the last five years he never left his home. As long as he was able he attended church, and it was very hard for him, when that was no longer possible; yet he never grew impatient about it. His quiet and trustful disposition, as an invalid, was for us an outstanding testimony of the marvelous grace of God and our Lord Jesus Christ. He was completly bedfast the last two and a half years. On Nov. 4, he was taken to the Bethesda Hospital at Goessel, where he reveived the best of care. He was called Home February 22, 1941. His age is 85 years, one month, and six days. He leaves to mourn his death, his wife, one son, four daughters, two sons-in-law, one daughter-in-law, twelve grandchildren, two sisters, and his youngest brother.

Funeral services were conducted from the Alexanderwohl church, Wednesday, Feb. 26. Rev. C. C. Wedel gave a message in German, based on Gen. 49:18; and Rev. P. H. Unruh in English, using Rom. 8:18.

MRS. MARIAN TSCHEIGG, 76, died at her home following a four week's illness of pneumonia. She is the mother of twelve children, one daughter preceded her in death, also her husband, Eugene Tscheigg, who died four years ago. Five sons and six daughters survive and mourn the loss of their dear mother. They are all married and have established their own homes. Mrs. Tscheigg worked hard as a farm woman, but always found time to devote to her Bible reading and study. She knew her Bible well and loved her Redeemer.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, February 27, 1941, with her pastor, Rev. P. A. Kliewer in charge. He used for his text the 23rd Psalm which was one of the most precious scriptures of Mrs. Tscheigg.

CLAASS EPP, son of Claass and Elizabeth (Jantzen) Epp, was born in Hans-Au, Russia, on February 17, 1864. He received his schooling under the teachers, Herman Bartch and the Reverend J. K. Penner. Through baptism he became a member of the Mennonite Church in Lausan, Chiva, on August 20, 1883.

He was united in marriage with Anna Pauls in At-Metschedt, Chiva, on September 23, 1889. In 1892 they come to Beatrice, Nebraska, where they took up farming. In 1924 they moved to Beatrice and soon thereafter became members of the Second Mennonite Church. They had the privilege of celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1939.

In February, 1941, he became critically ill and was taken to the Mennonite Deaconess Hospital on March 6. He derived much comfort from reciting Bible verses and parts of hymns with the Sisters. On March 20 he passed peacefully on to be with His Savior. He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, four sons, five daughters, four daughters-in-law, three sons-in-law, twenty-two grandchildren, and many other relatives and friends.

CORRESPONDENCE

BETHANY CHURCH, QUAKERTOWN, PA.

In giving a series of pre-Easter services in the churches of this charge, Rev. J. J. Esau, evangelist, used the following sermon topics; the third, fourth, and last at Bethany church: (1) The Ever Living Christ and What He Assures Us. (2) The Fourfold Christian Life. (3) The Holy Spirit and His Threefold Ministry. (4) The Great Salvation. (5) Five Characteristics of a Healthy Christian Life. (6) The Two Great Advents of Christ. (7) Gethsemane. (8) Calvary.

A catechetical class of nine members is now being instructed, and will be baptized and received into the church on Pentecost Sunday, June 1. This church has the distinction, unusual for a small church, of having in its membership two couples who have passed their sixtieth wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thatcher celebrated their's recently, see Mennonite March 25, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roth having celebrated the same event a couple of years ago.

The Ladies Aid society of the church has been studying the problems of the migrant worker, being addressed at a meeting held jointly with the Brotherhood by Rev. Reed Landis, who made a first-hand study of the matter. The men of the church of draft age are being asked to canvass the other members regarding the support of the civilian work camps for those who are conscientious objectors to military training. During the week of March 9, our pastor, Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, attended a meeting of the Home Mission Board in Bluffton, Ohio.

SALEM MENNONITE CHURCH
DALTON, OHIO

We are planning a series of special meetings during the week of March 30. A number of neighboring ministers will preach for us, as follows: Rev. Wilmer S. Shelly of Wadsworth; Rev. William Stauffer of Sugarcreek; Rev. Austin Keiser of Bath; Rev. S. J. T. Flohr, pastor of the Evangelical and Reformed Church of Mt. Eaton; Rev. S. F. Bauders, pastor of the Church of God, Wooster. We trust that this series of pre-Eastor services will deepen the spiritual life of our church and lead us all closer to the Christ Who died that we might live.

In these days a necessary part of the church plant seems to be a kitchen from which place meals can be served on various occasions, which play their part in the fellowship of a church group. Up to this time Salem Church has not had any kitchen but recently sentiment, particularly among the members of the Women's Missionary and Sewing Society, crystallized to the point where the sum of $100.00 was appropriated by the Society for this purpose. Upon the approval of the congregation, the Trustees are going ahead with this project. A part of the basement is being remodeled to provide the place for this purpose.

A term of twelve years of faithful service as superintendent in our church closed, when Adrian Amstutz, left for his new work at Washington, D. C. Mr. Amstutz is assistant secretary to Congressman Thom of this Ohio district. In connection with these duties, he is studying law.

The Women's Missionary and Sewing Society is doing considerable quilting again this winter. This is a very popular service with many of the ladies, and the proceeds are used for missions and other church purposes. At the regular meetings the Society is studying the mission book "Stand By for China".

During these critical days in history, our young men, as well as others, are having some real decisions to make. To date nine have filled out conscientious objectors questionnaires, but none of these have been called. —Correspondent

Warroad, Minnesota

Dear Editor and Readers: Galatians 6:9, "And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." Sunday, the second of March, our young folks and the pastor furnished the program for the afternoon at the Young People's Rally, at the church of God in Roosevelt, Minnesota.

A choir has been organized for the young people and they are having practices every Wednesday evening. It is a blessing to hear the young people sing.

We wish to thank those who have sent donations for our church building fund. The men folks have spent part of this winter, cutting logs for lumber for the new building.

Rev. and Mrs. A. F. Ortman went to Munich, North Dakota, last week to attend the funeral of Mrs. Ortman's brother, Henry Friesen, who froze to death in the recent snow storm. Rev. C. G. Anderson delivered the sermon Sunday forenoon.

OPENING OF THE KAUFFMAN MUSEUM

At Bethel College, Monday, March 10

In spite of bad roads for some, fully seven hundred people attended the program and dedicatory exercises of the formal opening of the Kauffman Museum, which is housed in the large brick building formerly known as Alumni Hall.

The event opened with a program in the college chapel. Dr. P. J. Wedel speaking on "The Beginning of the Museum," reminisced on the early history of the collection under his care, and their accumulation. Dr. A. Warkentin who has an eye for the preservation of things historical, and who added many an article to the museum collection, spoke on "The Mennonite Historical Museum and Archives," over which section he has charge as curator. Starting with some books and manuscripts from the college library, he has within a few years built up a remarkable collection of books, documents and periodicals of rare historical value. Mr. Charles J. Kauffman who brought his own, large museum from South Dakota to the campus, to which has been added the local collection, spoke on "The Soul of the Museum." The gist of his interesting, informative address was: "We must stress not only the scientific and historic value of the museum, but the human and aesthetic as well. The beautiful, the inspirational, yes, even the sentimental must have full expression. The museum must have a soul. The great things awe us, but it is the little things that touch us." To him the present museum is just a nucleus about which, with the cooperation of friends and interested people, something more imposing and complete can be built up.

Upon the conclusion of the program the audience then proceded to the front of the museum building, where Rev. Arnold Funk, secretary of the College Board, gave a brief dedicatory address, and Rev. P. K. Regier, president of the Board, offered a dedicatory prayer. Following this the assembly was allowed entrance. On the first floor are large varieties of relics of pioneer life, a log cabin with its family of early settlers, an organ two hundred years old, from Holland, etc. The second floor is given largely to exhibits of natural history, animals and birds, with imitational natural surroundings. Mr. Kauffman's main center of interest. As one has aptly said, "There is enough to see here that it would take a week to do it." May these museums serve as reminders of the devoted lives of our forebears, to the glory of God.

—Bethel Church, Mountain Lake, Minn. has decided to erect a new church building. It will be a brick structure in Gothic style, with a main auditorium seating close to 1000 people, and will cost about $50,000. The interior will form a room in the shape of a cross, the length 116 ft. and the cross wings 12 by 16 ft.

THE COMING NORTHERN DISTRICT CONFERENCE

The Program Committee of the Northern District—Dr. P. R. Schroeder, Rev. John Bartel, and H. H. Quiring—report that the next session of their conference will convene, the Lord willing, in the Butterfield Mennonite Church at Butterfield, Minn. June 7 to 12. —John Bartel, Sec.

—Immanuel Menn. Church, Los Angeles, California. We rejoice that the Lord has provided another worker for us in the place of Miss Lavina Burkhalter, whom we have so sorely missed. Since beginning February, Miss Dorothy Schroeder has been assisting in the work here, especially with the children and in visitation in the church district. We note that Sunday School attendance is showing improvement, and we pray that the Lord will richly bless her work with the children and her contacts with the homes, in the salvation of souls and the building up of Christ's Kingdom. We appreciate the many volunteer helpers in our church and trust they will continue at their posts . . . We greatly enjoyed having Rev. and Mrs. J. Thiessen and the girls with us all day, Sunday, March 2. We hope to work together with them in India, through our prayers, as Paul said in 2 Cor. 1:11. —Anna G. Stauffer, Corr.

—Bethel Church, near Fortuna, Mo., was glad for two inspirational messages brought by Mr. Cornelius Plett of Kansas City, Kansas, on Sunday, March 23. Oliver Baumgartner and Tilman Lehman are both home from the hospital, for which we truly thank God.

—First Church, Reedley, California. March 16 we had Missionary John Thiessen in our midst, due to the delay of their passport in sailing back to India. He served at all meetings during the day, and showed pictures of India in the evening. The messages for the children was very impressive, showing them, how they could be missionaries, by putting 25 cents to work, in gardening, raising chickens, etc. A small group of children have done this and had gained the nice sum of $30.00 for the Lord, which was sent to the India mission field. May God bless the children in such work! —Helen Penner, Corr.

—From the Bulletin of the Menn. Church, Buhler, Kansas: The times are critical. We say with Paul that "——we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." We rest in the promise of our Savior, "Lo, I am with you always." May that assurance strengthen us and His peace abide with us. —Rev. J. F. Schmidt

"Our colleges need to be held in constant thought and prayer by the church. As long as the college is bathed and kept in this atmosphere of trust and prayer, the results are sure."

—E. G. Kaufman, Pres. Bethel College

PASTORAL MESSAGE: Many Christians are saying today, "Lord I will follow Thee whithersoever Thou goest . . . if I can keep my distance when the going gets rough." Peter followed Christ faithfully until the time of crisis; then he "followed afar." The situation which resulted was the occasion of his denial of Christ. This is the natural consequence of following Christ at a distance. Let us stay very near to Jesus during this day of crisis and temptation.

—Erland Waltner

—Conference Leaders visit Newton, Kansas, Community. Dr. J. H. Langenwalter of Reedley, Calif. who is counselor of the Young People's Union was here to attend a meeting of officers of that group, Rev. Reynold Weinbrenner and William Juhnke. On Sunday, March 23, he attended Bethel College Church, and through the following days visited some of his many friends around Newton and in Wichita, where he used to serve on the teaching staff of Friend's University. Dr. David Toews of Rosthern, Sask., and Rev. S. S. Baumgartner of Portland, Oregon, stopped off here on their return home from the meeting of the Home Mission Board at Bluffton, Ohio. Bro. Toews' visits were mainly in the interests of relief and educational work in Canada, and Bro. Baumgartner visited his son Paul and wife on the college campus.

—From the Bulletin of East Swamp Church, Quakertown, Pa: Mennonite Hymnary—In closely examining the new Mennonite Hymn Book we were pleased to find such a splendid selection of hymns and gospel songs. The only thing we miss are the many glorious hymns of Christ's return for his own. However, we recommend this Hymnary to every member to be used in the homes. We are glad to hear that the choir is planning to purchase them in the near future. —H. D. Burkholder

—Rev. A. S. Bechtel, Hanston, Kansas, writes: We are liking the new Hymnary better each week. It is really surprising how well our people sing the hymns that are new to many of them. We are becoming acquainted with the more stately old hymns now. It is thrilling to know THE CHRISTIAN CENTURY is so well impressed with the book. How could it be otherwise?

WHAT DOEST THOU FOR ME?

In the famous picture gallery at Duesseldorf, Germany, there is one particularly fascinating and meaningful painting with the superscription, ECCE HOMO, a phrase used by Pilate in presenting the thorn-crowned, bleeding Christ to the Jews. And beneath the figure stand these deeply searching words, "Haec omnia fecit pro te, quid facis ipso," meaning, All this He did for thee, what doest thou for Him? And it is said that many a visitor left the painting with a heart deeply moved. No human voice can tell, nor human pen describe, the length and breadth and depth of the work that Christ has accomplished through His life, His death, His resurrection, and His intercession before the Father. May we therefore suggest a few questions that our Savior has a right to ask a Christian, because He has done everything possible to win heaven back for him. Christ was born in a stable, in deep humility. Have you, when occasion presented itself, gone to the lowest of the lowly, to lift them up, to be their Samaritan? Or have you been indifferent, unconcerned about being your brother's keeper? Our Savior's great concern, all through His life, was to be obedient to the Father. Have you done this? Have you glorified Him in your obedience, and have you given a good example to others in doing God's will? In surprise the boy Christ said to His anxious mother, "Wist ye not that I must be about my father's business?" and thus went about doing good. Do you realize that you, too, must be busy in the work of saving men? Or does your earthly occupation and work take up all of your time? . . . Jesus lived among men as a human being, and was subject to temptations just like we. Yet He met them with such a will and determination by His Father's mercy, that He suffered no harm from them. Do you, too, make every effort to pass through adversities victoriously, with the strong arm of God to help you, or are you an easy prey to sin? . . . . Jesus says, "I am the Way, the Truth, the Life." And He has a right to ask, Are you following the way charted out by me for a meaningful life, or are you following the crowd? Are you attempting, always, to follow the path of truth, or are you deviating from it, when it is to your advantage to do so? Have you made room for Him in your heart and in your life, so that He may dwell in you, and make your life count, or is your heart attached to something else? . . . . There was no hatred in the Master's heart. He loved His enemies, and prayed for them. Do you do the same for His sake? "And he that does not take the cross and follow me is not worthy of me." Matt. 10:38. —T.

Let the People Speak

This is the title of an editorial in the Christian Century of March 26. Among other things it says: "This is no time for silence. Let the people speak! . . . Let no meeting adjourn until it decides upon some device for registering its mind with its representatives in Washington."

How would it be if churches, individuals, or groups of individuals would send a letter to the President which might read something like this: On September 11, 1941, you spoke these reassuring words, "I hate war now more than ever. I have one supreme determination—to do all I can to keep war away from these shores for all time. I stand with my part upon the platform adopted at Chicago, 'We will not participate in foreign wars, and we will not send our army, naval or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside the Americas, except in case of attack.' "

The ———— Church, of ———— herewith desires to urge you not to tire in your efforts to chart a course whereby this solemn pledge to the American people may be kept, even in an hour of crisis.

EDITOR'S NOTE—The above article is written by Mr. D. H. Richert, Professor of Mathematics at Bethel College, a brother of the more widely known Dr. P. H. Richert, secretary of the Foreign Mission Board. We heartily endorse Professor Richert's suggestion. If ever, now is the time to speak and remind the head of our nation to keep true to his promises. We urge that churches, Sunday Schools, civic groups, conferences and other groups unite in sending the appeal suggested by the writer to the President.

Brother Richert is an indefatigable advocate and worker for peace. He is constantly in correspondence with leading members of the Congress, urging them to do all they can to help steer the ship of state away from war and toward peace. It is doubtful if any single Mennonite has done more for this cause than he has.

The Empty Sepulchre

By Max I. Reich, D. D.

Beside an empty sepulchre
We stand and we adore;
The sacred body it contained
Is held by it no more;
The resurrection and the life
Came off the victor in the strife.

What has that empty sepulchre
To say to thee and me?
It tells us that the Savior's death
Has set His people free;
He died, our sins upon Him laid;
He rose, because the debt was paid.

Death could not hold Him in the tomb
Who met each righteous claim;
For where man had dishonored God,
He glorified His name;
To show He did not die in vain,
The glory raised Him up again.

The thunders of a broken law
Believers need not dread,
Beside the empty sepulchre
In peace they raise their head;
"No condemnation" is the word
To those "in Christ," the risen Lord.

O shout, ye sons of heavenly light,
"The Lord is risen indeed!"
He fills the Father's heart with joy,
And meets our every need;
Captain of our salvation He,
Upon whose head the crown we see.

Fought is the fight! The crown is won,
The sting of death is gone;
By blood and tears He has secured
His kingdom and His throne
Before which hosts unnumbered fall,
Acclaiming Him the Lord of all.

Beside an empty sepulchre
We stand, and we adore;
And now we haste with joy to spread
The news from shore to shore;
And sinners who that news believe
His resurrection power receive.

THE RESURRECTED CHRIST

To become the Savior of the world, Jesus Christ had to be born as a human being, had to walk and labor among men, teaching them the true way of life; had to die on the cross, and be resurrected. All these steps were necessary to make His mission, the full salvation of mankind, complete. Strange as it may seem, some people seem to have difficulty in believing in His resurrection, and thereby face the danger of not being saved. The Bible lists eleven incontrovertable witnesses of the Savior's appearance after His burial. (1) in John 20:16-20, Mary Magdalene meets Him at the grave, talks with Him and is bidden to tell the brethren that He is alive. (2) In Matt. 28:9, we are told that His women friends found evidence of an earthquake which had torn the tomb asunder and freed the Master; and on their way back He met them, and greeted them. (3) When the two disciples on their way to Emmaus had had the pleasure of His company and the three sat down to eat bread, the disciples recognized Him as the risen Lord, Luke 24:31; 24:13-34. (4) In verse 34, same chapter, these disciples report to the eleven, "The Lord is risen indeed and has appeared to Simon"; 1 Cor. 15:5, gives another proof of this. (5) John 20:10-24, also Luke 24, chronicle the fact that the risen Lord visited the disciple group behind closed doors, and gave them His peace. (6) Again, after eight days, He met them assembled, with Thomas among them, when He gave this doubting man indisputable evidence that He is the risen Christ, John 20:26-29. (7) Some days later, He manifested Himself to seven disciples, at the sea of Tiberias, and had a meal of fried fish with them, John 21:1-14. (8) In Matt. 28:16-20; we have the record that He met the eleven on the mountain, where he had appointed them, and where He gave them His marching orders, "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all nations." (9) I Cor. 15:6, witnesses that "He appeared to about 500 brethren at once;" and, in verse 10, also to James; and Paul concludes the enumeration by saying, "last of all He appeared to me, the child untimely born," in the same passage. (12) Finally, Luke tells us, in Acts 1:2-9, that He appeared to the disciples on Mount Olivet, where "He charged them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the promise of the Father, "the Holy Ghost."

We hear so much nowadays, from some pulpits or read in some papers, about the cross and the shed blood, and almost nothing about the risen Christ, that one wonders if younger people are not apt to get the impression that all that was necessary for Christ to save us, was to die and shed His blood on the tree. Is it not just as necessary to realize and to teach that beyond the grave and the cross, there is an open sepulchre, from which the Savior has risen to reenter the glory life in heaven, there to intercede for us at the Father's throne, and directing the Comforter and the holy angels to minister unto us, until He returns to take His own home. Yes, beyond the cross on which the Prince of Peace had to die there is a glorious Easter and an open heaven to the faithful ones.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

THE TIME FOR WEDDINGS

In the Book of Ecclesiastes, in the third chapter, we read, "To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under heaven." In the list that follows, we do not find "a time to be married," but we presume that would come under the last part of the verse—a time to every purpose under heaven. No matter what calamities may be taking place in other parts of the world, here with us it is, just now, a time to be married. And so the pastor is kept busy. This week marked the wedding of the head master of the Middle School who went to a neighboring mission to get his bride. They are back and we have an invitation to attend the wedding meal tonight. The bride has been a teacher in a large girl's school for a number of years, so we expect much from this new home.

On the same day of their wedding, we also had a wedding in the church here. The bride was a timid girl, hard of hearing, who had been baptized just a few weeks ago. She was from a village many miles away and all was new and strange to her. The groom was a grown man in years but a dwarf in size—nature having failed to supply the proper length in his nether extremities. There were only a few people gathered to witness the ceremony and some of the younger girls—relatives of the "little" groom, seemed to find some things rather amusing. In the first place, one of them had to rush back to the house where they were staying to bring the rings. And it did rob him of his dignity to have his feet dangling in the air instead of being placed resolutely on the floor. All went well, while the pastor gave a short message, and then had the bridal couple stand for the ceremony. But when he came to ask the bride the familiar question that is to be answered by, "I do," he found himself in difficulty. The bride, as I said, was hard of hearing and not used to the Hindi language, so did not understand enough to answer. And you can't perform a ceremony like this without the consent of the bride. One of the young evangelists present came to the rescue, repeated the pastor's question in the language that the young woman knew, and we were all relieved to see her nod her head in assent. The groom looked happy and the certificate could be signed.

Yesterday we had another wedding which was more festive. Both Andrew and Mary are literate and well known, and we have reasons to believe this was according to their desires and not just the plan of their parents. The groom and his friends waited at the church, while the bride was brought from her home (a quarter of a mile away), with much drumming and singing. Her sister-in-law carried an umbrella to shelter her from the heat, and everyone looked happy.

The pastor could put much more into his message, because he knew that these two could understand what he was saying.

"Simple and brief was the wedding, like that of Ruth and of Boaz.
Softly the youth and the maiden repeated the words of betrothal,
Taking each other for man and wife."

—Longfellow

Then with more drumming and singing the groom and bride were taken to her home for the wedding meal. Late in the evening the journey continued to the village, where the groom lives. They are poor and life will not always be easy. But if they have the Lord in their midst, they will be able to go on with rejoicing. And India needs homes where He is honored. We commit these young people to One who can truly make them a blessing. And we covet an interest in your prayers for our new Christian homes.

A LIVING TESTIMONY

One of our district workers by the name John Paul is a friend of a high caste Hindu school master in the large village Bichiya. Recently the Hindu master met John and in true Hindustani courtesy offered him a chair. After some general conversation the Hindu master said to him, "Why have you done this evil thing and accepted a foreign religion?" John answered, "You are greatly mistaken in this. I have not accepted a foreign religion. Jesus, my Lord, is a World-Savior. He belongs to all peoples. He has lifted me up so that with all respect you welcome me for me what He has, you would consider me unclean for me what he has, you would consider me unclean and would chase me off. But now I can talk with you and be your friend." Christian Missions do an invaluable service to India, because they bring to the people a Savior Who truly lifts up the downtrodden people.

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary

Report of Rev. N. W. Bahnman's Work in British Columbia, March 7, 1941

In order that you might get a glimpse of my work, I shall report on some of it in the last two weeks. Yarrow is one of our largest Mennonite communities. We have a church here of fifty members and a Sunday School of fifty children. My home is in Sardis, but I came here to hold a series of Bible studies, immediately following the close of a six week period of teaching in the Coghlan Bible School.

Following the meetings I walked home to Sardis, five miles, carrying my grip. Tired and a bit weary, I was glad to reach home after an absence of seven weeks of constant work. Only a few minutes after I arrived at home, a man drove into our yard on a bicycle. I had met him before, but what a sight he was today! His eyes had an unnatural look and he was very nervous. He told strange tales of spiritual struggle that he experienced in his shack in the timber. We kept this poor man in our home that night and part of the next day. After he had calmed down somewhat he related of his loneliness, and his enslavement to certain evil habits. His body was poisoned with nicotine, his will-power gone, he was a wreck at forty-one years, in body and soul. We went to prayer for him, and soon he prayed for himself, begging for strength to live a pure life. We advised him to see a doctor for his disease, and asked him to return and report. So far he has not come back.

Twenty Miles in Eleven Hours

The following day, Saturday, I had to go to Mission City. To get there I had to walk two and a half miles to the B. C. Electric Station at Woodruff. After a ride of 15 miles I arrived in Abbotsford at 8:55 a. m. Here I was to take a C. P. R. train for Mission City, a distance of seven miles. The train is due to leave Abbotsford 2:05 p. m. On this particular day it had 29 extra freight cars, imported from U. S. A., and I was told the train would not leave until 5:00 p. m. That would mean eight hours of waiting. The waiting room was cold, so I went to the post-office to write some letters, but it was cold here also. I decided that it would be best to walk the sidewalks to keep warm. At this time I appreciated the warm overcoat from some friends in Laird, Saskatchewan. I finally decided to "hitch-hike" to Mission City. After walking about four miles, carrying my grip, a friendly truck driver picked me up and delivered me at the (heated) station in Mission City. Here I did some studying and, being hungry, I went to a warm restaurant for a meal. Refreshed, I started out on the last leg of my journey, on foot. I covered the four-and-a-half miles and at 9:30 I arrived at my destination. Twenty-nine miles in eleven hours!

On Sunday I preached in a newly built church, erected at a cost of $152.00, of which $100.00 came from General Conference friends. In the evening I visited with a family that had recently joined our church. The mother in the home has been sick and had not left the house for two years. Other visits were made in the afternoon and some called on me.

Many Tasks Require Attention

On Monday morning I was anxious to get back home to meet Rev. David Toews, Rosthern, Sask., to make a plea for funds for the British Columbia Bible School at Coghlan. Hurry as I would, when I arrived at home, I learned to my disappointment that he had left for Vancouver and intermediate points.

On Tuesday I got a little time to prepare for a week of services on Vancouver Island. On Wednesday we went to Vancouver, in preparation for the wedding, on Thursday, of my daughter Edna to Fred Blessin, at which I officiated, in our church. Late in the night I had a chance to ride back as far as Coghlan where, on the following day, I took part at the commencement of our Bible School.

"In Journeying Often"

Early Saturday morning, I walked from Coghlan three miles to the highway, and one mile along the highway to get the Bus for Vancouver. At 11:00 a. m. I left Vancouver for Nanaimo, Vancouver Island, on the C. P. R. boat "Princess Elain," a sea voyage of two-and-a-half hours. At Nanaimo I took a train to Parksville, where I had to change trains. It was 5:00 p. m. when I arrived at Courtney where a good brother met me and took me a distance of fifteen miles to Black Creek, where I am at this writing, conducting Revival meetings.

The meetings so far are well attended, for which we thank God. One day I and another minister visited a couple, the husband a Mennonite. Here we heard a tale of hardships as a result of trying to get away from the Lord. Finally the two got down on their knees and consecrated their lives to the Lord. Others are deeply concerned about their soul salvation. I will stay here a week and then visit three still more isolated places, before I return to the mainland.

May the Lord bless all who make it possible for this and similar work to be carried on. Indeed, it is not in vain. —N. W. Bahnmann

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by Lester Hostetler

APRIL 12—Saturday—"Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit." v. 46—Read Luke 23:39-49.

Too often we are inclined to lose faith in God's goodness when things go badly with us. "What have I done to deserve this suffering?" "If God is good, why does He permit me to lose health or wealth; or one who is bone of my bone and flesh of my flesh to die?" With such questions we challenge God's care and goodness. Now look at Jesus on the cross. See His head, His hands, His feet, the crown of thorns, the tormentors who mock Him. He was numbered with the transgressors, despised of men. To the crowd He seemed to be smitten and afflicted of God, and for a moment He Himself felt forsaken of God. But His faith prevailed. He still called God Father. Men had done their worst but it did not shatter His faith. — "There behold His agony
Suffered on the bitter tree;
See His anguish, see His faith,
Love triumphant still in death."

APRIL 13—Easter Day—"He liveth to make intercession." v. 25—Read Hebrews 7:22-28.

Jesus lives! And His life in glory is a life of prayer. "He ever liveth to make intercession." Too frequently we forget this great truth. We remember that Jesus spent much time in prayer while here on earth. He is eternally the same, yesterday, today, and forever. Death did not change His love and His prayer. He loved and prayed before Easter, and afterward. The thought that He is praying for us, gives us strength and courage. He is praying for the coming of the Kingdom: for people everywhere to accept Him and His way of life and dwell together as sons of God. He is praying for us when we are weak and tempted. He is praying for the church, for pastors and evangelists and teachers and missionaries, everywhere. Because His prayers are mingled with ours, His cause cannot fail.

APRIL 14—"Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone." v. 17—Read James 2:1-17

Our religious beliefs do not save us. The devil also believes and trembles. Our beliefs become a living faith when we act upon them. Many a person believes that God exists, that the Bible is true, that Christ is the Savior of the world. But it remains a dead faith unless one acts as if there were a God, and searches the Bible as if it were the message from God, and accepts Christ as if He were really the Son of God and the Friend that sticketh closer than a brother. Pray that our faith in God may daily result in godly works.

APRIL 15—"Elias was a man subject to like passions as we are." v. 17—Read James 5.

Sometimes we think of great saints as having been so different from what we are that there is no use in our trying to do what they did. Consider Elijah, born like you, a man like you, having had the same temptations and passions, much the same to work with and much the same to work against as you. Nothing that others have achieved in Christian character is impossible for us. Our temptations and our struggles are great; but greater still is the power of God that helps us win the victory and enables us to travel the same road the saints have trod. Pray for the power of the same Holy Spirit to enable us in our life and conversation to follow Christ.

APRIL 16—"Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." v. 8—Read Matt. 5:1-12

Who can see God? Only those who are like God. And the more we are like God, the more we can see of God. Sin stains the heart and makes it less than God intends it to be. Impure thoughts and deeds are like the tares which the enemy sowed in the field with good seeds. When the heart is pure it loves God, it believes on God, it submits to God, it works for God. This is what it means to see God in this life. And in the life to come we shall have the completer vision. We shall see Him "face to face." In the words of John, "We shall see Him as He is."

APRIL 17—"Ye are the light of the world." v. 14—Read Matt. 5:13-20

The world lies in darkness. It continues so because men love darkness rather than light. Who will deliver it? There is no light to save it except the light of Christ. His light must be transmitted through His disciples. There is no other medium. To the disciples He said, "Ye are the light of the world." For the word "ye," substitute your own name. This is legitimate and it is really what Jesus' word means for you. But it is a solemn thought. Does my life shine? Does it reflect the light of Christ. Are others able to see life's issues and life's purposes clearer as they watch my daily life? Pray that the windows of your soul may be kept clean so that the light of Christ may enter and be reflected around you.

APRIL 18—"And Jesus saith unto them, How many loaves have ye?" v. 34—Read Matt. 15:29-39

The disciples faced a great problem—the feeding of a multitude of men, women and children. Their resources were small—only a few loaves and fishes which a little boy had brought. They brought their little to Christ. He blessed it, and the need was met. Our problems are great and our resources small. In our own strength we are hopelessly inadequate. But if Christ is allowed to take what we have—our small gifts, our meager talents—and bless them, they multiply manifold, the needs are met, and there is something left over.

A Survey of Evangelism in Mennonite Churches

The Evangelism Committee, a sub-committee of the Home Mission Board, has recently conducted a survey of the status of Evangelism in the churches of the General Conference. The questionnaire sought information along four lines:

1. The Need for Evangelism in Mennonite Communities
2. The Efforts Made in Evangelism by Mennonite Churches
3. The Mennonite Attitude Toward Various Evangelism Methods
4. The Possibilities of Conference Aid and Coordination in Mennonite Evangelism.

The questionnaires were sent out to 123 ministers in the 1940 Year Book, as serving churches in the United States. Of these questionnaires seventy-one (57%) were returned. The percentage of responses from the various districts were as follows: Eastern—67 per cent; Middle—55 per cent; Western—51 per cent; Northern—55 per cent; Pacific—78 per cent. Some questionnaires were also sent to Canadian ministers, but only a few were returned. The well-balanced distribution of responses from the various districts indicates that the results of this study represent a fair cross-cut of the ideas of interested ministers.

I. THE NEED FOR EVANGELISM

Questionnaire Results

1. A large majority of Mennonite communities contain many unchurched, providing large and fertile fields for evangelism.

2. Only twenty of the seventy-one ministers responding report that they have made religious surveys of their communities.

3. Only four out of the seventy-one ministers responding feel that sufficient effort is being made to reach the unchurched in their communities.

4. The chief causes for loss of Mennonite members listed are: (a) Intermarriage, (b) Indifference, (c) Emotional Sects, (d) Quarrels and Misunderstandings, and (e) Worldliness. Other causes mentioned are: No room, no church, language problems, opposition to Mennonite doctrine, geographic distances to church, faulty leadership, lack of spiritual life in the church.

Observations

1. Most ministers who responded recognize the need for evangelism, but many are uncertain as to methods of procedure.

2. A careful study on the conservation of church members needs to be made. This study must consider the problems of inter-marriage, indifference, and emotional religious sects.

II. THE EFFORTS MADE IN EVANGELISM

Questionnaire Results

1. Fifty-seven out of seventy-one (80%) report that they have some type of special evangelism or inspirational services each year.

2. Forty-one of these fifty-seven (72%) report that they used Mennonite leaders for these special meetings. Eight (14%) report that they used both Mennonite and non-Mennonite leaders.

3. Only eleven ministers report the use of a Decision Day in Sunday School. Four report the use of Decision Cards. Forty-seven (66%) say their Sunday School teachers seek to win pupils to Christ. Forty-two (59%) report that their Sunday Schools try to reach the unchurched.

4. Other channels of Evangelism listed were: Young Peoples' Consecration Services, Dramatics, Tracts, Street Meetings, Men's and Women's Organizations, Gospel Teams, Vacation Bible Schools, Church Evangelism Committee, Home Visitation, Jail and Hospital Visits, Migrant Work, etc.

Observations

1. Too many churches rely on the special services for evangelism and do not utilize lay members to carry on a year-round program of evangelism.

2. The assertion of some ministers that there are no Mennonite leaders available for evangelistic work must be modified, since at least forty-one churches have used Mennonite leaders.

3. There is great need for the developement of evangelism in Sunday Schools and of a proper understanding of the relation of religious education and evangelism.

III. THE ATTITUDES TOWARD EVANGELISM

Questionnaire Results

Method	Favorable	Unfavorable	Untried or left blank
1. Catechism Classes	59	3	9
2. Mass Meetings	50	10	11
3. Altar Calls	24	22	25
4. Decision Cards	6	25	40
5. Street Meetings	9	29	33
6. Personal Work	57	1	13

The methods listed as most effective in order of frequency mentioned were: Personal Work, Evangelistic Services, Catechism Class, Evangelistic Preaching, Bible Studies, Church Organizations.

Observations

1. There is a wide difference of opinion in Mennonite groups, as to what methods of evangelism are legitimate and effective. This calls for tolerance in the use of various methods.

2. Personal Work, the Catechism Class, and Mass Meetings rank high both in favor and effectiveness.

IV.CONFERENCE AID IN EVANGELISM

Questionnaire Results

This part of the questionnaire was evidently misunderstood by many ministers. They feared that if some form of Conference Aid were adopted they would lose the privilege of choosing their own local leaders. Twenty-nine ministers expressed unqualified interest in General Conference leadership in Evangelism, while eleven more indicated conditional interest. Forty ministers (56%) thus seem to favor some form of General Conference leadership. Nineteen ministers (27%) prefer a District Conference type of leadership, while twelve (17%) state their preference to continue doing their evangelistic work without Conference Aid.

Various ministers listed qualifications which they would demand of an acceptable leader. These include: Bible-trained, spirit-filled, not professional evangelist, but experienced pastor, not too emotional, inspirational, educational, conservative, aggressive, fundamental, humble, one who is "all things to all men."

Observations

1. There is a definite interest in and real possibility for a helpful General Conference Leadership in Evangelism if suitable personnel can be found.

2. There is need for further study as to just what a Conference leader or leaders could do and could not do.

The results of this questionnaire survey have suggested a number of avenues for further study which are being undertaken by the Evangelism Committee. The results of these studies will be made available when they have been completed.

USING WITNESSING POWER

Acts 2:1-4; 4:8-20. Read 2:1; 4:31
Topic: Power Through the Holy Spirit

Introduction

The day of Pentecost was the most important single day in the history of the Church. It is generally regarded as the birthday of the Christian church. On that day there was a sudden and great increase of followers of Christ. These converts were Jews who accepted Jesus as their Messiah. The preaching of the apostles consisted in telling the Jews about Jesus and pleading with them to repent, accept Him and trust in Him for salvation. Jesus' resurrection was a very effective part of their message.

The Holy Spirit Fills the Disciples vs. 1-4

The disciples tarried in Jerusalem, waiting for the promise of the Father (Acts 1:4, 5). They faithfully obeyed Jesus' command. The small group of believers was meeting quietly and spending much time in prayer and supplication (1:14). This was an essential preparation for the infilling of the Holy Spirit. There was complete unity in their prayer—"with one accord" (v. 1). Their minds were united in one thing—"The promise of the Father." This promise was fulfilled in a sudden and dramatic manner as they met together on the day of Pentecost. The manner of the Spirit's coming (v 2, 3) made it evident to each one that God was sending the Spirit in their behalf. The cloven tongues, "like as of fire sat upon each one of them," signifying that power was given to them to speak in a tongue on fire with the Holy Spirit. The blessing was to each individual. God's blessings are personal. "They were ALL filled with the Holy Ghost (v. 4) because they were spiritually prepared for His coming. They used the new power for witnessing.

Witnessing before the Sanhedrin vs. 8-12

Peter and John healed a cripple at the gate of the temple (3:7, 8). A large crowd gathered. Peter preached a powerful sermon (3:11-26) and many believed his words (4:4). The temple officials were much disturbed, arrested Peter and John and brought them before the Sanhedrin, the great court of Jewish law. This gave Peter a real opportunity which he quickly seized. In the power of the Holy Ghost, he answered their questions (v. 7) skilfully and fearlessly, declaring that it was by the name of Jesus Christ whom they crucified and whom God had raised from the dead, that this man was healed (vs. 9-12). Jesus was the subject of prophecy, and salvation is through Him alone.

The Perplexed Sanhedrin vs. 13-20

The boldness of Peter and John, their fearless frankness caused the Sanhedrin to marvel. These two had no training in rabinnical schools. The Holy Spirit gave them effective power of speech. Their training in the company of Jesus made an impression on the Council. They could not evade nor deny the fact of the notable miracle of healing (vs. 14-16). They foolishly believed that they could hush up the fact by threats and commands (vs. 17,18). This led Peter to challenge the authority of the Sanhedrin to forbid them to carry out Jesus' commission (vs. 19, 20). When human commands conflict with those of God, we should obey God.

Witnessing for Christ is a permanent duty of all who have received of His power. We can witness personally to the gospel as the power of God unto salvation when we give Christ a large place in our lives.

What preparation did the disciples make for receiving the promised power?

What difference do we see in the apostles before and after Pentecost?

How may we let people see that we have been with Jesus?

OKLAHOMA PEACE RALLY

There will be a Western District Young People's Peace Rally in the Bergtal Church, Corn, Oklahoma, on Easter Sunday (April 13), at 7:30 P. M.

The program for the rally will cover the philosophy of the C. O., his challenge and his relationship to the Government. Among the speakers is Dr. Henry A. Fast, Mennonite Civil Service Camp Director, who, unless unexpectedly called away, will bring the latest news in the Civil Service Program. A Question and Answer period is also planned. So bring your questions.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend and especially those in the draft.

FROM OKLAHOMA BIBLE ACADEMY

Dear Christian Friends: The Oklahoma Bible Academy, in connection with the Oklahoma Convention, is planning a five day SPIRITUAL RETREAT, May 19-23, for young and old. One prominent nationally known speaker will serve throughout the week, as well as several of our own leading men. A number of the best quartets from our Central West churches will bring us the Word in song. Plan to be with us, May 19-23. We covet your prayers that this week may glorify Christ, serve the salvation of souls, and the edification of God's children. Watch for published program!

—Yours in His service, The Bible Academy

IN MEMORIAM

HENRY A. FRIESEN, son of Peter K. and Marie Abrahams Friesen, was born at Henderson, Nebraska, March 13, 1909. At the age of six months he was very sick with spinal meningitis, which left him a cripple for life. In 1916, at the age of seven years, it pleased the Lord to take his father and, in 1920, to give him a stepfather, in John C. Dick. He moved, with his parents to North Dakota where he received his education in the grade school and the Munich High School. Upon confession of his faith he was baptized April 21, 1930, and joined the Salem Mennonite Church. In the fall of 1937 he enrolled as a student at the Northwestern Bible Training School of Minneapolis, and graduated in the spring of 1940, from the General Bible Course. After graduation he taught daily vacation Bible schools, conducted Gospel services, instructed Bible classes, and taught a Sunday School class. When asked by the Evangelization Committee, what work he would like to take up, he said, "As the Lord will lead." The Committee licensed him as a minister of the Gospel, and had ordered a clergy fare certificate for him, to travel in the Northern District Conference; but the Lord saw fit to take him on a free pass to Heaven. He reached the age of 32 years and two days. He leaves to mourn his early departure, his parents, one brother, Nick Friesen, Munich; two sisters, Mrs. Henry Thiessen, Munich, and Mrs. Arthur Ortman, Warroad, Minn.; three step-brothers, Hank J. Dick, Munich; Elmer Dick, Minneapolis, and Clarence Dick, Munich; two grandmothers; one grandfather; six uncles, and five aunts.

GEORGE WILLIS, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Willis, was born at Summerville, Pennsylvania, on January 5, 1852, and died February 23, 1941, at the age of 89 years. He was orphaned at a young age. After a few years in an orphanage, he was adopted by a Pennsylvania family, with which he came to Isante, Minn. In 1874, he married Henrietta Steinring at Amoka, Minn. They came to Cavalier, North Dak., in 1882, and to Alsen in 1904. The first years he lived on a farm, and since 1923 in Alsen, North Dak. His first wife having died in 1920, he married, in 1923, Emma Lucht, who survives him, as do four children from the first marriage: Mrs. Bertha Heimbecker, Langdon, North Dak.; Fred Willis, Bend, Oregon; Edward Willis, Amber, Penna.; and Mrs. Ella Otto, Hampden, North Dak.; also 27 grandchildren and 35 great grandchildren. Funeral services were held February 25, first at Swiss Mennonite Church in Alsen, of which he was a member, then in the Evangelical Church to which he belonged formerly. Internment was in the adjoining cemetery.

MRS. JACOB H. HOFFMAN, daughter of Peter and Agnes Harder Quiring, was born August 14, 1911. When two years old her mother died. She grew to young womanhood near Munich, North Dak.

June 5, 1933, she was baptized upon confession of her faith and received into the Salem Mennonite Church. On November 25, 1935, she was joined in holy matrimony with Jacob Hoffman. One daughter, Evonne Anne, was born to them. In 1939 her father died of heart failure, and on March 15, recently she followed him in death, together with her daughter. Mrs. Hoffman reached the age of 29 years and 7 months. She leaves to mourn her early and sudden death, her husband, Jacob Hoffman, a mother-in-law, seven aunts and two uncles, four sisters-in-laws and three brothers-in-law.

Little Evonne Anne was born on September 28, 1937. Her short span of life covered a period of 3 years, 5 months and 15 days. She was the sunshine of the home and will be greatly missed by her deeply bereaved father. She leaves to mourn her, besides the father, one grandmother, four aunts and three uncles.

Able Staff for Colorado Springs Camp

by Malcolm Wenger

Colorado Springs, Colorado, is to be the location of the second Civilian Public Service Camp under Mennonite administration, the first being near Grottoes, Virginia. The camp site, formerly occupied by the Civilian Conservation Corps, is situated in the rolling farming country about six miles northeast from the city.

This is only one of a number of such camps to which young men conscientiously opposed to participation in military training are to be assigned. The Selective Service Act provides that such young men may perform "work of national importance under civilian direction" instead of a year of service in the armed forces of the country. According to a plan worked out by Selective Service and concerned church and peace groups, the conscientious objector has the privilege not only of carrying on constructive work which will be of benefit to the country, but also of performing his year of service under the direction of church groups and in the fellowship of young men of like faith. The work program at the Colorado Springs camp will be a soil conservation project.

An administrative staff consisting of a director, business manager, matron, and cook, has been selected to carry out the camp program.

Chosen to be camp director, Rev. Albert Gaeddert of Inman, Kansas, faces a great opportunity and a great responsibility. He will be in charge of all camp activities with the exception of the eight hour daily work schedule which will be supervised by a technical staff furnished by the government. To him, in cooperation with his staff and the boys, will fall the task of planning the recreational, educational, and religious life program of the camp.

It is expected that the men who will be in the camp will come from widely differing backgrounds. This fact will demand the utmost from the director in the preparation of programs which will interest and benefit all.

For these difficult tasks Rev. Gaeddert is well prepared. He majored in the social sciences while attending Bethel College and in addition was active in YMCA work, music, and athletics. After his graduation he gained six years of experience teaching and coaching in the high schools at Nashville and Goddard, Kansas.

When the call to this camp work came, Rev. Gaeddert interrupted his third year of study at the Garrett Biblical Institute of Evanston, Illinois, to offer his services. His work as a pastor at school and during the summer months, as well as his experience in young peoples' work at the Camp Wood Retreat, will better qualify him to minister to the spiritual needs of the camp. In brief, Rev. Gaeddert has shown by his ability, interest, sincerity, and stability that he is well suited for his position.

Mr. John G. Gaeddert, who has been chosen as business manager for the camp, is also a graduate of Bethel College. At the University of Kansas, where he did graduate work, he received the degree of Master of Arts. He is also an experienced teacher, having taught in high school, the Dodge City Business College, and the Kansas State Industrial School for Boys at Topeka. At the camp Mr. Gaeddert will be responsible for efficient management of its business affairs.

Mrs. John Gaeddert, who is also a graduate of Bethel, will be the camp Matron. She has taken two years of study in Christian Education at the Chicago Theological Seminary. Her teaching experience was gained in the Jicarilla Apache Indian School at Dulce, New Mexico, and in the grade school at Buhler, Kansas. Mr. and Mrs. John Gaeddert will very probably later be transferred to another camp.

The important position of camp cook and dietician will be capably filled by Miss Marie Groening of Hillsboro, Kansas. Miss Groening has had experience managing the dining hall at Tabor College, Hillsboro. She has also served as cook at the Halstead Hospital.

It is the purpose of this staff, which will direct the work of the Colorado Springs Civilian Public Service Camp, to make it possible for the men there to perform effectively a service of importance to their country. "But beyond that," says Dr. H. A. Fast, General Director of all Mennonite camps, "they hope to fill the leisure time of the young men with such varied vocational, educational, and religious activity that their year in camp may prove to be a helpful period of growth that will return them to their homes and communities equipped for a better service to their fellowmen."

COST OF DISCIPLESHIP Lk. 14, 25-33; Jn. 15:18-27

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Take my life, and let it be," No. 215; "Thou true Vine, that heals the nations," No. 234; "Forward thru the Ages," No. 267. Songs: "Mennonite Hymnary."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Special feature: Present information on Ernst Harder found in Mennonite, Jan. 28, 1941.
4. Offering for Ernst Harder fund.

A newer project is the support of Ernst Harder from Fernheim Colony, Paraguay, who now is going to school in Freeman, S. D. At the present young Harder is working for part of his school expense and is staying with John C. Mueller of Freeman, a member of the emergency relief board. Mr. Mueller writes that "He proved himself to be a real fine young man, a credit to the school and to the community, and takes well with the people."

II. Leader's Introduction

"No man can succeed in earth or heaven who lacks the grip of a resolute purpose." You must be concentrated on your aim if you wish to reach it—whether it be in your pastimes, or in your prayers. Athletes know this—Christians at all times have known it. They need the faith that dares all things, that will not be gainsaid. They are committed fully.

Long ago Elijah challenged his people: "How long will ye go limping between the two sides?" And Christ is just as certain that halfway commitment is no way of being a true disciple; he says, "So therefore whosoever he be of you that renounceth not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple." Lk. 14:33.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Self-denial Mk. 8:34-37
2. Separation 2 Cor. 6:14-18
3. Service Rom. 12:1, 2
4. Sacrifice Mt. 10:16-22
5. Solitude 2 Tim. 4:16
6. Satisfaction 2 Tim. 4:7, 8

IV. For Discussion

1. What price did first-century Christians pay for the privilege of following Jesus?
2. Have any of your friends paid largely?
3. What must we be willing to pay for this privilege?

V. Facts for Study

The life of a disciple is not easy. He who gives his utmost will often be weary in body. He will face difficulties and suffer discouragements. Jesus said that there is a "cup to drink." Consecrated men is what Jesus sought. Consecrated hearts, and minds, and wills are the need of such an age as ours. People listen to such men. Even those who are evil respect such sincerity and honesty. Such messengers with such a message will be heard—they will speak with power and with authority by their consecrated everyday living.

VI. Illustration

Everything for Christ

"Would you advise young Christians to do something for the Lord?" This was the question once put to Robert Chapman of Barnstaple. "No," was the prompt and rather astonishing reply of Chapman. But he added immediately, "I should advise them to do everything for the Lord." The advice was consistent with that given by Paul when he said, "Whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

VII. Food for Thought

"God does not ask offerings for his own advantage, but for ours."

WHAT THE BIBLE MEANS TO THE WORLD

Call to Worship

The law of Jehovah is perfect, restoring the soul;
The testimony of Jehovah is sure, making wise the simple.
The precepts of Jehovah are right, rejoicing the heart;
The commandment of Jehovah is pure, enlightening the eyes.
The fear of Jehovah is clean, enduring forever;
The ordinances of Jehovah are true, and righteous altogether.

—Psalm 19:7-9

Song " Wonderful Words of Life"

Scripture Reading Rom. 15:1-4

Prayer by Superintendent

Introductory thought by Leader

"Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path."

"When you enter a harbor that is narrow and dangerous you see many life buoys floating around in the water. The way in which they are painted points out dangers in the channel. Buoys painted in red and black stripes always mark reefs in the channel. Those in red and black checks mean a rock or obstruction is in the way. A green one is placed in the water if there is a wreck. There are many other signs, but a good harbor pilot knows them all.

"The Bible is our life buoy. It tells where the rocks are and the pitfalls that might wreck our souls. We are each the pilot of our own soul; if we are to know the way, we must read the rules. God in His goodness has given us this light to brighten our lives and point us the pathway to heaven."

—N. M. W.

Solo "Thy Word Is A Lamp to my Feet"

Tributes of famous men:

"We account the Scriptures of God to be the most sublime philosophy. I find more sure marks of authority in the Bible than in any profane history whatever." Sir Isaac Newton

"Goethe, the great German philosopher and writer, says: "It is a belief in the Bible, the fruits of deep meditation, which has served me as the guide of my moral and literary life. The further the ages advance in cultivation, the more can the Bible be used.' "

"Bacon says: 'There never was found, in any age of the world, either religion or law that did so highly exalt the public good as the Bible.' "

"All the good from the Savior of the world is communicated through this book; but for this book we could not know right from wrong. All the things desirable to man are contained in it."

Abraham Lincoln

Informal Discussion: What does the Bible mean to us as Intermediates? How can it be made to mean more to us?

Song "Thy Word Have I Hid In My Heart"

Closing challenge by Leader: "The Bible is a rock of diamonds, a chain of pearls, the sword of the Spirit, a chart by which the Christian sails to eternity, the map by which he daily walks, the sundial by which he sets his daily life, the balance by which he weighs his actions." Watson

Program for April 27, 1941

PAUL, A GREAT MAN OF GOD

PAUL TELLING OTHERS ABOUT JESUS

"And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that He is the Son of God." Acts 9:20.

Setting — The worship center should have a beautiful picture of the Christ. If possible place an open Bible before it and throw a light upon it. Or if a light cannot be focused upon it place a tall lighted candle on either side of the large open Bible.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude (played very softly) "Jesus, the Very Thought of Thee."
2. Call to worship - Psalm 100 in unison
3. Song "My Jesus I Love Thee"
4. Scripture reading - Paul's prayer, found in Ephesians 3, verses 14-21, by the Junior leader
5. Silent prayer, followed by the Junior leader's prayer
6. Solo from the rear of the church, "Jesus, the Very Thought of Thee."
7. Reading "I Love To Tell the Story" (while the piano plays the melody very softly) by a Junior girl.
8. Song "Stand up, Stand up for Jesus" Boys' Chorus

II. Study Period

Aim: To help our Juniors to know that after Paul's conversion his one thought was Christ; and to help them to realize that we too should make Jesus Christ, our Risen Lord, the center of our thinking.

1. Introduction

As long as Paul thought that the Christians were wrong in teaching about Jesus and believing on Him, he persecuted them and hated Jesus. But after Jesus appeared to him on the Damascus road and he learned that Jesus had risen from the dead, he wanted to tell others of Jesus the Savior. He had given his whole life to Jesus for he says, "For me to live is Christ," and he wanted everyone to know Him, so he went everywhere to preach.

2. Talk by a Junior boy.
   "How Paul is prepared to preach Christ."
   a. By Ananias - Acts 9:9-19; 22:12-16.
   b. Not by "Flesh and Blood" - Gal. 1:16b-17.
3. Talk by a Junior girl:
   "Why Paul preached in the synagogues first." Luke 24:47; Acts 1:8; Acts 9:20.
4. All Juniors open their Bibles and read Acts 9:15. Discuss this verse.
5. Talk by a Junior boy:
   "Paul in danger because of his preaching" Acts 9:21-25; 2 Cor. 11:32, 33.
6. Bible drill: Phil. 3:10; Phil. 1:21; Gal. 2:20; 2 Cor. 5:17; 1 Tim. 1:15; Rom. 1:16; Rom. 5:1; Eph. 2:10; Col. 3:1, 2; Rom. 8:14-16; Gal. 3:26, 27.
7. Heart talk by the Junior leader

(Paul preached Christ after he experienced Him. Can we make this thought valuable to our Juniors?)

III. Mission Minutes

1. Center our mission discussion upon our field in China. Let us all pray earnestly for our workers there.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Repeat from memory the verse for the month. Gal. 2:20
2. Stand and pray the prayer for the month, Psalm 17:8, then
3. Sing the first two verses of the song for the month, "Jesus, the very thought of Thee."
4. Repeat together the benediction, 2 Thess. 3:18.

CORRESPONDENCE

ZION MENN. CHURCH, KINGMAN, KANSAS

We feel fortunate and happy that we now have our own resident minister, Rev. and Mrs. Jacob Unruh, formerly of Fortuna, Mo. Through December and until January 26, Rev. Noah Unruh of Newton, Kans., served as our minister. On Jan. 26, Victor Graber, a student pastor from Pretty Prairie, Kans., filled our pulpit. Dec. 13, the church held its annual business meeting. Dec. 31, we had a program which started about 10:30 p. m. At midnight, Rev. Noah Unruh conducted a candle lighting service, which was very impressive. Feb. 2, was the first Sunday our new minister, Rev. Jacob Unruh, was here. In the evening a welcome reception was held, consisting of a short program, after which everyone retired to the church basement for an informal hour of fellowship and refreshments. At the close of the evening, Rev. and Mrs. Unruh were presented with a pound shower.

Our congregation is a small one and the attendance has not been any too good, partly because of inclement weather, and partly because of sickness. Our minister and his wife are very busy getting acquainted with everyone, and trying to create more interest. They have re-organized the Christian Endeavor Society, started a choir which is at present working on a small cantata for Easter, and organized a Women's Missionary Society. They also started Prayer Meetings and Bible Study. May the Lord bless our church, and the new minister, so that we might grow and be of better service to Him.

BERGTHAL MENN. CHURCH, CORN, OKLA.

The newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Gustav Nickel of near Clinton, were pleasantly surprised with a wedding shower by a group of Bergthal folks Thursday evening. Short services were conducted by Rev. Hege and refreshments were served. Mrs. Nickel will be remembered by many in Newton as Miss Marguerite Unruh, a nurse in the hospital for many years. They were married in Meno, Okla., Sunday March 23 . . . Rev. Hege, with the church choir, rendered a program in the Mennonite church at Geary Sunday night. Easter Sunday we are expecting the Tabor Men's Quartet of Hillsboro, Kansas.

The Ladies' Aid is finishing ten bathrobes for the Red Cross, and to take care of this extra work they have met twice this week. The health condition in the community is about normal. Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Bergen are again able to attend services quite regularly, also Elder John Flaming and Julius Hinz. Mrs. P. L. Heidebrecht is not yet able to do so. . . . The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Bergen will be glad to know that they are doing very well at the Old Folks' Home in Newton. It was the writer's privilege to visit them last Sunday. They are getting the best of care and seem to be content.

The community was shocked by the self-inflicted death of Abr. A. Harms of Cordell on Saturday evening. At the funeral services in the Herald Church Thursday, Rev. Klassen delivered a sermon in German and Rev. John Duerksen in English. Rev. Duerksen used for his text Eccl. 7: 2 to 5 inclusive, also Hab. 2:15. The deceased reached the age of 46 years and 15 days. He leaves to mourn his so sad end, a wife, three sons, a married daughter, his aged parents, three brothers, and four sisters. Interment was made in the cemetery adjoining the church ground. —H. A. Unger, Corr.

FRIEDENSFELD MENN. CH. TURPIN, OKLA.

Sunday, March 2, W. C. Voth, missionary from China, and on March 9, Missionary Justina Schmidt from Africa, were with us. It is not often that this congregation has the privilege of hearing missionary messages from the foreign lands. A large crowd attended these meetings.

We were happy to have Rev. & Sister Noah Unruh of Newton, Kansas, serve us on March 16 and 17. On March 23, our young people rendered a musical program at the Baptist Church in Liberal, Kansas. Plans have been made to observe the Lord's Supper the first Sunday in April. The Scripture says, "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye proclaim the Lord's death till He comes." I Cor. 11:26.

The brethren of our church have recently graveled the church grounds, which make it much more attractive. We are truly grateful for all the moisture which we have received during the past months. This country, once known as the "dust bowl", has certainly undergone a great change.—Sara Plett, Corr.

SWISS MENN. CHURCH, ALSEN, N. DAKOTA

Greetings in the Name of Jesus:

We had a fairly mild winter, though with plenty of snow since New Year. March, however, has taken on winter style, climaxed by the terrible storm our state had on March 15, which will never be forgotten by those of us who have experienced it. We are very grateful that God was merciful and spared the lives of all the members of our congregation. But, oh, how shocked we were when the message came next day that three members of the Salem church at Munich, a mother, her four year old daughter, and a young man had lost their lives. Because of almost impassible roads, some of us could not attend the funeral, but the bereaved ones have our heartfelt sympathy. . . . In December, nine new members were added to our church, eight young people by baptism, and Sister John Goertzen by letter. Rev. Walter of the Bible school spoke in this occasion. Text, I Tim. 4:12, 13; theme, "The Victory in Christian Living;" main points: God, your Father; Christ, your Redeemer; Holy Spirit, your comforter. He warned that we should never be found on the enemy's ground. Pleasure seekers are the most miserable people. Only a life in Christ by faith is what counts. Our prayers go out to the young people. . . . A program by the Bethany Bible School, Dec. 19 was much enjoyed. . . . . On Feb. 23, Bro. Willis, the oldest member of our congregation, was called home, and on March 14, David Schmeiss was relieved of his suffering. After the death of his parents, his sisters lovingly cared for him. But, when that became impossible he was taken to an institution intended for his kind. Though this was 85 miles away, his relatives visited him occasionally.

BUHLER MENN. CHURCH, BUHLER, KANSAS

Since Feb. 1, our church choir has been using the new Mennonite Hymnaries in their choir work, to give the congregation a chance to get acquainted with the book. Last week our music committee, with the help of a few others, was busy soliciting funds to buy enough copies for the church, to replace the old Hymns of Praise, used in our worship service. How much nicer the new Hymnaries will look, and oh, the blessings the congregation will receive from their use! We expect much in the years to come.

The choir, under the direction of Mr. Oscar Butler, is busy practicing the cantata, "The Crucifixion," by John Stainer, to be given Good Friday night. On Feb. 12, the sewing societies had a joint meeting, at which time the Thiessens from India were our guests, and related many interesting things of their work there. At this time Rev. Thiessen was presented with a check to enable him to buy more land for the agricultural project at which he works in connection with the boys' school at Basna. This was a project the Sunday School had worked on since the first of the year.

On March 12, the Senior Sewing Society had Sister Justina Schmidt, missionary from Africa, with them. She gave us a good insight into her work among the Lepers there. Such visits from the various mission fields, help greatly to keep the mission spirit alive in our church. May God richly bless them in their work.

Last Sunday evening our Junior and Senior C. E. had a joint meeting. After a short program of music, the evening was given over to Rev. Felix Schrag of Bethel College. He explained the "Junior Goodwill Builder" project. Quite a number of goodwill banks were distributed among the children. The week of March 31 to April 4, our Bethel College Fellowship will conduct its annual solicitation for the support of our college. As an introduction, we will have a covered dish luncheon, at the church on March 30 with short talks on "What Bethel has Meant to Me Personally" by various ex-students.

We are still privileged to help in the work of building His Kingdom, for which we are very grateful.

MENNONITE CENTRAL COMMITTEE RELIEF NOTES

March 21, 1941

Foreign Activities

London Letter, February 28, 1941 from Claassen and Coffman:

"We received a letter from Bro. M. C. Cressman of Kitchener, this morning, stating that a shipment of clothing from the Canadian sewing circles had been sent from there on January 27. We are glad to hear of this and note with approval and expectation the itemized list of clothing therein."

"I am still awaiting your reply as regards your securing priority at Washington. I now hold my exit permit and also a Portuguese Visa. The latter is good for only thirty days. Cooks were able to grant me a reservation on an American Export ship from Lisbon on March 21st. There seems to be no possible way to get to Lisbon before summer unless I can secure priority on a clipper. In the meantime, I shall be happy to continue to help John in the work that we both are so much interested in. May the Lord continue to bless the members of the Committee as well as to lead us in all of our undertakings, is our earnest prayer."

London Letter to N. M. Bearinger, Ontario from Claassen and Coffman.

"Our latest development has been in providing a mobile canteen for the city of Birmingham for use in case of emergencies arising out of air raids, for supplying hot food to people who have been bombed out, and to the workers and rescue parties which carry on after air raids." . . . "The city authorities are anxious that the food so dispensed from the canteen should be sold at a nominal price in order not to develop any spirit of dependence among the people. We are convinced that this is the right way to do. Of course in cases where they are temporarily unable to pay, no charge will be made. This will reduce the cost of operating the canteen considerably."

"In connection with our previous work with the Polish boys, the following letter was received from Madame Sikorski, wife of the Prime Minister of Poland: 'I consider it my duty to convey herewith to you my sincerest thanks for your very kind collaboration in providing many comforts for our school boys at Ealing, who are transferred to Scotland. You may be sure that they have, as well as we, much appreciated your help.'"

"Most of our efforts lately, outside of those stated above, have been concerned with the distribution of clothing. We have been distributing the woolen underclothing, dresses and socks as rapidly as we could so that people would get as much use out of them as possible, while the cold weather lasts. In addition to those mentioned in my last letter of January 10, we have sent bales to Coventry and Birmingham for the use of those who have been bombed out of their homes. We sent several bales which we made up, for the use of a group of 1200 boys and girls and some mothers, who are refugees from the Channel Islands. We supplied other clothing for several hostels where refugees are being cared for."

WORKERS ARRIVE

Cable from Henry Buller, February 26—"HAVE ARRIVED SAFELY MARSEILLE THIS MORNING."

M. C. Lehman and Jesse Hoover sent the following message from on board ship, March 18—"ARRIVING LISBON, FOUR THIS EVENING—WELL."

Civilian Public Service Item

Total number of notices received at Akron to March 22nd of IV-E classifications number 322—this after correcting the list for all classifications changes from IV-E of which this office has been advised. At the present rate of receiving these notices it can be assumed that the earlier estimate of 900 IV-E classifications from M. C. C. constituent groups per year are about correct.

The first actual assignments by Selective Service headquarters to the camps still awaits clarification of exact procedure in handling this in Selective Service system itself. Bro. Henry Fast, General Camp Director, is again in Washington in company of the Directors of the other two agencies to receive final instructions regarding procedure in administering the camps from Government. The necessary funds to provide the cost to the Mennonite Central Committee for this program according to the allocations to the several constituent groups are being received in a satisfactory manner.

MARRIED

Following are the names of couples who were married last year and have just been reported to us by Mrs. Willis Amstutz, correspondent of the Ebenezer Mennonite Church, Ohio:

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Niswander, R. F. D. 2, Bluffton, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Basinger, R. F. D. 2, Bluffton, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wingate, Bluffton, Ohio.

—Reported by Dr. J. H. Langenwalter:

Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Sellers, 1126 L. St., Reedley, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bolinder, Route 2, Kingsburg, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Bergtold, Box 283, Reedley, Calif.

—Reported by Rev. John C. Kaufman:

Mr. Bernhard Busenitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Busenitz, with Emilie Ruth Wiebe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Wiebe.

Mr. Otto R. Penner, wth Martha Wiebe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerhard Wiebe.

Mr. Orlando J. Claassen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Claassen, with Miss Florence Kaufman, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. J. C. Kaufman.

The address of the three couples above is Whitewater, Kansas.

Schroeder-Siemens—On March 23, 1941, in our church, Irma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Schroeder was married to Raymond R., son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Siemens, Rev. John F. Schmidt, the pastor, performing the ceremony. The couple resides on a farm. Address: R. 1, Box 57, Inman, Kansas. (Buhler Mennonite Church)

—Mennonite Church, Bluffton, Ohio. The thirty-fifth anniversary of this church was commemorated for the dedication of the building, Sunday, March 30. Hiram Locher, representing the building committees, gave a talk during the morning hour. Rev. J. B. Baer, minister at that time, was chairman of all the committees. There were fifty members present who attended the dedication. Fifteen of these had sung in the choir then. Three of these are in the present choir, including Mr. C. D. Amstutz, first choir director, and Mr. D. C. Bixel, first chorister.

—Mrs. M. Hartman, Corr.

—A REQUEST FOR INFORMATION: Some lady has left a paper entitled "The Heart of God" at the Mennonite Publication Office, Newton, Kansas. Since the office does not recall the name of the sister, and since it is not on the paper, we take this means of getting her name, for The Mennonite does not publish unsigned articles. Will the sister kindly report?

A WORD FROM MRS. LAURA PETTER

From a letter by Mrs. Petter addressed to Secretary P. H. Richert, we cull the following. Thank you for note of sympathy and assurance of prayers. We praise the Lord for His lovingkindness that endureth forever. Valdo has been doing remarkably well, far above our expectations, and those of the doctors. Grandpa Petter is still with me and we take turns about with the patient, being at his side day and night. Just how long he will have to be in the hospital yet, I do not know. But we patiently wait upon the Lord to have His way in all. I certainly do appreciate the prayers of those beloved in the Lord. May they continue to pray for Valdo and us that strength may be given. —Laura Petter —Grace Church at Albany, Oregon. We deeply regret that Rev. J. M. Franz. is compelled to follow doctor's advice, and give up preaching indefinitely, on account of a throat ailment. However, the church has been very fortunate in finding a new pastor in Rev. P. A. Kliewer of Bluffton, Ohio, who has accepted the unanimous call of the church, and will take charge of the field about the middle of May.

—Mrs. Elmer Widmer, Corr.

—J. B. Epp, former missionary in Arizona and evangelist writes: On my recent trip through California, Oregon, and Washington, I visited about twenty churches, also several missions and Bible schools. In 45 days I had the opportunity to speak 44 times; besides many private visits and group discussions. Hope to be able to make this route again, extending into Eastern Washington, where I could not go this time. I read The Mennonite regularly every week, in some home.

CHINA MISSIONARIES COMING HOME. According to the motion of the China conference held January 28-30, the following missionaries are coming home: Mrs. August Ewert and five children; Mrs. C. L. Pannabecker and four children; Mrs. S. F. Pannabecker and three children; Miss Aganetha Fast and Miss Etta Davis. The other single .ladies decided to remain for the present or find work elsewhere. Jantzens', Dirks's and Wutherich's may go to West China or India.

—Lorraine Avenue Menn. Church, Wichita, Kans.—Our church has decided to have a week of inspirational meetings in May or June, to be concluded by an all-day Mission festival. Will our friends please watch for the date of these meetings, especially the festival. Because our church building is so small we are considering the advisibility of putting up a large tent. If any church in our conference happens to have a large tent, which it might be willing to lend us for a week, please write us at 655 South Lorraine St., Wichita, Kansas. —O. K. Galle, Corr.

—First Mennonite Church, Allentown, Pa. Baptismal Services Sunday evening. A class of six will be received, and several by the right hand of fellowship. Easter Day will be a busy day. The Dawn Service will be held at six o'clock; Sunday School at 9:15; Communion service at 10:30. In the evening we will observe Upper Milford Night, at which time the Zionsville congregation will worship with us, and their choir will render special music.

—Mennonite Church, East Freedom, Pa. We are planning, by the grace of God, to have a week of services previous to Easter. They will close with baptism, reception of new members, and Holy Communion, Easter Sunday morning. Our pastor will be the speaker on three evenings. Rev. J. J. Esau, blind evangelist, and Rev. L. C. Cox of the Claysburg Brethren Church, on the other evenings of the week. Please pray for these services. —M. H. Smith, Corr.

—Altoona Memorial Menn. Church, Pa., is planning to feature a series of meetings from April 20 to 27, with Rev. D. H. Burkholder of the East Swamp Church as speaker. The following are some of the subjects: But God, The Compromise of the Devil, The Blood of the Cross, America Back to God, The Road to Hell via Card Table, Movie and Dance, Where are the Dead? In connection with these meetings, principally for adults, there wil be children's meetings each evening at 6:45.

Rev. Arnold J. Regier of the Alberta Community Church, Portland, Ore., reports that they were planning to have a series of evangelistic meetings, March 30 to April 6, with Rev. Homer Leisy of Dallas, as speaker, and a passion program on April 6. He states that their work is progressing, as they try to reach out to many Christless homes. Eight souls have made their decision to serve Christ and wish to be baptized Easter Sunday. They use The Mennonite as their Sunday School paper and like it.

—Freeman Junior College.—A successful Winter Bible Institute came to a close on Feb. 28, with the ending of the college winter quarter. The course of study was planned and directed by Rev. J. B. Toews, director of the Bible Department, who taught most of the courses, Rev. L. H. Linscheid of the Bethany Church the rest. Ten students were enrolled . . . A Music Review Day is planned for April 14. The church choirs of the community will bring the morning worship service. A grand chorus of all the choirs will bring the following numbers: Christi Blut und Gerechtigkeit, Christ the Lord is Ris'n Today, All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name.

—First Mennonite Church, Philadelphia, Pa. Their Bulletin contains this note of appreciation from pastor and wife: "Words cannot express our appreciation to the First Church for the purse of $75.00 presented to us last Sunday, at our Fifth Anniversary."

—Bluffton College.—To the question put to the students: "What about Bluffton College do you like best?" the following are extracts of some of the answers: The Christian atmosphere, the fellowship of professors and classmates, because the college is small . . . The traditions and ideals of the school are of great importance and are its (uplifting) "personality" . . . One of the finest things of the school is its contagious friendliness, the pretty campus, too, is a definite attribute . . . We know the professors as our real friends. With their assistance, with the lovely campus and all of the activities and opportunities for creative expression that Bluffton offers, we can't help but love it. —The Witmarsum. Dr. Arthur E. Holt of the Department of Social Ethics at Chicago Theological Seminary, has been chosen speaker for the coming commencement, at which forty students are to be graduated.

—In the Bulletin of Zion Church, Souderton, Pa.— we find these thoughtful lines:

S — See God's beautiful earth
P — Pray more than you have ever before
R — Rejoice in your many blessings
I — Interest others in Jesus Christ
N — Neglect not to read the Bible
G — Give, share your joy and friendship with God and all the glory of the Springtime with those you meet.

—Items from the Bulletin of the Grace Church, Lansdale, Pa. An interesting comparison between The Mennonite Hymnary and the books previously used by the congregation shows that while a goodly number of familiar gospel songs are missing in the Gospel Song section there are many more in the Hymns section of the Hymnary. . . . The Bluffton College Gospel team on its visits through the east will be in this church on Good Friday. . . . The Eastern District Conference will be held this spring in the Grace Church.

"Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid which is Jesus Christ."

VOLUME LVI | NORTH NEWTON, KANSAS, APRIL 15, 1941 | NUMBER 15

Entered at the post-office at North Newton, Kansas, as second-class matter. Acceptance for mailing as special rate of postage provided for in Section 1103. Act of October 3, 1917. Authorized Jan. 22, 1919

A Way That Seemeth Right

"There is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death" (Prov. 14:12).

Can it be possible? Yes, and tragically so. The writer of the Proverbs takes pains to repeat, "There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death" (Prov. 16:25). The condition of the world today portrays to us a very grave picture of this eternal truth. This is not to say, however, that it takes a world at war to reveal to us this condition, but it does serve to intensify it. Let it be clearly understood that the writer does not particularly delight in parading the shortcomings of men, but certainly much can be learned and many heartrending experiences can be avoided by considering the results of the lives of those who follow the way "that seemeth right."

Men seek power. The "way that seemeth right" is to take the sword and the gun, but "they that take the sword shall perish by the sword," and "the end thereof are the ways of death." Men forget the "gospel of Christ which is the power of God." Men seek riches. It seems to them that riches consist in an abundance of earthly goods, while they forget "the riches of love in Christ Jesus." Men seek security. They think security lies in making a satisfactory adjustment to this world, while they reject the One concerning Whom it is said, "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ."

Christians, be awake to your charge! The world is not slow in showing its colors. Its banners speak of the way that seemeth right—namely, hatred, greed, strife, sin, and lawlessness. We have a firm conviction that "God is love" as He has so manifestly shown to us in Jesus Christ, our crucified and risen Savior. Because He asks for love, purity, and holiness, we cannot hate. Consider what someone has said concerning hate:

To hate a man
Is to put yourself beneath him;
Is usually to confess that you do not know him;
Is always easier than trying to understand him;
Is the beginning of suicide of the soul;
Requires less mentality than to adjust your differences;
Is to begin the wrecking of your own happiness;
Is to be guilty as he is.

"They've Got God"

The Watchman-Examiner publishes an interview of the editor with Miss Homer, who recently spent fifteen months in China and Japan, representing the Church Committee of China Relief. In that interview Miss Homer told of a curious incident which happened in Chungking in May, 1939, setting forth the influence on the Chinese of Christian Generalissimo and Madame Chiang Kai-sheck.

"In an air raid on Chungking, the cliffs going down into rivers on three sides of the city, became a veritable death trap to thousands. Five thousand were burned alive and many more thousands were wounded.

"Finally, towards dawn, when the fires had burned down a bit what used to be streets were jammed with screaming, hysterical people. . . . Suddenly there came a yell from the crowd, 'Look! Look! over there! There's the Generalissimo and Madame Chiang!' Everybody looked, and sure enough, there they were, those two, just wandering down the street hand in hand, clothes torn, faces dirty, stopping now and then to adjust a bandage or comfort someone, so stricken and near to tears they could hardly speak.

"Then the crowd began to mutter and then to roar, 'They haven't a body guard! Where are the soldiers?' For just a moment there was a panic, and then suddenly a little coolie on the edge of the crowd yelled out, 'Oh, that's all right; they've got God!'

"And they say that a curious quiet settled down over that crowd. And they stood there—screaming stopped—perfectly silent, just watching while those two wandered off into the snow and disappeared."

GOD IN A GARDEN

A garden is a lovesome thing, God wot.
Rose plot,
Fringed pool,
Fern grot,
The veriest school
Of peace, and yet the fool
Contends that God is not.
Not God! in gardens! when the eve is cool!
Nay, but I have a sign:
'Tis very sure God walks in mine.

—Manx Poet

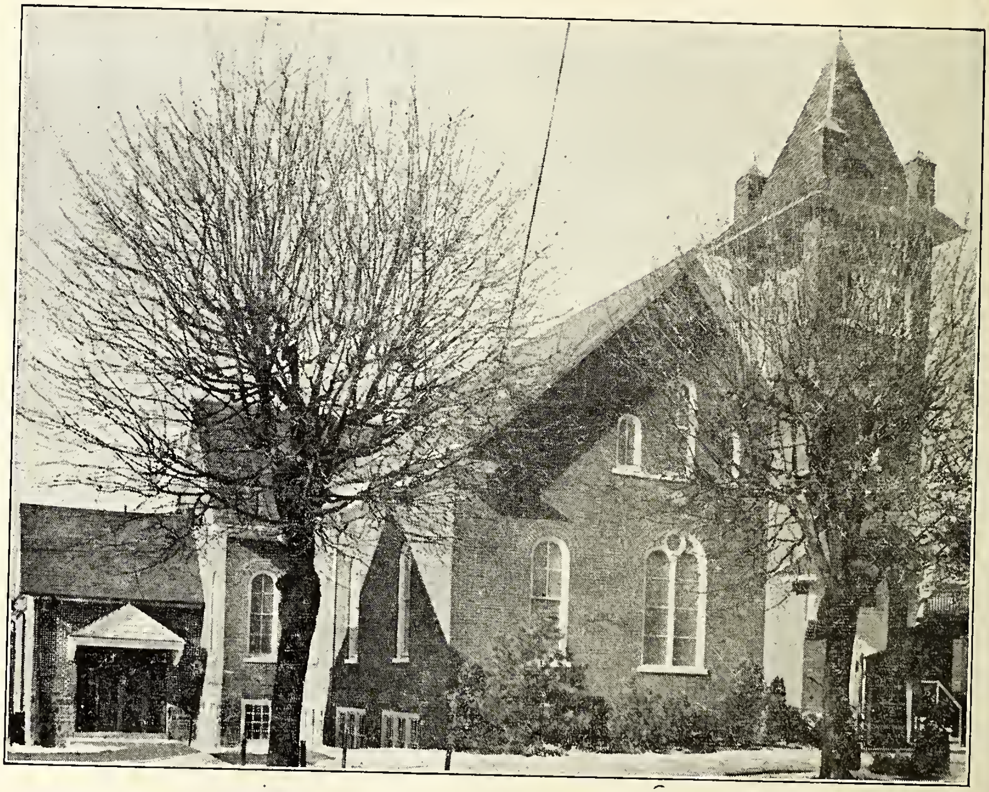
A Brief Historical Sketch of Zion Mennonite Church

Souderton, Penn.



The above is a likeness of the Zion Mennonite Church at Souderton, Pa., in which, and near which, the coming sessions of the General Conference will be held, August 17-23 next.

Many of our Institutions have had a very humble and small beginning, as has the Zion Mennonite Church. Its first service was held, in what was once known as Hunsberger's Hall, the second story of the old hotel stable of Souderton, with the Reverend N. B. Grubb preaching the first sermon, on January 9, 1887. So, too, like another movement of much greater significance our congregation can claim like distinction in being able to trace its birth to a stable. The morning after this first service, the proprietor of the Central Hotel offered the use of his hall for meetings. In this hall meetings were then continued with fair regularity on Sunday afternoons. The Rev. N. B. Grubb, pastor of the First Church of Philadelphia, and the Rev. A. B. Shelly, pastor at East Swamp and Flatland alternately preached here every two weeks, in addition to their own services.

When the Zwingli Reformed Church of Souderton had completed its new church in 1888 arrangements were made by our small group to hold services there. Here the little group of worshippers met for the next five years. In 1892 the "Home Mission and Church Extension Committee" was given permission by the Eastern District, to collect money in the congregations of the district for the purpose of erecting a new church building. This was started in the fall of 1892, size 46 by 36 feet. H. D. Detweiler, who became a charter member of the new congregation soon to be organized, was the builder and plumber of this new place of worship. The new congregation of nineteen charter members was duly organized on February 8, 1893, at a meeting in the church with Revs. N. B. Grubb, A. B. Shelly and A. M. Fretz present. The new organization was named "Zion Mennonite Church," in conformity with the title in the charter. On April 9, 1893, the Rev. A. M. Fretz, who had accepted a call, was installed as pastor of the new congregation. In its new home and with the new pastor, both the Church and the Sunday School grew rapidly.

By 1908 the little handful of members had grown to such proportions that it was necessary to build an addition as large as the original part, now giving the building the form of the capital letter "T." At the termination of Rev. Fretz's pastorate, in 1910, the membership had increased from nineteen to one hundred and sixty-four. The Rev. J. W. Schantz was called as pastor, Feb. 6, 1910. By 1916 it was again necessary to make the church auditorium larger. Thus, what had been the Sunday School room, became a part of the church auditorium. During this year, at the death of the pastor, Rev. Schantz, the membership numbered 264. Rev. Reed F. Landis was called to succeed Rev. Schantz in 1917. Rev. Landis served the church until 1923, when the Rev. G. T. Soldner was called to be the pastor, on Sunday, April 29. At this time the church roster showed a membership of 330.

During the summer of 1925 the space for the Sunday School had become so crowded that it had to be expanded still more. It was then that the entire basement was dug out, to provide room for the primary department and other classes. This labor was practically all donated by men in the Sunday School. In 1931, when the Rev. Ernest J. Bohn, the present pastor, was called to the pastorate, there was a membership of 425.

For the past ten years there has been a feeling in our church that there should be more room and better facilities for a Sunday School and church of the size of ours. By 1939 the membership in the church had reached 502 and the Sunday School had an enrollment of 532. Therefore, at the annual congregational meeting, January 1, 1940, it was decided by vote that the Church Council should appoint a building committee, which was to proceed with having an architect draw specifications for a new Sunday School building. In April of 1940, at a special congregational meeting, it was decided to proceed with the new building, according to the architect's plans and specifications, at a cost of $25,000, 67 feet long, 36 feet wide, and 53 feet wide on the side toward Second Street, joined to the back of the church. The new building includes a large auditorium in the basement, of 64 feet by 35 feet, with a platform on one end. From this room a double door leads into a hallway along which are located ten plastered sound-proof class rooms. The first floor has three children's departments: Nursery, Beginners, and a Primary assembly room which has two adjoining class rooms.

In addition to the erection of the new Sunday School building the church sanctuary was entirely renovated. Thus with the new equipment for the Sunday School, new light fixtures, etc., the entire cost of our building project has mounted to $30,000. This is an investment in the Christian character of our youth which we feel infinitely worthwhile.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

A WORD OF FAREWELL

by P. A. and Martha Penner

Our time of active Mission service in India has come to an end. It is the rule of the Board that after 40 years of service or at the end of the 70th year of life the missionary MAY leave the mission field; that after the expiration of further five years he MUST clear the mission field. Since the Board would hardly permit us another three and one-half years of service after a furlough of one and one-half years, we are forced to look at our mission service in India as having come to an end.

It is forty years since four courageous young missionaries set foot on the hot soil of India for the first time. These were brother and sister Johann F. Kroeker from Russia and my first wife and myself. Of the four I am the only one surviving. Brother and sister Kroeker have found their grave in Siberia and my wife sleeps under the hot sun of India in the cemetery at Calcutta.

How very different is the appearance here on the mission field of our Conference than in the year 1900! At that time there lived with us (my dear wife and myself) many rats and mice in a miserable clay hut belonging to the government, so that one night my wife screamed with fright when a rat ran over her face. Reproachfully she asked: "Dear husband, where have you brought me?" Brother and sister Kroeker also lived in such a small rented clay hut in which there was room for a table and two chairs but not for a bedstead. For months they slept on straw in one corner of the hut. Today there are on our mission field five thriving stations with all the necessary appurtenances. Then no school, no hospital, no leper home, of course no house of God for there were no Christians in the whole district about 120 to 200 miles in length and 50 miles wide. Nothing but forest and heathendom. That's how it was in the year 1900. And today? Well, please come here, look and—thank God for the visible blessing which rests on our field of labor. Schools, hospitals, leper home, Bible school, houses of God, stand there as a memorial of the General Conference. The number of Christians and children is over 3000. All of this God has done through the sacrificial love of the churches and the faithful work of the workers sent by the Conference. God has permitted me to observe the blessed development of this field, and I can only magnify and praise because of all that God has done.

The question how all this has come to pass I would like to answer briefly:

Firstly, through the proclamation of the pure Word of God. For this the promise reads: "My word shall not return unto me void." And Paul says; "Preach the Word." Secondly, through the many prayers on the part of the churches and the workers. There are also many promises for prayer. And finally, through the faithful, unselfish, sacrificial financial help of the many mission friends. Of course, I do not forget that the workers on the field endeavor with all faithfulness to build the Kingdom of God in India. Oh, how grateful I am that I am permitted to see all this.

Now we leave our home and our people, perhaps never to see them again. We hope nobody is surprised, if on the one hand we must lay down with sorrowful feelings our God-given task which has become dear to us. Already it would cost us a tear now and then. It will be especially hard for us to leave our poor lepers and their children. They are grown to our heart. But, no matter how hard the parting may be for us, we must make room for younger forces.

If it be God's will, it is our intention to leave Calcutta on the 8th of April and we will, if God gives grace for the journey, arrive in Portland by the middle of May. We commit ourselves to the special intercession of all dear brethren and sisters, that the Lord may bring us safely to America.

Although we, as stated, leave India with sorrowful feelings, we must on the other hand also say, we feel drawn home. The magnet is first of all our children and grandchildren. The latter we have not yet seen. How we long for the moment when we will be permitted to embrace our loved ones in Newton, further our brothers and sisters in the various states. Then also our heart thirsts for communion of the children of God on native soil. To be always among heathen is, as brother missionary Voth used to say, "Aufreibend" (taxing).

They have been glorious 40 years, and we may rightfully call India our home, since we have been longer in India than in America. During these forty years in India we have, with exception of all our loved ones, missed only two things, electricity and music. To read, write, study with weak lamp light was a great strain on the eyes. And if one did not watch, things happened like once upon a time: "De Laump reaket." (The lamp is smoking.) And Music? How often, oh how often, we have longed for good glorious singing and glorious instrumental music! Not long ago we read in the Herold about the singing of the cossacks in Newton. I nearly became envious. We hope that we will be permitted to make up something in America.

With this writing we would like to thank all of our dear brethren and sisters heartily for love, prayers, and especially for your faith in us. May God recompense it. Then also hearty thanks for the many letters we have received for the 40th anniversary of my mission service in India. We will carefully save these. Then also for the many Christmas greetings that have come into our house. They are so many that it is impossible for us, especially at this time, to answer them all. Therefore we take the liberty to thank you all with this writing. May God richly reward.

Further we thank the dear Mission Board, which has always treated us in an obliging and Christian manner. Differences, and differences of opinion were smoothed out in a brotherly manner. Then thanks to the many givers outside of our Conference who have often encouraged us with letters and with gifts. Yes, many, many times we thank for all that has been brought into our heart and house.

With hearty greetings we remain your brother and sister united in the Lord.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE SWIFT CURRENT BIBLE SCHOOL

The Mennonite Bible School in Swift Current, Sask., Canada, was born out of the needs of that district. In the fall of 1935 Rev. Nicolai W. Bahnmann, at that time ministering in the Edmonton, Alberta, district, received a call from the Home Mission Board of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America to work the prairie provinces, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba as itinerant minister. Serving in this capacity, Rev. Bahnmann came to Swift Current for the first time on Feb. 1, 1936, remaining for one week. Around the end of March he again visited that city and its surrounding community, and was so taken up with the work there that the original call as itinerant minister had to go unheeded.

During the summer of 1936 Rev. Bahnmann saw the great necessity of evangelization and work among the young people. He solicited the assistance of the Swift Current Mennonites and requested the Home Mission Board to finance his plan with $300.00, which request was granted.

Two buildings were rented for a term of five months, where home-made tables and benches furnished the kitchen, dining-room, class room, and students' quarters. On Nov. 5, 1936, the Swift Current Bible School was opened for the first time under the principalship of Rev. N. W. Bahnmann and Brother Abram Schulz as assistant instructor. There were 29 students. All that was asked of them for board, room, tuition and books was $3.00 a month.

During the summer of 1937, with the help of the General Conference, an old church building, 30 x 50, was bought from a group of Old Colony Mennonites 16 miles south of Swift Current. Since their congregation broke up when the majority of their members moved to Mexico, they had no use for the building any longer. It was bought, moved to the city, repaired and made practical for church services and Bible School purposes at a total cost of $3200.00. The rear end of the auditorium was partitioned off into two classrooms by means of light, portable walls. These are easily and quickly removed when larger church attendance makes it necessary. The basement provides rooms for the female students, also for kitchen, dining room and bathroom.

As a result of seven very dry years and a total crop failure in 1937, many students were unable to do an appreciable amount towards the upkeep of the School. Again the General Conference of North America allowed $300.00 and the Canadian Conference another $150.00. Vegetables were donated by former brethren of Rosemary and Coaldale, Alberta. There were 28 students for the school year 1937-38. The instructors were the same ones. Unfortunately Brother Schulz was soon forced to give up the work and go to the Fort Qu'appelle Sanatorium to be treated for tuberculosis. His vacancy was filled by Rev. J. J. Klassen of Cabri, Sask. Bro. P. Unger of Swift Current also instructed temporarily.

After two and one-half years of work in this dist-

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by Lester Hostetler

APRIL 19—"To be spiritually minded is life and peace." v. 6—Read Romans 8:1-11.

Life and peace! Here are two great words. They express our highest desires. To be alive with all our powers and faculties; and to have peace, freedom from worry, uncertainty, and distress—if we have these two, what more can we desire. Paul tells us they may be ours. The way to achieve them is through spiritual-mindedness. Pray that God may deliver us from earthly desire and unruly appetite so that we may love and serve Christ with all the powers God has given us.

APRIL 20—"I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me." v. 13—Read Philippians 4:4-13.

E. Stanley Jones has been asking men and women everywhere to lay hold of this truth anew. During the recent preaching mission he advised the throngs who heard him to repeat this verse at night before going to sleep, and again in the morning when waking, and again every hour during the working day. We need desperately the help and confidence which comes from a consciousness of the presence of Christ. He gives strength. In ourselves we are weak, incapable of meeting the day's tasks and trials. But giving ourselves to Him completely, we can do the difficult and the unexpected.

APRIL 21—"The armor of righteousness." v. 7—Read II Cor. 6:1-10.

We all seek to be strong. There are battles to be fought and victories to be won and fierce enemies to be resisted. But our wrestling, Paul reminds us, is "not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against spiritual wickedness in high places." We must meet the foe, not with the worldly weapons that are being forged, but with spiritual power. And that power is righteousness. One whose strength is the simple strength of being personally good has an armor that cannot be pierced. The world needs men and women everywhere of moral character who place righteousness above personal advantage.

APRIL 22—"And for an helmet, the hope of salvation." v. 8—Read I Thess. 5:1-11.

The hope of salvation! Without hope we cannot live our best lives or do our best work. A man in a dungeon with no hope of release is doomed to despair and defeat. Give him hope and he is safe. He is able to set himself against the evils of idleness. In his solitude, he hears the voices of men and of work that he will have to do with in the day of his freedom. So, too, our hope of salvation is a present power in life. Some day we shall dwell with Christ in a life victorious, free from sin. Pray that that hope may be kept alive in your soul. It is a helmet that protects us from many a danger and strengthens us when we incline to despair of our imprisonment here.

APRIL 23—"I have given you an example." John 13:15. Read Matt. 14:22, 23 and Mark 1:35.

There are many reasons why we ought to pray. The greatest of them all is that Jesus prayed and His prayer life is an example for us. He prayed in the morning, in the evening, at night, sometimes all night long. He prayed before He began work, when the work was finished, and in the midst of His work. He prayed for Himself, His friends, His disciples, His enemies. There are many arguments against prayer and one can ask many questions regarding it that are difficult or impossible to answer. Many do not believe in prayer. Let us remember that the greatest and wisest and best Man that ever lived believed in it. He found prayer as necessary as eating or breathing. He gave us an example. Pray that we may follow His example more earnestly.

APRIL 24—"And sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death." v. 15—Read James 1:1-15.

The nature of sin is best known by its consequences. It results in death. It is poisonous to the soul. We may analyze the poison, explain it, call it by some other less odious name, but the result is the same. "When it is finished it bringeth forth death." "Commit a sin twice," says an old proverb, "and it no longer seems sin." And this is one of sin's deadly results. It becomes familiar and we no longer recognize it for what it is. But sin need not be finished. Jesus can intercept it. He lays His hand on us, if we let Him, and chastens our desires. He touches past sins and forgives them, blots them out. They cannot be forgotten but they remain only as a power of caution and watchfulness, of trust and gratitude, no longer deadly but leading to life. Pray that none of your sins may be finished, but that, repented of, they may be forgiven in Christ Jesus.

APRIL 25—"Though he be not far from every one of us." v. 27—Read Acts 17:22-31.

To know that God is near, as Paul told the Athenians, is to understand the central, fundamental truth about God. The trouble with most of us is that we live our lives as if He were far away. He is unseen but as close as the air we breathe. He is brought still closer by His love for us. Our fellow men may touch us and still be far removed from us because they may hate or ignore us. Not so with God. His presence is a loving presence, trying to help us. He watches and works for our good. We fail Him; He never fails us. We can commune with Him for He made us in His image. We can see the world through His eyes, and hear through His ears, and think our thoughts after His thoughts and become more like Him day by day. Pray that this may be true in our lives.

The Deaconess Hospital, Salem, Oregon

A short time ago a Mennonite brother stopped in the city of Salem and took the opportunity of visiting the Deaconess Hospital there. Apparently he had never heard about this hospital and was surprised to find such a Mennonite institution on the west coast. This brother wanted to know why this hospital had not received more attention among our Mennonite brethren since it had been carrying on its work for the past 24 years and was now the largest hospital in the capital city of the state of Oregon. Since there may be others who would like to be better informed about our Mennonite institutions, I would like to pass on the following information about the Deaconess Hospital in Salem, Oregon.

The work was begun here 24 years ago by four Mennonite deaconesses; Sister Maria Wedel, Sister Martha Wedel, Sister Anna Duerksen, and Sister Justina Duerksen. These sisters worked under the leadership of Mr. F. B. Wedel. Of these five original workers Sister Anna Duerksen is still active in the hospital. Sister Maria and Martha Wedel and Mr. F. B. Wedel have passed on to their reward. The present superintendent is Mr. F. F. Wedel, a son of the founder.

During these years the hospital has been able to render services to many thousands of individuals. It has always been the purpose of the institution to give kind and loving treatment, both physical and spiritual, to all who come to its doors, regardless of their social status or religious affiliation.

A tremendous amount of prayer and sacrifice has gone into the building of this institution and it is evident that the Lord has put His blessing upon these efforts. The hospital has grown from a 12-bed institution to a 115-bed institution; and the number of patients has increased until last year the hospital was able to render services to 4,458 patients. It is today a standardized hospital recognized as such by the American Medical Association which is the largest association of its kind in America. There are over 90 paid workers engaged and this number rises to well over 100 in rush seasons.

The hospital is under the control of a board of Mennonite ministers who represent the various Mennonite churches in the community. It is not a profit making institution. There are no stockholders and any excess profits are turned back into the hospital to further increase its usefulness to the community. The main part of the hospital is given over to the care of Medical, Surgical, and Obstetrical patients and one wing is devoted to the aged folk, among whom are some that have been with the institution for a period of from 15 to 20 years.

The spiritual work in the hospital is not neglected. The hospital maintains the services of a full time chaplain and also has a social worker to minister to the sick. When people are sick they need spiritual as well as physical care and there are very many opportunities of rendering this in a hospital. There are also two chapel services a week for the patients, workers, and nurses. These are conducted in turn by ministers from the various churches in the community including those from our Mennonite groups. The hospital also sponsors a religious radio program every Sunday, called, "The Young People's Church of the Air," which program is made possible by the cooperation of the young people from the various churches of Salem and vicinity and is under the direction of the hospital chaplain.

In conclusion it might be said that even though the work has gone ahead there are many heavy responsibilities resting upon all hospitals today. There is, for one thing, an ever increasing amount of charity work that the hospital must do. Last year $22,000 of charity work was done. There is also a great need for Christian nurses and the hospital would be glad to hear from any nurses that would like to serve in a Christian institution. We ask your prayers that we may continue to walk in the steps of the "Great Physician" Who ministered both to the physical and spiritual needs of the people.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

A. S. BECHTEL

(Editor's Note: Due to an error, the lesson which should have appeared this week appeared in the last week's Mennonite. Since the omitted lesson will be too late to be of any value, some additional thoughts on the lesson for April 20, taken from the Moody Monthly, will be given.)

USING WITNESSING POWER

Golden Text: They were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spake the word of God with boldness. —Acts 4:31.

"In the right place at the right time and in the right attitude—these are unfailing conditions of divine blessing. God was ready for the first great ingathering of souls into the Church, and He chose for it the Day of Pentecost, the great harvest festival of the Jews. . . .

". . . How fitting it was that on that Sunday morning—evidently in the upper room—the disciples were 'with one accord in one place,' ready for the great gift of power and grace for life and ministry which God had for them, and through them for the world. One wonders what might happen today if Christian people would be in God's house on the Lord's

Day, in complete accord and unity, expectant, looking for His blessing.

"At Pentecost we find

I. The Holy Spirit Poured Out (2:1-4)

"'. . . The story of Pentecost is the first chapter in the history of the Church as it witnesses for Christ, and it embodies the impressive lesson that in all successful witnessing the power is that of the Spirit and the instrument is the message of the gospel.'"

II. Mighty Works Performed (4:9)

"Reference is made here to the healing of the lame man—a miracle which resulted in the imprisonment of Peter and John. It was a work of power, but only the first of many which the disciples were to perform.

"An even greater work was that of the Spirit-filled preaching of the gospel which brought three thousand souls into the Church (2:41). As we marvel at that event, we need also to keep before us the recurring day-by-day miracle of the regeneration of individuals (2:47). This was, and is, accomplished through the teaching of the Word (2:42).

III. True Witness Presented (4:8-12)

". . . Humanly speaking, one might have expected these men to stand in fear and awe before that august body (the Sanhedrin), and either dumb with terror or brazenly defiant. But such is not the operation of the Holy Spirit in a man. They spoke tactfully, but boldly, of the death and resurrection of the only One in Whom there is any salvation."

IV. Faithful Though Persecuted (4:13-20)

". . . Note the answer in verse 19. The true witness of God speaks for Him, at His command, and, while kind and tactful in his dealings with men, cannot be controlled by their wishes. There is only one message (v. 12). 'Neither is there any other name under heaven, that is given among men wherein we must be saved'. . . . These words are at once a rebuke, a challenge, and an invitation. . . ."

CORRESPONDENCE

DEER CREEK, OKLA., CHURCH, April 7, 1941

To again especially commemorate the suffering, death, and resurrection of our Lord during this Easter season, the churches of Deer Creek are uniting in union services every evening during the week preceding Easter. The pastors use as subjects the events in the life of Christ as they took place on the respective days during the Passion Week. As a fitting close to this series of meetings, on the evening of Easter Sunday the Community Chorus, under the direction of Prof. J. Ellis Jackson, a music instructor of the local high school, will present the Easter cantata, "Life Eternal" by Fred B. Holton.

On Sunday, March 9, the Medford Choir of Medford, Okla., presented a musical program in our church. On March 30, the Meno Men's Chorus of Meno, Okla., gave a program here in the afternoon. The music was very inspiring, and the exchange of programs in this manner seems to cement our various churches together in a commendable way. —Mrs. H. E. Miller, Corr.

FIRST CHURCH OF PHILADELPHIA

We at First Church have still fresh in our memory the blessings shared and enjoyed during the latter part of 1940 when we observed our 75th Anniversary. For ten consecutive Sundays we had outstanding messages in song and gospel.

Through the channel of the Memorial Fund of the Diamond Jubilee, it became possible for us to purchase 200 copies of the new Mennonite Hymnary for use in our church services. These books were formally dedicated and first used in the morning service Sunday, February 9. This service in charge of the pastor, Rev. J. J. Plenert, was impressive and the books were well received. Perhaps the best sign we have of how the books are liked is the fact that 37 extra copies were ordered by individual members and friends for home use.

Sunday, March 16, the fifth anniversary of Rev. Plenert's services as pastor of First Church was fittingly observed with a sermon on "After Five Years." The sermon was full of suggestions for a deeper spiritual life. At the close of the services the congregation presented the pastor with a purse as a token of their appreciation of his untiring efforts.

BETHEL CHURCH OF LANGDON, N. DAK.

March 31, 1941

The Lord has wonderfully blessed our little congregation. March 30 was the first Sunday that we could gather again in quite a group after the long cold winter and much snow kept so many of us absent. We had quite an attendance in spite of muddy roads yesterday. We missed one of our teachers, Henry Bartel, who has been failing this winter and is still not feeling very well. Rev. and Mrs. Duerksen and family, of Alsen, were with us, and it seemed like a real reunion; especially since because of the storm some families were torn apart. We are all thankful that God spared the lives of our little congregation; but we can sincerely mourn with those who were bereaved. Mr. Friesen, a "storm victim" of Munich, previously taught Vacation Bible School in our midst and was greatly loved. Mrs. Huffman and her daughter, who were also taken home to glory, also visited our little group occasionally together with their husband and father.

The Christian Endeavor meetings were postponed through the cold and stormy weather and will meet again in April. May God bless and keep His protecting hand over us all in the future, as He has done in the past. —Mrs. Joseph Albrecht, Corr.

SALEM ZION CHURCH, NEAR MARION, S. D.

These are truly eventful days both here and abroad. They are a challenge for every Christian to make his own life more eventful in Christ Jesus. Naturally we are fearful of what the future holds in store for the Christian Church, but in Psalm 46:1, 2 we have this promise that "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Therefore will not we fear."

We have been privileged to carry on our church activities quite regularly during the winter months. Very few activities had to be postponed because of inclement weather or impassable roads. During the second week of January we observed Prayer Week. Among guest ministers who assisted our pastor, Rev. Claassen, was the Reverend Reimer, Saskatchewan, Canada.

A year book, the first of its kind issued by this congregation, was recently distributed among the members. It is the result of the combined efforts of our Administrative Board and other officers of church organizations. A brief historical sketch is of special interest to the young people and to those who have become affiliated with the church by transference of membership. Another feature is a detailed report of organizations and their activities, as well as a pastoral report and a complete list of all members with markings regarding membership obligations. It is a valuable little booklet, both from the standpoint of information and spiritual inspiration.

Many of our number availed themselves of the opportunity of hearing Rev. Bender, from Goshen, Indiana, who spoke in the Freeman College Auditorium on the evenings of March 2, 3, and 4. His sermons were very timely, and the first-hand information which he gave regarding war conditions as they exist today, was an inspiration for us to be more thankful to God, Who so graciously has spared us thus far.

GRACE MENNONITE CHURCH, PANDORA, O.

Our Pre-Easter Services of the past week are again history. The theme was "The Master." These messages were brought by Rev. W. H. Stauffer, pastor of the First Mennonite Church, Sugarcreek, Ohio, and were really mountain top experiences. But we cannot stay here for there is work for us to do in the valley.

The Master's Call. It behooves us in these fast passing days to do our bit for the other fellow. Jesus' life was full of good works. He did not point out other people's mistakes. He healed them and said go and sin no more. Jesus knew it meant the cross for Him. He would say He did not lose His life, He gave it. He gave His life for my sins and for your sins. Now it behooves us to go the second mile, not in our strength but in Jesus' Name. Let us ask ourselves "is it Christian" to do this instead of "does it pay?" Jesus is the Only Way, and He wants us to recognize that God is still God and sin is still fatal.

The Master and Men. The only hope of the world is Jesus. The world is crying for something, not wealth and knowledge. Our outward troubles are recognized, are we aware of our inward troubles which are far greater? The young man knew the law but lacked the Spirit. Jesus says, "Follow me and I will make you fishers of men."

The Master's Joy. Why was Jesus such a happy man? Because He knew He was doing the Father's will. Jesus was so busy helping others that He even spent nights to commune with the Father. "These things have I spoken unto you that my joy may be in you and that your joy may be full." Jesus was so joyous because He knew the Father would never leave Him.

The Master's Trust. Jesus trusted in God. Suffering is sent to us to make us humble or teachable. To trust in God as Jesus did is possible only by Faith. Jesus said, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

The Master's Sincerity. Sincerity is a virtue we look for in others. It is the keystone without which life is not worth living. Jesus said, "The Father and I are one." Whatever Jesus said we can depend on. A heart that is sincere is always at rest.

The Master's Patience. Patience is greater than courage. Be patient even in little things for patience brings noble experiences. Jesus waited thirty years in the village of Nazareth. Did this require patience? God is long suffering. Jesus was infinitely patient.

The Master's Indignation. Jesus' indignation was kindled at injustice. Jesus never hurt anyone in His anger. He always looked past the evil in man and saw the good.

The Master's Restraint. Life is full with temptations. The disciples wanted Jesus to take the easy way. He was tempted, He had to make choices. He chose the way of the cross for you and me. Discipline today is broken down. Lack of self-restraint is causing the biggest tragedy.

The Master's Generosity. Get and give. The desire to get is fine, but the difficulty comes when we forget to share. We are only stewards. Jesus had no money to give, but He poured out His life. Jesus gave to friend and enemy alike. The nature of Jesus' Love is to keep on giving. The Samaritan did not ask, "Are you responsible for this?" He helped the wounded man.

The Master's Strength. The Master's life is an open book. Jesus was a leader and no one swayed Him. No one ever exerted the power that Jesus exercised by serving. He looked at and through the world, but His eyes were fixed on eternity.

Experiences of Delegates of First Mennonite C. E. Convention

by C. H. A. van der Smissen

In 1888 we sent delegates to the International C. E. Convention in Philadelphia. The meeting was held in the large Armory.

While the president of the convention, a pastor from Pittsburg, was speaking, someone in the audience began to clap. The president turned and saw that Dr. "C. E." Clark, the founder of C. E., had slipped in and was engaged in prayer. The president raised his hand, and a solemn silence fell on the assembly of two thousand. When Dr. Clark raised his head, the president gave the Chautauqua salute by waving his handkerchief. The whole assembly arose and did the same; this was better than clapping.

During the next session a speaker said, "And here are even the Mennonites with the broadbrimmed hat and the straightcut coat." Our delegates smiled. At the close of the meeting, V. d. S., who as a pastor had been seated on the platform, motioned to his delegates and then presented the Mennonite delegates without the broadbrimmed hat and the straightcut coat to Dr. Clark.

He said, "Are you Mennonites? I never saw any Mennonites without the peculiar garb."

V. d. S. said, "My forefathers have been 'baptist-minded' since 1468, when my forefather was on bloody Duke Alba's list of those to be beheaded the next day, but he was saved by a Spanish soldier. My father and grandfather were Mennonite pastors. In Germany no Mennonite, except the Amish, wore the 'garb.'" Then Dr. Clark was satisfied.

FOLLOW-UP NEEDED

A young pastor reports the case of A. L. Krause, of Ingersoll, Okla., who came to him requesting that the pastor keep in contact with him by sending peace literature, Conference camp information, etc. There is no Mennonite church or C. E. near Ingersoll.

Robert Kaufman, a young man now at Camp Robinson, he said, did not know enough about the Mennonite belief on conscientious objection. Shortly after baptism he moved from his home church, although membership was retained. He says he will not kill.

McPherson, Kansas

Dear Mr. Juhnke:

The gift of $13.80 made to us by the Young People's Committee of the General Conference, reached us today. We are therefore taking this means to convey to you and all those participating in this gift, our sincere thanks for the same. It came to us as a surprise but it is very pleasant to be thus surprised, especially since such a gift demonstrates to us, in a very real way, the fact that our Young People are interested in the cause of Missions and willing to do something for that cause.

We pray God's blessing upon you in the making of this and similar gifts and we also pray for God's wisdom and guidance upon us that we may use it worthily in His service.

Your Fellow Christian Workers,
Ruth and Harold Ratzlaff

BLUFFTON COLLEGE NOTES

Dr. Arthur E. Holt, Ph. D., LL. D., of the Department of Social Ethics at the Chicago Theological Seminary, has been chosen as the speaker for the Bluffton College Annual Commencement this spring.

Dr. Robbins W. Barstow, President of the Hartford Theological Seminary, recently spoke here at a college chapel service.

"The Bluffton College Student—His Privileges and Responsibilities" was the subject of discussion at College Church services on a recent Sunday evening.

Miss Edna Ramseyer, Bluffton College Dean of Women and home economics professor, spoke to a joint meeting of the college Y. W. and Y. M. on March 5. She told of her recent experiences with colony work in Southern France.

Robert Rumsey, field secretary of the American Friends Service Committee, was here and contacted students who might be interested in service camps.

Alvin Beachy, Fairfield, Pa., has been chosen president of the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Beachy has been assisting Rev. A. W. Geigley in his home church. Lucile Tschantz, Dalton, Ohio, was chosen president of the Y. W. C. A.

Dr. C. Henry Smith has recently sent to the press his sixth book on the Mennonites. This 800-page volume will cover the field of Mennonite history from Menno Simons to 1940.

AN EVENING OF RELIGIOUS POETRY

Ps. 107:1-8

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," No. 5; "We Praise Thee, O God, Our Redeemer," No. 15; "Still, Still With Thee," No. 23. (Songs Mennonite Hymnary).
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer.
3. Special music: "This is my Task."
4. Offering for Peace Work.

II. Leader's Introduction

Poetry belongs to those realms of life where we feel most deeply: love, sorrow, aspiration, struggle, and especially religion. Religious experience finds in poetry a fitting expression.

Hymns often are poems set to music. Some of the world's great religious poetry is to be found in the hymnbooks of our churches.

The Psalms of David and other men of God have left an indelible impress on the hearts and minds of Christians of all ages. They are a strong connecting link between the church of the past and the present, between black Christians and yellow and white ones. They speak in a language which is universally understood. Likewise many songs.

If poetry were taken from us, how barren life would be.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. A bit of epic poetry	Num. 23:7-10
2. Excerpt from an epic idyl	Ruth 1:16, 17
3. David's lamentation	II Sam. 1:17-27
4. Psalm of the redeemed	Rev. 19:1-6
5. A classical elegy	Psalm 137

IV. Facts for Study

Among the best books of modern poetry are "The World's Great Religious Poetry" compiled by Caroline Miles Hill and "Quotable Poems" by Thomas Curtis Clark. Edgar Guest's books are also fine, and well known. There are many others—a new one some of you might be interested in for the "message" which the poems bring—"Victory Poems" by Clifford Lewis.

No one should deprive his life of the enrichment of knowing by heart some of the beautiful Psalms: 23, 19, 103, 27, 100, 91, 90, 121, 133, and 42. Repeating one of these, or some other bit of fine poetry during the work of the day takes away its drabness, and will make the outlook on daily life and the world about you more spiritual. It's worth the effort it takes. It makes for growth of the soul, and well-being of the spirit.

V. For Discussion

1. Which are your favorite Bible passages of poetry?
2. What does poetry offer us in a richer measure than prose?
3. Is it more likely that vision and insight into great truths are expressed better in poetry than in prose, or vice versa? How about deep emotions?

VI. Illustration

This poem has found its way into one of the above-mentioned books.

The Poet

A poet lived in Galilee
Whose mother dearly loved Him—
And His beauty like a cooling tree
Drew many people to Him.
    He loved the speech of simple men
    And little children's laughter;
    He came, they always came again,
    He went—they followed after.
He had sweet-hearted things to say,
And He was solemn only
When people were unkind . . . that day:
He'd stand there straight and lonely
    And tell them what they ought to do;
    "Love other folk," he pleaded.
    "As you love me and I love you!"
    But almost no one heeded.
A poet died in Galilee,
They stared at Him and slew Him. . . .
What would they do to you and me
If we should say we knew Him?

VII. Food for Thought

Poets are prophets of the soul.

PLANNING OUR LIFE WORK AS CHRISTIANS

For Daily Reading:

Apr. 28 God has a plan, Acts 2:1-22.
Apr. 29 Man should follow, Acts 26:9-20
Apr. 30 The Mission of Christ, Isa. 1:1-3.
May 1 Actively working, Phil. 2:12-16.
May 2 The spirit of service, Eph. 6:1-8.
May 3 Reward of faithful service, Matt. 25:14-30.
May 4 Topic, Matt. 2:1-16.

Aim: "To lead to a discovery of one's place in the world and the type of work which one is best able to do."

Call to Worship: Whosoever would become great among you shall be your minister; and whosoever would be first among you shall be your servant: even as the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many. Matt. 20:26-28.

Scripture Reading: Matt. 2:1-16.

Sentence Prayers: Let us pray that God will increase our desire to find our place in the world. Let us thank God for the opportunity of becoming useful members of society. Let us thank God for the chance to contribute to the happiness of those we love through work. Let us ask God to help us to ever keep service as our motive.

Song: "Serve the Lord in the Days of Youth."

Quotations: The law of nature is that a certain quantity of work is necessary to produce a certain quantity of good of any kind whatsoever. If you want knowledge, you must toil for it; if food, you must toil for it; and if pleasure, you must toil for it.—Ruskin.

All men, if they work not as in the great taskmaster's eye, will work wrong, work unhappily for themselves and you. —Carlyle.

Song: "Purer Yet and Purer."

Discussion:

1. How can Christian young people find that work which they will enjoy doing?
2. What new fields of work are open for youth today?
3. What things must we consider in choosing our work?
4. What should be our chief motive in the selection of our work?
5. When should we select our work in order to prepare properly?

Offering and announcements.

Mizpah Benediction.

JUNIOR DEPARTMENT

PAUL, A GREAT MAN OF GOD

May 4—Paul and his Friends.

"By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another." John 13:35.

May 11—Mother's Day.

"Children, obey your parents in all things: for this is well pleasing unto the Lord." Col. 3:20.

May 18—Paul and his Miracles.

"He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto my Father." John 14:12.

May 25—Paul, a Prisoner.

"I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day." Acts 23:1.

Song for the month: "Blest be the Tie That Binds."

Verse for the month: "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." Phil. 4:13.

Prayer for the month: "As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after Thee, O God." Ps. 42:1.

Program for May 4, 1941

PAUL AND HIS FRIENDS

"By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another." John 13:15.

I. Worship Service

1. Prelude: Handel's "Largo" by the pianist.
2. Call to worship: "O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt His name together. O taste and see that the Lord is good: blessed is the man that trusteth in Him."
3. All Juniors stand and sing, "Come, Thou Almighty King."
4. Scripture reading by a Junior boy: Philippians 1:1-8.
5. Leader's Prayer.
6. Reading of the song, "Blest be the Tie that Binds," silently while the pianist plays the melody very softly.
7. A short talk by an older person, using the above song as the theme.
8. All stand and sing this song.
9. Poem, by a Junior girl.
10. Duet: "Somebody Did a Golden Deed."

II. Study Period

Aim: To help our Juniors to realize that the friendship of Christians is the very best, because of their mutual love to our Lord Jesus Christ.

1. Ask the Juniors to give the name of some one who is associated with Paul.
2. Two-minute talks by four Juniors.
   a. Barnabas, the friend who introduced Paul—Acts 14:12; Acts 11:24; Acts 4:36; Acts 4:37; Acts 9:27.
   b. Silas, Paul's companion—Acts 15:40 to 21:17; Acts 16:37; Acts 16:19.
   c. Timothy, the "beloved son"—1 Tim. 1:2; 2 Tim. 1:2; Phil. 2:19-23; 1 Cor. 4:17; 2 Tim. 4:9; Acts 17:14; Acts 18:5; Acts 20:4.
   d. Luke, the doctor who journeyed with Paul—Acts 16:8-10; Philemon 24; Col. 4:14; 2 Tim. 4:11.
3. Song: "The Best of Friends I have in Heaven."
4. The Story of Aquila and Priscilla, by a Junior girl. Acts 18:2, 19; Rom. 16:3; 1 Cor. 16:19; Acts 18:26.
5. The Story of Paul's Nephew and how he helped his Uncle, told by a Junior girl. Acts 23:12-22.
6. "Paul loves his friends and prays much for them." Let all Juniors find passages which prove the above statement.
7. A moment of silent prayer for our friends.

III. Mission Minutes

Discuss: "How can we be friends to our missionaries?"

By knowing their names.
By knowing where they labor.
By praying for them.
By writing to them.
By giving gifts for them and for their work.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Memorize the verse for the month, Philippians 4:13.
2. Sing the song for the month, "Blest Be the Tie."
3. Read the prayer for the month, Psalm 42:1. (Leader, in a few sentences, help the Juniors to understand this).
4. Benediction, Hebrews 13:20, 21.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE SWIFT CURRENT BIBLE SCHOOL

rict, Rev. Bahnmann was transferred to British Columbia. Rev. Klassen also moved to B. C. to minister to the church at Yarrow.

In August, 1938, Bro. Isaac Epp of Waldheim, Sask., was asked to take over the principalship of the Bible School and to do other Home Mission work, succeeding Rev. Bahnmann. After surveying his new field of service for about a month, he was ordained to the ministry and got established in the work. His assistants were Rev. V. E. Nickel, of Wymark, and Bro. W. L. Rempel of Swift Current. On Oct. 29, 1938, the school was opened for its third successive year with a student body of 16. No help was granted from the Conferences, except the support of two workers. Students were required to pay $7.50 per month for tuition, board and room in order to finance the work. In addition the school received approximately $240.00 from interested friends, thus making the work possible.

In the summer of 1939, again with the financial support of some $1800.00 from the General Conference, a dormitory was built, which also serves as a parsonage. Many C. E. Societies in the United States have contributed to this undertaking. The dormitory is built alongside of the church which houses the Bible School. It is 24 x 32 feet in size, with an apartment for the principal or minister and his family, eight rooms for students (two to one room) and two bathrooms. It is equipped with electric lights and running water.

On Oct. 29, 1939, the Bible School launched out into another year of work with 26 students, who were instructed by Rev. Isaac Epp and Rev. J. J. Doerksen, of Herbert, Sask. Owing to war conditions the students' fees were raised from $7.50 to $9.00 a month for tuition, board and room.

Every year in the month of July students who have attended the School find practical work in teaching Daily Vacation Bible Schools. In 1940 there were 27 workers who taught in 13 districts reaching some 306 children with the Gospel.

The fifth school year was started on Oct. 27, 1940. Latest reports tell of 25 to 30 students. Since Rev. Isaac Epp was transferred to the Rosthern Bible School, the Swift Current School is under the principalship of Rev. J. J. Doerksen with Brother Paul Schroeder, of Drake, Sask., assisting.

The Swift Current Bible School offers a two-year Bible Course providing for a general knowledge of the Bible and for an essential amount of preparation for Christian service. Students are encouraged to take part in work in their communities, such as Sunday School, Summer Bible School, C. E. work, personal soulwinning, and assisting in worship services.

The Lord has blessed the School in its efforts. Already fruits are in evidence for which we are glad. The mission field in the Swift Current district is a large and needy one. If workers can be trained and sent into their own districts, we may expect a bounteous harvest. —Rev. Isaac Epp

IN MEMORIAM

A SAD TRAGEDY

On March 15, Henry Friesen and Jacob Hoffman went to Devil's Lake, which is about 38 miles from the Hoffman farm. On returning, they were a few miles from the Hoffman home, when a terrible snow storm broke out, about 6:30 p. m. They succeeded in reaching their driveway, about a fourth of a mile from the house. They remained in the car, hoping that the storm would let up. The car, a model A Ford, was without heater, so they were soon chilled through and through. Then they decided to try to reach the house. As they left the car, Mr. Friesen said, "We will never make it." In a short time they came within a short distance of the house. Jacob Hoffman told them that they were too far south as he could hear the wind among the trees directly west of the house. Henry Friesen and Mrs. Hoffman did not believe him, and did not want to let him go. They wanted to die together. Jacob then on hands and knees, proceded in that direction where he thought the house was, and found it shortly. He changed clothes, looked after the fire, and set a lamp in the window. He then hunted for the others, but without results. So he went to Harders, their neighbors, about half a mile distant, to get help. Mr. Harder accompanied him back to continue the search. Mrs. Harder called the neighbors by phone for help. When they arrived, the bodies had been found and first the child and then the others were carried into the house. Death had already claimed its victims. Those present were now worried about Jacob, as he needed the care of a physician, his face and hands being badly frozen. Sunday night, March 16, the first snow plow went through, bringing both the doctor and undertaker. The Lord spoke definitely to our community. May we heed His voice.

The funeral service for the three was held March 20. Since the church was too small for the large crowd, it was held in the Community Hall, which was filled to capacity. At the Friesen home, Rev. Ortman spoke words of comfort from Phil. 1:21.

At the Hoffman home, Rev. Guenther based his remarks on Is. 55:8-9; Jer. 29:11. Then the funeral trains met on the highway and arrived in town together. At the Hall Rev. Fadenrecht opened the service by reading Ps. 90. Rev. Walter made some remarks on 1 Cor. 15. Rev. Duerksen based his message on Rev. 14:13. Rev. Ortman made the close and read the obituaries. The Bible School furnished the music. They also sang Mr. Friesen's favorite hymn, "A Beautiful Life." —Sent in by Rev. Helmuth Ortman

Editor's Note—For the benefit of distant readers, names should always be given in full. Locally it does not matter so much.

ELIZABETH RINGS KREBILL, daughter of Christian and Elizabeth Rings, was born April 6, 1860, in Lee County, Iowa. She received her education in the schools of the community. At an early age she was baptized and received into the membership of the Zion Mennonite Church. August 30, 1883, she was united in marriage to F. H. Krebill, the father of three children, Albert D., Edwin J., and Clara. Clara preceded her in death.

Soon after their marriage they made their home on a farm northwest of Donnellson, where they lived until 1916 when they moved to town. She passed out of this life on March 19, 1941, at the age of 80 years, 11 months, and 13 days.

This union was blessed with seven children: Mrs. Lottie L. Lowenberg, Otto C., Emma L., of Donnellson; Mrs. Lizzie M. Neff, of Mt. Pleasant; Elmer H., of Billings, Montana; and Wm. F., of Davenport. A son, Milton, died in infancy. She is also survived by 27 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren. In 1928 her husband preceded her in death. A sister, Mrs. Theodore Hirschler, also preceded her in death.

Mrs. Krebill was a very active member of the Mennonite Church. She was also deeply interested in the work of the W. C. T. U. Her true religious life and influence will ever be stepping stones to a better and higher endeavor to live lives consistent to the memory of a devoted mother, grandmother, and great grandmother. Her daughter Emma was with her constantly and did everything that human hands could do.

Funeral services were held from the home and from the Zion Mennonite Church, Friday afternoon, March 21, conducted by Rev. Adolf Friesen. A mixed quartet sang the hymns, "Abide with Me" at the home; and "He Leadeth Me" and "Father, Lead Me Day by Day" at the church. The body was laid to rest in the Mennonite cemetery.

BERNHARD P. FROESE was born March 22, 1878, one mile northeast of Buhler, Kansas. He departed this life, March 29, 1941, at 1:20 p. m. He reached the age of 63 years and 7 days.

His early years were spent in the home of his parents, who brought him up in the fear and admonition of the Lord. Bernhard attended the elementary and preparatory schools. He always had a happy disposition; but soon realized that his life must have depth. When several young people in the community were converted, Bernhard was one of them, having found peace for his soul and accepted Jesus as his Savior. Upon confession of faith he was baptized, Aug. 15, 1897, and accepted as a member of the Hebron congregation.

October 30, 1900, he was united in marriage with Sarah Franz, who ten months ago preceded him in death. For 40 years they were permitted to share joys and sorrows. At one time they lived near Hooker, Okla. After that they lived in and near Buhler.

He strove in all his dealings to be conscientious and honest. It often caused him great sorrow that he had lived so lightly spiritually; nevertheless he had the conviction that his Savior had forgiven his transgressions and that he was saved by grace, and was ready to meet his Savior face to face.

His favorite hymns were: "What a friend we have in Jesus," and "My Jesus, I love thee, I know thou art mine."

Mr. Froese had been ailing for several years. He had high blood pressure and a weak heart. When kidney poisoning set in, he was willing to surrender himself to the will of the Savior.

He leaves to mourn his departure, his daughter Emma, Mrs. John H. Peters; a son-in-law, John H. Peters; two grandchildren, Victor and Leatrice; four brothers, A. P. Froese, Buhler, David Froese, Hutchinson, Peter Froese, Buhler, and Jacob Froese, Inman; two sisters, Mrs. Adolf Janzen, Orland, Calif., and Mrs. P. H. Adrian, Buhler. Two brothers, John and Cornelius, preceded him in death.

The funeral services were conducted by Rev. T. A. van der Smissen of the Hebron Church. Rev. Jacob P. Balzer of Inman assisted. The body was laid to rest in the Hebron cemetery.

LINDA MARIE REGIER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Regier, of Elbing, Kansas, was born February 5, 1911, and grew up under the influence of her Christian home and surroundings. She received her elementary and high school education in Elbing and Whitewater, and also had the privilege of attending Vacation Bible School.

Upon receiving catechetical instruction, she was baptized on June 5, 1927, by Rev. H. J. Dyck, and received into the Zion Mennonite Church of Elbing. The Bible verse given her at that time was Isaiah 43:1: "Fear not; for I have redeemed thee, I have called thee by thy name; thou art mine." Being musically inclined, she used her talent in church work which she greatly enjoyed.

On October 17, 1935, she was married to Gustav H. Regier, by Rev. H. J. Dyck, who used as text Phil. 4:19: "But my God shall supply all your need, according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus." They made their home on a farm southeast of Newton. On February 2, 1936, she joined the First Mennonite Church of Newton.

In her new home she showed a great interest in her work at all times. On December 3, 1937, the home was brightened with a baby boy, Herman Paul, but this joy lasted only fourteen months, when the Lord called him back to be with Him, on January 30, 1939. On November 18, 1939, this joy was renewed, but the Lord also took this one out of this dark world. On March 15, 1941, the Lord gave another son, Maurice Lee, in whom she had great joy for eleven days. She planned to come home, but the Lord's ways were otherwise. Twelve days before she passed away, she told her mother, "If it is God's will, I am ready to go."

On March 26 she was suddenly stricken with pulmonary embolism while sitting in a chair, and passed away about thirty minutes later. In her last moments she mentioned three times, "Let me come to Thee, Jesus," and fell asleep peacefully.

She passed away at the age of 30 years, 1 month, and 21 days. She leaves to mourn, her deeply bereaved husband Gustav H. Regier, and infant son, Maurice Lee; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Regier, of Elbing, and Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Regier, of Newton; four sisters, Mrs. George Quenzer, Mrs. Willie Klingenberg, Mrs. Stanley Wedel, and Mrs. Albert Quenzer, and their families of near Elbing; and two brothers, Robert and Walter Regier of the home. Funeral services were conducted Saturday afternoon, March 29, with Rev. J. E. Entz in charge at both the home and the church. At the home a quartet sang two numbers. Rev. H. J. Dyck, assisted in the rites at the church. Music was furnished by the Young People's Choir of the First Mennonite Church, and Mrs. Cecil Pankratz of Whitewater. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery under the direction of Duff and Son.

THE TOWER IN THE FOG

Let your light so shine.—Matthew 5:16

A heavy fog was drifting in from the lake, shrouding the Loop district of Chicago with a gray gloom. The neon signs shone through in a strange pink color, dimmed by the mist. The night crowds picked their way over wet pavements, and the taxi drivers were proceeding with unusual caution.

But high above the dripping streets the spire of the famous Chicago Temple stood out like a gleaming finger, lighted by the powerful lamps that etch it against the night-sky year in and year out. "The tallest steeple in the world" is a landmark in Chicago, a memorial to the courageous Methodists who have kept their spiritual vigil in the heart of the city for many generations.

Thousands of people, hurrying through the night, never saw the gleaming steeple. Their eyes were on the muddy and slippery pavements.

Now, keeping one's eyes on the walk is highly important, especially in Chicago, but it is possible to miss steeples by looking at nothing but muddy pavements.

Most of us know people who go all the way through life and never see the beauty of God over their heads because their time and minds are occupied with the mud under their feet. They never see the loveliness of a sky because they are thinking about the price of hogs. They never feel the thrill of great music because they are unable to appreciate any sound save that of the cash register. . . .

The man who plans his whole week without making room in it for an hour or more when he can look up and see steeples has mismanaged his life. This is the chief value of the Sabbath day—it is the one great chance of the week really to look up.

"But Sunday morning is the only time in all the week when I have a chance to do my mending, get my cleaning done, and catch up with my correspondence," said a young secretary, busy in the office five and a half days in the week.

And Sunday morning was the only chance she had all week for looking up at great ideas, great inspirations, and great faith. It was her one chance to hear an inspiring sermon, thrilling music, and earnest prayers. At no other time in the week could she see the light coming through stained-glass windows, or hear the sweet voices of children singing their hymns of praise.

On the most dreary highways of life one can always see some lighted steeple, if he will only look up! —Roy L. Smith, Sidewalk Sermons in "The Christian Advocate"

—The Annual Christian Bible Conference of Newton, Kansas, will be held in the city auditorium during the week of April 13. Dr. William Houghton, president of the Moody Bible Institute, is the speaker. On Easter Sunday Dr. Houghton is scheduled to deliver the message at the morning worship service in the First Mennonite Church, of Newton.

—From THE HERALD of the First Mennonite Church of Upland, California: Special meetings will be held the week of April 13 to 20 every evening, except Saturday, beginning at 7 o'clock. Our speaker will be Dr. D. W. Kurtz of LaVerne, widely known preacher, lecturer, and educator. He will give two addresses each evening, first, a series of expositions of the parables of Jesus, followed, after a period of singing, by a sermon. Dr. Kurtz was a member of the National Preaching mission a few years ago.

—The California C. E. and S. S. Convention will be held at Reedley, Calif., May 2 to 4; and the Pacific District Conference, at Dallas, Oregon, May 15 to 18.

—A CHANGE OF ADDRESS: Rev. P. E. Whitmer, for many years pastor of the Grace Church, Pandora, Ohio, advises that after May 1, 1941, their address will be 245 Grove Street, Bluffton, Ohio.

—Charles Clayton Morrison of Chicago says, "Mr. F. D. Roosevelt's place in history is at stake in his decision as to Peace or WAR. The public must now speak. Roosevelt must now hear the voice of the people." He suggests that every citizen send a post card to the President, saying respectfully but clearly and insistently, "Mr. President, you have promised that no American boy is to be sent into any foreign war. Mr. President, we expect you to keep that promise." Will YOU READERS do your part in this cause? Send a penny post card at once and in a few weeks another one.

—A two weeks' series of evangelistic meetings at the Vaughnsville (Ohio) Christian church were conducted by the Rev. P. A. Kliewer, pastor of the Ebenezer Mennonite Church. Rev. E. A. Riley is pastor of the church. —Sent in —The "Workers' Exchange" in a report on the work of the Migrant Camp lists these interesting facts: The Camp Management in the Federal Camp have given us the use of the large Center Building for our Sunday morning services. This building has been used by the Adventist people heretofore. Our record attendance is 176. An outstanding answer to our prayers is the organization of a Young Peoples' class in Sunday School, of the ages of 16-24. We are much burdened for our young people. A large per cent have no high school education. They have little to look forward to. We find many little mothers only 16 or 18 years old, with two and three babies. Pray for these young people in a very definite way.

—Mrs. Fretz, wife of the Rev. A. M. Fretz, aged pastor of the Bethel Mennonite Church, of Perkasie, Penn., is a patient at Jeaunes Hospital at Fox Chase, where she underwent a serious operation. This is one of a series of operations she has undergone in a few years. Their many friends will sympathize with them in this trouble. —Corr.

—Emmaus Menn. Church, near Whitewater, Kansas. Dr. David Toevs brought us an inspiring message based on Gen. 22:7, "The Offering of Isaac." On March 30, Miss Justina Schmidt, a returned missionary from Africa under the Sudan Interior Mission, spoke to our Christian Endeavor. We were all richly blessed by the message. The supreme purpose of this mission is to win souls for Christ, and should this not be the purpose for every Christian? Dr. E. G. Kaufman, president of Bethel College, delvered an inspiring message in our morning worship service, April 6. In the evening he presented a Mission plan to the Swiss and our Christian Endeavors. On April 11, our choir will render the cantata, "The Dawn of Easter," directed by Mrs. Gus Dyck. —Corr.

—The Mennonite Hymnary. The Newport, Washington Church has purchased four dozen of the new hymn books and "are we proud of them." They have lengthened their prayer meeting one half hour and are using that time to get acquainted with the books. The Upland Church has ordered one-hundred fifty copies of the hymn book for church use, as well as some extra copies for home use.

—"The Seven Last Words" by Dubois, was again sung by the Bethel College A Cappella Choir, on Palm Sunday, to large appreciative audiences. At 3:00 p. m. the rendition took place in the College Chapel, and at 8:00 p. m., in the First Mennonite Church, Newton, Kansas.

—We are sorry to hear that Dr. P. R. Schroeder, of Mountain Lake, Minnesota, is again ill in the hospital. May the Lord restore his health to him so that he may continue in His service.

—Dr. E. L. Harshbarger who is well known in General Conference as well as in all Mennonite circles is still a patient at Bethel Hospital, Newton, Kansas, seriously ill. He has for years been active in peace activities, the ministry which is so important at this time. May he be on the road to health soon.

—Miss Marie J. Regier, missionary to China where conditions are very uncertain, writes: "If God should see fit to ease us out of here sooner or later, no doubt there are plenty of other places where Christ has not been named. Besides, I sometimes wonder whether God's point in having us here isn't for our sake as much as for the Chinese. Perhaps He wants us to experience Him with and among the Chinese so as to help our own spiritual growth and that of our brethren in the homeland."

Dr. Pannabecker's Christmas Letter

The following is a Christmas letter written by Dr. C. L. Pannabecker and family, Kai Chow, Hopei, China, November 18, 1940:

As you may surmise Danny, nine months old Dec. 3, is the center of our family life this year. He was born in Peking last March. After nearly a year's separation of Lelia and the children from home at Kaichow, we all returned the first of June.

The C. L. Pannabecker Family
Anita Mrs. Lelia P. Dr. Lloyd P.
Donnie Dannie Betty Jean

We spent a delightful, though busy, summer at Kaichow. You can imagine after being away from home for a year how many things one would want to do; unpacking, sorting, cleaning—that was what Mother did. The girls, Betty Jean (13) and Anita (10), couldn't wait to get out their old dolls, books and things, and even Donnie (4) found things he remembered from former days and was quite a bother pestering Daddy to fix his old cart and scooter. The hospital work ever increasing, with a new building going up and the other doctors on vacation, more than kept Daddy busy.

With summer over the girls start school with the Ewert children and Alice Ruth—six altogether—Betty Jean in the eighth grade and Anita in the fifth, Donnie in the kindergarten with Grace Joan and Philip. Mother and Mrs. Ewert do the teaching and Miss Davis has the kindergarten children.

A year ago we were quite concerned over Lelia's health. The rest last year seemed to be just what she needed. She improved nicely during the winter, by spring was quite normal and by early summer we felt well able to return home. She has been doing regular work this year and feels and looks as well as ever. Our family has been well this year and we realize they are growing up. Next year we expect Betty Jean will go away to High School and Anita is only three years behind her.

Last year we spent Christmas in Peking. This year we are glad to be together at home and expect a happy Christmas here. We wish our friends also a Merry Christmas.

A DREAM COME TRUE

A year ago we reported building two new wards and plans for a new two-story building. The dream has now come true; it materialized first in piles of brick, sand, lime and lumber scattered around the yard. During the spring and summer it took on the form of a building, operating room, laboratory, offices, guest rooms, on the first floor, a large class room and single rooms on the second floor, and a large third floor store room. The dream has become a building, but it still remains for the building to become a hospital. After all, no amount of brick and lime even with complete modern equipment alone can make a hospital. We are anxious to move in, to use it and see if we cannot supply the spark of life which will make it really a life saving and life giving institution, useful in God's service, in healing the sick and training workers to serve them.

Every impulse and stroke of missionary power on earth is from the heart of Christ. He sows, and there is a harvest. He touches nations, and there arises a brotherhood, not only civilized by His light, but sanctified by His love. The isles of the ocean wait for Him. He spreads His net and gathers of every kind, and lo! the burden of the sea is not only fishes, but fishermen, who go and gather and come again. If there are activity, free giving, ready going, a full treasury, able men who say, "Here am I, send me," it is because through all the organization Christ lives, and His personal Spirit works. There is no other possible spring for that enthusiasm. —Bish. Huntington

THE REV. P. R. SCHROEDER GONE HOME

On Monday morning, April 14 last, Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, President of the General Conference, received a telegram, conveying the sad news that Dr. P. R. Schroeder of Mountain Lake, Minn., had passed away at 8:20 a. m., and that funeral services were to be held Friday. Brother Schroeder had suffered a great deal the last couple of years from an intestinal ailment, but was again in active service as pastor of the Bethel Church in Mt. Lake.

Dr. Schroeder was widely and favorably known throughout the General Conference. He was born in Mountain Lake, Aug. 22, 1988. He was married to Susie T. Nickel, and they have four daughters, one of whom, Mrs. Orlando Waltner, is a missionary in China. Starting out as a home mission worker, Rev. Schroeder next served the large Mennonite church at Berne, Ind., as its pastor for sixteen years; as president and instructor of Freeman Junior College eight years; as pastor of the Salem Church near Freeman, S. D., ten years. Last year he started to serve his home (Bethel) Church, Mountain Lake, Minn. He was president of the General Conference six years, and attended the world congress of Mennonites in Holland in 1937, as its delegate. He was also a member of the Board of Education.

The bereaved family has our heartfelt sympathy.

WITNESSES

Ella G. Bauman, M. D.

It was raining and nine o'clock at night. Instead of waiting for a call, I went to see the feverish child we admitted that day. Thanks to my noisless shoes no one heard me coming through the long corridor. The boy in quest was at the fartherest end of the hall. The mother and her four children were in the room. The eldest was very ill and the second youngest also was a patient due to improper nourishment (weight sixteen pounds at two years). The children were all asleep and the mother was bending over the feverish one praying aloud. It was worth the trip through the rain to see the witness of that mother. She is literate but not an outstanding person in her community.

At the same time just outside the room on the porch the night nurse was telling the people about Jesus Christ. Among the group of listeners was a leader of his caste, a Ramramlya. As a sign of his holiness and loyalty he had the name of Ram tattooed very densely over his whole body. His clothes also had the name printed on them, even the umbrella was not missed. The work of the nurse too was encouraging and I returned to the bungalo with a prayer of thanksgiving in my heart. The next morning the child was definitely better and the mother had a happy look on her face. —From "India Calls"

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

RELIGION AND THE HOME

(Condensed from an article written by George E. Buttrick)

Religion and the home is everybody's concern, for every home shapes every home. "Children are the hope of the new age" say a thousand preachers and think it is a bright saying. Actually it is not bright but somewhat "dumb." For children are children and therefore in some sense helpless. A child is shaped by older folk. It would be truer to say that older folk in their dealings with children are the hope (or despair) of the new age.

As a character forming agency the home has no rival. Parents plead sometimes almost frantically with their ministers: "Can't you do something for my Billy?" The minister must be polite. Politeness sometimes cancels honesty. Perhaps honesty would answer, "My dear Mrs. Whoozit, fifty hours at home pulling one way or all ways, and one hour in church—the odds are somewhat unequal."

The chances are that if real religion is not taught and caught in the home, it may never be caught. The mind of Jesus was saturated with the Bible because of His home training.

Let us freely admit the past faults of the Sunday School, but it is doubtful if the S. S. itself is the main cause of its own decline. Just as six days of work each week in a false climate will ultimately destroy one hour of worship, however kindling, so fifty hours in an indifferent home will quench the meaning of one hour in a church school.

The father of a now famous minister in New York said that seventy-five percent of parents are a liability. When the listner protested he said, "I should have said eighty-five precent." They take training for many things, but none to build a home. The child, these parents agree, may not choose the air he breathes, infectious or healthful, not the food he eats, rancid or pure, nor the books he reads, frenzied or free. But he may choose his religion—as you would a necktie. And the result? The faith that is not supplied by the home is supplied, after a fashion, by the movies or the street corner gang. Or the child assumes that something that can go by default for twenty years is not worth choosing.

Sometimes parents feel that Bible teaching can only be done by highly educated psychologists. In any event, no psychologist can replace a good father and mother. Moreover, religion as it should be taught in the home, can be learned in far less time than is now given to the movies. Old Testament religion was a home affair as was also the New Testament. When religion comes into the home preaching will have a new grip, the S. S. a new birth, and the blotshot world Christian hope and health.

Do It Now

By Rev. R. L. Hartzler

The national administration has scored another victory in its "aid to Britain" policy. The "lend-lease" bill has been passed; and now the president can play his hand, almost as he pleases, in the world's most unwarrented and ever-widening conflict. Will this mean our imminent or ultimate involvement in the war to the extent of active participation? We do not know. Certainly we are much more involved right now than any one would have supposed we would be at this time, only a little over four months after the last election, on the basis of the assurances given in the campaign speeches preceding that election.

If the assurances, given by the administration forces during the debate on the above-mentioned measure, mean as little as the campaign assurances apparently did, we may find ourselves at almost any juncture launched into an undeclared war, and the fact construed as a mere exercise of executive power, as conferred by the passage of H. R. 1776.

But whether it will mean actual and active warfare or not, one thing is certain and that is that the national treasury is going to be put to an additional terrific strain. Already an appropriation has been asked for, to carry out the provisions of the bill. This, it must be remembered, is an addition to an appropriation of almost two and one-half times as much for our own defense program. This means that the government must initiate a money-raising campaign the like of which we have never seen in this country. That will be the next major proposition to be considered by the present Congress.

How will it be done? Taxation is, of course, the government's chief money-raising arm, but it dare not at this time impose a set of exactions sufficient to raise the stupendous amount needed. To do so would materially "cool off" the war fever which the administration has so adroitly contrived to stimulate and mature. So other methods must come in for consideration and adoption. Of these, two are most often proposed by treasury officials,—defense bonds and war savings stamps to be purchased by the people, thus turning their reserves and savings into the promotion of the armament program.

In making public mention of these methods the secretary of the treasury took pains to stipulate that the purchase of such bonds would be voluntary on the part of citizens; and that, while local committees would be appointed to promote the sale of them, persons were not to be subjected to pressure, as was done in many cases in 1917-18. Wether or not the administration is particularly averse to the use of such pressure, if it brings money we do not know; but it is at least highly expedient just now to present the matter as a purely voluntary proposition; so far as the individual citizen is concerned. To do otherwise would bring another reaction which the administration does not want at this time.

But this mild-mannered presentation of the matter may easily be taken too seriously by those who would be expected to purchase such bonds, when the sale of them is in process of promotion. During the former World War it was not the policy of the adminstration that local, self-appointed committees of super-patriots (?) should use high-handed measures in dealing with their fellows; but such resorts to pressure methods were not uncommon, nevertheless. Moreover, the person who tried to appeal for legal recognition and defense of his rights as a citizen only added to his difficulties. So, while the adminstration may at this time really intend to make the purchase of the proposed defense bonds optional, the fact in itself does not guarantee that the individual will find himself in a position really to exercise his own pleasure in the matter, as he might now suppose.

Moreover, with the powers which the president now holds, should the sale of such bonds lag and the receips fall far below what was expected, he may at his discretion precipitate a crisis which will mean the outbreak of hostilities between our armed forces and an enemy (?), and the purchase of defense bonds become thereafter as little a matter of choice as in 1917-18.

So it all comes around to this, that the time for people who have means that they would rather see invested for the Lord than for war,—the time for them to make such investment is now. When the government comes along with a "must," whether declared or undeclared, it will then be too late to be able to say where the money shall go. Do you have investments in mortgages, stocks, or bonds? Do you hold certificates of savings or deposits? Do you have a reserve neatly tucked away in a safety deposit box? Would you rather see those means go to help save men's lives in the spirit of Christ, than to destroy them in the carnage of war? If so, now is the time for you to turn them to some phase of Kingdom service. If you wait, you may find yourself obliged to give or loan your means for a purpose which your soul abhors, and may then wish with deep feeling that your money could go to a nobler purpose, but find yourself without the privilege of choice in the matter. The time to make Mammon serve Christ, and not Mars (war) is now. And let no one presume that he has securily covered the amount of his holdings, for the government has some wonderfully effective ways of finding out."

In view of all this, our church institutions and programs of service should now receive such grants of material resources as they never realized before. Our hospitals, colleges, missions, and programs of civilian service need financial resources totaling hundreds of thousands of dollars. The money is now in the hands

by Lester Hostetler

APRIL 26—"I have called you friends." v. 15—Read John 15:11-21.

To be a Christian is to have an intimate relationship with Christ. We are not to remember Him only as a person who lived 2000 years ago, a great teacher, who left a set of commandments to be kept and then departed. He is all this but much more. Christ is a present, living Friend. He abides with us, if we let Him in, day by day. He shares our joys and sorrows and guides us in all the little and great doings of our lives. He is the truest of all friends and never forsakes us or lets us down. To know His friendship is to keep life perpetually fresh and interesting. His is the transforming friendship, to know which is life eternal.

APRIL 27—"My Father worketh hitherto, and I work." v. 17—Read John 5:17-24.

There are divine values in work we sometimes forget. Like friendship, work is one of the elements that keeps life fresh and interesting. The purpose of it is far greater than to make a living; it is to make a life. Jesus worked and God works. Without work we cannot be followers of Christ. His meat was to do the will of Him that sent Him. He blessed little children, opened the eyes of the blind, healed the sick, ministered to the needs of people constantly. Often when weary and tired, He refreshed Himself with more work. It is a great privilege to share the work of God. It puts us in vital union with Him and with Christ. Pray that we may be more zealous in our work, not alone for the good we may do for the world, but for the good that comes to us in the doing of it.

APRIL 28—"Take therefore no thought for the morrow: for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." v. 34—Read Matt. 6:24-34.

Jesus gave much attention to the subject of worry. It is because the people He met daily were not as happy as they had a right to be. They worried about all manner of things just as we do. They were anxious about their health, their money, their future, their reputation, their job. Most worry is needless. In the majority of cases the things we fear never happen. And as for the rest, we usually find that we are able to meet them. God has His way of helping us, and our anxieties only spoil His plans. Jesus was never in a hurry; He never was anxious about the future; He never lacked trust in God's goodness. Following Him, we find the cure of all our cares.

APRIL 29—"Take heed and beware of covetousness: for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of things which he possesseth." v. 15—Read Luke 12:13-21.

Money, whether we have much or little, presents some of our greatest problems. It is no wonder, therefore, that Jesus had much to say regarding it. The dangers of money are (1) that it becomes an end in itself, and (2) that it gives a false sense of security. The rich fool in the parable thought he had nothing to fear from any quarter. He was mistaken. That night he was confronted with death. His money had not made him secure against death, neither had it equipped him to meet death. Trust in riches keeps us from dependence upon God through which alone we find our true peace and freedom.

APRIL 30—"Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee." v. 6—Read Acts 3:1-11.

God never asks of us what we haven't got. But He wants us to give what we have. It is pleasant but not always profitable to talk about all the good we would do if we had a million dollars. We would endow a college, build a hospital, support missions on a grand scale. If we were President, we would wipe out corruption, stop injustice, and punish the wrongdoers. But we haven't a million dollars and we are not President and our dream remains a dream. It is better to forget imaginary wealth and power and to make sure we use what we have. And all of us have something—a mind, a home, a circle of friends. We do not have a million but we have a dollar. Let us use what we have to a good purpose, consecrate our minds to unselfish planning, make of our home a place where God and the church are central, and fill our relationships to others with kindness and generosity. What I have that I give.

MAY 1—"Thou God seest me." Genesis 16:13.

The words of the text, is the name that Hagar called the Lord who spoke to her when she fled from the presence of her mistress, Sarai. In the 22nd chapter we see another instance where God reveals to her that He saw where she was and what she was doing. To us, it is a comfort to know that God sees us when we are burdened with the problems of life. Then too, we must also be conscious of the fact that we can do nothing which He does not see. Would to God, that people outside of Christ and those out of fellowship, might realize that we can not escape the presence of the 'All Seeing Eye.'

MAY 2—"When I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead." Rev. 1:17.

Have you ever seen the Lord? John on the isle of Patmos, saw the Lord. He did not see Him, however, until after he gave ear to his voice. In the 12th verse John says, "I turned to see the voice that spoke with me. And being turned, I saw." What did he see? "Seven golden candle sticks; and in the midst of the seven candlesticks one like unto the Son of man." Then he gives the description of what he saw, looking at the Son of man. Having seen him, John "fell at his feet as dead." How we need to see the Lord Jesus Christ today, instead of rulers, and dictators, and politicians. When we see the Lord, we will see our own unworthiness. Yes, we too will fall before His feet that we might truly worship Him.

National Service Board For Religious Objectors

By Henry A. Fast

Soil conservation activities have been designated as "work of national importance" within the scope of the President's executive order authorizing the Director of Selective Service to establish jroject camps for religious conscientious objectors. The camps will be operated cooperatively by various agencies of the Government and by religious groups with tenets of non-participation in war. Work in soil conservation and erosion control will be directly under the supervision of the Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture.

How important is soil improvement to national welfare? Part of the answer is found in the experience of some foreign countries, past and present. Since the United States is a very young country as far as agriculture goes, we have to look to older countries for guidance. The land of Goshen in the Bible is familiar to most of us. Joseph gave it to his brothers because it was the finest grazing land in the entire country. Today, the land of Goshen is barren. No people live there, because the soil will not support enough plant life for man or animals.

Look at China. On the upper Yellow River, water, in its hurry to get to the sea, has stripped the upper layer of soil from millions of acres of land. With 12 to 18 inches of its top-soil gone, that land is not capable of supporting as many of China's millions as it once was. There is undernourishment almost always, and in some seasons, famine.

We Americans need have no fear that such catastrophes will occur here. But, lest we become too complacent in our attitude toward the soil and its resources, we should take a closer look at the damage that has already been caused by erosion. More than 280 million acres—roughly 15 percent of all the land in the United States—has already been ruined or seriously damaged by erosion. Erosion is seriously damaging 775 million acres more—775 million acres which will one day be ruined land, unless proper steps are taken for its conservation. Altogether, more than half the land area of the United States—and this includes crop land, rangeland, and woodland—are in need of erosion control treatment. A half million acres of farm land are being abandoned every year as a direct result of wind and water erosion.

Four hundred and sixty-two million acres is all the really good farm land that is left in this country, and that includes all the land we can bring into crop production by expensive irrigation, drainage, and clearing methods. Of the 462 million acres, all but 130 million acres is subject to the same erosion process that results in impoverishment and ruined land.

Of the cropland now being used, only about 62 million acres are at once really good farm land and safe from erosion. This is the only cropland that does not need erosion control treatment.

And what of our forests? When the first settlers reached this continent in 1607, they looked out upon a vast untouched wilderness. From the Atlantic to the Mississippi—a virgin forest. From the Mississippi to the Rockies—an ocean of grass; and beyond, more trees. Altogether there were 800 million acres of woodland in this country 300 years ago. Today, there are less than 625 million acres and very little of this is virgin forest. The Forest Service estimates that only about 20 percent of the forests of the United States are being managed wisely.

There are some 185 million acres of farm woodland in the United States, of which less than one percent is managed so as to yield the best returns. In our hurry to settle America, we butchered our forests and we abused our soils. It was a common practice when land was worn out, for the farmer to move on to new land. Finally there was no more new land to exploit and we had to repair what was left.

Each year in America, floods cause a damage of more than one hundred million dollars. Floods have been with us always. But they have never reached the volume nor the intensity which they have reached during the past few decades.

Floods are no more than rain drops infinitely multiplied. Usually, they have their source on the upper reaches of streams, far away from the immediate area of damage. Where the land is covered with trees, grass, and a deep layer of leafy, spongy soil, land does not shed much rain. But where vegetation has been removed from the land, water goes off quickly, and along with the runoff go layer after layer of soft, porous top-soil. Once top-soil is gone, gullies form rapidly, and each gully becomes a new tributary to speed the volume of water to flood streams below.

It is a recognized fact that 740 million tons of soil are dumped into the Gulf of Mexico every year, and undoubtedly other millions of tons of soil are dropped along the way in stream channels, drainage ditches, and on bottomlands.

Silt is fast filling the bed of the unpredictable Rio Grande from the mouth of the Rio Puerco south to Elephant Butte Reservoir. In the flood year of 1937, records indicate that 12,000 to 15,000 acre-feet of silt were deposited in the Rio Grande bed between San Acacia and San Marcial (New Mexico). In the low water year of 1938, more than 5,000 acre-feet were deposited. In 1881 San Marcial was the beauty spot of the Rio Grande valley along the Sante Fe railway. But silting of the river since has caused abandonment of 2,500 acres of irrigated land and flooding of 3,000 acres of salt grass and bosque pasture.

Millions of dollars in damage is the cost each year to highways, railroad tracks, stream banks and other public facilities. Soil erosion brings on human erosion. As the productivity of the soil is wasted through unwise use, the productive capacity of people is correspondingly reduced. The food, the clothing, the health and the happiness of the people on the land is directly related to the condition of the soil. There is an obvious relationship between poverty, disease, farm tenancy, crumbling barns and houses, insanitation, tax delinquency, abandoned schools—and land waste.

And what of the damage in terms of dallars and cents? The best estimate indicated that erosion is costing the nation approximately $3,844,000 annually. About $400,000,000 is the direct cost to farmers from reduced income and forced abandonment of land. Sixty-three million dollars is the cost of damage to reservoirs, drainage ditches and irrigation systems; $309 million dollars represents the bill for damage to highways, railroads, harbors and navigable streams; 72 million dollars is the cost of damage caused by floods, erosion and silting to city and rural property, farm livestock, and wildlife; three billion dollars is charged against three billion tons of soil materials washed or blown away annually.

The Early Church Meeting Human Needs

Acts 4:32-35; 6:1-7

Topic: Voluntary Christian Sharing

Introduction

In spirituality and in fervent love for one another, the early Church of our lesson is the model for succeeding ages. This Church had very little machinery or organization. The apostles supervised its activities. They continued to worship in the temple and in the synagogues. When a believer was baptized, he was considered as one of the group.

A Spirit-Filled Church vs 32-35

A year or more had passed since the coming of the Spirit on Pentecost, but still the unity and love of the early Church continued. It was deep-seated. "They were all filled with the Holy Spirit" (v31). This is the spirit of genuine Christianity. The multitude of believers (see v4) were in entire harmony of affection and thought (v32). One of the fruits of this harmony, this oneness in the Holy Spirit, was the readiness to share their possessions with others. Each believer treated his own property as if it were common property. This harmony of faith is essential to the building of a united Church. It draws people together into a common cause.

The Holy Spirit enabled the apostles to witness with great power to the fact of the resurrection of Jesus (v33). This unity and power in the Holy Spirit is increasingly greatly needed in our day. Their genuine Christian love for one another permitted no one to suffer because of any lack (v34). The needs of all were supplied through the free-will gifts of those who could give. This was love in action. The Church was watching over the welfare of her own. The believers had complete confidence in the good judgment of the apostles who distributed as there was need (v 35). This is the Christian principle of giving aid. Our present day system of government relief could be more thoroughly Christian.

The Church Organized for Relief vs 1-7

The Church was growing rapidly and the apostles were overburdened with work and complaints were made that the Grecian widows were not properly cared for. There were Greek-speaking Jews, who had become Christians. They were a small minority in the Church. The words of the twelve (v2) should sink into the hearts of the Church of today. Too frequently the church expects the minister of the gospel to devote much of his time and strength to other activities, even to largely supporting his family. The apostles rightly felt that their special responsibility was the ministry of the word of God and that the relief work of the Church should be left to others (vs 2-4).

Carefully chosen men were to care for this part of the Church work (vs 3). Good character was all-important—"men of honest report," and the apostles were to install them. Thus early in the history of the Church, a division of responsibility was found necessary. These seven men were definitely consecrated for their work by the prayers of the apostles and of the Church (v6). The Christian spirit shown in the lives of the believers helped much to make the preaching of the Word effective. Many believed the gospel and the Church grew rapidly.

Thought suggestors

What causes led to the large growth in the Church in Jerusalem?

How far does our responsibility to share material things with those in need, go?

How far is the Church responsibile to look after her own needy ones?

A War Referendum

Most conscientious Christians must be burdened in their hearts with the problem what they might do to keep our country out of the war, though we are partly,but not wholly, in it. Of course, we all can and do pray, and we have examples in history to show that serious national catastrophies have been averted by the united, fervent prayers of a people. For "the effectual and fervent prayer of the righteous man availeth much." One thing might be done, but this seems possible under the present war psychosis of the American people, if the various denominations as such could all, or most of them, meet in huge mass conferences, and there tell the President and Congress that they hold the President strictly to his promise: "We will not participate in foreign wars, and we will not send our army, naval, or air forces to fight in foreign lands outside the Americas, except in case of attack." And if the government gets us into the war, nevertheless, it will be a government war, and this denomination (Methodist Church of the World, Baptist Church of the World, Catholic Church of the World, etc.) will disavow any part with it. This may be altogether too visionary, but will it not in time come to this, if the Church of Jesus Christ on earth wants to do its full duty?

The following resolution, introduced in the Senate by Senator Nye, and jointly sponsored by Senators Capper, Wheeler, LaFollette, Clark of Idaho, and Shipstead, is very encouraging. It is this all the more so, because it represents every political group in the Senate. Its precise terms provide that before use of American armed forces abroad can be authorized or appropriated, Congress shall "order a national advisory election of all eligible voters on the following question: Shall the Congress under the existing conditions approve the use of land, naval, and air forces outside the Western hemisphere or the territorial possessions of the United States and appropriate funds necessary for such military and naval operations." Here again those of us who want peace not war should support this group of worthy senators in their efforts to champion our cause with every possible means. —T.

IN MEMORIAM

MRS. ANNA MILLER, the daughter of Carl and Freni Ries nee Kaufman, was born May 12, 1862, in Russia. The family came to America in 1874 and settled near Yankton, S. D. Being reared in a Christian home, she gave her heart to the Lord, being instructed and baptized by Rev. Johannes Schrag. In 1882 she was married to Jacob Schrag with whom she lived happily for eighteen years. To her husband's five children from a previous marriage, she was a faithful and devoted step-mother. The Lord blessed their union with nine children. In 1896 her husband died, and she was married again in 1897 to John F. Miller. Five children were born to this union. In 1924 her second husband died. She leaves to mourn four sons and three daughters by her first marriage. They are Frank, Emil, Charles and Jacob Schrag; Alvina, Mrs. Henry Dalke; Mary, Mrs. Mary Pankratz, and Katie, Mrs. Christ Pankratz. From her second marriage she leaves to mourn, Anna, Mrs. Oliver Kaufman; Emma, Mrs. Wilmer Fensel, and Henry K. Miller. Also three step-children, one sister, a number of grandchildren and many relatives and friends.

She remained a faithful Christian and member of the Salem Zion Mennonite Church to her end. The Lord's summons came to her on Thursday morning, March 27. She attained an age of 78 years, 10 months and 15 days.

"Say ye to the righteous that it shall be well with him: for they shall eat the fruit of their doings." Isa. 3:10.

CHANGES OF ADDRESS

—Rev. P. A. Kliewer writes from Bluffton, Ohio: Please change my address to 1114 Santiam Road, Albany, Oregon. We will be at home in the parsonage there after May 11.

MENDELSSOHN AT FRIBOURG—Mendelssohn, it is said, once visited the cathedral at Fribourg, and having heard the great organ, went into the organ loft, and asked to be allowed to play it. The old organist, in jealousy for his instrument, at first refused, but was afterward prevailed on to allow the great German composer to try the calossal "thunderer" of the cathedral. And after standing by in ecstasy and delight and amazement for a few moments, he suddenly laid his hands on the shoulders of the inspired musican and exclaimed: "Who are you? What is your name?" "Mendelssohn," replied the player. "And can it be! I had so nearly refused to let Mendelssohn touch this organ!"—How little sinners and saints, too, know what they do when they refuse to let Jesus Christ have full possession of their whole nature and the full melody and harmony of which it is capable!

CORRESPONDENCE

EAST SWAMP CHURCH, QUAKERTOWN, PA.

The dynamic and straightforward messages Brother J. U. Esau brought us recently were very helpful. We are indeed fortunate in having such a mighty evangelist in our conference. On Good Friday we baptized four people, three young folks and a middle aged woman who had been led ouf of catholicism. In all we received ten new members. At the Sunday School, Rev. and Mrs. Burkhalder were happily surprised when the school presented them with a purse of $32.50. The Easter morning worship was the largest in attendance. Communion was given to the largest number in the history of the church, 149 in all. Without calling for any special offering of any kind, the offering amounted to $150.00.

Some East Swamp friends of the Rev. W. S. Gottshall are sponsoring the reprinting of one of his booklets, "The Lord's Return, Its Significance to the Church," as a memorial to the departed.

SHARON MENN. CHURCH, ORIENTA, OKLA.

This spring our Lord again brings His own in closer fellowship with Him through His marvelous weakening of nature. Our fields are covered with a thick carpet of green; the trees are budding; soon flowers will be coming out of their winter beds. We are very grateful to our heavenly Father for the abundance of moisture that He has sent this past winter and the warm sun this spring, to make our surroundings so beautiful. But more than this, we must bring our heart full of thanks to Him for the spiritual blessing we receive continually, among them the opportunity of having visiting pastors with us this winter.

March 30, the Grace Mennonite Church of Enid gave us a treat in a program which portrayed the incidents leading to the Cross. Due to on electric storm, we had lighting difficulties, however, we believe everyone in the audience enjoyed the program greatly and received much spiritual benefit from the songs sung and words spoken.

April 6, our congregation was very fortunate in having another special program. The Girls' Glee Club of the O. B. A. at Meno, under the direction of Brother August Schmidt, gave a short program of sacred songs which was followed by a special Psalm Sunday message, delivered by Brother J. R. Barkman, superintendent at the Oklahoma Bible Academy.

May this Easter season bring to each heart a deeper faith that we may say, with certainty, as Job said, "I know that my Redeemer lives."

Mennonite Central Committee Relief Notes

M. C. Lehman writes from Lyon, France, March 15, 1941.

"Hoover and I arrived here last evening. Since writing you at Lisbon we traveled by train all the way here. I came by train to be with my box and to visit all the M. M. C. work in France. I am very glad I did this because only so could I stop at the following places: Madrid, Cerbere, Banyuls, Perpignan, and Argeles-sur-Mer, Marseille, and Lyon. We have work at some of these places and at the others there were prospects for study. The journey has been physically very hard but from here it will be easier for me. I leave here for Genoa tomorrow and then to Ingolstadt and Berlin. I have learned much about our work here and I feel certain it was wise this once to come by train though it is harder and more expensive, although we traveled mostly third class. Miss Gerber at La Rouviere is doing very fine work. I hope to interest the Swiss Mennonites which she represents in the work she is doing. Conditions in refugee camps are indescribably miserable. Worse than any famine camps I ever saw in India. Opportunities for the M. C. C. to take up projects for relief distribution, even for other agencies seem large. The Quaker work at Marseille so indicates. I am well, food of course not like American but better than I expected, I need not suffer. My box is waiting for me in Switzerland where I will pick it up. Buller and Wiens want to be remembered to you. Wiens is doing a fine work. I see a year of very heavy relief program ahead."

Henry Buller letter, Lyon, France, March 21, 1941.

"We have decided to take over a Convalescent Home for children on the beach near Perpignan. It will be for children from the camps who can not stand the rigors of the camp and yet are too well to be in regular hospitals. Miss Gerber, a French-assistant, and I are planning to go down there early next week to take over the work. The Quakers will send a directress to the colony of La Rouviere to keep charge while another directress is found by our directors. Dr. Lehman, Mr. Hoover, and Dr. Wiens are in Lyon now looking over the work there."

"In view of the fact that the Red Cross is planning to bring into Lyon and its environs 83 tons of milk we have not gone ahead with the purchase of any additional milk. Mr. Kershner suggested doing more direct relief service to individual children in their homes. Either by providing them with milk and supplementary vegetables or giving them about five francs per day and letting the family provide additional rations. He also expressed the opinion that in most cases it would be better and cheaper to aid French children in their own homes rather than taking them into colonies. Mr. Wiens and I have not taken any action in this respect as yet."

London, England. March 21, 1941, Ted Claassen letter.

"We were very glad for the news of the sending of the clothing, and for word for the arrangements whereby we can receive and distribute the same through our own depot. The lists of clothing accompanying No. 22 show us that the contents of the shipment are quite in line with the needs which we have indicated to you."

The Beatitudes---A Working Philosophy Of Life

By Helen A. Penner (Paraphrases)

1. (Matt. 5:3) Highly favored are those who feel their spiritual need, for that need will be satisfied; for of such is God's fellowship.

I wish those well who are conscious of their spiritual inadequacy, for God will supply their needs.

Divine joy is in the possession of those who are receptive, for God can enter their lives.

2. (Matt. 5:4) Highly favored are those who care till it hurts, for God cares for them.

I wish those who are capable of deep feeling for others, for they are near to the heart of God.

Divine joy is the portion of those who are sensitive to sin, need, and suffering, for God will strengthen them.

I congratulate those who make every man's need their concern, for they will find strength to endure.

3. (Matt. 5:5) I congratulate those who are learning to know their places and are trying to fill them well, for the world is theirs.

I wish him well who thinks not of himself more highly than he ought to think, for the earth will belong to him.

Highly favored are those who subordinate themselves voluntarily in cooperation for general welfare, for they will possess the world.

4. (Matt. 5:6) Highly favored are those whose desire for right living is as real as the desire for food and drink, because they will get their fill of God's never depleted supply of grace and will drink from the eternal springs of God's love.

I congratulate those who earnestly desire spiritual attainments, for they are discovering the deeper satisfactions of life.

Divine joy have those who long for right relations between man and God, for the desire of their hearts shall be satisfied.

(To be continued. These paraphrases constitute a Bethel student's paper which was written for the course, "Life and Teachings of Jesus." Some of the original and the rest are based on references that were used.)

The last best fruit which comes to late perfection, even in the kindliest soul, is tenderness toward the hard, forbearance toward the unforbearing, warmth of heart toward the cold, philanthropy toward the misanthropic! —Richter

DON'T BETRAY YOUR CONSCIENCE

By J. D. Goering

There are many of us, especially Mennonites, who claim to be Pacifists and consequently conscientious objectors to war. Anticipating this the Federal government has, upon enactment of the conscription act, also provided legal means by which such persons can serve their country in a manner compatible with their conscience.

After all these arrangements have been made, there are those who are a bit reluctant to accept them. "Why not take non-combatant service in the army instead of civilian service and thereby escape the unfavorable social stigma which is the conscientious objector's lot? Such action will also be more profitable from the economic standpoint. And finally, what is the difference anyway?" Precisely so some of our members have been found to reason.

Such questions come, I sincerely hope, more from an ignorance of fact rather than an insincerity of thought and purpose. If you are asking these questions, by all means be careful and deliberate in arriving at answers. In the first place, consider the fact that for every man at the front or in the combat zone, the army requires from seven to ten men behind the lines in positions that are absolutely essential in any army, and not merely incidential. To ask which is more important is like asking what part of the automobile is more important, the axle or the wheel which happens to make the actual contact.

It is important to consider whether the mere fact that public opinion sanctions and legalizes mass murder gives you as a Christian the moral right to do so. Read the Sermon on the Mount and decide whether or not you believe in it. If you do and your actions are consistent with this belief, you will not allow yourself to become a part of a great killing machine bent on destruction.

Civilian Service camps are a creation of the government for which all conscientious objectors should be extremely grateful. For the first time in history a conscientious objector is recognized as acting entirely within the law. As to the advisability of such action it is well to remember that conscientious objection can not be evaluated in physical and mundane terms. A pacifist never decides such an issue in terms of $21 per month or social prestige. Reforestation, Conservation, and Reclamation are fields of work of tremendous national importance, and though not dramatic or colorful, these services do offer an opportunity to give real expression to an ideal in a way which is more than mere lip service. It may cost you your position, social prestige, and $21 a month army pay, but remember that none of these can ever compensate for a betrayed conscience.

By taking up non-combatant service, you become an indespensible part of the army—a thing which a pacifist can not do. Whatever you decide to do, make absolutely certain that you know what you are getting into. Then do it only if you are convinced that you can give your unreserved support to it. The primary job of the Christian is to build the Kingdom of God, and each must decide what he may do to help further that cause. If you are certain that the military machine offers you the best way to help build the Kingdom, by all means get into the army somehow, bue unless you are sure, you had better give careful and prayerful consideration to all points before making a decision in such a crucial matter. Don't betray your conscience

COMING EVENTS

RELIGIOUS MUSIC (Psalm 100)

I. Worship Service

Songs, "Great God, the followers of Thy Son," No. 13; "Jesus, still lead on, Till our rest be won," No. 574; "Now on land and sea descending," No 28. (Songs from the Mennonite Hymnary.)

2. Reading of main topic, and prayer.

3. Various groups, presenting different types of religious music—as for instance songs from various centuries—some may be found in our "Mennonite Hymnary;" or a group of songs of divergent authors, as von Zinzendorf, Fanny Crosby, Isaac Watts and others; or Hebrew, Sicilian, or Dutch melodies may be the basis around which an hour of religious music is built.

4. Offering for missions.

II. Leader's Introduction

Music helps to reveal God. The beauty of melody and harmony brings God close to the heart of man. The singing of birds and brooks speaks a universal language. One Bible writer talks of a time "when the morning stars sang together."

In joy, in sorrow music is the language of the heart. The great truths of God come to us in hymns and anthems, and oratorios.

The human body is remarkably fitted to respond to music. Brain, nerve, ear, throat, and hand are wonderfully fashioned and correlated both to enjoy music and to create it.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. "When morning stars sang," Job 38:4-7.
2. Moses and Mirian, singers. Exod. 15:1-3, 20, 21.
3. Song of Deborah and Barak. Judges 5:1-3.
4. The Magnificat. Lk. 1:46-55.
5. Jesus and the disciples sing. Mk. 14:26.
6. Admonition to sing. Eph. 5:18-20.

IV. Instead of the usual discussion questions let every member mention one of his favorite songs.

V. Facts for Study

At all times the songs of "praise and adoration" have held a large place in the services of the church. The Psalms, too, testify of this fact. Likewise the hymns of supplication and penitance have never been forgotten—the need of man for forgiveness and divine help has always created them and called for their use. The "songs in the night" of trust and faith in God, the expression of devotion to our Lord and Master will never die. The call to work, to missions, to brotherly love, to fellowship, all have a place in religious music. Special events and occasions, consecrations, baptisms, farewells, funeral services find fitting words through songs. Christianity thrives on them. They are a priceless heritage, and a bond of felowship between the church here on earth and the church triumphant.

VI. Illustration

Does your C. E. group sing like this?

A young man who recently came into a certain church was asked why he was led to the church. He said that the music attracted him. "I was going by when I heard an old hymn with the strains of the great organ, and something in that music said to my heart, 'Come in.' There was a welcome in the melody. I found a cordial welcome from the congregation; there were handclasps, cheerful faces, and the message of the minister encouraged and strengthened me. An atmosphere of welcome just found me."

VII. Food for Thought

Music, like beauty, is a necessity for the refreshing of the soul.

7. Solo from the rear of the church, "Home, Sweet Home."
8. Unison song, (softly) "Blest be the Tie." v. 1.

II. Study Period

Aim—To help our Juniors to a deeper appreciation of their homes and their mothers.

1. Poem by several Juniors.

Nobody Knows

Nobody knows the work it makes
To keep the home together;
Nobody knows of the steps it takes
Nobody knows—but Mother.

Nobody listens to childish woes,
Which only kisses smother;
Nobody's pained by naughty blows,
Nobody—only Mother.

Nobody knows of the sleepless care
Bestowed on baby brother;
Nobody knows of the tender prayer,
Nobordy—only Mother.

Nobody knows of the lessons taught
Of loving one another.
Nobody knows of the patience sought,
Nobody—only Mother.

Nobody knows of the anxious fears,
Lest darlings may not weather
The storm of life in after years,
Nobody knows—but Mother.

Nobody kneels at the throne above
To thank the heavenly Father,
For that sweetest gift—a mother's love;
Nobody can—but Mother."

2. Three Juniors each give a short talk on "What Paul says about the Child and his parents.
    (a) "Obey" Col. 3:20.
    (b) Why Obey Eph. 6:1.
    (c) Remember the lessons of the home. II Tim. 3:14, 15.
3. Talk by an older Junior girl, "My Christian home and what that means to me."
4. Talk by an older Junior boy, "My duties and responsibilities to my home."
5. Song, "O Happy Home" (Mennonite Hymnary No. 358)
6. Leader's heart talk, "Our Christian Homes."

III. Mission Minutes

Robert Moffat was one of our greatest missionaries. The story is told that while still a lad he left home to go to school. As he was walking on the highway of Scotland his mother, who had gone with him for some distance, turned to say goodbye. As she did so she said to him, "Robert, you must promise me one thing." At first he was unwilling to make a promise until he knew what the promise was to be. But his mother said, "Robert trust me and give me your word that you will do what I ask." "Very well, Mother," said Robert, "I will do what you ask." Then his dear mother said, "You are going into a wicked world to live, and you will be far away from your home and your mother. Promise me that you will begin each day with God and close each day with God." He promised. He said, "Mother, I will promise." She kissed him and he said that her kisses influenced him throughout his entire life.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Memorize the song for the month, "Blest be the Tie that Binds."
2. Repeat in concert from memory the verse for the month, Phil. 4:13.
3. Together pray the prayer for the month, Ps. 42:1. (Stand for this and remain standing.)
4. Benediction, Hebrews 13:20, 21.
5. Sing, "Into My Heart."

A MENNONITE STUDENT'S FELLOWSHIP ORGANIZED

On January 23, a Mennonite Students' Fellowship was organized at the South Side Mission by the Mennonite students of the Northwestern Bible School and Evangelical Seminary in Minneapolis and the Missionary Alliance in St. Paul.

The qualifications for membership as set forth in the constitution are two in number: first, a personal confession of regeneration, and second, Mennonite affiliation. Our purpose is fourfold: (1) To foster spiritual fellowship with the Mennonite Young People of the various Bible schools and with all others in the Twin Cities; (2) To encourage the bond of unity with the Mennonite churches in that the members conform with the Bible and the articles of faith common to all Mennonites or Mennonite denominations; (3) To acquaint new incoming students with this organization, and to assist them in every possible way; (4) To make provision for an adequate Gospel program with the interest of reaching the unsaved.

After the adoption of our constitution, at our second meeting, the following permanent officers were elected: President, Ruben Baerg, Hepburn, Sask., Canada; Vice President, Daniel Toavs, Wolf Point, Montana; Secretary and Treasurer, Elma Rimer, Mt. Lake, Minnesota. We are happy for the fine attendance, which includes young people from eleven states, as well as for the interest that has been manifested.

INSIDE, LOOKING OUT

Often the statement is regretfully made that there are so many inactive people in the Church of Christ who stand outside looking in. Would it not be more appropriate to say that they stand inside looking out? Mr. Jacob J. Sessler says in his article, "A Preacher Speaks to Laymen," which appeared in the Religious Digest of April, 1941:

"The chief task of the Church is to bring Christ and His Church to the community. If the Church members are content to remain on the inside and multiply activities there, how will the outsider be reached or persuaded to become an insider? There is only one way to reach the outsider and that is for the insider to go outside the walls of the church and reach out.

The business of winning souls is the greatest business in the world, and it is the duty of every Christian to engage in this business. Too often laymen try to reason themselves into believing that the minister is the only one who needs to concern himself about the welfare of the souls of men. They often forget that a minister is "a man who lives life as a layman ought to live it," as someone has said; and that the minister's efforts are futile unless the laymen, those who profess Christ, live Christ. —M. B.

HOMEWARD BOUND

by Rev. and Mrs. P. W. Penner

(Fourth Letter)

Our previous report ended our stay in the beautiful city of Manila. The Philipinos have a full-set face which appears as if something has pressed hard upon the facial features. Their face has a friendly aspect, suggesting intelligence, in fact, this is born out in their activities. They are of small stature, sturdy in their work, bringing about worth-while achievements. Our lodging faced Dewey Boulevard where traffic continues day and night. The house commands a splendid view of the harbor dotted with many vessels; just now a good part of the United States navy lingers there, obviously on certain purpose. Our hostess, Mrs. Kane, came from New Zealand. She is a friendly type of an accommodating nature. People with common sense ready to accommodate folks are always welcome personalities to meet. This boarding house on 247 Alhambra Street can be highly recommended. It is well patronized by missionaries, because of reasonable charges.

The people of our clan have scattered remarkably. On scrutinizing the telephone directory in search for a good dentist, unexpectedly the name J. C. Klassen loomed up. A ring brought us in touch with him, and disclosed that he hailed from Winkler, Manitoba, had studied and practiced dentistry in Los Angeles, California, moved to Manila, was engaged in the same practice for fifteen years. Pretty soon an appointment was reached. Arriving there and observing his movements, we noticed that he was efficient, knew his work thoroughly, and enjoyed a rich patronage from among all classes. Such folks are constantly sought all over the world. Every contact in the office and later in his home as a guest disclosed what a congenial family life ensued with the attractive wife and five children. His relatives had been scholars in my school, (when teaching) around Winkler and Altona, Manitoba.

As usual on this voyage, the schedule could so to say impossibly be kept. The Ship President Taft brought us here behind time. Now the second vessel President Adams arrived late and left thirty-six hours behind time. Now the majority entertained hope that the ship would steer straight toward Singapore; but, alas, she was heading toward Hongkong where we had just been a few days ago. Instead of taking us nearer our goal, we were carried another 700 miles farther away. We arrived in Hongkong where we had been two weeks ago, had then sailed 1,422 miles without making actual headways. This jogging up and down, already gives an introduction to patience awaiting us on the missionfield. While making new acquaintances in the Philipp's Mission Home in Hongkong,we found a Swedisch missionary, of Salina, Kansas, waiting here since more than three months for her transportation to the field less than ninety miles away. Another couple had likewise been lingering three weeks. On our boat is an Adventist missionary from the States. His board had booked forty-one for India on the President Adams, but he alone was finally privileged to sail, the others probably following some time later. Some days talks are current that the fields will soon be closed for missionary activity. Happy is that person who reaches destination without interference. The evacuation of American citizens from various countries causes the ships to be overcrowded. The President Washington carries on her return trip more than 1000 evacuees.

Before reaching Manila we had on board the Russian ambassador returning from San Francisco to Moscow with his wife and family. They were indeed congenial travelers, who took deep interest in all conversations. The British Consul wtih his wife, bound for Manila, were also appreciated fellow-travelers. From Manila again there are three consuls of the United States on board bound for Penang, Java and Bombay. One feels quite favored sharing the voyage experiences with such uppermost personalities helping to hold the governments in good terms.

The distance from Manila to Hongkong, 722 miles, treated us with a smooth sea, different from what it had been a week ago. In Hongkong the officials found themselves obligated to set the time back another twenty hours. On Sunday morning, Nov. 24, a lovely service we enjoyed in all quietness, which many of God's children nowadays cannot have. Now will you open your geographies and follow us in a southwesterly direction another 1,629 miles to Singapore, located on an island at the extreme southern point of the Malay Peninsula, only eighty miles from the equator. The season is the monsoon which frequently produces heavy gales. However, we escaped that, and slid along over a lightly-rippled sea, often feeling as if we lingered in port. We could clearly hear the ship's bells designating the time. Time on board is kept by tapping the bell twice each half hour. While the starry heaven above us displays God's handiwork (Psalm 19), watchmen continually walk through the ship with a time-piece hanging around their shoulder. Certain places have keys chained to them. All the places on their beat must be passed every twenty minutes, and an impression must be made on their timepiece. All the available precautions for safety are observed. Among the passengers various entertainments prevail to pass the time, like games, conversations, reading, writing; evening songfests, or missionary meetings, where experiences are pooled. The meals are scheduled to rob apparently the most time. In spite of having really much time for one's disposal, there is no chance to develop bed-sores, or lazy spots, the hours pass quickly. Of course, those who are obligated to press the beds on account of seasickness, or otherwise, wish the time to pass more rapidly. Disagreeable feelings are often effected when one notices how much food is wasted from boats. The dishes are too big to be properly taken care of, the remnants go into the waves. Hundreds of hungry people could be fed with the discards of a single boat daily, especially those in war-stricken areas and where famine conditions terrify the population. The world is unbalanced and, to be sure, some near day will utterly capsize. The occasion will be serious and furious! Probably that catastrophe is not very distant; the Bible does not veil it.

A RED LETTER DAY IN INDIA

The 19th December 1940 was a red letter day in Korba. For on that day, twenty-five years ago, under the guidance of Dr. C. H. Suckau, now Pastor in Berne, Indiana, the Korba Church was organized. Twenty-five years of God's blessings, guidance, and growth were reviewed on that day, in the morning through messages by Dr. P. A. Penner and Rev. P. W. Penner. In the afternoon greetings were given by Rev. H. Ratzlaff, after which some of the Charter Members told of their early experiences. When the church was organized, the charter members numbered sixteen. The membership today is about 135. With a healthy hope and expectant faith for the future, the Church launched out into its twenty-sixth year with a three day series of evangelistic meetings. Rev. S. T. Moyer gave the messages during these meetings. —India-Calling

MARRIED

On April 6, 1941, Gerhard Ratzlaff and Susie Hiebert—at home in Lehigh, Kansas.

On April 8, Edward Berg and Violet Unruh, residing at Durham, Kansas.

On April 17, Milton Penner and Elda Goertz, making their home at Hillsboro, Kansas. . . . Rev. J. M. Regier solomnized all three ceremonies.

On March 7, at the Eden Church, near Moundridge, Kansas, by Rev. Walter Gering, Marlin Wedel and Geneva Stucky.

—DR. E. L. HARSHBARGER, Professor of History and Speech at Bethel College, who has been very sick in the Bethel Hospital, Newton, Kansas, the last four weeks, has had his second operation April 17. At this writing, a day later, he is reported to be holding his own pretty well. May we all ask God to spare the life of this valuable man, if it be His will.

—The Meadow Mennonite Church in Thomas County, Kansas, gathered for a basket dinner and a welcoming in the afternoon, at the home of our new pastor, Rev. Epp, Sunday, April 13. Our Church also started a series of meetings Easter Sunday evening, and every week day this week at 8:00.

—Bethany Church, Freeman, S. D. This church had a series of pre-Easter meetings in which local pastors gave the messages. The general theme was, THE MIRACLES OF GOLGOTHA. The sermon on Palm Sunday evening, "The Miraculous Darkness," Rev. Harold Gross; Mon., "The Miraculous Rending of the Veil," Rev. A. Claassen; Tues., "The Miraculous Earthquake," Rev. P. Stahl; Wed., "The Miraculous Opening of the Grave," Rev. J. B. Toews; Thurs., "The Miraculous Revivals to Life," Rev. S. P. Preheim; Fri., a. m., "The Miraculous Redemption Completed," Rev. J. A. Tieszen; Fri., p. m., "The Miraculous Redemption at Work," Rev. M. A. Kroeker; Easter Sunday, "His Miraculous Resurrection," Rev. L. H. Linscheid, pastor.

—The Pastor of the Menno Mennonite Church, Lind, Wash., announces in their Bulletin of April 6: Tonight we will start a series of sermons in which we will discuss ways and means by which the human soul may triumph over life's heartbreaks, sorrows, and manifold temptations. We will deal with real issues, real folks, and a real world. Let us pray that these meditations may help us to obtain that mastery which comes from the application of Christian truths to the daily life.

—Rev. G. S. Stoneback, formerly pastor of the Eighth Street Church, Goshen, Ind., now studying at Hartford Theological Seminary, and meanwhile serving a church at Southwich, Mass., wrote recently: "I saw in The Mennonite that girls at a Mennonite girls' home spend their evenings knitting socks for soldiers. Would it not be more consistent for our Mennonite girls and ladies to make socks, etc. for the boys in C. O. camps? Our boys refuse even non-combatant service, and our girls clothe the soldiers."

—Bethel College.—March 27 was clean-up day on the campus. Faculty members and students turned out in a body to rid the premises of fallen leaves and other trash, and a fine job they did. It was a beautiful sight to see the students busily plying their rakes and other tools a full afternoon and in such fine order. Trucks were also kept busy hauling away the trash. The editor owes the group sincere thanks for including his yard in the clean-up. . . . On May 16 twenty-seven members of the Senior class will present to the public the play, "Our Town," which depicts "Incidents in Lives of Town Folks during Forty Years in Rural Villages. . . . On Palm Sunday the large A Capella Choir rendered Dubois "Seven Last Words of Christ" in the college chapel at 3:00 and the First Mennonite Church at 7:00 p. m. The audiences were large. Prof. W. H. Hohmann directed, Mr. Herbert Baehr, a son of the Bethel community, sang the baritone, Mrs. Alma Sapp of Wichita, the soprano, and Prof. David Suderman, the tenor solos. Rev. A. E. Kreider read the scripture passages. . . . Some faculty changes are again in the offing, but we are asked to let the coming catalog chronicle them.

—Bluffton College Notes. In elections recently held by the religious organizations, the students chose the following to head the activities this coming year: Alvin Beachy, Fairfield, Penna., was made president of the young men's Christian Association. Mr. Beachy has been assisting Rev. A. W. Geigley in his home church. Leland Lehman, Berne, Ind., was selected as vice-president; Robert Sommer, Middlebury-Ind., will head the Men's Gospel Team; and Lawrence Burkhalter, Central Province India, will be vice-president. Royal Thomas, New York State, will be secretary-treasurer and Herbert Fretz, Lansdale, Penna., will serve as Deputation chairman. Lucile Tschantz, Dalton, Ohio, was chosen president of the Y. W. C. A., and Magdalene Oyer, Bluffton, Ohio, vice-president; Mary Alice Howe, Bluffton, Ohio, is secretary, Evelyn Hilty, Pandora, Ohio, treasurer, and Mrs. A. C. Burcky, faculty advisor. . . . Charles Lemley, Pandora, Ohio, clean-up day chairman; Ray Holcomb, Wadsworth, Ohio, May Day chairman. Josephine Mohr, Bethlehem, Penna., was selected May Queen, and Loreen Peters, Defiance, Ohio, maid of honor.

—Mrs. A. T. Mueller, Enid, Okla., wrote April 9, I have read for the second time the editorial, "What doest thou for me?" which appeared in this weeks' Mennonite. I am so grateful for what is said there. We know the things mentioned, but too often work and worry crowd out these essentials for spiritual health. So this came as a kindly reminder.

—Springfield Mennonite Church, Pleasant Valley, Pa., Rev. W. W. Shelly, supply pastor had a series of three meetings, with Rev. Henry Heydt, Pres. of Lancaster Bible School as speaker. The themes he used were, "The Centrality of the Cross," "The Ministration of the Spirit," "The Blood Covenant." The meetings are reported to have been greatly worth while.

—The Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Eastern District will convene in the Eden Mennonite Church, Schwenksville, Pa., Monday, April 14. Sessions at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m.

Need of Walls

"And I sought for a man that should build up the wall and stand in the gap before me for the land . . . but I found none." Ez. 22:30. Ezekiel, one of the great prophets, was a unique character, and thus chosen as God's special ambassador to His people with very definite messages. In this chapter God calls the prophet again by his favorite name, "son of man" and instructs him to upraid the holy land and its capital severely for the steadily increasing evils and the indescribably wicked practices that have been going on within them; that the gap between them and God is constantly growing wider, and that punishment is sure to follow. But, after having drawn this very gloomy picture, God looks around for a MAN who might enter the breech between Him and His rebellious people, to set things straight in the land and, possibly, inaugurate a new order. Not just a man is wanted but a real man. God is very modest in His search—just one. But, alas, He finds not one. Once He had such a man in Moses, and a few others with similar qualities. Now things have gone from bad to worse, and there are no Moses' left. How similar a situation, in many respects, does our country present today. Matters are steadily becoming more alarming and disheartening. And not a man of a type that can help us from slipping into a coming doom. Once our country had a few men who could and would have stepped in the breech between us and dangers of destruction such as we are facing now. We need only to think of George Washington and some of his compeers. But where are we today? Naturally we turn to our nation's capital, to find men whose concern for the welfare and safety of our country supercedes that of all others, even that of England and her European allies. But what do we find? Hords of propagandists and sinister forces of various kinds that are doing all they can to assist the government in pushing us into the maelstrom of destruction whither the world is heading. Under these conditions we must place our hope of salvation ever stronger in God. He alone can deliver us if it be His will. —T

"BECAUSE THE KING'S BUSINESS REQUIRED HASTE."

I Sam. 21:8

When David fled for his life before King Saul, he came to the priest Abimelech. Having no sword, he asked for one. There being none but the sword of Goliath whom David had slain, he took this, saying, "Because the kings' business required haste." This can easily be applied to God's or Christ's business which always requires haste, because it is of foremost importance. When the queen of England asked a merchant to go on a journey for the crown, the man is said to have demurred, complaining that his own business interests were at stake. Whereupon the queen is reported to have replied, "You attend to my business and I will attend to yours." When God speaks to us and has a mission to perform, there is no room for hesitating or squibbling. It is not ours to reason why, but to go and do. Obedience must be prompt. Obedience delayed is robbed of its glory. The angel said to Philip, "Arise and go." "And he arose and went." When the call from Macedonia came to Paul, he came with a straight course via Samothracia to Philippi. Jesus never turned aside from the work His Father had given him to do until He could say, "I have finished the work thou gavest me to do." Then he laid down his armor and returned to the Father. The servant who wrapped his pound in a napkin brought sorrow to his Lord and lost his reward. May God grant that we may not be classed among the "do-nothings."

THE MEANINGFUL CROSS.—When God created man, His purpose in life was to run parallel to that of God—eternal happiness in the divine presence. Geometry and logic tell us that two parallel lines can never cross. So there was to be no cross purpose between the creator and the creation made in His image. But man sinned, rebelled against God's will. His line slipped and crossed God's line. On the part of man there was thus a separation, but on God's part the contact was maintained to await the coming of the Promised One. Not only that, the two crossed lines became the symbol of salvation for fallen man, through the Savior who by His death on the cross opened heaven again for man. —T

From a Sick Person to His Friends

(Letter read at a program given by the Deaconess Hospital of Beatrice, Nebraska, at the First Mennonite Church.)

Dear Friend:

Thank you for coming to see me. Before we start visiting, I hope you will pardon me, if I take the liberty of telling you how I would like to spend the time we have together.

First of all please forgive me, if I start with a few "don'ts." I don't want to talk about what has been happening here at the hospital or what pain I have been going through. To go through it once is enough and I don't want to relive it again and again. If you want to know the details of my condition, please ask one of the nurses about my progress.

And also, I don't want to be pitied. After all, it is possible to have some very sublime values come out of an experience of illness.

Then too, I don't want to talk about this hospital or any other hospital—my sickness or the sickness of anyone else. It is true that my body is sick and I am in a hospital; but it is enough to have my body here. I want my mind and thoughts to dwell elsewhere.

Let's visit the realms of beauty, loveliness, good humor, goodwill and sublime thoughts of God and man. Let's talk about the good we can see in others; something fine, something noble, something inspiring. There is evil in the world; but there is also so much of goodness. Let's have the joy of talking about that.

If you have a beautiful scene, or a beautiful picture, or a beautiful bit of music to describe, please do so. My heart longs for more and more of beauty.

Or if you have some good wholesome humor, won't you please share it? Let's have a good laugh together. It aids the digestion and helps make us grow stronger.

Then, too, I like to have people read to me. If you have time I would be glad to have you read from one of the books I have here. They are, "The Bible," "Meditations for the Sick," by Russell Dicks, and "The Meaning of Faith," by Fosdick.

And I would like to hear what religion means to you. It is especially in times of sickness that our thoughts turn to religion. I would consider it a high privilege to have you share with me the outstanding religious experiences of your life, and the deep abiding convictions that have stood the tests of struggle and suffering.

Of course, we cannot talk of all these things just now. I don't know how much time you have to spare; and generally, it isn't best for a sick person to visit more than fifteen or twenty minutes at a time. But that time which we do have to share together will be a treasure to me now and through all the days to come. And before you go, if you so desire, I would be glad to hear you say, "Let us pray."

Thank you and God bless you and yours.

Very gratefully yours, Your Sick Friend

CREATIVE EVANGELISM

Dr. Willard Pope, Portland, Oregon

It was in the fall of the year, during the harvest feast called Pentecost, that Peter delivered his famous oration, outlined in the book of Acts. Some theologians regard this as the birthday of the church. Others differ. Anyway, on that occasion, there was released a current of Creative Evangelism which has wielded a wholesome influence upon men and nations down to the present hour.

Being an opposition movement to existing religious thought, the new vital force called Christianity, came to immediate grips with elements of reaction. Spasms of persecution swept against the early Christians. The blood of the martyrs became the seed of the Church.

Nero burned Rome in the year 64 A. D. He later denied the crime and placed the blame upon the Christians. Historians tell us that, in the suffering which followed, helpless believers were sewn in skins of animals and fed to wild dogs. They were hurled on beds of spikes, crucified, smeared with pitch, and changed into human firebrands to illuminate Roman gardens and play-grounds.

It was a sad day for the human family when Creative Evangelism began to lose its momentum. History attests that the dark ages, as the Devil's Millennium, became possible only when the spiritual light of Bible Revivalism was extinguished.

With the passing of the centuries, holy fires were again kindled, and giants for God, like Savonarola, Huss, Tyndale, Calvin, Knox and Luther began to thunder their denunciations of evil and the conscience of a continent was stirred. A moral and spiritual renaissance took place.

Creative Evangelism is absolutely essential to the welfare of civilization. It builds moral fiber, contributes to law and order, promotes national integrity, and changes individual lives and homes.

The historian Green writes of a time when England was on the verge of suicide from the influence of the French Revolution sweeping across the English channel, but was miraculously saved by the Wesleyan Revival.

I submit that America is facing her greatest crises today. Our one hope is a revival of old-fashioned, Holy Ghost Evangelism, a spiritual awakening, a return to God and the Bible as the Word of God. This will stir the slumbering conscience of America, contribute to economic and political integrity, and

by Howard G. Nyce

MAY 3—"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help." Psalm 121:1.

Unless we were in some sort of trouble, or perhaps very seriously ill, we may not fully appreciate the words of the Psalmist. Without a doubt, the people in war torn Europe and Asia can more fully understand these words. What our lot may be in the future, we have no way of knowing except that according to the Word of God, perilous times shall come. When these times shall come, "men's hearts will fail because of fear." To whom then shall they turn? Pitiful indeed will be the scene when men shall look to power and force. But to what else may one look who does not know God? Christians will not, and dare not, be discouraged because we will look up to Him who created all things," as Isaiah directed Israel in time of trouble.

MAY 4—"Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee." I Timothy 4:16.

We are admonished again and again to "watch and pray," "pray without ceasing," etc. Paul emphasized the importance of continuing in the faith. He was aware of the fact that in "latter days, many shall turn away from the truth." On several occasions he urges Timothy to remain true and be faithful. Besides the text, he says in II Timothy 1:13 "Hold fast the form of sound words, which thou hast heard" and again II Timothy 3:14 "But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of." Writing to the Romans Paul said in 11:21 and 22, "For if God spared not the natural branches, take heed lest he also spare not thee. Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God: on them which fell, severity; but toward thee, goodness, if thou continue in his goodness: otherwise thou also shalt be cut off."

MAY 5—"The powers that be are ordained of God." Romans 13:1.

Many a young man is thinking seriously about Romans 13:1 during these days. Perhaps this passage is quoted more than any other by those who feel they must take up combatant service. If the passage is rightly understood, there should be no difficulty. True, Paul says "Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers." But he also said, "the powers are ordained of God." God has ordained that there should be a U. S. A. To this power we are true so long as the power does not demand something which is contrary to the teaching of Christ. We pay our taxes, we obey the laws of the country, etc. but we will not do that which our country will ask of us, if it is clearly shown by God's Word, that by so doing, we sin. In Acts 5:29 we read, "Then Peter and the other apostles answered and said, "We ought to obey God rather than men." Young men, here is a challenge. Will you obey the power of God?

MAY 6—"A certain lawyer stood up, and tempted him." Luke 10:25.

This passage should give us a great deal of courage. We do not rejoice because Jesus was tempted, but we rejoice because having been tempted, we can come to him for help and strength. This was not the first time Jesus was tempted. He spent 40 days in the wilderness. During these 40 days he was tempted three times by Satan, but He who knew no sin, was victorious. The number 40 is the number of testing. Moses spent 40 years as a training to lead Israel. It rained 40 days when Noah was in the ark. Israel spent 40 years in the wilderness. It appears in Matt. 4:1 that Jesus was to pass through this time of testing for we read, "Then Jesus was led up of the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil." Thanks be to God, that when we are tempted, we can come to Him who was "tempted in all points as we are" that we might receive strength to be victorious over sin.

MAY 7—"Jesus himself stood in the midst of them, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you." Luke 24:36.

Undoubtedly at some time or other all of us as children passed through an experience when we were frightened. How comforting to hear an older brother or father say, "Don't be afraid, I'm with you." This must have been the experience of the two disciples on their way to Emmaus, who were later telling their experience at Jerusalem to others when Jesus appeared and uttered the words of the text. How familiar these words were, for they heard him say almost the same thing on a previous occasion, "Peace be still" to the troubled waters, and there was a great calm. In the text, he calmed the troubled hearts of his disciples. Is it not wonderful, that even now he will speak to a troubled soul that believes in him? Friend, will you not take your burden to the Lord in prayer? He is waiting to calm your troubled soul.

MAY 8—"Thy Kingdom come." Matt. 6:10.

These words Jesus included in the prayer he taught his disciples. Addressing the Father in heaven and then saying, "Hallowed be thy name" or "Holy and reverend be Thy name." He then taught his disciples to pray for the Kingdom of the Father saying, "Thy Kingdom come." When will the Father reign? Turning to II Corinthians 15:24, 25, we read, "Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have put down all rule and all authority and power. For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet." See again verse 28, "And when all things shall be subdued unto him, then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all and in all."

MAY 9—"When we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly." Romans 5:6.

When we think of Christ's coming into the world to die for our sin, we who were altogether unclean, and as filthy rags according to Isaiah, must call upon our inner most being like the Psalmist and say, "Bless the Lord O my soul and all that is within me, bless his holy name." We read that "For a good man, some would dare to die," but Jesus, our Savior, was willing to give his life for a sinful, rebellious people. Yes, he gave up the glory of heaven that he might suffer and die for us. Of ourselves we could not be saved, we could not lift ourselves by our own bootstraps, because we did not have the strength required; then, being "yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly."

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary

QUARRYVILLE PENNA., April 17, 1941

Dear Mission Friends:

The past quarter has passed quickly and another report is in order. Generally, the work has gone on in the usual fashion, seemingly in harmony. We have enjoyed the work and the Lord has blessed it in a way pleasing unto Him. Some sickness has prevailed, but our family have been well through the winter and we praise the Lord for His goodness.

For about three months four young people received Bible instruction and were taken into church fellowship on Easter. Altogether five were baptized and taken into the church fellowship on that day. At that time we observed our spring communion; it is believed to be the largest for a number of years. A number of visitors also took part in the observance.

According to my records twenty individuals have been taken into church fellowship in the six years of service here. That, of course, is not a large number but most of these are dependable to date. At the same time a goodly number had to be dropped from the register, some that I do not know to date and no one else knows where they are. Then too, the scattered group that we have, presents difficulties hard to solve.

For the present year I am serving as President of our District Sunday School work. This work takes in about twenty churches or more. During Holy Week I spoke in the St. Paul's Reformed church in Quarryville. Have spoken there a number of times in recent years. Last week I conducted a funeral of a mother, however, not from our church. Thus as the doors open the ministry is enlarged.

We appreciate all financial help that may be given us. May the Lord bless you and the churches. May the Lord bless your every effort for Him and may He help in our need is our prayer.

Yours in the Master's Name,

—Sylvan Lehman

FOREIGN MISSIONS

FROM ONE HOME TO THE OTHER

By John Thiessen

The time has come when we are again on our trip to our other home on this earth—India. America is the land of our birth and our home. We love America—her fields, gardens, mountains, rivers, homes, and our many friends and brethren and sisters. Yet, India has also become our home—with her burning sunbeams, her rains resembling cloudbursts, her glorious starry sky in the cool season, her rice fields, her mud huts and her multitudes of people for which Christ also has died and whom He now would lead into the communion of the Father. Yes, our love and our home feeling are also in India.

From one home to the other is also the pilgrim journey of our whole life. Here on earth we walk hand in hand with our heavenly Father, through Christ. We here feel at home with Him. But hand in hand we will also in His due time enter the gates of eternity into the eternal home. Then we shall also go from one home to the other when our time here in this life will have ended and our work done.

We have enjoyed ourselves in the home in America, although is has been a very busy time for us. Before we left our home in India in March 1939, we knew that at least our boys, Harold and Authur, would likely not again as children go back to the land of their birth. We wished for them that they might also feel at home in the American home, which has, as yet, not been quite successful, for India is "home" for them. In order to give them opportunity to appreciate and love America, we went with them to the west coast in summer 1939. Here we viewed the beauties of nature, the creation of God. We also visited churches here along the west coast up to British Colombia, and then to Montana, North Dakota and Minnesota. In this way our children got an insight into our Mennonite churches, which helps them to feel at home in the church and among our brethren and sisters. On this trip our whole family was together, and the ten thousand miles which we went in our Plymouth are glorious memories. The beautiful highways, the glorious parks, the fair in San Fransisco, the snow covered mountains, the friendly reception in church and home, our children will never forget.

But then came the time when we had to settle in some place, for it was school time for the children. Both Newton and Bluffton gave invitations. Newton, and especially Bethel College is my Alma Mater, and we were greatly drawn there. But at Newton there already were a number of missionaries on furlough, and at Bluffton there were none, so we decided for Bluffton. There the brethren and sisters had taken care that we could have a nice and homelike home. We again express our thanks to the dear friends at Bluffton. My family was now provided with a home; but it was not my lot that I could often enjoy this home. For it is one duty of mission workers to visit churches in order to tell of the works of God on the mission field. So I had to be on the road—on auto, train, bus, wagon, buggy, sled, and sometimes walk on foot; only not on airplane. I have traveled many thousands of miles, on our own car more than thirty thousand miles. In Canada and the Eastern District Conference I did not have our car, as well as also on some other trips. All the traveling has been done in good health, and we again thank the dear heavenly Father for it. My family also was well so that a plan never had to be interrupted on account of sickness in the family. Plans could be be made long in advance and then executed. Only once were our plans crossed. Our Mission Board asked us to remain one year longer in America to visit churches. And right close to this decision there came a call form the Relief Board that I should go to Europe and there help to bring relief. That was a test in our home, also in connection with the work in India. In India on the station there are too few workers and we should go back as soon as we could. But the call to Europe seemed to be a beckoning from the Lord. Whether right or wrong, my family must finally decide, which was very hard. I was traveling in Pennsylvania. My family first sent a telegram and said, yes, I could go. But after the telegram they had not been able to sleep at home, so before I could report to the Board there came a second telegram which said, no. So it was "no," and for that reason we are on our way to India half a yea rsooner than would have been possible if I had first traveled to Europe. We believe this to be God's leading.

When the time of my travels in Canada came to a close, where I was privileged to visit a total of one hundred and thirty-three churches and groups, our eyes were at once directed to the Indian home. In Canada the doors of love and confidence were always open, and I cannot yet find words to express my thanks for all that was done to me by our dear brethern and sisters in the North. The same thing is also true of our churches in the states. Altogether I have been able to visit 289 churches in Canada and the states. The background of the work in the Kingdom of God on our Mission Fields, as far as our churches are concerned, is good. It is especially gratifying that our churches speak increasingly of "our work in India, China, among the Indians in America," and do not say to the missionary "your work." This identifying of themselves with the work in distant fields I consider a very great step in the right direction of mission activity in our churches.

A time was set in which we should leave for our home in India. The beginning of March was decided upon. Then suddenly the doors seemed to be closed. We were told my wife and girls would receive no pass. (It had already been decided before that our boys should remain in America). Well, without a pass one cannot travel to a foreign country. What should we do now? Sit and wait? We agreed to go ahead and to drive separately to the brethren of the Mission Board who are in Kansas to get advice. And if their separate advice would agree the leading of God. So that is what we did. All the brethren separately, without having conferred together, advised us to go ahead, to take farewell and go to the west coast, and arrange for passage on a ship as though everything was in the best order. We also believed this to be the will of God, and acted accordingly. We had already been in communication with Washington, as well as with the British consul in Chicago. They all knew about our intention. But there was no promise of a pass. We went up to Los Angeles. From there we began to telegraph and the pass really came, and per airplane at that. Nevertheless we missed the first ship on which we had arranged for passage. It was the ship S. S. President Cleveland. But we soon found out that the ship S. S. Harrison, which we should take from Manila according to the first plan, would also leave from San Francisco. So we quickly telegraphed for room on this ship, and it was given us. Later on the officer of the ship said that just before our telegram had arrived, one family had given up their trip and renounced their room. Then our telegram came and we got that room. Again a leading of God.

On the first of February we bade farewell to our two boys in Bluffton, Ohio, on the 5th to mother and brothers and sisters in Chicago. And on the 25th and 27th to the brothers and sisters in Kansas. So the month of February was a month of leave-taking for us which we will never forget, especially since it meant to take leave of our children for eight years. We then remained in California for three weeks, where we visited our churches a second time and where we again received a friendly reception. On March 21st at noon we went on board our ship in San Francisco. On the coast stood my niece and Miss Talitha Neufeld, who was on our mission field in China a few years ago, and called to us a last farewell and committal to God. With us on the ship there are yet six other mission families who travel to India or to the Philippine Islands. Here is also Br. Paul Bartel, son of brother and sister H. C. Bartel in China. Brother Bartel is the only one who goes to China.

Our ship had been on the way only one hour when we already took care that the fishes should also get something. As soon as the ship leaves the so-called Golden Gate out of San Francisco, the sea becomes restless at once. It was that way when we left here in 1930 and now it was that way too. We lay down and stayed down for the rest of the day and also on the whole following day. On the third day, which was Sunday, we again enjoyed life, and had our ship worship; and then we began to taste the joy of friendship and love with which so many had provided us. We were greeted by more than one hundred and fifty farewell letters when we got on board the ship. That is a joy! And then a number of packages had also arrived for ourselves and, for some months, our co-workers in India. For all of this hearty thanks. On most of them it is clearly indicated to whom they should go. But on some this is not indicated. Some we received personally into the hand, but under circumstances which made it too easy to forget from whom and to whom. For instance, I stand after the services and speak to a number of brethren and sisters at once. Somebody comes and puts a package into my pocket and says: for so and so. Afterwards I feel the package, but it has slipped my mind from whom or to whom, if this is not indicated on the cover. So I would like to ask that all those who are sending something along with us for brethren and sisters in India would be so good as to write to India and ask ask whether they have received what was sent along with us, and what it was that you have sent. We are glad to take along what is given and want to pass it on too, as desired.

Sometimes in the past we have heard that it was said: the water of the ocean was smooth as glass. We have not seen such a thing so far on our four previous ocean trips. But on the 24th and 25th of March it was that way on this ocean. We can now understand that it was as the quiet ocean. It can be very quiet; so that it feels as one passenger said today: "It is as on balloon tires." But the quiet one can also rage; this we have experienced too.

This part of our report shall be sent off day after tomorrow from Honolulu. So, if it is God's will, the continuation will follow from beyond Honolulu.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

—Rev. J. M. Frantz, Albany, Oregon, writes: After April 14 change my address to The Mennonite from 1114 Santiam Road, Albany, Oregon, to Salem, Oregon, Route 6, Box 130. I do not want to miss a single number.

INVITATION

The members and pastor of the Butterfield Mennonite Church, (in Butterfield, Minnesota) extend an invitation to all the churches in the Northern District, and any that may be interested, to attend the sessions of the Northern District Conference that will convene in our midst on June 7 to 11 next. Rev. P. H. Unruh of Goessel, Kansas, is to be the guest speaker and will bring messages every session upon the Holy Spirit. Every pastor, worker, and Christian will profit through these studies.

We welcome you to the Butterfield Mennonite Church.

SURVEY OF 1940 RETREATS AVAILABLE

A brief summary of general information regarding the General Conference Young People's Retreat for 1940 has been made by the Young People's Committee. Ten retreats have been surveyed as to purpose, leadership, program of instruction, retreat grounds, organizational set-up, recreational program, together with suggestions for improvement.

A few copies of this ten page mimeographed form are still available to members of retreat committees, ministers, young peoples' workers interested in furthering a progressive Christ-centered retreat program for 1941.

Order immediately (enclosing 10c in stamps or coin to help cover cost of mimeographing and mailing) to The Young People's Committee, Division for Retreat Study, 1408 North Ninth St., Beatrice, Nebraska.

THE CHURCH ENLARGING ITS FELLOWSHIP

Acts 8:1-8, 14-17, 25

Topic: "Sharing Christ With Others"

Introduction

There had been no severe persecution of Christians before Stephen's death. The apostles had been arrested and imprisoned (A 4:3, 5:18) by the rulers. Now, however, strong opposition appeared in certain synagogues against Stephen's preaching. He was charged with blasphemy against the temple and God (6:9-15). At his trial before the council, he firmly rebuked the members for resisting the Holy Spirit and for failure to keep their own law (7:1-60). This aroused their anger and when he declared his vision of Christ, they in a frenzied rage, cast him out of the city and stoned him.

Persecution Scatters the Church vs 1-3.

Saul, a zealous young Pharisee, was present at the stoning of Stephen and fully approved of it. He was now the leader in the great persecution against the followers of Jesus. He was determined to wipe out all teaching and preaching of faith in the risen Christ. His intense bitterness was wreaked against all who dared to confess Christ. Many believers left Jerusalem, but the apostles courageously remained in the city, and at all risks, carried on the work of the Church. This storm of hatred carried out Christ's purpose (A 1:8). Saul's persecution was thorough and relentless (v 3).

Persecuted Christians Preach the Word vs 4-8

Persecution spread the Christian movement instead of crushing it. The Christians carried the gospel with them and each one was a missionary (v 4). The lay-workers of the Church told the good news as they went. Philip, one of the seven deacons, went to Samaria, a despised country, and preached Christ there (v 5). This was indeed a new step. The people heard him gladly (v 6) and God set His seal upon Philip's ministry by empowering him to work miracles (v 7). His deeds seemingly spoke louder than his words. The gospel message brought great joy to the city of Samaria. Accepting the gospel always brings joy into hearts and lives.

Saul could not prevent the preaching of the gospel in Samaria. He had undertaken more than he could carry through. The persecution in Jerusalem failed. Satan over-reached himself when he started it. The net result of it was to scatter Christianity widly in a short time.

Samaritans Receive the Holy Ghost vs 14-17

The news from Samaria soon reached the apostles in Jerusalem (v 14). They sent their very best men to foster the new work there. In this act they accepted the Samaritan Christians into their fellowship. In Christ all racial and national boundaries disappear. Peter and John prayed for all who had been baptized upon their confession of faith in the Lord Jesus, that they might receive the Holy Ghost as a distinct personal experience (v 15). This gift of the Spirit was given to them even as to the Jerusalem Christians (v 17). The gospel privileges are open to all who accept them. The Samaritans were greatly blessed through the ministry of Peter and John. Their faith was deeply grounded and the fellowship of the Church was much enlarged. The Church distributed the gospel. She had a message and desired to tell it.

Thought Suggestions

1. How and why did Saul's persecution of the Church fail?
2. What forms of home missionary work can be done by our churches?
3. What justification is there for excluding any one who sincerely seeks entrance, from the fellowship of the Christian Church?

CHRISTIAN FAMILY WEEK AND MOTHERS' DAY

As the superstructure of civilization is being battered we need all the more to be concerned with its foundations. Therefore Christian Family Week, which is proposed for May 4-11 inclusive, an eight-day week, is especially appropriate as a new observance in church circles. The week starts on May 4, which has been called Child Health Sunday by the Children's Bureau in Washington. It is suggested that in churches attention on that day be given to the physical, mental, and spiritual health of all the children in the community. The week will close on the second Sunday, May, 11, which has been called the Festival of the Christian Home or Mothers' Day.

On these Sundays and in the days between, it is suggested that each church and each family have whatever sort of family life emphasis and program is most appropriate to its situation. Some things proposed for special emphasis in the home are the careful budgeting of time to permit much of family fellowship with good times together; the family council method of meeting problems, making adjustments, and arriving at decisions; dedication of homes and family worship to bring religion close to each family and to make its power available for the daily needs of members; the relation of the family to neighbors and community in terms of developing citizenship; the place of the family in the church; and everything which pertains to home improvement.

Emphasis from the church point of view would be to scrutinize the church's educational and social ministry and see whether parents are being helped adequately to meet the problems of parenthood; whether young people are receiving the best kind of training and preparation for the homes of the future; and whether there is adequate provision to help husbands and wives in making those adjustments which may spell success or failure for their venture. Those churches or groups of churches which desire them would have conferences for parents, for youth, and for leaders. A program for the ministerial association might consider the general significance of the family for the church and special emphasis on the minister's opportunity in premarital and post-marital counseling.

The program should be elastic and should be adopted to the particular needs of each denomination, each council of churches and each local church and family. Thus each group will take this fertile idea which has far-reaching possibilities and will give it reality in local churches and individual families, always remembering that the home is the foundation of the church and the social order as well as the ground of inner strength of the individual, whether parent or child. It is also the most influential school of religion and the greatest force in shaping the lives of children.

IN MEMORIAM

BENEDICT LIECHTI, a retired farmer, died at 2:05 a. m. today of the infirmities of age. He was born in Switzerland and came here in June, 1880, with his wife and three children. He was a member of the First Mennonite Church, Bluffton, Ohio.

Surviving are his wife, Marian, to whom he had been married 66 years; five daughters, Mrs. Pauline Liechty and Mrs. Kate Sprunger, both of Berne, Ind.; Mrs. Caroline Parker of Lima, Ind., Mrs. Christina Basinger of Pandora, and two sons, Emmanuel of Mt. Blanchard and Noah of Bluffton; 28 grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the First Mennonite Church, Bluffton. The Rev. H. T. Unruh officiated. Burial was in the Ebenezer Cemetery.

GERHARD EWERT, son of Peter Ewert and Helena Nachtigal Ewert, was born in Michalin, near Machnovka, Russia, July 19, 1840. He was baptized and received into the church, April 9, 1858. He was joined in marriage with Eva Foth, May 5, 1871. Two children, Anna and John, were born to them. The family came to America late in 1874, arriving in Peabody, Kansas, December 5. In 1875 the family settled on a 40 acre farm in Pleasant Township, Harvey County, Kansas. Here the mother preceded her husband in death, July 1927. For a number of years he lived alone in the home, highly appreciating the assistance by the neighbors. When the infirmities of old age made it impossible for him to stay alone, he was taken to the hospital. There in the home for the aged he spent the last years of his life, always highly appreciative of and grateful for the care he here received. In July 1940 his hundredth anniversary was celebrated in the home for the aged.—He passed away April 14 at 4 a. m. at the age of 100 years, 8 months, and 26 days.— His son, John G. and children survive him.

TOBIAS B. JANTZ, the son of Benjamin P. and Helena (Koehn) Jantz, was born in Poland, Russia, September 29, 1871. In 1874 at the age of three years he came to America with his parents. They settled in Lancaster County, Pa. After three years they came to Moundridge, Kansas, and made this their home. Here Mr. Jantz grew to manhood, was instructed and baptized by Elder Johann Ratzlaff, and became a member of Emmanuel Mennonite Church. His parents moved to Oklahoma in 1894, but he continued to work at Eldorado for six years, when he also followed them. It was soon after, that he transferred his church membership to the New Hopedale Church and remained a member to his end. Nevember 27, 1904, he married Mary Koehn, with whom he shared joy and sorrow for over 36 years. They now made Meno, Oklahoma, their home and lived here for about four years, then at Talogo until 1915, and lastly back to the Meno community to stay.

He became ill Friday night, March 14, was taken to the Hospital, was operated on Tuesday, March 18, and died Sunday evening, March 23, 1941, at 7:30, at the age of 69 years, 5 months and 24 days.

He leaves to mourn his loss: his beloved wife, two sons and four daughters, namely, Mrs. Anna Peterson, Ringwood, Oklahoma; Frank Jantz, Lahoma, Oklahoma; Mrs. Lena Boston, Perrytown, Texas; Mrs. Rosalie Fritzler, and Mrs. Caroline Jantzen, Lahoma, Oklahoma, and Irvin of the home; also ten grandchildren; six brothers and three sisters: Jacob, Meno, and Henry, Taloga; Benjamin, Meno; John and David, Goltry; Andrew, Pineville, Missouri; Mrs. Susie Schmidt, Sublette, Kansas; Mrs. Katie Schultz, Billings, Oklahoma; Mrs. Elisabeth Unruh, Meno, and many other friends and relatives.

At the funeral home the Rev. H. U. Schmidt spoke on John 14:1-3; at the church Rev. Albert J. Unruh used, Job. 14:1-15; and Rev. Schmidt, John 11: 32-45.

CAROLINA UNRUH WEDEL, born May 10, 1866, in Russian Poland; came to this country in 1874; married Heinrich P. Wedel, Dec. 7, 1883; died April 12, 1941, near Galva, Kansas, and was buried in the Emmanuel Mennonite Cemetery on April 16. The Revs. J. J. Ratzlaff and G. A. Linscheid officiating.

Simplicity, in truth, is less dependent upon external things than we imagine. It can live in broadcloth or homespun; it can eat white bread or black. It is not outward, but inward.

A certain openness of mind to learn the daily lessons of the school of life; a certain willingness of heart to give and to receive that extra service, that gift beyond the strict measure of debt which makes friendship possible; a certain clearness of spirit to perceive the best in things and people, to love it without fear and to cleave to it without mistrust; a peaceable sureness of affection and taste; a gentle straightforwardness of action; a kind sincerity of speech—these are the marks of the simple life, which cometh not with observation, for it is within you.

ORATORY CONTEST

The Annual Western District Oratory Contest will be held in the Bethel College chapel on May 16, at 2:30 o'clock. All those who are interested in hearing these orations are invited to attend.

The prize in both divisions, peace and missions, is again an expense-paid retreat. The winners will also give their orations at the Annual Music Festival.

All interested orators in the Western District are urged to enter. Those entering should inform Edwin R. Stucky, North Newton, Kansas, of this by May 5th.

What Value Has the Simple Life for Me?

In an attempt to evaluate the Simple Life I find it to be the life that our Savior lived. No other human life yielded so much glory to God and so much blessing to mankind. His one aim in life was always to do the will of his Father and to accomplish the work He had given him to do. To fulfill this purpose Jesus eliminated all self-life and gratification of the flesh. By his example and teaching Jesus commends the Simple Life to His own.

The Holy Spirit, by the pen of Luke, describes the life of the early Christians in one sentence, "They continued daily with one accord, . . . breaking bread from house to house, did eat their meat with gladness and singleness of heart, praising God, and having favor with all the people." This too is written for our learning and emulation.

Since God has set eternity upon the human soul and set His love upon me to redeem me from all bondage to Satan, the world and sin, my life can have but one aim. This I must express in a life of simple faith in Jesus Christ as my Savior and Lord, and in true love to God and man by the power and under the direction of the Holy Spirit.

By the Rev. H. Albert Claassen

GUIDED BY THE SPIRIT

We, as Christian Young People, are facing terrific problems. We realize that we must think through many things which we have been taking for granted. There is an increasing interest all over in determining ways to live the Christian life more effectively. Now, if you were asked to write a brief article stating your views on the method by which we can attain a high standard of Christian character what would you say? This is the question I want to answer.

Basically it may be said that there are two ways that are always suggested to meet this objective. First, some suggest that we adopt a certain list of principles and live up to these. It is said that the principles governing present day life are not Christian; therefore counter principles are suggested to replace them in indivdiual and group life. The person who tries this plan faces difficulties. How will he know which principles to adopt? Writers and leaders differ. Then, too, if he takes the life and teaching of Jesus as his standard how long will he live up to it? A young man constantly yielded to a certain temptation; so in order to remind himself of this sin he burned his hand. He felt that the scar would bring the consequences of this sin before him in such a vivid manner that he could avoid it. But this failed! Now, to be sure, we must use our wills in this whole matter of Christian living, but this is not the starting point.

The second way to live the Christian life is to constantly seek the guidance of the Spirit of God. Christian character is the fruit of the Spirit. The first step to achieve this is a spirit of utter willingness to be cleansed and filled by the Spirit. We need to pray with the Psealmist, "Search me, O God, and know my heart: try me, and know my thoughts." Then we follow that with "create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me." As we then "sow to the Spirit" we will reap the harvest of the Spirit.

What is this harvest? It is a cleansing of the inner life. The fruit of the Spirit is first experienced in the heart: love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance. Then, since "out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh," our personal relations will be purified. The fruit of the Spirit will find expression in our words and deeds. Thus as the Spirit leads individuals, group life is changed. A bond of union is created which naught can sever. We have a common source of strength and look at life from the same perspective.

Not only this, but the Spirit will lead us to a new and constantly deepening allegiance to all that was dear to Christ. The Church will take on new meaning; for Christ gave Himself for it. The cause of missions will cease to be an obligation; it will be a privilege; for Christ said "Go ye" and "Lo, I am with you alway.' Relief work will not be a burden; for we minister in Christ's name. The cause of Christian education will take on new meaning ;for we are giving ourselves to the task of extending His Kingdom.

We should be able to compare a Christian community to a well-organized orchestra. When Toscannini lifts his baton musicians playing many instruments are ready to respond. They play different notes of varying tone quality: yet they harmonize to produce the central theme of the selection. We have different talents and varying personality traits; however, if we respond to the "baton" of the Spirit of God, He can lead us in the production of spiritual harmonies of which His Love is the central theme. How sweet those strains are to a world filled with discords!

Let us all ask ourselves this question: "Am I being guided by the Spirit?" As a young person "Am I willing to fit into the total 'harmony' producing this melody of His love?" This is the supreme challenge!

OUR NEWSPAPERS

Program for May 18, 1941

Main Topic: How to Read our Newspapers
Eph. 4:25-27, 29-32.

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Where cross the crowded ways of life" No. 222; "Master, speak! thy servant heareth" No. 219; "God's trumpet wakes the slumbering world" No. 194.
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Talk on "Propaganda in our newspapers" by a qualified, outside speaker.
4. Offering for mission work

II. Leader's Introduction

Perhaps one class of papers should be called attention to as also belonging to the newspapers, namely, our church papers. They bring us the news about our own denominational work—about the progress and plans and difficulties on the mission field, editorials of vital interest on questions and problems of the day as seen in the light of religion, correspondences that throw light on the life of our churches, programs and reports of conferences and conventions which are the hub of our church work, food for the growth of our spiritual man through the articles and meditations of church leaders. They are a bond of fellowship between our widely scattered churchgroups which no member should try to do without. Our younger members need to read them to become "integrated" into the life and work of our denomination.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Fulfilling God's Word.	Exod. 24:3-8
2. Reading the resolution.	2 Kings 23:1-3
3. News from the Lord.	Hab. 2:2-4
4. Ineffective reading.	John 5:37-40
5. Explanation required.	Acts 8:26-35
6. God's precepts our criterion.	Ps. 119:97-104

IV. For Discussion

1. How can we get our church papers into every home of our church?
2. What newspapers should we read? What parts of them? How much time should we allow for them? How are we to read them?
3. What magazines are to be recommended Which ones are not commendable?

V, Facts for Study

Readers of newspapers are at the mercy of the publisher's use of the news. Sometimes important and significant items are poorly presented or are relegated to the inside pages. Sometimes news stories are so written as to emphasize the publisher's political prejudice or social bias.

Often the interests of advertisers control the policy of a newspaper, with regard to its treatment of social problems. For example, papers which receive a large amount of money from liquor advertising cannot afford to attack the liquor evil.

In these days the news of the war and of political events are often so distorted, discolored, or untruthfully presented that it is very difficult, if not altogether impossible to know what is true. Propaganda methods are used that people may be influenced. After their emotions are appealed to by slogans, or by arousing their prejudices. We need to note that even where the truth is brought, frequently not all the facts are available.

It is fortunate that a Christian need not know all the news in order to live a life of love and service, that he can lend a helping hand like the good Samaritan without knowing the names of the robbers.

VI. Illustration

A Newspaperman's Work

When Jacob Riis became a newspaper reporter in New Yory City, he had experienced the dreadfulness of life in the tenements. Because he was so familiar with the cruelty and suffering he wanted to make things better and so decided to enter the ministry. A friend with whom he discussed the matter said: "God needs Christian reporters as much as ministers." This remark so impressed Jacob Riis that he decided to dedicate himself as a reporter to the Lord's work. Through his zeal tenements were torn down and rebuilt in sanitary fashion. Year after year he kept up the fight until at his death he had accomplished more than anyone else to make living sanitary and comfortable for the poor of the city.

VII. Food for Thought

The Tide is Sure to Win

On the far reef the breakers recoil in shattered foam,
But still the sea behind them urges its forces home;
Its song of triumph surges o'er all the thunderous
din,

The wave may break in failure, but the tide is sure to win.

The reef is strong and cruel; upon its jagged wall
One wave—a score, a hundred—broken and beaten fall;
Yet in defeat they conquer, the sea comes crowding in,
The wave may break in failure, but the tide is sure to win.

O mighty sea, thy message in changing spray is cast.
Within God's plan of progress it matters not at last
How wide the shores of evil, how strong the reef of sin,
The wave may break in failure, but the tide is sure to win!

Scripture Reading, Matt. 10:27-32, 36-40; Luke 10:2.

Prayer Hymn, "Have Thine Own Way."

Prayer by Superintendent.

Poem:

Is This the Time to Retreat?

Is this the time, O Church of Christ, to sound
Retreat? To arm with weapons cheap and blunt
The men and women who have borne the brunt
Of truth's fierce strife, and nobly held their ground?
Is this the time to halt, when all around
Horizon's light, new destinies confront,
Stern duties wait our nation, never wont
To play the laggard, when God's will was found?
No! Rather strengthen stakes and lengthen cords,
Enlarge thy plans and gifts, O thou elect,
And to thy kingdom come for such a time!
The earth with all the fulness is the Lord's,
Great things attempt for Him, great things expect!
Whose love imperial is, whose power sublime.

Song, "O Zion, Haste."

Discussion—Are Missionaries Needed Here?

1. Are Missionaries needed in a land where millions are undernourished in a land of plenty?

2. Are Missionaries needed in a land of unemplayed millions?

3. Are Missionaries needed in a land where millions of idealistic youth, critical of the sins of their fathers, are yet doing so little to avert oft-repeated tragedies?

4. Are Missionaries needed in a land where Christians are too little concerned about the injustices and miseries of our cities and of the countryside?

5. Are Missionaries needed in a land where there are only a few hotels which will accommodate even the most prominent negroes?

6. Are Missionaries needed in a land where hordes of children, homeless, schoolless, churchless, are growing up totally ignorant of Amerisa's ideals? Such are the children of the roving group of Migrants.

10. Read, Mark 16:17-18.

III. Mission Minutes

1. A Junior may read "Witnesses" by Dr. Ella G. Bauman, in The Mennonite of April 22, 1941.
2. Pray for our missionary doctors and nurses also for those who are ill in the missionary hospitals. (If pictures of either the workers or the hospitals can be obtained let the children see them.)

IV. Closing Moments. (stand)

1. Boys repeat the memory verse for the month.—Phil. 4:13.
2. Girls sing the song of the month from memory—"Blest be the Tie."
3. One Junior boy pray the prayer for the month. Ps. 42:1.
4. In unison pray the Lord's Prayer.
5. Benediction, Hebrews 13:20, 21.
6. Sing softly, "Into My Heart."

CORRESPONDENCE

SECOND MENN. CHURCH, BEATRICE, NEBR.

regrets to lose two of its older and highly valued members, Brother and Sister William Wiebe, who are leaving here to make their future home near Bluffton, Ohio, in order to be near to some of their children and grandchildren in that vicinity. They will be greatly missed in our church, where they have always helpfully participated in its various activities, and many expressions of love and good-will were tendered them at a recent farewell reception.

—W. C. A., Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, SHAFTER, CALIF.

Rev. J. P. Glanzer was recently called to the bedside of his sister in North Dakota, who was near death. Word has not yet been received as to her present condition. Rev. Glanzer expects to return in a few weeks.

As a birthday gift to Mrs. Glanzer, the Ladies' Sewing Circle presented to her a beautiful quilt which had been worked by the Ladies.

Much work has been done in the last month on the church grounds and in the basement. Grass, trees, and shrubs have been planted in front, and about the church. Drawers and doors have been put in the basement pantry. A sidewalk has been laid from the steps of the church to the main walk.

Easter Sunday morning, due to the absence of our regular Pastor, Rev. Edgar Toevs of Reedley, Calif., delivered the morning sermon. His message was interesting and very inspiring. In the evening we had our Easter program, consisting of songs, readings and dialogues by the Sunday School classes and the adults.

—Donna Gorsching, Corr.

EDEN CHURCH, NEAR MOUNDRIDGE, KANS.

It was our privelege to spend the last evening of the old and the first morning of the New Year in the house of the Lord. As the final scripture text for the year 1940, our pastor selected Hebrews 13:8, "Jesus Christ the same, yesterday, today, and forever."

During the first part of the year our minister presented interesting sermons on David and his attitude toward: the House of God, Word of God, Prayer, Fearlessness, and The New Song. We observed February 10 to 14 as Prayer and Bible week, during which an interesting study of I Thessalonians was made. So far this year, we have welcomed several guest ministers to our services. The Rev. Theodore Roth of Whitewater filled the pulpit on February 2, while our pastor, Reverend Goering, was conducting services at Mountain Lake, Minnesota. The Rev. Sam Goering had charge of the meetings on March 16 and 23, and later on another Sunday. March 16, Brother Carl Landis delivered a message on "Peace". Dr. Ed. Kaufman of Bethel College brought the message on April 20. The Reverend Bittinger, a returned missionary from Africa, was the main speaker at a Ladies' Mission society program on March 16.

Eight marriages have been announced in our church since the first of the year, four of them taking place at our church and two are to occur next week.

At present many of our members are sick, some seriously. However, as it was a year on April 1, since the last member of our church died, we owe many thanks to God for the way in which He has kept us during the past year. Surely the Lord is giving us a wonderful opportunity to work for Him while our day of grace is yet at hand.

On Easter Sunday we again had three services: Sunrise service at 6 a.m., regular worship services at 10:30, and a rendition of Handel's Messiah by a chorus of about 100 voices in the evening. The Oratorio was under the direction of Ben. Zerger, and accompanied by a string ensemble. On Monday following Easter, the Christian Endeavor group presented an Easter program during the worship hour.

May this war-weary world see the risen Christ and His life-giving power more plainly in our lives from day to day.

—Richard D. Schrag, Corr.

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, ABERDEEN, IDAHO

4 - 7 - 41

The Easter season has inspired us with new hope and faith. The message on Easter morning was brought to us by Arthur Wenger, one of our young men. At this service seven members were added to our congregation, by letter transfer. In the evening our church choir of forty voices rendered the cantata, "Rise Glorious Conqueror," by E. K. Heyser, directed by Gus Klempel, accompanied by Miss Margaret Giesbrecht. Many people of this and neighboring communities shared this splendid performance with us. Several members of our congregation teaching or studying away from home were able to spend Easter here. Among these were Arthur Wenger, Orlando Wiebe and Delmar Wedel, students at Bethel College.

Early this year our choir loft was remodeled to suit the needs of our large choir and new chairs were purchased for it. The Kings Daughters society entertained their husbands and some friends at a pot luck supper on Valentine's Day. The Ladies' Bible Class held a cooked food sale with good receipts. The True Blue girls sent attractive layettes to the Arizona station which the girls had made themselves.

Plans are underway for a Young Peoples' Retreat in early summer. Others are making plans to attend our Pacific District Conference at Dallas, Ore., and others have as their destination our General Conf. at Souderton, Pa. May each of us find greater satisfaction and joy in our Risen Lord!

—Mrs. Gus Klempel, Corr.

BETHANY CHURCH, FREEMAN, S. D., 4-20-41

Greetings—The Bethany Church has also had a series of Passion Week services. The brethren Harold Gross, Albert Claassen, Peter J. Stahl, John Toews, S. P. Preheim, Jacob A. Tieszen, Martin Kroeker, and our pastor Louis Linscheid, each was assigned an appropriate Good Friday or Easter text for a sermon. Our people say they have been a blessing to them.

Easter Monday was a great day in our community for the friends of song and music. Three programs were given in which about fifteen choirs and several bands and orchestras participated, each led by its director. They represented our different Mennonite churches, our local High School, and Freeman Jr. College. Prof. Gerhard Toews was the general director of the program. He also organized a College A Cappella Choir which is worth hearing.

Song and music come from heaven,
On angels' wings they're brought to men;
They brighten hearts and cheer the soul
And help us onward to our goal;
Song and music are heaven's gift
Which do their lovers thrill and lift;
So let us often sing and play,
And thus keep gloom and fear away.

Dr. Paul W. Rood, former President of the Los Angeles Bible Institute, will come to our community for a series of evangelistic meetings lasting from April 23 to May 4. Dr. Rood is a spirit-filled Christian worker and we expect a refreshing time.

Our old church deacon Brother Benj. Waltner is seriously sick from cancer in the stomach, and in a few days his spirit may take its flight to his Redeemer and Lord whom he has faithfully served. And so we hear that Rev. P. R. Schroeder of Mt. Lake, Minn., has been released from his suffering and has gone to his Home in heaven. We have two old Mennonite women here in Freeman who were born in 1849, Mrs. Andrew Hofer and Mrs. Joseph Walter. And two Mennonite Brethren have been suffering from nervous prostration for some ten years. How thankful should all those be who enjoy good health!

GRACE MENNONITE CHURCH, PANDORA, OHIO

On the last Sunday in February the women of the community observed the World's Day of Prayer with a much worth while meeting. On a following Sunday, Mr. R. C. Crosby spoke on the work of the Gideons at the regular worship service, and during the same week a fellowship meeting of the men and boys was held at the church; the Bible teacher of Bluffton College, Prof. A. C. Schultz, was the speaker. On April 6 the church observed baptismal services and added 22 new members. On Easter a joint sunrise service was sponsored by the Christian Endeavor; at this wonderful period, Holy Communion was received by a large number, and on Easter evening, Mamder's "Olivet to Calvary" was given by the church choir.

Rev. and Mrs. Whitmer who have served us for twelve years will leave us by May 1st. We will miss them, but we do wish them God's richest blessing in their future undertaking for Him. The church is planning a farewell reception in their honor for the last Sunday here, April 27.

—Mrs. L. A. Amstutz, Corr.

MENNONITE CHURCH, BUTTERFIELD, MINN.

In Deut. 31:12 we read, "Gather the people together, men, and women, and children, and thy stranger that is within thy gates, that they may hear and that they may learn, and fear the Lord, your God, and observe to do all the words of this law." Our pastor gave a series of messages on the Tabernacle. To illustrate the sermons, he used a miniature tabernacle, built by him and some of the Bible school pupils. These sermons are a wonderful help to us, and we learned that every article in the tabernacle, as well as the curtains and even the coverings, all these speak of Christ.

Every Tuesday afternoon the children of our public school are given an opportunity to attend a Bible class taught by three teachers. Our children need to be taught the Word of God. Our Sunday School consists of eleven classes, two of these are in the German language. Our senior and junior choirs are active and add much to our services. The brethren of our church have organized a Fisherman's club. They meet once a month. At the present they are sponsoring a week's revival meetings with the Reverend Tarnell of Mankato, Minnesota, as principle speaker. Every Tuesday evening we meet for Bible study and prayer service. These meetings are very interesting and very helpful. On March 9 our local Christian Endeavor Society with the state officers and neighboring churches held a rally. The theme was "Christ Calls;" text, Matt. 4:19; Rally song, "Jesus Calls Us." Last Sunday in March we once again gathered around the Lord's table. Jesus said, "Do this in memory of me." On April 6, Reverend Schultz, our pastor, ordained Mr. Albert Linscheid and Mr. Rudolf Linscheid as deacons—this was indeed a heart touching service and memorable. These men are to be co-workers with the pastor and need our earnest prayers.

We are making preparations to entertain the Northern District Conference, June 7 to 11. We invite you to come and share the many blessings God has in store for us. —Mrs. Ted Linscheid, Corr.

ZION MENN. CHURCH, DONNELLSON, IOWA

Shortly after the first of the year, the congregation purchased one hundred and sixty copies of the new Mennonite Hymnary. They were dedicated to their use in a short service during a morning worship period. They are surely enjoyed and serve as a great spiritual blessing to the congregation.

On Palm Sunday our Church choir consisting of twenty voices rendered an appropriate service in song and scripture, pertaining to the theme of Easter. A very uplifting service in these days of trials and tribulations. A large crowd attended the Easter morning services. At this time Holy Communion was held.

SALEM MENN. CHURCH, near FREEMAN, S. D.

With the advent and promise of the beautiful South Dakota spring we look forward with uplifted hearts and renewed spirits to the Giver of all good and perfect gifts. We have been singularly blessed with rain these past weeks. Altogether spring work has been delayed; the outlook for a good growing season is bright. The farmers are putting forth every effort to get the seed into the ground.

This congregation has been saddened by the deaths of two of its former pastors, the Rev. W. S. Gottshall and the Rev. P. R. Schroeder. The influence of these preachers of the Word will be felt for many years to come. During the month of February one of the families of the Church was deeply bereaved by the death of the mother of the home, Mrs. Ernest Schrag. She is survived by her husband and three children.

At the last yearly business meeting of the congregation it was decided to enlarge the church basement during the summer, thus providing more room for Sunday School work and other activities.

Since the church has been without a regular pastor, we have had many visiting ministers serve us. During the winter and spring months we have had the faithful ministery of the Rev. John Toews and the Rev. Harold Gross, both of Freeman. A catechism class of about 35 young people are receiving instruction under the direction of Mr. Toews and Mr. Gross. During the second week in March, the Rev. Willard Claassen of Roaring Springs, Pa., conducted a series of meetings in response to an invitation from the church. At a special congregational meeting a few weeks later it was unanimously decided to give Mr. Claassen a call to serve the congregation as pastor.

rebuild national character. It is true, that the Gospel of the Lord Jesus Christ is the most creative force the world has ever known.

The days of Evangelism over? No friends, as long as our Lord Jesus remains at the right hand of the Father, as our High Priest; and men and women remain in this earth who share His passion for lost souls, as did John Knox when he prayed, "O God, give me Scotland or I'll die," the days of Creative Evangelism will not be over!

HOMEWARD BOUND

(Fourth Letter—Concluded from last week)

These lines are issued in Singapore, one of Britain's strategic cities. On the Malay Peninsula, British possessions stretch along the western coast several hundreds of miles, cover over 52,000 square miles with a population of almost five million. Singapore itself is an island 27 miles long and 14 miles wide, just off the southern tip of the Peninsula, acquired by Sir Stamford Raffles from the Sultan of Johore in 1819. It became a Crown Colony in 1867. The island has 250 miles of well built roads. The city with a population of nearly 600,000, bears the same name. The climate varies little all through the year; the mean temperature registers 86 Fahrenheit. The humidity causes sultry tendencies. Through its streets spin the autos with a terrific speed, with astonishingly few accidents, in spite of being driven mostly by non-Europeans. The most important products shipped from this port and others of the peninsula are tin and rubber, sixty per cent of the world's output. Our ship took 2,000 tons of rubber for Akron, Ohio, for the Goodyear Tire factory. It was packed in three forms: One kind in wooden boxes; the semi-fluid in barrels; then another in burlap bales, 250 pounds each. Besides these goods, huge quantities of tapioca flour fill the hatches. The next port is going to weigh down the liner with another several thousands of tons of tin, etc.

The harbor is jamed with a conglomeration of crafts sailing under various flags in peace time. Close to the ship little boats draw near with screaming divers stretching out their hands for coins to be dropped into the deep. Diving like frogs, they rescue every single one. The streets offer scenes of the most fascinating features of Orental types. Vivid color is displayed everywhere; the streets seethe with life. The vehicles are manifold. Trackless trolleys dodge two-passenger, two-wheeled rickshaws, drawn by a man joyously for a few cents; clumsy bullock and buffalo carts, so common to our eye in India daily. The Indian life obviously begins here: Tiny Austins race the black and red jitneys and other pleasure cars of every description. Near the edges of the streets the walking and moving restaurants arrest the eye of the visitor; the hungry squat down anywhere, so-to-say, and enjoy the hot chillies, noodles, onions. The after-effects for the nose, are none too pleasing. Anyone eating such a meal, sitting down in the back pews of a church will without further commotion cause the audience to move up. Why not have such means introduced in churches where the back pews are overcrowded, while the minister preaches to the patient front empty pews. These streets sometimes want to suggest as if folks are living to eat.

Not only the above engages the eyes of the stranger. Most of the Orientals are wrapped in universal sarongs of gorgeous colors, most flamboyant. It is a kaleidoscopic scene of Singhalese topknots, Hindu turbans; long hair flowing in the air messed together; ash-covered faces of Hindu fakirs; diamond-studded noses, rel-lipped betelnut chewers; very common with us in India; clicking wooden-soled slippers, barefoot flappers, shuffling mules and other beasts of burden, (well known to us), grotesque black cotton umbrellas. As a rule we find that in Manila, Hongkong, Singapore, the ordinary public is dressed in apparel more attractive, disclosing that the income must be considerably superior to our people in India. The most pitiful in appearance are the Chinese and Indian laborers. They arouse one's pity. Why are these so poor, while others live in plenty, hoarding riches on the hardships of these depressed? To the observant person this explains easily.

It was our happy lot to spend Sunday, December 1, in this cross-road city of the world, midways between China and India. Ships from everywhere pass here. Now, however, the tense political feelings have changed things. The Methodist Church carries on work here. They have ten churches, where thirteen congregations worship, in seven languages; three or four Girls' Schools with more than 1,300 students, one Anglo-Chinese Boys' School, with more than 2,100 students. What a Christian influence is wielded. But it is surprising that only about 10 percent of those studying youths are Christians. Could this money be put into some other avenues of Christian work more effectively? That morning we gathered in the Wesleyan Church for a service. Dr. H. B. Amstutz is the pastor. We found that his relatives are living around Sterling and Pandora, Ohio, and were church members when functioning as pastor of those respective churches some thirty-four years ago. Rev. Thomson is the assistant pastor here, who conducted most reverently. He knew how to generate in each a deep devotional feeling. Rev. J. B. Gray, of India, preached on Mark 6:48. He well understood to picture the Lord coming to us while the turbulent waves slash our canoes of life. While the torrential rain pattered heavily on the roof, the blessings came in a deluge. In the evening another young people's gathering could be attended in the Presbyterian Church. The Vice President of the World's Christian Students' Association, Miss Morton, addressed us, depicting the activities of this association all over the world. Oh, would that soon again all the nationalities enjoy the progress of this work.

The next morning we called on our ex-hostess, where we put up two years ago while waiting for the Dutch Steamer for Java. She is a French woman, in her bosom a God-fearing heart. The conversation centered around experiences in the Lord. In 1938, at the table she would manage to give us a separate place, then draw near us and relate to us some of her experiences with the Master. Now, as we were leaving, she stood in the door, her tears streaming down her cheeks as if family members separated. God's children reside almost everywhere, if only the political troubles would not disrupt the fellowship. The world lies in wickedness, but Christ says, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." Let us not only remember these experiences, but welcome them, and live them out daily.

While these lines are being completed, the ship has left the crossroad-city Singapore, has turned in a northwesterly direction toward Penang, which in 26 hours will be our stopping port. The ship draws more water, possibly 26 feet, sails smoothly over the almost ripple-less ocean.

Your happy and courageous travelers toward the land with the teeming millions, looking for something to raise their standard in soul and body.

—FREEMAN COLLEGE—The library has been fortunate in getting quite a large number of books donated by friends of the school, and invites others to do likewise . . . On Palm Sunday the chorus gave programs at Worthing and Hurley to large audiences, and were royally feasted at each place . . . As speaker for the closing exercises, Rev. J. N. Smucker of the Bethel College Church has been invited. He will preach the baccalaureate sermon on May 25 and deliver the commencement address May 27.

—Delft Bergfelder Church, Delft, Minnesota—Several weeks ago the booklets containing the Constitution of our newly organized church were distributed to the members. God has blessed us and we are thankful for the increased attendance in Sunday School and worship service.—Communion services were held on Good Friday morning, and in the evening the Ladies' chorus presented "The Challenge of the Cross." Easter Monday evening Missionary Anna Quiring gave an illustrated talk of her work in Africa. Music was furnished by the Mens' and Ladies' choruses.— On the evening of May 11 the Mountain Lake and Delft Bergfelder churches will give a joint Mothers' Day Program in the Mountain Lake Church. The church purchased twelve Mennonite Hymnaries for use in the choir. We enjoy them.—Minnesota is experiencing a late, wet spring.

—Mrs. Abram P. Baerg, Corr.

—Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pennsylvania—From their Bulletin: We welcome 42 new members who were received into the membership of the church on Good Friday evening,. This brings our total membership up to 537.—On Easter Sunday we had the largest communion we have ever had. A total of 505 partook which is about 60 more than any previous communoin. 606 were present at both the morning services.—The young men of our church are planing to make Saturday, May 17, a Souderton work-day at the Retreat grounds.

—First Church, Philadelphia, Pa., reports the reception of eight new members on Easter Sunday.—The veteran member of the congregation, J. B. Bechtel, enjoyed his 76th birthday, Friday, April 11. We wish him continued good health and many more birthdays.

—First Church, Reedley, Calif.— The Bulletin reports that on two succeeding Sundays the church has contributed one half of its allotment to the Civilian Service Camps, and makes the following appropriate comment: "It is inspiring to find how many of our churches of the General Conference have definitely committed themselves to raising this amount. That shows that we are ready to make a sacrifice for the convictions which have come to us from our forefathers."—On Easter Sunday the church had the joy of receiving 22 new members, 19 by baptism and three members from other churches.—On Easter evening the large choir of the church rendered very acceptably a sacred program, mostly from "The Messiah."

—From a Bright Young Minister. "We still enjoy the rich articles in The Mennonite. May God give you wisdom and strength for this important work."

—Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Penner are now sailing the vast expanse of the Pacific, on their way home. Their daughter, Mrs. Dr. H. R. Schmidt, reports that if all goes well they may be expected to arrive at the port of Portland, Oregon, the middle of May. Bro. Penner has served his full quota of 40 years in the India Mission, so this will likely be their final trip back to America. Our prayers go with them on the journey.

Lest I Forget

Lest I forget the anguish you passed through that I might be.
Lest I forget the joy that you first knew at sight of me.
The sleepless nights, the days of weary care,
The childish griefs you brought me safely
through,
I kneel before my God in humble prayer
And thank Him, Mother dear, for you.

Lest I forget that some rash act of mine
Has caused the furrows on your brow to be.
Lest I forget that eyes once clear and bright
Are dimmed because of tears you shed for me.
That toil-worn hands have wrestled with the years,
Have plucked the thorns from paths I traveled through,
I kneel before my God in humble prayer
And thank Him, Mother dear, for you.

Lest I forget that every silvered hair
Once lay in soft brown coils upon your head,
Or that your cheek now thin and pale, once knew
The warm blush of the roses there instead.
Lest I forget that through your veins once raced
The blood of youth and hope to dare and do,
I kneel before my God in humble prayer
And thank Him, Mother dear, for you.

Mother's Day Musings

by Rochester Irwin

The well-worn quotation from Napoleon that the greatest need of France was mothers is true of that nation, and all nations, only as the qualifying adjective "good" is expressed or understood.

There is no doubt that the man of genius usually owes his mental amplitude, through inheritance, to his mother. Besides, she has in hand his earliest direction and training.

George Washington was a replica of his mother—in stature, features, and mental make-up. Her household was governed by method and law, and he formed his habits of orderliness and business from her. Like her, he was silent, serious, self-contained, self-respecting, and reserved—a river that ran deep.

Lincoln declared: "All that I have, all that I am, I owe to my angel mother." She taught him lessons of patience, integrity, and democracy.

Garfield was inspired to make something of himself, when, lying in bed dangerously ill, he heard his mother, in an adjoining room, praying for his recovery. He concluded his life must be worth something, and then and there resolved that, in case of his surviving, he would prove himself worthy of that prayer.

Oliver Cromwell's mother was an unusual housekeeper. She reared a large family in comfort, endowed five daughters, so that they married above their own family; and even when Oliver had become illustrious, she still influenced him.

Goethe gave his mother credit for his genius and character.

St. Augustine confessed: "It is to my mother that I owe everything. If I am thy child, O my God! it is because thou gavest me such a mother. . . . If I did not perish long ago, in sin and misery, it is because of the long and faithful years in which she pleaded for me. What comparison is there between the honor I paid her and her slavery for me."

John Wesley's power of ruling men was derived (at least, from the human point of view) from his mother who, in her own home, maintained absolute authority.

John Ruskin writes: "How much I owe to my mother for having exercised me in the Scriptures, and above all, having taught me to reverence them as transcending all thought and ordinary conduct."

"I would have become an atheist," testified John Randolph, of Roanoke, "but for the memory of the time when my departed mother used to take my little hand in hers, and cause me, on my knees, to say, 'Our Father, who art in heaven. . . .' "

"What would I not give," said Charles Lamb, "to call my dear mother back to earth for a single day to ask her pardon, on my knees, for all those acts by which I grieved her gentle spirit."

"The best of mothers, you have been to me. . . . I believe the best woman in the world. I thank you for all your indulgence to me, and beg forgiveness for all I have done ill, and for all I omitted to do well." (From a letter by Dr. Samuel Johnson to his mother).

Frances E. Willard affirmed: "If I were asked what is the true mission of the ideal woman, I would say, 'It is to make the whole world mother-like.' "

"Youth fades; love droops; the leaves of friendship fall; but a mother's secret hope outlives them all."

Who can measure the power, beauty, patience, devotion, love, of a real mother?

Work Out Your Salvation

How many young Christians have not wondered what the Apostle Paul could possibly mean when he says (Phil. 2:12b): "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling." Many have used this verse to argue salvation through good works. Others have used it to argue contradictory teachings of Scripture. They stopped at the end of this verse and failed to interpret it in the light of the verse which follows: "For it is God which worketh in you both to will and to do of his good pleasure." We are to work out what God works in! In other words, we are to live out the life Christ lives in us.

Do we permit God to work in our hearts? If we do it will naturally work its way out and show in our every thought, word, and deed. This is the law of seedtime and harvest in the spiritual realm which is just the same as in the physical realm. If we allow God through His Spirit to plant in our hearts the seeds of His "love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, faith, meekness, and temperance," these will become the fruits of His Spirit in our lives.

Every Sunday morning before we leave the Lord's house, the pastor pronounces the benediction upon us: "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, and the peace of God the Father, and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit be with you all now and forevermore." Does it mean anything to us? Can the people with whom we come in contact see the grace of God in us? Are we gracious as God is? Do they see the peace and serenity of lives wholly yielded to Him? Do they notice the result of our constant fellowship with the Holy Spirit? "Work out your salvation . . . for it is God that worketh in."

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

SAFE ARRIVAL

Five lady missionaries from China have arrived safely in the homeland, namely, three mothers with their children and two single sisters: Mrs. S. F. Pannabecker and three children, Mrs. C. L. Pannabecker and four children, Mrs. August Ewert, and five children, Miss Aganetha Fast and Miss Etta R. Davis. This leaves all the men on the field, and seven sisters, but two couples have gone to the Philippines temporarily for language study. Roland Brown has also come home.

Concerning those that remain on the field, Brother S. F. Pannabecker reports: "As to what steps we may take in the future, I do not know whether anyone has settled plans except to stay as long as seems reasonable. This may not be the same from each individual's viewpoint. The future is too indefinite for anyone to foresee what may come. We want to do what is best for the Chinese church with due consideration to our family and other obligations. So far we have not met with purposeful anti-Christian or anti-American opposition but with war in the Balkans and Japan and America on opposite sides of the European struggle, one cannot be too sure that conditions will remain the same. My personal feeling is that it is quite possible that if anti-American feeling increases, our presence here might definitely complicate matters for the Christian church. For the present we only think in terms of possibilities.

Remember us in prayer. This is a most unusual move and it has taken lots of courage and prayer to come to the decision. It will take considerable more wisdom and strength and love to go through with whatever is coming.

Sincerely, S. F. Pannabecker

MIDDLE DISTRICT CONFERENCE

August 13, 14

The Lord willing, the Middle District Conference will convene in annual session in the Ebenezer Mennonite Church, near Bluffton, Ohio, August 13 and 14. Friends are heartily invited to attend the various sessions and programs of the conference. Pastors of the Conference are hereby urged to send their statistical reports to the secretary without delay.

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by the Rev. Howard G. Nyce

MAY 11—"Oh that I knew where I might find him!" Job 23:3.

These words were expressed by Job when he seemed to be all alone. His wife had forsaken him and the members of his family were killed. Three men came to him and tried to make him believe that they were his friends. They pointed out that he was suffering because of some sin. This Job did not believe. According to the record he was a good man, yea, a perfect man. From the depth of his soul he utters these words, "O if I could only find him." In verses 8 and 9 he says, "Behold, I go forward, but he is not there; and backward, but I can not perceive him: On the left hand where he doth work, but I cannot behold him: he hideth himself on the right hand, that I cannot see him." Did you ever feel that God had withdrawn Himself from you?

MAY 12—"Whither Shall I flee from thy presence?" Psalm 139:7.

What a contrast between the Psalmist who could not escape the presence of God and Job who in yesterday's meditation was searching for God. Why the difference? Job was looking for someone whom he might see and feel and hear, while the Psalmist recognized the presence of God in spirit. Hear what he says, "Whither shall I go from thy spirit? or whither shall I flee from thy presence? If I ascend up into heaven, thou art there: if I make my bed in hell, behold, thou art there. If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea; even there shall thy hand lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me. If I say, Surely the darkness shall cover me; even the night shall be light about me." Beloved, are you in the center of His will so that you may feel His presence at all times?

MAY 13—"We believe, not because of thy saying: for we have heard him ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Savior of the world." John 4:42.

This is a very interesting story in God's Word. Jesus had just previously met the woman of Samaria at Jacob's well. After a brief conversation, she "left her water-pot, and went her way into the city, and said to the men, Come, see a man, which told me all things that ever I did: is not this the Christ?" The men immediately left for the well and came in contact with Jesus. They asked him to tarry in the city and "many more believed because of his word." Text uttered by the men who went to see Jesus, and while they did say "we believe, not because of thy saying," yet it is true, that if the woman had not said what she did, these Samaritans would not have believed. Are you living that kind of life that people will be impressed and desire to contact Jesus? Is there a change in our life since we professed to be followers of the Lord Jesus Christ?

MAY 14—"Except a man be born again, he can not see the kingdom of God." John 3:3.

What do we mean by being born again? This question is often asked by young people who are in dead earnest. The answer is very simple because it is simple to be "born again." In fact, were it not so simple, more might believe. To be born again means, to accept by faith, the Lord Jesus Christ, as Savior; to believe that He died for your sin on Calvary's cross; to believe that you are "justified freely by His grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus." Yes, in order to be born again, you MUST BELIEVE in the shed blood of Christ for "without shedding of blood there is no remission." How can you know that you are born again? BY BELIEVING. Turn to John 3:16; John 3:36 and John 5:24. Dear friend, do you believe in the shed blood of Christ for the remission of your sin? Then do not worry, only believe, and praise God.

MAY 15—"Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." I Corinthians 10:12.

It is a splendid thing to hear the testimony of a person who is a real child of God. The strongest testimony is not necessarily what we say, but how we live. Some one has well said, "What you do speaks so loudly that I can not hear what you say." Sure we can bless the Lord for what He has done for us but we are not to boast. The man who boasts and then falls, is the one who causes many a one to be lost. Sometimes we hear people say, "If that person has Christianity, I do not want to have it." Observing that individual as a servant of God, we can not necessarily blame the man outside of Christ for making such a statement. The true child of God is humble in spirit and never boastful. Brethren, take heed!

MAY 16—"And the door was shut." Matthew 25:10.

To knock at the door of some one unknown to you, is quite an experience. You do not know whom or what to expect when the door opens. But to come to a door that is shut, is another experience entirely, if you expected to see a certain individual and did not get to see him. Surely you are disappointed but it may be possible to make some other arrangement and see your party later. In the lesson from which the text is taken, five young ladies, who had prepared themselves for the wedding, went in the door to the marriage, "and the door was shut." The other five, here called foolish, did not get in because they were not prepared. Beloved, are you prepared to meet the bridegroom? Do you have the oil in your vessel? Is your light burning brightly for Jesus? He admonished the disciples, and us to "let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven."

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE HOME REGARDING BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

Deut. 6:4-7, Jer. 35:5-10.

Introduction

When speaking of the responsibility of the home regarding beverage alcohol, we mean primarily the responsibility of the parents in making the home what it ought to be as regards its ideals and practices. No home can be what it ought to be, nor measure up to the standards of our lesson, unless both parents truly know the Lord. They need to set up a Christian home from the beginning. "The world, the flesh, and the devil" exert a very strong pull and it is very necessary that parents, both by precept and example, exert a Christian influence.

God's Directions to Israel, vs. 4-7

These verses (Deut. 6:4-9) were the first ones memorized by the Jewish child. Verses 4 and 5 have long been used as a Jewish confession of faith and are repeated twice daily. Jesus speaks of verse five as "the first and great commandment." Our first duty is to God Who alone is God, the infinite and indivisible One, the only One to Whom we shall give our full love, devotion and worship and with all our powers. God is to be put first in everything. He loves us and is worthy of the love of heart, soul, and mind. God's words are to be kept "in the heart" or "upon the heart" (R V. v. 6). God's words "laid up in the heart" (Ps. 119:11) will keep us from sin.

The home is definitely charged with teaching God's words to the children (v. 7). Parents are directly responsible for this and it is to be done "diligently." The most important part of a child's education is that received in the home. Alas, alas, that so many parents neglect this. Children are the product of the homes from which they come.

The Rechabites "will drink no wine" vs. 5-10

The Rechabites recognized Jeremiah as God's messenger to them. They knew, too, that God was not tempting them to drink wine (v. 5) but simply testing their fidelity to their father's command (v. 6). Their reply was not a refusal to obey God's servant. It was just what God and Jeremiah expected. God expects a similar answer from every Christian today. Jonadab, their father, believed that a nomadic life, coupled with total abstinence from wine, would be best for the welfare of the clan. They held the charge of their father in high esteem. Their children revered and honored their home training. We should listen to every word from our heavenly Father.

The Home's Responsibility

Home ties exert a very strong influence upon children. It then behooves the home and the family circle to assume a larger responsibility in properly directing the child. The moral training is of the utmost importance. Such training must begin with the correct example of the parents. Children naturally believe that the things their parents do are right. When they know that they make wine and drink it and possibly other strong drink, then temperance teaching is of little avail.

Example means infinitely more than precept to the child

Above all else, are parents responsible for the religious training of their child. They should lead it to a saving knowledge of Christ. Then as the child grows into years, most questions regarding conduct are settled. True love of Christ in the heart includes living a truly Christian life. Parents are obligated to give their children adequate religious training.

Ministerial Ethics and Inter-Church Practices or Ministers Should Love Each Other

by Walter H. Dyck, Beatrice, Nebraska

My dear fellow-ministers:

A Mennonite minister should not be expected to bear the complete responsibility for diversity in church practices. But it might not harm to gather at his doorstep to hear reasons why he should be permitted to run his church as he pleases.

Firstly, he will say, "My church stresses only the essentials of the Christian faith. We have no time for the 'jots and tittles' of the law." Secondly, he will continue, "My church isn't in agreement with yours on the larger moral questions of our day. We must strive for unity in the essentials but be tolerant in the minor matters of inter-church practice." Thirdly, he will insist, "After all, we are Protestants. We have the right to do as we please. How do you propose to unite ministers into mutual agreement in matters which primarily concern themselves? You might as well try to form a health association which draws up health rules for physicians. I propose to preach the gospel and let these minor matters regulate themselves. You do the same and, I am sure, we will fare quite well."

But as we turn from his door we still wonder whether a minister might not extend his usefulness, whether relations between ministers might not be a little more cordial, and whether the church fellowship at large might not be enhanced by a mutual agreement on some points of ministerial practice.

Without laying hard and fast rules, an unimpeachable code of ethics, I wish you would look with me toward a more consistent interpretation in the smaller things which become "weightier matters" in their everyday application.

I. The Minister Sees Himself

It goes without saying that a minister should be a Christian. He must also be a gentleman. Nolan B. Harmon, in his book in "Ministerial Ethics and Etiquette," emphasizes that "A gentleman may be a Christian but a Christian must be a gentleman." One must first be, at least in a measure, what one would become to others. A father, instructing his son, once said, "Be polite, not because the person you meet may be a gentleman, but because you are one."

The Apostle Paul writing to Timothy, says, "Take heed unto thyself" (I Tim. 4:16). Our first concern must be that our hearth be aglow with the warmth of Christ's indwelling love, that our own doorstep be swept, in order that our view of others be with an eye of singleness. To Titus (1:7-8) the Apostle further lists the characteristics of an overseer as (a) "blameless"—one whose personal life has partaken of the cleansing and transforming power of the gospel. (b) He must also be a "steward of God"—being conscious of God's plan in entrusting to him what others might have better accomplished by a more thorough application of time and talents. (c) This portion ends with the adjectives "sober, just, holy, and temperate." If then, by attention to these essentials of the ministry we will permit ourselves to be made more useful, it should be well worth our while to attend to them. No other occasion affords a better opportunity to probe ourselves personally to discover our attitudes towards brethren in the ministry. The following list of searching questions are adapted from a booklet entitled, "Fellowship in our Congregational Christian Ministry" by Edwin B. Robinson.

1. Does my prayer life often include other ministers in its scope? How many? Of what type? How deeply?

2. Do I feel the need of a prayer, expressing fellowship, when in the company of a group of ministers?

3. Does my fellowship limit itself to a little group of self-satisfied ministers of my own type, at the expense of fellowship needed in my conference? The communion service held this morning should have reminded us of our "commonness" before God.

4. Do I weaken fellowship by my grasping spirit, or by my conceit, or by my ambition? Do my superior airs sin against brotherhood?

5. What have I actually done to help some brother minister in his illness? In his financial stress? In his need of a change of pastorate? In his lack of books? In his loneliness for broadening contacts?

6. Do I welcome tactful suggestions, which if followed would increase my usefulness, or am I a "Mr. Alibi?"

7. Do I take a condescending attitude toward men receiving smaller salaries (often due to their greater consecration)?

8. Do I play with churches and with ministers as with rungs to help me climb?

9. Am I supersensitive to slights, fancied or real?

10. What grade of mark would I gain were I examined as to churches, the ministers, and their families—of our conference?

II. The Minister Looks at Fellow-Ministers

The admonition, "Let each esteem other better than themselves" (Phil. 2:3), strikes a varied response among ministers. The danger lies in three distinct directions: (a) That a minister has no esteem for another; (b) that the esteem is too high; and (c) that it is too low. Firstly, where there is no regard for a fellow-minister a man's work will assume the proportions of a kingdom in which there are "lords over God's heritage" (I Pet. 5:2). Being called into a field a man may stake his claim irrespective of the spheres of neighboring pastorates. Under the banner of "contend for the faith" he may contend with a brother minister in a free-for-all scramble in quest of numerical gain in heads or noses. He may rightly emphasize a particular neglected doctrine or overemphasize a pet tenet of the Christian faith to the dismay of a community which is told that they have been kept in ignorance. Another man tries to hold the "church of his fathers" without a consciousness of the heavenly origin and saving power of the gospel message, blaming the intruder for stealing his sheep. Thus both boast in having to stand alone. We wonder whether he who feels himself alone, and makes much of it, isn't in reality quite alone. Some well-meaning ministers have yet to learn that to deflect a people's loyalty from their own church seldom builds their own, while others have to learn that the gospel of "good news" cannot be bound by a dormant, secularized, denominational line.

But esteem may also be unbecoming. In some circles there is a shallow putting on of ado about a man's accomplishments when every one should remember that neither the planting or watering is of any avail apart from God "Who giveth the increase." Then, also, Jesus said, "If ye salute your brethren only—do not even the publicans so?" (Matth. 5:47). We cannot adopt the title, "Father" nor the stately "Rabbi" but would do well, especially at gatherings such as these, also when referring to a fellow-minister in the presence of his people, to use the Christian New Testament title used by Ananias, "Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus—hath sent me." Of God alone does the Bible say, "Holy and reverend is his name." How we may help in the substitution of a more becoming title for individual Protestant ministers is and remains a mutual concern.

The common underestimation among brethren, however, strikes at the heart of our discussion. Coming back to the aforementioned Scripture (Tit. 1:7-8) we note other characteristics: "Not self-willed—no striker—lover of hospitality, lover of good men." Then there will be no sheep stealing, for every convert brings joy in the presence of the angels and that is more important than whether it was through mine or another's instrumentality. Then there will be no tale-bearing, for what one hears to the discredit of another minister will be kept silent or it will be communicated to him directly so that all suspicion may be allayed and false impressions checked. Then one will not take too seriously any tales about former pastors—for similar tales may follow any pastorate. Nor will there then be a refusal (by sheer silence, if nothing more) when a fellow-minister happens, as statistician or committee member, to be sending out one of those distasteful questionnaires. Plainly stated, taking thought for others is the basis of ministerial ethics. We read in 1 Tim. 2:24: "The servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men," and I would add, "to fellow-ministers" whether predecessors, successors, neighboring pastors, members of district conferences, of the general conference, of any division of Mennonitism, or of any denomination of the evangelical faith.

III. The Minister Viewed by the Church of Christ

In the assignment of this subject for our discussion today the secretary of the program committee suggested that "we need to come to some mutual agreement concerning these issues so our members will not be offended at the diversity of ministerial practices." The lost must be saved. The saved must be edified. In this ministers knowingly or unknowingly, are "examples to the flock" (1 Pet. 5:3). In specific cases there must be adaptations to local conditions. But on general principles there should be an understanding. And all this for the sake of those we are trying to win.

It will be impossible for us to take up the wide variety of questions which come up in the mind of the average layman. Let us suppose, as it happens, and for the purpose of stimulating discussion, that Brother A. reads in the local paper and stumbles on to a notice stating that Mr. So-and-So, member of his congregation, was accepted into the fellowship of Brother B's church without Brother A's knowledge of a request for a letter of transfer. Or suppose that Brother A. reads in the society column that Brother C. officiated at a wedding ceremony in which Mr. So-and-So, a member of Brother A's church, but recently divorced and temporarily suspended from membership, was also accepted into the fellowship of Brother C's church. Or suppose Mr. So-and-So, member of Brother C's church, has been living near Brother A's church for at least ten years. He owns his place and expects to live there. But due to loyalty to his home church, about fifty miles away, he cannot be persuaded to join the local congregation and assume responsibility in a tangible way. Instances ad infinitum.

And again there surge through the mind of this younger minister questions upon which those of experience should be willing to shed additional light. Is it ethical for ministers to associate quite freely with each other? Does not this tend to cause them to lose the layman's view, having them to see things in their own light? What is a minister's duty to his predecessor? Should there be a radical break in methods? What if the pastor cannot win over all of his predecessor's friends? How much should one praise his work? Should one listen to any stories about the former pastor? If not, how shall the conversation be diverted? What shall one answer when informed that one's methods are "so different?" When a former pastor returns for a visit in the par-

Witmarsum Seminary

By N. E. Byers, Bluffton, College

Since the Witmarsum Seminary Board of Trustees has been reorganized with the official sanction of the General Conference and the Central Conference of Mennonites and is now considering plans for the reopening of the institution, it has been suggested that a brief historical sketch of its beginnings might be of interest. As I am the only one remaining of the four men who took the initial steps, I have concluded that perhaps I should undertake this task.

Higher education among Mennonites has been my chief interest in life since I took the position of Principal of Elkhart Institute at Elkhart, Indiana, in 1898. I was the first President of Goshen College which opened as a Junior College in 1903. The first A. B. degrees ever given by a Mennonite College were conferred by Goshen College in 1910. Two of our early A. B. graduates at Goshen were elected to positions on the Bethel College faculty and through them I received first-hand information of the progress at that institution toward giving a full four years college course and at their suggestion I was invited to give the Commencement address before the first class to receive A. B. degrees at Bethel in June 1912.

During the summer of 1912 I spent several months in Europe and visited Mennonite Communities in Holland, Germany, France, and Switzerland. In the meantime, Rev. I. A. Sommers of Berne, Indiana, Editor of the Mennonite, at my suggestion invited all branches of Mennonites to meet at Berne, August 18, 1913, to hold the first All-Mennonite Conference. The invitation met with a general favorable response. I relate these events as the most significant in leading me to take the first step that started the movement for founding a Mennonite Seminary.

Being interested in the union of all Mennonites and in their program of higher education I concluded in the fall of 1912 that the next step should be a united effort to promote a Theological Seminary to train the leadership for a United Mennonitism. Thinking that the work could not be started at Goshen, I wrote to President J. W. Kliewer of Bethel College in November, 1912. I stated my views in regard to the next step in higher education among Mennonites and asked whether there would be any possibility of developing such an institution in connection with Bethel College. He replied that he and Dr. S. K. Mosiman, President of Central Mennonite College at Bluffton, Ohio, would be in Chicago in a few weeks as delegates to the Federal Council of Churches and he suggested that I meet with them at that time to discuss the seminary problem.

This meeting of the three presidents of the only Mennonite Colleges existing at that time with Rev. A. S. Shelly of the Eastern District Conference also present, I consider as the real beginning of the movement to establish a Mennonite Seminary. We agreed that there was an urgent need for a Seminary and discussed the advantage of establishing it in connection with one of the degree-granting colleges or independently. It did not seem very feasible to start a union effort either at Goshen or Bethel at the time and we rather concluded that perhaps an independent institution would be the better plan. Bloomington, Ill., was suggested as a good central location. It was agreed that if sufficient interest in such an institution manifested itself, a meeting should be called at some central place to consider the possibilities of such an undertaking.

During the following months Dr. Mosiman and I had some correspondence with reference to a Goshen graduate taking a position in the Central Mennonite faculty and incidentally I learned of real progress being made there in devolping a Junior College. As I had a growing conviction that an independent seminary by a small constituency was impractical, I suggested to Dr. Mosiman that perhaps by union effort a standard college and seminary might be developed at Bluffton. He invited me to come to Bluffton for a vesper address and we discussed the advisability of such a plan. We concluded to call a meeting of all branches of the denomination that could be interested, to meet at Warsaw, Indiana, on May 20, 1913.

Leaders of the Old Mennonites, General Conference Mennonites, Mennonite Brethern in Christ, Defenseless Mennonites and Central Conference of Mennonites agreed to attend. President J. W. Kliewer and Professor J. H. Langenwalter of the Bethel faculty, President N. E. Byers, Professor C. H. Smith and Professor P. E. Whitmer of the Goshen faculty and President S. K. Mosiman and J. I. Lehman, President of Board of Trustees, of Central Mennonite College were among twenty-four persons present. At this meeting, after much discussion and prayerful consideration it was decided to promote the development of a standard college and seminary in connection with one of the existing Mennonite Colleges, that was willing to cooperate, and a committee of fifteen composed of three members of each of the five branches was appointed to select the location and organize a board to develop the proposed institution. The suggested plan was presented to the officials of the three colleges but the Central Mennonite was the only one that expressed any interest in cooperating in the undertaking.

The organizing committee met at the Mennonite Home Chapel, Chicago, June 24, 1913. Bluffton, Ohio, was chosen as the location and the Board of trustees organized. S. K. Mosiman was elected president and N. E. Byers, dean of the new institution to be named, Bluffton College and Mennonite Seminary. The first meeting of the new board was held at Berne, Indiana in connection with the first All-Mennonite Conference, August 18, 1913. At this meeting plans were made for the incorporation of the college and for taking over the plant and assets of Central Mennonite College.

The first two years following the reorganization were devoted to developing a college giving a full four-year course for the A. B. degree. The Mennonite Seminary began its work in Sept. 1915 with Rev. J. H. Langenwalter of the General Conference as dean and Rev. J. A. Huffman of the Mennonite Brethren in Christ as a professor. The full course for the B. D. degree was given when Rev. P. E. Whitmer, of the Old Mennonites, was added as the third full time professor in the fall of 1917. During the next four years thoroughgoing work was given and well trained students graduated. Eight students received degrees during this period. While the number was not large some of these have become leaders in the denomination. Their loyalty to the church, their success in their work and their unity of spirit prove that if the church could train all of its future workers in its own institution it would mean a great deal for a united forward movement.

Mennonite Central Committee Relief Notes

BERLIN—Apr. 19, 1941, cable from M. C. Lehman. "ARRIVED BERLIN SECOND NEGOTIATION PROCEEDING FAVORABLY DESPITE RESTRICTIONS IN CORRESPONDENCE."

ENGLAND—Letter from the Hutterites, March 24, 1941.

"Some 260 of our members are now in South America and another small group is on the way. We have had some cables and a few written reports from them, and are most thankful to hear that the health of all is very good, and that they have had a very friendly reception and a growing contact with the Mennonites. We hear that there is a great scarcity of farm equipment especially, and we are doing our best to get out to them all that we can provide in that way."

FRANCE—Howard Kershner letter, April 1, 1941.

"The food situation becomes more desperate all the while. We find children who have lost 20 per cent of their weight and the difficulty of getting food increases."

FRANCE—M. C. Lehman letter, March 28, 1941.

"I was also anxious to visit one of the eighteen refugee camps in France and Wiens secured a permit for us to visit the one having 18,00 inmates at Argeles-sur-Mer. This camp we visited and I have never seen such misery and hopeless dejection as I found in this group of people, not even during my experience with famine work in India."

ENGLAND—Coffman and Claassen letter, April 4, 1941.

"Our stocks of clothing have become rather depleted in the last few weeks. Nearly everything has been distributed except two bales of the Ephrata shipment, a number of babies' clothes, and suits for 2-5 year olds, and cotton dresses from the first Canadian shipment. The demand for the cottons, of course, is just coming on. . . . It will be well for our sisters to keep in mind that this knitting will need to go on during the spring and summer, so that it can be assembled and sent from our shipping centers by the end of August at least, if it is to reach us in time to be distributed and used during the cold season."

ENGLAND—Letter of thanks from recipient of clothing gifts.

"Thank you very much for dress and shoes. It is a great help owing to plaster and debris falling all over our clothes. We have only got our kitchen and dug-out to live in now, but thank God we are all safe. Thanking you again." (In this family there is Mrs. ————, her daughter, husband, and their baby son. The house was badly blasted. . . . The kitchen can just about be used, but in this the whole of the ceiling is down. All of their clothes were ruined and as the young married couple are only aged 19 and 20, they haven't any savings to fall back on, the baby arriving so soon. He is now 16 months old. At the time, the family were in the shelter, but being evening, baby was only in nightclothes.)

CIVILIAN PUBLIC SERVICE NEWS—by Executive Secretary, Orie O. Miller.

The National Service Board for Religious Objectors, Washington, D. C., with Selective Service headquarters are carrying forward plans for the first IV-E classification to be inducted in camps, Petapsco, Maryland; Grottoes, Virginia; Largo, Indiana, on May 15th. To Grottoes will go the first Mennonites. The first Mennonite assignees to Colorado Springs are scheduled to arrive there May 25th. The camp at Marietta, Ohio, is to receive its full quota of assignments (75) on June 1st—this so that the work program there may be immediately continued from another group now located there. The first midwest Mennonite assignments will likely go to Bluffton, Indiana, about June 15th. Pacific Coast assignments may begin about July 1st to an Oregon site. The Akron office has received notice of 491 Mennonite IV-E classifications to date. It is estimated that over 600 have been so classified.

The Beatitudes, A Working Philosophy of Life

By Helen A. Penner (paraphrases)

5. (Matt. 5:7) Divine joy have those who have a working sympathy with their fellowmen, for they shall obtain the benefits of God's working sympathy toward them.

I wish those well who show compassionate understanding, who are not immune to suffering and need, for God will deal with them likewise.

6. (Matt. 5:8) I extend my best wishes to those who "come clean" in body, mind, and soul, for they are on the way of developing a really clear insight about God.

Unclouded is the vision of God to those who have inner purity. Divine joy has the possessor of an undivided heart, as God becomes a reality to him.

7. (Matt. 5:9) Highly favored are those who make for wholesome relationships among men, for they shall some day be recognized as those having the spirit of God as His Children.

I congratulate those who try to persuade people to live in harmony and good will, for they are God's men. Divine joy have those who try to harmonize and adjust conflicts, for they are born of the Spirit and so exhibit spiritual likeness of their Father.

8. (Matt. 5:10-12) I congratulate those who find themselves vigorously ostracized and brazenly humiliated because they are trying to do right, for they are suffering as have other great men of God, and they, too, shall have glory unimaginable and joy unspeakable.

Divine joy have those who are being harassed and ill-treated and are being censured severely without cause and are objects of contempt and scorn, because they are trying to live as I would have them live; who follow duty without compromise, for they are the kind of people of whom God makes His kingdom.

(Matt. 5:13) A Christian is one who makes life richer, who gives life meaning, and who makes life worth living in this world. He gives society divine flavor. His life preserves the good qualities which God intended man to have. If he fails to use his influence for the good, fails to function in a Christian manner, he will be as valueless as junk and refuse.

(Matt. 5:14-16) A Christian is necessary in the working out of the purposes of God. He dispels the darkness of spiritual ignorance. He sets an example; in the presence of a Christian, society can see things it woundn't see otherwise. If he does not share his spiritual life he denies his Lord and his own life. His good judgment will make him do deeds for the well-being of mankind in such a way that men will see what he does and will show their appreciation to our Maker.

Some Experiences in Philadelphia

By C. H. A. van der Smissen

After the president and the whole assembly had greeted Dr. Clark with the Chautauqua salute of waving handkerchiefs, the president noticed Mr. John Wannamaker and said, "Here is also Mr. John Wannamaker, of—Philadelphia? No!—Washington? NO! John Wannamaker of the United States of America, for he is Postmaster General of the U. S. A.

Dr. Deems of the church of the strangers of New York commenced his address by saying, "My doctor did not want me to go to the convention; he said I should rest. But I thought, 'Rest is not quitting the busy career, rest is but fitting the self to his sphere." I looked at the pile of work on my desk. Then I said, 'That man is blessed, that does his best and leaves the rest, so do not hurry. The world is wide in time and tide and God is guide, so do not worry!' So I am here and feeling fine, looking at so many Christian young people."

(In the preceding article "Convention" should have read "Society" in the heading. Brother van der Smissen introduced the delegates to the "speaker" and not to "Dr. Clark." The date, "1468" should have read "1568." The last sentence should have read, "Then the speaker was satisfied.")

FOLLOW-UP NEEDED

"In order to reach all of our young people, non-C. E. members as well as C. E. members, it would be wise to have each local C. E. make a complete list of all the young people in its church. That list should then be sent to the regional C. E. committee and also to the Young People's Committee of the General Conference.

"Such a list would be invaluable in case war broke out and should prove indispensible to a true unified, positive peace program during time of peace."

Program for May 25, 1941

OUR RADIOS

Phil. 4:8; I John 2:15-17.

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "There is a place of quiet rest," "What a friend we have in Jesus," "Jesus calls us, o'er the tumult."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer.
3. Roll call, answered by favorite Bible verses.
4. Offering for mission work.

II. Leader's Introduction

In using the radio, young people need to exercise great discrimination in their choice of programs. Let them learn to avoid cheap advertising, un-American and un-Christian propaganda, inferior music, vulgar comedy. Let them learn to hear the great programs of unusual value—symphony concerts, the better religious broadcasts, the messages of our great moral and spiritual leaders, worthwhile drama. Religious periodicals often publish lists of recommended radio programs.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. A Burning Bush Radio, Exod. 3:1-6.
2. God's Broadcast to Elijah, 1 Kings 19:11-13.
3. Listening to God, Ps. 85:7-9.
4. A Voice from Heaven, Matt. 17:1-8.
5. A Missionary Broadcast, Acts 16:6-10.
6. A Broadcast from Prison, Eph. 4:1-6.

IV. Question for Discussion

Many students attempt to study with the radio going. Is this a way to train the mind? How does the radio encourage selfishness, and disregard of others? What does the radio offer in good educational programs? In good religious programs? In good news broadcasts?

V. Facts for Study

The radio is a most powerful means of influencing public opinion. It is used today in a most skillful way to build up sentiment favoring the exorbitant, dangerous, defense program. War hysteria is fostered by radio news handled with that aim. On the other hand the voices that speak fearlessly and calmly amid all the confusion are also heard over the radio.

Good inspirational daily programs with the hymns of the churches, the messages from faithful men of God bring courage and new devotion into the hearts of both healthy and sick people.

Our nation is receiving a fine and valuable training through the symphony and other good musical and educational programs.

There are dangers in the wrong use of the radio, but fine opportunities in its right use.

VI. Food for Thought

Does the radio offer opportunity for the "human hand?"

"'Tis the touch of the human hand that counts,
The touch of your hand on mine,
Which means far more to the fainting heart
Than shelter, or bread, or wine;
For shelter is gone when the night is o'er
And bread lasts only a day,
But the touch of your hand and the sound of your voice
Sing on in my soul alway."

CHRISTIAN SERVICE IN MOUNTAIN REGIONS

Program for May 25, 1941

Opening Hymn: "Brightly Beams our Father's Mercy."
Scripture Reading: Luke 8:5-15.
Prayer Hymn: "I'll Live For Him."
Sentence Prayers.
Devotional talk by Superintendent: "What Kind of a Neighbor am I?"
Vocal Solo: "Others."
Talk: "Our Neighbors in the Mountains."

"We have some neighbors who for two hundred years have lived in the mountains of Tennessee, Kentucky, the Virginias, and the Carolinas. These people have lived apart from the rest of the world, many of them living and dying without knowing of the wonderful progress which has taken place in the world about them. For the most part these people have descended from the Scotch Covenanters who came to the colonies for religious as well as political freedom. Not satisfied with the freedom which they found, they retired into the mountains by themselves.

"More than 90 per cent of the people are rural, even though the land is very poor and not in the least adapted to farming. The few small tracts which can be cultivated are worked by hand. Even if the crops were large, they could not be taken to market over the narrow mountain trails."

Talk by Pastor: "Mission Work among the Mountain People."

Further thoughts on the topic:

"Our Southern mountain areas contain about five million people, nearly all of whom live outside large cities. Poverty has long been with them. Here is a glimpse through the eyes of a college student who lived in the mountains during the summer and helped in the work of his mission board.

" 'No conveniences—oil lamps—woodstoves. Pellagra, rickets, and other diseases due to very poor diet . . . After all, they have little or no pleasure in their lives, just hard work and sickness and trouble . . . They do nothing but work and work and work and worry, and still can't earn enough money to buy clothes for their families or grow any more than the bare necessities of food . . .' (Reports of Student Summer Service Workers).

"Hear the testimony of one girl who comes from a hollow where drinking and cursing are common. 'It is so natural here at Redbird to think of and talk to God every day at any time. I just feel I want to pray about everything.' "

Questions:

1. Which do you consider most important, home or foreign missions?
2. What is the need of missions in the homeland?
3. Have we any responsibilities toward the home field?
4. Has our own church done anything to help the mountain people?
5. Consider a definite project which our society might undertake to help the mountain people.

Offertory Sentence: "I have shewed you all things, how that so laboring ye ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive" (Acts 20:35).

Offering.

Hymn: "I Love to Tell the Story."

Mizpah Benediction.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude by the pianist, "My Faith Looks Up To Thee."
2. Call to worship, responsively:

Junior Boys: "Jehovah is nigh unto all that call upon Him, to all that call upon Him in truth."

Junior Girls: "Happy is he that hath the God of Jacob for his help, whose help is in Jehovah his God."

3. Sing in unison: "My Faith Looks Up To Thee."
4. Scripture reading by a Junior boy: Philippians 1:12-24; 3:7-14.
5. Prayer by a Junior girl.
6. Solo: "God Will Take Care of You."
7. Reciting of 1 Corinthians 13 by two Juniors.
8. Unison Song: "Praise Him! Praise Him!" The Mennonite Hymnary, No. 438.

II. Study Period

Aim—To inspire our Juniors to live the Christian life more boldly and faithfully.

To the leaders.—Pictures of Paul in prison will be helpful for this lesson. Use a good globe or a map to point out the various places in which Paul was imprisoned. Juniors are hero-worshippers, they love adventure, and love to read. Let us remember this when we plan for this lesson hour. I would suggest that the Juniors be divided into four groups, each group to study one of the imprisonments, and then present it to the entire group. The leader then sums up and in a few words tells of the fifth and last imprisonment in Rome (Ref. 2 Tim. 1:16, 17; 2 Tim. 4:13-17; 2 Tim. 4:7).

Stress Christian characteristics that Paul displayed in his imprisonments, remembering Phil. 4:13.

1. Paul in prison at Philippi.
   a) Paul's arrival in Philippi, Acts 16:9-15.
   b) Why Paul was arrested, Acts 16:16-21.
   c) How the prisoner was treated, Acts 16:22-24; 1 Thess. 2:2.
   d) How Paul and Silas acted in prison, Acts 16:25-26. (Maybe they sang Psalm 146; or Psalm 142.)
   e) Conversion of their jailor, Acts 16:25-34. (Make this a dialogue.)
   f) What happened next, Acts 16:35-40.
2. A short talk on verse 31 of chapter 16, followed by a solo from the rear of the church or from the balcony: "My Faith Looks Up to Thee," v. 1, 2.
3. Paul in prison at Jerusalem.
   a) Why Paul was arrested, Acts 21:28; Acts 21:17-27.
   b) How the prisoner was treated, Acts 21:31-40; 22:23-30.
   c) A boy who saved his uncle, Acts 23:12-31.
   d) What happened next, Acts 23:11, 31-35.
4. Unison Song: " 'Tis So Sweet to Trust in Jesus."
5. Paul in prison at Caesarea.
   a) Accusation against Paul, Acts 24:5, 6; 25:18, 19. Story, Acts 24:1-9.
   b) How the prisoner was treated, Acts 24:23, 27.
   c) Paul's trials.
   —Before Felix, Acts 23:35, 10-22.
   —Before Felix and Drusilla, Acts 23:24-27.
   —Before Festus, Acts 25:1-12.
   —Before Agrippa, Acts 25:13 to 26:32.
   (These may be given as dialogues. Use Weymouth's translation for study.)
   e) What happened next, Acts 27:1, 16.
6. All read in concert, Acts 26:28. Sing very softly, "Almost persuaded." Close with a period of silent prayer.
7. Paul in prison at Rome.
   a) Reason for this imprisonment, Acts 25:11; 26:32.
   b) How the prisoner was treated, Acts 27:3; 28:16, 30.
   c) What Paul did during this imprisonment.
   —Received callers, Acts 28:30; 28:17-25.
   —He preached and taught, Acts 28:31.
   —He wrote letters:
      To the Philippians, Phil. 1:1-7.
      To the Colossians, Col. 1:1-3; 4:10, 18.
      To Philemon, Philem. 1:1-3.
      To the Ephesians, Eph. 1:1-2; 3:1; 4:1.

8. Unison Song: "We're Marching to Zion."
9. Leader tells briefly of Paul's second imprisonment in Rome. Concludes discussion.

III. Mission Minutes

Turn to "Prayer Items" p. 71 of the May, Missionary News and Notes. Note the needs for prayer. Each Junior offer a sentence prayer for the particular need that he has on his heart.

IV. Closing Moments

In unison repeat the verse for the month.
Pray the prayer for the month.
Sing the song for the month.
Leader close with the benediction.

ish, must I make it a point to call on him? If he has returned for a wedding or a funeral, at the invitation of a family, what shall be my attitude? If I am the invited minister, is it my duty to decline in case the local minister is home and able to serve? Should I insist on cooperation with the local pastor in that particular service? What is my duty to the successor? In how far may I advise the pastor of local conditions? What other helpful information may I give? What is it wise not to tell about the people? May ignorance be a good start toward solving many problems? What is church property? Does it include church correspondence? Baptismal records? Membership lists? May a minister carry on any correspondence with those of a former parish? If so, under what conditions? What are its dangers? Should one under any circumstances accept an invitation to appear in another church under the sponsorship of some organization without an understanding with the local pastor? In how far shall I cooperate with the local ministers of other denominations? Under what conditions may one call at the home of members of other congregations? What precautions must one take in so-called "mixed homes?" What are laudable reasons for transfer of membership from one church to another? Is it my duty to know the reason why someone wishes to join the fellowship of my church? Am I obliged to marry any one who presents a marriage license? On what grounds may I refuse to marry a couple? How does the joining of improper persons bring reproach on one's calling? Is it ethical for one to receive fees for professional services, such as weddings, funerals, etc? What are reasonable requests which one minister may put to another? Are we fair to worthy but neglected brethren in the matter of appointments or election to committees? Is there some neighboring minister whose threshold you have never crossed? Will I promise to think more seriously akin to those suggested? Will we pray that our fellowship and usefulness may be widened? Is it being said among our people, "Behold How Our Ministers Love Each Other?" If not, why not?

Rural Life Sunday

May 18, 1941

Plans for a wide observance of Rural Life Sunday, the fifth Sunday after Easter, May 18, 1941, have been announced by Dr. Mark A. Dawber, Executive Secretary of the Home Missions Council of North America. Both city and country churches are being asked to observe Rural Life Sunday. The usual observance is in the form of a Sunday morning hour for a special worship service and a sermon or address.

Rural Life Sunday is a modern version of Rogation Sunday, which has been observed by many churches for many centuries. Today Rural Life Sunday is a day set apart for emphasizing the meaning of Christianity for rural life, for the invocation of God's blessing upon the cultivators of the earth, for consideration of justice for agriculture and of the spiritual values inherent in rural life.

An order of service and suggestions of methods of observance prepared by Dr. Henry S. Randolph of the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., are available in leaflet form through the office of the Home Missions Council of North America, 297 Fourth Avenue, New York, at 3 cents per copy and $1.00 per 100.

Schools For Country Ministers

Three thousand ministers in town and country churches will attend special summer schools, institutes and camps to be held at theological seminaries and agricultural colleges in the summer of 1941, it is announced by Benson Y. Landis, Secretary of the Joint Committee on Town and Country of the Home Missions Council of North America and the Federal Council of Churches. Forty-one schools, more than at any previous time, will provide "continuing education for the minister in town and country."

The purposes of these educational offerings are to help ministers become acquainted with tested methods of town and country church work, to interpret trends of modern country life, to promote fellowship among rural ministers and to increase the contacts of ministers with agricultural leaders.

Schools are conducted without tuition charge and the costs are only for board and room. Certain of the home mission boards offer scholarships to country ministers. Pastors interested should communicate with their boards to learn whether scholarships are available. At many of the schools there are special activities for women, mainly the wives of ministers.

A leaflet entitled, "Continuing Education for the Minister in Town and Country—1941", is available through the office of the Home Missions Council of North America, 297 Fourth Avenue, New York. Single copies, 3 cents; rates are quoted on quantities.

IN MEMORIAM

P. R. SCHROEDER PASSES ON

An abundant and useful life came to its earthly close on Wednesday, April 16, 1941, when P. R. SCHROEDER, pastor of the Bethel Church, passed away at the age of fifty-two to be with the Lord Whom he loved and served whole-heartedly.

He was born August 22, 1888, in Mountain Lake, Minnesota, the son of J. D. and Maria Friesen Schroeder. He attended the local schools graduating from the German School in 1904 and from the High School in 1906. The next term he taught a rural school south of town, then entered Bethel College, Newton, Kansas, in the fall of 1907. He was married to Susie T. Nickel, of Mountain Lake, on September 1, 1910, and with his bride went to Arena, North Dakota, to teach a rural school and shepherd a small flock in that district under the supervision of the Home Mission Committee of the Northern District Conference. The following summer they were in Langham, Saskatchewan, where he worked under the Home Mission Board of the General Conference. They returned to Bethel College in the fall of 1911 and he graduated there the following spring, a member of the first College Class of that institution. Immediately following Commencement they went to Berne, Indiana, to help along with the church work there through the summer while the congregation was looking for a pastor. Mr. and Mrs. Schroeder were accepted candidates for Foreign Mission work and planned to go on to school. But after three months in Berne, that congregation extended them a call to serve there, which they accepted and stayed until August 1, 1928, sixteen years. Here their four daughters were born. Next he accepted the presidency of Freeman Junior College and served two years when he became pastor of the Salem Mennonite Church, southeast of Freeman, South Dakota, serving there ten years. Last summer he was called to the Bethel Mennonite Church at Mountain Lake, Minnesota. His service here was brief but intense and fruitful.

In August, 1939, he suddenly became very ill and it was found that a malignant tumor had begun its deadly work in his body. After two operations in Yankton, South Dakota, he recovered sufficiently to resume his work. Last June it was found that there was a recurrence of the old trouble. He sought help at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota, where he underwent two further operations. His recovery again was remarkable but did not last long. When he returned to Rochester on March 31, it was found that the cancer was again at work. After treatment he returned to Mountain Lake and entered the local hospital April 5, where he passed away at 8:20 A. M. on April 16, 1941, after several days of indescribable suffering.

He leaves to mourn his untimely passing, his sorrowing widow, four daughters, Mrs. Celeste Dehnert of Lodi, Wisconsin, and Mrs. Vernelle Waltner, Champa, C. P., India, with their husbands; Louise, teacher at Freeman Junior College, South Dakota, and Esther Ruth, rural teacher near Parker, South Dakota. The following sisters and brothers survive: J. G. Schroeder, Huron, S. D.; D. S. and L. A. Schroeder and Mrs. I. J. Dick of Mountain Lake; Ernest of Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. J. A. Quiring, Fraser, Mont.; and Mrs. J. J. Janzen, Henderson, Nebr., besides a large number of relatives and friends. His parents, a sister, Mrs. J. J. Vogt; and a brother, Arnold, preceded him.

Besides performing his regular pastoral duties, Mr. Schroeder found time for different phases of work in the General Conference of the Mennonites of North America. He gave Bible lectures and conducted evangelistic services in many churches, and held responsible positions in the Middle and Northern district, as well as in the General Conference. Besides serving on different boards and committees he was President of the General Conference for two terms and during that time was delegate to the Fourth World Mennonite Congress at Amsterdam, Netherlands, in 1936. His faculty for observing and applying these varied experiences and conveying them to others was outstanding. He was a man of firm convictions and fearless in expounding them with an increasing grace in his presentation of the gospel he loved. As a result he had many loyal friends, which has been evidenced in many ways, especially during his illness. In 1937 Wheaton College conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity on him. In his home he was a most loving and devoted husband and father. He loved to give his four girls and his wife little pleasures which he took great delight in planning. Music and art, and the many beautiful, worthwhile things in life he considered God's gifts and enjoyed wholeheartedly. Besides his zealous concern for their spiritual welfare, his daughters owe their Daddy much for introducing to them appreciation of what is fine. Daily family worship is another precious memory of the home.

The keynote of his life is well expressed in a statement he made recently when interviewed by the compilers of "Who's Who in Minnesota." He simply said, "To preach the gospel of Christ is my meat."

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon, April 18, at the Bethel Mennonite Church, Mountain Lake, Minnesota. Rev. A. P. Waltner from South Dakota spoke in German and Rev. John Bartel from Delft, Minnesota, in English.

MARY GRABER, daughter of John B. and Maria Graber was born in Waldheim, Russia, on the 13th day of May, 1864. At the age of nine she left Russia with her parents and came to the United States, settling near Marion, South Dakota. During early girlhood she was baptized by Elder John Schrag on confession of her faith, and was received into the Salem Mennonite Church at Marion.

In 1883 she married Jacob K. Graber, who like she had crossed the ocean with his parents, coming from Northwestern Russia to the United States. In March of the following year the newly-married couple set out from South Dakota for Kansas, at that time known as the "Land of Promise." They settled in Reno County nine miles southeast of the present site of Pretty Prairie, and began at once to improve the land. The country was as yet sparsely settled. The nearest doctor was eighteen miles, so was the nearest railroad point, which was at Haven, Kansas. Those were trying years—in grim contrast with the comfort and conveniences of today. Blizzards, the drought of the early nineties, and poverty, compelled Mrs. Graber and her husband to give up the original location and try again on another quarter four miles east of Pretty Prairie.

Not alone by physical hardship was her faith tested as she and her husband sought to establish a home in the new land, but there were other hardships. The life story of Mrs. Graber is an epic in isolation. There was no telephone, no newspaper, no daily mail. Once a week she walked four miles to the nearest post office to see if there was any word from those she had left behind. She was one of the few left who still knew the picture of this prairie domain as it existed fifty-eight years ago.

Few could have endured the hardships which Mrs. Graber experienced if they had not had as she had a strong faith in God, an unfailing spring of energy, and a spirit of self-sacrifice. The patience and fortitude exemplified through her later years while suffering from diabetes, her kindly disposition, broad sympathies, and generous spirit endeared her to all who knew her, and established for her a reputation as a true Christian.

After an illness of a week, she died April 17 at the St. Elizabeth Hospital at Hutchinson, having attained the age of 76 years, 11 months, and 3 days. She leaves to mourn, her husband, five daughters: Frances, Emma, Hulda, Lena, and Edna; four sons: Jonas, Joe, Arthur, and Walter; four daughters-in-law, five sons-in-law: Joe J. Kaufman, B. J. Stucky, Paul Voran, Edward Krehbiel, and Arthur Waltner; two sisters: Mrs. Joe Schrag and Mrs. Carrie Stucky; four brothers: Peter, John, Jacob, and Ben Graber, twenty-five grandchildren and one great grandchild, besides a host of friends.

CORRESPONDENCE

LORRAINE AVE. MENN. CH., WICHITA, KS.

The Easter season will long be remembered by us as a time filled with many blessings; another milestone in our church progress. During the Holy Week our pastor served with THE WORD every evening. Thursday evening we celebrated Holy Communion. Easter morning the Christian Endeavor societies of the city united in a sunrise prayer meeting. In our Sunday School we had an attendance of 166, the children gave several special Easter numbers at the close. In the worship service we had an attendance of 206, an all-time record. Quite a few listened to the services in the basement through the loud speaker. At this service 16 new members joined the church fellowship, 7 by baptism and 9 by letter and confession of faith. This brings our total membership to 148. Our pastor has been asked to start another catechism class for others who have become interested.

We have made arrangements with Dr. J. E. Hartzler, of Hartford, Conn., to conduct a series of meetings for us beginning June 15 and ending June 22. We invite all our friends to visit us during this time. The last Sunday, June 22, is to be a special all-day mission festival. Detailed program will soon be announced. We are considering the advisability of putting up a large tent to accommodate all who wish to come. Should any church have a tent that they are willing to loan us, will you please write us at 655 South Lorraine Ave., Wichita, Kansas.

FIRST MENN. CH., ALLENTOWN, PA., April 25

The attendance at our Easter Communion service was the largest in the history of the church. This, no doubt, was largely the result of a member visiting campaign, sponsored by the Brotherhood of the church.

The Holy Week services were well attended. One of the services was in charge of the Bluffton College Gospel Team. The program showed what young people can do to make an inspiring church service. The training they are receiving is a most valuable asset for church leadership.

On the evening of Easter Day we enjoyed a lovely musical program rendered in our church by the Upper Milford Church choir. The solo work of 13-year old David Schantz was a high-light of the evening.

The following members were elected to attend both the District Conference and the General Conference: The Pastor, Mr. Harvey Kummery, Mr. V. C. Backensto, Mrs. Otto Kummery, Miss Grace Moyer, Mrs. Victor Backensto, Mr. W. H. Mohr, Mr. L. W. Shelly, Mr. Donald Miller and Mrs. Howard G. Nyce.

MENNONITE CHURCH, NEWPORT, WASH.

Rev. and Mrs. Edmund Miller conducted revival services in our church March 17 to 24. Mrs. Miller gave illustration talks for the children each evening. These were greatly enjoyed.

On April 6 we observed Communion services, and also installed two more deacons. At our yearly meeting it was decided to have three deacons where formerly we had only one. Our church building is progressing slowly. Work was started last fall, the old building was taken down, and the basement was partly dug. (The work was done with a bulldozer.) Before it could be completed the ground froze. So the work was discontinued until the spring. On the 20th and 21st of March the walls of the basement were poured, and now it is beginning to look like a church building again. Since the labor is all voluntary work, it does not progress as rapidly as it should. The men are willing to work, but the spring work has begun and those who have no work at home have to seek employment elsewhere to support their families. The men from the Deer Park church helped a few days for which we are grateful.

We are planning on having the Convention in our new church. Of course it will not be completed but we hope it will be possible, and the church building with the props is gone. —Mrs. J. Wittenberg, Corr.

BERGTHAL CHURCH, CORN, OKLAHOMA

April 23, 1941

The marriage of Georgierena Quiring to Mr. Karl W. Harder was solomnized in the Bergthal church last Sunday afternoon with Rev. Hege officiating and Rev. B. H. Janzen, of Lehigh, assisting. After the ceremony the invited guests gathered at the home of the bride for the wedding reception and a short program. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Quiring and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Harder. We were glad to again have Rev. and Mrs. Janzen with us and also to enjoy a message from the pulpit by Rev. Janzen, Sunday afternoon. The mother of Mrs. Janzen and a number of brothers and sisters live in the community which accounts for the occasional visits to Corn by the Janzens.

The Peace Rally at the church Thursday evening of last week was well attended. Messrs. Stucky and Schrag, Bethel College students, had charge of the meeting and the speakers were Rev. G. F. Friesen and Dr. H. A. Fast, director of civilian service camps.

Rain and more rain seems to be the order of the day. Although the land is being well soaked and prepared for spring planting, the farmers are becoming concerned about too much moisture for the wheat.

A continuous rain on Easter Sunday morning caused the postponement of church services; and the Easter program, which had been prepared by Rev. Hege and the choir, was rendered the following Sunday. The program was appropriate and inspiring and was very much appreciated by the congregation.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Friesen were hosts to a number of invited guests Thursday night. The gathering was in commemoration of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Refreshments were served.

Mr. B. A. Hinz broke his arm last week when he fell with a ladder while repairing gutters. Miss Esther Hinz, the church pianist who teaches in the public schools at Clinton, also broke an arm this week when she fell. Miss Viola Nickel has so far improved from an operation that she is able to attend church services again. Elder John Flaming is in poor health and is not able to leave the house. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ratzlaff left for Newton, Kansas, today to consult a doctor; Mrs. Ratzlaff was operated on in Newton some time ago. The Ratzlaffs were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Bergen.

APOSTOLIC MENN. CHURCH, TRENTON, O.

This church began their Easter services with the Young People's Easter Sunrise Service at 6:30 A. M. which was well attended. The young people conducted the entire service, and Rev. Amstutz gave a short Easter talk. The services were very impressive.

The Sunday School met at 9:30 with the lesson discussion "What a Living Christ Means to Me." Mrs. Coulthard presented the children with lovely Easter baskets.

The Easter Communion Service was held at 10:30 A. M. with an Easter message by Rev. Amstutz, "The Living Christ." Appropriate Easter music was furnished by the choir. Three members were received by letter, and one by baptism. On Sunday, April 20, the Missionary Society celebrated its Golden Anniversary at the home of the pastor. Adding much to the impressiveness of this service was the presence of its first president, Miss Elisa Holly, of Hamilton, Ohio, with three charter members—Mrs. Louisa Kennel, Miss Salvena Mosiman, and Miss Florence E. Augspurger. Greetings were received from Mrs. James Grossman, Porterville, Calif., and Mrs. H. J. Krehbiel, of Reedley, Calif., former members.

In going over these records it was interesting to note that Mrs. A. K. Augspurger (sister of Mrs. Bertha Petter) served in the capacity of president for a period of ten years, and Mrs. Chester Bowlus, served as secretary and treasurer for twenty years.

Mrs. Jos. Kohn, president of the society, in her forword, gave an original poem, followed with the Original Roll Call, and reading of the first minutes. "Reminiscences" by Miss Holly; Remarks by Rev. Amstutz; and Responses—"I Remember"—were given by nearly every one present, all of which were very interesting.

Refreshments were served late in the afternoon and appointments were in gold and white. Ice cream moulds were decorated with the numeral 50 in gold. Miss Grace Sheafor and Miss Doris Jean Kennel, representing the Young People's Society, assisted in serving the refreshments.

Mrs. Catherine Schwab, died Monday, April 21, having almost reached 80 years of age. For many years a member of the Trenton Mennonite Church, the funeral services were conducted on Wednesday, April 23, at the Summerville Funeral Home, with burial in the Collinsville Cemetery. She is survived by one son. Rev. Amstutz based his remarks on Psalm 91, verses 14-16.

—About the Northern District Conference.—This was scheduled to be held in the Friedensberg church at Avon, So. Dak., but unfortunately conditions arose that made this impossible. The Mennonite Church at Butterfield, Minn., then kindly offered to act as substitutes. The session will convene June 7-11. On June 7, afternoon and evening, there will be programs for the pastors, and a fellowship dinner. Sunday forenoon the speakers will emphasize foreign and home missions. In the evening there will be a Sunday School convention. On the remaining days there will follow a business session, a C. E. convention, a Ladies' Missionary program, and Young Peoples' Day on Wednesday.

—Rev. J. F. Schmidt, pastor of the Mennonite Church at Buhler, Kansas, refers to a very valuable book in their church library, otherwise out of print. It is "The Conscientious Objector," by Major Guest Kellog, chairman of the Board of Inquiry in the last war. It discusses the historical background of conscientious objection to war, methods of treating cases, etc. The book may be found in other church or public libraries, and Mr. Schmidt strongly urges the reading of it.

—First Menn. Church, Wadsworth, Ohio, April 23, 1941—Three evening services were held in our church during the Holy Week, at two of which our pastor preached, and at the other, Captain Bennet of the Wadsworth Salvation Army brought us a very inspiring message. On Friday evening five new members were accepted into the fellowship of our congregation. Easter was observed by the regular annual Sunrise Service which was attended by approximately 140 persons, most of whom stayed for breakfast served by the Willing Workers Sunday School class. Over 200 were present at the regular morning service to participate in our quarterly observance of the Lord's Supper. —Orlo O. Sprunger, Sterling, Ohio, Corr.

MARRIED: Wilmot Rishel of the Christian Church of Galva, Kans., and Flossie Wedel of the Emmanuel Mennonite Church of Galva, Kans., on April 6, 1941, by G. A. Linscheid.

MARRIED—Miss Esther Hiebert, daughter of Mrs. Jacob J. Hiebert, Hillsboro, to Mr. Walter Lindteigen, Burns, Kansas. Mrs. Lindteigen worked in Wichita the last few years. Their address is Burns, Kansas.

—Richfield Mennonite Church, Richfield, Penna.—The union Easter Sunrise Service was held in our church with good attendance, and a very inspiring program. On the same day we held our spring Communion with about 168 communicants. On the previous day, at our preparatory service, our pastor, Rev. B. S. Graybill, baptized thirteen applicants and received two by letter. As so many of our older members have passed on, we welcome with gladness these young persons.

—A Splendid Idea. Mountain Lake, Minnesota, a large Mennonite community, offers a term of school for children of pre-school age during the last six weeks of the school year. Many smaller towns who cannot afford to maintain a kindergarten can make up in part by this plan.

—A Subscriber from California—"I appreciate The Mennonite, and believe there are more spiritual and fundamentally sound articles in it than used to be years past. More power to you in this direction." Thank you. Yes, I wish we could have more such articles.

—From Monday evening, May 5 to May 9, members of the Student Volunteers of Bethel College are to present a group of evangelistic programs in the Salvation Army hall in Newton. The theme of the series of meetings is "The Five Great Christian Experiences": "Stewardship," "Prayer," "Spiritual Power," "Consecration," and "Conversion." These will be discussed by Chester Iwig, Malcolm Wenger, Jacob Enz, Henry Fransen, and Howard Claassen respectively.

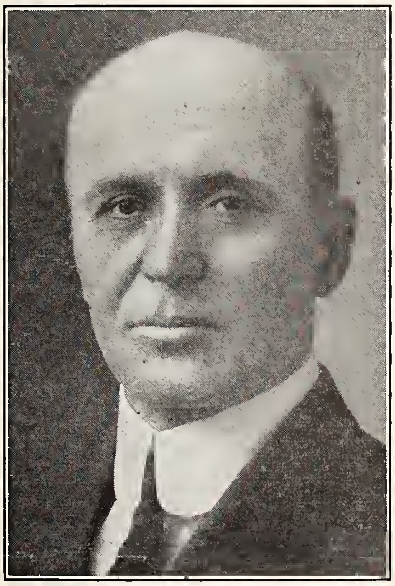
Dr. J. R. Thierstein Answers Summons



In Memoriam

Scarcely have we recorded the passing of an active member of our Church in the death of Brother P. R. Schroeder, when again the summons has come to one of our number to join that innumerable band! This time it will touch every reader of The Mennonite in quite a personal way; for this summons was delivered to Brother John R. Thierstein, the Editor, on Thursday evening, May 8, 1941, at about 8:30 o'clock.

Born in Switzerland, Brother Thierstein came to the United States as a youth; and after graduating from the Mennonite Preparatory School at Halstead, Kansas, and the Kansas University, he devoted his life to the teaching profession. At first he taught in rural and in high schools, interrupting this for two years to obtain his Doctor of Philosophy in the land of his birth.

In Switzerland he and Mrs. Thierstein adopted a child whom they called Novalis, after the favorite writer of the departed. Having no children of their own, it was a great shock to them to have this promising young man called home in 1916, just as the General Conference, of which brother Thierstein then was secretary, was in session in Berne, Indiana.

No other instructor has been so intimately connected with three of our colleges as Brother Thierstein. Conversant with three languages, English, German, and French, he taught first at Bethel College, then he was President at Freeman Junior College, and later taught at Bluffton College, and again at Bethel until he reached retirement age.

Both with his time and his means he was liberal for good causes. Few lay members have rendered such long and signal service to our Church as has this brother. In three district conferences, while residing there, he was always found willing and useful, and was given work to do. Besides serving as its secretary for two terms, Brother Thierstein later for years was increasingly active in the Board of Publication, at last as its chairman. Especially since his retirement as active professor has he given unstintingly of his time and energy to this work as Editor of The Mennonite, and in the interests of other Conference periodicals and church literature.

The new Mennonite Hymnary was particularly close to his heart, and to his very last days he was occupied with this and the German church hymn book in preparation for the Canadian churches.

A man of unshakable Christian faith, he was constantly active in work assigned to him and he personally exemplified what he recently said: "I would rather wear out than rust out."

As co-editor of one of our church papers and on behalf of all readers may I extend the sympathy of all to Mrs. Thierstein and other relatives.

MRS. J. P. SUDERMAN WRITES TO PARENTS

(Copy of a letter written by Mrs. J. P. Suderman to her parents in Kansas)

Oraibi, Arizona, April 29, 1941

Dear Loved Ones at Home:

"And He said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven." (Luke 10:18.) "Fear not, it is I." By the time you receive this letter you may have heard or read John's telegram to the Mission Board. The Mesa church burned down Friday to Saturday night during repeated and severe thunder showers. John went to town early Friday morning for some lumber for the lower chapel. He took Edith Elsie along to see the doctor about her head condition, i. e., over right eye and left ear. It began to rain towards evening and at dark the lightning flashed and thunder crashed unusually often and hard. It made one feel very uncanny, as though the demons were seeking one's destruction. John Mark sensed it keenly too. Once he remarked, "Mother, how is it that every time it flashes it flashes around you." I had also noticed some strange battle. I tried to comfort him and assure him that Jesus would not let the lightning kill me, for he asked whether it might do so. However, the satanic powers were very evident. At such times there is such victory in the name of Jesus Christ! So I sang and hummed over and over the song, "I will praise Him." And not long after that the lightning and thunder first receded and then died away! But during the night, shortly after midnight, it was the same thing. As I recall, I was awakened three times with sharp thunderings and after some praying it would recede. I was, of course, also wondering where John and Edith Elsie might be.

In the morning I got up near daylight. John had not come home. When I came down and looked out of the window I could not believe my eyes, for it seemed as though I saw fire and smoke over the Mesa chapel. I went outside to see clearer. Yes, the chapel was burning. I went over and woke the Vickers and told them. Then we went to the village to tell the Raymonds, also to see whether Mr. Raymond had car chains so some of us could go up. It took some time before he had his chains on, during which time I stood in the village and saw the last of the tower go up in flames. It was all gone except the walls by the time we got up there. Imagine us standing there at God's house in ashes. K. T. Johnson (interpreter), Willard, Frances Vickers, and Mr. Raymond had come up. The church organ, the Bibles, song books, pulpit, pulpit chair, all benches of both upper and lower church (except four still left in room of the lower chapel), all before us in ashes. After looking around a while, and tearing a few scaffold boards left (they had just finished shingling the tower the day before) we had a season of prayer. Just as the last one was praying John and Edith Elsie drove up and John then closed with prayer. He had had trouble first of all with some trailer-hitch bolts breaking due to slippery roads. So he left the trailer 25 miles from Oraibi. Then ten miles from Oraibi at 2:30 A. M. he slipped into a ditch and could not get out, so he decided to sleep until morning. At four o'clock he and the Hopi with him were awakened and they saw in the distance a little red light. First they thought of a car coming but it did not seem to move and also stayed red. So they realized it was a fire. Maybe some Navajos built a fire to warm up. No, it must be something burning. John thought then maybe it was our home on fire. But the Hopi getting out of the car had said it was on top of the Mesa. Nothing but the chapel on the Mesa could burn for Hopi homes have adobe roofs, so they believed it to be the church. At dawn Arthur had gone to Otto Pentiwa's ranch and borrowed a shovel, they dug away the slippery surface, got back onto the road and when near the village they saw plainly that the church had burned. So they came right up without even first going home. As far as can be seen lightning must have struck the chimney. Many in the village had, seemingly at about the same time, been awakened by a sharp crash and many had said, "That must have hit something." Mr. Walker, a government teacher, had soon after 1:30 A. M. seen a peculiar "playing around of lightning around the point of the Mesa and chapel." To us it seems like the demons' attempts for some time till the Lord let them strike His house. All the Christians firmly believe God permitted Satan to strike the church. A few days before as Johnson and Tom were working in the chapel, doing some repair work, all of a sudden they heard a terrible crashing noise on the roof. Both had gone out to see whether some cars had crashed. But there was no car in sight. They then decided it must have been the devil. A little later Tom was crawling through an open pulpit room window and he felt somebody pushing him. He called for help but Johnson did not hear. He called again but had seemingly been pushed out, fallen on some rocks and was found unconscious by Johnson. Johnson covered him up with his coat and was just starting out for help when John and Mr. Vickers drove up. They took him to the clinic anl later in the evening he regained consciousness and is now slowly recovering. He was badly bruised. Johnson and

by the Rev. Howard G. Nyce

MAY 17—"Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." Matt. 5:48.

Did you ever see a perfect man? To be sure many of us would say of some individual, "That is a saint of God if ever there was one." But we must conclude that we have never known anyone who was perfect as we think of perfection. Yet our text tells us that we are to be perfect. In Hebrews 12:14 we read "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." In the Psalms we read "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints." No, we are not perfect of ourselves. We are not righteous either, but having accepted Christ Who is perfect and righteous, we through Him in the sight of God are perfect and righteous, because God sees us through Him Who died in our place.

MAY 18—"From that time many of his disciples went back, and walked no more with him. Then said Jesus unto the twelve, Will ye also go away?" John 6:66, 67.

Jesus had told the multitude that He was "the bread of life" and those who would eat "this bread shall live forever." After He had concluded the message, many of His followers turned back and then turning to the twelve, He asked the question, "Will ye also go away?" Peter answered by saying, "To whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life. And we believe and are sure that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God." This same man later denied His Lord, while the others "forsook him and fled." How sad indeed to see some one, formerly interested in the Church, no longer interested. Yes, they too have turned back. "Will ye also go away?"

MAY 19—"And he shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water." Psalm 1:3.

In contrast to the message of the 18th, what a wonderful thing it is to be able to work with some one who for years has not only been interested in the work of the Church, but has 'worn well' through every discouraging experience. Why are some men, yes, and women, always dependable? The answer is in the text; they have been deeply rooted in the Word of God. They may be bent as the result of the storm of criticism through years, but they stand firmly as "the tree planted by the rivers of water, and bring forth their fruit in their season." Are you rooted and grounded on the solid rock, Christ Jesus? Will Christ be able to depend on you through the years?

MAY 20—"How long halt ye between two opinions? I Kings 18:21.

Were you ever debating for days as to whether or not you should go to the dentist? You knew that it was necessary. Your tooth was giving you trouble and you were uncomfortable, but you could not make up your mind. Finally, after the tooth had been treated, you felt ashamed of yourself because you could not make up your mind much sooner. Simple illustration! Yes, we agree, and yet how many people are there who today are debating as to whether or not they should become a follower of Christ. We who are His followers, are happy because we have made the decision. We feel sorry for those who are halting between two opinions, and strongly urge, with Joshua, that you "choose this day whom ye will serve."

MAY 21—"And dust shall be the serpent's meat." Isa. 65:25.

While people's hearts fail them because of fear as the result of the condition of the world, we who believe in the promises of Christ, take courage. Should we be called upon to suffer for our faith, let us remember our forefathers who were willing to die for the same. We look forward to the blessed coming of the Bridegroom for his Bride, the Church. Then we look further on, and see the blessed state of the new Jerusalem, the City of God. We are informed that "the wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock." What a great day that will be. But notice one thing more. While the animals will then no longer harm anyone, we see that the serpent, as a continued punishment in causing our first parents to sin, will never be restored to its former state, but will continue to eat dust.

MAY 22—"He was taken up; and a cloud received him out of their sight." Acts 1:9.

This is Ascension Day. Today we think of the broken-hearted disciples and followers of Jesus, because they were separated from their leader and friend, who had become their Savior. With eyes fixed on heaven, they were looking into space, for He with Whom they had just spoken, had ascended "and a cloud received him out of their sight." Thanks be to God for the "two men who stood by them in white apparel" and gave to them the message that rings in the heart of every believer, "This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven." Paul said, "For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: Then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord."

I Thessalonians 4:16, 17. "Even so, come, Lord Jesus." Revelation 22:20.

MAY 23—"The heart is deceitful above all things, and desperately wicked: who can know it?" Jeremiah 17:9.

There are very few people who at some time did not say or think of someone else, "I am disappointed in that person, if there was one who I thought was dependable, honest, etc., it was that person." Did you think then of the experience of your Savior? One night He said, "One of you shall betray me." Could the disciples guess who it was? No, they asked, "Lord, is it I?" When it was finally revealed that it was Judas, how do you suppose the other disciples felt; those who were intimate with Judas, those who labored with him? Or again on another occasion, Jesus said, "Before the cock shall crow, you will have denied me thrice." Who would have thought this of the spokesman of the disciples? Yes, we agree, "the heart is deceitful above all things." But Christ will put a new heart in His child, and a new song on our lip. Have all things become new for you? "Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me." Psalm 51:10.

MAY 24—"Have we not all one father?" Mal. 2:10.

How often we hear the expressions "the Fatherhood of God" and "the Brotherhood of Man." As far as creation is concerned, we were all created by the same God and the same God in that sense was the father of all men, i. e., the Jews and the Gentiles were created by the same God, however, God was the God of the Jews, because He selected the Jews as His chosen people. In the New Testament, God is the Father of the Lord Jesus Christ and every one who believes in Christ as Savior. There is no such thing as "the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man." In II Corinthians 6:14-18 we read in part, "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers," again "ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people," and yet again, "Come out from among them, and be ye separate, . . . and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty."

Switzerland Still Carries On

(Article chosen for reprint from "Berne Witness" by Dr. J. R. Thierstein.)

Overflow of Red Cross work at Geneva
Taken over by 20 Swiss towns

Half of Switzerland's militia army of over 500,000 men is still on guard at the frontiers. It has been training constantly and improving the country's defenses to strengthen Swiss resistance against any aggressor. Yet, as Dr. George Wagniére, member of the International Committee of the Red Cross at Geneva, wrote some time ago, Switzerland is an island of peace and the centre of various institutions whose aim it is to form ties between the nations, to improve their mutual understanding, to unite their efforts for their common good and to defend together the superior interests of the human community. Amid the din of battles raging in Europe, Switzerland remains a link between the nations.

Foremost and most famous among these institutions is the International Red Cross at Geneva. Plans for it were conceived on the battlefields of Lombardy, where the armies of France and Piedmont were fighting against the Austrians. The late Jean Henri Dunant, citizen and philanthropist of Geneva, happened to be an eye-witness to the terrible sufferings of the wounded. He helped as much as he could, then wrote a brochure, "Memoirs of Solferino" in which he related his heart-breaking experiences. He appealed to humanity and his efforts were crowned by success, the International Red Cross treaty having been signed in the City Hall at Geneva on August 22, 1864. As a tribute to Switzerland the Swiss flag in reversed colors, i. e., a red cross on a white field, was adopted as the insignia of everything connected with the Red Cross. Today 64 countries are members of the Geneva Convention. Each of these has a national committee.

What Switzerland did in behalf of war sufferers during the first World War will forever remain one of the outstanding deeds in her glorious history.

In the second World War Switzerland again excels in her activities in favor of prisoners of war, their families and all those in distress through the war.

Prof. Max Huber, former President of the Permanent Court of Arbitration for International Disputes at The Hague, is chairman of the International Committee of the Red Cross at Geneva.

In June, 1940, over 50,000 allied soldiers, the majority of them French, fled across the French-Swiss frontier. The Swiss Army disarmed them and fed them. Promptly the sick and wounded were hospitalized and the remainder interned in different parts of the land. In the peace and marvelous climate of Switzerland these sad soldiers regained health and a brighter outlook on life. Last January all those of French nationality were allowed to return to unoccupied France. They left with their lips full of praise for the many kindnesses showered upon them by the Swiss people.

The French newspaper "Figaro" recently published an article entitled "Two days in the city of brotherly love." The article voiced the most profound appreciation of Switzerland's charitable activities. It said: "How can we find words to express the gratitude which France owes to this small nation of Christian, brotherly love? We are undoubtedly its chief debtors. Deeply moved do we observe the work of all these men and women whose almost Biblical simplicity still elevates their deeds. They do not ask for any thanks. However, it would be unpardonable if we did not tell them that we are fully aware of our debt to them and that we shall never forget this, if it were only in the name of the million and a half prisoners of war who received the first kind deeds from Switzerland, and still are receiving them."

During the first World War the Central Information Bureau for Prisoners of War, maintained by the International Red Cross Committee, was housed in the Musée Rath at Geneva, with available floor space of 1,100 square meters. In the present world conflict the Bureau has its main seat in the Palais du Conseil Général, but due to its totally unprecedented expansion it has lately also used the Musée Rath, thus occupying a total floor space of 3,800 square meters, consequently more than three times the space of 1914-18.

Workers for the Bureau have increased from 1200 during the first World War to 4800 in the present war. Of these all but about 200 are volunteers. Of this staff 3000 are residents of Geneva and 1800 others are distributed over 20 different towns in Switzerland. The use of units of helpers in other parts of Switzerland is a new feature, which became necessary through the tremendous overflow of work in the central agency.

In the war period from 1914-1918, incoming mail seldom exceeded 25,000 pieces per day. In the second half of 1940 letters and post cards received reached the daily figure of 60,000. Most of the letters and cards received contain anxious inquiries about prisoners of war and interned civilians. Others, as soon as contact has been established, are messages to be transmitted between victims of war and their families.

Index cards for prisoners of war in the years 1914-1918 numbered approximately 4,000,000; between September 1939 and January 1941, these cards had already reached the 5,000,000 mark. During the previous World War 300,000 interned civilians were listed; in the current war there are already 2,000,000 of these unfortunates.

At the end of 1939 the Central Information Bureau for Prisoners of War at Geneva had its German, English, French and Polish sections. To these in 1940 were added Finnish, Danish, Norwegian, Dutch, Belgian, Italian and Greek departments. The number of International Red Cross delegations sent from Geneva to foreign countries had to be increased accordingly.

Although most of the International Red Cross workers are volunteers, the Committee at Geneva has seen itself obliged to launch a special financial propaganda campaign. Individual and general appeals, as well as the sale of insignia, costing 225,000 Swiss francs, brought in the gross sum of 1,200,000 Swiss francs in a period of two months, with the collection still going on. However, since the monthly expenses of the International Red Cross increased to 190,000 Swiss francs in November, 1940, the Committee is considering other plans to raise money, such as a Red Cross Exhibition and the making of a film.

After participating in the Pan American Conference of the Red Cross at Santiago in Chile, Colonel Edouard Chapuisat, member of the International Red Cross Committee at Geneva, also visited the American Red Cross headquarters. It was then decided that the International unit at Geneva should be represented with the American Red Cross and the Government of the United States. Dr. Marc Peter of Boston, Mass., former Minister of Switzerland to the U. S. A., has been good enough to accept this mission.

BROADENING CHRISTIAN HORIZONS: SAUL'S CONVERSION

Acts 9:1-16

Saul, the Persecutor, Becomes a Humble Penitent vs. 1-9

Saul's intense hatred against Jesus and His followers was a well-organized attempt to completely crush the hated sect. Acts 22:19 and 26:10, 11 tell of the extent of his efforts and he sincerely believed that he was doing right (26:9). One can be quite conscientious and yet be wholly wrong.

The greatest single event in the history of the Church in its broadening effect upon the Christian movement, was the conversion of Saul of Tarsus. Saul was consenting to the stoning of Stephen and heard his prayer for the forgiveness of his murderers. Saul saw that Stephen and the Christians whom he persecuted, had an unusual degree of courage, faith and love. Saul was indellibly impressed. His mad career of destruction (v. 2) was checked by an amazing experience. No doubt the Spirit of God was striving with Saul's rebellious heart during the journey to Damascus. He had much time to think. God allowed him to go to within sight of his goal, then suddenly He intervened and saved the believers in Damascus. A light, brighter than the sun at noonday (A. 22:6; 26:13) suddenly shone from heaven. Our Jesus is exceedingly glorious. Saul saw the glorified Christ and heard Him speak in an audible voice. This came to Saul when he was wide awake. Those with him also heard the voice. Saul recognized the speaker as the Lord, and Jesus identifies Himself with the disciples whom Saul was persecuting (Matt. 25:35-40). Saul was now convinced that Jesus was truly the Christ. What a tremendous moment in his life when he fully realized that he had so hatefully persecuted Jesus. He saw now that he had been entirely mistaken in his estimate of Jesus and His followers. He saw that he had opposed God's Son.

Saul's decision now made the turning point in his life. He was willing to do what Jesus would have him do (v. 6). He now set his face toward Christ. Have we come to the same place of complete surrender? Saul, the persecutor of Jesus, was now led by the hand into Damascus, a captive of Jesus (v. 8). An intense mental and spiritual struggle was going on within Saul during three days of darkness, fasting and prayer (v. 9).

Ananias, the Obedient Disciple vs. 10-16

Saul needed an understanding friend very much. God in His mercy and wisdom prepared the way for a true friend to come to him and give the needed counsel and help (vs. 10-12). A vision from God directed him to Saul who was praying and ready to receive him. Saul was now sincerely desirous to know and to do God's will. Ananias was a willing instrument in God's hand, yet fearful of Saul (vs. 13, 14). God so wonderfully assures him that Saul, the bitter enemy, is now transformed into a chosen vessel and called ta a great work (v. 15). Ananias does not protest any longer. He visits Saul (v. 18) and tenderly lays his hands on him and greets him as "Brother Saul," and tells him that the Lord, even Jesus, hath sent him. Saul was ready to receive baptism, thus formally declaring himself a believer in Christ. This meant for Saul, a profound intellectual upheaval. There must be a far-reaching readjustment of ideas for him to be Christ's ambassador. His entire religious outlook must now center in Jesus, the Messiah and Lord. The doctrine of justification by faith in Christ became fundamental in Paul's thought. His conversion was a life-changing experience.

Why was Saul's conversion a very important event in the early history of the Church?

What do you understand conversion to mean?

Why did God select Saul, the persecutor, to be His chosen vessel?

Witmarsum Seminary

by N. E. Byers, Bluffton College

(Concluded from last week)

Dean Langenwalter and, after his resignation, Acting Dean Whitmer both advocated organizing the Seminary as a separate institution believing that by so doing it would make a stronger appeal for students among the graduates of the other Mennonite colleges and for financial aid from the church at large. The latter was urgent in order to provide adequately for a Bible Training course as well as a strengthened graduate seminary course.

On January 28, 1921, at a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of Bluffton College and Mennonite Seminary, a committee of. five was appointed to submit a plan for the reorganization of the Seminary as a separate institution. This committee was composed of President S. K. Mosiman, Dean N. E. Byers, acting Dean P. E. Whitmer, Professor J. A. Huffman and Rev. Emanuel Troyer. This was the beginning that led to the incorporation of Witmarsum Seminary. In addition to the branches of the church cooperating in Bluffton College, the Mennonite Brethren church was also represented. Members of the Board of Trustees were J. E. Amstutz, D. E. Harder, L. S. Nafziger, A. J. Neuenschwander, Emanuel Troyer, N. O. Blosser, T. H. Brenneman, D. N. Claudon, P. C. Hiebert, Elmer Basinger, Noah Goldsmith, J. W. Kliewer, B. A. Sherk, Allen Yoder. Dr. J. E. Hartzler was elected President of Witmarsum, P. E. Whitmer, Dean, and Rev. Jacob Quiring was added to the faculty.

Bluffton College turned over to the new Seminary that part of the library secured from the Seminary and such funds as were donated to promote that work. The Seminary was given the use of a building on the college campus, free of rent, until such time as they could secure their own building.

During the following years practically all of the graduates of Bluffton and Bethel who wanted Seminary work, as well as a goodly number from other colleges, attended Witmarsum. A smaller number registered for Bible Training work. The students having their own religious and social activities developed a strong esprit de corpse and manifested a great enthusiasm and loyalty for Witmarsum and the work of the Mennonite denomination as a whole.

During the entire history of Mennonite and Witmarsum Seminary fifty-one persons received degrees. Of these forty-one have given substantial service to the Mennonite church. They made a large contribution to the religious, missionary, and educational work of the church. Many of them are now leaders in the work of the different branches of Mennonites. This record shows what the church has lost by keeping the institution closed during recent years. While the student attendance was quite satisfactory from all sections of the church the financial support came largely from the eastern conferences. When the depression began and all of the church institutions were suffering because of the lack of adequate financial support, the Seminary found it difficult to continue and concluded to close the institution until such time as the whole denomination could unite to adequately support the work. So Witmarsum Seminary closed its doors in June, 1931.

In recent years steps have been taken by the General Conference and Central Conference to reorganize the Board and the new Board is now considering plans for reopening the institution. Those of us at Bluffton would, of course, prefer to see the Seminary remain here. Recent articles in the Mennonite advocating a rural setting for the training of Mennonite church workers show the advantages of a location such as Bluffton. I fully appreciate these arguments and often used them in urging students to attend Witmarsum Seminary. However, I have become reconciled to the fact that we cannot expect to get wholehearted support of the whole denomination if the Seminary is located in connection with one of our colleges.

I am fully convinced that the most practical plan is to affiliate with a Seminary of a denomination that has most in common with the Mennonites and is centrally located for the whole membership of the denomination. We should take a look into the future and plan for the time when all branches can cooperate in this work. While in some sections our churches are largely rural, in others, most of them are located in industrial centers. And more and more our educated young people are taking positions in the cities. Up to the present we have not taken very good care of these people. While rural preachers should be rural minded, I believe that being raised on a farm, attending a rural high school and a rural college can provide the actual contacts with rural life that is needed. In fact, the leaders of the rural movement have received their higher training in city institutions. Even most agricultural colleges are connected with the large city universities. One never understands the significant features of country life until he gets a comparative view by living in the city. Three years of nine months each is not too much to give the rural minister this broader viewpoint. He should be rural minded but not provincial or "backwoodish." Our country people deserve the best.

I should like to urge the newly organized Board to study all phases of the problem, give every suggestion prayerful consideration, and then proceed without undue delay. You have been officially charged with this responsibility. We are losing many promising workers by neglecting to provide training for them. What is your answer to the church and these young people?

CORRESPONDENCE

FIRST MENN. CH., HILLSBORO, KS., April 27, '41

Greetings to all the Mennonite Readers: This year our church is facing new problems, one of them being that of securing a new pastor. There have been problems and struggles in the past, and we take heart when we read in the Psalms: "I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way thou shalt go. I will guide thee with mine eye."

We are grateful to the following for blessing-filled messages which have been a great source of inspiration: Dr. H. A. Fast, Newton; Rev. Bestvater, Hillsboro; Dr. P. S. Goertz, North Newton; Rev. P. H. Unruh, Goessel; and Rev. Neuenschwander, McPherson. Rev. P. H. Unruh led us in an impressive service at the ordination of a new deacon, L. F. Bartel and his help-mate, Mrs. Bartel.

We have learned to esteem Dr. and Mrs. P. S. Goertz in a new capacity. Brother Goertz has supplied the pulpit for the last two months. He has also instructed the catechism class.

We are happy in the possession of the fine new hymn book, The Mennonite Hymnary. The choir is making use of it also. The newly-organized Young People's Choir, under the able direction of Mrs. Meredith Rogers, makes its appearance once a month. The A Cappella Choir of Bethel College presented a very fine program in our church which was greatly appreciated.

Our Young People's Christian Endeavor is staging a weeding contest on the church lawn to free it of the weeds. Those who fail to appear must throw a party for the "weeders." Invitations have been received for the approaching marriage of Hazel May Ewert, Hillsboro, to Harold Schmidt, Walton; and Vella Schroeder, Hillsboro, to Lloyd Vogt, Valley Center. —Correspondent

RANSOM MENN. CHURCH, APRIL 23, 1941

The Easter season has brought many spiritual blessings to us. The community observed Good Friday by having union services from 12 o'clock noon to 3 P. M. The Seven Words from the Cross were used as a basis for the discussions by representatives from the Methodist, the Christian, and the Mennonite churches. Special music was furnished by each church. These three churches also united in an Easter Sunrise service which was held at the Methodist Church this year. Each church has a part on the program, our church furnishing the speaker this year. These services are held alternately in the three participating churches. Candle light was used instead of electric light which made the service very impressive. The attendance was fair at both of these union services.

On Easter morning each church had regular Easter services of its own. After the regular Sunday School period our children gave a short Easter program which was followed by an Easter message by the pastor. Special music was furnished by the different groups of the Sunday School and by the choir. After the Christian Endeavor program in the evening, a joint consecration meeting was enjoyed by the three C. E.'s, namely the adult, the young people's, and the junior C. E.'s.

The Bethel College Male Quartet gave a program at the Ransom High School to an appreciative audience. Our church sponsored this program. This community has been blessed with much moisture since last fall, and the outlook for a crop is promising. We had a real blizzard last Saturday, which started with rain and netted us considerable moisture. We had a considerable frost on two successive nights, but we hope that it did not seriously damage the growing crops. We are very thankful to God for all of these blessings. —Abr. Albrecht

JOHANNESTAL MENNONITE CHURCH, HILLSBORO, KANSAS

Spring is the time of the year when nature puts on new life. At this time one goes about his work with more vigor than at any other time of the year. We are enjoying a beautiful spring. When we look out into nature and see its beauty we must say, "How wonderful God has created this world. He has created this world for us and has filled it with things good for our use." May this springtime also awake us spiritually.

We have been privileged to hold our church services regularly, our pastor, Rev. J. M. Regier, bringing us the Gospel messages every Sunday. He is also instructing a Catechism class during the Sunday School hour with an enrollment of 15. Sunday School is being held before the preaching services and the Christian Endeavor program is held every second and fourth Sunday evenings of the month, other Sunday evenings are used for preaching or other programs. The third Sunday evening is our open Sunday.

As in former years a Vacation Bible School for a term of five weeks, started on April 28, with Miss Dora Ewert as teacher. The Women's Mission Society meets once a month. Preaching services were also held on Good Friday and Easter Monday.

On Sunday evening, April 20, representatives of the SCM from Bethel College gave us an interesting program, and on Sunday afternoon, April 27, the A Cappella Choir from Bethel College was with us. Both programs were well attended and enjoyed by those present.

Our Sunday School sent delegates to the county S. S. Convention held at Peabody. They reported that it had been very interesting and instructive, and they gave an interesting report of the Convention. —Correspondent

The Difference Between Can and Will

By Victor Sawatzky

Scripture Lesson: Luke 5:12-16.

Text: "Lord if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean."

The story of the leper who applied to Jesus for cleansing presents to us in a striking manner a truth which is often overlooked by us, and as a result of our failure to take into consideration this very important teaching of God's Word, we fall into many errors and lose the clear, firm testimony of a faith that is based upon the sure promises of God.

My dear Christian friends, and especially you young Christians, the message that we want everyone of you to receive from this brief meditation upon the teaching of the miracle which Jesus wrought on this leper is, that God is able to do many more things than He already has done or will do, that is, God has unlimited power; He is omnipotent—all powerful, but He does only those things which it is His will to do. In other words, God's all-power is limited by His will.

Let us illustrate with Scripture. In Matt. 3:9 where Jesus is speaking to the Pharisees we read that, "God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham." God has the power to command stones to become living human beings, but we do not find anywhere in Scripture that He performed such a miracle, and we conclude that the reason why He did not is that it was not His will to do so. He had the power to do so but He did not perform it.

The leper of our story seemed not to doubt Christ's power to heal the most incurable of all diseases, namely leprosy, but we notice that he realized that more than the power to heal was necessary in order that he as an individual might obtain that healing. He said, "Lord if thou wilt thou canst make me clean." And the Lord said, "I will, be thou clean."

We see, then, that there is a difference between mere ability or power to do something and the actual performance of that act. In other words there is a difference between can and will.

But we find also that can and will are not only two distinct terms, but that both must be present in order to the performance of an act. Some people have the power necessary to do a certain thing but they do not do it because they do not want to. Others want to do certain things but do not have the power to perform their will. And when a person wills to do a certain thing and has the power to do it we say that he is able to perform that act. but at other places where this same word is used it is sometimes used to indicate only the fact that a certain individual has the power to act without being willing to perfom; I refer to the Scripture passage which says that God is able of stones to raise up children unto Abraham.

We see, then, that sometimes where the Scriptures use the word "able" they refer only to the fact of the power necessary to perform a certain act, but at other places where this same word is used it means not only that the person referred to has the power to act but that he will do what is stated. Such is the meaning of the word "able" in the passage found in Hebrews 7:25: "Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them."

Beloved, the burden of the message which the Lord has given me to give to you is that you might have a hope that is based on a sure Word of God. We have been told so often that God can save us, but what we are interested in this day is will He save us. We are crying together with the leper, "Lord if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean." Are we hearing the answer of our Lord, "I will be thou clean?"

Let us therefore consider how God in His Book, the Bible, is answering our cry with the words, "I will be thou clean." And to this end we will use the verse which has already been quoted, namely, Hebrews 7:25, "Wherefore he (Jesus Christ) is able, also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him (Jesus Christ), seeing he (Jesus Christ) ever liveth to make intercession for them (the believers)."

This verse does not teach that God has the power to save the greatest sinner in the world, the uttermost sin, although that is true, but it teaches that Christ is able to save those that come unto God by Him to the uttermost of time and eternity. It is the extent of time and not the extent of sin that is referred to in the phrase, "to the uttermost."

Jesus Christ, then is able to save to the uttermost extent of time, and throughout a timeless eternity all those who come unto God by Him. He is able;

He has the power. Yes, but more than that, He not only can but He will, "Lord if thou wilt thou canst make me clean." "I will, be thou clean."

But in order to be positive that the word able in Hebrews 7:25 means both can and will, we must turn to other Scriptures which give us positive assurance that Christ will save those that come unto God by Him. John 6:37-40, "All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; and him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out. For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him that sent me. And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day. And this is the will of him that sent me, that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him may have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day." By these verses it is very evident that it is God's will to save to the uttermost those that come unto God by Jesus Christ. God not only can but He will save us who believe in His Son, Jesus Christ. We have a sure Word as our foundation.

What we have considered in the past few minutes was given to the end that we as Christians, such as have come unto God by Jesus Christ, might have a sure confidence and hope in Christ our Savior and that we might be able to give a firm, clear testimony as to the basis of our salvation, even as we find it stated in I Peter 3:15, "Be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear." The German says, "Be ready to answer every man that asketh you the foundation or basis for the hope that is in you." We have a hope that is based on a sure foundation. Romans 8:24 says in the German, "We are saved, but that in hope." That is, it is a fact that we are saved, right at this very moment we are perfectly righteous in Christ, but here on earth we must still live in hope for as to our bodies our salvation is not yet complete. Hope always looks to the future. But let us notice that this hope is based on a sure foundation and by faith we can accept our complete salvation as already accomplished. The passage in Romans does not say, "We hope to be saved." It says, "We are saved, but that in hope." And this hope has a sure foundation, namely, God's promise as we find it stated in Hebrews 6:16-19, "For men verily swear by the greater: and an oath for confirmation is to them an end of all strife. Wherein God, willing more abundantly to show unto the heirs of promise the immutability of His counsel, confirmed it by an oath: that by two immutable things, in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us: which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast, and which entereth into that within the veil; whither the forerunner is for us entered, even Jesus, made an high priest forever after the order of Melchisedec."

Our hope is both sure and steadfast, and why? Because of God's promise. We have cried, "Lord, if thou wilt thou canst make me clean." And He has answered, "I will, be thou clean."

Now, my dear Christian friends, are we taking God at His word; are we always ready to give any man that might ask a reason or basis for the hope that is in us?

May God give us all, and especially us young people, a firm clear testimony to His power and will to save us.

SERIES: TORCHBEARERS OF CHRISTIANITY

Program for June 1, 1941

PETER, THE ROCK

John 1:35-42

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "O, Could I Speak the Matchless Worth," "The Son of God Goes Forth to War," and "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer.
3. Biographical sketch of Peter's life.
4. Offering for peace.

II. Leader's Introduction

Followers of Jesus Christ are by the very nature of their calling propagandists. As some one has said, "Scratch a Christian anywhere and you will find a missionary." That, at least, should be the case with all who are committed to Christ and His cause. It requires missionaries, of course, to maintain a missionary enterprise. But that is not all it requires.

It is necessary also to have a strong supporting group at home. An adequate home base must be maintained if a missionary project is to succeed.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

Peter's Certainty	John 6:66-69
Peter's Confession	Matt. 16:13-16
Peter's Contrition	Luke 22:54-62
Peter's Conversion	John 21:15-17
Peter's Courage	Acts 5:27-32
Peter's Counsel	I Peter 3:8-12

IV. For Discussion

1. What qualities did Peter have that made him worthy of being called "The Rock?"

2. What are the essential qualities of good church leaders today?

V. Facts for Study

One outstanding characteristic of Peter is his sincerity. He never attempted to deceive. His heart was always in his countenance and on his lips. He thought aloud. He bungled matters sometimes, but he was genuine.

Another element of strength in his character was his promptness. He did at once what his hand found to do.

A third distinguishing thing was his courage. This comes out in his preaching at Pentecost, and in his work in the church.

We also admire him for his order and devotion. He is not one of those who are only lukewarm. He is so wholehearted, so enthusiastic, so energetic in his allegiance to Jesus Christ. Because he was such a good follower, he made such a good leader.

VI. Illustration

Dwight L. Moody was once preaching to a great crowd in one of his meetings. He was putting his very soul into it as he always did. He was thinking more about the content of his message and of its effect upon the hearts of men than about the precise literary form of it. There was a certain fastidious gentleman sitting on the platform that night, and at the close of the service he went to Mr. Moody and said, "By the way, I noticed that you made eleven mistakes in grammar in your sermon tonight."

"Very likely," replied Mr. Moody. "I don't doubt it for a minute. My early education was faulty. I often wish that I had received more schooling. But I am using all the grammar I know in the service of Christ—how is it with you?"

VII. Food for Thought

Who answers Christ's insistent call
Must give himself, his life his all,
Christ claims him wholly for His own;
He must be Christ's and Christ's alone.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE IN CITY SLUMS

Worship

Hymn: "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life."

Silent Communion.

Prayer:

"O God, forgive that I have seen
The beauty only, have not been
Awake to sorrow such as this;
That I have drunk the cup of bliss,
Remembering not that those there be
Who drink the dregs of misery."

(Quoted in Living Creatively, by Kirby Page)

Sentence Prayers.

Suggestion for study: Procure a large map of your city or the city nearest you. Facts discovered in the study might be marked with colored pins or crayon, such as delinquency cases, largest proportion of employment, churches, playgrounds, settlements, libraries and clinics.

Poem:

Heaven is not gained at a single bound;
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to its summit round by round.
I count this thing to be grandly true,
That a noble deed is a step toward God—
Lifting the soul from the common sod
To a purer air and a broader view.

—Josiah G. Holland

Questions for Discussion:

1. What is the reason for your city? Is it a trading center? a railroad center? a lake, river or sea port? an industrial center?
2. How large is it? What is the population?
3. What races are represented?
4. What are the major problems?
5. What are the schools in your community doing for "character" education?
6. What recreational opportunities are offered for boys and girls in your community? Who sponsors them?
7. Is there cooperation between the agencies—community, Church and school in planning for the leisure time of boys and girls?
8. Are the churches of your community waiting for the children to come to them, or do they go after the children?
9. How many people are there who cannot afford medical care? What resources are available for them?
10. Are the churches making any effort to bring the elderly people into the fellowship?

Offering.

Closing Prayer: "Bless those who find themselves in the slum areas of our great cities, we pray, O God. Give them fortitude and character to live above their environment; give us who are members of a larger society the will to do our part in changing their lot. Remember all the young people who live in such places. Help us to provide, through consistent Christian lives, the kind of human friendship which will encourage them and recommend the God we love. Amen."

LETTERS THAT PAUL WROTE

"For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost," 2 Peter 1:21.

June 1.—Paul's First Letters.

"Remembering without ceasing your work of faith and labor of love, and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, in the sight of God and our Father, knowing, brethren beloved, your election of God," 1 Thess. 1:3, 4.

June 8—Paul's Letter to the Church at Rome.

"For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, to the Jew first, and also to the Greek," Rom. 1:16.

June 15—The Two Letters to the Corinthians.

"For I determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and Him crucified," 1 Cor. 2:2.

June 22—Letters to Friends.

"That from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus," 2 Tim. 3:15.

June 27—The Letter to the Ephesians.

"For by grace are ye saved through faith and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God," Eph. 2:8.

Song for the month: "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," The Mennonite Hymnary, No. 110.

Verse for the month: "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, to the Jew first, and also to the Greek," Rom. 1:16.

Prayer for the month: "Open Thou my eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of Thy law," Ps. 119:18.

Benediction: "The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen," Phil. 4:23.

Program for June 1, 1941

PAUL'S FIRST LETTERS

"Remembering without ceasing your work of faith, and labor of love, and patience of hope in our Lord Jesus Christ, in the sight of God and our Father, knowing, brethren beloved, your election of God," 1 Thess. 1:3, 4.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude - Quiet music.
2. Call to worship: "I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord."
3. Unison Song: "In the Cross of Christ I Glory."
4. Scripture Reading:

(Let the Juniors read the given Scripture verses in concert, in answer to the questions asked by an older Junior. Scripture passages should have been placed on a blackboard).

a) Who wrote the Bible? 2 Peter 1:21.

b) On whose authority is the Scripture based? 2 Tim. 3:16.

c) Why was the Bible given to us? John 20:31, John 5:39

d) What does Bible study do for us? 2 Tim. 3:15.

5. Leader's prayer.
6. Singing of several favorite songs.

II. Study Period

Aim: To give the Junior the knowledge of the fact that in the Bible we have letters which Paul wrote. To give them an increasing appreciation of God's book. To help them to know a little of the two letters to the Thessalonians.

1. Introduction.

Our Bible is divided into the Old Testament and the New Testament. The greater part of the New Testament was written by Paul. The Holy Spirit used him to write the books. These are letters written to his friends and to the churches that he loved. He has many things to tell them. Probably the letters to the Thessalonians were the first that he wrote to his converts. (Point out Thessalonica on the map.) It is very tender and affectionate, for Paul loved the Christians at Thessalonica dearly.

2. All Juniors find First Thessalonians in their Bibles. One Junior may read verse one, Paul's salutation. All read verse two in concert.

3. Paul tells them that although they had been persecuted they had remained faithful, for which he is thankful. 1 Thess. 2:13-15.

A Junior should read the above verses and tell what he learns from them.

4. Paul tells them that Jesus is coming again. Two Juniors should read the passages.

a) 1 Thess. 4:14-18; b) 1 Thess. 5:1, 2.

5. A Junior may discuss "What we learn from 1 Thess. 5:15-22."

6. All turn to Second Thessalonians. Each Junior reads one of the following verses and tells what he thinks about it: 2 Thess. 1:3; 1:12; 3:5; 3:10-13.

7. If any Junior has memorized a verse from either 1st or 2nd Thessalonians let him recite it now.

III. Mission Minutes.

1. How can we be missionaries at home?
2. Pray especially for our missionaries in China.

IV. Closing Moments.

1. Memorize the verse for the month, Romans 1:16.
2. Sing the song for the month, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory."
3. All pray the prayer for the month.
4. Together repeat the benediction, Phil. 4:23.

MEETING CALLED TO GET INFORMATION OF RELIEF WORK

The Women's Missionary Association of the General Conference is sponsoring a meeting to be held in the First Mennonite Church, Newton, Kansas, May 19, 7:30 P. M. (Concluded from page 2)

Tom have no doubts but that it was all satanic, but we are glad God lets Satan go only so far and no further as also in the case of Job. John has each morning when he had been home had a short Bible lesson with all the workmen. That day he had read with them the creation chapter. And the question had come up why in the second day does it not say that it was good. So John had explained because the atmosphere was Satan's abode after having been cast out of heaven at his uprising as seen in Isa. 14:12-17 and Ezek. 28:12-19.

To those people who did not believe in a very hateful and personal and powerful devil this letter would indeed seem queer. John often says that he wishes that those people who do not believe in a personal devil could live here for a few months.

Now we have no meeting place for our Sunday School. Maybe by next Sunday we can meet in the new church basement. We hope so. Last Sunday some of us went up and had a service near the ashes. Hopi superstition runs very high now. They will not go near a place where lightning has struck lest they get sick or bring sickness upon their children. Even some of the Christians have not gotten away from this fear. This will possibly cut our attendance very much. Some unbelievers even say that this must not be the right religion since God permitted the church to be struck. We are all decided that the chapel must be rebuilt or repaired. Just how, when, etc., we do not know. Already John has $15.00 towards that purpose and one volunteer laborer. We are waiting on the Lord.

Some government people who had passed by and had seen our service, said it had looked so sad. We had a good service. John preached on I Peter 4:17. He used the illustration of the dream a certain Christian had of devils sleeping on the roof of a church where Christ was not preached—a spiritually dead church—and then how the demons were found dancing around a home where an aged couple was busy reading the Bible. Then he went on to review how this Mesa chapel had been nailed shut for many years, then slowly repaired and used, and just now fully repaired and much used. Satan did not like that, etc. But then he also reminded us that God had a hand in it. Like at the judgment of our sins on Calvary where Satan and man did their utmost and worst, yet God poured out His wrath and judgment on His Son for He was made sin for us. Maybe we are to blame for not keeping this chapel in repair and not using it enough. Some writings found in the bell-tower room were disgraceful. We must all put away sin and live holier lives, for we are living in the last days and Satan's attacks on every Christian will be more severe and subtle. We closed with the songs "All for Jesus" and "We'll Work till Jesus Comes."

We went into the upper village for a street meeting. Qoyawayma there reviewed the agreement between Washington, the Hopis, and the Mennonites as to our privilege of doing missionary work here; and he encouraged that this continue to be permitted. Anna also spoke on the fact that Hopis were afraid to near a place struck by lightning, but that Jesus healed the sick and they should not be afraid but come for the Word of God. After another street meeting in the lower village we went home for our afternoon dinner.

The white government people, the unbelievers among the Hopis, and especially the Christians are watching us closely to see whether we will be discouraged. So do pray.

—The Bethel College Booster Banquet, sponsored by the Newton Chamber of Commerce, was held in the basement of the new Memorial Hall, Wednesday evening, May 7, with over a thousand people present. Dr. Deane W. Malott, Chancellor of the University of Kansas, delivered the main address of the evening. Honorable O. Jolliffe, banker of Peabody, Kansas, a good friend and benefactor of the college, presented a challenge to the school and the constituency when he announced his agreement to help meet the great need of Bethel College for a new library building by donating $50,000 towards the same on condition that Bethel College match this amount with another $50,000 for a library endowment, and that the building be completed by September 20, 1943, which is the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the school. The building will be named the O. Jolliffe Memorial Library.

Ascension Day Thoughts

The question "Why stand ye gazing?" came to disciples who had just been told, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature." Are we sometimes standing when we should be going?

"Every priest standeth daily ministering and offering . . . but this man (Christ) after he had offered one sacrifice for sins forever, sat down on the right hand of God." The work of the priests of the old covenant was never finished; Christ's sacrifice was made once for all, His work was finished, He ascended to heaven, and sat down.

The disciples had to "wait for the promise of the Father." Waiting is hard, but when God bids us wait, He has something in store for us which is worth waiting for.

Waiting is not inactivity. The disciples utilized their waiting time until, on the day of Pentecost, "they were all with one accord in one place." Would there be as much discord among us if we would practice waiting upon God more? —MB

The Day of Promises

Ascension Day, one of the neglected days in the Christian calendar, calls to mind many things, incidents that occurred, words that were spoken, promises that were made. We need only to stop and think in order to remember the many promises that were made on this one day. Christ "being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father": "He shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you forever, even the Spirit of truth." On the day of Pentecost "they were all filled with the Holy Spirit, and began to speak with many tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance" in answer to this promise of the Father.

Another Ascension-Day promise, "Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me. . . " was fulfilled at the same time for they "began to speak." They received witnessing power.

One of the precious promises of the Scriptures, as we choose to call them, a promise which has been a comfort and help to every child of God at some time or another is the promise of Christ's continuous presence: "Lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

All of the above Ascension-Day promises have been fulfilled and are being fulfilled from day to day, but there is one promise which has not been fulfilled. "This same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven," is a promise which is just as sure of being kept as the others and some day "the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him." When this shall be no one knows and the time is of minor importance. The thing that is important is that we are ready and found faithful when He comes.—MB

The Workshop

A Tribute to Dr. J. R. Thierstein

It is so quiet here. The clock has struck the late afternoon hour. The shadows of evening are beginning to fall. Beyond the window, beyond the two trees that form a frame about a bit of sky, a few clouds are gathering. The first raindrops may fall soon.

I have sat in this room before. Yes, in this very chair near the desk, near to another chair which remains empty today. There is the same black cushion on it with its two patches of gray. It is Dr. Thierstein's chair. I seem to see him there, leaning back with eyes almost shut, eyes that see visions in the distant years. There is a light of joy upon his face, interest and courage. I feel the spirit of strength in this workshop that has never known rest before.

A stillness has entered this room, a pause that waits. There is the typewriter standing near the east window. It has covered itself with its black cloak lest, looking out, it should see something worthy of words and there be no one to coin them. Opposite, against the wall, the calendar waits to be turned. It will not be turned. What is the quick passing of time on earth when Eternity reaches down and lays its hand upon one's soul. We would hold that moment still forever.

Against the south wall, standing erect and tall is the strong, oak filing cabinet from whose top-door handle drape the long streamers that bear the Mennonite mailing list. How many seeds has this list carried out! And though the sower has left, Heaven cares for its own seeds. There shall be harvest and then seedtime again.

Leaning toward the oak cabinet as though it were asking support, is a frail bookstand, bent but faithful. Among other things, between its lean, uplifted arms, rest three copies of the new Hymnary and three black volumes each holding a year's issue of the Mennonite. It is strange how much of a man's immortal soul can be bound together and kept within a few volumes.

From other walls and portions of walls, rise bookcases, some reaching almost to the ceiling, others would have toiled less had they, too, climbed higher as their burdens increased. On one of these, as though it had scaled the very summit of books and magazines and papers, lies a beautiful gift edition of the Mennonite Hymnary in serene dignity. The black leather cover bears its owner's name in gold lettering. It is a gift of the publishers in recognition of the contributions made.

In the center of the room, almost against the north window, stands the desk with its hand-painted lamp. On its left-hand side is a stack of books and a few recent newspapers waiting to be read. To the right, is the Mennonite file. Here are stored the unused materials that shall yet be woven into future issues. Near it is a spindel with numerous jottings and on a lean-to stand is a wire basket with work sheets and recent mail. Just in reach of the table is the large dictionary which has been closed, and to the left, also in reach, is a steel file against which leans a stack of back number issues of the Mennonite. To the back of the desk is a heater for winter comfort, and squeezed into a corner rubbing an arm against books is a large oak and black walnut chair. Was there ever time for its use?

This room is, in truth, a den. It is small and is closed off from the rest of the house; and from the street by foliage brushing against the east window and a porch, trees, and bushes to the north. So much has been stored in this room. So much has left it. . . .

The large framed Doctoris Philosophae which predominates the west wall, looks down upon the den as though in it was vested the authority over the workshop.

No, Another has had the authority. Another has looked down upon this den from day to day. Another has imparted means to the laborer, imparted grace, victorious grace. And, one day, He came. The Master spoke with His servant. Together they walked out and closed the workshop.

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

APPEAL FOR OUR MISSION TREASURY

Dear Mission Friends:

It is now over a year ago that we had to make the last appeal for our treasury. The gifts have come in steadily and regularly, for which we are very thankful.

This year, however, we have had some special expenses for the church building in Arizona, because the old church became too small. We have also had large repair bills in Montana, which had long been postponed. Then we have to figure with the fact that we have emergency conditions, and the accepted budget may prove too small. Five missionaries were already compelled to come home from China because of war conditions. Traveling is expensive.

Our treasury has now a debt of some $9,000.00. But this second quarter's payments have all been made. On July 1 the third quarter begins. By that time we should have this debt paid, and enough for the third quarter, which amounts to about $15,000.00.

The Pentecost mission festivals are at the door, and we hope the mission friends will remember this need in a special way, both in gifts and prayers. The missionaries in China call for unceasing prayer. Let it be with thanksgiving for the rich harvest that is being gathered in spite of this emergency.

In the name of the Board,

—P. H. Richert, Secretary

HELEN E. NICKEL WRITES

Janjgir, C. P., India, January 7, 1941

Dear Rev. Richert:

Greetings and best wishes for God's peace and blessings in the year of 1941. The brightness and goodness of God shines forth more clearly than ever in contrast to the darkness and unrest in the world. Here we unitedly expressed the thoughts at Conference time that there is hope greater than ever before for in-gatherings from this more unresponsive section of our Mission area. And even though it is early in the year, already many of the missionaries are again in the district touring or are making the final preparations to get out next week.

It was my great privilege again this year to get to an out-station with a group of teachers and girls for voluntary evangelistic efforts. A gift cheque from my relatives shortly before we left took care of the extra expenses, because I have no budget for this work and yet feel that it does not interfere with the efficiency of the school work to do this during the long vacation period between semesters. We went to Katghora, which is properly in the Korba section, and could teach a course of lessons and bring home the great message of the Word of God through song and drama also. Now we are following up this effort and praying for the larger groups that are in tour this season by having weekly prayer meetings on Sunday afternoons. Often we can also go to Janjgir and nearby Naila villages on Saturday afternoons.

An efficient and cooperative staff of teachers has made the work most pleasant. Yet for improvement we are trying to replace an old-time head-master of the Primary school with a younger and more efficient man and that brings problems with it. Since it has now been definitely decided to have a Normal Training class for girls here beginning with next year I am making plans together with the teacher for this important work. Often it appears that the school work is the first work that we will be able to entrust entirely into Indian hands and I am working toward giving more and more responsibility to the head teacher who is loyal to the Mission and has a good Christian character.

In one effort I failed this year and that is keeping the expenses of the boarding within the budget requests. High prices of supplies due to a near crop failure is a contributing reason, and some may be lack of management on my part, but it seems impossible to feed the school girls on a dollar a month and I have to commit the financial burden of the work over to the Lord over and over again in order to keep from worrying and in this way make my efforts even less effective. When salaries get here anywhere on time to put in one's salary to keep the children fed tides over but it is not a permanent solution. We search for ways and means of further economy and thank God for graciously sparing us from sickness and epidemics in these days. In other reports you will no doubt hear how the people are having a very hard time to make ends meet. The government has opened some work locally, and in the Mission wherever building will take place that will also bring some employment. Since three years ago when I returned from furlough the price of rice has doubled.

It has been my good fortune to have Waltners live with me but the last Conference also terminated that prospect because they were stationed to Champa after their language studies. So just now with two teachers available here they are concentrating on the work and may move their goods before leaving for Landour. This bungalow is quite small but we managed all right, and when they leave it will seem too large, so I definitely hope and pray that a misahib may come out, a nurse or educational worker, and she could live here while studying Hindi, and be ready to take my place when my furlough again comes due.

Yours, in Christ's service, —Helen E. Nickel

ASCENSION DAY

(Read Acts 1:9-11)

By Rodolphe Petter, D. D., Missionary among the Cheyenne Indians, Lame Deer, Montana

Among the four pinnacles of Christ's redemptive work for mankind, the last one was His Ascension to His former glorified and divine state in Heaven, at the right hand of God, from where He will return for the great glorious and final climax, when "He shall deliver up the Kingdom to God the Father, after having abolished all domination, authority, and power" whose origin and sway is from the prince of this world.

The 22nd of this month the Christian Church celebrates this memorable Ascension Day. Or is it not rather forgotten, unheeded by many Christians? Alas, also eclipsed by other "Days" now appointed to celebrate men or certain world or national events! Certainly Christmas Day is not forgotten or unheeded by Christian people. Yes, the first day of Christ's appearance among men, on earth, is joyfully celebrated. Why should the Day of His disappearance from this earth and His return to Heaven remain unremembered? Has this fourth pinnacle of Christ's redemptive work less value than that of His Birth, of His Crucifixion, and Resurrection?

The chime of church bells which ushered in the importance and solemnity of the Ascension Day, the eve before it, I can still hear sounding, there in Switzerland, 70 years ago. And again in 1939 they rang for us the tidings of Christ's ascending to Heaven. Today, as then, all business and work ceases, noise is subdued, all is quiet in cities and country, while multitudes of old and young people gather in God's house, there before Him remembering the memorable Day of the past, when our Lord and Savior ascended to His glory. And with this remembrance the renewed assurance of that future great Day, when He shall come again. Beside those church services, many mission festivals (Missionsfeste) took place in remembrance of Christ's commission to His followers.

Thus the Ascension was, and still is, a special Mission Day, because immediately before Jesus "was taken up" He had given this mandate to His disciples, "Ye shall be my witnesses, both in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria and unto the uttermost part of the earth." Thus Jesus' commission on the Ascension Day implicitly includes the Mission work. Oh, what a rich blessing the celebration of the Ascension has brought to the Christian Church in its mission service in all the world!

The many mission services and festivals that took place in Switzerland and Germany were always a spring of spiritual life and lasting benediction for thousands of Christian people, old and young, many of the latter so deeply impressed that then and there they devoted their lives to the mission service. Writer of this attended not a few of these Ascension Day festivals in beautiful valley spots or on high mountain meadows. The first of such meetings he attended, he will never forget, for there, as a young boy he heard of the mission to the heathen that stirred his heart.

Yes, just before leaving the earth for Heaven, there to take possession of the "Inheritance," Jesus the Heir had won through His Atonement and Resurrection, He gave this commission to His followers, "Ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth" (Acts 1:8b). And when He was received into a cloud out of their sight and they stood there gazing where He had disappeared, there appeared two angels to turn the disciples' minds to their duty, saying, "Why stand ye looking into heaven?" Or with other words, why gaze into space, you have now a mission to serve as witnesses for your Lord and Savior, as He told you with His last words that you should do among nearby and far nations. For the Heir, the Master, will return some day, in the fashion He left you.

The two angels specified no day nor time, for they knew it not. But what they knew was that it would be, "When He finally shall come to abolish all domination, authority and power (of this world), put all His enemies under His feet, abolishing the last of them, death, then deliver the Kingdom to God the Father" (1 Cor. 15:23-27).

With His first Presence among men, Jesus had come "to seek and save that which was lost." On His second Presence Jesus will come for the full consummation of His redemptive work of all who became His people through His Atonement, His Grave, His Resurrection, and Ascension.

The angels informed the disciples, on the Ascension Day, that Jesus would come again in like fashion (or manner) as He left. And He left as a Victor over Sin, Death, and Grave! He left with a glorified body transcending all that is human and created! He left with all authority given to Him, in Heaven and on earth! He left to grow and spread among men, by the power of the Holy Spirit, a new potential, spiritual, and everlasting Kingdom, which on His return He would deliver to God the Father. And as He left, so will He come again, in the same fashion, in the ultimate completion of all God's purposes for mankind. He will come again, the same, but also to "avenge His elect that cried to Him day and night . . . But when He cometh will He find faith on the earth? . . . Because iniquity shall be multiplied, the love of many shall wax cold."

That faith and love meant by Jesus, Who said the above words, is the "pound" or spiritual earnest given by Him to His followers to apply for His service until He comes again (see Luke 19:12-14). They are to make a gainful use of it (the "pound") during His absence, i. e., the interim between the Ascension and His coming again. During that period the Christian Church is not to stand by contemplative or inactive, neither is she to fret her strength in undue and extreme overactivity, nor by frittering her time with pet schemes, frills, calculations, and speculations. She is simply to carry out the commission of Jesus, her Master, to all the nations of this earth.

Right after Christ's Ascension, the very evening of that day, the eleven disciples together with others, men and women, began to carry out their Master's will by preparing themselves for their duty. They gathered together and prayed that evening. The next days they continued steadfastly in prayer and waiting together with some 120 Christians. And after they had received the power of the Holy Spirit, how did these first Christians witness for their Lord and Savior! That is told in the Acts and the rest of the New Testament. The witness of the primitive Christian Church became a power of Salvation, but through many tribulations. In the Roman Epistle (ch. 16) read the names of outstanding Christian men and women who were strong witnesses of Christ.

Alas, with the coming of the "Dark" period, this witness weakened and flickered under the cold breath of formalism, ritualism, and Romish ecclesiastical precepts. But in spite of this night, groups of faithful Christians held up the torch of the Gospel, undaunted by bitter persecutions, prisons, and martyr's death. Then came the Reformation with a breath of new spiritual life reviving the Church witness for Christ. Then slowly and gradually the true followers of Jesus came to the full recognition that Christ's command to preach the Gospel to all nations binds the Christian Church in this duty since the days the first disciples departed from this earth.

Since Jesus Christ "cometh again" in the same manifestation of glory transcending all that is human, clad with divine authority and power, He expects His redeemed ones, His Church to be fit and ready, having carried out His mandate and proclaimed the Gospel of His Redemption to all the nations.

Then, as we celebrate His Ascension Day let us be fully conscious of its eternal import for the Kingdom of God on earth. Let us realize that each of us has been given a "pound" to use for the Master until He returns! Let us praise and thank our God and Savior for the mission He entrusted to us in spite of our unworthiness and weakness! Let us magnify and glorify His name for the great Salvation He wrought among the nations!

Individuals and nations are now bringing sacrifices of money, time, strength, labor and . . . human blood with its train of tears and sorrow, yes, all this for an appalling destruction. How should the people of God, the Redeemed of Christ, not do their utmost for the salvation of mankind!

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

by the Rev. Howard G. Nyce

MAY 25—"Behold, I stand at the door and knock." Rev. 3:20.

There are two doors that have no knob on the outside. One is the door to your heart. You can let in whom and what you will and you can keep out what you will. The other door is Jesus Himself, Who said, "I am the door: by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved," and again, "No man can come unto the Father, but by me." It is not the will of Christ that this door should be closed to anyone. If some day you will discover that the door is closed, it is only because you closed your door to Him. He knocks at the heart's door. He will not demand that you let Him in, but if you open to Him, he "will come in and sup with you." Have you opened your heart's door to Him? If not, will you not do so now?

MAY 26—"To him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen." Revelation 1:6.

We read in God's Word, "Whatsoever you do in word or deed, do all to the glory of God." Why? If you read the first chapter of Revelation you will see that "he loved us, and washed (or loosed) us from our sins in his own blood, and hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father." Your Catholic friend goes to the priest to make a confession, and you are a priest. Yes, we are kings and priests. We need not make confession to anyone for we are priests and as the priest went to the High priest, so we as priests go to Christ, our High Priest. This of course refers to the confession of our sin only, for if you have wronged some one you need to confess your sin to that one before you ask God's forgiveness. Yes, thank God, "to him" Who gave His life for my sin with His own precious blood, "be glory and dominion for ever and ever."

MAY 27—"He that doeth good is of God." III John 11.

While we are instructed not to judge any one, it nevertheless is self-evident when a person is not a Christian, even though he may claim to be one. While the text says, "He that doeth good is of God" we also find in the same verse, "he that doeth evil hath not seen God." In I John 2:15 we read "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him." Again in II Corinthians 6 we are told to separate ourselves from the things of the world so that we might become the sons of God." Friend, look at this verse and see how you line up. Are you with or without God?

MAY 28—"Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin." I John 3:9.

If any one said to me, "I do not sin, because I cannot sin," I would not have any dealings with that person. Yet, the text says, "Whosoever is born of God doth not sin." And again we read, "he cannot sin, because he is born of God." This passage is a great problem to many people. It simply means that if a person is a new creature in Christ Jesus, he will not continue sin or practice sin. If we are born of God, we have His seed in us. Who is this seed? Christ in us, the hope of glory. If we are conscious of His abiding presence we will not sin, willfully. When we sin, however, we confess our sin, and are forgiven according to I John 1:9.

MAY 29—"He that is not against us is for us." Luke 9:50

Unfortunately there are people so zealous for Christ that they condemn every one who does not see everything exactly as they see it. Such people lived in the day of Christ and several of the disciples assumed that attitude which is common amongst some Christians today. "We saw one casting out devils in thy name; and we forbad him, because he followeth not with us," said one of the disciples. Jesus replied, "Forbid him not: for he that is not against us is for us." Different ministers use different methods, but if by that method souls are being won for Christ, let us rejoice in the salvation of souls. The hindrance to Christianity and saving of souls is not the method but insincerity and inconsistent living on the part of so called Christians.

MAY 30—"The memory of the just is blessed." Proverbs 10:7

On this Memorial Day, again flags will be placed on the graves of soldiers who either died in action or died since and are being remembered by their comrades. Then too, flowers will be placed on graves of departed loved ones. All this because of the memory of loved ones. We are glad that on this day, we need not bow our head at the tomb of one who nineteen hundred years ago died for our sins. Yes, we do remember His death, and we show forth His death at the celebration of the Lord's Supper, but He is not a dead Christ. Thanks, be to God, He lives, and is seated at the Father's right hand to intercede for us.

MAY 31—"Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity." Ephesians 6:24

That some one may have received some help through these devotions is my earnest prayer. Perhaps you did not agree with all that I have said, or on the other hand, you may have received some help concerning some passages. I hope the latter is true. At any rate, I am glad I had this opportunity to write the devotions for the month, and now bring them to a close with the beautiful benediction of Paul to the Church at Ephesus, "Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity. Amen."

IN MEMORIAM

JOHN R. THIERSTEIN was born in Bowil, Bern, Switzerland, on July 22, 1867, as the son of Samuel and Katharina (Mosiman) Thierstein. His elementary and secondary education he received in Switzerland. In 1882 he came to America with his parents, three brothers and two sisters. The family settled down on a farm near Whitewater, Kansas, and soon joined the Emmaus church. At first John worked on the farm with his brothers, but the desire to get better educated prompted him to attend the Mennonite Seminary at Halstead, from which school he graduated in two years. He continued his studies at the University of Kansas, graduating from that institution in 1896.

On October 2, 1895, he married Miss Margaret M. Dirks and established his own home. For a period of years he served in public schools as principal or superintendent doing good work. But rather unexpectedly he began to speak of going back to his beloved Switzerland for further studies. So in 1908 he and his wife set out for that beautiful little country. Two years later he graduated from the University of Bern with honors, receiving his Ph. D. degree. During their stay in Switzerland, the Thiersteins adopted little Frederic Novalis Thierstein who returned with them to this country, but died as a young man in 1926.

After having served as principal of the Atchison County High School at Effingham, Kansas, from 1910 to 1915, he accepted a call to Bluffton College, Bluffton, Ohio. In 1921 he joined the faculty of Bethel College, North Newton, Kansas, where he has been a help and inspiration to many young people. He was loved by the faculty, his students, and creditably known among educators of the state being honored with numerous positions by teachers' associations. At the age of seventy he retired from his teaching position. In 1937 he took over the editorship of The Mennonite. He really enjoyed this work and succeeded to increase the subscription list so far as to place the paper on a self-supporting basis for the first time in its history, since 1885.

For two terms he was secretary of the General Conference, and also chairman of the Board of Publication since 1935. For two years he worked strenuously under great difficulties to finish the new Mennonite Hymnary, and when the first completed copy arrived he took it in his hands and pressed it to him with tears in his eyes.

He had a passion for work. When once he started on a project he often forgot everything else and plodded on to the early hours of the morning.

So a busy life has come to its close. Several years ago signs of tuberculosis at the hipbone made itself evident. He submitted to several operations; however, the disease spread deeper into the body and caused his death. He departed on May 8, at 8:20 in the evening. He leaves to mourn his departure his beloved and faithful wife; one brother, Mr. Chris. Thierstein and his wife; one sister, Mrs. Herman Claassen and her husband; twenty-one nephews and nieces; and a host of friends far and near. Two of his brothers and one sister preceded him in death.

Funeral services were conducted at the Bethel College Mennonite Church at 2:00 P. M., with Dr. Ed. G. Kaufman and Rev. J. N. Smucker officiating and at the Emmaus Mennonite Church, Whitewater, Kansas, at 4:00 P. M., with Rev. J. C. Kaufman and Dr. A. Warkentin in charge; on Monday, May 12. Interment was made in the Emmaus cemetery.

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them." Rev. 14:13.

ANDREW D. BERGER, son of Andrew and Elizabeth Berger, was born on June 19, 1870, in Germany where he grew to manhood. As a young man he emigrated to America. In his youth he was baptized by Rev. Landes in Germany. When he came to America he united with the Mennonite church at Summerfield of which he remained a member until his death.

On June 17, 1903, he was united in marriage with Lizzie Anna Beutler. After their marriage, they made their home in Oklahoma for a number of years where Mr. Berger was employed by the Santa Fe R. R. Co. Later on they moved to Illinois where they followed the occupation of farming. About twenty years ago they left the farm and moved to St. Louis where he was employed until his health began to fail a few years ago. He was suffering from abnormal blood pressure and hardening of the arteries which resulted in a paralytic stroke several weeks ago. He was taken to the Lutheran Hospital for medical treatment and care, but he gradually became weaker and quietly passed away on Wednesday afternoon, April 16, 1941, at the age of 70 years, 9 months, and 27 days.

He leaves to mourn his departure his deeply bereft widow; two daughters, Mrs. Herman Hatt of St. Louis and Mrs. Robert Struckmeyer of Murphysboro, Ill.; two sons-in-law, two grandchildren. He is also survived by two brothers, Jacob Berger of Hesston, Kans., and George Berger of St. Louis, Mo.; one sister, Mrs. Katherine Suhm of Wichita, Kans.; besides many nephews and nieces and other relatives and friends.

Brief funeral services were held at his home in St. Louis and the main service from the First Mennonite Church at Summerfield on Saturday afternoon, April 19, and were in charge of the pastor. Burial was made in the Summerfield cemetery.

The Mennonite Central Committee Civilian Public Service News

There appears to be some confusion in some of our Mennonite Churches regarding the method of financing our boys during their year in Civilian Public Service Camps. This whole program was thoroughly discussed at the December meeting of the Mennonite Central Committee in Chicago. That group came to the unanimous decision that the issue of participation in military training touched the Christian conscience, not only of the men, but of the church as a whole. For this reason, it was felt that the whole church should share in this Christian witness against war and the military method. In line with this conviction and on the basis of the estimated cost of maintaining an anticipated number of men in camp until July 1, it was suggested that if our constituent Mennonite groups would contribute at the rate of 50 cents per church member that would more than pay for the total cost of running these camps up to July 1. After July 1 another estimate would be made on the basis of actual experience in administering camps.

This contribution of 50 cents per church member, sent by the congregation to their own conference treasurer and by him forwarded to the Mennonite Central Committee office, Akron, Pennsylvania, pays for the whole cost of maintaining our boys in camp up to July 1. The individual draftee is not asked for any personal contribution toward the financing of his time of service in camp.

The $35 a month per draftee to which reference is occasionally made in the press and other publicity material, or in the questionnaire mailed from the National Service Board, Washington, applies to boys from other denominations who may be assigned to Civilian Public Service Camps. This sum suggests to the young man and his constituency how much it will cost to provide him with the opportunity of performing his year of service under civilian direction in lieu of military training. And it indicates that provision should be made to cover this cost. Denominational offices or individual congregations in many cases will assume this cost and pay it to the agency administering the particular camp to which the young man may be assigned.

When, therefore, the Mennonite draftee gets his questionnaire from our National Service Board office and he is asked how he plans to finance his year in camp all he needs to say is: "Through the Mennonite Central Committee." Our young men should appreciate what an advantage it is to have the church provide for this expense and relieve them of the worry of providing for the cost themselves.

It probably is well to remind our church people to watch their church papers for information about the development of this Civilian Public Service program. They should beware of accepting at face value rumors or general press releases. The Mennonite Central Committee will be the first to inform the cooperating groups of any important development in the program.

The Camps

The staff at the Grottoes, Virginia camp has for the last couple of weeks been very busy making necessary inside repairs to the buildings and getting everything ready to receive the first assignment of boys who are expected to arrive about the middle of May. Present staff members are: John H. Mosemann, Camp Director; Joe Brunk, Business Manager; Mrs. John Mosemann, Camp Matron; Miss Lena Wenger, Dietician and Cook. The work program will be under the direction of the Department of Soil Conservation.

The Marietta, Ohio camp which is operated in cooperation with the Church of the Brethren, is to receive its first assignment of boys the first days of June. This camp will receive, aside from the nucleus of Mennonite and Church of the Brethren boys, draftees from various other denominations. The staff will consist of two representatives each from the Mennonites and the Church of the Brethren. Our Mennonite representatives are David Wedel, Halstead, Kansas, Camp Director; and Ruth Schmidt, Harper, Kansas, Dietician and Cook. The work program here is under the Forestry and Nursery Service.

The Colorado Springs Camp is scheduled to receive its first assignment of men about June 1, depending, as in the case of all other camps, upon the arrival of necessary equipment and the readiness of the work program. The staff here is composed of the following: Albert Gaeddert, Camp Director; John H. Gaeddert, Business Manager; Mrs. John H. Gaeddert, Camp Matron; Miss Marie Groening, Dietician and Cook. The work program here is under the Department of Soil Conservation.

The fourth camp site definitely assigned to us is the one located near Bluffton, Indiana. The work program is under the Forestry and Nursery Service. This camp is to receive boys about the middle of June. The staff is composed of Raymond L. Hartzler, Camp Director; Phil Frey, Business Manager; Miss Edna Ramseyer, Dietician and Cook.

In the Pacific Northwest probably at Brice Creek, Oregon, will be located another cooperative camp operated jointly by the Church of the Brethren and the Mennonites, and the work program will be under the Forestry Service. This camp will probably not open until the middle of July and the camp staff is not definitely chosen.

Other camp sites in various districts of the country will be selected as the need arises.

BROADENING CHRISTIAN HORIZONS: PETER'S VISION

Acts 11:5-18

TOPIC: Overcoming Prejudices

Introduction

Eight successive lessons, from May 25 to July 13, inclusive, are definitely missionary in character. In tracing the broadening Christian horizons in the first century, we need especially to consider how Christianity became freed from Judaism and became universal in scope. This was a gradual process. For about ten years after Pentecost, even the apostles did not understand that the gospel was for the Gentiles. It was another ten years before the leaders of the Church gave the idea their official sanction. Isaiah had said that salvation is for "all the ends of the earth" (Isa. 42:16; 45:22). Jesus, in His final commission to His followers, told them to witness to all nations and in all parts of the earth. The apostles were strongly influenced by current Jewish thought and failed to understand what Jesus meant.

Peter's Vision vs. 5-10.

God made His truth known to Peter through a direct revelation to his soul. Peter explains what occurred in the house of Cornelius in Caesarea (Chap. 10). Many of the Jewish Christians criticised Peter for eating in his house (v. 2). Peter is explaining his conduct. He had a vision while praying in Joppa (v. 5) and heard a voice (v. 7) asking him to slay and eat that which was unclean to the Jews. Peter, particular about the ceremonial cleanness of food, objected (v. 8). God assured him that He had cleansed all (v. 9) and wanted Peter to see that the ceremonial distinctions between foods were now done away with. The chief purpose of the vision was to show Peter that he must not regard the Gentiles as common and unclean people and unfit for association with him. He was to see that no man is necessarily common or unclean and that God is no respecter of persons. This vision prepared Peter to respond to the call from Cornelius.

Peter's Experience in Caesarea vs. 11-18.

The three messengers from Cornelius arrived while Peter was meditating upon the meaning of the vision (10:17). The Spirit was definitely guiding Peter (v. 12). He was lifted above his Jewish prejudices into larger light and usefulness. Peter prayed in Joppa. Cornelius, a devout, just, and righteous man (A. 10:2, 22) prayed in Caesarea, and God worked at both ends of the line. The door of privilege was opened to Cornelius; to Peter the door of large opportunity.

God revealed that the gospel was for the Gentiles as well as for the Jews. In the presence of six Jewish brethren, the Holy Spirit was poured out upon the Gentile believers (v. 15). This was positive proof to Peter that God is no respecter of persons, that the gospel is for all and that God wished the conversion of the Gentiles. Peter could never afterward doubt this fact. He was fully convinced of God's leading him to the home of Cornelius and he could not oppose God (v. 17). God's gift to Cornelius and his household was a permanent spiritual possession. Peter's evidence convinced the brethren in Jerusalem (v. 18). It lifted them above their prejudices and they were ready to recognize the Gentiles as fellow Christians. This was a long step in extending the borders of the Church. The gospel has shown itself as the power of God unto salvation to all that believe. It is needed for all nations and peoples.

What was the religious and spiritual condition of Cornelius before Peter came to him?

What are some religious prejudices existing today? How overcome them?

Why are some churches, some denominations rather clannish and exclusive?

EASTERN DISTRICT C. E. CONVENTION

The annual C. E. Convention of the Eastern District will be held in the Hereford Mennonite Church, Bally, Penn., on Memorial Day, May 30.

"The Christian's Duty to God and Man" will be the theme of the Convention, drawing its thoughts from the answer of Jesus to the question, "Is it lawful to give tribute to Caesar?" Matt. 22:15-22.

In addition to the regular business in the morning, there will be two conferences discussing, "The Christian's Duty to God," and "The Christian's Duty to Man." The morning session will start at 9:30 and the afternoon session at 1:30 D. S. T. We are fortunate in having as the afternoon speaker Miss Etta Davis, recently returned missionary to China.

Although there will be no regular evening meeting, the host C. E. Society will be in charge of an evening of social activities, and everyone is invited to stay and enjoy the Christian fellowship.

Farm In Maytime

I like my farm in Maytime;
The sky is clear and blue
And filled with bright wing flashes
Of birds of every hue;
Their joyous voices ease my tasks
From dawn to falling dew.

I like my farm in Maytime;
The wind is soft and warm;
It stirs the heart within me
And makes me feel the charm
Of the Infinite about me
On my own small, quiet farm.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

The All-Mennonite Retreat committee representing the Middle District, the Illinois Central conference, and the cooperating Defenseless churches, announces the personnel for the annual retreat to be held at Quaker Haven, Indiana, August 4 to 10. An unusually fine staff has been secured which should make this retreat one of the finest held in recent years.

Professor A. C. Schultz of Bluffton College, Bluffton, Ohio, will discuss "What is Christianity" from a Bible point of view. Rev. Paul Whitmer, also of Bluffton, will have a class on the "Church in Action." Rev. Raymond Hartzler, Carlock, Illinois, will lead a discussion on "Worship," its character, methods, etc. Rev. William Stauffer, Sugar Creek, Ohio, will serve as dean of men and director of recreation. He will discuss "Youth and Tomorrow's World." Freeman Burkhalter, Berne, Indiana, will teach a class in music and have charge of the musical program. Rev. Jesse Smucker, Bethel College, North Newton, Kansas, will lead in the morning and sunset devotions. Rev. Harry Yoder will be camp director. A dean of women is still to be chosen. Evening programs will also be arranged.

A good program, an excellent faculty, and a quiet place of retreat will give something to the young people which they will appreciate and need in this day of confusion. Details as to costs and other information will be available later. Address Irwin W. Bauman, Bluffton, Ohio, chairman of the committee, for further details.

Some Experiences

By C. H. A. van der Smissen

In the fall of 1888 the State C. E. Convention met at Harrisburgh. Our society sent four delegates. They stayed in a hotel. As bedtime came they were confronted with a problem. None of them had ever seen an electric light, so they considered how they could put it out. One could not blow it out, and there was no button to turn it out. Then came a steward and turned the knob or pressed the button beside the door. So we had a good laugh; we had learned how to put out an electric light.

Next morning as the delegates sat at a dining room table waiting for their breakfast, Dr. Clark (C. E., they called him Christian Endeavor Clark) walked into the dining room all alone. He stood at the door looking around. V. d. S. walked up to him and said, "Dr. Clark, are you looking for a place to get your breakfast? May I invite you to sit with us? We are delegates to the convention."

"Why sure!" When he had taken his place, he said, "You are delegates from where?"

"We are delegates from the C. E. society of the Hereford Mennonite Congregation, Bally, Berks County, Penn."

"O, that is very interesting to me. I found in the Bundesbote such a good article on C. E. that I asked a friend to translate it for me. It appears this week in the Golden Rule, and I have a copy of it in my satchel." He saw the delegates smile, so he asked V. d. S., "Did you write it?" When he acknowledged it, Dr. Clark gave him the Golden Rule. The delegates had a nice time with Dr. Clark. When they were through with their breakfast, a large committee came to get him.

FOLLOW-UP NEEDED

The experimentation with the card-index follow-up in the Eastern District with fifteen C. E.'s and with several C. E.'s in the Western District indicates that the system can be installed, names and addresses can be kept on file in each C. E. as well as in a central office, and that new addresses can be followed-up at the cost of five cents per name.

This cost is so small that each person between 15-30 in the entire conference should be included. New names will be added periodically according to present plans. So finally a list of all, young and old, will be on file. The system, to be effective, needs the cooperation of all C. E.'s and all pastors.

Y. P. FORUM

"What worth Has the 'Simple Life' for Young People Today?"

"The 'Simple Life', it seems to me, has the same value now that it has always had. To love our God and to love our neighbor are the brief but all-inclusive commandments given by Jesus. To do this will give each person, young and old, peace and contentment unable to be found in any other way. Assured of God's love and conscious that we are doing His will, strength and courage will be found to face all of life's problems and make it worth living.

JOHN, THE BELOVED

John 19:25-27; I John 1:3-5

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "I Need Thee Every Hour," "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling," "More Love to Thee, O Christ."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Special music
4. Offering for mission purposes

II. Leader's Introduction

God needs all kinds of people for the work in His Kingdom. John was a man of keen intellect as well as of deep emotion. He always calls himself "the disciple whom Jesus loved." He desired to be close to his Lord and Master, and leaned on Jesus' breast at the Last Supper. To him Jesus turned when He needed someone to take care of His mother. His keen insight into things abiding and spiritual is mirrored in the gospel and the epistles he wrote. It is said that the gospel of John is the most read part of the Bible.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. The Brothers Called	Matt. 4:21, 22
2. The Boanerges	Mk. 3:17; Lk. 9:54
3. The Bosom Companion	John 13:21-26
4. The Bold Apostle	Acts 4:13, 14
5. The Blessed Revealer	Rev. 1:8-11

IV. For Discussion

1. What are the outstanding characteristics of John the Beloved?
2. What are some of the things which only the Gospel of John tells us?
3. What can we learn from this disciple of Jesus?

V. Facts for Study

John was a man who made whole-hearted decisions. When Jesus called him and his brother James from the fisher-boats to become fishers of men, he left the boats and cast his lot with Jesus, and henceforth stayed with Him.

He was a man who resented any insult to his Master and would have been willing to call down fire on the Samaritan village which did not receive Him. This loyal devotion to Jesus made him a good learner, and he was transformed into a man of deep spiritual character. He is certain that it is the attitude of heart men have toward Jesus which will be the deciding factor for their lives. He is fully convinced that eternal life begins here and now, and that death really is only an incident. Whoever believes in Jesus has eternal life. To Martha he says, "I am the Resurrection and the Life."

VI. Illustration

Death as "Just an Incident"

Instantly his face brightened when his wife told him the end was near, and he said: "Isn't that interesting?"

Miraculously, it seemed, his pulse strengthened, and Dr. V. Crosby Bell, "one of the great spirits of the Episcopal Church," talked with his wife an hour before the light went out.

Remembering his often-expressed wish to face death while still conscious, Mrs. Bell had told her husband that it was the time of fulfillment. A part of what was said in that last hour was a message to the students of the Virginia Theological Seminary, of whose faculty Dr. Bell was a distinguished member. The message is quoted by The Churchman (Episcopal) thus:

"Tell the boys that I've grown surer of God every year of my life, and I've never been so sure as I am right now.

"Why, it's all so!—it's a fact—it's a dead certainty. I'm so glad to find that I haven't the least shadow of shrinking or uncertainty.... I've been preaching and teaching these things all my life, and I'm so interested to find that all we've been believing and hoping is so. I've always thought so, and now that I'm right up against it, I know..... Tell them I said 'Goodby'—they've been a joy to me.

"I've had more than any man that ever lived, and life owes me nothing. I've had work I loved, and I've lived in a beautiful place among congenial friends. I've had love in its highest form, and I've got it forever.... I can see now that death is just the smallest thing—just an incident—that it means nothing."

"No one who knew Dr. Bell would find in the message anything but absolute consistency with his life," comments The Churchman. "It is impossible to read it without recalling the words from the Cross, 'It is finished.' A rare life, rounded and perfected, a portrait of the Master."

—Literary Digest

VII. Food for Thought

To become more Christ-like it is essential to keep close to Him. John, the Beloved, opened his mind and his heart to Christ.

A HOME MISSION PROJECT FOR OUR SOCIETY

Program for June 8, 1941

Call to Worship

"Come ye, and let us walk in the light of the Lord. He will teach us of His ways, and we will walk in His paths." Isaiah 2:5,3.

Prayer:

Lord lay some soul upon my heart,
And love that soul through me;
And may I nobly do my part
To win that soul for thee.
—Anonymous

Hymn: "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee."

Scripture Reading: Matt 5:43-48.

Suggested Service Projects

Possible Group Projects

1. Sponsor a Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner for the lonely people in your community.
2. Put on a program for the boys and girls in Juvenile Hall, in a city orphanage, a hospital, or those in a Home for the Aged.
3. Prepare to take charge of playground or handwork activities in a vacation Bible school during the summer.
4. Collect good used clothing or make new garments to send to a mission school.

Possible Individual Activities

1. Prepare yourself to help during vacations in a settlement house club, a vacation church school, or a playground.
2. Make a monthly visit to a children's hospital ward and tell stories.
3. Offer your services to some boys' leader for help with the younger fellows.
4. Prepare to be a counsellor's assistant at a camp for underprivileged or foreign children.
5. "Adopt" a boy or girl in a Home Mission school and correspond.

Hymn: "I Would Be True."

Informal discussion on the above suggested projects. Don't let this discussion end without coming to a definite decision as to a particular project you might undertake. There are many other projects which you might find possible in your community. It might be well to appoint a committee to be on the alert for projects.

LETTERS THAT PAUL WROTE

Program for June 8, 1941

PAUL'S LETTER TO THE CHURCH AT ROME

"For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, to the Jew first, and also to the Greek." Romans 1:16.

I. Worship Service

1. Prelude—Pianist plays softly the melody of, "Love Divine, All Loves Excelling."
2. Call to Worship—"O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt His name together. O taste and see that the Lord is good: blessed is the man that trusteth in Him." Ps. 34:3-8.
3. Stand and sing in unison—"Love Divine, All Loves Excelling."
4. Remain standing during the Junior leader's prayer.
5. Responsive Scripture reading, verses from Romans, chapter twelve.

Leader—Romans 12: 1, 2.
Juniors—Romans 12:3, 4, and 5.
Leader—Romans 12:9.
Juniors—Romans 12:10, 11, 12.
Leader—Romans 12:17, 18.
Juniors—Romans 12:19, 20, and 21.

6. Duet—"Jesus, I Live to Thee." M. H. B. No. 286.
7. Song—"I Love to Tell the Story."

II. Study Period

Aim—To help our Juniors to learn that "Romans" was written by Paul. To give them an increased love for God's Word.

1. Introduction by a Junior girl.

The letter that comes first in our Bibles is the letter written to the Romans long before Paul was taken to Rome as a captive. He knew that it was not easy to be a Christian in Rome in those days, so he wrote this letter to encourage and to teach them. Someone has said that the epistle to the Romans is perhaps the greatest work that was ever written. Many have chosen the eighth chapter as the greatest chapter in the Bible. We want to learn just a little from this letter today.

2. Romans 1:1-7 read by a Junior boy. Tell three things that this passage tells about this letter.

3. Three Juniors may each read one of the following passages:

(a) Paul's song of faith (a beautiful passage). Romans 8:35-39.

(b) The gospel is for everybody. Romans 10:11-15.

(c) How a Christian should live. Romans 12:1-3; 9-21.

4. Memorized verses (or Bible drill):

Rom. 1:16
Rom. 3:23
Rom. 5:1, 2
Rom. 5:8, 9
Rom. 6:23
Rom. 8:14
Rom. 8:16, 17
Rom. 8:28
Rom. 8:31
Rom. 8:38, 39
Rom. 10:9, 10
Rom. 12:10
Rom. 12:18
Rom. 12:19
Rom. 12:20, 21
Rom. 13:1
Rom. 13:10
Rom. 14:12

5. Song—"Blessed Assurance, Jesus is Mine."

III. Mission Minutes

1. A Junior may report on the burning of the Mesa church in Arizona. (See Mrs. Suderman's letter in The Mennonite.)

2. A season of prayer for our work among the Hopi Indians.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Sing the song of the month, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory."

2. Together repeat the verse for the month. Rom. 1:16.

3. A Junior pray the prayer for the month. Ps. 119:18.

4. In unison, Phil. 4:23.

5. Sing softly, "Into My Heart."

MANITOBA MENNONITE GIFTS TO RED CROSS

(Below are two reports clipped from the "Winnipeg Free Press" regarding donations to the Red Cross of the Mennonites in Manitoba.)

"A donation of $4,000 was made to the Manitoba division of the Red Cross, April 18, by representatives of the Canadian Mennonites of Manitoba. It was presented to the commissioner by a delegation composed of Bishop P. A. Toews and Bishop David Schultz of Altona, and Rev. J. A. Barkman, of Steinbach.

"Canadian Mennonites of Manitoba, working through the Canadian Mennonite Relief committee at Steinbach, have since the start of the war contributed generously towards the relief of suffering, particularly among the poor and needy of Britain. In addition to supporting the two Red Cross campaigns, they have shipped to England, through the Red Cross, clothes and comforts to the value of more than $5,000. A further shipment valued at $3,000 is now nearing completion. This brings the total contributions made through the Manitoba division since October, 1940, to $12,000.

The Women Help

"The women of the various Mennonite communities join with Red Cross groups in making articles so urgently needed for the bombed victims of Britain. Other sewing groups are being organized almost weekly to better assist this work. All funds and comforts donated to the Red Cross by Mennonites are being used solely for the relief of distress and not for war purposes." —Published in April, 1941

MENNONITES BOOST RED CROSS DONATIONS

"A further contribution of $2,000 has just been received at the Manitoba divisional headquarters of the Red Cross from the Canadian Mennonites of Manitoba. This brings the total contribution of cash and clothing to the Red Cross since Sept. 1, 1939, to $34,528.85. During this same period, the Canadian Mennonites of Manitoba have shipped to needy centers in Manitoba and Saskatchewan, free of charge, 15 carloads of grain and vegetables valued at $6,721.62.

"Contributions from the Canadian Mennonites are used to relieve suffering and distress among the people of Britain. This recent donation was made through Bishop P. A. Toews, of Altona, and Rev. J. F. Barkman, of Steinbach."

CORRESPONDENCE

WOODLAND MENN. CH., WARROAD, MINN.

Dear Editor and Readers: Our church here observed Easter with a special Easter song service. The main topic was "The Risen Christ." The service was well attended in spite of some impassable and soft spring roads. D. S. Heppner, our Sunday School superintendent, served as chairman.

We again plan on having Daily Vacation Bible School with Mr. Frank Harder of Butterfield, Minn., now student at Northwestern Bible School, as teacher and Miss Margret Harder, a member of our church, as assistant teacher. The church gratefully receives all gifts that have been sent in towards our building fund in response to our letter several months ago in The Mennonite. May the Lord richly bless the givers and the gifts for the advancement of His Kingdom. We have as yet not received enough funds to warrant the erection of a new church, but trust that the Lord will lay it upon the hearts of His children to give for this needy cause.

The brethren of the church have cut logs on shares and are busy at present in having them sawed into lumber which will help to reduce the cost of building considerably.

Remember our church and its needs in your prayers.

—Jake Quiring, Corr.

EMMANUEL MENN. CHURCH, PRATUM, ORE.

Two of our aged couples celebrated their golden wedding anniversaries on April 20 by holding open house in the afternoon. D. J. Steiner and Pauline Gerber were married on April 9, 1891, at the Waldo Hills Mennonite Church east of Pratum.. They are charter members of our church. Bro. Steiner served as S. S. superintendent and choir director for a number of years. They are still able to attend the services regularly and are an inspiration to us all. One son, Elmer A. Steiner, and family of Pioneer, Ohio, were not able to be present for the celebration. A short program was rendered which consisted of special music and a short message from God's Word by our pastor, D. J. Unruh.

Abraham H. Schmidt and Helena Banman were married on April 19, 1891, near Lehigh, Kansas. They moved to Salem, Ore., from Aberdeen, Idaho, a number of years ago. Their three children and the grandchildren were all present for the celebration. A short program was rendered. Sister Schmidt is not able to attend the church services on account of physical disabilities. These couples consistently bear witness to the grace of God in their lives. We all unite in wishing them the Lord's richest blessings.

—Mrs. Jno. L. Merryman, Corr.

EMANUEL MENN. CHURCH, GALVA, KANSAS

Greetings in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. "Except the Lord build the house they labor in vain that build it. Except the Lord keep the city the watchman waketh but in vain" (Psalm 127:1).

Rev. G. A. Linscheid has faithfully served this church since last fall. Besides regular church services, Bible study has been conducted, followed by a season of prayer, every Tuesday evening if the weather and the roads permitted. A Women's Missionary Society has been organized by Mrs. Linscheid. Quilt blocks were sent to the Indian Mission, Oraibi, Ariz.

The church constitution has been translated from the German into the English language and some parts have been revised. It has taken considerable time and effort. This constitution serves to point us to God and His Word, and only with the combined effort of heart and mind with the help of God can each member fulfill the purpose of this constitution (Phil. 4:13).

For a number of years the need has been felt for a more comfortable place of worship. Since this is one of the oldest church buildings in this part of the country, it has for years served as a historical landmark of the early Mennonite settlers of the pioneer days. It was built in 1875, an addition being made some years later. Only very few of the early pioneers are with us yet. At the annual meeting last December the decision was reached to build a new church. Plans have been completed and much zeal and courage is manifested. The site of the new church is nearly half a mile north of the old one. The old church is to be taken down and the usable lumber built into the new building. All labor is to be donated. Some outside gifts have been promised which will be much appreciated and gratefully received.

The marriage ceremony of Miss Flossie Wedel, daughter of Mrs. Anna Wedel, and Mr. Wilmont Rishel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Rishel, was solemnized in the church at 3 o'clock on April 6. Funeral services for Mrs. Henry Wedel were conducted on April 16 with Rev. Linscheid in charge assisted by Rev. John J. Ratzlaff.

Impressive ground-breaking services were held at 10 A. M., April 28, with Rev. Linscheid in charge. He read from Ex. 31:1-11 and Haggai 2:9. Appropriate remarks were made how God prepared hearts and hands, and how God draws the people together in two ways: through a common cause and a common calamity. We should work harmoniously together. Rev. Linscheid closed his remarks with prayer. Then followed the ground breaking, Rev. Linscheid taking out the first spade full, followed by each member of the committee, each one making impressive remarks. Mrs. Linscheid, as a representative of the women, also came forward and dug up a spade of dirt. In conclusion the song "The Work is Thine, O Lord" was sung. Services will be held in the Lone Tree schoolhouse until the new church can be used. —Corr.

FIRST MENN. CHURCH, SUMMERFIELD, ILL.

May 2, 1941

Dear Editor and Readers:

During the month of March we had less than an inch of rain, but the month of April made up for the loss and we entered the month of May with our cisterns replenished and the gardens and fields looking very attractive and beautiful. The Easter season also brought our congregation many spiritual blessings. On Good Friday we had a union Communion service at the Evangelical church when our pastor brought the message. An early Easter service was held at the Evangelical church, followed by an Easter breakfast at the parish house. At the regular morning service on Easter Day, our church observed Holy Communion with a very large number taking part. In the evening, the Junior Choir presented the Cantata, "Christ Victorious" to an appreciative audience. It was the Juniors' first attempt to give a musical program and they did real well and we hope they will continue the good work.

On the evening of St. Patrick's Day, the Young Ladies' Bible Class, an organization which meets every month for special Bible Study, sponsored a Father-and-Son Banquet at the Evangelical Parish House. About seventy fathers and sons participated in a splendid supper, followed by a program, contests, and games. Carlus Basinger acted as toastmaster. Rev. Basinger gave the principal address and spoke on the proper relations between fathers and sons and their responsibilities. On the evening of April 16, our young people gave a play, "Jimmy, Be Careful," at the School Hall in Summerfield. The play was presented very creditably and was enjoyed by all. It emphasized the great truth that happiness does not depend upon outward conditions or circumstances, but is rather a matter of the inward spirit. The proceeds of the play will be used for charitable purposes. —Correspondent

On the Ascension Day the angels said of Jesus, ". . . He will come again." Before Jesus suffered on the Cross He had told His disciples, ". . . I go to prepare a place for you, and . . . will come again and will receive you unto myself: that where I am ye may be also" (John 14:2, 3). Thus His coming again implies our own Ascension. So at this time, on this Ascension Day, we remember our Lord Jesus ascending to Heaven and at the same time rejoice in anticipation of our own Ascension when "He cometh." We know not the "When" of His glorious return, but we know exactly what He told us to do, to witness for Him and be found ready, with our lamps burning when He shall appear!

—Bethel Mennonite Church, Winton, California—May 7, 1941. On April 27 Dr. Langenwalter of Reedley, Calif., paid this congregation a visit, and in the evening the delegates were elected to attend the Pacific District Conference in Dallas, Oregon, which takes place May 15 to 18. There were three young men, delegates from this church, attending the Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Convention held in Reedley, May 2 to 4. —Mrs. Leah Heppner, Corr.

—Emmaus Menn. Church, Whitewater, Kansas—May 9, 1941. Our congregation was richly blessed by the inspiring messages that were delivered by Dr. William Houghton at the Bible Conference that was held at the Newton City Auditorium. On Sunday, April 27, Rev. J. R. Barkman delivered the morning message and in the evening he showed some pictures of the Grace Children's Home in Henderson, Neb. Rev. Barkman was accompanied by the Ladies' Quartet from the Oklahoma Bible Academy. They brought an inspiring message in song. —Correspondent

—Rev. P. K. Regier, of Moundridge, Kansas, handed in his resignation to the West Zion Mennonite Church, where he has served as pastor for many years. This was effective Sunday, May 11.

—Dr. E. L. Harshbarger, head of the department of history at Bethel College, is still ill in the Bethel Hospital, Newton, Kansas. He is gradually improving although very slowly. Continue to pray for his recovery. The Mennonite church needs him in this critical time.

—Sunday evening, May 11, the Sacred Mass Chorus of Mountain Lake, sponsored by the Mountain Lake Bible School, presented a concert of sacred music at the school auditorium. The group is under the direction of Otto Richert.

—The Mennonite Men's Chorus of Berne, Indiana, appeared at the Ohio Gideon Convention in Cincinnati, Saturday and Sunday, May 17 and 18. On Saturday they were scheduled for a fifteen-minute radio concert over the Nation's Station, WLW at Cincinnati, Ohio. On Sunday morning a 45-minute broadcast was scheduled over WCPO. They were called to the convention by Albert C. Feigert, president of the Ohio Gideons, to appear at various meetings of the convention.

—The Mennonite Deaconess Hospital of Beatrice, Nebraska, offers to interested young women a course in Community Nursing beginning September 15, 1941. This course includes practice in the care of convalescent and bed patients, care of children, household management, etc. Full maintenance plus a monthly allowance is granted. For detailed information address, Mrs. Ursula Frantz, R. N., Mennonite Deaconess Hospital, Beatrice, Nebraska.

INVITATION

Dr. J. E. Hartzler is coming to Wichita, Kansas. He will conduct a series of meetings at the Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church, 655 South Lorraine St., from June 15 to 22. We are extending a special invitation to all the Western District Conference churches to participate in these meetings. Watch for detailed program which will be announced soon. Radio station KFBI has agreed to broadcast some of the special features of the meetings.

—O. K. Galle, Sec'y. Expansion Committee

—Bethel Mennonite Church, Mountain Lake, Minn.

"A precious soul from us has gone,
A voice we loved is still.
A place is vacant in our church
Which God, we pray, will fill."

Since the passing of Rev. P. R. Schroeder our congregation is again facing the grave situation of calling a minister to shepherd the flock. We solicit the earnest prayers of God's children that we may be divinely guided in doing this.

From April 27th till May 2nd we had a series of evangelistic meetings with Rev. H. Warren Allen of Minneapolis. Rev. Allen is a forceful speaker, unafraid to present the truth. We trust that the Lord will use these messages for His glory and the spiritual welfare of the church. —Mrs. D. H. Fast, Corr.

—Rev. David C. Wedel, pastor of the First Mennonite Church, Halstead, Kansas, left May 8 for Marietta, Ohio, where he will be Camp Director of the camp for Conscientious Objectors to be located there.

—The First Mennonite Church, Hillsboro, Kansas, has extended a call to Dr. H. A. Fast to serve them as pastor. Dr. Fast is well known through his work in connection with the conscientious objectors' camps and his trip of goodwill to the South American Mennonite colonies.

—In the Bulletin of the First Mennonite Church of Reedley, Calif., we read: "It should be a matter of encouragement to us that many who know have paid such high tribute to our Mennonite Hymnary. This book characterizes the rich heritage and the high ideals of a people who for more than four hundred years have sung with and without notes. Even when they were not permitted to lift up their voices they sang in their hearts and hid away their hymn books until a more favorable day might come. It is interesting to note during most periods of those four centuries that young people gathered week by week in order to learn their hymns and how to sing them well. Many an old library tells the story of the kind of singing grandfather and grandmother did when they were young. Their singing kept up their courage during trying times. Ours can do the same for us and our day."

SUBMISSION

by Kenneth Robinson

I wanted to do great deeds of fame,
Something of worth for God;
I scorned the service that often came
By walking where servants trod.

I craved the place where the highest sit,
I wanted to do and dare;
But the job that needed the grace and grit
Was ignored with the utmost care.

One day I sought the face of the Lord
For the plan He had for me;
And I earnestly searched His precious Word
To know what His will could be.

I opened my heart to hear His voice,
And He searched me through and through;
And He showed me that my selfish choice
Was neither wise nor true.

So I yielded all, and I really died
To my selfish heart's desire;
And the carnal man was crucified
In a Pentecostal fire.

Ah, now I cry, "Lord, let me be
But a cog in Life's great wheel;
Only help me work that the world may see
The light of the Spirit's seal."

I do not ask for the highest way,
I'll walk where the servants trod;
I only ask that my path each day
Shall lead me close to God.

Pentecost

Pentecost is generally spoken of as the birthday of the Christian Church, for it was on this day that the Holy Spirit was poured out and a large number of souls were gathered in. Oh, yes, many things had occurred in preparation for this event, in fact, the period of preparation had extended over hundreds of years; for all through the history of Israel we can trace this thread of preparation for the coming of Christ, His ministry and suffering, His death, resurrection, ascension, and finally this new manifestation in the Holy Spirit. The prophets had prophesied concerning this Spirit: "And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh" (Joel 2:28a). Jesus had promised it, "And I will pray the Father, and He shall give you another Comforter . . . even the Spirit of truth (John 14:16, 17a).

The Church was born on Pentecost, we say. Comparing this birth with the birth of a child, we notice there are certain parallels that we can draw. One of them is its growth. The growth of a child is quite marked at first, the increase in size and weight is rather rapid, then the growth becomes less marked until, in the period of adolescence, there is another spurt, after which the increase becomes almost negligible and finally stops altogether.

What about the growth of the Church? It, too, grew rapidly at first, for on the day of Pentecost three thousand were baptized, and as the days went on "the Lord added to the Church daily such as should be saved." Throughout its infancy during the first few centuries, its growth was very marked. Then came a time when it slowed down, the Dark Ages. Like a child in adolescence, so it experienced a new spurt during the time of the Reformation.

Can we carry the parallel any farther? Is its growth in a negligible state or has it stopped entirely? No, thank God, the Church continues to grow, and it behooves us as Christians to become ever more zealous that its growth may continue and souls be saved, for the time will come when its growth will stop, when the period of grace will end, and Christ will come for His Church.

Another Faithful Laborer Called Home

A telegram from Dean J. S. Schultz of Bluffton College, Bluffton, Ohio, to the undersigned brought the sad news of the death of Professor Edmund J. Hirschler on May 23, and that the funeral was set for May 25 at 2:30 p. m. Thus another faithful laborer in church and college has transferred his temporal to his spiritual home. Brother Hirschler had taught at Bluffton for 37 years and so established a record of service for that institution. Then, too, he was very active for years in the local church and Sunday School; and recently he, though a layman, had been elected and served the Middle District Conference as its President. And in the wider circle of the church he served most efficiently for nine years in the Business Committee of the General Conference. He was both a capable and willing worker in the Kingdom. Who will take up his task?

On February 4, 1941, he suffered a stroke from which he did not completely rally. He was a brother of Mrs. G. A. Linscheid now of Newton, Kansas, and of Professor D. A. Hirschler of Emporia, Kansas, for years teacher of Music at Bethel College. Another brother, Arnold Hirschler, Hillsboro, Kansas, also taught at Bethel in earlier years. Then he has two sisters and a brother Otto living in California.

His father was Reverend J. S. Hirschler who also was very active in church and conference work.

Many friends will join in extending sympathy to Mrs. Hirschler and her family and the relatives. —C. E. Krehbiel, Conference president.

Dear Friends:

Praise God, the work is going on! We were able to hold short-term Bible schools in Nanloa, Kao Ts'un, Ching Feng, and Shuang Ching. The Christians in those places were well represented in the meetings, and this notwithstanding the military and bandit difficulties that prevailed. Evacuations in fear of fighting or robber attack did take place, but in a day or so we could be at full work again. Sometimes the people of the village in utter distress would all come running into the church, so that buildings and yards were overcrowded for hours; then they would slowly go home again. In two other places we had two weeks of evangelistic meetings for everybody. They, too, helped to settle the restlessness and fears of the people. Through all these meetings the believers were encouraged to press forward. The churches are asking for revival meetings, and we are planning to arrange for them during the second quarter of the year.

Now we have finished the catechism classes in the eight churches of this end of the field. Two hundred fifty-nine persons faithfully attended the two-week instructions, and of these we found 64 candidates ready for baptism. Up to date all churches except the Taming City church have already had baptismal and communion services. We have made a number of trips into the country and even stayed several days in one church. Maria is also making more short trips to nearby villages. She is also keeping up with her reading classes and women's meetings. The Lord is blessing all around.

Many other things have demanded our time and strength; but we are very happy that the evangelistic work has gone ahead with big strides. We feel, that in these so trying times nationally and internationally, we surely have many dear friends that bear us up in prayer, for there is a wonderful power round about us. We feel it and thank God for it. We are thus in every way greatly encouraged to go forward in the holy work. We humbly give all praise and glory to God and to our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

Faithfully yours, H. J. and Maria Brown

TABLOID TITHING TRUTHS

When a man gets rich, God gets a partner or the man loses his soul.

Stewardship puts the Golden Rule in business in place of the rule of gold.

Not how much of my money must I give to God, but how much need I use for myself?

"I will place no value on anything I may have or may possess except in relation to the kingdom of Christ."

The kingdom of God can never be established by raising money, but it can never be extended without raising money.

He is no fool who parts with what he cannot keep, to get what he shall not lose.

The unconsecrated wealth of Christians is the greatest hindrance to the church's progress.

Jesus teaches that a man's attitude to the Kingdom of God is revealed by his attitude to his property.

Earning maketh an industrious man; spending, a well-furnished man; saving, a prepared man; giving, a blessed man. —Missionary News and Notes

« « « PENTECOST » » »

Read Acts 2:1-41

by Rodolphe Petter, D. D.

The Sunday when the Christian Church celebrates the pouring from heaven of the Holy Spirit upon the Apostles, according to the prophecies of old and the promises of the Lord Jesus, this Sunday is called Pentecost, in Acts 2:1. The name "Whitsunday" was introduced much later in the English-speaking world and is derived from a peculiar church custom of the wearing of white garments and seeking baptism on that day. Since the Word of God knows why it called the day Pentecost, we will keep it reverently and not change it because of a peculiar dress custom.

Pentecost means the fiftieth day, because it was instituted by God through Moses, to be held fifty days after the Feast of the Passover. It was therefore called the Feast of the Weeks (Deut. 16:9, 10), for then the wheat was nearly everywhere harvested, so the character of the festival was that of a harvest-home celebration. It was observed the fiftieth day after the Passover Sabbath (see Lev. 23:15, 16). The tradition of the ancient Church placed the first Christian Pentecost on a Sunday. It was to be for Israel a festival day (Feiertag), when all labor was suspended, and the people appeared before Jehovah to express their gratitude and joy, also remembering their bondage and reconsecrating themselves to God's statutes.

And now, many centuries afterward, what God had instituted through Moses was to be realized, fulfilled in its true spiritual value for mankind. The Law had been given by Moses to one nation of the human family, the Grace and Truth was to be fully given in Jesus Christ to all nations of the earth. The religious needs of the human heart and mind were to turn from Sinai to Zion, there to be fully satisfied. The spiritual Kingdom of God was to take its place on earth among men, and the first fruits of the Holy Spirit were now to be seen, felt, and enjoyed by men.

Jesus, as the Son of God, knew it all, for He had come on earth to sow the seed of that Kingdom. Not long before His Passion he had said, "Except a grain of wheat fall into the earth and die, it abideth alone (fruitless), but if it die it beareth much fruit" (John 12:24). Not only had He died, but He had risen from the dead, and now was the fruitage to begin under the ministry of the Holy Spirit. The new Life, wrested from Death, was to be transmitted from the raised and exalted Lord to His own on earth. The Firstling from the dead was to give the firstfruits of the Holy Spirit, the Life-giving power!

Immediately before His Ascension, when Jesus told His disciples, "Ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit is come upon you," He knew that ten days hence the old festival of Pentecost would take place, that multitudes would gather in Jerusalem in joy and thankfulness for the firstfruits of the wheat harvest. He knew more, He knew of a far greater joy in heaven and on earth at the pouring out of the Holy Spirit, and of the firstfruits of a harvest of souls for the Kingdom of God, His Father. Yes, the foundation of salvation was laid, the period of its spread to the uttermost part of the earth would now start with a mighty manifestation of the Holy Spirit, whose power and ministry would never diminish, but spread throughout all nations and all times, until the new, triumphant song of Moses and the Lamb of God is intoned in the Highest (Rev. 15:3, 4).

In primordial ages ". . . the Spirit of God moved brooding over the surface of the waters," preparatory to the creation of all forms of physical life. Through His Spirit, God the Father, brought out of chaos a wonderful order and creation. But the best, the crown of His creation, Man, God created last, in His own image, breathing into him His own divine breath, His Spirit. None of the other billions of created things and beings experienced that. Not flesh and blood, but the very inbreathed Spirit of God in us, ties us to our Creator as no other creature on earth is tied to Him. Man was created to live a spiritual life, endowed with God's own life, and in that life man was to dominate all other forms of life here on earth.

Alas, what man was before his fall, he never attained to again afterwards. Sin marred the image of God in Him. Sin changed his nature, i. e., made him unnatural. Sin brought him stones for bread. Sin wrested from him his divine part, his heritage from heaven, his high and sound idealism. And in place of it all, Sin dressed him in the rags of materialism and carnality, starving his God-given spirit and high aspirations. Sin murdered mankind and scattered its corpses and bones all over the "Valley" of this earth!

Was that to be the end of God's crowning creation? Was God's adversary to succeed in destroying man's body and spirit? Was Death, the daughter of Sin and enemy of mankind, to triumph over the latter and gloat over dry bones? Read Ezekiel 37:1-14. It describes an open valley covered with bleached, scattered human bones. Of them, God asks Ezekiel, "Can these dry bones live?" He answers, "O Lord Jehovah, Thou knowest," which means "I do not see how!"

The "how" was in the hand of God and that hand was His mighty Spirit. In this vision, between verses 1 and 14 (Ezekiel 37), lies not only an open valley with dried human bones, not only a lump of death and the hopeless impotence of man; no, there is the Spirit of Life moving at God's behest. In its person and its effects it is mentioned ten times, in Hebrew by the same word, in English by "Spirit, breath, breathe, and wind" each and all implying the Spirit of Life. As long as this Spirit of God is present, moving and acting on earth among men, Satan is absolutely powerless to destroy mankind. Neither can Death triumph. By the power of the Holy Spirit the dry bones hear the Word of God and become impregnated with new life. The destroyed sinews and flesh tissues appear over the bones and a new skin covers the whole body. Then God's breath, as of old, (at the first man's creation) enters into man like a flood of life and energy. To this vision of Ezekiel, God attaches a promise of wonderful import when He says of His people, "You say, our bones are dried up and our hope is lost; we are clean cut off. . . . Behold I will open your graves and cause you to come up out of your graves, O my people! And ye shall know that I am Jehovah, when I have opened your graves. And then I will put my Spirit in you and ye shall live. . . .!"

Thus with a deep significance it is told us in Acts 2:1, "When the day of Pentecost was being fulfilled." It means the time of God for His mighty Spirit to be poured upon men to effect a wonderful transformation among them, breathing into them the Life and Being of God. Pentecost implies the sudden and mighty manifestation of the Holy Spirit. Not in silence, in the "still, small voice," not in the "breathing" as Jesus did upon His disciples (John 20:22), but in full potency, in the sound of a mighty wind and in the shape of tongues of fire upon the head of each Apostle.

Issuing from God the Father and the Son, came that Power from Heaven in the person of the Holy Spirit, not in a mere influence, or soul, or abstract expression, or psychologic effect. In the day of Pentecost this divine, personal existence of the Holy Spirit was powerfully manifested to the ears and before the eyes of the first Christians and the multitudes that then were in Jerusalem. Read and ponder what the second chapter of the Acts reports! Heard and seen facts, all enacted by the wonderful and powerful manifestation of the Holy Spirit, not just so arranged by any human factors or wisdom. A sudden tremendous sound from heaven, similar to that mentioned in Ezekiel's vision (Ch. 37:7), heard, not only in the house where the first Christians were assembled in prayer, but all over Jerusalem (Acts 2:6). Then the appearance of tongues of fire descending on the heads of the Apostles, enabling them to express themselves in different languages so as to be well understood by a multitude coming from fifteen different nations! That is told between the first and fourteenth verses.

The effects of the audible and visible descent of the Holy Spirit from heaven upon the gathered disciples of Jesus, the effects of this wonder, are described in verses five to thirteen. The multitudes in Jerusalem rush to the place where it has happened. Seeing the disciples and hearing them speak, ". . . . The mighty works of God in our tongues," as the multitude of fifteen different languages declares, they are confounded, amazed and marvel, saying, "Are these men not Galileans, who now speak as they do? How come that they are able to speak in the language of each of us?" In the presence of such a palpable fact the whole people is deeply impressed. Only a few mockers try a silly vapid remark, before this second wrought wonder of God. Here were these twelve "Galileans" who yesterday were common, uneducated men, with no name nor fame in the ranks of learned or powerful leaders of the people. What and who could have caused such a sudden transformation in them?

But today, as then, in the face of all evidence, some will doubt and scoff, calling a plain manifestation a hallucination, ecstasy, wild transport or an impossible reality. Such are deaf and blind to the workings of the Holy Spirit. God's wisdom in its workings is far above all human, critical investigation. "But God has revealed them unto us through the Spirit. . . . who searcheth all things, yea the deep things of God." (See I Cor. 2:6-11).

I know a man who, in 1883, came to an institution of learning in Basel, Switzerland, understanding only French. After a few weeks of hearing but German spoken, he felt like deaf and dumb. For him the Sunday sermons were simply like a sounding-board, a long string of utterances in which he could not discern and understand a single word! Then came a Sunday, when he noticed how earnestly the minister was speaking, how the audience was impressed; alas he could not understand a word! After the sermon came to an end a short silence ensued before the white-haired minister stood up and folded his hands for prayer. And then. . . oh wonder! something seemed to tear away in the ears and mind of the young man. . . he could hear and understand every word of the prayer! The Lord's Prayer it was. And from that day on the "door" to the German language opened faster and wider to him. More than seven years later the same young man was in Oberlin, Ohio, there to learn English. At the start he could not understand what was spoken all around him. One evening he went to a quiet, small gathering of older people for prayers. And lo, what had happened to him in the Basel church he experienced anew. He could fully understand each of the prayers offered. What occurred to him twice in a limited scale certainly could and did happen in the full might of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost.

Another wonder of that day there in Jerusalem was the miraculous transformation of the disciples, not

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

(Since the contributer for the month of June found it impossible to bring the messages at this time, an attempt will be made to bring some thoughts on the Daily Reading Lessons of the International Sunday School Lessons.)

JUNE 1—A Song of Thanksgiving. Psalm 122.

"I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord."

The attitude with which we enter the house of the Lord usually determines the measure of the blessing we will receive. Psalm 122 is one of the Psalms which the ancient Israelites sang as they joyfully pilgrimaged to Jerusalem, there to enter the house of the Lord. They had a purpose in going to their holy city, for the Psalmist tells us, "whither the tribes go up . . . unto the testimony of Israel; to give thanks unto the name of the Lord." Is our church-going a testimony to those about us? Are we glad for the privilege of going into the house of the Lord? Is it our purpose in going "to give thanks unto the name of the Lord?"

JUNE 2—Christ's Commission. Matthew 28:16-20.

"All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye therefore, and teach all nations . . . and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

It is a wonderful and comforting thought that Christ does not ask His followers to go in their own strength to labor for Him, but promises them that He will supply the power, when He says, "All power is given me, therefore go ye. . . . I am with you." We have this power at our command, but how often do we not live powerless lives because we try to work in our own strength. Let us take God at His word, and He will be able to accomplish much through us.

JUNE 3—The Field is the World. Acts 1:6-8.

"Ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."

How many of us would have the order of the places of service reversed! We would start at the uttermost part of the world and work towards Jerusalem, instead of following the order given by Christ and start at home. We must recognize the need in Jerusalem, Judea, and Samaria, and be willing to serve there, before we are really able to see the need in the uttermost part of the earth. Faithfulness at home in the use of our opportunities as they arise is a prerequisite for usefulness in a larger sphere of service.

JUNE 4—A Missionary Church. Acts 12:25—13:3.

"As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said . . . "

While these Christians in Antioch were waiting for the Spirit's guidance, they were not idle. They knew they had received their salvation in order to pass the knowledge of the grace of God on to others, but how or where the Spirit would use them they did not know. They waited for definite guidance, but while they waited they ministered. Therefore the Spirit could give the command to separate Paul and Barnabas for the work unto which they were called. The Church was willing to give up its leaders if others would receive a blessing, for they recognized in it the Spirit's guidance, to Whom they were yielded completely.

JUNE 5—The Mission to Cyprus. Acts 13:4-12.

"Then the deputy when he saw what was done, believed."

The world looks at us as Christians to see what our faith accomplishes for us. Is it not because so little is accomplished by us due to our weak faith or our lack of faith that not more believe? If the world could see the fruits of our faith, they too might believe.

"You are writing a Gospel
A chapter each day,
By deeds that you do,
By words that you say.
Men read what you write,
Whether faithless or true.
Say! What is the Gospel
According to you?"

—The Messenger

JUNE 6—A Prophet's Commission. Isaiah 6:1-8.

"Woe is me! for I am undone; because I am a man of unclean lips, and I dwell in the midst of a people of unclean lips: for mine eyes have seen the King, the Lord of hosts."

When we meet the Lord and recognize His majesty and holiness, we cannot help but see our own sinfulness in contrast. We also see the sin of the people among whom we dwell, not as an object of blame for our own sinfulness, but as an object of our concern and responsibility. A recognition of God's holiness, our sinfulness, and the people's need will make us ready to say, "Here am I, send me."

JUNE 7—Spreading the Gospel. Romans 15:15-21.

"Putting you in mind, because of the grace that is given to me of God."

It is good for every Christian to be often "put in mind" of the grace given him of God. All of us have experienced the grace of God, we have received talents and gifts, and greatest of all, salvation through the precious blood of Jesus Christ. Do we need to be reminded of this grace in our lives so that we do not neglect to make use of it for Christ and His cause? Paul had been given much grace, as he says, and therefore he counted it his responsibility to exhort others, to "put them in mind." —MB

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF GIRLS HOME

Saskatoon, Saskatchewan, April, 1941

Dear Mission Friends:

On January 30 we celebrated the tenth anniversary of the Girls' Home. The celebration was one filled with praise, thanksgiving and consecration. Thanksgiving to God and all supporters of this work and renewed commitment to Him Whose we are and Whom we serve.

In the program we looked back over the ten years of labor with a feeling of joy and pain. Joy because of the success we were permitted to note, but pain when circumstances were recalled wherein we fell short of attaining our desired end.

A common meal is naturally a part of such an observance. Mrs. Thiessen prepared for this occasion. After the dinner a program was rendered by the girls which consisted of songs and poems that were recited which expressed the gratitude of the girls for the Home, toward God and all the supporting friends.

Rev. J. J. Thiessen, superintendent, spoke on the subject, "An Air-Raid Shelter," and showed how this Home was a shelter against the attacks of the enemy of all good things. He laid emphasis on the need of such a Shelter.

The report showed that in the ten years approximately 400 girls made this their home. The highest number present at any one time was 110, and the lowest, 55. Almost 100 girls experienced conversion here and were baptized. Some hold their membership in the home church while others belong to the church here.

The weekly Bible study and social hour has come to mean much in the lives of scores of girls that live in the city. Frequently when all the girls came home, the home was literally packed full on these Thursday evenings.

BROADENING CHRISTIAN HORIZONS: THE ANTIOCH MOVEMENT

Acts 11:19-30

TOPIC: LIVING UP TO OUR CHRISTIAN NAME

Introduction

Luke is returning to the time of chapter 8:1 to take up another thread of his narrative showing the expansion and growth of the Christian Church. The work of some unnamed members who were scattered by the persecution in Jerusalem, led to the founding of the first important church in Antioch in Syria. About ten years elapsed between the persecution following Stephen's martyrdom and the bringing of Saul to Antioch. Meantime the gospel had permeated Phenicia and Syria and had reached Cyprus, the home of Barnabas. In Antioch the gospel was preached to the Jews only. This city was destined to be the great center for the spreading of the Christian missionary movement. Here the first Gentile Christian church was established.

Revival Among Grecians in Antioch, vs. 19-21

Scattered Jewish Christians told the gospel story, the Word, the truth of God and Christ, to the Jews wherever they went (v.19). Thus the Church spread and grew. Now some Greek-speaking Christians came to Antioch and spoke, "preached the Lord Jesus," to the Greeks, Gentiles. This was a definite innovation, a decided forward step. These Greek Christians were far more sympathetic toward the Gentiles and would better appreciate their religious needs, than would the Jewish Christians of Judea. These Greeks started a movement destined to grow greatly, and God blessed it wonderfully (v.21). Here was marvelous success in Greek evangelism. The faith of the converts was genuine. They "turned unto the Lord." The workers preached the Lord Jesus, the hearers believed. This was definitely a layman's missionary movement. We still need this today. Personal testimony by those who know and love Christ is the most effective gospel message. God will carry on His work through individual persons.

Barnabas Sent to Investigate, vs. 22-24

The news of this remarkable revival must spread, it could not be otherwise, and it aroused much interest in Jerusalem. The church there sent Barnabas, a man particularly fitted for the task, to Antioch (v.22). He was sympathetic toward the Gentiles and possessed outstanding power as a preacher. Spiritually, too, he was outstanding, a most necessary quality. He was free from personal ambition and self-seeking. The Jerusalem Church had the very good sense to send so liberal-minded and judicious a man as Barnabas. He recognized the movement as of God (v.23). He earnestly approved of it and urged the converts to cleave unto the Lord. He saw that God was proving that salvation was for the Gentiles also.

Saul is Brought to Antioch, vs. 25-30

Barnabas showed his largeness of heart and spirit in deciding to bring Saul to the work in Antioch. This started him on his later and larger missionary career. This ended the silent years in Saul's life. He was now made an evangelist-teacher and assistant pastor of the Antioch church. He helped Barnabas in building up the church. Their ministry consisted largely in teaching to the people the truths of God and Christ. The name "Christians" appears here for the first time. It was coined by the Gentiles outside of the Church. It is a glorious name and they clung to it. Believers were followers of Christ, hence were called Christians. A Christian's life and spirit bears a likeness to Christ. We are called to follow the life of Jesus by making ours like unto His.

In what ways was Saul specially fitted for this work?

How well do we live up to our Christian name?

How largely are the lay-members responsible for making the gospel effective in our home communities? For definite home missionary work?

Mennonite Central Committee

Civilian Public Service News

On May fifteenth, after a long period of delay, the first assignment of conscientious objectors arrived in a civilian public service camp. Thirty-three were in this camp that came to Petapsco, a camp administered by the Quakers and located near Baltimore, Maryland. Eastern newspapers reporting this event gave a sympathetic account of the arrival of the boys, of the convictions that brought them there, and of the whole service which they were seeking to render. The group assigned to this camp had a nucleus of boys from Quaker circles, but the majority came from other denominations. The camp director, is Dr. Ernest Wildman, who has been granted a year's leave of absence from Earlham College, Richmond, Indiana.

On May 22, the first group of Mennonite boys is to arrive at our Grottoes, Virginia, camp. Camp Director, John Mosemann, and his staff have been busy here for a considerable time preparing the camp for occupancy, acquiring needed equipment and making necessary arrangements for medical care, camp sanitation and for proper feeding. At the request of the Camp Director the advisory committee of six, representing various groups of our Mennonite constituency, met with the staff at Grottoes on May 13 in order that they might see the camp and be informed of plans for its administration and in order to enlist their counsel on various problems of camp administration which concern both the boys and the church.

A similar meeting between the prospective staff of the Marietta, Ohio, camp and the advisory committee of that area was held on May 10, at Marietta. Plans for the administration of this camp, operated jointly by the Church of the Brethren and the Mennonites, were carefully discussed and agreed upon. An initial group of 44 young men, of which 32 are Brethren and Mennonites, is to arrive in camp, June 2. The camp has room for eighty men.

The Colorado Springs staff now has full authorization to occupy the camp, and the necessary repairs are being made. Equipment is gradually arriving and the camp should be ready to receive boys when the first assignment arrives on June 5.

As the establishing of camps is now rapidly taking shape and boys are beginning to arrive for their year of service, we hope the members of our churches will make this program of service, the welfare of the boys, and the responsible task of those administering the camps definitely and earnestly and regularly a matter of prayer. Only then can this service become a blessing to us all, the boys, the church, and our country.

Relief Notes

ENGLAND—Letter received by our workers in London from the British War Refugees Fund:

"Dear Mr. Claassen and Mr. Coffman:

"I have been asked by my Committee to write and express to you our deep sense of gratitude for the invaluable help which the Mennonite Central Committee has given to our work for British Refugees from enemy occupied lands. Your initial gift was of the greatest encouragement to us in tackling the serious problem created by the sad situation of these refugees at a time when their unhappy plight had not yet stirred the imagination and sympathies of our own people. There is no need for me to recall to you the tragic need of these British subjects who for many years had made their home and followed their vocations in Germany or in the countries overrun by the enemy, arriving back in Britain utterly destitute or with their careers shattered. Your collaboration enabled us to give many of them the urgent help which they so required. I may refer particularly to the generous bales of clothing provided by your organization from which we were able to help equip many unfortunates who had lost their all in the debacle of their fortunes.

"I should consequently like you and your people in the United States and Canada to know how much we British people of this island appreciate your gift, not only for their material value but as a gesture of fraternal sympathy and I shall be grateful if you will be so good as to convey this expression to them. Yours sincerely, (signed) Nevile Henderson, Hon. Treasurer."

FRANCE—April 10, 1941, letter from Jesse Hoover:

"I am greatly challenged by the whole program in Europe. If it were only possible to transport a tenth part of our people over here for a few days to view the horror of some conditions as they are, we would not need to again plead for help. The sentiments of sympathy and the urge for relieving the distress would rise like a flood tide, resistless and overwhelming, until the tears of half-starved, homeless, hopeless children, the moans of plundered mothers who are widowed or worse, and the sum total of the horror-stricken bewilderment and despair would be assuaged in the 'milk of human kindness.'"

AKRON—Brother Peter Dyck of Laird, Saskatchewan, Canada, has been appointed for relief work in England. He has spent the past two weeks at Akron making preparation for his sailing which he plans to do on the first available ship. Brother Dyck is one of the many Russian Mennonites who received help from Mennonite relief workers during the Russian famine. He later migrated to Canada with his family, and now feels privileged to be helping in the work through which he himself at one time received.

THE WESTERN DISTRICT CONFERENCE LOAN LIBRARY

During the first four months of this year exactly 350 books of the Western District Conference Loan Library have gone into circulation, more than doubling the number at this time last year. Since good books are good friends, many a home has felt the blessing of true and unassuming friendship.

The Rev. W. F. Unruh, Pulaski, Iowa, writes the following letter:

"A few days ago I returned the books to your Western District Loan Library. We want to thank you very much for permitting us to take advantage of the Loan Library. The young people were very eager to read the books. They were in great demand. And your selection of books was very wise and good."

These above statements prove that the library meets a definite need in our churches, and that the books are of such a nature as to enrich the lives of the readers. The library is free to all our churches and individuals. However, by conference resolution the churches are asked to take at least one offering a year to finance this service. If your church has not sent in its contribution, please do so at your earliest convenience.

The committee will use the summer months to extend the library. From two to three hundred good new and used books should be added to our collection. If some homes have good books which are not read anymore, please let us put them to use.

We will again serve as a distributing center for Canada and Paraguay. Last year 210 pounds of books were sent to Canada as a relief measure.

Send the offerings to Mr. E. E. Kaufman, Treasurer, Buhler, Kansas, and the books to The Western District Conference Loan Library, North Newton, Kansas.

A good book is a helpful friend.

Bethel College Commencement

The forty-eighth annual Bethel College Commencement will be held in the basement of the new Memorial Hall, Wednesday, May 28, at 10:00 a. m. The class of fifty-three seniors will be the first class to hold the commencement exercises in the Memorial Hall. Rev. C. E. Krehbiel of North Newton, Kansas, is the speaker of the morning. Rev. Krehbiel, who is president of the General Conference of the Mennonites of North America, will speak on the topic, "Three Vital Life Adjustments."

On Sunday evening, May 25, at 8:00 p. m., the traditional baccalaureate services were held in the basement of the Memorial Hall. Dr. Ed. G. Kaufman, president of Bethel College, gave the address. His subject was "Lights in the World."

The Kingdom of God

by Violet Miller

We find two phrases in the Gospels that are used frequently and interchangeably, namely, "the kingdom of God," and "the kingdom of heaven." The latter is used chiefly in St. Matthew. A study of these two phrases indicates that they are used interchangeably, the same meaning being implied by both.

"The kingdom of heaven" is a phrase derived from the Aramaic "the malkuth of heaven." The word malkuth denotes kingship, kingly rule, or reign. "The kingdom of heaven," or the "kingdom of God," can therefore be read as the kingly rule or the reign of God.

The kingdom of God may imply either of two things: The reign of God within the heart of the individual or the establishment of the reign of God in society. It is the former that is implied when Christ speaks of taking upon oneself "the malkuth of heaven." We, as individuals, are to submit ourselves wholly to God and God's bidding. It is this malkuth of God within man that Christ referred to when He said "the kingdom of God is within you"—God's power, God's rule, is made effective within our lives. The kingdom of God is in the world today in just the same measure that we allow the rule of God to be established in our lives.

The second interpretation presents the kingdom of God as the establishment of a new social order in which Christ is to reign over all nations. Such a kingdom will be established at the return of Christ when Satan shall be bound and Christ and His redeemed shall reign for a thousand years. It is more than an inward kingdom; it is also an outward kingdom. The petition in the Lord's Prayer, "Thy kingdom come," may refer to "the malkuth of God" within the individual, but it also embodies a larger vision, a vision of a world order in which God reigns supremely.

Jesus revealed the character of the kingdom of heaven by the use of parables beginning with the words: "The kingdom of heaven is like unto. . . ." These parables teach us that the kingdom of heaven —"the malkuth of God"—is in the world now in the midst of evil, even as wheat among tares (Matthew 8:24-29). In Matthew 8:31-32 the kingdom of heaven is like to "a grain of mustard seed, which a man took and sowed in his field: Which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof."

Even as the mustard seed has within it the power of great growth, so that from an insignificant seed it grows into the greatest of herbs; so the kingdom of God, beginning in a small, undramatic way in the lives of individuals, has within it the power of life so that it will become mighty and reach out its "branches" to all nations.

Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto "leaven which a woman took, and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened" (Matthew 8:33).

Leaven works quietly, secretly, until all is leavened. So the kingdom of God works in a quiet, unobtrusive manner, but it is at work at all times until the reign of God shall be established over all.

In Mark 4:26-29 the kingdom of God is "as if a man should cast seed into ground; and should sleep, and rise night and day, and the seed should spring and grow up, he knoweth not how."

The kingdom of God has within itself potential growth, as a seed has within itself the germ of life. Growth is an inherent element of God's kingdom. Its growth is not spectacular. It grows from the kingdom of a man's soul to the kingdom of the world as naturally as a seed matures into ripened grain. The rule of God in the heart of a man is not a static condition. It is a constantly growing manifestation of the power of God.

"Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto treasure hid in the field; the which when a man hath found, he hideth, and for joy thereof goeth and selleth all that he hath, and buyeth that field" (Matthew 8:44-45).

"Again, the kingdom of heaven is like unto a merchant man, seeking goodly pearls: Who, when he hath found one pearl of great price, went and sold all that he had, and bought it" (Matthew 8:32).

Indeed the kingdom of heaven, as the hidden treasure and as the pearl of great price, is of a value far greater than all else. We shudder at the thought of a life in which "the malkuth of God" is rejected. A war-torn, hate-filled world longs for the day when God's rule shall be established.

The "malkuth of God" is both present and future. It is both inward and outward. It is a condition that involves both the individual and society. It is in its basic sense the effective manifestation of God's power in the world of human experiences. "It is the father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom" (Luke 12:32).

"Even so come, Lord Jesus," and establish thy rule this day within us, and in the fullness of time throughout thy whole creation."

(Miss Miller, a junior at Bethel College, wrote the above paper for the course, Life and Teachings of Jesus.)

"What worth has the 'Simple Life' for young people today?"

"I am glad you raise this question, for this is one tenet of our faith that you hear so little about and the practice of it is becoming less and less. The worth of this principle is that it teaches thrift and industry, a living within one's means. It counteracts materialism. It holds up as our ideal, self-denial for the cause of Christ. Personally I believe that we are making a great mistake in not expressing this faith in our church architecture. Seeing the Friends' meeting houses around Philadelphia has opened my eyes. The difficulty with many people is that they have a false conception of simplicity, for they think of it as a straight jacket, when in reality it is the opposite. Two young people starting out in life together will not succeed if they have their eyes fixed on pretty things. A real home is built on sacrifice and devotion."

BLUFFTON COLLEGE NOTES

Rev. George S. Stoneback, 1935 graduate of Bluffton College, was recently awarded the William Thompson Fellowship at the annual student-faculty banquet of the Hartford Seminary Foundation in Hartford, Conn. Announcement of the honor was made by Dr. Robbins W. Barstow, President of the Foundation. This is the second time a Bluffton graduate has held this fellowship. The Thompson Fellowship is granted every two years to a student of special promise in the senior class. It provides the cost of two years' advance study in this country or abroad.

Mr. Stoneback attended Hartford Seminary from September 1935 to June 1937. He is a senior at the present time, having served the Eighth Street Mennonite Church, Goshen, Indiana, for several years.

Dr. Lloyd L. Ramseyer, president of Bluffton College, attended a meeting of the Witmarsum Theological Seminary board in Chicago from May 7 through May 8. The meeting was held in the Y. M. C. A. hotel.

Rev. Paul E. Whitmer, former dean of the seminary and retiring pastor of the Grace Mennonite Church, and Rev. H. T. Unruh, pastor of the First Mennonite Church in Bluffton, both members of the board, also attended the meeting.

PAUL, THE ZEALOUS

Acts 9:1-8; Phil. 3:8, 9.

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Take my Life, and Let it Be," "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus," "Near to the Heart of God."
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer.
3. Biography of the Life of Paul.
4. Offering for Civilian Service Work.

II. Leader's Introduction

Certainly Paul was one of the great torchbearers of Christianity. The entire western world is indebted to the missionary zeal of Paul, the flaming apostle to the Gentiles.

A biographical study of Paul would tell of his early life, his zeal against the Christians, his conversion, his months of preparation, his ministries in Tarsus and in Antioch, his rising conviction that the gospel was for the Gentiles as well as for the sons of Abraham, his missionary journeys, his ministries in such places as Ephesus and Corinth, his imprisonment in Rome, and his martyrdom. Paul's life was one of unceasing activity. He was a man of great energy. His zeal for Christ was such that he was ready to endure any hardship for the sake of the gospel. He rose to the heights of human endeavor, and must be counted as one of the greatest men of history.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

Instructor in Service	Col. 3:12-17
Advocate of Sacrifice	Phil. 4:10-13
Past Master in Suffering	II Cor. 11:23-28
Example of Steadfastness	Acts 21:10-14
Pattern of Self-Control	I Cor. 9:26, 27
A Good Soldier	II Tim. 4:6-8

IV. For Discussion

1. What qualities of Paul make him an outstanding leader?
2. Which of the books of the New Testament which Paul wrote is your favorite? Why?
3. Can the average Christian be as useful in the Kingdom of God as Paul was?

V. Facts for Study

Christendom is more deeply indebted to Paul for the letters he wrote to the churches over which he had spiritual supervision. The epistles of Paul constitute a major portion of the New Testament. In every generation since the time of Christ men and women of great zeal and power have been used to continue and extend the gospel's influence in the world. The history of the Christian Church is to a large extent the record of those who have been the torch-bearers of Christianity.

VI. Illustration

Did this hold true in the life of Paul?

"A Friend has lighted my heart today,
My heart so pressed with pain;

A Friend has lifted that burden away,
And now I am free again.

"The burden upon my heart was sin,
It was greed and selfish will;
But now a new heart pulses within
The soul that was weighed with ill.

"That Friend has touched my life, and now
The image that I see
Is not of pomp, to which men bow,
But of One on Calvary.

"My Friend—'twas there He died for me,
He died that I might live;
So now each day's resolve shall be,
My all to Him I give."

VII. Food for Thought

If there had been more men and women giving their life as fully as Paul to Christ, would the Christian Church be different today in any way?

LETTERS THAT PAUL WROTE

Program for June 15, 1941

THE TWO LETTERS TO THE CORINTHIANS

"For I am determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and Him crucified." I. Cor. 2:2.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude—Melody of "In the Cross of Christ I Glory."

2. Call to Worship:

Junior Boys—"Oh come let us sing unto the Lord; Let us come before His presence with thanksgiving; Let us make a joyful noise unto Him with psalms."

Junior Girls—"This is the day which the Lord hath made; We will rejoice and be glad in it.'

3. Solo, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory."

4. Choral speaking of I Corinthians 13 by six girls. (Use word "Love" instead of "charity".)

5. Junior Leader's prayer.

6. Singing of songs: "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross," "The Old Rugged Cross," "Beneath the Cross of Jesus."

II. Study Period

1. Aim—To help our Juniors to get a little knowledge of the letters to the Corinthians, and to inspire them to be faithful readers of God's Word.

2. Introduction by a Junior. (Locate Corinth upon the map.) Corinth was an important commercial city. Paul spent eighteen months in Corinth on his second missionary journey and founded a strong Christian church there. After Paul left Corinth quarrels happened in the church. Someone wrote to Paul about this (I Cor. 1:11). He was sorry to hear that, for he felt responsible for all the churches that he had founded and loved all of the Christians. So he wrote letters to them to help them. In all of the letters that Paul wrote he taught truths that the Christians should know, and told them of wrong things which should be made right. In his letters to the Corinthians he taught them many wonderful truths. (Of course we always remember that God, through the Holy Spirit, told Paul what to write so really it is God's Word.) In First Corinthians we find one of the finest chapters in the whole Bible.

3. All Juniors open their Bibles while a good reader reads: I Cor. 1:1-4; I Cor. 1:10.

4. Precious truths found in First Corinthians. (Each Junior read the verse and give a one-minute talk on "What this verse tell me.") a.) The one foundation—I Cor. 3:11.

b.) We are the temples of God. I Cor. 3:16.
c.) Do all to the glory of God. I Cor. 10:31.
d.) Collection. I Cor. 16:1, 2.

5. All stand and sing, "I Know that My Redeemer Liveth."
6. A wonderful chapter read by three Juniors. I Cor. 15:1-11, 12-22, 35, 42-44, 51-58.
7. Precious truths found in Second Corinthians.
   a.) Living epistles ("epistle" means "letter"). 2 Cor. 3:2, 3.
   b.) Gave their own selves. 2 Cor. 8:5.
   c.) God loveth a cheerful giver. 2 Cor. 9:7, 8.
   d.) God's unspeakable gift. 2 Cor. 9:15.
8. Junior leader's talk.

III. Mission Minutes

Let three Juniors report on a missionary letter, one from each of our mission fields: China, India, American Indians.

IV. Closing Moments

1. All stand and repeat the verse of the month, then,
2. Sing the song of the month, and close by
3. Praying the prayer of the month.

only temporarily, but through the rest of their life and Christian activity on earth. Peter, the former fisherman, totally unversed in the art of logic, philosphy, and theology, delivers an address which by its depth of logic and persuasive argument is without peer among the speeches and orations of uninspired men. Read it from verses fourteen to forty, and see the wonderful result in verse forty-one. The genuine repentance created in the hearts, and their acceptance of salvation in Christ is the closing wonder wrought by the Holy Spirit on the day of Pentecost.

His workings had just begun, they went on, through the Acts, through all the Epistles and the Revelation, through the centuries until today. The Holy Spirit was given or poured out at other occasions, as in the house of Cornelius (Acts 10:44, 45). Then by Him were the men moved and inspired to write the whole of the New Testament. It is Peter who writes in his second epistle, chapter 1:21, "...Men spake from God, being moved by the Holy Spirit."

If the people of Israel rejoiced and praised on the day of Pentecost, how much more reason has the Christian to do so! For the Christian, Pentecost points us not only to the past, to its beginning on earth, but also to the glorious ministry of the Holy Spirit and especially to His crowning conclusion in the presence of the Everlasting, Almighty God and Father, when the Voice of a great multitude in heaven shall say, "Hallelujah: Salvation, and glory and power belong to God!" . . . "When the Voice of the great multitude like that of many waters and mighty thunders shall say, 'Give praise to our God, all ye His servants' . . . Hallelujah, for the Lord our God reigneth."

Then will the ministry of the Holy Spirit be concluded with the great "Marriage Supper of the Lamb," His Bride, the Church, sanctified by the Holy Spirit. Yes "Blessed are they that are bidden to the marriage supper of the Lamb. . . . These are the true words of God!" (Rev. 19:1-9).

On this day of Pentecost while our minds and hearts meditate on its mighty import, the Giving of the Holy Spirit and His ministry in the Christian Church, may one of the last words of our Bible, in the book of Revelation be heard in our inmost being: ". . . The Spirit and the Bride say, Come. And he that heareth, let him say, Come. . . . Amen come, Lord Jesus."

CORRESPONDENCE

MENNO MENNONITE CHURCH, LIND, WASH.

May 6, 1941

"Yea, I have a goodly heritage." Ps. 16:6b. Would that all men everywhere would say this. Truly all who know the Lord as Savior have a goodly heritage. So could eight young souls say this. They were baptized upon confession of faith and joined the Church on the first Sunday in this year. On Easter Sunday eight more people joined the Church through the right hand of fellowship. Thus the Gospel is ever powerful in these troublous days.

Other highlights were, a Consecration Service of infants. On Good Friday evening we entered into the Sanctuary of God amid the glow of candlelight. Sweet music, song, and Scripture brought to us the trials and suffering of Jesus. Then we partook of the Lord's Supper. Ah yes, remembering the Lord's death till He come.

During the month the Adult Bible Class joined with the Young People's C. E. in a missionary study. This proved to be very beneficial to all. The Mid-Week Bible Class finished its study in the Book of Mark. The many blessings we have received this year, if, they could be enumerated The Mennonite would be a small paper for it all. Certainly we are thankful to Him for it all.

We are looking forward to three more major events in our Pacific District and also our state, namely: The Pacific District Conference, May 15-18, at Dallas, Oregon; The Washington S. S. and C. E. Convention, June 6-8, at Newport, Wash.; and The Washington Young People's Retreat, July 4-6, at Clearlake near Yakima, Washington. Yours in His Service,

Herbert W. Franz, Correspondent

BETHLEHEM MENN. CH., BLOOMFIELD, MONTANA, May 3, 1941

First of all we must acknowledge our thanks to God for the unfailing blessings that He has given us in innumerable ways since we last reported. The roads were open all winter so that the attendance has continued to be very good at all our services.

The farmers are almost through with their field work. Most of them plant a little corn yet. We have had a very fine start for our crops in the way of moisture. Some fields are green with the new grain even now.

On Easter Sunday we had baptism in the morning. Three young men were baptized upon the confession of their faith, and were received into the fellowship of the church. Some of these expect to be selected in the near future. Already two young men have been called and are stationed, one in Kentucky and one in Washington. We have received word that their testimony is telling for the Lord. It might need explanation to clarify the location of these two men. It is merely that the local draft board did not receive their information concerning our Mennonite camps and consequently did not know what to do. These young men need the prayers of Mennonites.

On April 27, morning and evening, we were blessed in being able to listen to messages by Rev. P. A. Kliewer, who was able to stop here enroute to his new pastorate in Oregon. The church was well filled at both services. God can certainly raise up men unto himself even in these days.

Evangelist Oscar Lowry is broadcasting a radio revival from station KGCX, Wolf Point, for the next weeks having begun on April 28. We are taking advantage of the opportunity to hear this man of God and may even to able to obtain him for a radio rally some Sunday afternoon. Our own revival campaign will start on June 1. This will be a good time to have it following the build up by Mr. Lowry, and the earnest, effectual prayers of Christians.

Our choir is functioning very well and has already given a number of programs in the churches surrounding, even going so far as Beach, N. D. Our C. E., Mission Program, Ladies' Aid and Sunday School are all making strides forward in the work.

In His Name, Correspondent

TABOR CHURCH, GOESSEL, KANS., May 1, 1941

"We praise Thee, O God, for the Son of Thy love, for Jesus Who died and is now gone above. Hallelujah! Thine the glory, Hallelujah! Amen; Hallelujah! Thine the glory; Revive us again." This song is often sung in German without the piano and by memory.

On Dec. 31, 1940, the Annual Meeting was held when everything could be arranged for another year. It seems the young people do not understand the German. We have some members that have no German background. A resolution was passed to have more German. The introduction, prayer and one-third of the sermon remains in German, and two-thirds in English. Of the 21 Sunday School classes only six are conducted in German. On the average there are two or more evening meetings during the week. In winter this uses a lot of fuel. To avoid this a separate room was made in the basement in January. The Sewing Society contributed liberally money and labor. The Prayer Week was observed on three evenings as before.

On the evening of March 3, a special Brotherhood meeting was held. Deacon Henry B. Schmidt was elected evangelist. He plans to take this work over after school closes. He teaches in the Walton grades. During the Passion Week, Rev. J. J. Regier, of Burrton, brought three messages on three evenings. His topics were: "What Think Ye of Christ?" Gal 2:20; "Growing in Grace and Knowledge of Jesus Christ," and "Exercising in the Grace," Ezek. 47. Easter Sunday Rev. P. H. Unruh brought us the message. The C. E. societies hold their meetings regularly unless postponed. On April 6, the Juniors had a Bible Story Tellement and Readement. Goessel and Alexanderwohl societies were present and took part. Rev. J. J. Voth of North Newton gave an address on Bible schools on the same evening. The (General) Senior society presented the play "Winning the Battle" in March. This is a Monolog with much music. In April a Book Report Program was given. Such books as "Rosanna of the Amish," "What is Wrong with the Movies?" were reported on. One Sunday services had to be called off on account of impassable roads.

Among those that have visited us were Rev. Carl Landis and Rev. W. J. Bestvater. Holy Communion was observed on April 20. Uncle Henry Thiesen has been sick for some time. He is aged and suffers at times. At present he is in the Home for the Aged in Goessel. The condition of Uncle Henry J. S. Schmidt is about the same. Brother Jacob K. Kroeker died Tuesday morning, April 29, and was buried today.

FIRST MENNONITE CHURCH, BURRTON, KS.

In the spring of the year many people change homes. This is true of a family of our church who moved quite a distance from here. Mrs. Mary Stucky and family moved to Cassoday, Kansas, the first part of March.

Another friend and worker in the church was Miss Ella Pankratz, who has gone to Beatrice, Nebraska, to take the nurses' training course in the Mennonite hospital there. We have heard she enjoys it and we wish God's blessing upon her work.

Some time ago our church received four new members by letter. They are Mr. and Mrs. Leland Jantz and Mr. and Mrs. Phil Schrag. Just a few weeks ago another member was received into our church, Mrs.

Kate Enns who took her membership out of the Alexanderwohl Mennonite Church near Goessel, Kansas. Our young people have been kept busy with some projects which were undertaken. The one for the girls consists of rendering programs to the people of the Reno County Poor Farm near Hutchinson, Kansas. This is done once a month on Sunday afternoons. Every other Sunday the boys go to the Hutchinson jail and give programs and testimonies to the prisoners. Rev. J. J. Regier always brings a short message at both places. We enjoy this work and pray God's blessing as it continues. —Ella Enns, Correspondent

IN MEMORIAM

ELIZABETH HAURY ROBERTS, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Haury, was born February 4, 1911. She attended rural and high school at Halstead, Kansas, and graduated from Bethel College in 1933. She taught in the Walton schools before her marriage, and later Bible in the grade school at Halstead. She was married to Floyd Roberts August 19, 1935. A son, Jerry, was born to them in October 1939. She passed away, March 15, 1941, following an operation at a hospital in Kearney, Nebraska, where her husband was teaching. The funeral services were conducted at the First Mennonite Church, Halstead, Kansas, David C. Wedel officiating, assisted by Dr. Ed. G. Kaufman. Miss Charlotte Penner sang two numbers. She was laid to rest in the Halstead Cemetery.

HATTIE RUTH KELLER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Keller, was born at Salisbury, Chariton county, Mo., Nov. 20, 1900. In 1903 she came to Kansas with her parents making her home near Halstead, Kansas. Here she attended the public school and grew to womanhood.

On April 1, 1917, she was baptized upon her confession of faith and received into the membership of the Mennonite Church, Halstead, Kansas.

At the age of eight months she was stricken with infantile paralysis. She never completely regained her health and continued to receive medical care from that early age. On September 12, 1940, she was compelled to undergo major surgery at the Halstead Hospital. She recovered sufficiently to be permitted to return to her home. On April 30, 1941, she was brought to the hospital again, being seriously ill, where she departed this life May 2, 1941. She leaves to mourn her departure her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Keller, one sister, Irene, Mrs. B. H. Bauman; four brothers, Oliver and Raymond Keller of Harper, Kansas; Arthur and Cecil Keller of Halstead; one brother-in-law, three sisters-in-law, and many relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in the Mennonite church, with Rev. David Wedel officiating. Burial was in the Halstead cemetery.

HARRY H. STIVEL, son of George and Caroline Holzauer Stivel, was born in Richland Township, Bucks County, Penn., May 22, 1879. As a young man he joined the Reformed Church.

On January 26, 1901, he was united in marriage with Stella S. Rosenberger, with whom he cheerfully shared the joys and tasks of life for more than forty years. It was on April 6, 1933, that he was received into the membership of the West Swamp Mennonite Church, and has been a devout and helpful member in Sunday School, church, and choir ever since.

After a brief illness the unexpected end came when he was called away early in the morning on May 9, thus bringing his age to 61 years, 11 months, and 17 days.

In the immediate family circle he leaves to mourn his home-going, his aged father, his life-companion and one sister, Mrs. Lillian Martin.

The life philosophy of the departed is well expressed in the words of Sam Walter Foss in the poem: "The House by the Side of the Road," in the stanza:

"I see from my house by the side of the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press on with the ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with the strife.
But I turn not away from their smiles or their tears—
Both parts of an infinite plan;
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man."

The text used by the Pastor, Rev. A. J. Neuenschwander, was Acts 11:24. Interment was in the West Swamp Burial Ground.

Darvin Lugibill, sophomore, and Richard Weaver, junior, placed second and third, respectively, receiving awards of three and one dollars.

—Goessel Mennonite Church, Goessel, Kansas. On Mother's Day the Junior Christian Endeavor presented an inspiring program in honor of all mothers. The Mission Friends Circle met for the final session of the year, May 13. At this time the secretary's, treasurer's, and other reports were given. Mrs. P. P. Kaufman, who filled the vacancy left by our president, Miss Marie Boese, was reelected. Meetings will be resumed August 19. Under the capable leadership of Roy Schmidt, the choir is practicing faithfully for the Song Festival as well as for regular Sunday morning worship services. —Mrs. P. K. Dirksen, Corr.

—In the Bulletin of the Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, Pennsylvania, we find the following paragraph in regard to Sunday School and church attendance. "It is a splendid thing for a Christian to establish the habit of regular attendance at Sunday School and church services. It is every bit as important to feed our souls regularly as it is our bodies. . . . Our daily life is continually thronged with non-Christian suggestions and ideals which will make their imprint on our souls if they are not counter-acted by a definitely Christian atmosphere of prayer, praise, Gospel message, and Christian fellowship. . . ."

—The Christian Century of May 21, 1941, reports: "Among the first 881 conscientious objectors to be certified, there were 321 Mennonites, 90 Church of the Brethren, 66 Jehovah's Witnesses, 54 Methodists, 49 Quakers, 35 Presbyterians, 26 Baptists, 18 Church of Christ, 16 Catholics, 15 Congregational-Christians, 11 Episcopalians, 10 Lutherans, 7 Seventh Day Adventists, and 4 Disciples of Christ."

—Bethesda Church, Marion, South Dakota. Members of the Bethel Church, Rev. J. A. Tieszen, minister, worshipped with us on Sunday morning, May 4. Mrs. August Ewert, missionary who recently returned from China, and Dr. Paul W. Rood gave messages. We are glad to see our beloved minister, Rev. Derk V. Tieszen, able to come to church again. He was 82 years old this spring and had not felt very well during the cold winter months. He has served this congregation faithfully for so many years even though he was handicapped by blindness. Rev. A. P. Waltner has started instructions in the catechism class. Mother's Day services were very impressive.

—Correspondent

—Ernest Bennett and Mrs. M. C. Lehman visited a number of Mennonite communities in Kansas last week, in the interest of the Mennonite relief work. Sunday, May 18, Mr. Bennett and Mrs. Lehman spoke at the Tabor College auditorium at Hillsboro; Monday evening, May 19, Mrs. Lehman spoke at a meeting called by the Women's Missionary Societies of the General Conference, at the First Mennonite Church, Newton.

—Rev. W. C. Voth, returned missionary from China, left for Canada last week where he will visit Mennonite churches in the interest of foreign missions. He expected to stop at Warroad, Minnesota, to visit the congregation there. From here he would proceed to Winnipeg, Manitoba. His itinerary will take him through the provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan by the time the General Conference meets in regular session next August. He will also serve at the Canadian Mennonite Conference which meets at Rosthern, July 4 to 9.

—The Young People's Retreat of the Middle District Conference will again be held at Quaker Haven, Indiana, and is scheduled for August 4-10. It was decided to stress the church and its program in order that the young people might become better acquainted with its work and program.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The annual Western District Christian Endeavor Convention will be held August 3, at 2:30 and 7:30 p. m., at Enid, Oklahoma, at the invitation of the Grace Mennonite Church of that city. The theme of the convention will be "A Charge to Keep I Have," and the program will center around the charges of the Mennonite church, missions, civilian service camps, etc.

Editorial

During the past weeks we have again stood in awe and wonder at the marvelous beauty unfolding before our eyes as spring superceded winter. The green grass and flowers of every hue remind us of many passages of Scripture dealing with God's wonderful creation. We think of Christ's words concerning our Heavenly Father's care for the fowls of the air and the lilies of the field, and renew our faith and trust in God's providence for His children. We see the wheatfields turn from black to green and are reminded of Jesus' statement: "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone; but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit."

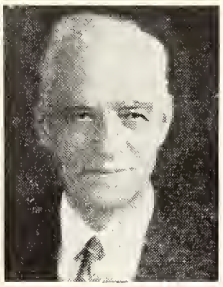
We are reminded of the fleetness of time and remember the words of Isaiah: "All flesh is grass, and all the goodliness thereof is as the flower of the field. The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: because the spirit of the Lord bloweth upon it: surely the people is grass. The grass withereth, the flower fadeth: but the word of our God shall stand forever." There is a note of sadness when we remember how our days are slipping by never to return again, but there is also a note of joy when we notice with what Isaiah compares man's life: grass and flowers. The grass and the flowers are short-lived, they wither and die, but while they live they are a source of joy for everyone. Man's life is short, as Job said: "My days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle.... O remember that my life is wind." But while we live, how do we spend our lives? Do we make them a source of joy and beauty in the service of others and of God? It is with regret that we see the grass wither and the flowers fade. We remember their beauty and fragrance and look forward to the time when spring will return them to us. Is our life such that our passing will be regretted, and men will remember the beauty and joy that surrounds our lives?

GENERAL CONFERENCE TO CONVENE

August 17-22, 1941, at Souderton, Penn.

(Tentative program in this issue)

General Conference President Honored



Dr. C. E. Krehbiel

Rev. C. E. Krehbiel, president of the General Conference of Mennonites of North America, was honored at the forty-eighth annual commencement of Bethel College, May 28, 1941, when the honorary degree, Doctor of Divinity, was conferred upon him in recognition of his faithful and outstanding service especially to the Mennonite church for a full generation.

The following is the citation read by Rev. A. E. Kreider when presenting Rev. Krehbiel to Pres. Ed. G. Kaufman for this recognition:

Citation

For Rev. Christian E. Krehbiel in Conferring the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Divinity upon Him by Bethel College, May 28, 1941.

"We are greatly honored at this commencement to present for special recognition a man who has rendered distinguished service and has given himself unsparingly to the cause of Christ and His Church. A native American, born of Mennonite parentage, at Summerfield, Illinois, September 25, 1869, he came to Kansas during the early pioneer days with his parents, Rev. Christian and Susanna Krehbiel, and located at Halstead, Kansas.

"His formal education was received in the common schools of this state, the Mennonite Preparatory School at Halstead, and the Kansas State Normal School at Emporia, from which he was graduated in 1897. After this he continued his studies at the theological school of Bloomfield, New Jersey, and in the University of Berlin, Germany, from where he returned to America to take up active service in 1901.

"Early his interests found expression in the field of publication. For many years he was secretary of the Herald Publishing Company of Newton, Kansas, for 19 years serving as editor of the Volksblatt, later Der Herold, published by that organization. Since 1930 he has served as manager and editor of the Christlicher Bundesbote, the official German publication of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America. He has also written on various subjects and has edited the minutes and reports of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church in both English and German for a number of sessions.

"On December 2, 1923, he was ordained as a minister of the gospel. Later he organized and for a number of years served as pastor of the Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church in Wichita.

"Throughout the years he has been interested in humanitarian and relief work. In 1922 and 1923 he served in Russia as a relief worker under Mennonite auspices. For many years he has been superintendent of the Leisy Orphan Aid Society and secretary of the Mennonite Charite Organization. He has been active in various Mennonite deaconess and hospital organizations, has always given time and thought to school problems, and has long been a member of the Bethel College Corporation, besides being active in various other benevolent and educational organizations.

"Repeatedly he has been elected to various positions of responsibility in both the Western District and the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America. For many years he served as statistician of both these organizations. From 1921 to 1930 he served as field secretary of the General Conference, during which time he visited all of the congregations belonging to the same. He served as a member of the Placement Committee, the Church Unity Committee, as General Secretary, and at present is President of the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America.

"In recognition of these distinguished services throughout the Mennonite Church and beyond, as publisher and editor, humanitarian and relief worker, school man and educator, and especially as minister and conference worker, and upon the unanimous vote of the faculty and the Board of Directors, we herewith present Rev. Christian E. Krehbiel for the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity."

We wish to congratulate Dr. C. E. Krehbiel for this distinction. May the Lord continue to bless him and us through him.

WORD OF SYMPATHY FROM CANADA

286 River Avenue, Winnipeg, Manitoba

With deep regret we, too, (my wife and I, as well as the members of the local Gesangbuchkomission and other brethren) received the message of the unexpected departure of the dear brother, J. R. Thierstein. We wish to express our sympathy. . . . As Gesangbuchkomission we will miss Brother Thierstein very much. It is very lucky that the most important preparations and instructions for the publishing of our German hymnbook have been made. The Mennonite Publication Board will of course take care of it farther. —B. Ewert

TWO THINGS TO THINK ABOUT NOW

by Dr J. H. Langenwalter, Reedley, California

When things go well it is a good thing to wonder whether there is a way of having them go better. The work of our General Conference has made gratifying progress in many ways. Its growth has brought new problems. Some of them have been met well. Two of them have confronted us for some time. Perhaps a bit of constructive wondering will help us much for the future.

A. Our six major lines of work are Foreign Missions, Home Missions, Publication, Education, Relief, and Peace. There is considerable overlapping between some of them. That makes for lost motion and delay.

Suppose the Conference should ask the six groups to work as three for the next three years as follows: Home and Foreign Mission; Publication and Education; and Relief and Peace. That would give three years of practical facing of the problems involved. It would not require a change of Constitution now. The working details could be left to the good judgment of the groups involved. The opportunities for increased efficiency could be met as they arise.

There would be many advantages for all of our working groups to agree on one treasurer. Our work has become so complex that the matter of remitting gifts to the proper treasuries has often caused delays in sending the money when it was sorely needed by the treasuries.

B. Too many of our people are not informed as to our work because they do not read our papers. That is one reason why others have found it so easy and so profitable to get the money which is needed for our own work. We have tried many ways, over long periods of time, to work through individual subscribers. The result has not been very encouraging.

We have always worked on the basis that the individual church is the unit of our movement known as the General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America. Why not apply that principle to the way in which we handle our papers? Let the Conference make a really attractive offer to every church which orders enough papers so that each home in which there are one or more or its members shall receive either The Mennonite or the Bundesbote. One hundred seventy orders for the papers at the beginning of the year over against several thousand orders, scattered over the entire year with many lapses to worry the management, would be an advantage of no mean proportions. However, that is not the main reason for thinking this idea through. Suppose three or four times as many homes received one or both of our papers! Would that not give new interest for our work, expressed in understanding, prayers, and gifts? Other organizations are seeing to it that every member is kept in touch with the work which they are doing. The results in many cases have been remarkable.

HOME MISSIONS

A. J. Neuenschwander, Secretary

Altoona, Pa.
May 16, 1941

Dear Christian Friends:

Greetings in His Name, Proverbs 3:5, 6.

The work during the winter months has been quite strenuous due to the fact of much sickness. However, we praise the Lord for His nearness and help.

In the month of February we had two special meetings. Rev. and Mrs. Fred McGinnis, missionaries in the Kentucky mountains, and also Rev. John J. Esau from Bluffton, Ohio, were with us. Rev. Esau again stopped in Altoona on his return from the East and was with us all day on Easter. He spoke at our sunrise prayer and praise service, the morning service, and also at the program in the evening. We received a real blessing and inspiration, not only from his messages, but also his Christian fellowship in the home.

Our Bible study for the boys and girls closed on April 18, for the summer months. Our attendance in these meetings was better than in any previous year. An average of twenty-six attended.

We had our revival meetings from April 20-29 with Rev. Harold Burkholder from Quakertown, Pennsylvania, as speaker. A great interest was shown and many rich blessings received. Mrs. Burkholder had charge of the children's meeting each evening before the service. These were also well attended and much interest was shown.

We are looking forward to our Bible School which will be held immediately after school closes.

We covet an interest in your prayers on our behalf and also for the work here in Altoona.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Slotterback

FOREIGN MISSIONS

P. H. RICHERT, Secretary

"CALL UPON ME"

"Hai, hai! What shall we do, father of Prem Prakash? (Prem Prakash means Light of love.) The fields are drying up. Why does not the rain come? Rice is almost twice as expensive as it was last year, and what is more, I can't even buy it. Those who still have a little stored away do not want to sell it and the shopkeepers gather up all they can so that they may sell it when the price has gone up still higher."

"Yes, mother of Prem, and work is not to be had. Only those whose fields are low have water left in them and they have their own servants to do the work. The gauntiya (village owner) is gathering offerings for the worship of Indra, the thunder god, and he is pressing us Christians to give. They are even hinting that it is because we have left the old ways and the old worship and become Christians that these evil days are falling upon us."

"Ah, but that is not so. Sooner would it be because the worship of idols takes away the glory and honor that belongs to the true God alone. If only our neighbors could see it."

In the center of the village preparations for appeasing Indra, the rain god, were in process. A shallow, round hollow had been dug in the ground and over this a bamboo mat had been erected on sticks to form sort of a canopy. Mangoe leaves and the stalks of banana trees had been used as decoration and gave the place a festive look. The participants had bathed and come straight to the worshipping place where a Brahmin priest had taken charge. A fire had been placed in a hollow and to the accompaniment of mantras read from their sacred book, clarified butter, coconut, and puffed rice had been thrown into the fire. The offerings had been gathered from the villagers—each one was to give at least a pice (equal to half a cent). It rankled that the Christians had refused to take part. Was this not a time when all should stand together?

That day the Christian group was made happy by a visit from the evangelist in charge of this section. He came with a message that met a ready response in the hearts of these sorely tried Christians. It was a call for them to join with the other Christians of this area in a day of fasting and prayer on the morrow.

Early the next morning it was told by one non-Christian to another, "Today the Christians are calling on their God." Perhaps they felt like the sailors who awakened Jonah and urged him to cry to his God. Had it seemed to the neighbors that the Christians were not doing anything because their worship had not called for a visible offering?

The Christians spent the day on a hill that overlooked the village and the fields lying in need of rain. There was confession of sin as the Holy Spirit brought things to their remembrance and then the cry for rain for the thirsty fields that there might be food to eat. There was one phase that was common in all the prayer groups, "Not our will, but Thine."

There have not been the overwhelming showers that we have all longed for. Here and there a bit of rain fell. Many a field that was getting ready to head out has dried up; others came to head but the kernels could not develop. True, the lower fields that could be watered from the tanks or reservoirs that had been filled during the rainy season, are still nice and green. But, almost without fail, these belong to the village owner or some of the wealthier farmers. There is no field work, there is often no rice to be purchased. Day after day we must hear, "Memsahiba, we are hungry. There is no rice in the house." The evangelists come in from the district and they say, "What can we do for our people. Truly, there are those who are actually suffering from hunger. The weavers cannot sell their cloth. There is no work. Our salaries reach nowhere and daily some sit at our door with whom we feel we must share our bit of food."

We look in the tithe box; there is little there, the poor fund is empty this long while ago and the rice bag has only a few grains left in the bottom. And we also say, "What can we do?" There are times when it is almost easy to be a missionary but this is not one of those times. Yet we dare to believe that even out of this time of trouble there will come blessings. We trust it will mean a deepening and enrichment in spiritual matters. One of the men spoke perhaps very truly when he said, "It is not until God strikes us in our stomachs that we listen to Him." —Christena H. Duerksen

June 8, 1941

BEGINNING OF WORLD MISSIONS

Acts 12:25—13:12

Topic: The Holy Spirit in World Missions

Introduction

In a sense missions began when, under persecutions, the Christians in Jerusalem were scattered and went preaching the Word (8:4). We have, however, in our lesson the beginning of a definite, planned movement for missions. Missionaries are now chosen and sent out to distant regions. The times were favorable for so new an undertaking in the countries bordering on the Mediterranean. They were united in one great empire. Peace, law, and order had been established. Good roads made travel possible and the Greek language was understood very widely. Missionaries could tell the gospel story in a language which people could understand. The message which they brought to the people was one of life and power.

Missionary Call from the Holy Spirit, vs. 1-4

Here begins the first journey of the first Christian missionaries to the Gentiles. This missionary movement was definitely in response to a call of the Holy Spirit (v. 2). Christ gave His great Commission to the Church in general. The Holy Spirit makes specific calls, and usually to those who have opened their hearts to His influence. The Antioch church was well supplied with leaders and teachers. The Holy Spirit spoke to them while they were ministering unto the Lord and fasting, while in the right attitude to hear in an understanding way. Blessed is the church that can definitely hear the voice of the Holy Spirit. Every step in the way of this early church was taken in prayer. A praying church is spiritually alive. The Antioch leaders saw the need for the gospel in distant fields. A church that lives for itself only is spiritually dead.

The Holy Spirit called for the two best leaders to be set apart for a very definite work. The church in Antioch owed much to these men, yet willingly gave them up without a murmur. They fasted and prayed and set them apart for the new work in a solemn act of dedication (v. 3). Saul and Barnabas had the prayers of the church with them and knew that they were sent forth by the Holy Spirit. This gave them much courage for this untried undertaking.

Ministry in Cyprus, vs. 5-12.

Saul and Barnabas were true to their commission, "they preached the Word of God," and to the Jews first (v. 5), since they were best prepared to understand and receive the message. They were expecting the Messiah, and Saul could show from their own Scriptures how their Jewish hopes were fulfilled in Jesus of Nazareth. Doubtless they visited many places while going "through the isle to Paphos," where definite opposition was met with (v. 6). Here also a notable convert was won (v. 7). Sergius Paulus, the Roman governor of the island, was a good man and desired to hear the gospel message, though he was a Gentile. A renegade Jew, Elymas the sorcerer whose business would be ruined by Christianity, vigorously opposed the gospel work (v. 8). Saul was directly led by the Holy Spirit to speak very severely to him and pronounce God's judgment upon him (vs. 10, 11). Elymas met a Spirit-filled man and his opposition was vain. Sergius Paulus saw God put His stamp of approval upon Saul and the gospel he preached. He believed it. Saul and Barnabas received an infilling of the Holy Spirit before starting on this first missionary journey and the Spirit went with them.

Thought Suggestors

Why are men and women of ability and with good educational training needed in the missionary work?

Of what value is missionary interest to our home churches?

Why did God's judgment come in so unusual a way upon Elymas, the sorcerer (v. 11)?

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

JUNE 8—The Lord's Promise. (Isaiah 42:6-10).

"I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles."

The Lord called His Chosen People for a purpose, "for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles." He calls us for a purpose, and if we are found in line with His will for us, He will hold our hand and keep us as He promised.

JUNE 9—Preaching to the Jews. (Acts 13:26-33).

"Because they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets which are read every sabbath day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him."

It was possible for those of whom Paul speaks, to sit in the synagogue Sabbath after Sabbath listening to the words of the prophets as they were read, and yet fail to rightly interpret what they heard, "because they knew him not nor yet the voices of the prophets." Do we hear God's Word Sunday after Sunday and during the week, and still close our ears to its rightful interpretation by the Spirit?

JUNE 10—Preaching to the Gentiles. (Acts 13:44-52).

"It was necessary that the word of God should first have been spoken to you: but seeing ye put it from you, and judge yourselves unworthy of everlasting life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles."

The Jews were accorded the first opportunity to receive the message of salvation through Jesus Christ, but they pronounced their own judgment by putting it from them. How many of us are pronouncing judgment upon ourselves by rejecting Christ, for we pass a sentence of doom or of redemption upon ourselves by accepting or rejecting Him.

JUNE 11—Justified by Our Faith. (Galatians 3:23-29).

"And if ye be Christ's then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise."

The Jews to whom Paul was addressing his epistle put their hope of salvation in the fact that they were descendents of Abraham by birth. Paul says, "If ye be Christ's then are ye Abraham's seed." The spiritual kinship with Abraham in the matter of faith was more important than the blood relationship with him. We are justified by faith in Him. He is the only way that leads to the Father.

JUNE 12—Justified by God's Grace. (Romans 3:21-30).

"For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God; being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus."

All of us have sinned, but we are justified freely by His grace, for "while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." He paid the price of redemption for me, as has often been said "just-as-if-I'd" done it, for God accepted His substitutionary death and I am free.

JUNE 13—Strengthening the Believers. (Acts 14:21-28).

"They returned again to Lystra, and to Iconium, and Antioch, confirming the souls of the disciples."

This return journey was necessary for the confirmation of the believers. By the very act of returning to Lystra where Paul had been stoned and left for dead outside the city, to Iconium where an attempt had been made to stone him too, and to Antioch from where they had been exiled, they preached a louder and more effective sermon of the grace of God in their lives than they could have preached in words. What kind of a sermon do our lives preach?

JUNE 14—God's Doings. (Isaiah 12:1-6).

"And in that day thou shalt say, O Lord, I will praise thee: though thou wast angry with me, thine anger is turned away, and thou comfortest me."

Often we do not recognize the hand of God in the events of our lives. Some day we will see that His hand, though unseen and unrecognized, has been leading and guiding. May we, therefore, join the Prophet Isaiah when he exclaims: "Behold, God is my salvation; I will trust, and not be afraid: for the Lord Jehovah is my strength and my song; he also is become my salvation."

JUNE 15—A New Earth (Rev. 21:1-5).

"Behold, I make all things new."

Once in the long ago ages, God created a heaven and an earth, and everything He made in this heaven and on this earth He pronounced as "Good." But man through his disobedience brought a curse upon the earth and throughout these many centuries man has been waiting for the time when there will be a new heaven and a new earth, where God Himself will dwell and be their God, their King. Are we ready for this time? —MB

Bible reading brings to the reader the food of the soul. But this food can be looked at and yet not used. A knowledge of the Bible that is not acted on daily is of very little value, except to make its owner feel better than he is. —The Christian Index.

WHAT A LOST SOUL DISCOVERED IN HELL

Luke 16:19-31

Introduction—A careful comparison of this passage of Scripture with the parables of our Lord will reveal the fact that this incident cannot be honestly called a parable. Here Christ discloses to us the terrible reality of a tragic experience of a lost soul. Here is a truth to be seriously heeded, prayerfully proclaimed, but not argued.

The following facts the rich man discovered to his eternal sorrow:

1. He Discovered the Truth that Death Does not End All. "He lifted up his eyes, . . . seeth Abraham . . . and Lazarus" (v. 23).
2. He Discovered the Reality of Hell and Its Suffering. "In hell . . . I am tormented in this flame" (vv. 23, 24).
3. He Discovered the Fact that Conscience Survives Death. "Son, remember" (v. 25).
4. He Discovered the Awful Certainty of the Fixed Condition of the Lost. "A great gulf fixed" (v. 26).
5. He Discovered that No Opportunity Was Granted to Redeem Past Carelessness and Indifferences. "I pray thee . . . for I have five brethren" (vv. 27-29).
6. He Discovered the Absolute Authority and Finality of God's Word. "They have Moses and the prophets" (vv. 29-31).

Conclusion—Every truth that the rich man discovered in hell, he could have learned while on earth to his eternal blessing. God gave us His Word to accept it and study it; and not to ignore it or reject it. —George E. Muran

A Letter From Canada

By Henry Friesen

Quite a while ago John Fretz asked me to write an article for The Mennonite Youth pages, telling about our Bible School here in Rosthern, Saskatchewan. I shall try to give you a glimpse of the work that we are doing. I often wish that we were as far with our young people's work as some districts in the U. S. are. However, we know that God blesses all our efforts, regardless of how small and insignificant they may seem, if they are truly and honestly made for His sake. We feel quite certain that God has blessed us wonderfully in our work.

Until 1939 only one classroom was available for our Bible School and our Academy (Mennonite High School). For the last years we felt the necessity of enlarging the school. After much labor and discussion some boys offered their help in prayer and labor, while the older people supplied the money. It was decided to repair an old hospital and to use it for the Bible School.

After the Academy had closed for the 1939 summer vacation, from five to eight boys worked on the old hospital for one week, repairing the furnace and filling the walls with wood shavings. The shavings were to insulate the building against the cold of the winter. A few other minor repairs were made. During the summer some ladies from Rosthern whitewashed the walls and painted the floors for a very reasonable price.

In fall as the school opened the whole student body of twenty-seven worked almost every day after school hours repairing and building all necessary things that were needed in kitchen, classroom, or living room. Old chairs were fixed, new desks were built, beds were repaired and tables were made. By Christmas the inside of the old hospital had an attractive appearance. The outside walls, of course, looked very rough. But it was our hope to paint them sometime and thereby improve the appearance.

The building contains two classrooms, 20 by 26, and a dining hall of the same size. There are six rooms for a girls' dormitory and three rooms for teacher quarters. In the basement we have a dining hall, a kitchen, pantry, wood room, and furnace room. The building seems to be built for a school and proves to be very good. We take it as a gift from God. The words of Paul as given in Romans 8:32 expresses our feelings, "He that spared not his own son, but delivered him up for us all, how shall he not also with him freely give us all things."

During 1939-40 we had two teachers, Rev. J. Rempel and Mr. J. C. Schmidt. During the winter of 1940-41 Rev. Isaac Epp joined our faculty. The student enrollment rose to twenty-nine.

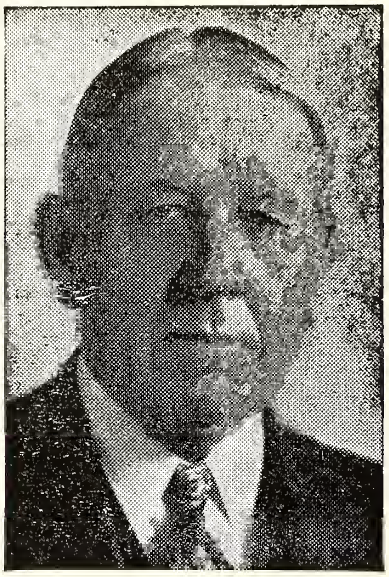
Every student that rooms and boards here in school or in the boys' dormitory is given certain work to do. The girls help in the kitchen and keep the building clean, while the boys do the janitor work. They also do all the repair work that does not necessitate an experienced carpenter, carry water for the kitchen and the milkcows, fill the coal-oil lamps, and take care of the furnace.

We serve our Lord through various practical activities. We visit the sick and sing for them. Some students together with the teachers give programs in various churches and schools. Every Sunday a Sunday School, seven miles from Rosthern, is served. In winter we go there by sleigh and in summer by car or bicycle. Daily Vacation Bible School is conducted for children in outlying districts. The two-week term is of great profit to both teacher and student. This work is of great importance, especially where there is no organized Sunday School or in the outskirts of large cities where people live in poverty.

It is really a pity how some of our Mennonites live. But praise the Lord! Matters are slowly beginning to improve. There is no unemployment in the Kingdom of God. Even if our Bible School had hundreds of students they could easily be employed in different kinds of spiritual work. Let us pray according to Christ's command as given in Matthew 9:38, "Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest that he will send forth laborers into his harvest."

Not long ago I read an article in The Mennonite in which Rev. Friesen of Loon Lake, Sask., mentions the visits of Dr. Henry Fast and missionaries Wiens and Thiessen. He relates how these men inspired not only the old people but also the young. I agree with Rev. Friesen that these men have done a lot on their tours through Canada. The seed that they have been sowing will certainly bear fruit. I am quite certain that if missionaries would visit us more often and would keep our missions more constantly before us, there would be in the near future not only missionaries from the U. S. A. in our foreign fields but also from Canada. According to the Mennonite papers Missionary P. A. Penner is coming home from India. He is well-known in Canada. A visit from him would be very much appreciated. We hope that he will not let us wait too long for his visit.

May God bless this article and help to fulfill Dr. Henry Fast's mission, namely, to bring our people of the U. S. A. and Canada closer together.



Dr. J. E. Hartzler

is coming to Wichita, June 15 to 22, 1941.

The meetings will be held in a large tent erected at the corner of Gilbert and Lorraine Streets, on the grounds of the Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church.

His subjects will be as follows:

Sunday morning, June 15—"Jesus and Religion"
Sunday evening, June 15—"Christianity and the World Today"
Monday evening, June 16—"Why Christianity Lives"
Tuesday evening, June 17—"The Supremacy of Christianity"
Wednesday evening, June 18—"I Believe in Christ"
Thursday evening, June 19—"I Believe in the Church"
Friday evening, June 20—"Christian Consecration"
Saturday evening, June 21—"Building Men for God"
Supper sponsored Men's Brotherhood, ladies invited.
Sunday morning, June 22—"Let There Be Light"
Sunday afternoon, June 22—Mission Program, speakers to be announced.
Sunday evening, June 22—"Let Us Be Christians"

We would like to invite all our friends to come and participate in these meetings. Especially do we invite the churches of the Western District Conference which have so graciously made it possible for us to work in the Lord's vineyard here in Wichita. Come and participate in the blessings that will be available during this week. —O. K. Galle, Corr.

TORCHBEARERS

Program for June 22, 1941

LEADERS WHO CARRIED THE TORCH

(Heb. 11:32-40)

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Thou True Vine, That Heals the Nations" No. 234, "We Give Thee but Thine Own" No. 213, "God's Trumpet Wakes the Slumbering World" No. 194. (Songs in Mennonite Hymnary).
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer.
3. Talk on "Torchbearers of Today."
4. Offering for Missions.

II. Leader's Introduction

Happy, enthusiastic, God-fearing men and women make an impression upon their friends and neighbors, upon wider circles, even nations, sometimes. God has always raised up men and women to be torchbearers for Him. His Spirit has guided and led them—their power and their influence came from God. They were loyal to Him, consecrated and devoted. God did not fail them because they stayed in close fellowship with Him. He could work in them, and therefore through them.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Joshua—Josh. 1:6-9
2. David—Ps. 34:1-8
3. Nehemiah—Neh. 2:17-20
4. Isaiah—Isa. 40:1-11
5. John the Baptist—Matt. 3:1-6
6. Barnabas—Acts 11:22-26

IV. For Discussion

1. What can we learn of these torchbearers?
2. Who are some of the torchbearers of later days? In what way were they torchbearers?

V. Facts for Study

In the centuries before the Reformation, some of the persons who were greatly used in the service of Christ were the following: Augustine, Patrick, Bernhard, Waldo, Francis of Assisi, Thomas a Kempis, John Huss, Catherine of Sienna, Savonarola. What names would you add to this list?

During the Reformation and the centuries following, others who became torchbearers in the cause of Christ were Luther, Calvin, Zwingli, Knox, Zinzendorf, Wesley, Cromwell, Fox, Edwards, Moody. What names would you add to this list of great Protestant leaders?

VI. Illustration

Are All S. S. Teachers Torchbearers?

"He was one of the finest men I ever knew. I have never forgotten some of the things he told us, nor lost the influence of his personal example."

The tribute was paid by a man in middle life, a citizen prominent and useful in his community, to a certain Sunday School teacher of his youth. Yet many could recall that this man, as a boy in the class, had been a problem for the teacher and the superintendent alike. In fact, he was a good deal of a terror. On many a Sunday noon, the teacher in question had gone home wondering whether he could do anything either for or with Jim Bartlet.

Yet the years proved that an impression had been made. A grown man was now serving valiantly in the burden and heat of the day, largely, on his own confession, because of remembered hours in the old church vestry.

VII. Food for Thought

Jim Bludso was an ordinary river man of that day, rough perhaps on the outside, and not conforming in every way to the best social standards. But when his boat burst into flame, he stood down in the engine room and held it against the bank until every passenger was safe on land. And doing so, his own body went out in smoke and flame—giving his life that others might live. The great Teacher once said, "Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for a friend."

DEMOCRACY AND OUR PROTESTANT CHURCHES

Program for June 22, 1941

For Daily Reference

June 16	The church a brotherhood	Acts 2:46, 47
June 17	Freedom in appointments	Acts 6:1-8
June 18	Difference in responsibility	1 Cor. 12:28-31
June 19	Church chooses its leaders	Acts 13:1-3
June 20	Freedom in Meetings	Acts 11:26
June 21	Each Christian a king	Rev. 1:6
June 22	Topic	Mark 1:16-20; 2:13-17

Opening Chorus: "I Will Make You Fishers of Men."
Vocal Solo: "Follow Me."
Scripture Reading: Mark 1:16-20; 2:13-17.
Prayer by Superintendent.
Hymn: "More Like the Master."

Discussion:- How is democracy practiced in our churches?

1. Every member has a voice in important decisions.
2. Authority does not rest in the hands of one person, but is shared by all members.
3. Opportunity is given for those qualified to assume positions of responsibility.
4. Youth is given the privilege of directing organizations of its own.
5. Opportunity is given for young and old to work together.
6. How can a more democratic spirit be developed in your church?

Hymn of Dedication (We, as young people are building the church of the future.)

Father, here a temple in Thy name we build;
Ever may Thy purpose in it be fulfilled.
Circled by Thy kindness and Thy smile above,
May it stand for worship, service, faith and love.

REFRAIN

Father, here a temple in Thy name we build:
Ever may Thy purpose in it be fulfilled.

Here may all who enter, feel Thy presence near,
Here the Holy Spirit bring a message clear.
Of Thy Son, beloved, child and youth be taught;
Measured by His standard, character be wrought.

May the sad find comfort, weary ones find rest,
Here the sick and lonely be with friendship blest;
Strength for those who falter, faith for all who doubt,
May Thy love, O Father, bind this place about.

—Eliz. E. Scantlebury, F. H. Revell Co.

Offering.
Period of Silent Prayer asking God to help us be even more democratic.

4. Scripture reading by a Junior boy—2 Timothy 2:1-5, 15.
5. Leader's opening prayer.
6. Boy's Chorus - "Onward Christian Soldiers."
7. Pastor's talk - "How Juniors Can be Good Soldiers of Jesus Christ."
8. Unison Song - "O Jesus, I Have Promised," vs. 1, 2, 4 (The Mennonite Hymnary, No. 212).

II. Study Period

Aim—To acquaint our Juniors with these personal letters from Paul's pen. To inspire them to more definite Christian living.

1. Introduction - The apostle Paul wrote many letters. We have studied several that he wrote to the churches, but in today's lesson we want to learn something about the letters that Paul wrote to his friends. There are two letters to Timothy, one to Titus, and one to Philemon. The first of these letters was probably written to Philemon. It is a very short letter. The last was the second letter to Timothy, written, it is thought, just a short time before Paul's martyrdom.

2. Paul's first letter to Timothy.

(A Junior boy may represent Timothy. If he carries a scroll and reads from that this will be more effective.)

Timothy: "A letter from Paul! How I need his advice and counsel. Ever since I met him in Lystra and heard him preach the gospel of Christ and believed that Jesus Christ was my Savior, Paul's messages have helped me. I used to listen very carefully to his sermons when I traveled with him and helped him to establish churches, and now that I am in charge of the church here at Ephesus I need his help and instruction. Let's see what he writes. (Opens scroll and reads Chapter 1:1-2.) He still calls me his son. Here he tells me to encourage the Christians to a life of prayer (read Chapter 2:1-6, 8.) He says, "These things command and teach." But I am so young! He knew that would bother me for he says in his letter (read Chapter 4:12-16.) I will be very faithful in reading the Scripture. How these next words encourage me (read Chapter 6:12-14, 20a). I am glad that Paul wrote this letter."

3. Unison Song - "I am praying for you" v. 2.

4. Titus - "How glad I am to get this letter from Paul, I have need of his inspiration and encouragement. (Opens the scroll and reads, Titus 1:1, 2, 4). Here he tells me again why he left me here in Crete (reads 1:5). And here he tells me what to teach (Chapter 2:1, 11-14). I am glad that he reminds me to remind these Cretans to be loyal citizens and good neighbors. This is what Paul writes. (read Chapter 3:1, 2, 8). And here he says to greet them that love us in the faith (v. 15). I'll share this letter with them and give them Paul's greetings."

5. Philemon: "What a wonderful friend Paul is. Although he is a prisoner in Rome, he is interested in us here in Colosse and says that he makes mention of me always in his prayers. (Philemon 4). How like Paul to remember the Christians that gather in my large house to worship the Lord Jesus, and he even took an interest in my run-away slave, Onesimus, and has sent him back to me. I am glad that Onesimus is now a Christian and so my brother in the Lord. I will read part of his letter to you. (Opens scroll and reads Philemon 1-5, 10-12a, 13-16, 22). I am glad that Paul is planning to come here."

6. Paul's second letter to Timothy.

Timothy: "This letter that Paul has written from his imprisonment in Rome makes me very sad for he tells me that he will soon die a martyr's death. (Chapter 4:6). The whole letter shows his love for me. How I long to go to him as he asks. (Chapter 4:9, 11, 13). Even now he remembers the faith that my grandmother and mother had (Chapter 1:5-6, 3:14-16). I will remember what he says here (Chapter 2:15). I am thankful for this letter from Paul."

7. Leader's talk.

III. Mission Minutes

Each Junior name a missionary and tell where that missionary labors.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Together sing the song of the month.
2. Repeat the verse of the month.
3. Pray the prayer of the month.
4. Repeat the benediction: Phil. 4:23.

HOMEWARD BOUND

Fifth Travelogue

The former report was issued when passing over the briny deep in the Straits of Malacca on the northwesterly way, 435 miles from Singapore to Penang along the western shore of the Malay Peninsula, and not far from the eastern shores of the island Sumatra. En route we beheld the two harbors Malacca and Fort Swettenham, ports of quite significant importance. The British possessions, the area previously given, on the peninsula have 3,500 miles of first-class roads through the magnificent jungle, sceneries leaving an indelible impression upon the traveller. The tropical stretch receives an abundance of rain, consequently the vegetation is profuse to the utmost. What rain and hot climes can do is amazing.

Our boat, President Adams, anchored at Penang on the afternoon of Dec. 5. This is an island of 102 square miles, only two and one-half miles from the mainland. Upon it lies a city by the same name with 160,000 population. The temperature is moderate from 80 to 90 degrees during the day, and 70 to 80 during the night nearly all the year around. Such an atmosphere cannot be classed among the invigorating ones. The name means Betel-nut. This is a hilly island with a peak 2,722 feet high. The first Englishman known to have visited Penang was Captain Sir James Lancaster in June, 1592. The actual settlement was founded by Captain Light of the East India Company in 1785, at which time it was also ceded by the Sultan of Kedah to Great Britain. The city on it is the second largest of importance in Malay. Through its beautiful harbor passes most of the tin from the largest tin mine in the world. The harbor lies surrounded by luxuriant vegetation tumbling right to the shoreline, and is constantly crowded with diverse congestion of marine craft. From our deck we could notice more than ten ships unloading and loading cargo. We took some 3,000 tons of tin, rubber, and fibre, nearly all booked for the U. S. of America. When we left Hongkong our vessel drew 21 feet of water, but now is drawing 31 feet, nearly all available space is completely loaded.

Attractive sceneries has this city to offer too numerous to enlarge upon, although some may be mentioned. The Ayar Itam Buddhist Temple, the largest of this kind south of Tibet, with huge figures of Buddha. For his protection—mind you a God needs protection—are four figures of the various directions. They are sinners of the gravest type, viz., one represents the greatest sinner 'Thief,' another 'Liar,' another 'Opium Smoker,' and 'Drunkard.' With each foot they stand upon the neck of a whining sinner without any hope of escape. We know of Jesus Who came to seek and to save that which was lost (Luke 19:10). Nearly a thousand steps must be ascended to gain access to the main figure. Beside him are the eighteen disciples who are claimed to have reached an age of more than eight hundred years. To erect this temple, and put into the forehead of Buddha the diamond, and overlay him and other figures with gold, represents millions of dollars. Has Christianity such a sacrificing spirit within? These temples are built amid gigantic boulders. Each race of Buddhists is said to have its temple here, five in all. While ascending the steps slowly, beholding numerous beggars with outstretched hands on each side of the walk, we notice many smaller temples. These are elaborately carved, decorated, and painted. Shining brass and red and blue signs abound; the countless Buddhas in different sizes are everywhere. From the very topmost, one can look down upon the ornate temple roofs, an excellent panorama of Penang and harbor. The first tier of steps brings us to the pool containing a huge number of holy tortoise. It is claimed that recently one of them died which was 150 years old, now one lives there which is 175 years old. No one has the birth certificate. When feeding, one tumbles over the other. Not far away the pool, with extravagantly colored fish, also sacred, is seen. Nine miles away is the snake temple, unique in its significance. The snakes are worshipped by the Chinese who constitute the majority of the city's population. These reptiles are allowed to over-run the entire premises; there isn't a plant, an ornament, a corner in the temple, a threshold, or a shady place that hasn't coiled snakes; one can hardly set his foot without stepping on such a beast. Most of them are greenish. They possibly are doped. The fragrant incense constantly is administered by the functioning priests. Among these obnoxious reptiles they perform everything devoutly. The blindness is simply amazing. How would the readers venture to walk in such a kingdom and not be perturbed frightfully?

Another instance not to be missed is a trip on the cable railway ascending 2,428 feet above sea-level. We spent a major part of a day in this lofty altitude overlooking the harbor, the ocean, the island, and a portion of the mainland. In the distance the outline of mountains, etc., of Sumatra loomed up where our forefathers from Europe opened their first mission field. The pioneer missionary, H. Dirks, visited America some 46 years ago, gave to us both in one sermon the beginning of a missionary mind, or really the continuation. This came vividly in our recollection. The heartaches at thinking what setbacks our people have suffered, and being unable to continue that noble work. However, that particular mission field has now numerous indigenous churches, and the work is self-supporting. The seeds scattered in days of yore bears rich fruit to be amazed at. "My Word shall not return void!"

The actual attractions amid such exuberant vegetation in the tropics, associated by uplifting recollections cannot be described with words. From here our steps wound to the botanical garden where the plant-life and flowerbeds and other vegetation must be marvelled at. The beauty cannot be surpassed in this world. The tropics are thus for the beauty's sake most famous. New Jerusalem we are told shall come down from heaven, that will be infinitely superior to all here depicted. Not all can see this world's attractions, but let's remember the access to that new earth is not withheld from anyone desiring to go there, entering into His fold.

Among the natural beauties and the depressing idolatry with the wickedness in wake, lies planted the Christian Church with many true worshippers who once devoutly worshipped the idolatry referred to above. Missions opened their activities years ago, opened schools where the youth obtained instructions to lead a more profitable life. On December 6, the school closed for the holidays and gave an excellent program. What a change, these girls recited and acted out the Christmas story, Luke 2:1-20. Not a sign of Santa Claus or other nonsense. The true, genuine Christmas story as laid down in the Bible, was presented before a house full of people. The impressions engraved must be lasting and shall not remain without effect of great importance. "Ye are the salt of the earth, and the light of the world!" God bless His people and His work in this great city filled with idolatry!

On Saturday, December 7, at 4 p. m., the moorings were loosened, off into the deep our heavy-laden liner steered northward. Not long afterwards we saw the northern shores of Sumatra. Searching thoughts permeated the innermost. Again we remembered the great work our forefathers wrought. How one longs to see the fruits with his own eyes! Our vessel heads north about 100 miles, then turns straight west between the Bay of Bengal and the Indian Ocean. Follow us with atlas in hand, after 1,340 miles we shall enter the harbor at Colombo, Ceylon. The Southern Cross stands just above the southern horizon at 4 a. m., and can be clearly seen if the clouds do not veil it. "In the Cross of Christ I glory!"

Yours, happy on the voyage, looking forward to the arrival on India's shores so real in vision from bygone days,

P. W. and Mathilde Penner

En Route to Colombo, Ceylon, Dec. 10, 1940.

—The twelfth annual Mennonite Song Festival was held at Lindley Hall, Newton, Kansas, Sunday afternoon and evening, June 1. The afternoon program was composed of numbers by choral groups from the various churches, while the evening's program opened with a massed band concert under the direction of Prof. D. H. Suderman. The massed choir concert, under the direction of Prof. Walter H. Hohmann, sang numbers from the new Mennonite Hymnary and the oratorio "Elijah."

IN MEMORIAM

Our beloved mother, MRS. HENRY J. WIEBE nee Susanna Schmidt, was born March 26, 1867, in South Russia. In 1874 she came to America with her parents, Jacob and Susanna Schmidt, and settled on a farm southwest of Lehigh, Kansas.

In 1884 she was baptized upon confession of her faith by Elder Jacob Buller, and was received into the Alexanderwohl Church. On April 8, 1888, she was united in marriage with Henry J. Wiebe. This union was blessed with five daughters and three sons, all of whom are living and were privileged to attend her funeral.

In 1908 the parents transferred their church membership to the Tabor church, due to a change in residence. In 1918 they left the farm and moved to Hillsboro where they became members of the First Mennonite Church which they attended for twenty-two years. While at Hillsboro they enjoyed the rare privilege of celebrating their golden wedding anniversary.

Since father's health was failing the parents moved to Newton on September 26, 1940, where they might establish residence near their children. Only four days later father passed away very suddenly. This loss was very keenly felt by mother and by the children. She lived as a widow only seven months, and during this time she was received as a member into the First Mennonite Church in Newton, on December 29, 1940.

Three weeks ago mother's health failed and her children cared for her in her home until April 13, when her condition required special care and she was taken to the Bethel Hospital. Even with the best of care and medical treatment she became weaker day by day. During her entire period of illness she never complained. Just before she went into a coma on Friday afternoon, she said these last assuring words and repeated them the second time, "Now I am going Home." She never regained consciousness and on April 27 at 5:30 p. m., she passed quietly to be with her Lord.

She leaves to mourn her eight children, Bertha, Mrs. J. A. Ewert; Sara, Mrs. D. D. Penner; Theresa, Mrs. H. H. Lehrman; Henry; Susie, Mrs. P. I. Schroeder; Jacob; Lydia, Mrs. J. D. Pankratz; and Herbert. Also five sons-in-law, three daughters-in-law, thirty-eight grandchildren, one great-grandchild, one brother, two sisters, and a host of other relatives and friends.

She attained the age of 74 years, one month, and one day. She has always been a patient and loving mother to us, and we feel her loss very keenly; we rejoice in the blessed hope that she is at rest with the Lord.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday, April 30, 1941. A short service was held at 1:30 p. m. at the family home with Rev. J. E. Entz in charge. A ladies' duet sang two songs. This was followed by brief services at the Moody Funeral Chapel at 2:00 p. m. with Rev. P. H. Richert in charge. Theodore Klassen sang, "My Home, Sweet Home." At the First Mennonite Church, Newton, the services were conducted at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. Entz and Rev. Richert both taking part. A male quartette from Hillsboro sang several songs.

Interment was made in the family lot in Greenwood Cemetery.

—The Children

HERMAN L. HOBERECHT was born July 24, 1904, in Newton, Kansas, and passed away May 11, 1941, at the age of 36 years, 9 months, and 27 days. He spent most of his youth in the neighborhood of Goessel, Kansas, where he also received a grade school education. He was baptized upon the confession of his faith, June 11, 1922, and received as member in the Goessel Mennonite Church. He was of a pious disposition and took life seriously, was punctual in church attendance striving to live in peace with his fellowmen and in fellowship with his God. He showed himself active in church affairs, willing to do what he could in Sunday School and Christian Endeavor Society.

He was married October 26, 1927, to Helen Warnke. To this union there were born five children, three sons and two daughters. He was a loving father and husband to his family. His concern was that his children might be brought up in a Christian way of living.

For the past two years he lived with his family on a farm east of Peabody. Being too far removed from their home church the family attended the services at the Methodist Church in Peabody. Here he soon made a number of friends participating in Sunday School work the best he could. To his friends and especially to his family his departure came too soon, but they have the comfort and assurance that he passed to his heavenly reward to be with his Savior Whom he confessed and in Whom he believed.

His sickness resulted from an infected tooth. He was in bed one week at home after which he was taken to the Axtell Christian Hospital, but the best care of physicians and nurses could not avail anything, so that he died after three weeks of severe illness.

He is survived by his wife, Helen, and five children: Verlin, age 12; Geraldine, age 10; Opal, age 8; Herman Jr., age 3; and Clinton, age 2. He leaves his mother, Mrs. Katie Hoberecht; four sisters, Mrs. Alvin Schmidt and Mrs. Louis Polsten of Newton, Mrs. W. R. Gates of Wichita, and Mrs. Forrest

Plummer of Cassoday; one brother, Delmar Hoberecht of Great Bend; and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held in the Methodist Church at Peabody, Kansas, where words of comfort were spoken by Rev. P. H. Richert, Rev. P. P. Buller, and Rev. D. R. Magee.

CORRESPONDENCE

GRACE MENN. CHURCH, DALLAS, OREGON

We can truly say with the Psalmist, "My cup runneth over," as we have received many blessings in the past week. The Pacific District Conference closed Sunday night leaving many hearts stirred to live a more earnest and zealous life for Christ. I will not outline the program, as it appeared in the last issue of The Mennonite. The business sessions were well handled by our able chairman, Rev. Homer Leisy. During all of these sessions we could feel the hand of God directing. The results of the election of officers: President, Rev. Homer Leisy, Dallas, Ore.; Vice-President, Rev. D. J. Unruh, Pratum, Ore.; Secretary, Rev. F. F. Janzen, Paso Robles, Calif.; Treasurer, J. C. Jantz, Odessa, Wash.; Field Secretary, Miss Emma Ruth, Reedley, Calif.; Educational Com., Rev. P. A. Kliewer, Albany, Ore.; Business Com., Rev. Philip A. Wedel, Aberdeen, Ida.; Evangelism Com., Rev. W. Harley King, Colfax, Wash.; Y. P. Com., Miss Louise Richert, Los Angeles, Calif.

Results of the Women's Missionary Meeting: President, Mrs. D. J. Unruh, Pratum, Ore.; Vice-President, Mrs. Homer Leisy, Dallas, Ore.; Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. Elmer Widmer, Albany, Ore.; Junior-Intermediate Sec., Mrs. Edmund Miller, Lind, Wash. Miss Etta R. Davis, returned missionary from China, was the main speaker in the evening for the missionary program. She spoke on the work that the Chinese Christian workers are doing, and how we should uphold them in prayer during these trying times when so many of the missionaries have to leave the field. The missionary offering amounted to $56.16.

All messages and addresses were full of rich blessings and pointed towards our Conference Motto, "Holding Forth the Word of Life," Phil. 2:16. The Conference closed with a program arranged by the Y. P. Committee, Song by the Dallas Y. P. Choir; Play, "The Challenge of the Cross," by Portland; Quartet number by Pratum boys; and closing address by Rev. E. J. Miller, Lind, Washington. The offering held Sunday for the Pacific District Conference amounted to $82.54. The gain of members in the Conference for the past year was 212.

The four Oregon churches are busy making plans and arrangements for a Young People's Retreat which will be held from August 29 to September 1, at Silver Creek Falls. The mornings will be devoted to Bible study; afternoons to recreation; and evenings to campfire services. The speakers and teachers will be the pastors of our churches. We are all looking forward to this as this is the first venture of this nature in Oregon. We pray that this may help to bring us closer to Christ.

We have just received word that one of our beloved members, Dietrich Toews, passed into the beyond. He was conscious until a few minutes before his death, and gave this testimony that he was ready and willing to meet his Lord and Savior.

Easter Sunday we had Home-Coming Sunday. We observed the Lord's Supper and received twenty new members into our church, eleven by letter and nine by baptism. —Helen Thiessen, Corr.

WEST ZION MENN. CH., MOUNDRIDGE, KS.

Dear Readers:

For almost fourteen years it has been our blessed privilege to have Rev. P. K. Regier serve our congregation as minister. Now the time has come to bid him and his family farewell. Our hearts are saddened as we sincerely regret his going, but at the same time our hearts are filled with gratitude because we feel we have been blessed by his ministry. It is our earnest wish that God may use him in another field of labor.

During these years Rev. Regier was permitted to baptize 125 young people, to officiate at 74 funerals, to marry 38 young couples, and to preach 942 sermons. We are certain that these fourteen years have been years of spiritual growth for West Zion and that God has blessed our pastor's service.

The Juniors of our church will miss Mrs. Regier. For a number of years she has served as superintendent of the Junior Endeavor. She greatly enjoyed this work and consequently entered into it with all her heart and soul. Only eternity will reveal the results of the seeds sown during these years. Today's children will be tomorrow's church so we greatly appreciate her work with our children.

On April 27, nine young people made their vows of consecration to the Lord Jesus Christ and were baptized by Rev. Regier and received into the membership of the church. On the following Sunday the congregation commemorated the Lord's Supper.

Last Sunday, May 19, Rev. Felix Schrag brought the message at the morning service. As a farewell courtesy for Rev. and Mrs. Regier and their two children, Gladys and Eugene, a fellowship dinner in the church basement was enjoyed by the congregation. Immediately following the dinner there was a short program in charge of D. W. Galle. J. W. Dirks spoke words of farewell and appreciation on behalf of the church board and the congregation. Rev. Regier graciously responded. A number was given by the Men's Chorus and a song by the Juniors, who presented a lovely picture to Mrs. Regier in appreciation of her efforts on their behalf.

The blessings of the day were climaxed by a musical program in the evening by the Ladies' Chorus of seventeen voices, directed by Mrs. W. J. Rupp and accompanied by Katherine Krehbiel. This service was sponsored by the Mission Committee of the Christian Endeavor. —Mrs. August Ewy, Corr.

MARRIED

Miss Martha Wiens, daughter of Missionary and Mrs. P. J. Wiens, of the Bethel College Mennonite Church, to Mr. Galen Koehn of the Pawnee Rock Mennonite Church, May 30. The groom is employed at the LeTourneau Plant, Peoria, Illinois.

Miss Lois Woodworth of the Halstead Mennonite Church, to Mr. Allison Schroeder of the First Mennonite Church, Newton, Thursday, May 22. Their home is in Newton where Mr. Schroeder is deputy city clerk.

Miss Ada Ruth of Halstead, Kansas, to Mr. Wilbur Unruh of Inman, Kansas, May 29.

Miss Martha Frey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Frey, of the Alexanderwohl Church, near Goessel, to Mr. Hugo Buller, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Buller, of Reedley, California, Wednesday, May 28.

—Rev. Erland Waltner, pastor of the Second Mennonite Church, Philadelphia, Pa., has been asked to fill the vacancy on the Board of Education of the General Conference, caused by the death of Bro. P. R. Schroeder, until the conference convenes in August.

—Rev. Paul E. Whitmer, for many years pastor of the Pandora congregation, has retired and moved to Bluffton, Ohio. His successor is Rev. Forrest Musser.

—Rev. and Mrs. H. T. Unruh of Bluffton, Ohio, were in Kansas last week for the commencement exercises at Bethel College, where their daughter, Mildred, was enrolled as a junior during the past year.

—A report from Washington indicates that the 48 states will again observe Thanksgiving Day on the traditional last Thursday of November, since the change to the second last Thursday has failed to accomplish its purpose, according to President Roosevelt. This year it will still be on the second last Thursday, however.

—Mrs. Robert M. Blackwood, formerly Miss Loretta Lehman, who served as missionary to India, spoke on mission work in India at the Mennonite Church at Berne, Indiana, Sunday evening, May 25.

—Prof. A. C. Schultz from Bluffton College has served the Ebenezer Church, near Bluffton, Ohio, since April 20. This is the congregation formerly served by Rev. P. A. Kliewer, now of Oregon.

THERE WILL BE A WORK CAMP IN WICHITA!

The Wichita Committee of Historical Peace Churches have crystallized their efforts of the past two years into a summer Work Camp.

This Work Camp is sponsored by the Church of the Brethren. They will furnish the personnel; we must furnish our quota of the campers.

There is a definite building program for the men; cooking, recreational work, and home building for the women.

Anyone can be a member of this Work Camp who is willing to learn to co-operate, able and anxious to work, and ready to learn the problems of life.

The Camp will open June 22 and end August 24.

The cost of these eight weeks will be $35.00 per camper.

Give these facts wide publicity in all Mennonite papers as we are anxious to get campers from other areas.

For further information write Rev. James Elrod, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, 1141 North St. Francis, Wichita, Kansas. —Harry Graber

—Mrs. P. R. Schroeder and daughters, Louise and Esther Ruth, from Mountain Lake, Minn., attended the commencement exercises at Bethel College last week. Louise taught at the Freeman Academy last year, while Esther Ruth taught a rural school near Parker, South Dakota.

—Ernst Harder of Philadelphia, Paraguay, South America, was the valedictorian of the graduating class at the Freeman Academy. When he came to the United States in 1939 he could not speak the English language, but now speaks it fluently.

THIRD YOUNG PEOPLE'S BIBLE CONFERENCE

The young people of the East Swamp Mennonite Church, Quakertown, Penn., are conducting their third Young People's Bible Conference, June 3 to 7, 1941. For their speaker they have engaged an internationally known Bible teacher, Dr. Donald Grey Barnhouse, pastor of the Tenth Presbyterian Church, Philadelphia, Penn. Dr. Barnhouse has served as pastor of a Reformed Church in France for several years. He has traveled around the world in the interest of missions. He is well known as a "Defender of the Faith," fearlessly holding forth God's Word.

The Reverend Douglas Davies, radio gospel baritone, will have charge of the music.

Your prayer interest will be appreciated.

DUTY OF PARENTS

(This editorial was written by Dr. J. R. Thierstein shortly before his death and is published as a message for Children's Day, which was June 8, and Father's Day, June 15.. It goes out as the last message and challenge of the departed to all Mennonite parents.)

In these times when the world seems to go all wrong, the slogans, "Back to God," and "Back to the Bible" are frequently heard. This is the remedy to save the people of the world from spiritual decay or bankruptcy, if it can be effectively applied. But by whom is this to be done? Can the Church manage to do the superhuman task? Can she do it though aided by the Sunday School, when there is so little if any help from the public schools? When the home, too, is not backing her up as it might be expected? No, the home which has largely lost its priority right or privilege for carrying on the spiritual training of the child, does not function the way God has intended that it should.

Parents are responsible for bringing the children into the world, and they must shoulder their God-appointed duty of looking well to their spiritual and bodily well-being. In matters pertaining largely to worldly affairs, they may entrust the instruction of their children to competent teachers; but when it comes to the duty of leading them to the knowledge of God and the true "Way of Life," they must take the responsibility. God placed much emphasis on the duty of parents pertaining to the spiritual bringing-up of their children in the Old Testament. "And these words, which I command thee this day, shall be upon thy heart, and thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thy house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down and when thou risest up." Deut. 6:6, 7. If that was so necessary in the time of the law when life was more simple and surroundings less tempting than they are today, how increasingly imperative is it in our day. Would that Mennonite mothers might take this duty seriously, pray with their babes, teach them to pray as they grow older and tell them the beautiful, life-giving stories of the Bible over and over again! Would that in every Mennonite home there might be an active family altar, with devotions so interesting and so permeated with the true Christian spirit that the children would naturally learn to love the Christ-way of life. And would that the parents were living such genuinely Christ-centered lives that the children could not help following in their footsteps!

Naturally, too, if such conditions could be brought about in the Mennonite homes, one would entertain the same wish for all other homes that claim the name of Christian. There is no truer educational maxim than the one in Prov. 22:6, "Train up a child in the way he should go; and when he is old he will not depart from it." If a person is to be trained for a truly Christian life that will have lasting qualities, this must be done during childhood and early youth. In this Christian parents have a sacred duty which they cannot and dare not shirk. —T

Our Church and Bible Distribution

In the Bible Society Record of May, 1941, we find an article entitled "Your Church and the American Bible Society", in which the contributions to the society for the spread of the Bible are tabulated. As we glance down the table we see the name "Mennonite." Looking across the column we find that the Mennonite contribution for 1940 per 1,000 church members was $9.08, per church it was $1.12, and the total was $436.00. How does this compare with what other churches did during the same year? Glancing down the column, it compares favorably with some churches and not so favorably with others. The following are a few of the churches listed together with the amounts contributed:

Receipts from the Churches	Contributions 1940 Per 1000 Members	Per Church	Total
Assemblies of God	$ 2.54	$ .13	$ 66
Baptist, Northern	2.44	.47	3540
Baptist, Southern	.20	.04	938
Brethren	13.35	2.20	374
Congregational & Christian	3.43	.56	3469
Evangelical	1.44	.15	319
Friends	.93	.10	66
Mennonite	9.08	1.12	436
Methodist	6.83	1.07	46,485
Moravian	10.24	2.00	297

Nazarene	4.96	.29	744

The American Bible Society is doing a wonderful work in spreading the Word of God, translating it into languages which hitherto have not had the written gospel, publishing these new translations, and distributing them. "Whose responsibility is it to distribute the Bible, and to continue to distribute it until every man shall have his Bible in his own tongue, and at a price he can afford to pay? This responsibility rests upon the Christian church members of the world. And in these days, when war threatens to overflow so many borders, this responsibility lies chiefly with American church members." What are we doing with this responsibility, this glorious opportunity?

There are still millions of people, thousands of churches, which have no Bibles. We have the Scriptures, do we use them regularly, faithfully? Do we do our utmost to get them into the hands of those millions who are still without them? —MB

THE WAR IN EUROPE

by Joseph Siskind

There are not a few people today who tell us that they cannot believe in Jesus because the churches support war. As Prince of Peace, they declare that Christ has failed and that His followers behave as if they knew it. When war breaks out, Christians on one side invariably fight against Christians on the other, and each side is supported against the other by prayers to the same God of Battles. Until there be an end to these hypocritical inconsistencies—so say these observers—we will not believe. I will state, therefore, as clearly as I can, what I have found to be the teaching of the Bible and of Jesus concerning war.

I begin by admitting, frankly and without reservation, that for every failure in loyalty to Jesus, His followers should hang their heads in shame. When people who profess and call themselves Christians receive or offer a bribe, whether in industry or in politics, when they take to themselves what is more than is due and offer to others what is less than is due, there is committed one of those sins against the Holy Ghost of which Jesus says there is no forgiveness, either in this world or the next. The grafter has thus to face the question—what shall it profit him if he does gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? Into the city of God, there shall in no wise enter anything that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie. And it is not a matter of small moment that the continent of Europe, to which the Gospel was first carried by the Jewish apostle Paul, accepted and then handed on to others, should be the continent where militarism has been most highly developed and most destructive in its results. How is this to be explained or condoned?

To begin with, we must be accurate in our statement of the facts. This Europe, where men "fight like beasts at Ephesus", was never Christian, except in name. Today it is not even an ecclesiastical Europe. And not one person in ten spends ten minutes a day on the Bible. It is not the Churches that enlist and equip the armies! it is the Stalins, Hitlers, and Mussolinis. From the Churches there comes a constant plea for brotherhood, but the followers of Christ, many of whom are entirely unfaithful in their witness, are dismissed as emotional idealists. If you say that war is wrong, then it is as much your duty as a Jew to stop it as it is the duty of a Christian. The Messiah-Jesus did not come to cancel the conscience of mankind but to rally it against evil; and to his own conscience, each man, whatever his belief, is responsible.

It was not religion that inspired Russia, Germany, France, and England to war. It was the pride of an intellectual and ideological caste which believed that their own science and their own wisdom had superseded the Word of God. They thought that they could offer the world an improvement on the Christian faith. What they did offer was an improved method of slaughter. In the mind of the average Jew, the war in Europe is simply a war in Christendom. But the more accurate student draws a distinction between the army of Hitler and the army of the Red Cross. The Kingdom of heaven, said Jesus, is like a net, cast into the sea, which gathers of every kind. And wise men, in their estimates, are careful to separate the good from the bad. —Reprinted from The Mediator.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

THE SOCIAL SCIENCES AND CHRISTIANITY

I. W. Bauman, Bluffton, Ohio

Older sciences such as chemistry, physics, and biology have by this time become well established and recognized. In contrast to these the social sciences such as economics and sociology are relatively new and in the process of development. Because of this "newness" and because they still lack a large body of well-tested facts to back up their conclusions, they have only recently become recognized as of real importance. There is also a fear prevalent that economists and sociologists are inclined towards radicalism such as communism and socialism. Informed persons know that there is no necessary relationship between a social scientist and a radical. The over-emphasis of the "social gospel", so-called, has often been exploited to foster this indifference and opposition. School boards are in consequence often willing to hire social science teachers who are the most poorly trained members of the faculty when they should certainly be among the best prepared.

Since social sciences study man in his relationships with his fellow men, that is, man as he associates with, lives with, and deals with his neighbors, it is hard to understand this indifference. Christianity, as Christ revealed it, deals first of all with our relations to God and second with our relations to man. "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets." Matt. 22:37ff. The same note runs through the Sermon on the Mount, the parables of the Good Samaritan, and the judgment scene where the Son of Man separates the faithful and the unfaithful as a shepherd separates the sheep and the goats, Matt. 25:31ff, and many similar Biblical statements. Service and duty to God are inseparable from service and duty to man.

Social scientists investigate facts and conditions existing among men as they associate in life situations. They interpret these facts constructively and make us conscious of our successes and failures in these relationships. They predict outcomes and formulate theories and plans of action based on these facts. This may be as far as many of the instructors in secular institutions can go. But teachers in Christian colleges have an added responsibility. They must not only study and know the facts but must also interpret them in the light of the Scriptures and the life and teachings of Christ. Social science teachers must point the way how men and women can apply to everyday-life situations the commandments quoted above. Preachers, too, have this responsibility.

It is generally recognized that our present world problems, as well as many in our own country, have their roots in radical antagonisms, in unequal distribution of natural resources and raw materials among nations, in the poor distribution of the fruits of man's labor, and such like. Needless to say, not all professing Christians either recognize or are willing to face these problems and do something about them. As long as these conditions prevail in Christian churches, as they admittedly do, the social sciences must continue to study social conditions and make Christians conscious of their obligations to God and also to their fellow men.

VICTORIES IN SPITE OF ADVERSITIES

Oraibi, Arizona

"For I Have Five Brethren." Luke 16:28

Dear Mission Friends:

We would like to share with you a choice blessing from God by way of His proof to us that His Word, proceeding from Him, shall not return unto Him void but shall accomplish that which He pleases. His pleasure is, not the death of the wicked, nor the wicked ways of man, but that all should be saved and come to the knowledge of Jesus Christ, His Son, in Whose blood we have forgiveness of our sins.

As the Hopi Snake Dance and ceremony is the important one of the summer dances, so the Bean Dance in February is the important one of the winter kiva dances. The other Sunday a Christian woman came with a saddened and distressed face to tell us that on the mesa that day they were baptizing children to the devil. Some children came to Sunday School with praying feathers in their hair, while others came with their hair cut eagle fashion. We rejoiced that in spite of the ceremonies going on the Lord moved them to come to His house that they might learn of Him. Then on Sunday, Feb. 16, after the beating of the Tom-Tom all night and the weird chanting in the minor key by the dancers and the people watching the scenes in congested kivas, we were wondering and our hearts were yearning over the weak Christian who might be sorely tempted by this constant sound, being awakened again and again through the long night.

Imagine the contrast for our Lord to prepare for His own a very choice blessing by way of a baptismal service for Puhumana, an old woman from the mesa. She confessed Jesus as her Savior last fall. It was interesting in the following months to notice a change come over her face and general attitude. There was no need of asking whether there was peace or rest. Such sweet evidences of God's mercy and grace are so encouraging and satisfying. Because she is a babe in Christ, we feared that she might not be able to discern the things of God, hence she had been admonished to refrain from witnessing the bean dance or to have any part in it. To strengthen her we felt led to go up the day before the dance to visit with her, to read the Word, and to pray with her, also to give her a chance to come down with us should she feel led to do so.

It was a blessed visit. She first of all told us that ever since she heard the very first missionary, Rev. H. R. Voth, preach, she had not had the desires for the heathen things. Her heart longings had been for the things preached by Rev. H. R. Voth. She told us she had sometimes been asked by Hopis why she did not enter into the ceremonies, etc., and whether she was not even thereby doing wrong. She then went on and told us more of her family history, how her mother was captured by the Spanish invaders, and how her father later followed them up and brought back his wife, who died soon after that. Realizing that his heathen idols and religion had failed him, he had then turned to Jesus Christ. His name was Wikwaya and he was the first Hopi Christian at Oraibi. The day that her father was baptized, she, his only daughter, had said to him, "I'll go with you. I'm not afraid. I'll see what they will do with you there." And she had witnessed his baptism.

Puhumana also last winter witnessed the salvation as well as the peaceful death of her own daughter, Juanita. She has another daughter and a son-in-law who are Christians, an unsaved daughter, and three sons.

But friends, Puhumana has yet five brothers "in the world", but unlike the rich man in hell, she is now a traveler to heaven. Though now not of the world, she is here to be a witness. Pray that God may give her His own yearning for their salvation and to fill her heart with the Holy Spirit's very own intercession for them, and power to witness to them of Jesus Christ. It was indeed a blessing Sunday to observe her in the service and especially to hear her sincere confession and notice her deep gratitude of heart that she was "counted worthy" to be "branded with water for Christ" and to be joined to the Christian group.

"Oh happy day that fixed my choice on Thee my Savior and my God" seemed to be God's message to me after we reached the mission; and we could not help but sing it while fixing our lunch and setting the table. And to think that that day for Puhumana was way back, forty or more years ago. One wonders, did Rev. Voth rejoice with us on this day? "Absent from the body but present with the Lord." II Cor. 5:8. "There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth." Luke 15: 10b.

Yours for the salvation of the Hopis,
John and Mabel Suderman

HOMEWARD BOUND

Sixth Travelogue

In continuation of this report it may be said that we have entered the Indian waters, touching the southern point of the Indian peninsula which is just about 2,000 miles from south to north, and about that many miles across, forming a cross by lines drawn accordingly. "The cross of Christ" is necessary for the multitudes. Naturally, beholding outlines of the coastline, innermost thrills with joy overflowing fill our heart.

This morning early our liner came away from Colombo. This city with its 350,000 inhabitants is situated on the southwest coast of the island Ceylon, measuring more than 25,000 square miles and has nearly 6,000,000 people crowded in that small area. The island lies in the Indian Ocean separated from the southern tip of India by narrow straits.

A tier of tiny islands is in between, which Indians claim are the remains of the Hanaman bridge which tumbled together many centuries ago because the people were misusing it. Hanaman is the Monkey Goddess. The island has many jungles, the surface is hilly. Adams peak looms up some 7,300 feet above sea level.

It is famous for the gigantic foot-print near the top which Mohammedan legends claim was made by Adam after his banishment from the Garden of Eden. He is supposed to have stood on one foot for 200 years before receiving pardon. The inhabitants are classed among the heterogeneous type as Tamils, Moors, Malays, Singalese. Of course, numerous Hindus reside there.

The vegetation resembles that described of Malay Peninsula, therefore on the mountain slopes the world-famous Ceylon tea is produced. Our boat took a heavy cargo of that for America. The lowlands produce rice. The farmers can raise several crops a year. Coconuts in great abundance, offering exceedingly nourishing food. Besides the above we cannot escape the nuts, cocoa, tobacco. The jungles abound with trees producing huge quantities of best rubber.

Large areas of cinnamon woods give much of their fragrance to vicinities, fill the storehouses with a rich yield. From the river and seashores are taken famous pearls; the mountains furnish jewels of divers kinds. Travelers provide themselves in the markets with such abundantly. The gardens throw off sweet fragrance of the many flowers and different kinds of shrubbery. . . . Some of the far-off jungles abound with wild elephants who come to the rivers for their daily baths.

The traffic competes with that of other countries. The small island has 951 miles of railroad and fully 18,000 miles of well-improved roads. The tourists in

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

JUNE 16—The Council at Jerusalem. Acts 15:1-11.

"We believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved, even as they," vs. 11.

Both Jewish and Gentile converts were agreed on the fundamental teaching regarding salvation; that it was through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ. But they were not agreed as to whether it was necessary to become a Jew and to keep the Law in order to become a Christian or not. This question caused much disturbance and controversy in the early Church, but through the guidance of the Spirit it could be settled.

Let us be careful not to let differences of opinion on minor questions become issues of major importance, but let us stress the fundamental doctrines which really matter and practice Christian tolerance when it comes to differences of opinion on matters of minor importance.

JUNE 17—The Decision of the Council. Acts 15:12-22.

"Then all the multitude kept silence and gave audience to Barnabas and Paul, declaring what miracles and wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles by them," vs. 12.

After discussing the problem, concerning which this special conference of church leaders had been called and before rendering a decision, "the multitude kept silence" and listened to Paul and Barnabas, who gave a report of the work God had done through them. After they had heard this account, they were ready to make the decision.

The church in our day, and individuals too, would not be so likely to make wrong decisions if they would follow the example of this conference and recount what God had done before deciding matters of importance. Keeping silence and listening to what God had wrought, brought forth unity on this decision.

JUNE 18—The Decrees of the Council. Acts 15:22-29.

"For it seemed good to the Holy Ghost, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things," vs. 28.

It is necessary for a child of God to refrain from certain things. Paul writes to the Thessalonians, "Abstain from all appearance of evil" (I Thess. 5:22). Not only is it required of Christians to refrain from doing those things which are definitely known to be evil, but also from those which may be considered questionable in the minds of some, in order not to wound a brother's weak conscience (I Cor. 8). Let us practice more Christian consideration for each other. May everything we do be for the glory of God and serve to edify the brethren.

JUNE 19—Righteousness by Faith. Gal. 2:11-21.

"But when I saw that they walked not uprightly according to the truth of the gospel, I said unto Peter before them all," vs. 14a.

The question which seemingly had been settled at the Jerusalem Conference had come up again and again. Now it had appeared in Galatia. In order to convince the Galatians of the futility of keeping the Law in the matter of salvation, and to give them the authority on which he based his stand, Paul recounted the decisions made on this issue at previous occasions.

Paul had such firm convictions regarding this matter that he dared to withstand Peter, that pillar in the early Church, a member of Christ's inner circle, an apostle whose word was respected since he had been with Jesus. Do we stand up for our convictions no matter where and before whom, even if it might mean humiliation and ridicule for us?

JUNE 20—Freedom from Bondage. Gal. 5:1-6.

"Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage," vs. 1.

The Apostle Paul is pleading with the Galatians not to go back to the bondage of the Law for "when the fulness of the time was come God sent forth his Son . . . to redeem them that were under the law," (Gal. 4:4, 5a).

Are we like the Galatians? We know Christ has brought salvation, that it is the free gift of God. But so often we live and act as if salvation depended upon our own works. Let us take hold of the free grace of God and live it out in our lives.

JUNE 21—Freedom in Christ. Romans 8:1-10.

"There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit," vs. 1.

There is no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk after the Spirit. Are you abiding in Christ or are you still walking after the flesh? "They that are in the flesh cannot please God," (Rom. 8:8). If you abide in Christ your life will reveal it for "he that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit," (John 15:5). Oh, that our lives might become ever more fruitful in and through Him!

JUNE 22—Complete in Christ. Colossians 3:8-17.

"Christ is all and in all," vs. 11b.

To a true Christian "Christ is all and in all." If we would unreservedly surrender our bodies, minds, and spirits to Him so that He could completely fill them, not so many of us would live defeated lives, but rather lives that have purpose. Something that is incomplete is not of much value. A life which is divided, which has an unsurrendered area in it, is a defeated life. Surrender all to Him, let Christ be all in all, and your life will be a happy, fruitful, blessed life.

PROGRESS IN WORLD MISSIONS

Acts 13:44-52; Gal. 3:26-29

Topic: Paul Turns To The Gentiles

Introduction

Our lesson and chapter 14 give an account of the first invasion of Christianity into distinctly pagan country. Paul and Barnabas sailed from Cyprus, landed on the southern coast of Asia Minor and after some time reached Antioch in Pisidia. Here there were many Jews and the two missionaries naturally came to the synagogue on the sabbath day. An opportunity was given to Paul and he grasped it eagerly. He preached a very appropriate gospel sermon in which he declared that Jesus, of the seed of David, was the promised Messiah, and that through faith in Him a man may be justified (vs. 16-41). He stated plainly that Jesus is the Son of God and that God raised Him from the dead, thus fulfilling the promise made to the fathers.

Many Jewish Converts, Much Opposition, vs. 42-47

Paul's sermon produced immediate fruit (vs. 42, 43). The Gentiles wished to hear more and many Jews and religious proselytes followed Paul and Barnabas. These they urged to continue steadfast in the grace of God. The synagogue was crowded with eager hearers on the second sabbath. They heard the Word of God. Opposition arose at once from the envious and jealous Jewish leaders. These new missionaries were becoming too popular with the people. They did not want the Gentiles to crowd the synagogue. They feared that the wall between God's people and the Gentiles would be broken down. They raised a disorderly scene in the synagogue (v. 45). They opposed Paul and Barnabas, contradicted their statements and compelled them to cease activity in the synagogue.

This did not stop the work of the missionaries, nor even intimidate them. It but made them the more courageous (v. 46). The message was first given to the Jews, God's chosen people. This was Jesus' plan. They rejected the gospel message. They made their choice after hearing Paul preach the gospel. A man settles his destiny by what he does with God's Word. Paul and Barnabas took a momentous step in turning to the Gentiles in their preaching. Its effect on the spreading of Christianity has been incalculable. The circle of the work was greatly enlarged and with blessed results.

Many Gentile Converts, Bitter Persecution, vs. 48-52

The believing Gentiles rejoiced that the gospel was for them and that they could be received freely and fully into the company of the believers (v. 48). Christianity offered to them both salvation and full fellowship in the Church. The Gentiles who had a heart concern about their eternal life believed the gospel message. This is practical evidence of being ordained to eternal life. They judged themselves to be worthy of it. The missionaries remained for some time, making Antioch the center of activity. The gospel message spread rapidly and widely. Every church ought to be a strong missionary influence within its community.

The progress of the gospel stirred up bitter persecution. Satan always fights the gospel's growth. The Jews persuaded influential Gentile proselytes that these men were teaching dangerous doctrines. They were driven out of the city, but the church was well established and the work went on. Great blessing came to the converts in Antioch. The history of Christian missions is inspiring proof of the power of the gospel to transform men. The work requires men and women consecrated and dedicated to God's missionary work. Paul stated clearly that all, Gentiles and Jews, are saved in the same way and that all have the same spiritual privileges.

What cure is there for envy in religious work? in the Church?

What evidence is there that people are still eager to hear the gospel message?

INVITATION

We again wish to extend a hearty invitation to all, who love to hear a strong, forceful Christian message, to come to Wichita, June 15 to 22 inclusive, to hear Dr. J. E. Hartzler. See program and subjects in last week's issue. All the churches of the Western District Conference have been sent special invitations to participate. On the last Sunday, June 22, Dr. Hartzler will speak in the morning and evening. For the afternoon a special mission program has been arranged presenting foreign missions, home missions, the student's missionary work, and our local missionary work. Special speakers will present each phase. The Pioneer Quartet will also sing. Noon and evening basket dinner on the grounds. Attempts are being made to have Dr. Hartzler speak on the morning devotional period, over radio station K F H, at 6:15 in the morning.

Our Need For Being Filled With His Spirit

By J. J. Regier, Pastor Burrton Mennonite Church,
Burrton, Kansas

In that we are standing on the brink of seeing another Easter Season fade into the antiquity of history, we cannot help but rejoice in the renewed message of reassurance that it brings to the Christian world of today: "That Jesus Christ lives and was victorious over death, even so, we are made more than conquerors through Him that loved us!" Though the world be shaken, and the future seems dark and most uncertain, the believers in the Faith seem called upon to take a stand and that in accordance with God's infallible Word. Does it not then behoove us as redeemed, blood-bought Children of God to search the Scriptures daily, regularly and diligently, through the microscopic eye of faith, in order that our prayer may ever be that of Solomon when he said: "Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart.... that I may discern between good and bad."

"There is a Chinese fable about a man who, in order to make his garden produce faster, went over and pulled his plants a little farther through the ground. He was greatly rejoicing in his foresight, only to find that his plants were dead. It takes time to be holy and we cannot do it on toadstool principles." We are called upon to be faithful stewards of His not only in a material way but also in the giving of borrowed time. It is only as we spend much time alone with God our Father, and in His Word, that we will come face to face with the vital, important subject that is before us, namely: "Our Need of Being Filled with the Spirit."

Before we can plainly see our need we must note the threefold mission ascribed unto the Holy Spirit:

First, He is to be a Revealer of all things. "But the Comforter... shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you." John 14:26.

Second, He is to be our Helper. "And I will pray the Father, and He shall give you another Comforter, that He may abide with you forever; even the Spirit of Truth.... For He dwelleth with you, and shall be in you."—Let us pause at this particular juncture for just a moment and see what is meant by the words: Another Comforter. In the light of its original, the word another is defined as meaning one of the same kind, so that when Christ returned unto His Father the disciples could not differentiate between them, as the Spirit was to be like unto Himself. Again, added light is given as we take time to analyze the figurative language in which the Spirit is spoken of in this same text: The word Comforter meaning called to be along-side, helper for every need.

Third, He is to be our Baptizer. "For by one Spirit we are all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free; and have all been made to drink into one Spirit." 1 Cor. 12:13. We then see that the Church of Jesus Christ through the in-working of the Holy Spirit is recognized as one body, but of many members, of which Christ Himself is the Head. 1 Cor. 12:12; Eph. 1:22, 23. Though there be but one Head and one Body, yet there is diversity of thought and opinion, of action among those who stand beneath the blood-tainted banner of the Cross. Why? Paul, gives us the answer when he says: "Wherefore be ye not unwise but understand what the will of the Lord is. And be not drunken with wine wherein is riot, but be filled with the Spirit!" Hence, our being filled is not wholly dependent upon our longing and asking; but it is the longing of the triune God to perform this very act in the life of every believer. It is then, and then only, that Jesus Christ can become the Sovereign over that body, for as we are filled, we die unto self and Jesus Christ Himself steps in and becomes the administrator over that which was rightfully His, yea, upon which He had claim, "dividing to every man severally as He will," bringing unity, harmony, and peace to the soul of man.

The next question relative to our subject: What advantages then does a Spirit-filled life contribute to our own personal Christian welfare? Well does L. L. Legters give an answer on the three foregoing points in the pamphlet entitled, "The Simplicity of the Spirit-Filled Life."

First: A new appreciation of the Person of the Lord Jesus Christ.

During the earthly sojourn of our Savior, it is apparent that His disciples walked and talked with Him, they had "handled" Him. They had expressed their love and confidence in Him, but when the Holy Spirit filled them, He took the things of the Lord Jesus Christ, and showed them to them. The words they had heard, they now understood. The things that they did, they now comprehended. The Person of the Lord Jesus Christ became marvelously real to them; and He became their indwelling Lord. They not only understood clearly what they remembered of His teaching, but they understood the meaning of what the prophets had spoken about Him. They now saw the significance of it all! They bowed and worshipped Him as God in a way they never had done before."

Second: A new appreciation of each other.

"They were welded into a new organism. The body of Christ was formed. They were no longer able to say this or that is my own, but they gladly shared all they had with those who were a part of the body. There was a new love of one for the other. The fruit of the Spirit (Gal. 5:22, 23) was seen in their lives; a new forbearance with the weakness of others, a new longsuffering with others' failures, a patience in conditions about them. Conditions became harder, opposition greater, but strengthened by the indwelling of the Spirit they were victorious in all of these. In their relationship to each other, they found they were necessary one to the other. The life of one began to fit into the life of the other. The corners and edges seemed to have worn off. Peter found he needed John, and John needed Peter. They began to understand they were members, one with the other, of this new body."

Third: A new appreciation of the Word of God and a burning heart to tell what you know about the risen Savior.

"It is possible to have the mind stored with Scripture, and not be filled with the Spirit. It is possible to be filled with the Spirit and not have the mind filled with the Word, but it is impossible to remain filled with the Spirit and neglect the Word of God."

The Spirit-filled life will find a peculiar fascination in the reading of God's Word. Paul says, "For not he that commendeth himself is approved, but whom the Lord commendeth." How are we approved before God? "Study to show thyself approved unto God," II Tim. 2:15a. As we study God's Word, we will come to realize more and more what the will of God is concerning a life that belongs to Him—that of necessity it cannot be likened unto a cistern, but rather unto a babbling fountain, whose source is infinite and has but one direction toward which it flows, namely, to the glory of God! Such must be the desired objective of every Spirit-filled life! Regardless, whether at home, in school, or in business, "for if Christ be lifted up, then shall He draw all men unto Himself."

Gleanings

Think not yourself above any task in God's providence assigned.

There is no such thing as being right with God while we are wrong with men.

Only the Church to which God means everything can make Him mean anything to mankind.

CORRESPONDENCE

GRACE MENN. CH., PANDORA, O., June 3, 1941

During the month of May we as a church were without a regular pastor, but last week, May 27, our new pastor, Rev. Forrest Musser, arrived with his family from Portland, Conn. They are now at home in the Grace Mennonite church parsonage, at Pandora.

Our former pastor, Rev. P. E. Whitmer, served the Mennonite church of Goshen, Indiana during May. During this time our congregation was well served by different ones from Bluffton College: Dr. I. W. Bauman, May 4; Pres. L. L. Ramseyer, May 11; Alvin Beachy, May 25; and by Dr. J. E. Hartzler from Hartford Seminary, Connecticut, May 18.

A reception with a picnic dinner, followed by a program was held for our new pastor and his family. We felt it incomplete without our former pastor and his wife, so they joined us and spent the day worshipping with us. Every one enjoyed the day of fellowship together.

On April 27, our church observed the consecration of little children. In the evening the church gathered for a reception for our new members and a farewell for Rev. and Mrs. Whitmer. On May 4 our Women's Mission Society had an open program in the evening, with Miss Edna Ramseyer as speaker. Our pastor's first sermon, June 1, was on "The Chief Corner Stone."

Speak to my heart through gardens, till I see
The shame of service rendered grudgingly,
Turn from the selfishness that could forget
A lifetime were too short to pay my debt,
Beholding how from bud to petal fall
Proud poppies flame with joy at giving all.
Out of the grace of gardens, make me wise
To learn as larkspur mirrors mistblue skies,
Here in my place, Thy holy ground, I, too,
May live a life that as a mirror true
Reflects the beauty of that Blessed One
Who in a garden prayed, "Thy will be done!"

Non-Combatant Service

By Karl Baehr

Basically the only service the Christian can recognize is the service to God. Non-combatant service falls short of such service. The word "non-combatant" is a misnomer, for the non-combatant is very closely related to the business of shooting. The army is anxious to get non-combatant draftees, because their work is vital to carrying on effectively the job of killing. Thus, the non-combatant is first of all serving the army—the military—and secondly God (if the army even thinks of it in that way).

It is obvious that human suffering must be relieved and that the milk of human kindness must feed those who are physically broken, mentally deranged, and spiritually ravished by war. However, that kindness can be given in a Christian way only under the unquestioned direction of God (through the church). It is for this reason that our relief program in Europe today is so important! It is a voluntary Christian sacrifice for humanity (not a compulsory service for one's own armed force alone as is the case in non-combatant service). This is also why our Civilian Service Camps are so extremely important. They are sacrificial attempts to render lasting and constructive service to our nation. And they should (and will) train men to become real missionaries of Christian love for relief and reconstruction work after the war is over! In these areas we Mennonites can serve the World! This is our genius—not non-combatant service!

A Peace Exhibit

An interesting feature of the coming General Conference session will be an informative "peace exhibit", to be prepared by the committee on publicity. Through the media of graphs, pictures, maps, and works of art the progress of Mennonites in their pursuit of the Christian ideal of peace will be portrayed. A graphic representation of accomplishments in the fields of relief, civilian service camps, work camps, peace teams, and related projects will serve to suggest the philosophy which underlies our Mennonite interpretation of the Gospel.

It is hoped that this exhibit will summarize to some extent the many partial reports and descriptions that have come to us rather frequently during the past nine months. The swift change of events has made it almost impossible to give an accurate and completely up-to-date report on matters pertaining to peace activities. By next August, however, an effort will be made to bring together all relevant facts and present a rather complete picture of these activities.

In these times there is a desperate need for a daring affirmation of Jesus' all-important command to "love thy neighbor as thyself." Perhaps a portrayal of our Mennonite testimony of peace in an exhibit as outlined here might help in some small way toward that end. —Wilbur Lauer

by C. H. A. van der Smissen

At the first meeting, the governor of Pennsylvania, a one-legged, former general, welcomed the delegates very cordially and said, "As long as you are in Harrisburg you can do what you please." The people looked astonished. Then he said, "I do not say that to everybody that comes to Harrisburg. We have police, good police, but people who have as their motto, (he turned around and read above the platform) "For Christ and the Church," for such there is no police; they can do what they want to for Christ and the Church.

At one of the meetings that was held in the large Presbyterian church of which Dr. Stewart, president of the convention, was pastor, a question was handed in that read, "How old can a person be and yet belong to the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor?" Dr. Stewart said, "I will give that question to Dr. Clark."

"Ninety years!"

"Thank you, Doctor. I was afraid that you would say 'eighty,' and my youngest member is eighty-one years old. He is not the youngest in years, but in heart."

At the close of the convention Dr. Clark said, "Let us sing, 'Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love,' and let us all join hands while we sing it!" So all joined hands and sang heartily and gave a hearty handshake. Many said that this was an unusual blessing.

"WHAT WORTH HAS THE 'SIMPLE LIFE' FOR YOUNG PEOPLE TODAY?"

To keep astride with the ways of our civilization brings much complexity to our existence. We tend to forget that the Christian life is a life in itself. It should be a simple life, but not necessarily an empty one. By permitting ourselves to be unduly concerned over food, raiment, and shelter we lose sight of the promise Jesus gave us that our Heavenly Father will care for us even more than for the birds and plants. Thus by carrying out our physical existence in a simple manner, we naturally will be able to devote more of our attention to matters of eternal importance. The wonderful result will be a poise to meet the situations of life and a simple faith in the Christ who never changes.

REPORT OF YEAR'S WORK

by Louise Richert,
Chr. of Pacific District Y. P. Committee

"It is a good thing to give thanks unto the Lord." Ps. 92: 1.

As the Y. P. Committee ends its term of service, it finds much for which to be grateful. We recognize the Lord's blessing upon our striving, and praise Him for all which may have been accomplished. We know, too, that our work has been laid upon many hearts in this conference, because of the fine cooperation and support which has been given us.

As has been mentioned previously, this has been the first year of active service of this District Y. P. Committee. At our meeting last year, therefore, we outlined a modest program of activity.

One of the primary purposes of this committee is to promote Y. P. work in each state. Thus an annual Retreat was encouraged. The Idaho group held their first retreat last year and are planning another this year. Oregon and Washington hope to enjoy the blessings of a Retreat this year.

To further serve our Y. P. each committee member assumed a particular responsibility.

Peace literature was sent out, Missionary letters were written, and a simple follow-up form was drawn up and sent to each minister.

For the year a modest budget was adopted. We are grateful it has been met.

The committee has also made an effort to help carry out the larger program of the General Conference Y. P. Committee. This common goal can bring about closer unity among the Mennonite youth of the nation because we love the same Christ and want to serve Him effectively.

PACIFIC DISTRICT Y. P. CONTRIBUTIONS

1. Y. P. Committee, Pacific District	$ 33.31
2. Migratory Work	21.67
3. Home Missions	21.50
4. Return of Missionaries	98.42
5. Ernst Harder	47.57
6. Friesen-Ratzlaff	27.60
7. General Conference Y. P. Work	9.00
	$ 259.07

A balance of $26.31 is on hand for the work of the Y. P. Committee. I am sure that you who have given so splendidly have been blessed, "for the Lord loveth a cheerful giver."

WE, AS TORCHBEARERS

Mt. 28:16-20; Heb. 12:1, 2.

Program for June 29, 1941

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "Go Labor On; Spend and Be Spent," No. 231; "I Need Thee Every Hour," No. 187; "Ye Servants of God," No. 6.
(Songs in Mennonite Hymnary)
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Mission Playlet (write Mrs. A. E. Kreider, North Newton, Kansas, for material).
4. Offering for Missions

II. Leader's Introduction

There is an organization of our Government which has as its motto the Latin words, "Semper Paratus," —"Always Ready." Do any of you know what that organization is? It is the coast guard on duty along the ocean and lake fronts of our land. They are always ready to risk their own lives to save others. Their apparatus is always ready. They are always ready to "throw out the life line."

So, we too as torchbearers should be concerned about the lives of others and be "on duty" to be of help to them.

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks

1. Instructions to a novice.	2 Tim. 2:19-26.
2. A torchbearer's code.	Rom. 12:14-21.
3. Similitude to salt and light.	Matt. 5:13-16.
4. The Great Commission.	Mark 16:15, 16.
5. First torchbearers detailed.	Luke 9:1-6.
6. Early torchbearers.	Acts 5:12-16.

IV. For Discussion

1. How are missionaries torchbearers?
2. How can we be torchbearers at home?
3. Is there any preparation we need to become effective torchbearers?

V. Facts for Study

Jesus has called us to be torchbearers. He has left us this job as His last will and testament. We are not to do it in our own strength, but He will abundantly provide power from on high. We are to labor, to spend ourselves, to minister to others, to lose our lives that we might find them.

No one who bears a torch tries to hide it, but bears it with the express purpose that it is to give light and guidance. A torch is carried high, it is being respected for the light that it gives. It is being consumed in its service. May we be true and faithful in our service as torchbearers.

Two Coats—A Puerto Rican Version

"What poor taste!" That, confesses Esther Turner Wellman, was the thought that came to her as she looked upon the man who stood before her in dark blue trousers and a stiffly starched white coat. If it had been a dark blue coat and white trousers the effect might be pleasing.

Just then the man took up the Sacred Book and began to read the lesson for the day: "He that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none." The man confessed that these words had troubled him. Then, as recorded by the missionary, he added: "I met one of my compatriots on the street this week shivering in the icy chills of hookworm and malaria. He had canvassed the beautiful homes of San Juan looking for an old coat." No one, however, gave the man food or clothing.

The speaker continued: "He did not come to our home. He knew our poverty. He asked nothing. But those words of Jesus—how they tortured me! So I took off the coat that belonged to these trousers and wrapped him snugly in it. I really needed the coat to my only suit, but I couldn't face you today and teach this lesson. These words of Jesus—how they have tortured me!"

VII. Food for Thought

"A poor man served by thee, shall make thee rich,
A sick man helped by thee, shall make thee strong;
Thou shalt be served thyself by every sense
Of service that thou renderest."

Talk: "God and Our Nation"

"Every nation has its own gods. Every nation needs the true God, because there are so many things happening which human beings cannot control, such as famines, depressions, and floods.

"When the Pilgrims founded our country they acknowledged the true God. Children learned to read from the Bible, and the church was the center of community life.

"Our money bears the motto, 'In God We Trust.' In dealing with others we have tried to recognize God.

"God has blessed our country richly. Our country is not only the richest financially, but in opportunities and comforts of life. Has our prosperity brought us any closer to God? There is danger that America will forget God. Pleasure and wealth take people's hearts away from God.

"We need patriotism today; not the kind that makes folks enlist in an army and thrill to bugles and the sound of marching feet, but in the army of righteousness. A man who fights for honesty and justice is doing as great a patriotic service as if he were to fight on a battlefield."

—Intermediate Expressional Ser.

Discussion:

1. "What is patriotism?"

"Devotion to the welfare of one's country." —Webster's International Dictionary

"Patriotism is not enough." Edith Cavell

2. "In what respect is a Christian's patriotism any different from that of any other citizen?"

A Christian recognizes a loyalty to God and so there are times when his loyalty to God and his loyalty to the state conflict. He must make his own decisions in the light of his own conscience.

3. In the light of the Scripture Reading what does Jesus tell us to do?

4. Write on the blackboard the suggestions given by members as to what Christian patriotism demands.

LETTERS THAT PAUL WROTE

Program for June 29, 1941

THE LETTER TO THE EPHESIANS

"For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God." Ephesians 2:8.

To the Junior Leaders. We have now spent a month getting acquainted with Paul's letters. It has not been possible to present them all. In order to help our Juniors to realize this, ask them to find out how many books of the New Testament begin with the word "Paul." For a quick review it might be well to name the epistles studied and to give one memory verse from each. It is my sincere prayer that this study may have made the Word of God more meaningful to our Juniors.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude - Melody of "The Church's One Foundation."
2. Call to worship - "Grace be to you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ. Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, Who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ." Eph. 1:2, 3.
3. Stand and sing in unison, "The Church's One Foundation," verse one.
4. Scripture reading - Paul's prayer for the Ephesians as found in Ephesians 3:14-21.
5. Silent prayer, followed by the Leader's prayer.
6. Solo with violin obligato - "Saved by Grace."
7. Unison Song - "Marvelous Grace."

II. Study Period

Aim—To present the letter to the Ephesians to our Juniors. To help them "walk as children of light."

1. Introduction by a Junior boy.

Ephesus was one of the greatest and most magnificent cities of history. Paul spent about two and one-half years here preaching and teaching. Some years after he left Ephesus, probably while he was a prisoner in Rome, he wrote this epistle (letter). In it he again reminds the Christians of the blessings which every believer has in Christ. Again he tells them of the way of salvation by God's grace, through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. He wants them to be worthy of being Christians and in this letter he tells them some of the things which God wishes Christians to do. We find the word walk seven times. It does not mean "talking a walk," it means a way of living.

The second chapter of Ephesians is one of the most wonderful portions of all of God's Word.

2. Juniors turn to Ephesians and read the phrases in which the word walk occurs. Ephesians 2:2; 2:10; 4:1; 4:17; 5:2; 5:8; 5:15.
3. Duet - "Trying to walk in the steps of the Savior." Juniors singing the chorus.
4. In unison read Ephesians 4:1.
5. Six Juniors each give a two-minute talk on "How Christians Should Live."
    - a.) Ephesians 4:32—"Be ye kind . . ."
    - b.) Ephesians 5:19—"Speaking to yourselves in psalms . . ."
    - c.) Ephesians 5:20—"Giving thanks always . . ."
    - d.) Ephesians 5:1—"Be followers of God . . ."
    - e.) Ephesians 6:10, 11—"Be strong in the Lord . . ."
    - f.) Ephesians 1:12—"We should be to the praise of His glory . . ."
6. Memory verses (choral speaking by three Juniors) Ephesians 2:8, 9, 10.
7. Song - "How Firm a Foundation," vs. 1, 2.

III. Mission Minutes

Talks: "How can we be missionaries at home during vacation time?"

1. Invite friends to our Sunday School.
2. Pray for our mission workers.
3. Plan a surprise for someone who is lonely, etc.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Together repeat from memory the verse for the month: "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, to the Jew first, and also to the Greek." Romans 1:16.
2. Pray the prayer for the month: "Open Thou my eyes, that I may behold wondrous things out of Thy law."
3. Sing the song for the month: "In the Cross of Christ I Glory."
4. Leader's closing prayer.

IN MEMORIAM

AGATHA NEUFELD, nee Franz, was born March 22, 1875, near Marion, S. D. and died May 15, 1941, reaching the age of 66 years, 1 month, and 23 days. At the age of nine she moved with her parents to Burrton, Kansas. February 11, 1893, she was married to P. S. Neufeld. October 21, 1894, she was baptized on her confession of faith and admitted as a member to the Hebron Church. She had a big heart for her fellow human beings; feeding the hungry and clothing the naked. Thus she adopted a boy and a girl who later were a great help and comfort to her during the months of illness. Last Christmas the children were at home. It was then that she said, "I believe that this will be the last Christmas I shall be with you." A few days later she became bedfast and steadily grew weaker and weaker, until relieved by death. During these months her greatest desire was to be at home with her Lord. Often she wondered how long she must wait until the Lord would call her home.

Funeral services were conducted from the Hebron Church, Buhler, Kansas, May 18, 1941. Officiating ministers were: Rev. J. P. Balzer, Rev. C. H. Voth, Rev. T. A. van der Smissen. The body was laid to rest in the Hebron cemetery.

PETER REGIER, son of Abraham and Elizabeth Regier, was born on May 12, 1863, in Rudnerweide, South Russia. Early Monday morning, May 5, 1941, the Heavenly Father saw fit to call him to his Heavenly Home, thus reaching an age of 77 years, 11 months, and 25 days.

In 1874 he emigrated from Russia to America with his mother, five brothers, and four sisters. They made their home in Harvey County, Kansas, not far from Moundridge.

On March 29, 1880, he was baptized upon the confession of his faith, in the Ebenezer Mennonite Brethren Church, Buhler, Kansas, of which he remained a member until the time of his departure.

On March 20, 1884, he was united in marriage with Anna Wall, with whom he was privileged to share life's joys and sorrows for 57 years. They celebrated their Golden Anniversary seven years ago. To this union two sons and three daughters were born, all of whom survive him.

His was a deeply religious nature and he attended the West Zion Mennonite Church regularly since 1919 when he and his wife moved from the farm to Moundridge. He held positions of trust and responsibility both in the church and in civil offices.

He leaves to mourn his sudden departure, his wife; two sons, Peter P. of Wichita, and Walter of Moundridge; three daughters, Mary Ann Voth and Elizabeth Unruh, both of Goessel, and Ann of Los Angeles; two brothers; one sister; eight grandchildren, and many other relatives and friends.

KATHERINE LOHRENTZ, daughter of Mrs. Peter Lohrentz, was born January 25, 1894, in Harvey County, Kansas, and departed this life on May 12, 1941, thus ending the age of 47 years, 3 months, and 17 days.

After completing her primary education she attended the Hoffnungsau Preparatory School. Later she attended Bethel College, graduating from the academy with the class of 1917.

On her confession of faith she was baptized by Rev. Abr. Martens, October 8, 1916, and admitted as a member to the Hebron Church. She loved to go to church and attended the services whenever possible. From time to time she also served as Sunday School teacher.

Later in her life she took a nurses training course at the Halstead Hospital. For over a period of ten years she practiced nursing, the last five years taking care of her ailing mother.

Her friendliness and her hospitable nature endeared her to all who knew her. Home life was always dear to her and through her cheerful disposition she brought sunshine into the home. Since the mother was ailing, Katherine became very dear to her and many a time she consoled her and was a great help to her. She always went about her work singing. Her one concern, when she left home, was that her ailing mother and sister should be well taken care of.

She enjoyed fairly good health until February, 1940, when she took sick almost suddenly. Since that time she was taken care of by loving hands at different hospitals.

During this time, the way at times seemed very dark but in the last days of her suffering she was very patient and submissive. The visits of her dear ones, especially the small children, brought her great joy. Her last words assured us of the great hope, that she also trusted in God, Who does everything well and we look for a happy reunion.

She leaves to mourn her untimely departure; her mother; three sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Regier, Anna R., and Mary R.; three brothers; Jacob R., Peter R., and John A.; one sister-in-law, Mrs. Emma Lohrentz; one brother-in-law, Mr. Jacob A. Regier; two nieces and three nephews, all of Moundridge, Kansas; and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. T. A. van der Smissen of the Hebron church. Rev. H. W. Lohrentz of Hillsboro, Kansas, assisted. The body was laid to rest in the Hebron cemetery.

Our dear father, HEINRICH THIESEN, son of Jacob and Katharine Block Thiesen, was born in South Russia on January 13, 1863. In 1874 he came with his parents to America, settling in Marion County, Kansas. On October 8, 1882, he was baptized by Elder Jacob Buller and received into the Alexanderwohl church. When the Tabor church was founded, he joined the same. On December 14, 1886, he was married to Anna Goertz, with whom he shared life for 53 years, 7 months, and 10 days. Four children were born to them, three sons and one daughter. Two sons died in childhood.

His strength decreased greatly since last fall and he often spoke of taking leave. On Easter day he said to us he would likely not eat with us at another Easter. Shortly before Easter he wished to partake of the Lord's Supper, which was thereupon given to him at his house. Since he needed more care we brought him to the Bethesda Home for the Aged on April 25. During the last three days he was seriously ill. He died on May 24, at 7:30 p. m. Mother preceded him ten months earlier. He reached the age of 78 years, 4 months, and 11 days. He leaves one son, David H. Thiesen, and one daughter, Agnes, at the home, and three grandsons. He is survived by one brother, Jacob B. Thiesen, and one brother-in-law, Frank H. Goertz, and three sisters-in-law.

Funeral services were held on May 28, at 2:30 p. m., at the Tabor Church, with Rev. P. H. Richert officiating. The Guhr quartet sang at the church. Interment was at the church cemetery under the direction of G. H. Bergen of Bergen's Mortuary of Goessel, Kansas.

HOMEWARD BOUND!

peacetime came in huge numbers, carried with them away impressions to entertain their home folk. Furthermore the roads are crowded with throngs of bullock-carts which are generally covered with a hood made of cocoa-nut leaf, the wheels all six feet high.

Not forgotten from previous years, again the crows appeared everywhere, stalking across the roads, sitting calmly on the backs of bullocks, or flying in black clouds against the vivid blue sky. They are generally tame, act as if the country belongs to them. There are likewise seen among the populace turbaned natives in short sarongs; women in brilliant, garish saris, laden with jewelry, one brown arm and shoulder bare; bright yellow-robed Buddhist priests, their heads shaved, carrying a palm-leaf fan; Singalese men, their hair wound up in knots, topping with an arch-comb, the ends sticking out like pointed horns. Hardly anywhere is there a shoe, sandal or slipper heard, mostly the soft shush of the bare-footed people. Folks, crows, even "flying-bats" live apparently in good harmony resembling the description of the Millennium.

The island used to belong to the Portuguese, then later to the Dutch, in 1802 it became a colony of Great Britain. The improvements on this section of the earth show great diligence.

A large Buddhist temple was visited. The guide related Buddha's life-story in detail: how he came into the world, grew to become a priest, gradually gendered into a god, gathering disciples, increasing in fame amazingly. Never aforetime has anybody brought out that story so intelligently, in many ways coinciding with the record about Jesus Christ.

Where can the source of it all be found? May we not correctly surmise that the Bible gave them the details. Of course, they claim that long before the Christian era began all that about Buddha had become history. At each full moon the servants must repolish all the figures carefully. Just then they were at it busily.

While taking our atlases in hand, let us travel together the last portion of our voyage in northwesterly direction along the west coast of India from Colombo to Bombay another 1,046 miles into the Persian Gulf. Colombo was named by the Portuguese after Christopher Columbus. We are due to arrive in Bombay on Dec. 16, almost a month later than the original schedule read.

On this boat are 29 missionaries who shall disembark at Bombay and work in India. Circumstances prevented some who had booked passage from coming. There are three middle-aged men—two going to India, one to Iran (Persia)—who had to leave their families behind. The evacuation from these eastern lands continues, our President Adams has a full load to go with her to America, people who have been advised to leave for the homeland. What are these indications? The future must tell that story.

Yours filled with happiness as ever,

P. W. and Mathilda Penner

En route from Colombo to Bombay, Dec. 13, 1940.

MARRIED

Geraldine von Gunten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon von Gunten of Berne, Indiana, and Lloyd H. Clair, of Moline, Ill., May 31, at the First Mennonite Church, Berne, Indiana. Their address will be: 2370 28th Street, Moline, Ill.

Henry H. Plett and Mabel Bartel on June 4 by Rev. J. M. Regier, pastor of the Johannestal Menn. Church, Hillsboro. Their address will be: 1533 South Washington, Wichita, Kansas.

Agnes Wedel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Helmut J. Wedel, of McPherson, Kansas, and John W. Goering, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Goering, Elyria, Kansas, both members of the Eden Menn. Church, Moundridge, June 2. Their home will be in McPherson.

MARRIED 50 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Sprunger of near Berne, Indiana, were married June 4, 1891. They observed their fiftieth wedding anniversary Sunday, June 8. Congratulations!

—Johannestal Church near Hillsboro, Kansas, June 3. After the regular services on Mother's Day, consecration of children services were observed. In the evening the mission society gave a Mother's Day program. In the absence of our pastor on Ascension Day, Dr. H. W. Lohrentz of Tabor College preached. On May 29 the five-week Bible School closed with an interesting program in the church. Pentecost was a special day of blessing for us. Upon their personal confession of faith in Jesus Christ as their Savior, six young people were baptized and received into the church. Since two of our young men have to leave for camp this week, communion was also observed on that day. —Correspondent

—Rev. Willard K. Claassen, who has served the Napier-Roaring Spring charge in Pennsylvania for several years, has accepted a call to the Salem Church, Freeman, South Dakota, according to a recent report. While pastor of the Napier-Roaring Spring charge he travelled approximately 560 miles each month.

—Bethel Church, Mountain Lake, Minn. is receiving bids on the construction of their new church building. It is to be a building of brick and stone, 116 feet long and 50 feet wide, located at the present church site. It will seat nearly 1000 and will provide ample room for the Sunday School classes in the basement. May the Lord bless them in their new building project.

BLUFFTON COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT

The Commencement Exercises of Bluffton College will be held Tuesday morning, June 10, at 10:00 a. m. in the First Mennonite Church. Forty-two seniors will be graduated. Dr. Arthur E. Holt of Chicago, Ill., will deliver the address of the morning. Baccalaureate services were scheduled for Sunday, June 8, at 3:00 p. m. in the college chapel, and a vesper choir concert for 7:30 p. m.

—The Bluffton College Gospel team ended the year's deputation program with a visit to the Mennonite church in Dalton, Ohio, where Rev. A. S. Rosenberger is pastor.

—The Bulletin of the First Mennonite Church, Philadelphia, Pa., Rev. J. J. Plenert, pastor, reports that the ladies of the church have been faithfully working for the Red Cross, and have made 20 woolen skirts, 50 boys' overalls, 10 heavy woolen dressees, 20 baby layettes, caps and gowns feather-stitched, 28 knitted sweaters, and 16 scarfs. They are now sewing for the young men working in the Civilian Public Service Camps. (It is an encouragement to hear what our churches are doing. May we hear from more of them?)

—The Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church, Wichita, Kansas, is planning special meetings from June 15 to 22, with Dr. J. E. Hartzler as the special speaker. Those within driving distance will want to avail themselves of the opportunity for receiving spiritual refreshment from these meetings. The meetings will be held in a large tent erected on the church grounds.

—The sixth annual Kansas Institute of International Relations will convene at Friends University, Wichita, Kansas, June 10-19, 1941. Nine famous authorities on world affairs compose the faculty this year. The program schedule includes three lecture periods each morning and an address each evening. The afternoon program will be of an informal nature. For information address Tom Hunt, Kansas Institute of International Relations, Friends University, Wichita, Kansas.

—By request the following item is inserted: Mennonite minister desires pastorate for July and August, and permanently if services are satisfactory. For information address: Rev. Benno Toews, 318 Thirtieth Street, Saskatoon, Sask., Canada.

YOUR PLACE

Where duty calls in life's conflict,
There is your place!
Where you may think you are useless,
Hide not your face.
God placed you here for a purpose
Whate'er it be,
Know He has chosen you for it.—
Work loyally.
Gird on your armor! Be faithful
At toil, or rest,
Whiche'er it be. never doubting,
God's way is best,
Whether waiting or working,
Stand firm and true;
Do your work well that your Master
Gives you to do.

As Thy Days - So Thy Strength

"As thy days, so shall thy strength be. The eternal God is thy refuge, and underneath are the everlasting arms," Deut. 33:25b, 27a.

We are living in a day of much confusion and uncertainty. There are wars and rumors of wars on every hand; there are earthquakes, tornadoes, and floods. We never know what a day may bring forth. But amid this uncertainty how comforting it is to hear the promise, "As thy days, so shall thy strength be." We can enter each new day trusting this promise which God has given, and lie down every night knowing that "the eternal God is our refuge and underneath are the everlasting arms." With this assurance we need not be carried away by war hysteria or worry about the every-day affairs of our lives, but know that no matter what may come we shall receive sufficient strength for each day.

How varied are the ways in which God leads His people. Some are led through sickness and sorrow, others are permitted to enjoy health and joy. Each year bears with it its own tale of storm and calm, grief and pain, pleasant and disagreeable experiences. How tender, therefore, it is of God to veil from our eyes what the future holds for us, and instead give us this assurance, "As thy days so shall thy strength be", and this promise "God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that you are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it," I Cor. 10:13b.

Resting upon these precious promises of God, no matter what the day may bring forth, we are enabled to live each day in perfect serenity and calm with a poise which only a Christian can possess. —MB

Bear Ye One Another's Burdens

A Challenge from Our President

Mennonites have always stood for religious liberty. Deep religious convictions have caused them again and again, for conscience's sake, to suffer persecution and even martyrdom and to be made homeless refugees stripped of all earthly belongings in order to remain true to those convictions; and, if pressed to the utmost, to say with the apostles, "We must obey God rather than man."

The freedom of conscience vouchsafed in America brought many Mennonites and others to this country and has made it both an earthly haven and a home dear to their hearts. And now in a disturbed world our Government, faced with great dangers and making great efforts to ward these off, still is concerned not to violate the religious convictions of its citizens. It has therefore written into its recent compulsory service act provisions guarding such convictions and providing for a substitute civilian service for actual religious objectors.

For this recognition of religious convictions we have great reason to be deeply grateful to God and to those in authority. And we should pray that in all things both we and the Government might have and respond to Divine guidance. This gratitude, however, to ring true, must also find definite, visible and tangible expression. We must be good citizens. More than that, we must be willing to share and bear burdens with other citizens. Our young men who are in the draft and who themselves have the religious conviction that they can take no part in war, must be willing for one year to sacrifice for that conviction equally with other draftees by rendering some other important service to our Government with little or no pay, and thereby to give concrete evidence of their sincerity of faith.

But this is only their part of the burden—their opportunity to witness for their Master and their faith. We, their elders, too, must be ready to give testimony of the faith that is in us and that we have taught them to embrace. And this letter is a direct appeal to the parents and all those of us who are not in the draft, to do our part, to do it willingly, and to do it at once. We dare not fail in our part. Shame on us, if we should wish to be satisfied to rest on the laurels of past martyrs. Unless we rise now to this occasion and are ready to match their faith and are willing to pay the price, there is neither glory nor merit for us in the testimony they once gave of their faith.

Ours is a three-fold obligation: (1) We should not only sing "Faith of our fathers," we must live it. (2) More than that, we should not only teach our sons love and non-violence instead of hate and violence, but we must uphold them in the practice of this faith. (3) And above all we should do this because we believed that Christ our Savior deliberately taught and lived a life motivated always and only by love.

Six years ago, on behalf of the Executive Committee, I with others called upon you to liquidate all the debts of the General Conference boards, so that we might celebrate our Conference Golden Jubilee free from debt. You responded so nobly that all debts were wiped out and we have a substantial Permanent Jubilee Fund left of which the interest may be used, and of which $500.00 was recently given to our Peace Committee.

We now face a far more searching test of our faith and loyalty to Christ and His Church. The present emergency is a direct challenge to our loyalty to our God and our faith; and also to our love for our boys. —Fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers, I call upon every one of you in the name of God and the Lord Jesus Christ who gave His life for us: Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ.

Our Peace Committee needs possibly $15,000. How much of this burden will you share? As you love your country, as you cherish religious liberty, as you love your church, as you love your sons and brothers, as you love your Lord who gave His all, express that love and devotion now in a contribution commensurate to your ability and to your love; and God bless you richly for all you gladly give and can accompany with your prayers.

I repeat: Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ. Do it now, and may the Lord richly reward you!

C. E. Krehbiel, Conference president

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT FOR ALL CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS CLASSIFIED IN CLASS I-B

A change in policy by the Selective Service Administration necessitates the following urgent announcement. All sincere conscientious objectors who have been classified in class I-B because of partial physical disability are instructed to apply at once to their local boards for reclassification in Class IV-E. Class I-B is about to be dissolved, and unless our C. O.'s are placed in Class IV-E they will lose their conscientious position. However, I-B men who are now transferred into IV-E will still be deferred on physical grounds as before, and will not be called to civilian service camps until regular I-B army men are called to army camps, which will likely not be for a long time. There will in effect henceforth be two classes in IV-E, namely IV-E-A, ready for civilian service, and IV-E-B, deferred on physical grounds. All pastors should see to it that their members who have been placed in I-B at once apply for and secure IV-E classification.

H. S. Bender

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Lord willing, the ordination of the newly elected evangelist, H. B. Schmidt, will take place Sunday morning, June 29. He has been a deacon in the church for several years and will continue in this capacity. According to the custom of our church this ordination will entitle the Brother to preach the Word when invited to do so, like a licensed preacher in our country. We invite your intercessory prayers.

REPORT FIRST QUARTER
1941
ALBERTA COMMUNITY CHURCH

Portland, Oregon
April 8, 1941

Dear Friends of Home Mission Work:

We have much to be grateful for in our work here in Portland. The Lord has blessed our feeble efforts during the past three months. We feel that we have progressed in our attempt to reach Christless homes. A number of young people made their decision for Christ. The following are some of the incidents as they occured during that period.

January 12. We had baptismal service. Three girls were baptized and received into the fellowship of the church. All of these girls came from non-Christian homes. We covet your prayers for them.

February 9. The Junior Girls' class rendered a varied gospel program. These girls meet bi-monthly to practice and make cut-outs for feltograms. During this program they presented a board and cut-outs for the study of the Gospel of John to the pastor. They plan to continue this work and send cut-outs to Indian missionaries. Mrs. Regier is their teacher.

February 15. The Dorcas Hi girls sponsored a varied program of gospel numbers. They had secured Mr. Harvey Leisy to show some of his wonderful pictures. These girls meet every Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Anderson, their instructor.

February 23. The Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bontrager was held in the church basement. This elderly couple, since their baptism last fall, have won the hearts of all in our congregation. They truly have proved their sincerity in their decision for their Savior.

March 2. "The Evangelers" our male quartet, gave a full evening's program. They sing very well together and are becoming a popular feature in our district. These men gave a very positive and effective witness of their faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

March 13. Women's Missionary program and sale. The proceeds of this sale has been sent to Foreign Missions. The total amount sent was $26.15.

March 30 to April 6. Evangelistic Meetings held by Rev. Homer Leisy. Our people worked hard for these services. We had special numbers for every evening. Our whole district was canvassed by the members, all taking part. We distributed 800 folders in the various homes. Many of the homes at which we felt there was an interest we contacted twice. We were well rewarded for our efforts, for we had a full house nearly every evening and a number of decisions were made. It truly was a time of feasting, for Rev. Leisy brought us inspiring and helpful messages. We also made a number of visitations to homes of former Mennonite families. It is hard to reach them.

Yours, Arnold J. Regier

(Indeed an inspiring Report. A. J. N.)

LANDED SAFELY

On Saturday, June 7, the report came that missionaries Rev. P. A. and Mrs. Martha Penner had arrived safely in Los Angeles from India. Another reason for gratitude in these days of dangerous travel. In a week or so they will probably be at home in Newton with their children, Dr. H. R. and Mrs. Mariam Schmidt.

FROM ONE HOME TO THE OTHER

By John Thiessen

Since our last writing we have been on the picturesque Hawaii Islands, and in the beautiful city of Honolulu; which is the chief city on the Hawaii Islands. In that city our ship, the S S Pres. Harrison, stopped for twelve hours, and we could again put our feet on "terra firma." One hardly knows what to do at first, after days of bracing up when you walk, and swaying along, all of a sudden you stand again firmly on your feet. It feels a little as one does when one gets back on his feet again after having been sick in bed for some days. But after those twelve hours of firmness under our feet we had to go on again on the briny deep, heading for the Philippine Islands, and especially the city of Manila. At this writing we are nearly there. We can see already a few of the smaller of the total of some seven thousand islands belonging to the Philippines. We have now traveled seven thousand miles on this ocean, and have set our clocks back eight and a half hours since San Francisco. We have also experienced the interesting fact that sometimes April can have only twenty-nine days. At midnight of the first of April our trusted Harrison passed the so-called international date line, and when we woke up the next morning we were told that it was the third of April, and not the second. We almost felt like Rip Van Winkle must have felt once upon a time. It seemed so strange actually to have missed a whole day in life. There were only five days, and then it was Sunday again. We began to feel that we were actually in another world. People who travel this same route just in the other direction have thirty-one days in April; and those who perchance had a birthday on the second of April would have had two birthdays in one year. On our ship, anyone whose birthday happened to be on the second would have had none this year. The boys and girls on the ship had an interesting time figuring this out. Maybe some boys and girls who read this report might find interest in figuring this out also.

Let us go back once more to Honolulu, that attractive city in the middle of the Pacific Ocean. The climate on the Hawaii Islands is pleasant. They say the temperature seldom goes up to eighty-five F., and they never have frost. They told us that many wealthy old people come to these islands in order to live the last year or two in a pleasant climate. But after they are there they become young again and go into business, and live for many years. In some such way, they tell us travelers, the greatest industry of those islands was once started. A few generations ago Christian people on the east coast of the United States heard from traders that there were some native people on the Hawaii Islands in the Pacific Ocean, and those people did not have the gospel. So some missionaries were sent out to bring them the good news of Christ. People accepted Christ. The first missionaries grew older in years. They saw that the Christians were poorer than they needed to be. So some missionaries thought that perhaps those new Christians could earn something by selling garden products to travelers who came through. Several things were tried on that soil, and among these products pineapple was tried. That was a marked success. And today we find one of the largest and finest pineapple packing houses and canneries in the world on these islands. We visited the Dole Cannery. Such machinery, speed, sanitation, and volume of work done just makes an ordinary person dizzy. Four million cans of pineapples are canned in one day. The precision of both people and machines is so automatic that one sometimes hardly notices which is a machine and which is a human being. I heard a peculiar snare, like a snare drum. I thought it was just another machine. I looked and behold it was a man who tested every tin lid after it was put on, whether it was really on right and tight. He had a tiny little hammer, and with that little hammer he hit the lids of the tins so fast, that to us passers-by it seemed like just so much rattling, and nothing else. How in the world his own ears detected any possible flaw in a tin is far more than I can fathom. The visitors are always treated with the finest of the fruit, and to be sure it is good. I have never tasted such good pineapple. And then in the reception room they have a fountain out of which comes ice-cold fresh pineapple juice, just like water out of a water fountain; and every visitor is permitted to drink as much as he can take in. It is almost too good to be true, but I know I took a very liberal helping. It was most refreshing.

We also saw the aquarium, which we are told is one of the finest in the world. At any rate, the colorful fish that we can see there are so brilliant in their colors, that if one would not actually see them swim back and forth in their glass tanks one would not believe that an animal could show up such brilliance. No artist could put more color into anything than those fish wear as an every-day garment. Certainly Solomon in all his glory could not come anywhere near a display of such beauty in color as these fish wear day and night. Our Creator has done a wonderful work in creating also the beautiful, besides all the other wonders of creation.

The people of the islands told us also that they have no snakes on these islands. Neither are there any flies and mosquitoes. Yet a few flies we did see. They also said they are not bothered with other vermin, such as mice and rats. If anything of this kind comes along in a ship, then all people of the islands are at once agreed to do away with such enemies of comfort. The nearest neighboring land to these islands is over two thousand miles away, so this can be a little haven of comfort, if all inhabitants of the island wish it to be such. But the whole earth could be a haven of comfort and success if the sinfulness of man did not spoil things. But with this I would not want to suggest that the Hawaii Islands do not know what sin is. Oh yes, we met several sinners there, and we feel sure there are many more than we met. But the natural setting of the islands is such that there is more human comfort than in any other place in the world we have seen.

Between Honolulu and Manila is a stretch of ocean of nearly five thousand miles. Only once, after traveling about three thousand miles from Honolulu, did we see something solid. All of a sudden one sees a volcano, the "Forollan de Pajaras," meaning "Abode of Birds," sticking out of the ocean. The ship officers told us that the ocean all around this volcano is a mile deep. The volcano erupts on one side only, the other side is clean and clear. It looks as if the whole surface above the water is about a square mile, or a section of ground, but actually I believe it is much larger. No human beings live there. However, it is the home of hundreds of thousands of birds. They came to greet our ship, and asked for a handout. The sky was just gray with birds. Most of them were like large-sized barnyard swallows. Some also looked like sea-gulls. On that volcanic island those birds can live without being disturbed by men. We were told that the island belongs to Japan.

Tomorrow we are to arrive in Manila. It will be Easter Sunday. One wonders what kind of an Easter Sunday it will be. Fortunately we can always gather alone around the family altar, even here on board ship, and have Easter, even though the world around us has no time for that. In Manila our passenger atmosphere will likely also change. We have all kinds of elements on this ship. Humanly speaking, somewhat more than half of the passengers have absolutely

JUNE 23—The Gospel of Glory. I Corinthians 3:1-11.

"I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase. So then neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth; but God that giveth the increase," vs. 6, 7.

In God's holy plan there is a place for each one of us, and each of us must be found faithful in the performance of the task at the post assigned to him. Some are called to plant, some to water what others have planted. The one is not greater than the other, for however small or great our task may be, we have nothing to glory about for God has to add His blessing and give the increase.

The Corinthian church had been divided into factions because of the men whom they followed. The spiritual life of an individual or a church can never grow when it is based upon the work of men, for men are but fellow laborers with God, Who must bless their labors to make them fruitful. Upon what kind of a foundation do we build, upon the labors of men, or upon the one foundation which is Jesus Christ (v. 11)?

JUNE 24—The Gospel of Liberty. I Corinthians 3:12-18.

"Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?" v. 16.

Know ye not? The Corinthian Christians lived as if they did not know their high calling, as if they did not know that their bodies were to be dwelling places of the most High, of God and His Spirit. Our bodies are temples! Do we live as if we knew it, or do our lives also call forth the question, "Know ye not?" May we remember that we are not our own but that we "are bought with a price, therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit which are God's" (I Cor. 6:20).

JUNE 25—The Gospel for the Gentiles. Acts 10:34-43.

"Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons: but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him," vs. 34b, 35.

What a memorable day it was in the history of the Church when the truth was revealed that God is no respecter of persons but that everyone, whether Jew or Gentile, is called to become a child of God. It was hard for Peter and some of the other apostles to believe this truth due to their Jewish teaching that their nation was the chosen nation, but through the grace of God this prejudice could be overcome. If God is no respecter of persons, how can a Christian be, for a Christian is to be likeminded with Christ. Is this mind which was in Christ Jesus in us? May we as Christians permit His mind to dominate our minds so thoroughly that all race, national, social, and any other prejudice may be erased from our hearts and minds.

JUNE 26—Christianity's Message. Acts 13:32-39.

"Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins: and by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which we could not be justified by the law of Moses," vs. 38, 39.

How sad it is that the message of Christianity is so often obliterated by the deeds of so-called Christians. Instead of making this message of the forgiveness from sin and the love of God the predominant message, the predominant motive for all action, it is often entirely obscured from the view of the world by the atrocities committed by so-called Christian nations (atrocities often sanctioned by the Christian Church) which are motivated, not by the spirit of love, but by hate and greed. Has Christianity lost its message to this sin-torn world? No, thank God, the message is the same powerful message of salvation for the world, it has not lost its power, and may it be our daily prayer that the testimony of the Christian church may not obliterate this message.

JUNE 27—The Growth of the Kingdom. Matthew 13:31-35.

"The kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took, and sowed in his field: which indeed is the least of all seeds: but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof," vs. 31, 32.

All great movements have had small beginnings. Christianity is one of these. From a beginning with only twelve followers, it has grown and spread out over all the earth. But even though it has grown and spread there are still many untouched areas which are still waiting for the message of salvation. If the Christian Church would have continued throughout the nineteen centuries of its history with the same missionary zeal with which the first-century Christians spread the gospel, how much farther could the Kingdom of God have advanced during these centuries. Now is the time to re-emphasize the challenge which faces the Church of Christ to further the growth of the Kingdom in this world. Let us not retreat but go forward in His Name.

JUNE 28—The Council of the Church. Acts 15:1-6.

"And the apostles and elders came together for to consider of this matter," v. 6.

As we are nearing General Conference time we are reminded of the values there are in a conference. It draws churches of the same faith but of different localities together and unites them in a stronger bond of fellowship and endeavor. It permits the free exchange of opinion, and decisions reached at a conference are taken more authoritatively than if the decision is made by only a few. Paul and Barnabas knew what was right in regard to the teaching of the Judaizers, but they were willing to submit the matter to the church at Jerusalem and get its authority behind their teaching in this respect. They had had much disputation on this matter and instead of doing away with the difficulty, it, as argument always does, only made the contenders more firm in their stand. If it had been a question of minor importance they might have exercised Christian tolerance and given in to compromise, but since it meant the success or failure of Christianity among the Gentiles they could not. There are certain fundamental doctrines of the Christian faith which allow no compromise but call for a firm stand on the part of believers.

JUNE 29—Increasing Joy. Isaiah 9:1-7.

"The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light: they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined," v. 2.

Light brings joy and courage while darkness brings gloom and discouragement. The above verse tells us that the people who were walking in darkness received the light. Isaiah who lived about eight centuries before Christ saw in vision that light which would come at the advent of Christ, and he realized what a change this would bring about among the people that walked in darkness. Light brings life, for without light there is no life. The light of Christ brings eternal life, without Him there is no everlasting life.

JUNE 30—The Divine Command. Matthew 28: 18-20.

"All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye therefore, and teach all nations . . . and lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world."

This is the great commission of Christ to His disciples. Are we still under orders to go and teach? Yes, the command holds until Christ Himself returns. Christ has no other method of spreading the good news than through the faithful witnessing of His own on earth. He is depending upon His followers. This is a great honor, a great responsibility, and a great opportunity. May we be found faithful for He has promised His continuing presence and since all power is given unto Him, we too may receive power through Him.

SILENCE

I need not shout my faith. Thrice eloquent
Are quiet trees and the green listening sod;
Hushed are the stars, whose power is never spent;
The hills are mute: yet how they speak of God!

AT HOME

By P. W. Penner

This sounds well indeed. The passengers on the steamship President Adams on Dec. 16 in the early morning hour became quite restless, because we neared the Indian shore towards Bombay, and there were at least 82 passengers to disembark. The purser intimated that never aforetime such an amount of baggage had to be discharged. Slowly as always the liner drew alongside the wharf. On account of low tide now it required a longer time.

Pretty soon familiar faces appeared on the wharf. Immigration authorities had to be satisfied first, then inside of a few minutes we directed our steps down the gangway. No one was allowed back on the ship again. After the friends had been met, the customs officers had to be contacted and satisfied. Very strict regulations on account of war conditions regarding incoming baggage, freight, etc., had been displayed on the bulletin board. The declaration for the belongings had to be filled out previously. This had to be presented to the respective officer who went over the list carefully and made his calculations accordingly. He was very considerate.

Then the pieces of baggage had to be sought out from among the huge pile. The full number discovered, all had to be assembled at one particular place for checking up. This happened to be done by a kind officer—not all are alike—consequently all was quickly adjusted. The baggage in the freight hatch was unloaded and completed the next day. The going through the customs represents no trouble provided one has filled out the papers correctly and honestly, and is prepared to answer all arising questions definitely.

Now we had after two years stepped on the "Homeland soil," entered the large city of Bombay, "The Gateway of India," with its one and a quarter million inhabitants; a large and busy modern city, a steamship and railway center in the heart of the cotton and textile industry. The population is composed of an incredible variety of tribes and castes, the largest element being Mahratti Hindus, as this is their center.

Likewise numerous Parsees frequent the streets, a sect of Persians who generally command huge riches. They belong to the most influential merchants. Not to be neglected are the many Sikhs from northwest India, also negroes, Tibetans, Chinese, Japanese, Malays, and Europeans who find manifold occupations.

The colorful procession throngs the streets, certainly a wealth of picturesque sights—brilliant turbans, gold embroidered robes, vivid scarfs, ear and nose rings of abnormal sizes. Parsee shirts and girdles, laden oxcarts, and ambling sacred cows feeling assured of the "right-of-way" which the stranger and everyone else must duly respect. When tired, these cows are perfectly at liberty to lie down at any place.

Bombay lies on an island by the same name eleven miles long and three miles wide on the west coast of India, facing the Arabian Sea. It is connected to the mainland by many bridges. Its fortunate natural harbor is protected by an arm of the island appearing as a tapering tongue. Then on the mainland lies the 220 foot high Malabar Hill ridge forming a crescent. A little farther away on the palm-fringed shore rise the peaks of the Western Ghat mountains dim in the distance. Close to the Malabar Hills are situated the Hanging Gardens, 180 feet above sea level. Near this again are found the Burning Chats on the Back Bay where, in time of epidemics or famines, corpses lie piled high for cremation. This is done under the open sky. The pile resembles a cord-wood pile.

Another interesting feature are the Towers of Silence. No one is allowed to enter them after dedication, except pallbearers. Here the Parsees place the dead upon iron grills from where the vultures finish them within a few minutes. This horrible practice is done for this reason: they consider the air, water, and fire holy, therefore the burial, or cremation would defile one or the other of the three. The towers are surrounded by lovely gardens which can be entered only with special permission.

Only six miles distant looms up the island Elephanta. There are the ancient Brahmin caves. These, dated from the eighth century, are entirely hewn into solid rock; there are five of them, the largest measures 130 feet in length and has about the same width. Here are seen most wonderful carved reliefs, huge statues, the most impressive image being the three-headed bust of Siva—one of the millions of the ugly Hindu gods. Opposite the entrance of the major cave this feature is to be found. Somewhat farther away is another cave, believed to date back to B. C. The proportions of the interior resemble a Christian church with nave and sides. That may suggest something of Bible times.

India certainly is the land of professional beggars, some millions of their holy men walk about to gather their food regularly. Besides them, of course, hosts of the people stretch out their hands for an alm; to satisfy one, draws dozens of others to the donor. Furthermore the coolies in the customs enclosure, with their willingness to handle the baggage, test one's patience seriously. Each one likes to touch just a thing, then requires remuneration. They have learned the trick of getting ahead of everyone, especially the newcomer is their target. They are keen in discovering the old and the new folks.

Finally all was adjusted. Much we owe to the American Express Company handling the freight and baggage. Without such a firm, one would hardly know what to do. The expenses, of course, are more than twice the necessary outlay. Various missions have "Come, Let Us Reason Together"

by Adolf Friesen

Pastor Zion Church, Donnellson, Iowa

We are becoming increasingly aware in our time of the terrible reality and the power of sin in the world. The words that Paul used nineteen centuries ago ring true for this day and age. "Our wrestling," he says, "is not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places" (Eph. 6:12). One is conscious of sin as an increasing darkness that is shutting out the good, and as a power that prevails against justice and righteousness. The wanton destruction of life and property is evil, but even more evil is the degradation of human personality. The governments of the countries, it seems, have conspired to destroy the image of God in man. As one writer puts it: "Our hopes and all our efforts after goodness are up against a powerful antagonism, sometieѕ demonic, tragic, terrific in human nature, that turns our loveliest qualities to evil and our finest endeavors into failures." We are distressed to see it come to that in our own land, the land we love and to which we owe so much.

What brings this home to us in this community at the present time is the rumored report that a powder plant is to be erected north and west of this town, including the area where many of our Mennonite families live. It is but a rumor, and we hope it will not become a reality. About thirty miles northeast of here, near Burlington, Iowa, the government is building a shell-loading plant. Thousands of acres, much of it good farming land, has been appropriated by the government. All the farmers within that area have been forced to sell out and go elsewhere in quest of new homes. There was no consideration of what these farms and homes meant to the people who lived there.

And this thing is happening today in many parts of the country in the setting up of army camps, shell-loading plants, munition factories, etc. The government in its gigantic defence program is transforming our country as speedily as possible into an arsenal. The cost is not considered. Human values are not counted. There is no consideration of what this program of militarization does to the people of this country.

"Sacrifice for Defence" is the catch-phrase of the day. The appeal is made to people's loyalty to the government and to their patriotism and love of country. Such an appeal invariably meets with a ready response. People want to be challenged and they are ready to sacrifice for a noble cause. But disillusionment and tragedy lie hidden behind these fine sounding words. It is a distressing fact that the people of this country are accepting militarization as an inescapable evil. Our nation becomes more and more committed to the inevitability of war. The people are being engulfed by the deadening philosophies of our time. We prepare to fight fascist Germany but become enmeshed in national socialism. Can the ideals of Democracy long survive under these conditions?

How terribly real sin becomes when it touches every phase of our life, turning "our loveliest qualities to evil and our finest endeavors into failures." It is a sad day for a nation when injustice and greed ride under the banner of patriotism, and when the sins of murder and destruction become a patriotic duty. "Righteousness exalteth a nation but sin is a reproach to any people."

But thank God that there is a way out of the morass in which we are now rapidly sinking. As we humble ourselves before God and repent we will find deliverance. We must stop calling evil good and good evil. Sin in all its ugliness must be exposed and confessed before it can be removed. Sin that is suppressed and covered up festers and finally brings death. But sin that is brought to the surface and confessed can be forgiven. "Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool." This is the only way for individuals and nations that will lead to newness of life.

FIRST JERUSALEM CONFERENCE ON WORLD MISSIONS

Acts 15:6-21. Read 1-35.

Occasion for the Conference

When Paul and Barnabas returned from their first missionary journey they found the Antioch church greatly disturbed—really divided—by Judaizers from the mother church in Jerusalem, who came and taught that the Gentile converts could not be saved without observing circumcision (15:1). They insisted upon adding the law of Moses to the gospel. The heart of the trouble was over the larger question as to whether the whole law of Moses was binding upon the Gentile Christians or not. Paul saw the great danger facing the whole future progress of the Christian Church. Gentiles would not submit to the numerous, outworn regulations of the Mosaic law. Paul believed that yielding to the Judaizers would be a death-blow to the Gentile church. He knew that his whole work would be wrecked. Sometimes it is wise to yield a point for the sake of peace, but not when the heart of the gospel is at stake, as in this instance, or when yielding would mean disaster to the Church of Christ.

The Church was facing a deep-seated problem—a crisis whose greatness we can hardly understand. This crisis pertained to faith and practice. It arose through the large increase in Gentile converts. The problem arose and must be settled. Must these Gentile converts keep the Jewish law in order to be recognized as Christians and in order to be saved? Are men saved by faith apart from the works of the law? The solution of this problem was to decide whether Christianity would become a world religion or merely a Jewish sect. The mother church in Jerusalem must act, so a deputation was sent there (v. 2). This first Jerusalem Conference towers above all succeeding ones in importance.

Argument For Gentile Liberty, vs. 6-13.

A meeting of the Church was called (v. 4) where Paul and Barnabas told the "things God had done with them." Then a more formal meeting of the council followed (v. 6) to discuss this problem. Peter recounted his experience with Cornelius and the Gentiles in his house (vs. 7-11). God showed His approval of them, made no distinction between Jew and Gentile. God gave them the Holy Spirit same as to the apostles at Pentecost. Why then should the Jews now try God's patience by imposing the Mosaic rites upon the Gentile Christians, when God accepted them without such rites? Salvation is God's gift to ALL who humbly turn to Christ in love and trust.

Paul and Barnabas argued in a similar manner. God had worked mightily through their ministry among the Gentiles, proving that circumcision was not necessary. It was clearly evident that God received those Gentiles who turned to Christ (v. 12). The effectiveness of their preaching of the gospel of God's grace could not be denied. It cannot be gainsaid today. God's will had been shown in His dealings with the Gentiles.

Decision Reached

James, the Lord's brother, was the chief elder of the Church and formulated the decision which was accepted unanimously. He, a thorough Jew, recognized the force of what was said and took his position for Gentile liberty. He dropped the question of the law entirely and recommended four restrictions (vs. 20, 29). This momentous decision was of most far-reaching importance to the Gentile missionary cause. Paul gained the greatest victory in his career in this permanent settlement of this controversy. Jew and Gentile could now meet on common ground and as Christian brethren.

How well has our Mennonite Church held to the principle of freedom and tolerance in practice?

Wichita Work Camp

Do you believe in expressing your concern for the welfare of our country by helping your fellow men who have material and spiritual needs? Are you anxious to become more effective in ministering unto "the least of these"?

If so, then you might be interested in the Wichita (Kans.) Work Camp. This camp is being established by the Brethren Service Committee and The Wichita Committee of Historic Peace Churches. This is a cooperative work, and members of any church are invited to enroll in this work camp.

A Christian Endeavor group or a Sunday School class or classes might discuss the opportunities which this camp offers. They might then select someone of their group to attend the camp, pledging to him their financial assistance. Such an investment could have very worthwhile results, firstly, through the material and spiritual aid rendered; secondly, through deepening the spiritual life of the enrollee; and thirdly, through fitting the enrollee for better service in his home community.

The work project is to dig a basement under the Community Center building; to dig basements, lay foundations, and build houses out of new lumber for marginal families; to direct such recreational projects in the slum areas as may be organized; and to give all possible aid to the Community Center and self-help agencies as may be possible by teaching homemaking, family life, etc.

The study plan will include, "the sociological implications of marginal family life in a rapidly expanding city; the study of self-help community projects and their implications and potential values; the study of possibilities through recreation and community activities in lifting the level of, and cultivating the tastes for, higher home and civic pride; and the study of the influence of certain types of religious emphases on community life, etc."

The quota for the camp is ten men and ten women. Persons who come to camp should be able and willing to work hard and to study diligently. The camp opens June 22 and closes August 24. The cost for these eight weeks is estimated to be $35.00 per camper.

SOME EXPERIENCES

By C. H. A. van der Smissen

When we walked to the station, Brother Funk said, "O Brother v. d. S., we have been on the mount of transfiguration and are now going to the dark valley!"

"Why, Brother Funk, after such blessings we ought to think of how we can share our blessings with others, that have not had the opportunity that we have had."

"You are right; we will do that."

As the four delegates entered the railroad car they were greeted by, "C. E., C. E., C. E.." They answered this with "C. E." Then they sang and prayed. They asked v. d. S. to lead, since he was field secretary. Some read their favorite Bible passages and prayed; others gave out hymns, for all had songbooks from the convention.

All at once, the train going, a big-bellied beerbrewer stood up and said, "I object to this! We are in a railroad car, not in a prayer meeting."

V. d. S. said, "We will see." When the conductor came, he asked, "Conductor, are we permitted to sing and pray?"

"Surely, I enjoy it very much!"

"There is objection to our singing."

"There is? Well, who wants them to sing?" All but the beerbrewer and his friend arose. "Well, gentlemen, I suppose you got into the wrong car. Please, go to the smoking car. Perhaps, you will find more congenial company there."

The singing, reading, and praying went on until they came to Reading. When they left the train, there was hearty farewell handshaking and singing of, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." One lady said, "I do not know you, you do not know me, but I know that by the grace of God we will meet before the throne of grace."

"Brother Funk, how about the dark valley?"

"O, that was a glorious ending of a glorious time!"

SERIES: THE CHURCH IN THE WORLD

Program for July 6, 1941

THE EUROPEAN CHURCH

Lam. 1:1-5; 2 Cor. 4:17.

I. Worship Service

1. Songs: "There's a Wideness in God's Mercy," No. 58; "Thine Arm, O Lord, in Days of Old," No. 95; "Abide With Me, Fast Falls the Eventide," No. 40. (Songs in Mennonite Hymnary)
2. Reading of main topic, and prayer
3. Talk on "The Place of the Church in the Present-Day World."
4. Offering for peace projects (Civilian Camp Work or Relief Work)

II. Leader's Introduction

"In Continental Europe the cause of Christ and His Churches is being severely tested. In lands dominated by totalitarian doctrine, the prospect is very dark. Christian leaders who dare to resist or to raise a voice against secular control of the churches are persecuted and an effort is made to quiet them.

"In the so-called free countries, the Church has been subjected to the demands of war. In a time of war no church is free, not even in a great democracy. Only too often, its teaching is tainted by the military and propaganda atmosphere.

"One sad outcome of the European war has been the sudden cutting off of missionary funds. Many, many missionaries representing these churches have been left stranded in places far from home. This is a handicap to the work of missions, humanly speaking."

III. Suggested Topics for Short Talks.

1. A hopeful prophecy. Isa. 52:9-12.
2. Restoration promised. Joel 2:18-24.
3. Habakkuk's testimony. Hab. 1:12; 2:1.
4. Deliverance by redemption. Rom. 8:18-23.
5. Promised relief. Rev. 2:8-10.

IV. Facts for Study

"To the Romans religion was simply a part of the discipline of the state. There was nothing really moral in their religion. The sense of sin was utterly wanting. Family life itself was but a part of the discipline of the state. The announcement of Mussolini (some years ago) that 'Beyond the state there is nothing' is but an echo of ancient paganism."

It is essential that the conscience of the Church be kept awake in our day, and that it keep its place of leadership in matters spiritual. There are today in Europe those whose vision is clear, their number is perhaps relatively small, but let us remember that the Church of Jesus Christ has never perished through the vicissitudes which it has encountered. And it will be true again that tests and trials purify it and make its light shine clearer.

V. For Discussion

1. What position do the pacifists hold in Europe today? in England? in Germany?
2. Of what influence is Muriel Lester in the church and national life of England?
3. What does vital faith in God do for Christians in time of war?

VI. Illustration

Does this apply to the Church of Jesus Christ today?

While I was making preparations for my journey, Kachi Ram entered the tent. He looked frightened and perplexed. "What are you doing, sir?" he inquired hurriedly. "The doctor says you are going to leave alone tonight, to cross the mountain range, and go to Lhassa by yourself."

"Yes, that is true."

"Oh, sir! The perils and dangers are too great; you cannot go!"

"I know, but I am going to try," I answered.

"Oh, sir! Then I will come with you."

"No, Kachi," I objected, "you will suffer too much. Go back to your father and mother now that you have the opportunity."

Then Kachi answered, "No, sir; where you go, I will go." —H. A. Savage Landor.

HEROES OF SCIENCE

Song "God of Our Fathers, Whose Almighty Hand"

Leader's Talk: "There are two definitions of greatness—God's and Man's. Man thinks in terms of worldly power or fortune. He feels that the one who receives the most praise for his deeds or the most money for his labors is the one who is the greatest. Man longs for the glamour which comes with some special talent or a brave deed.

"On the other hand Jesus' estimate of true greatness is so very different. It is not in having great riches, nor in possessing great talents, nor in any kind of fame. It is simply to be willing and ready to serve. He who would be greatest among you, let him be the servant of all." N. M. W.

Roll Call: Have the members respond with the name and brief statement concerning a great scientist.

Suggestions for further research:

1. Italo Balbo—Italian aviator who died in a flaming plane above Africa. He had the qualities which make heroes but his strength was used to kill. Contrast his heroism with men who have the qualities of heroes and who use them to cure and not to kill.
2. Joseph Goldberger—discovered that pellagra can develop only in undernourished bodies.
3. Philo Farnsworth—developed the practical working principle for television.
4. George Washington Carver—famed Negro scientist.
5. John Frederic Oberlin—a pioneer in scientific farming.

Verse of the month: "Let every soul be subject unto the higher powers. For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God," Romans 13:1.

Song of the month: "Come, Thou Almighty King."

Prayer of the month: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is Thine; Thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and Thou art exalted as head above all. Both riches and honor come of Thee, and Thou reignest over all; and in Thine hand is power and might; and in Thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all. Now therefore, our God, we thank Thee, and praise Thy glorious Name." I Chronicles 29: 11-13.

BEING A CITIZEN OF MY OWN COUNTRY

(NATIONAL CITIZENSHIP)

"Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord; and the people whom He hath chosen for His own inheritance," Ps. 133:12.

To the Junior leader. The thought of citizenship is very much in evidence in our thinking today and even our Juniors come face to face with the question of, "Who is a good citizen?" or "What constitutes good citizenship?" May the study of these songs help them to answer these questions, and to make of them better citizens.

Decorate with flags. For this first lesson place a large, good map of the United States before the group.

I. Worship Period

1. Prelude: "America."
2. Call to worship: James 4:8a, 10. "Draw nigh to God and He will draw nigh to you. Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord and He shall lift you up."
3. Stand and sing, "America."
4. Scripture reading:

8. Reading of the Preamble of the Constitution of the United States.
9. Solo, "God Bless Our Native Land."
   (The Mennonite Hymnary, No. 348)

II. Study Period

Aim: To help our Juniors to become worthy and intelligent Christian citizens of our country. To give them an appreciation of our national hymns.

1. Introduction: Those who are born in a country are its citizens. The country may also adopt (naturalize) persons born in another country. Then they are its citizens too. A good citizen wishes his country's best welfare. A good citizen prays for his country and its rulers. In the songs we will read and sing today we find prayer verses. May they be our prayers too.
2. Read in unison verse four of "America."
3. Pianist plays the melody of "O Beautiful, My Country" (Service Hymnal, No. 365) while the Juniors read the words of the song very softly. Then together sing verse three.
4. Poem by a Junior boy:

"The Land We Love the Most"

> "Lord, while for all mankind we pray,
> Of every clime and coast,
> O hear us for our native land,
> The land we love the most.
> "Unite us in the sacred love
> Of knowledge, truth, and Thee;
> And let our hills and valleys shout
> The songs of liberty."

5. Stand and sing in unison, "O Beautiful for Spacious Skies."

6. Heart talk by the Junior leader.—"Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord," Ps. 133:12. How we as Juniors can help our nation to be a nation "whose God is the Lord."

7. Sing in unison, "God Bless America."

III. Mission Minutes

1. Our missions among the American Indians.
   a) Who are our missionaries?
   b) Where are they working?
   c) Name some Christian Indians.
   d) Tell something about each mission field among the Indians.

IV. Closing Moments

1. Memorize the verse of the month, Romans 13:1.
2. Read the prayer of the month, I Chronicles 29: 11-13.
3. Sing the song of the month, "Come, Thou Almighty King."
4. Benediction in unison, Numbers 6:24-26. "The Lord bless thee and keep thee; the Lord make His face to shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee: the Lord lift His countenance upon thee, and give thee peace. Amen."

THE W. D. CONFERENCE LOAN LIBRARY

Lately the Loan Library has received valuable contributions from Mrs. J. R. Thierstein, North Newton, Kansas, and the heirs of the Zimmerman estate at Beatrice, Nebraska, for which the Committee is very grateful.

The same individuals have also contributed a considerable number of German books to our collection for the Mennonites in Paraguay. As soon as this collection is large enough, the books will be shipped there. We urge therefore those families who have good books which are not used any more to send them to the Education Committee at North Newton, Kansas.

Good books are treasure-houses; open them to the world and you bring riches untold to the needy.

The Education Committee of W. D. C.

INVITATION

We again wish to extend a hearty invitation to hear Dr. J. E. Hartzler, who is this week holding meetings in Wichita, at the Lorraine Avenue Mennonite Church. Come to receive a blessing. The last day, June 22, will be Mission Sunday, with Dr. Hartzler speaking in the morning and evening. In the afternoon at 3 P. M. Dr. P. H. Richert, Rev. Sam Goering, and Dr. A. E. Henry will speak on mission subjects. Come and share these blessings with us.

O. K. Galle, Sec'y. Church Expansion Com.

IN MEMORIAM

OLIVER HALLMAN, son of Henry and Annie (nee Kaiser) Hallman, was born August 12, 1890, in Milford Township, Bucks County, Pennsylvania. On November 3, 1906, upon his confession of faith in Christ, he was baptized and received into the East Swamp Church by the late Rev. W. S. Gottschall. During his prolonged illness, after having drifted from his early confession, he was again restored to fellowship with Christ, by his present pastor, Rev. H. D. Burkholder.

On May 21, 1941, he was called out of this life, bringing his age to 50 years and nine months. Services were conducted at the Strunk Funeral parlor and from the East Swamp Church. The pastor, Rev. H. D. Burkholder, officiated, using for his text, Luke 7:11-16. Interment was made in the local cemetery.

SAMUEL P. SMITH, son of Peter and Anna Jantz Smith was born in Ostrog, Russia, July 26, 1864. In the fall of 1874, he came to America with his parents. They took a homestead in Barton County near what is now Pawnee Rock, Kansas.

He was baptized by Rev. Stucky of Pretty Prairie, Kansas, and retained his membership in the Mennonite Church north of Pawnee Rock.

On July 27, 1888 he was married to Mary Boese by Rev. Tobias Dirks in the home of the bride. They established their home on the site of his father's homestead where he continued to reside throughout his lifetime.

To this union nine children were born: Clarence of Larned; Max and Bertha (Mrs. P. S. Dirks) of Pawnee Rock; Sister Lena Mae of the Bethel Deaconess Hospital, Newton, Kansas; Elrick and Leo of Pawnee Rock; Susie (Mrs. Chester Siebert) of Larned, Kansas; Ben of the home; and Luella who is attending the University of Minnesota at present.

Besides the nine children there are two sons-in-law, four daughters-in-law; twenty-two grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; one brother, George P. Smith of Pawnee Rock, Kansas; and other relatives and friends who will miss him. His wife departed this life Dec. 9, 1919, and three grandchildren have preceded him in death.

His health had been failing for some time but more definitely since November, 1940. On Easter Sunday, April 13, 1941, his condition seemed serious and he was taken to the St. Rose Hospital in Great Bend, Kansas, where he remained two weeks. Then he was taken home for two weeks and again returned to the hospital on May 11, where he was cared for until he quietly departed on Monday, May 26, at 10:30 P. M., at the age of 76 years and 10 months.

Since the passing of mother, our father often has been lonely and expressed the desire to have his one great longing satisfied to go to be with the Lord. We shall miss him here, but rejoice with him that he is in his new home where we shall meet him again.

Following brief funeral services at his home the regular services were held at the Mennonite church near Pawnee Rock, Kansas, on Thursday, May 29, in charge of the pastor, Rev. J. B. Schmidt. Burial was made in the Mennonite cemetery.

MISS LILLIE MAE GRATZ, 43, died at the home of her brother, Harvey Gratz, one mile west of Bluffton, Ohio, Wednesday morning, June 4. Death followed an illness of two and one-half years from a heart ailment.

Funeral services were held at the First Mennonite church, Friday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, with Rev. H. T. Unruh officiating. Interment was made in the Ebenezer cemetery.

Miss Gratz was born Feb. 23, 1898, the daughter of the late Louis and Sarah (Thut) Gratz. She was graduated from Bluffton high school in the class of 1916, and received the A. B. degree from Bluffton College in 1922, and A. M. degree from Columbia University in 1933.

She was an instructor in home economics in Berea College, Berea, Kentucky, as well as in high schools in Ada, Swanton, and Tontogany, and was a member of the American Association of University Women and the First Mennonite Church, Bluffton.

NORMAN ROY NICKEL was born Dec. 11, 1924, near Walton, Harvey County, Kansas. He was the second son of Daniel B. Nickel and Eva Klassen Nickel. He died the afternoon of May 11, near Lehigh, Kansas, in the cold waters of a lake, where he and two of his brothers, one cousin, and two of his friends were swimming. He reached the age of 16 years and 5 months. He grew to boyhood in the Goessel community and received his elementary education in the Gordon grade school. The last two years he was a student in the Goessel high school and he greatly enjoyed his work. He loved to sing in the high school glee club, and found great comfort and food for the soul in the spiritual hymns. When he left the house last Sunday afternoon never to return alive he left singing "Blessed Assurance, Jesus is Mine." During the morning services the pastor of our church asked all those of the Catechism class to sign their names in a book as applicants for baptism He was the 16th to sign. When he came home he reported to his parents how many had signed. His parents noticed a marked change in his life; now they understand why. God planned to take him and He prepared him. This is a comfort indeed. He will be missed in school, in the number to be baptized, and in his home. He has gone out of a troubled world, to be at home with the Lord.

He leaves to mourn his sudden departure his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel B. Nickel; one sister, Laurinda; 3 brothers, Marvin, Eldon, Lawrence; two grandmothers and one grandfather and many other relatives and friends. We say with James Whitcomb Riley:

I cannot say, and I will not say
    That he is dead,—He is just away!
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
    He has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
    It needs must be, since he lingers there.
And you—O you, who the wildest yearn
    For the old-time step and the glad return,—
Think of him faring on, as dear
    In the love of There as the love of Here;
Think of him still as the same, I say:
    He is not dead—he is just away!

Funeral services were held Wednesday, May 14, in the Alexanderwohl church, Rev. P. H. Unruh officiating, assisted by Rev. Jessie Johnson. The mixed chorus of the Goessel high school, of which he was a member, sang several numbers. He was laid to rest in the Alexanderwohl cemetery.

CORRESPONDENCE

EBENEZER MENN. CH., NEAR BLUFFTON, O.

"Rejoice in the Lord alway and again I say rejoice," Phil. 4:4, 5. From March 27 to 30 we rejoiced over the earnestness and blessings received from Rev. Theodore Epp from Grand Island, Nebr. He was the speaker at our sixth annual Y. P. Rally and truly brought us some wonderful messages. We can sincerely recommend him for any such services.

Easter Sunday was not a day of rejoicing as it marked the end of Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Kliewer's ministry with us. He had served for a period of eleven and a half years. Many true friendships were formed which were not easily severed. A large number of couples were married and established their homes, being admonished to begin family altars of worship. Rev. Kliewer was Spirit-filled and energetic, devoting his spare time to lost souls in the community. His efforts were not in vain as some accepted Christ as their Savior and have been regular attendants and a great help in the Sunday School and church. Thus our church has grown these last ten years.

As usual, baptismal and communion services were held on Easter morning with a large number attending. A basket dinner and reception had been planned for the noon hour, and a farewell program for the afternoon. An interesting feature was the Junior Choir, the members of which were all instructed and baptized by Rev. Kliewer. Several representatives from various organizations gave brief messages. The Intermediate C. E., the Gospel Team, and the Ladies'

Chorus were organized during their ministry here. His parting message was "Tomorrow."

In the evening a message of committal by the outgoing pastor on II Tim. 4:1-5 was given to the incoming pastor, Rev. A. C. Schultz. This ended one ministry and began that of our new pastor who gave a message on "Courage," Joshua 1:8, 9. We were fortunate in securing this pastor to take over the responsibilities so readily. One Saturday afternoon, Rev. and Mrs. A. C. Schultz graciously opened their home at the parsonage to the members. It was a day of real housewarming and hospitality shown from 2:30 till 10:30 p. m. This proved to be an efficient method to get acquainted.

There have been several young people who have felt led to enter Bible school and later to give themselves in full-time service to the preaching of the gospel. Miss Viola Welty, who had been preparing to enter the mission field, sailed from New York City to take up her duties in Nigeria, West Africa. "How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things," Rom. 10:15.

We are looking forward to August when the Middle District Conference will meet at our church. We wish to extend a hearty welcome to all those who are planning to attend. Humbly in Him, Correspondent.

banded themselves together and opened their office within the premises of the American Express Co. This Inter-Mission business office assists the outgoing and incoming missionaries by changing their moneys, transposing the checks, drafts, orders, etc., etc., into the country's denomination. This company did indeed accelerate the procedure amazingly.

This company deserves comment; we owe many thanks. Our mission has been linked with them more than six years and found the dealings very helpful and beneficial.

The next day everything necessary had been achieved. At 6:10 p. m. our fast mail train started on the more than 800 mile trip eastward to Champa. Brother and Sister Harold Ratzlaff again had made many new experiences, even the train trip offered an entirely new feature, their eyes hardly rolled fast enough in their sockets. After the night's rest in the second-class compartment (the trains in India have four classes, the first, second, intermediate, third. One wonders where the next could be), the sceneries offered to us were most familiar.

All through the day we spun along. The darkness overtook us around 6 o'clock. Twilight close to the equator is almost unknown. The train halted at Bilaspur, only 33 miles from Champa. Even before we stepped out there was to our heart's joy Nellie, our darling, walking along towards our compartment with other friends. A meeting after two anxious years actually was our privilege prepared by the Almighty, the floodgates of joy opened freely. She had gotten through the bomb-affected area in English waters safely, had landed in India on Dec. 2. She had left London on Sept. 16, came via Capetown, South Africa. "What has God wrought!" The balance of the distance was covered quickly while thoughts were exchanged, not on the installment plan. Oh, our bosom could only with difficulty contain the joyous sensations which failed to display properly. "We have a great God who knows how to make man happy" at all times!

FROM ONE HOME TO THE OTHER

no interest in religious matters. Life seems to be tiresome to many of them. They wish to have a good time, but it seems as if most of them have never yet found out what a real abiding good time is. If one happens to awake up at one or two o'clock in the night the carousing is still going on fast and hard. The quiet time on the ship is around seven or eight in the morning. Then most folks are finally in bed. One wonders sometimes just where and in what the Christian Church has failed that it has come in such disrepute with its own people. These folks on this ship are all U. S. A. people, except a few from Canada. That means that all belong to a country where the gospel of Christ has been preached for centuries. Why then do these our fellow passengers live as though there is no God? One wonders in how far this is the fault of Christianity as it is. What has the Church done or failed to do to bring about such a condition? Is perhaps one point of failure that the Church of Christ has failed to carry out Christ's program or failed to heed His "New Commandment," John 13:34? I do believe that with many people the "not want to" element is by all means basic. Yet I also believe that the Christian Church should by all means ask herself in how far her own behavior has caused such neglect of religious verities among our own people.

Next time I will tell you something about Manila and the Philippine Islands. We are now nearer and nearer the places of danger. In case all of a sudden our country, the U. S. should get mixed up with this European war, then we would come to a stand-still somewhere. We hope and trust and pray that we might safely get to Bombay on the second of May, as the present schedule is. We do solicit all of your prayers for this also.

RESOLUTIONS OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE OF THE MENNONITE CHURCH OF NORTH AMERICA ON PEACE AND NON-RESISTANCE

The position of the General Conference on Peace and non-resistance has repeatedly been reaffirmed at sessions of the Conference and is contained in Article 10 of its Constitution.

CONSTITUTION OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE (1929)

Article 10. Our Common Confession

The Conference recognizes and acknowledges the Sacred Scriptures of the Old and New Testament as the Word of God and as the only and infallable rule of faith and life; for "other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." (I Cor. 3:11).

In the matter of faith it is therefore required of the congregations which unite with the Conference that, accepting the above confession, they hold fast to the doctrine of salvation by grace through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, baptism on confession of faith, the avoidance of oaths, the Biblical doctrine of non-resistance, and the practice of the Scriptural church discipline.

More recently the following reaffirmations were adopted:

A STATEMENT OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE

In 1929:—113. RESOLVED: The General Conference of the Mennonite Church of North America in session at Hutchinson, Kansas, August 20-28, 1929 reaffirms the position taken by the founders of our denomination that war is unchristian and contrary to the life and teachings of Jesus Christ and that no Christian should participate therein.

In 1935:—85. (5) RESOLVED, That we reassert our Biblical stand on non-resistance and opposition to war, which position we have held for more than 400 years, and that in our private lives we live such peaceable lives that our testimony will be untainted, and have power to convince many others of the virtue of our position. Having striven to practice the peace principle, let us cultivate the spirit of active goodwill towards others at all times, and utilize opportunities whenever and wherever these offer themselves to present and interpret our peace principles to others. Be it further Resolved, That we encourage our members to maintain this position in colleges and universities where military training is required, or where a similar situation presents itself, and that when occasion requires, this position of non-resistance be made known to our Government.

On February 12, 1937 a committee composed of Mennonites, Friends, and Brethren was received by the President of the United States and submitted a document setting forth our position on Peace and Non-resistance.

And again on January 10, 1940 the President of the United States kindly received a committee composed of members of the three historic peace churches —Friends, Brethren, and Mennonites, and this committee also submitted a document expressing the historic and unbroken conviction of these groups against war and their devotion to peace and goodwill, growing out of deep Christian convictions, based on the spirit and teachings and life of Jesus.

"The General Conference of the Mennonite Church"
Head Office: Newton, Kansas. President: C. E. Krehbiel, Newton, Kansas. Secretary: Phil. A. Wedel, Aberdeen, Idaho.

MARRIED

Waldo Brandt, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brandt, of the Ebenezer Church, Mountain View, Oklahoma, and Avis Unruh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Unruh, of the Mennonite Church, Pawnee Rock, Kansas, Sunday evening, June 8, at 7 o'clock. Their address is North Newton, Kansas.

Alfred Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank K. Schmidt, Canton, Kansas, and Evelyn Unruh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Unruh, Newton, Kansas, both members of the Alexanderwohl Mennonite Church, Goessel, Kansas, June 4. Their address is Route 2, Newton, Kansas.

Tony Borth, member of the Pretty Prairie Mennonite Church, and Elva Whitting from Chicago, Illinois, Monday evening, June 9, at the home of the groom. Their home will be in Chicago.

—The Bulletin of First Mennonite Church, Bluffton, Ohio, reports the following: "The N. Y. Lutherans in Conference passed a resolution including the following: 'War as an instrument of nation policy settles no issues in the moral realm, is futile in the political, and in the religious is a denial of God and of the life and teachings of His Son.'

"The Disciples in session in St. Louis went on record as saying: 'War is antagonistic to the spirit of Christ. The church must not surrender to hatred; the church must protect conscientious objectors from hostile public sentiment and secure for them the rights granted by the government.'

"Thank God for such voices everywhere—the light is dawning."

—Mennonite minister desires pastorate for July and August, and permanently if services are satisfactory. For information address: Rev. Benno Toews, 318 Thirtieth Street, Saskatoon, Sask., Canada.

—Dr. John Schmidt of Canton, Kansas, who has finished his medical course at the University of Kansas, is planning to leave for Paraguay, South America, where he will be stationed as doctor in the Mennonite settlement there. Mr. Orie O. Miller from Akron, Pennsylvania, will accompany him.

—Dr. Christopher Tong, a young Chinese who received his higher education in the United States, came through Newton the first week in June. He spoke before the adult classes of the Bethel College Sunday School on Sunday, June 1, and was the main speaker at the Sunday School picnic of the First Mennonite Church, Newton, Monday evening, June 2.

—As has been announced in the daily papers, the Honorable Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes has resigned as chief justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, effective July 1. He is 79 years old. The appointment of a new justice brings the total of Roosevelt-appointed justices to seven out of the nine.

—132,000,000 people live in the United States. Only about forty per cent are connected with a Christian Church.

—The First Saskatchewan Mennonite Young People's Retreat was held this last week-end, June 13 to 15, at the Experimental Farm, Rosthern, Sask. The theme of the Retreat was: "All for Jesus." The Retreat staff was composed of Mr. J. C. Schmidt, president of the Youth Committee; Rev. Isaac Epp, secretary of the Youth Committee; Rev. W. C. Voth, returned missionary from China; Rev. David Toews; Rev. J. G. Rempel; Mr. K. G. Toews; and Mr. Henry Friesen.

—In the spring issue of India Calling we find the following jotting: Today we have twenty-two organized churches, an army of 200 Christian workers of all types, not counting unpaid volunteer workers, with a Christian community in 100 different villages, totaling almost 4000 souls,—all this in a territory which forty years ago was waste, void, and in darkness, and had not a single Christian, nor station, nor outstation.

—Sister Aganetha Wiens and Miss Leona Enns, deaconess and student nurse at the Bethel Hospital, Newton, Kansas, respectively, were involved in an automobile accident Sunday evening, June 8, near Eureka. Sister Aganetha died of her injuries Wednesday night, June 11, in a hospital in Eureka. Miss Enns was brought to the Bethel Hospital, Newton, while Mr. and Mrs. John Wiens, Buhler, brother of Sister Aganetha, are in the Eureka hospital. Esther Wiens escaped with minor injuries. Sister Aganetha will be greatly missed by the Bethel Sisters.

—Sunday night, June 8, a tornado which swept through a 35-mile path through the Sedgwick and Whitewater vicinities took the lives of nine persons and utterly demolished many farms. Miss Marie Penner, 34 years of age, and Myron Thierstein, 6-month old baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Thierstein, were among the dead. They are members of the Emmaus Menn. Church. Several others were seriously injured.

The Civilian Service Camp at Colorado Springs was visited by four men from Hillsboro, June 7 and 8: Prof. A. E. Janzen, Dr. G. S. Klassen, Albert Foote, and Orlando Harms. Prof. Janzen, of Tabor College, delivered the first Sunday morning sermon at this camp.

Threats to the Church

Many of the readers no doubt were saddened when, several weeks ago, the news commentators reported the destruction of the City Temple in London, the church where Rev. Leslie Weatherhead is the pastor. Many know Rev. Weatherhead from reading some of his inspirational and helpful books, such as, Jesus and Ourselves, The Transforming Friendship, Why Do Men Suffer?, His Life and Ours, or his last one which emerged out of bomb-shattered, suffering London, namely, This is the Victory.

The City Temple is destroyed, that is, the material structure lies in ruins. But is the church really destroyed? The Sunday following the destruction, the congregation met in Memorial Hall in London for a "service of thankfulness for the past, dedication for the future, and no tears by request." Rev. Weatherhead, in conducting the service, said, "What has been lost is very precious. Our old sanctuary was set up with triumphant faith. But, after all, what is lost is material, and what remains is spiritual."

This leads us to the observation that, thank God, a church is not destroyed when its outward symbol, its edifice is leveled to the ground. In spite of material destruction the church may go on spiritually and grow into a stronger bond of fellowship with its Master and the members one with the other, for it is not the structure but the members comprising its fellowship that really is the church.

Many churches in Europe are threatened by bombs. This is a sad fact. But many churches in our own country are also threatened. Bombs bring about outward destruction, but faithlessness and apostasy, spiritual indifference and complacency, and spiritual atrophy bring about destruction within the church. Do not endanger the spiritual life of your church by your indifference and faithlessness, but strengthen it through your faithful attendance, support, and active service. During this time of crisis the church needs you and you need the church. —MB

"Thy word have I hid in my heart that I might not sin against Thee." "The entrance of Thy word giveth light." "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." (Psalm 119:11, 30, 105). The Bible will keep you from sin—sin will keep you from the Bible. —D. L. Moody.

A Statement Adopted by the Assocated Church Press

at its annual meeting, Boston, Mass., March 11, 1941

Words used by powerful and highly organized propaganda forces have, in our day, created worldwide mental and moral confusion. They have fostered organized hatred and contempt for those basic values on which the structure both of religion and democracy are reared. In such a time, the religious press of America, representing a long and honorable tradition of freedom, uncontrolled by any ulterior interest, completely non-commercial in purpose, stands for that enlightenment and goodwill without which civilization is doomed. Yet, where millions of dollars are being invested in the printed word for the studied purpose of destroying both religion and democracy and establishing totalitarianism, with its attendant neo-paganism, the power of the religious press is under a disturbing limitation. This limitation is failure of church people to give it adequate support either as readers or as financial backers. While millions of dollars are given annually to the support of all other church institutions, parishes, hospitals, settlements, or schools, the religious press giving vital support to all of these organizations suffers neglect. The meagre financial aid advanced is designated as money to make up "losses" or "deficits," — seldom as "investment" in an institution vital to the advancement of the Kingdom of God.

In the present critical world situation, when we are face to face with the progressive paganization of all our social and political relationships, the Associated Church Press calls upon both clergymen and laymen in the churches, for a renewed devotion to the religious journal. The lack of adequate support is no credit to our statesmanship or spiritual strategy. It is high time in such a crisis for all clear-visioned and forward-looking churchmen to combine in a campaign to utilize fully the high values of our religious journals both through a vastly enlarged readership and a widely increased understanding of the opportunities for service to the church and state through complete support of these mediums of spiritual and intellectual enlightenment.

More Things to Think About

By N. E. Byers, Bluffton, Ohio

I was very much interested in Dr. Langenwalter's article, "Two Things to Think About", in The Mennonite of June 3. In the first place, I liked his suggestions and, furthermore, I think we should have more discussion in our church papers on the policies and plans of our church organizations. Since the General Conference meets only once in three years and in all parts of the United States and Canada, there is very little opportunity for general discussion of our church work and few get to attend many of the conference meetings. Therefore, it seems to me, more discussion of the problems of our organizations and institutions should be found in our church papers. Not all of the wisdom of our church is found on its boards, and the interest and support of all is needed.

In order to continue the discussion, and I hope the thinking, on the questions raised, I should like to make a few further suggestions on the plan of placing our six lines of work under three boards, viz., Home and Foreign Missions, Publication and Education, Relief and Peace.

First, have the three boards establish permanent headquarters in different parts of the country and employ full-time executive secretaries to direct and promote the work. The boards meeting annually should have representatives of all district conferences on them, but small executive committees of persons living close enough to each headquarter to meet, at least quarterly, should have authority to take action on all problems arising between board meetings.

The headquarters should not all be located at one place so that one conference feels that it is the church, and other district conferences are tempted to have their own independent work. While the work must be largely locally directed, with this distribution, all would feel that they have a part in the general activities of the General Conference. I would suggest that since the foreign mission work has long been centered at Newton, Kansas, that the Home-Foreign Mission Board might be permanently located there. Since in much of our peace and relief work we cooperate with the Quakers and often find it necessary to visit Washington, the Peace-Relief Board should be located at Philadelphia. Since Berne, Indiana, and Bluffton, Ohio, have long been centers of interest in publication and education the Education-Publication Board would be centrally located at one of these places.

I believe the church could well afford to keep three executive secretaries constantly employed directing the work at headquarters and promoting it in the field. The General Conference has frequently employed field secretaries and at present we have a man employed to direct the efforts in behalf of peace. Three men closely associated with the work and permanently employed should do more successful work. Our field has not been systematically and continuously worked in behalf of our various interests. That is, as Dr. Langenwalter says, "why others have found it so easy and so profitable to get the money which is needed in our own work."

What a church we could have if all our members read our publications, all our students attended our own colleges and seminary, all our workers were employed by our own churches and institutions, and all our money given for education, missions, and relief could be used for our own work!

Consecration and devotion are fundamental, but effective organization and administration are essential for our cause and our work in His Kingdom.

LET US TAKE TIME

Let us take time for the good-by kiss. We shall go to the day's work with a sweeter spirit for it.

Let us take time for the evening prayer. Our sleep will be more restful if we have claimed the guardianship of God.

Let us take time to speak kind words to those we love. By and by, when they can no longer hear us, our kindness will seem more valuable than our best wisdom.

Let us take time to read the Bible. Its treasures shall last when we have ceased to care for the war or politics, the rise and fall of stocks, or the petty happenings of the day.

Let us take time to be pleasant. The small courtesies, which we often omit because they are small, will some day look larger to us than the wealth which we covet or the fame for which we struggled.

Let us take time to get acquainted with our families. The wealth you are accumulating, burdened father, may be a doubtful blessing to the son who is a stranger to you. Your beautifully kept house, busy mother, can never be a home to the daughter whom you have no time to caress.

Let us take time to get acquainted with Christ. The hour is coming swiftly for us all when one touch of His hand in the darkness will mean more than all that is written in the day book and ledger or in the records of our little social world.

Since we must all take time to die, why should we not take time to live—to live in the larger sense of a life begun here for eternity? —Christian Advocate

"Do not pray for easy lives. Pray to be stronger men. Do not pray for tasks equal to your powers. Pray for powers equal to your tasks. Then the doing of your work will be no miracle. Every day you shall wonder at yourself, at the richness of life which has come in you by the grace of God."

REPORT OF FIRST QUARTER, 1941

Dallas, Ore., April 14, 1941

"Greetings in the Masters Matchless Name"—

Again another quarter has become history and we must again say it apparently has been the best yet. There is a marked increase, perfect harmony as far as we know, and growth spiritually as well as numerically.

We have been very busy, as there has been much personal work to do, to meet some of the people and point them to the Lord, but the Lord blesses this "hook fishing" and on Easter Sunday, 9 confessed Christ and were baptized, and 11 others added by letter, a total of 20 adults. We also had our new record in S. S. of 188, two families were away on a visit to Washington or we should have passed the 200 mark. We praise the Lord for He is greatly blessing His Word and we feel the time and effort and means used here are well spent. We solicit your continued prayers.

My report covers the 1st quarter of 1941.

Note: Church Offerings are lower on account of the mill fire, many of our members were out of work. The mill has started again now and when they get caught up again you will find the offerings increase.

INCIDENTS ALONG THE WAY

by Marie J. Regier, missionary to China

China and Japan

"Aren't China and Japan at war?" one of the passengers asks. "Yet the Japanese boat sails peacefully into a Chinese harbor and a tender flying a Chinese flag comes out to meet us?"

In the Eastern Market in Peking are Chinese carved frames, pictures, and picture postcards of the forbidden city, the summer palace, the winter palace, and so on—but all of Japanese make.

In the forbidden city, Japanese are supervising the repair of roofs of some of the palace buildings. It means work for many Chinese and they get paid well —in Japanese Federal Reserve Bank Notes. After the buildings are all repaired the Japanese will give them back to the Chinese, so they say.

Some of the passengers on the boat were hesitant to take "Moment in Peking" by Lin Yu Tang into China. But at the Eastern Market I bought a special Chinese edition of the book for less than a gold dollar.

Korea and Japan

In Korea the Presbyterians were having a meeting. At the same time the Methodists also were planning a meeting. Japanese government officials asked them to postpone their meeting since they did not have enough detectives to go around.

In the Realm of the Spirit

I met many missionaries who related various incidents. In one instance a Japanese detective became converted at the meetings he had to attend. He has been suffering many persecutions as a result. In another case the behavior of a Christian girl, remaining sweet during untold hardships, so influenced the guard that he looked up the girl's brother to find out how to become a Christian. It thrills one to know there are still real Christians who remain steadfast through all persecution and who are letting their light shine because they know the power of an endless life.

But it amazes me how a missionary after telling this story and remarking on the power of God turns right around and says, "But the same thing does not apply in the case of war. There we must be prepared physically in order to avoid the horrors which have overcome other countries. After all, our country, in spite of all its wrongs has the highest ideals and we must fight for it physically. Jesus never said that we shouldn't fight, and Paul speaks of the armor of God, which would imply that we must also have the physical armor."

* Loose for Foreign Missions

 Loose for Pacific District Conference

 Loose for Home Mission Board

It seems to me there are after all very few missionaries who are really universal. The other day at the dinner table the hostess was telling of some British ladies who had stayed at her place. They couldn't say enough to disparage the United States. After they got through the hostess remarked, "Very well, but perhaps you don't know that I feel exactly the same way about England."

But always there are those who do not bow their knees before the "Baal of Nationalism." Last Sunday at the Union Medical College I heard a modern prophet in the deepest sense of the word. His sermon was one of conviction, one that cut through all shams down to fundamentals. He emphasized not the superiority of nations but rather the superiority of responsibility. God's revelation does not depend upon His will to reveal, but upon man's response to it. Doing the will of God means not an increase of material blessings but a deepening of spiritual insight. I heard that the pastor had been an army chaplain. One wonders how he was able to remain such with a message like that.

These are some of the incidents. In general, about all you can say is that conditions are very uncertain. There is always tension in the air, but I have never known the Orient without a certain amount of that. One must simply have a security that goes deeper than physical security. On the whole, however, I can only be thankful. While it takes much time, and an everlasting giving of tips every time one turns around, and a continual filling out of blanks and a five-day delay in Peking, waiting for a pass from the Japanese Military office for going interior, still I had to pay only a little duty on all that I was taking along, and it seems that the way is now clear to go to the station.

REPORT OF THE 57TH ANNUAL KANSAS MENNONITE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION,

Held at Pretty Prairie, Kansas, June 8, 1941

Underneath ominous clouds and intermittent showers, the Sunday School Convention convened in the Pretty Prairie Menn. Church, at 2:30 p. m. June 8. It is therefore noteworthy that the attendance was large and the program was carried out in its entirety. The president, Menno Schrag of Newton, opened the meeting. Following a song service in charge of the local director, the convention theme, "Meeting the Needs of the Hour" was impressively introduced by the chairman with the reading of Rom. 1:16. The ensuing remarks were interspersed with "Tell Me the Old, Old Story," "I Gave My Life For Thee," and "Ever the Same" by a male quartet from Newton.

The topical discussions were opened by Mrs. T. A. van der Smissen of Buhler on the subject, "Meeting the Needs by Deepening the Spiritual Life of the Christian Home." She pointed out that the Christian home has little or no spiritual strength unless it (1) observes the family altar, (2) keeps the Sabbath holy, and (3) teaches its members unselfishness in living.

After the Pretty Prairie Men's Chorus had sung "We are Traveling Home," H. B. Schmidt of Walton, presented a discussion on "Meeting the Needs through Consecrated Sunday School Teachers," pointing out that too many of our trained leaders are going out with material success as their aim, and that a personal knowledge of the Master is an essential qualification of every S. S. teacher.

Rev. Jacob Unruh of Kingman continued the discussion on "Meeting the Needs Through Christ-Centered Discussions of the Lesson." To him the first great need was seeing Christ, and seeing Christ could come only through conversion and witnessing. A male quartet from the Arlington church sang a number, after which Jacob Enz of Newton completed the topical discussion on "Meeting the Needs Through Reaching out after the Lost." He stated that the coldness in our churches accounts for the deplorable fact that our country has seventy million unchurched people. More love within the church was the great need expressed in this topic. Using the speaker's words, "The Sunday School must be a soul-saving station."

Following the business meeting and offering, Rev. Tschetter, the local pastor, closed the afternoon session with Scripture reading and prayer.

At the evening session, Rev. G. A. Linscheid presided in the absence of Rev. C. H. Dirks of Hutchinson. The male choruses of the Hoffnungsau and the Alexanderwohl churches each rendered three numbers of music. The address of the evening was given by Dr. H. E. Dana, president of the Baptist Theological Seminary of Kansas City, Kansas. He made a very heartening remark in his introduction to the subject, "The Sunday School and the Kingdom's Supreme Need": "Let it not even dawn upon you that there is no place for you with your convictions of peace and non-resistance. The heart of the world is more open today for the application of the message of peace than ever before." According to the speaker, the Kingdom's supreme need is a more effective and widespread teaching of the great religious truths. Our teaching and preaching should carry with them both the heart and spirit of the Master. Throughout the address Dr. Dana stressed the importance of building real religious experience based on a deep foundation of truth, not mere emotional ripplings.

The officers elected for the coming year are: President, Rev. C. H. Dirks, Hutchinson; Vice-President, Erwin Goering, North Newton; Sec'y-Treas., Martha Unruh, Buhler. The mission offering totaled $143.93.

—Sec'y-Treas., Mrs. D. P. Ewert

DAILY DEVOTIONAL MESSAGES

(Note of Explanation: Rev. M. M. Horsch, Upland, California, whose messages were to appear for the month of July, informs us that they were sent to Dr. Thierstein several months ago. We are very sorry that they evidently have become misplaced in the process of moving Dr. Thierstein's files. However, we hope that they will be found so that they can be published later. Jacob J. Enz of Newton, Kansas, has kindly consented to help us out by writing the messages for this month. Mr. Enz has been serving the church at Walton, Kansas, during the past year, while he was completing his course at Bethel College.)

JULY 1—"Finally my brethren, be strong in the LORD, and in the power of HIS might. Put on the whole armor of GOD." Eph. 6:10, 11a.

In the ensuing days of flag-waving, noisy celebrating, and passionate speech-making, which go to make up the anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, with their implications of preparedness in the present crisis are we not duty-bound to translate this reliance upon carnal warfare into terms of spiritual warfare? "For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers . . ." The battle lines are drawn; is Jesus Christ or is He not the answer to the great need of the world? For the Christian there is but one answer, one banner—the cross, one battle cry—Jesus saves and no retreat! His preparedness is only for an offensive warfare.

JULY 2—"Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth." Eph. 6:14a.

The above words indicate an important item in effective preparedness. It is a firm conviction regarding the eternal verities which binds up our flowing robes and prepares us for the conflict. How can we be effective warriors of the eternal realms if we have not the inner assurance that the cross has conquered sin, that death is swallowed up in victory, that love is the strongest force in the world? We dare not let ourselves become entangled in half-truths, the snares of the evil one.

JULY 3—"Stand therefore . . . having on the breastplate of righteousness." Eph. 6:14b.

The importance of righteousness cannot be overemphasized, a man is not fully armed spiritually until he has been reckoned righteous in the sight of God as the effective result of the "washing of regeneration." Such a protection cannot be pierced by the fiery darts of the evil one. Further, the practical outworking of that righteousness will serve in the thick of the battle as a testimony against the forces of evil.

JULY 4—"And your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace." Eph. 6:15.

The "good soldier of Jesus Christ" must always be ready for marching orders. The urgency of the need at this time for this gospel of peace we dare not overlook. Much of the world is in confusion which is an evident testimony to the fact that there is little peace in the inward man. The soil is ready for the seed. Oh, for more sowers. Let us not think only of foreign missions but also of home missions—in our own home, in our neighborhood, in our home church.

JULY 5—"Above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked." Eph. 6:16.

It was David who said to Goliath, "Thou comest to me with a sword and with a spear, and with a shield, but I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts." It has been said that this duel of David and Goliath is but a chapter in the history of the contest always going on between faith and force. Faith which seems to expose to danger, really protects; while force, which seems to protect really exposes to danger.

JULY 6—"And to take the helmet of salvation . . ." Eph. 6:17a.

The word take as used here comes from a different root than in verses 13 and 16. It suggests receiving or accepting the helmet offered by the Lord, namely, salvation. The head of the warrior is certainly among the principal parts to be defended for it is the head which commands the whole body. It is therefore very important what kind of protection it receives. It is only a vital unbroken communion with God, an intimate father-son relationship with the Creator and Sustainer of all things that gives true protection in the battle for right.

JULY 7—"And take . . . the sword of the spirit which is the word of God." Eph. 6:17b.

How different this sword from the carnal sword drawn from its scabbard by the hand of hate! Instead of drawing the blood of vengeance, instead of cutting off life, the sword of the Spirit prepares the way for light and life. It is the only blade which is effective in the conflict with the powers of sin, hatred, and error.

The Christian is thoroughly furnished as far as armor is concerned with one exception, and that for his good. There is no armor specified for the back implying that there is no retreat in the commands of God. Our only hope is in resisting ceaselessly.

CIVILIAN PUBLIC SERVICE NEWS

The Civilian Public Service program is now rapidly getting under way. By this time the Grottoes, Virginia, camp; the Marietta, Ohio, camp; and the Colorado Springs camp; are in operation. These have been opened May 22, June 2, and 5 respectively. Because of late re-classifications by local boards, the number that arrived in camp was considerably smaller than the number originally assigned. Thus Grottoes received 9 of the 14 originally assigned; Marietta, 29 of the 44; and Colorado Springs, 25 out of 32. The groups assigned to Grottoes was small, because a big part of the camp equipment had not yet arrived. The boys who arrived at Grottoes and Colorado Springs were all Mennonites. Marietta, being a cooperative camp administered jointly by Brethren and Mennonites, had 14 Mennonites; 7 Brethren; and 8 boys from other denominations.

The young men arriving in camp appear to be a fine type. Their attitude gave promise that they intended to do their share in helping to make their life and service in camp a meaningful and an enriching experience.

The Brethren and the Quakers have opened similar camps. The Brethren received boys at Lagro, Indiana, May 22; and at Magnolia, Arkansas, June 10. The Quakers have camps operating as follows: Elk Ridge, Maryland, May 15; San Dimas, Calif., June 2; Richmond, Indiana, June 5; Cooperstown, New York, June 5. The last two camps are small camps.

Our Bluffton, Indiana, camp is to receive its first assignment of 83, June 23. On June 26, a similar number is to arrive, filling up the camp. In the Pacific Northwest the cooperative Mennonite-Brethren camp has not yet been approved and so some 14 Mennonite boys are temporarily assigned to the Quaker camp at San Dimas. However, as soon as our cooperative camp in the Northwest is in operation these boys are to be transferred to this location.

It is expected that by June 26, a total of approximately a thousand boys will have been assigned to various C. O. camps, scattered over various parts of the country and operated by Brethren, Mennonites, and Quakers. To date considerably over one-third of these boys are Mennonites.

RELIEF NOTES

Akron, Pennsylvania

Brother Orie Miller sailed Friday night, June 6, for Paraguay, South America. He is being sent to Paraguay by the Mennonite Central Committee to visit and investigate conditions in the Mennonite Colony in the Chaco. Brother Miller is being accompanied by his son, Albert, and Dr. John R. Schmidt of Newton, Kansas. Dr. Schmidt has been appointed by the M. C. C. for a year of medical service in the Mennonite colony and will be located at the hospital there. The absence of a doctor in the colony has been one of the biggest problems among the Mennonite people in Paraguay. Brother Miller plans to return to Akron by August 16.

Akron, Pennsylvania

June 12 at the Old Ephrata Church was baling day. With the help of some forty volunteer brothers and sisters, 5000 lbs. of clothing was baled and is now ready for shipment. Fine clothing donations have been coming into the Relief Center here very regularly and we hope the way will open up to send more clothing to the needy of Europe.

London, England, Ted Claassen letter, May 14.

"From Birmingham John reports that the Mobile Canteen has been presented and that it is very nicely built and painted and very conveniently arranged for service. It is proposed to use our canteen for shelter work in place of after air-raid feeding. It is evident that it would not be expedient to try to do both.". . . "We are glad to notice that another shipment of 66 bales has been forwarded to us. We have very little left now, mostly summer dresses for girls and a few baby garments. To date we have no further word of the shipment which was to have arrived at Liverpool. Another appeal for boy's shoes, ages 16 & 17 and younger, came to us this morning from the Basque Spanish Children's Committee, so we shall be awaiting those which you intend buying over there. Have made an appointment to visit their colony next Sunday afternoon."

Birmingham, England, John Coffman letter, May 16.

"This is an attempt to report to you in further detail some of the items of interest in connection with the start of our work in Birmingham.

"The canteen is built on the chassis of a Humber motor car (comparing in size and horsepower to a Buick in America). It is painted coach green outside and light green (pea green) inside. The left side (nearest the sidewalk in England) is built up with a flap which lifts up over the counter or serving side. This side has a long counter with linoleum top. There are cup racks on the rear and front walls at each end of the counter, accommodating over 60 cups. There is a similar cup rack on the rear wall of the other side. Under this counter there is space for food trays and provisions protected by a sliding panel, shelving for equipment.". . . "We spent Monday evening, all day Tuesday, and Wednesday until 3:00 p. m., in distributing soup, sandwiches, tea, coffee, biscuits (crackers), and cake to men, women, and children in the streets of the city. The men were those engaged in necessary clearing up and repair operations, firemen, and dock workers. Perhaps some of the latter were the very ones who have, or will assist in unloading the clothing which has been sent us from the U. S. and Canada.

"We made and dispensed over 1000 sandwiches, about 20 gallons of soup, 60 or 70 gallons of tea, 2 gallons of coffee (from a prepared extract when we ran out of tea), 15 lbs. of cake, 10 lbs. of biscuits (also used mostly as substitutes when we ran out of sandwiches and bread). The latter two items were dispensed, not made, of course.

P. S. "I was informed Saturday that a further shipment of 79 bales of clothing has arrived at Liverpool. This probably is the shipment baled at Mellinger's church as per our list December 4, 1940." —Ted Claassen.

France, Jesse Hoover letter, May 24, 1941.
